The names of the Bookes

contayned in the three volumes folowyng.

The bookes heretofore neuer published, but nowe first of all newly made and set forth in printe: I haue marcked with the signe of an hande, that the Reader may knowe, what and howe many workes are added.

☞ In the first part are contayned these bokes folowing.

1 The Newes out of heuē
2 ☞ The Christmas bāchet
3 ☞ The Potation for lent
4 The Pathwaye vnto prayer
5 The Nosegaye
6 The Policie of warre.
7 Dauids harpe
8 The Newe yeares gifte
9 ☞ The Inuectiue against swearyng.
10 The Gouernaunce of vertue
☞ 11 The Catechisme
☞ 12 The boke of matrimony.

☞ In the second part are contayned these bokes folowing.

1 The Jewell of loye
2 The Principles of Christen Religion
3 The fruitfull treatise of fastyng
4 The Castell of comforte
5 The Solace of the soule
6 The Fortresse of the faithfull
7 The Christen knyght
8 An Homelie against whoredome
9 The Flowre of godly prayers
10 The Remembrer of prayer
11 The Stewardes office
12 The Dialoge of Christes death
13 An Inuectiue against whoredome.

☞ In the third part are contayned these bokes folowyng.

1 A comfortable Epistle to the afflicted people of God.
2 An humble supplicatiō vnto God for the restoring of his word
3 The displayeng of the Popishe ☞ Masse.
4 The common places of the holy Scriptures.
5 A cōparison betwene ✠ Lordes Supper & the popish Masse
6 Certaine Articles of Christian religion, proued & confirmed with the testimonies & authorities of the auncient fathers.
7 The monstrous marchādise ☞ of the Romish Bysshops.
8 The Reliques of Rome.
9 The diuersitie betwene Gods worde and mans inuentions.
10 The Actes of Christ and of his true & constant louers in religion and doctrine.
☞ 11 Christes Chronicle
12 The Summaries of the olde ☞ Testament.
13 The Remembrer of holye ☞ Scriptures.
14 The glorious triumphe of Gods most blessed worde.
☞ 15 The praise of Deuotion.

FINIS.

The

The names of the Authors, whose autorities and testimonies are recited in the workes folowyng.

A

1 ABbas vrspergensis.
2 Achiles pirminius
3 Adrianus Pōt. Rom.
4 Aelianus.
5 Aeneas siluius.
6 Albertus Magnus.
7 Albertus crantzius
8 Albertus roxiatus.
9 Alcuinus.
10 Alexāder Pōt. Ro.
11 Alexander sardus.
12 Ambrosius.
13 Anacletus Pōt. Ro.
14 Andreas borde.
15 Andreas frigius.
19 Anselmus Episcop. Cantorbur.
17 Anselmus ryd.
18 Antoninus.
19 Aristoteles.
20 Arnobius.
21 Arnoldus bostius.
22 Athanasius.
23 Augustinus.
24 Aulus gellius.
25 Author sermonum discipuli.

B

26 Baptista mātuanus
27 Bartholomæus picernus.
28 Bartholomæus de carnus.
29 Bartholomæus carranza.
30 Bartholomæus westmerus.
31 Basilius magnus.
32 Beatus rhenanus.
33 Beda.
34 Bernardus Abbas clareuallensis.
35 Berno Abbas augiensis.
36 Bertrammus
37 Blondus.
38 Bonauentura.
39 Bonifacius Episcopus.
40 Bruno cartusianus
41 Cameracensis.
42 Canones Apostolorum.
43 Cassiodorus.
44 Catalogus sāctorū
45 Catho.
46 Christianus massæus.
47 Chronica Anglia.
48 Chronica chronicarum.
49 Chronica flādrica.
50 Chronica sallica.
51 Chronica germanica
52 Chrisostomus.
53 Claudianus.
54 Claudius spineus.
55 Clemens Alexandrinus.
56 Clemens Pōt. Ro.
57 Cornelius agrippa.
58 Cuthbertus tonstallus.
59 Cyprianus.
60 Cyriacus spangēbergensis.
61 Cyrillus.

D

62 Damascenus.
63 Damasus Pont. ro.
64 Decreta iuris Canonici.
65 Decreta extrauagāt
66 Didimus Alexandrinus.
67 Dionisius areopagita.
68 Doctor redmā an-glus.
69 Druthmarus.
70 Durandus.

E

71 Edictum constantini imperatoris.
72 Edmundus boner.
73 Epiphanius.
74 Epitome chronicarum.
75 Erasmus roterodamus.
76 Erasmus sarcerius
77 Eruditi cuiuspiam chronicon.
78 Euagrius scholasticus.
79 Eugenius Pōt. ro.
80 Eusebius cæsariēsis
81 Eusebius emissenus
82 Euthymius.
83 Euripides.
84 Eutropius.

F

85 Fabianus pōt. rom.
86 Fasciculus tēporū.
87 Faustus episcopus.
88 Festiuale anglicum
89 Flores historiarum
90 Frāciscus maronis
91 Frāciscus petrarcha
92 Fridericus imperator.
93 Fulgentius.

G

94 Gabriel biel.
95 Gaspar achilles.
66 Gaspar hedio
97 Gelasius Pōt. rom.
98 Gerhardus lorichi⁹
99 Glossa ordinaria.
100 Glossa in ius canonicum.
101 Gratianus monachus.

Gregorius

102 Gregorius heymburgenſis.
103 Gregorius magn⁹
104 Gregorius nazianzenus.
105 Guilielmus caxtō
106 Guilielmus durandus.

H

106 Hartmannus ſcedel crurenbergēſis.
107 Haymo fuldēſis.
108 Henrichus bullingerus.
109 Henrichus pantaleon.
110 Henrichus Pryſmæus.
111 Henrichus de vrimaria.
112 Hērichus hūtingtonenſis.
113 Hermānus contractus.
114 Hermānus ryd.
115 Heſichius.
116 Hieronimus.
117 Hieronymus paulus cathalanus.
118 Hildebertus epiſc. cenomanenſis.
119 Hilarius.
120 Hieronim⁹ mari⁹
121 Honorius pōt. ro.
122 Horatius.
123 Huldrichus epiſco. Auguſtanus.
124 Huldrichus huttenus.
125 Hugo de ſancto victore.
126 Hypocrates.

I

127 Iacobus de paradiſo.
128 Iacobus faber.
129 Iacob⁹ de voragine
130 Iacobus epiſc. genuenſis.
131 Iacobus maior.
132 Iacobus manlius.
133 Iacobus mayer.
134 Iacobus philippus bergomenſis.
135 Iacobus wimphelingus.
136 Ignatius.
137 Innocentius pont. rom.
138 Ioannes billet.
139 Ioannes boëmus
140 Ioannes brentius.
141 Ioannes caluinus.
142 Ioannes charion.
143 Ioānes clythoue⁹.
144 Ioannes cuſpīnianus.
145 Ioannes de burgo
146 Ioannes eckius
147 Ioannes functius
148 Ioannes laziardus
149 Ioānes monachus
150 Ioānes nauclerus.
151 Ioannes ſcotus.
152 Ioannes ſtella.
153 Ioannes ſtokeſleyus.
154 Ioannes ſariſburiēnſis.
155 Ioannes tilius.
156 Ioſephus.
157 Irenæus.
158 Iſidorus hiſpalenſis.
159 Iſocrates.
160 Iſuardus gallus.
161 Iulius cæſar.
162 Ius canonicum.
163 Iuſtinianus Imperator.
164 Iuſtinus martyr.
165 Iuſtus epiſc. orgelitanus.
166 Iuuenalis.

L

167 Lactantius firmianus.
168 Lambertus ſhafnaburgenſis.
169 Laurentius valla.
170 Leo Pont. Rom.
171 Lex pontificia.
172 Liber conciliorū
173 Liber de miraculis B. Mariæ.
174 Liber germanicus de ſectis monaſticis 175 Lombardus.
176 Ludouicus viues.

M

177 Marcus antoni⁹ ſabellicus.
178 Marcus marulus.
179 Marcus tullius cicero.
180 Martinus Papæ penitentiarius.
181 Martinus polonus
182 Matthæus pariſius.
183 Matthæus palmerius florent.
184 Matthias palmerius piſanus.
185 Martinus bucerus.
186 Martinus lutherus.
187 Melanchon.
188 Marſilius de padua
189 Michael bucchingerus.

N

190 Nauclerus.
191 Nicephorus.
192 Nicolaus pōt. rom
193 Nicolaus decuſa.
194 Nicola⁹ gorrham⁹

O

195 Onuprius panuinius.
196 Optatus.
197 Origenes.
198 Otho friſius.

199 Ouidius.

P

200 Panormitanus.
201 Paulinus nolanus
202 Paulus æmilius.
203 Paulus phrigio.
204 Paulus vergerius
205 Paulus warnefrid⁹
206 Paulus diaconus.
207 Paulus iouius.
208 Paralipomena rerum memorabiliū.
209 Paſchaſius.
210 Petronius.
211 Petrus crinitus.
212 Petrus bleſenſis.
213 Petrus cluniacēſis
214 Petrus comeſtor.
215 Petrus de natalib⁹.
216 Petrus ferrariēſis.
217 Petrus lōbardus.
218 Petrus martyr.
219 Pius. ii. Pont. rom
220 Phocilides.
221 Platina.
222 Plato.
223 Plinius.
224 Plinius ſecundus
225 Plutarchus chæroneus.
226 Polichronicon.
227 Polidorus vergilius.
228 Pontius paulinus.
229 Propertius.
230 Proſper.
231 Publius.

R

232 Rabanus maurus.
233 Ranulphus ceſtrenſis.
234 Raphael volateranus.
235 Rationale di. officiorum.
236 Robertus Abbas montenſis.
237 Robertus Barus Anglus.
238 Robertus gaguinus.
239 Robertus gallus.
240 Ruffinus.
241 Richardus ſāpſon
242 Richardus ſmith.

S

243 Sabellicus.
244 Sebaſtianus frāck
245 Seneca.
246 Serenus Epiſ. maſſiliæ.
247 Schola pragēſis.
248 Stella clericorum
249 Stephanus Pont. Rom.
250 Stephanus gardiner Anglus.
251 Sigiſmundus baro
252 Sedulius.
253 Socrates hiſtoriographus.
254 Sozomenus.
255 Staniſlaus orichouius.
256 Simon matthewe Anglus.
257 Siricius Pont. ro.

T

258 Tertullianus.
259 Theodoretus.
260 Theodorus bibliander.
261 Theophilactus.
262 Theophilus alexandrinus.
263 Therentius.
264 Thomas aquinas
265 Thomas ſtarkeye Anglus.
266 Tibullus.

V

267 Valentinus vannius.
268 Valerius maximus.
269 Vergilius.
270 Vigilius.
271 Vincentius.
272 Vitas patrum.
273 Volateranus.
274 Volcuinus Abbas.
275 Vrbanus Pont. ro.
276 VValdenus Angl⁹
277 VVolfgangus aitinger.
278 VVolfgangus muſculus.

with diuerſe other.

¶ Finis.

II JU 62

To the moſt Reuerend Fathers in God and his very good Lordes, Matthewe Archbiſhop of Cantorbury, Metropolitane & Primate of all England: Thomas Archebiſhop of Yorke: Edmunde Biſhop of London: Robert Biſhop of Wincheſter: Richard Biſhop of Elye: Iohan Biſhop of Saliſbury: Edwyne Biſhop of Worceſter: Iohan Biſhop of Norwiche: Iames Biſhop of Duriſme: William Byſhop of Chychester: Edmund Byſhop of Rochester: Iohan Byſhop of Hereforde: Thomas Byſhop of Lychefielde and Louentrie: william Biſhop of Exceſter Nicolas Byſhop of Lincolne: Gilberte Byſhop of Bathe: Richard Byſhop of Gloceſter: Edmund Byſhop of Peterborowe: Richard Byſhop of S. Dauids: Iohan Byſhop of Carliſle: william Byſhop of Weſtchester: Rowland Biſhop of Bangor: Antonie Byſhop of Landaff, &c.

Thomas Becon, Their moſt humble and dayly Oratour, wiſheth grace and peace from God the father, thorowe our Lord and alone Sauiour Jeſus Chriſt.

CHriſt Jeſus that moſt worthy and noble man, after that he had perfectly perfourmed the excellent and incomparable worke of our redemption by his paynefull paſſion, dredefull death, and royall reſurrection, entendyng to go into a farre cõtrey, that is to say, to aſcende and go vp into the glorious kingdome of his heauenly father, ỳ he being perfect God & perfect man, might enioy that glorye, whiche from euerlaſtyng he in his diuinitie had poſſeſſed: agayne, that he ſytting on the right hãd of God the father, might be our Mediatour, Interceſſour, and Aduocate vnto the ſame God the father: And finally, become our moſt mightye protectour, valeaunt defender, ſtrong ſhielde, inuincible bulwarke and ſtronge forteſſe againſt Satan and all his infernall armye, till that great day come, when he moſt gloriouſly ſhal returne to iudge the quicke and the dead: gaue to euery one of his ſeruauntes, certayne money to vſe, ſayeng vnto them: Occupye, tyll I come. Luc.xix.

This commaundement of our moſt mercifull maſter and moſt louing Lorde ought alwayes to be before our eyes, repoſed in the loweſt partes of our memorie, diligently talked of, earneſtly put in practiſe, euer remembred, neuer forgotten. For as a liberall Lorde he hath geuen to euerye one of vs ſome portion or ſumme of money, to euery one as it hath ſeemed beſt to his godly pleaſure: none being deſtitute of his bounteous liberalitie and liberall bountie, as it is writtẽ: Of his fulnes haue all we receaued, euen grace for grace. Againe, There are diuerſities of giftes, yet but one ſpirit, &c. And all theſe worketh all one ſpirit, diuiding to euery man a ſeuerall gifte, as he will. Neither hath this our maſter and Lord geuẽ vs this money to let it ligh dead by vs, and not to be vſed, but to occuppe it, to bye and ſell with it, to vſe it, to gayne with it, to winne with al, that whẽ he returne, he may receaue his owne againe with vauntage. What this money, pounde, or talent ſignifieth: it is eaſy to vnderſtand. Verely a francke & free gift geuen of God to euery one of vs to be exerciſed vnto the glorye of his holye name, and vnto the profite of his faithfull congregacion. What haſt thou, ſaith the Apoſtle, that thou haſt not receaued? If thou haſt receaued it, why doeſt thou boaſte thy ſelfe, as though thou haddeſt not receaued it? Likewiſe ſayeth S. Iames: Euery good gifte, and euery perfect gift is from aboue, and cometh downe from the father of lyghtes. And it is not without a cauſe, that this noble mã at his departure gaue vs this commaundement and charge, that we ſhoulde occu- Ioan.i. i.Cor.xiii. i.Cor.iiii. Iac.i.

pye his money committed vnto vs, till he come. For he knewe right well our sluggyshnes and negligence, our idlenes and securitie, and how litle, yea rather nothing we all are bet to do that, which is acceptable in the sight of God, while we rather seke our owne, the the thinges, which appertayne vnto Jesus Christ, as Thapostle sayeth: so that we may not vniustly be compared to those sluggish seruauntes, which fell a slepe in their masters absence, and in the meane season the enemye came, and sowed tares in that lande, where their master before had sowen good sede, good wheate: nor yet vntruly resebled to those fyue folish virgines whiche slombred & slept, & suffered their lāpes to go out, & therfore were they shut out at the doores, with this aunswere: I knowe you not. Worke, labour, toyle, and occupy my money therfore, sayeth our master Christ, till I come. Be not sluggish: be not idle: be not careles: Lyue according to your vocation & calling: Satisfie your office: Stande vp the gifte, that is geuen vnto you by the holy Ghost, not to destroy, but to edifye: not for your owne lucre and vauntage, not for your owne pompe and dignitie, not for your own honour and glory, but for the commoditie and profite, for the wealth and saffegarde, for the mayntaynaunce and conseruation of other: that ye may wynne other vnto my religion, faith & doctrine: that the nomber of my seruauntes may be encreased: the flocke of my shepe multiplied, and the bounder of the Christē comon weale enlarged: To this commaundement of Christe ought all men to geue eare from the hyest to the lowest, of what soeuer degree they be, so that no man ought to be idle in the Christen comon weale, but euery man in his vocation, paynefull, laborous, and diligent. And albeit these wordes of Christ be generally spoken to al orders of people, to all states and degrees without exception: yet do they specially concerne the spiritual Pastores, ỹ Ministers of Gods worde, the seders of Christes flocke, the dispensatours or stewardes of the mysteries of God, whom we comonly call, Bishops or Superintendentes, Ministers or Priestes, Deacons, &c. To these before all other it is sayd: Occuppye, till I come. Nowe what this occuppyeng is, it is right wel declared by the charge that Christ gaue to Peter, not to Peter only, but to all his felow Apostles, and to their successours, when he sayd: Fede my Lambes. Fede my shepe. Fede my shepe. Here is the occupacion of the spiritual shepheardes described, paynted, and set forth: whiche is, not lyke theues and murderers to steale, to kyll, and to destroye: not lyke wolues to make hauocke & to scatter the flocke: not like Epicures to fede them selues with the fattest, and to cloth them selues with the finest, but to nourish the flocke, to holde vp the weake, to heale the sicke, to bynde together the broken, to bryng home againe the outcastes, to seake vp the lost, louyngly & gentyly to gouerne them, not as compelled therto, but willingly: not for the desire of filthy lucre, but of a good mynde: not as though they were Lordes ouer the parishes, but ỹ they should be an ensample to the flocke, that when the chief shepheard shall appeare, they may receaue an vncorruptible crowne of glory. To fede therefore the flocke of Christ, yea to geue their lyues for ỹ shepe of Christ, if neede require, is the occupacion of the spirituall Ministers, as the Apostle sayth: Take hede vnto your selues, and vnto all the flocke, among whom the holy Ghost hath made you ouersears, to fede the congregacion of God, whiche he hath purchased with his bloud. A good shepheard, sayth Christ, geueth his lyfe for his shepe. They, whiche thus occuppe them selues in the ministerye, are good and faythfull seruauntes, and shall enter into the ioye of their Lord. But they, whiche thrust the selues into the ministery only for glory, honour, worship, wealth promocions & dignities: only to be reuerenced and magnified of men: only to beare rule ouer other like Lordes, only to fede daintily and to be clothed gorgiously: only to enriche them selues and their kinsfolke or frendes, and take no care for the Lordes household, nor geue the meate in season, but begyn to smite their felowes, yea to eate and drincke with the dronken: and not only to neglecte their office, but also to contemne and despise their Lorde and master, sayeng: We wil not haue this man to reigne ouer vs: are euill and slouthfull seruauntes, and shall haue their porcion with the hypocrites in that lake that burneth with fyre and brim

Phil. ii.
Matth. xiii.
Matth. xxv.
Ioan. x.
Iere. 14. 23.
Ezech. 34.
i. Pet. v.
Act. xx.
1. Tim. 4.
Matth. 24. 25
Luc. xix.
Apoc. xix

stone,

fame, where weping and gnashyng of teeth shall be. Matth.xiii.

But it shal not be vnlittyng nor out of ꝑ way (most reuerend fathers) to remember of how many kindes of feding, our Lord and maister Christ speaketh, when he sayeth: Fede my Lãbes. Fede my shepe, Fede my shepe. Verely there want not whiche, forasmuche as Christ maketh mencion of feding, affirme that spirituall Ministers are bounde to fede the flocke of Christ in. maner of wayes, First, with the worde of God: with the true administracion of the Sacramentes. Secondly, with vertuous examples of lyfe. Thirdly, with hospitalitie, or prouision making for the poore. As touching the first, whiche is the chiefe and principall kynde of feding: the sacred Scriptures both of the olde and newe Testament do manifestly expresse it, and set it forth. Three kyndes of feding Christes shepe. Of preachyng the worde of God.

God him selfe by the Prophet Esaye sayeth: I haue set watchemen vpon thy walles (O Ierusalem) whiche shall neither cease daye nor nyght to preache the Lord. By the Prophet Ezechiel he sayeth lykewise: And now, O thou sonne of mã, I haue made thee a watchemã vnto the house of Israel, that where as thou hearest any thyng out of my mouth, thou mayest warne them on my behalfe. If I say vnto the wicked: Thou wicked shalt surely dye, and thou geuest hym not warnyng, that he may beware of his vngodly waye: then shal the wicked dye in his owne sinne, but his bloud will I require of thy hand. Malachie the Prophet sayeth: The lippes of a Priest kepe knowledge: and at his mouth shall they seke the laine. For he is the angell, that is to saye, the Embassadour, of the Lorde of hoostes. Moreouer when Christ sent forth his Apostles, he sent them forth, not to Baptise Belles, nor to halowe Churches, nor yet to byshop children with oyle and creame, but to preache, not mennes tradicions and doctrines, but the Gospell, and all such thinges as he had commaunded S. Paul sayth: Wo vnto me, that is, euerlasting dãnacion hangeth ouer my heade, if I preache not the Gospell. To Byshop Timothe he writeth on this maner: A Byshop, that is to saye, a spirituall ouerseare, must be a man apte to teache. Agayne, Geue attendaunce to reding, to exhortacio, to doctrine. Take hede vnto thy selfe and vnto doctrine, and continue therin. For if thou shalt so do, thou shalt saue thy selfe, & them that heare thee. The seruaunt of the Lord must not striue, but be gentle vnto al mẽ, apte to teache, and one that can suffer the euill with mekenes, and can informe them that resiste the trueth, if that God at any tyme will geue thẽ repentaunce for to know the truth, and that they may come to them selues agayne out of the snare of the deuil, whiche are holden captiue of him at his pleasure. Itẽ, preache the worde, be feruent in season and out of season. Improue, rebuke, exhort with all longe suffering and doctrine. And in his letter vnto Byshop Titus he wylleth, that such should be chose to be Bishops and ouersears of Christes flocke, as cleue vnto the true worde of doctrine, that they may be able both by wholesome doctrine to exhorte, and also to improue thẽ, that say agaynst it. Hereto agreeth the sayeng of S. Peter: Fede ye Christes flocke, as much as lieth in you, &c. Esa.lxii. Ezech.33. Malac.ii. Matth.28. Marc.xvi. Luc.xxiiii i.Cor.ix. i.Timoth.iii. i.Timoth.iiii ii.Timoth.iiii Tit.i. i.Pet.v

Thus see we the first kynde of feding plentifully and largely set forth in the worde of God, so that what soeuer Bishop or Ecclesiasticall Minister occupieth not him selfe in this kynde of feding: he is not Episcopus, but Apostopus, not a Minister, but a Pintther, and getteth to him selfe damnacion, with what soeuer glorious titles he glytereth, as Nicolas Byshop of Rome sayth: The distribucio of the heauenly fode is committed vnto vs. Wo therfore be vnto vs, if we do not synchronise it abrode. Wo be vnto vs, if we hold our peace. S. Gregory also sayth: The hypocrite that doeth not rebuke thẽ, that offende: without doubt he sleath them by holdyng his peace. Agayne he sayeth: We that are called Priestes, besydes those euils that we haue of our owne: we adde also other mennes deathes. For we sleal so many as we see dayly go vnto death: and we are sluggishe, & hold our peace. And to say the truth, All such are vnworthy to lyue of the cõgregacio, according to the sayeng of S. Paul: he that laboureth not, ought not to eat. And therfore sayth Gregory: Consider, and weygh with your selues, brethren, how great damnacion it is, without labour to receaue the reward of labour: agayne, how great an offence it is to take the prices of synnes, and to speake nothyng Dist. 43. Can. Dispensatio. Ad venant Episco. Greg. in hom. Dignus est mercen. &c.

thing against sinners by preaching. Again he sayth: Eate, whiche lyes of the sinnes of the people, and for the which they haue offered for their sinnes, if he eat & haue any parte, without doubt he eat their sinnes. Our sauiour Christ sayeth: The labourer is worthy of his reward. And the Apostle sayth: The husbandman that laboureth must fyrste receyue of the fruites. These thinges are spoken of labourers, not of lubbers, nor loyterers.

Matth. x
ii. Timot. ii

But as there is a greater dignitie and larger honour geuen to you in the Churches of Christ (most reuerend fathers) then to the common sort that are ordered in the ministerye, so like wyse ligheth there a greater charge and burden vpon your shoulders, then vpon the inferiour Ministers. For your dutie is (as ye will auoyde the great displeasure of God) not only after the examples of Christ and of his Apostles to occupye your selues (as your wisedomes right well knowe) in this fyrste kynde of fedyng, but also (for as muche as the cure of many parishes in your prouinces or dioceſe is committed vnto you, whiche by your selues ye are not able to satisfie & to discharge.) To appoynte vnder you in euery Citie, Towne, or Village, such lawfull and learned, such godly & vertuous Ministers or Pastores, as shal may be able to fede the flocke of Christ, not with the leaue of the Phariseys, but with the breade of life, as S. Paul writeth to Bishop Titus: For this cause left I thee in Creta, that thou shouldest reforme & things that are vnperfect, and shouldest ordayne Elders in euery citie, as I had appointed thee. In this behalfe your honours right well knowe, what prudence, what circumspection, what diligence ye ought to vse in admitting these Pastores vnto the ouersight of Gods flocke. The Apostle sayth: Lay not thy hãdes sodenly vpon any man. Again, Let them first be proued, and then let the minister, so that noman may complayne of the. The qualities, which the holy Apostle in his Epistles requireth in spirituall ministers, are most chiefly to be cõsidered in the admission of Ecclesiasticall Pastores. Such as are endued with those vertues, are with ioye and glad good will to be receaued vnto the ministery, & honorable prouision is to be made for them, as the Apostle sayth: They that rule well, are worthy of double honour, but specially they that labour in worde & doctrine. Again, Let him that is taught in the worde, minister vnto him, that teacheth him in all good thinges. The other are to be refused and reiected, as our Sauiour Christ sayeth: ye are the salt of the earth. But if the salte haue lost the saltnesse, wherwith shall be seasoned therwith? It is thence forth good for nothyng, but to be cast out, and to be troden vnder foote of men. For if the holy Ghost requireth in a temporall magistrat and worldely rulare knowledge of Gods most holy lawe, that he may do all thynges accordyng to the same, and by no meanes turne from it neither vnto the right hande, nor vnto the left, whiche not withstandyng traueyleth specially about politique and ciuile affaires: how much more is the knowledge of Gods worde necessarily required in him that shall be appointed a spirituall minister & a ghostly rulare, whose trauayle ought only to be about matters of soule health? If plato that prudent and wise Philosopher counted those comon weales most blessed, happy and fortunate, whose gouernement was committed to wise, discrete and learned men: and contrariwise, those comon weales to be most vnhappy, where vnwiseret and vnlearned men beare rule: what is then to be thought of the flocke of Christ, when blinde guides, vnlearned and rauening wolues are admitted vnto the regiment and gouernaunce of the? Shall it in this case, go well with the sheye of Christ? Shall they not rather be perished and perish? Shal they not be deuoured of the wilde beastes of the

Tit. i

i. Timoth. v
ii. Timoth. ii

i. Timoth. v

Galat. vi

Matth. v

Iosue, i

Your holinesses see, what a sort of vnmete men labour dayly to creepe into the ministery, pretendyng a very whole zeale, but altogether without necessary knowledge, bearyng a face of doyng good to the congregation of God, whē in deede the greatest parts of them seke nothing but riches, dignities, promotions, idlenes, quietnesses, dominion, rule, honour, well fare, as their fruites abundantly declare. They presume to teach, before they haue learned. They take vpon them to rule, whē they them selues ought most chiefly to be ruled. They leape into the pulpyttes without all shame, when they vnderstande not

[illegible] expositions vpon the holye
[illegible] for the vnderstandinge of Gods [illegible] accepte the same. Some [illegible] into a maule.
[illegible] a most shorte
[illegible] but they stande in the selues [illegible] God speaketh on this maner: Iere. 18.
[illegible] them, and they take vppon
[illegible] hammer and lyenne. The taylour [illegible] his nedlye there. The Carpenter [illegible] The painter his pencill and tonlours. The Gardener [illegible] The husbandman his plough & harowes. The fletcher [illegible] The Smith his trowell & mozter. The Herning man hys [illegible] The Marchaunt his marchandise. The warriour his har-[illegible] The Cutter his office. The artificer his arte and science, and so [illegible] Multitudes gene ouer their occupacions, and [illegible] by frendshyp, or by fauoure, either by seruice, or by giftes and re [illegible] the ministerye, as theues not entring in by the doze, [illegible] other haue vnto the greate dishonoure, ignominie and [illegible] is that now not to thout a cause the honourable state [illegible] thozowe these heathye belye Gods and lasye [illegible] spoke of, contemned, despised, and vtterly set [illegible] throwe of all true Christen heartes, and vn[illegible] of Gods moste holy and blessed mysteries: yea [illegible] the whych al vile and vnprofitable persons do [illegible] vnprofitable clodden of the earth, vnto hozne to [illegible] graune. It is truly sayd of S. Jerome: That In prolog. Bibl. Cap. 6.
[illegible] of Phisitions: Phisitions only take in hande [illegible] that belong vnto Smithes. Only the arte [illegible] of all persons without exception chalenge [illegible] hath learned and vnlearned euery where write [illegible] else vnto, the eating olde man, the babling [illegible] perfume to take in hand. They stande before [illegible] this sentence of Gregorie Nazianzene dilcent vnto the In Apolog.
[illegible] and teach other, before we our selues be sufficiently in [illegible] they say, to learne the letters science in a great hurry, [illegible] in other mens matters, that is to say, to presume to [illegible] of the Lord, wherein our selues are altogether igno[illegible] of them, hauing nothing but vayne wittiesse and folythe bolde.
[illegible] be counted, forasmuch as they perceaue not their [illegible] lacke of knowledge, & hauing bolde they may also worthelp [illegible] vnto themselues this lacke of knowledge and vnderstanding [illegible] so weighty a matter in hande.
[illegible] Ministers,
[illegible] pastours rather then dish seruauntes. Corrupters [illegible] rather then instructours. Destroyers rather [illegible] Lorde, to commen grasse, are to be re- Malac. 3.
[illegible] from the tender and swetflyghte of Christs flocke, least while [illegible] fall into the pytche, as Christ sayth: and such are Esa. 56.
[illegible] of these parishe hoggers that are not able to barke, as [illegible] and in deuotion, that they may edifie the congre[illegible] so likewise with their vncor[illegible] profitable for the christen common [illegible] vertuous & godly, then to haue [illegible] vnexercised in the redyng of holy

Eccles.xvi

holy scriptures & of the auncient fathers, lerned in doctrine, learned ledge of tonges, & of all liberal artes: [illegible] & fourme of Byshop dyent. Delight not thy selfe, sayth he, in the multitude of ungodly children, take no pleasure in them, if they leave not godly [illegible], & feareth God. For better is one a thousand ungodly. For why one godly man, [illegible], may as well be holde: but though the ungodly be many, yet shall it be wasted through the Chrisostome sayeth: If they that [illegible] receaue vnto the ministery thy men, shall receaue those punishmentes, that they shall suffer vnworthy presumed to come vnto the ministery: although they cuse, and say, that they knew not their vices or faultes. In writeth the Apostle vnto Timothe, Laye handes soonly on no man, neither be partaker of other mes synnes. Yea, sayth he, in this behalfe the more greuously, because they haue promoted hym, where that that thing, which they thought should reuile them, doth Hereto agreeth the sayeng of Leo Byshop of Rome: As that hym selfe the fruit of a good worke, whiche keepeth a right iudgement in the ction or chosing of a Priest: so likewise doth that Byshop worke hym selfe great and greuous damnacion, whiche promoteth an vnworthy man shyp of his dignitie, that is to say, vnto the spirituall ministery. Further vnderstand how such vnworthy and vnlearned men may be counted in the number of the godly ly Ministers. S. Jerome sayth: Cõsider, yt it is ye office of Priestes, vpõ they be demaũded of the law, to answere. If he be a Priest, let him know ye law of ye Lord.
If he know not ye law of ye Lord, he declareth euidently ye he is no Priest. For it pertaineth vnto the Priest to know the law, & whẽ he is asked, to make answere of the law. By these wordes S. Jerome declareth playnly, that such only are the malachäi Lordes Priestes, which are learned in the Lordes law, accordyng to ye sayeng of ye Prophet: The lippes of a Priest kepe knowledge, and at his mouth shal they require the lawe: for he is the Angell of the Lorde of hoostes. As for all other, they In matth. Hom. 25. Cap. 13. may be Baals Priestes, or Antichristes Chaplens, but the Lordes they not: so that we may truly say with S. John Chrisostome: Priestes and fewe Priestes: many in name, and fewe in how ye sit vpon the chayer: for the chayer maketh not the the chayer. The place sanctifieth not the man, but the sytteth well vpon the chayer, receaueth honour of it: but he doth iniurye to the chayer, &c.

The ancient order of chosing Ministers

Therefore to auoyde al such vnlearned & vnapt persons, the past of chosing Ministers is greatly to be cõmended, which Parishe or the better part of the, where a Pastor wãted, a gether certayne dayes before the election, & conferred of the new Minister. The names of certayne honest, graue, godly, wise, sober, zelous, stant, & learned men were preferred and set vp in some notable place of the citie towne, with a schedule or writting to declare ye the men, whose names were there entitled, were appoynted on such a daye to be chosen Ministers in ye congre-of God: agayn, that if any man did know any fault or notable imperfec-them, concernyng either their doctrine of life, they should on such and obiect what they lawfully coulde. If no worthy obiection ted were made, then did the election proceede. But before the beyng gathered together in the name of God, they & prayer: & [illegible] made concernyng tie of the [illegible], some other Minister or Ministers of that congregation layd their handes vpon the vnto hym the Spirit of God and the feares of the ting him vnto the ministery, without [illegible], vestiment, cope, kyng, greasyng, shauyng, &c. And this after thankes geuen to gacion departed. And here shal we note by the way, that cõtrary to of the Popishe Churche, the manner was in tymes past, not priuatly, ners to admitte any man vnto the ministerye, or in the presence of Epist. 33. Epist. 4.

Numbers 27

Ibi

In Leuit.

Note this

Matth. 9

1. Timoth. iii

In Numer.

ȝelous, paynefull, diligent, vertuous, godly, and apte for the purpose? Ought the cure of them to be committed vnto suche, as are without all experience,
1. Reg. iii all knowledge, all exercise in so godly affaires? whose trauailes of the life past call thē an other waye? Samuel being brought vp vnder Eli the Priest in ẏ seruice of God & in the knowledge of his holy worde euē from his tender age, was appointed to serue before the Lord, & to succede Eli the Priest. Paul brought vp Act. xxii at the feete of ẏ great learned mā doctor Gamaliel in all kinde of al good & godly learning, was after warde called of God to be an Apostle. Bythop Timothee
ii. Timoth. 3. 3 being nourished & brought vp in ẏ studie & practise of holy letters from his infācie, was thought mete of ẏ blessed Apostle S. Paul to be made a Pastor of Christes flocke. The holy fathers in times past had a great respect in ẏ admission of ministers vnto their education & bringing vp, vnto their knowledge & discretiō, vnto their experiēce & wisedome, vnto their grauitie & sobrietie, ẏ they might be
iii. Reg. xii worthy of the ministerie, & garnithe the same both with doctrine & conuersation. Of Jeroboā ẏ wicked & idolatrous kyng we rede ẏ he made Priestes of the baseſt & lowest sortes of ẏ people, which were not of the sonnes of Leui. And what Leui. xxvii other thing mēt God, whē he cōmaūded, ẏ none, althoughe of Aarons kynored, should preace to come nye ẏ altare, & to offer bread vnto his God, which had any blemishe or deformitie in his body: as if he were blynde or lame, or had a brused nose, or a brokē foote or hande, or any other misshapen mēber, or had no heer on his eye browes, or had a webbe or other blemish in his eyes, or if he were māgye or skalde, or had his head brokē, &c. but ẏ such as should serue him in ẏ cōgregatiō either by preaching his holy worde, or by administration of ẏ holy Sacramētes, or by making intercession vnto him for ẏ sinnes of the people, ought to be of all men most perfecte, most vertuous, most godly, most learned, most prudent, most wise, most faithfull, most graue, most constāt, ẏ nothing be lacking in them, ẏ is necessaryly required in an Ecclesiasticall Officer? That shepe in my contrey of Ad Oceanum Northfolke is alwayes chosē to be Bellweather, whiche is ẏ goodlyest & strongest in all the flocke. He goeth before: the other folow. And S. Jerome sayth, ẏ suche one ought to be chosē for to be Pastor of a congregatiō, as in cōparison of whō, all the other may right well be named the flocke. Is not this a thing very vndecent, vncomely and vnsyttyng, when the shephearde is no wiser, then his shepe? I meane, when the minister excelleth hys Parisheners nothyng at all in knowledge, doctrine, wisedome, &c. but is rather inferiour to them in the science of those thynges, whiche principally appertayne vnto his office? Will not the fruites hereof in tyme to come be these? Ignorancie, blyndnesse, barbarousnesse, decaye of good letters, destruction of learnyng, banishement of the knowledge of tonges, incluilitie, disorder, rudenesse, incredulitie, false religion, renewyng of Papistrie, superstition, idolatrie, contempte of the ministerye, seduction of myndes, confusion of consciences, disobedience to the head rulers, dishonour to ẏ Ministers of Gods worde, Epicurisme, empouerishmēt of the Church, desolation of comon weales, corrupcion of good māners, barēnes of vertues, whole seas of Prou. xxix ruils, &c. Whiche mischeifes al the most wise kyng Salomō cōprehendeth in these fewe wordes: when the preachyng of Gods worde fayleth: the people perishe.

These thynges (I nothyng doubte) your wysedomes do ryght wel consider, so that in your admissions & orders geuynges aboue al thynges ye haue an eye (all Tit. i. priuate affections set a parte) vnto the worthynesse of the parson, that he be suche one as is able both to exhorte by wholesome doctrine, and also to improue
i. Pet. v them that saye agaynst it: agayne, that he be suche one in lyfe and conuersacion, as maye ryght well be an ensāple of all godlynesses and vertue to the flocke of Luc. xix Christ. These Pastors thus appoynted & placed in parishes by your honoures, ought to set continually before their eyes thys commaundement of our Lorde and Master: Occupye tyll I come: and to shewe all diligence in fedyng the flocke
i. Timoth. vi of Christe with the wholesome wordes of our Lorde Jesus Christe, and with the doctrine, which is according to godlynesse, and by no meanes to shewe Esa. lvi them selues dumme dogges, whiche are not able to barke. Pius secundus. Bythoppe of Rome, as Platina writeth, was wont to saye: Euill Phisicions kyll

the

the bodyes: but vnwise and vnlearned Priestes kyll thesoules. And Sainct Gregorye sayeth: Sacerdos prædicationis nescius, est præco mutus. A Priest that can not preache, is a dumme trompetter. In Pastor.

And in their doctrine or first kynde of feding they must haue a great & an earnest consideratiō of the lābes of Christ, ý is to say, of the younglynges of ý Christen congregatiō, as childzen, boyes, maydes, & such like, whiche haue litle, or no thing tasted of the knowledge of their profession. These must they trayne and bring vp frō their very cradles, as they vse to say, frō their infancie & tender age, in the feare of God, in the knowledge of his holy and blessed lawe, accordyng to this commaundement of God: Teach thy sonnes, & thy sonnes sonnes the commaūdemētes of God. Againe, Bring vp your childrē in the doctrine & nourtour of the Lord. For Pastors or ecclesiasticall ministers are spirituall fathers, as S. Paul writeth to ý Corinthians: Although ye haue ten thousand scholemasters in Christ, yet haue ye not many fathers. For I haue begottē you in Christ Jesu thorow the Gospell. Againe in his Epistle to Philemon: I entreat thee for my sonne Onesimus, whō I haue begottē in my bondes. And as they are fathers, so likewise are ý Parishners their ghostly childzen, whether they be yong or olde. The fathers of Christes Church in times past had a singulare care & speciall study for the Christen yongiynges, that they might be brought vp godly, vertuously, and in the knowledge of the lawes of most highest, whether we respect the fathers of ý olde or of the new testament. In the olde law they had their Leuites, whiche besides other seruices of God, taught the youth of the Jewes, & trayned thē vp euē frō their infācie in the knowledge of ý holy scriptures. In ý new law the godly fathers frō time to time, frō age to age appoynted scholemasters, whō they called Catechistes, to bring vp the Christen youth in the lawe of God. And vnto this ende they gaue money & landes to fynde both the scholemasters & the scholers, and erected & set vp scholes, that the lambes of Christes flock myght be fedde in the most pleasaūt pastures of the holy scriptures. By this meanes came it to passe, ý the childrē trayned vp in the law of God frō their youth both by publique sermōs in the tēples & by priuat instructiōs & exhortaciōs in the scholes, became godly & vertuous, so ý as they grewe vp in age, so likewise they encreased in godlynesse, knowledge, vertue, goodnesse, &c. & so for euer after continued in those heauēly exercises vnto the glory of God & vnto ý auaūncemēt of ý Christē religion, as Salomō sayth: Teach a child in his youth what way he shuld go: for he shal not leaue it, whē he is old. Thē in scholes were taught Moses, Dauid, Salomon, Esay, Jeremy, Ezechiel, Daniel, &c. with the foure Euāgelistes & the other Authors of the bokes of the new testamēt: by the meanes whereof childzen euē from their cradles dzoncke in true godlynes (which order in scholes is nowe agayn (thāckes be to God) reformed & obserued in all true reformed Churches in Germanie & in diuerse other contreyes, as I my selfe haue sene. Prophane and straūge letters of the wāton Poetes, lyeng Historiographers, prating Sophisters, babling Oratours, vayne Philosophers, &c. were not then knowen in the scholes of Christē youth: where as now in our scholes (alas for pitie) they beare ý cheif route. Such kind of teachyng scholes might be vsed in ý middes of Turkye wout any displeasure of Mahumet. Is this any other thing, thē to fall backe agayne vnto Gētilitie, & to opē awaye to ý Christē youth how they may become Ethnikes & Paganes? The aunciēt fathers sought all meanes possible to bring vp childrē dedicat to God in ý letters & lawe of God, ý they might know & lyue accordyng to their professiō: which thing would God it might once be renewed in our scholes, that our Christen youth might learne to know Christ from their infancie and tender age. So shoulde vice sone decrease, and vertue encrease. So should Papistrie sone come to an ende, and true godlynesse take roote, spring, growe vp, budde, florishe, bring forth fruite, reigne, rule, triumphe, and easly haue the victory ouer all other doctrines. This thing wout any great difficultie (most reuerend Fathers) may sone be brought to passe in this our comon weale of England, if your honours euery one in your dioceese wyll diligently prouide, Pron. xxiii that ſuch as teach vnder your iuriſdiction, be fauorers and followers, louers and liuers, profeſſours and practiſers of true godlynes, and vtterly eſtraunged from Papiſtrye and all ſectes, onely deſyrous and ſtudious to auaunce the doctrine of Chriſte, and the true religion of God, and to plante the ſame in the myndes of their ſcholers. Your wyſedomes knowe right well this ſayeng of the Poet: Quo ſemel eſt imbuta recens, ſeruabit odorem teſta diu. And Salomon ſayth: Prouerbiũ eſt: Adoleſcens iuxta viam ſuam, etiam cum ſenuerit, non recedet ab ea. For who ſeeth not how hardly in theſe our dayes they be brought vnto the true religion of Chriſt, which from their yong yeares haue bene nouſled and trayned vp in the Romiſh rules of Antichriſt? Nowe vtterly to put away and baniſh from the boundes of the Chriſten comon weale ſuche and ſo great an euill, the next and onely remedie is, that godly learned ſcholemaſters be placed with liberall ſtipendes, to whom the Chriſten youth may be committed, and that both the ſcholemaſters in their ſcholes, and the ſpirituall Paſtores in the temples do their vttermoſte endeuour and diligence to inculck and beate into their youth the elementes and principles of Chriſten religiõ, as they be contained in the Catechiſme, accordyng to this cõmaundement of Chriſt: Fede my Lambes. And as the lãbes of Chriſt, ẏ is to ſay, the younger ſort of the Chriſten congregacion are to be fedde with meat mete for their tender age: ſo likewiſe may not the ſhepe of Chriſt, that is, the elder company of Chriſtes people be neglected, but diligẽtly fedde, not with milke only, but alſo with ſtrong meat, as the perfectiõ of euery one requireth, ẏ the eccleſiaſtical miniſter may be founde a prudent & faithfull ſeruaunt, which geueth meat to the Lordes family in due tyme. Crye out, ſayth God by the Prophet, as loude as thou canſt. Ceaſe not of. Lift vp thy voyce like a trompet, and ſhewe my people their offences, and the houſe of Jacob their ſynnes. Preache the worde, ſayeth the Apoſtle: be feruent in ſeaſon and out of ſeaſon. Improue, rebuke, exhorte with all longe ſufferyng and doctrine. For the tyme will come, when they ſhal not ſuffer wholeſome doctrine, but after their owne luſtes ſhal they (whoſe eare itche) get them an heape of teachers, and ſhall with drawe their eares from the trueth, and ſhall be turned vnto fables. But watche thou in all thinges: ſuffre afflictions, doe the worke thoroughly of an Euangeliſt: fulfill thine office vnto the vttermoſt. And the noble man ſayth: Occupye, till I come.

Pron. xxii

Ioan. xxi

Eſa. lviii

ii. Timoth. 4

Luc. xix

But it is be noted, that vnder this firſt kynde of fedyng is alſo comprehended the due & true adminiſtraciõ of ẏ holy & bleſſed ſacramẽtes, which Chriſt hath left here in earth to be exerciſed in his Church, & hath geuẽ commaundement to hys miniſters to adminiſter ẏ ſame to his people, whẽ cõueniẽt time requireth. Concerning Baptiſme he ſayeth thus vnto the: Baptiſe ye all nacions in the name of the father, & of the ſonne, & of ẏ holy ghoſt. He that beleueth & is Baptiſed, ſhall be ſaued. And as touching the Lordes ſupper he ſayth: Do ye this in the remembraũce of me. And ẏ Apoſtle ſayth: So oftẽ as ye ſhal eate this bread, & drincke of this cup, ye ſhall ſhewe, preache, declare, & ſet forth ẏ Lordes death till he come. Theſe Sacramẽtes may not be prophanated nor defiled either with ſuperſticiõ, either Jewiſhe or hetheniſh tradicions, nor racked vnto any other vſe, then Chriſt him ſelfe appointed. The wretched Papiſtes moſt wretchedly abuſed al ẏ Sacramẽtes & miſteries of God. Baptiſme they miniſtred in corners, & whẽ fewe were preſent, yea & ẏ in a ſtraunge tonge, which fewe or none did vnderſtande. They added moreouer of their owne brayne without any authoritie of Gods worde, certaine exorciſmes or cõiuracions to dryue ẏ deuil out of ẏ ſely ſimple poore infãt. They put alſo vnto it, ſalt, ſpittle, oyle, creame, cãdle, cryſome, croſſing, bleſſing, & what not? Neither was it coũted a perfect Baptiſme, if any of theſe beggarly ceremonies wãted, or if ẏ water were not firſt of all halowed which their popiſh benedictiõs & other trifling tradicions. Moreouer how wickedly did the Papiſtes applye Baptiſme to dumme creatures, as to the Chriſtenyng of belles, &c? Is this any other thyng, then a playne mockyng of Gods ordinaunce, and a verye prophanacion of his holy Sacrament?

Matth. 28. Marc. xvi.

Luc. xxiiii i. Cor. xi.

Furthermore how dyd the moſt miſerable Papiſtes alſo defile the honorable ſacrament of the body & bloud of Chriſt? Beyng a memorial of ẏ death of Chriſt, they they made it Chriſt him ſelf, bloud and bone, God and man: & commaunded the people to fall downe before it, & to honour & worſhyp it as God their maker, to pray vnto it, to aſke al good things of it, &c. They taught, ỹ it is a ſacrifice propiciatory ſatisfactorye and expiatorye for the ſynnes both of the quicke and of the dead. They made the ſely, ſheptiſhe, ſimple, beleue, that no breade, nor wyne remayned after the conſecracion, but ỹ the ſubſtaunce of breade was turned into the ſubſtaunce of Chriſtes naturall fleſhe: and the ſubſtaunce of wyne chaunged into the naturall ſubſtaunce of the bloude of Chriſt, whiche fleſhe and bloud he receaued of Marye the Virgine. Chriſte inſtituted hys holye Supper, and commaunded it to be miniſtred in both kyndes to the people. But the Papiſtes contrarye to Chriſtes inſtitucion and commaundement, yea and contrarye to the practiſe of Chriſtes Churche many hondred yeares after his Aſcenſion, take awaye from the communion of the Laitie, the cup of the myſterye of the Lordes bloud, & ſo commit moſt grieuous and curſed ſacrilege. Agayne, where as Chriſt cõmaunded the ſacramẽtal bread to be eaten in the remẽbraunce of his paſſion & death: the Papiſtes bore it, & pire it & hange it vp by a rope, yea & carye it about in their pompous proceſſions and galãt gamplayes. Moreouer where as Chriſt commaunded, that many ſhould come together to eate that holy ſupper: the Papiſtes contrary to the cõmaundement of Chriſt haue ordayned, ỹ the Prieſt ſtandyng at the altare ſhall eate vp and drincke vp all alone, and diſtribute no parte therof to ſuch as be preſent: and yet the people muſt beleue, that the Prieſtes priuat eating and drincking profiteth them as much, as though they thẽ ſelues had receaued it. Theſe & many other moſt grieuous abuſes about ỹ Sacramẽtes haue the Prieſtes moſt vngodly brought into ỹ Churche of Chriſt, & taught thẽ as neceſſary veritties to be beleued vnder payne of dãnacion. But theſe monſtures of Popiſh doctrines ỹ faithful, & godly Paſtor muſt auoid, as moſt noyſome & hurtfull peſtilences, yea as the tares of ỹ enemie & the ſede of the deuil: & teach the doctrine & vſe of ỹ ſacramentes according to Chriſtes ordinaũce: & that ỹ ſacramẽtes of thẽ ſelues do not cõferre & geue grace, neither bring ſaluaciõ of their own vertue, power & dignitie (as ỹ Papiſtes teache) but ỹ they are teſtimonies, ſignes & ſeales of Gods grace, fauour & mercie towarde vs, & do lyuely repreſẽt & ſet forth vnto vs ỹ great clemẽcie & ſingular goodnes of God towarde all ſuch as repent, & lay hand by ſtrõge faith on his moſt merciſull promiſes made in the death of his ſonne Chriſt: & in fine, ỹ the ſacramẽtes are the very ſame to ỹ beleuing Chriſtiã, ỹ the worde of God is, as S. Auſten ſayth: A ſacrament is a viſible worde. For loke what ỹ word of God is to ỹ eare of a Chriſtiã: the very ſame is the Sacrament to ỹ eye of a Chriſtiã: & the holy Ghoſt worketh mightly by thẽ both. So ỹ as the worde is not preached in vaine, but bringeth forth frutt in thẽ whiche are appointed vnto euerlaſting life: euẽ ſo is it wt the ſacramẽtes. They are not receaued in vayne of thẽ ỹ come worthly vnto thẽ, & know the right vſe of thẽ, & vnto what ende they were ordained of our Lord & maſter Chriſt. Theſe ſacramẽtes ought not to be miniſtred in corners. But as ỹ word of God is preached openly, & where great cõfluence of people is: ſo likewiſe ought the Sacramẽtes to be miniſtred in the preſẽce of the people, & whẽ greateſt reſort is, yea & ỹ with hye ſolemnitie & great reuerẽce, ỹ al being preſẽt may be edified. And as a faithfull Paſtor in his ſermõs exhorteth his hearers to come diligẽtly vnto the often hearing of Gods word: ſo ought he in like manner to moue, excite, & ſtirre vp his Auditours vnto the often receauing of the Lordes ſupper, & alſo flocking ly to be preſent at the baptiſme of Infantes, that by this meanes they maye be put in remembraunce of theyr profeſſion, and the better remember, theyr dutye both towarde God and towarde their neyghboure. Thus muche of the firſte kynde of feedyng.

The ſeconde kynde of feding the Lordes flocke is, that the ſpirituall Paſtores, as in worde, ſo likewiſe in worke, as in doctrine, ſo lykewyſe lyfe, ſeke to edifie the congregacion of G O D. For they are not onelye called the ſalte of the earth, but alſo the light of the world. As it is their dutie with the wiſedome of Gods worde to ſeaſon the myndes of Chriſtes ſheepe, and to ſucke out all the noyſome

Of godly lyfe.

Matth. v

noysome, corrupte, euill and hurtfull humores, and to conserue and kepe them in salue estate: so in lyke manner is it they? dutye with godly and vertuous examples of lyfe to shyne before them, that they may seme to teache not onely in

In Epist. and Fabi. worde and doctrine, but also in lyfe and conuersacion, as Sainct Jerome sayth: So great ought the knowledge and learnyng of Gods Byshop to be, that both his goynges and mouynges, and all that euer he doeth, may be sermons, that he conceaue the truth in his mynde, and expresse the same in all his behauiour and apparell, that what soeuer he doeth, what soeuer he speaketh, may by a learning

Leui. xxi for the people. What other thynge ment God in the olde lawe be geuyng commaundement, that none should stande and offer sacrifice before hym, which had any blemyshe or deformitie in his bodye, but that such as should be chosen to be his Ministers, should be innocent, pure, faultlesse, and uncorrupte both in lyfe & doctrine? God can not abyde, that his doctrine should be set forth by the, whose lyfe is a slaunder to the worde, whose conuersacion destroyeth, more then the sermon edyfyeth. Are not these hys wordes by the Psalmographe? Unto the Psal. 50 vngodly, sayde GOD, why doest thou preache my lawes, and takest my couenaunt in thy mouth? Where as thou hatest to be reformed, and hast cast my wordes behynde thee. When thou sawest a theefe, thou consentedst vnto hym, and hast bene partaker with the aduouters. Thou haste let thy mouth speake wickednesse, and with thy tongue thou hast set forth deceat. Thou satest and spakest agaynst thy brother, yea and hast slaundered thyne owen mothers sonne. These thynges hast thou done, and I helde my tonge, and thou thoughtest, that I am suche one, as thy selfe. But I will reproue thee, and set before thee the thynges, whiche thou hast done. Hereto agreeth the sayeng of Sainct Paule:

Rom. ii Thou beleuest that thou thy selfe arte a guyde of the blynde, a lyght of them whiche are in darcknesse, an informer of them whiche lacke discretion, a teacher of vnlearned, whiche hast the ensample of knowledge & of the truth in the lawe. Thou therfore whiche teachest an other, teachest not thy selfe. Thou preachest a man should not steale, and yet thou stealest. Thou sayest a man should not commit adultery, and thou breakest wedlocke. Thou abhorrest images, and robbest God of his honoure. Thou makest boast of the lawe, and thou breakyng the lawe, dyshonourest God. For the name of God is euill spoken of among the Gentiles thorowe you.

The spiritual Pastores are termed in the holy scriptures, the angels or Embassadours of the Lord of hoostes, because they declare the minde and good will of God to the people, as they haue learned it out of the mouth of God. Nowe what Prince is he ý sendeth any Embassadour to any noble man into a straũge contrey, whiche doth not first of al consider, what mãner a mã he ought to send? Verely he prouideth such one, & to him he cõmitteth his secretes, as may worthily represent his royall person is apt to declare his Princes minde, & thorow honorable & comely behauiour both in worde and worke, obtayne at the noble mans hande credite & fauour, & so the more easly bring to passe that his Lorde & master desireth. Such one ought the spirituall minister, whiche is Gods Embassadour, to be. He ought not onely barely to set forth the pleasure of God to the people, but so to frame his life, that his wordes may take place in the heartes of the heaters. Otherwise he dishonoureth his Lorde & master, whose Embassadour he is.

They are called also ouersears of ý Lordes flocke. But how can they oversee ý

Luc. iiii Lordes flock that nothing be a misse among thẽ, if they thẽ selues be cleane out of order? May it not thẽ iustly be said vnto thẽ? Physician heale thy self. Again, they are called the light of the world, that such as beholde their cõuersaciõ, may se in their behauiour, how they ought to lyue in all godlynes and honestie. But how can this come to passe, if t heir lyfe be obscured and darckened with the workes of darknesse, and defyled with the dedes of the flesshe? As our Sauiour Christe matth. vi sayeth: The lyght of ý bodye is the eye. Wherfore if thyne eye be single, all thy body shall be ful of light. But & if thyne eye be wycked, al thy body shal be ful of Matth. v darknesse. Wherfore if the lyght ý is in thee, be darcknesse: how great is ý darknes? The master of truth sayth in his sermõ made in ý mount: Whosoeuer doth

and & teacheth ꝑ same shal be called great in ꝑ kgdome of heauē. And of this matter of truth we rede on this wise: Jesus began to do, & to teach. Teaching & doing ought to go together. The one without the other in a spirituall Minister, is litle worth. Yea he is a mangled minister, which eyther teacheth well & liueth euil, or liueth wel and teacheth euill. Christ that high pastor and euerlasting Bysshop would be knowen to be the Sauiour of the world, not by hys words only, but also by his workes. Go, sayth he, and shewe John againe, what ye haue heard and sene. Here are both words and workes. Wordes are heard: works are sene. Againe, The workes, which I do in the name of my father: euē they beare witnesse of me. Item, If I do not the workes of my father, beleue me not. But if I do them, and if ye beleue not me, beleue the workes. So pure was this minister of the new Testament, which is that Lambe of God without spot, which neuer did sinne, and in whose mouth deceate was neuer found, that he feared not to say openly to his aduersaries: Which of you rebuketh me of sinne? Ought not the inferiour ministers to follow this moste high minister in the innocencie of life? I haue geuē you an example, sayth he, ꝑ as I haue done, so ye likewise should do. And S. John writeth on this manner: He that sayth, ꝑ he dwelleth in Christ ought to walke, as he hath walked. And our sauiour Christ him selfe sayeth: If any man minister vnto me, let him follow me. The blessed Apostle S. Paule ꝑ worthy and right excellente minister of Christ, feede not the people only with words, but with godly examples of life also, as it is recorded in diuerse places of the new Testament. As touching hys doctrine thus he sayth, as blessed Luke reporteth: Now behold, I go bound in the spirite vnto Jerusalē, not knowing the things, ꝑ shal come on me there, but ꝑ the holy ghost witnesseth in euery citie, saying: that bandes and trouble abide me. But none of these thinges moue me, neither is my life dere to my selfe, ꝑ I might fulfill my course with ioy, and the ministration (of the worde) which I haue receaued of the Lord Jesu, to testifie the Gospell of the grace of God. And now behold, I am sure, ꝑ henceforth ye all (thorow whom I haue gone preaching the kingdome of God) shall see my face no more. Wherfore I take you recorde this day, ꝑ I am pure frō the bloud of all men. For I haue spared no labour, but haue shewed you all the councel of god. Take hede therefore vnto your selues, & to al ꝑ flocke, among whō ꝑ holy ghost hath made you ouersears to gouerne the congregacion of God, whiche he hath purchased w̄ his bloud. For I am sure of this, ꝑ after my departure shal greuous wolues enter in among you, not sparing ꝑ flocke. Moreouer of your owne selues shal mē arise, speaking peruerse thinges to draw disciples after thē. Therfore awake & remēber, ꝑ by the space of three yeares, I ceased not to warne euery one of you night & day with teares. And he him selfe sayth: I haue laboured (in the Gospel of Christ) more abundaūtly, thē thei all. He speaketh of ꝑ Apostles. Againe he sayth: From Jerusalē & the coastes round about vnto Illyricum, I haue filled all countreyes with the gospel of Christ.

Act.i.
Mat.xi.
Ioan.x.
Ioan.viii.
Ioan.xiii.
i.Ioan.ii.
Ioan.xii
Act.xx.
i.Cor.xv.
Rom.xv.

Of Paules life & conuersaciō blessed Luke rehearseth these wordes: Now brethrē I cōmend you to god & to ꝑ worde of his grace, whiche is able to build further, & to geue you an inheritaunce among al them which are sanctified, I haue desired no mans siluer, gold, or vesture. Yea ye your selues know, ꝑ these hands haue ministred vnto my necessities, & to them ꝑ were with me. I haue shewed you al things, how ꝑ so labouring ye ought to receaue ꝑ weake, & to remember the wordes of ꝑ Lord Jesu, how ꝑ he sayd: It is more blessed to geue, then to receaue. And of himselfe he writeth to ꝑ Thessalonians on this manner: We led not our conuersacion at any time w̄ flattering wordes, as ye knowe: neither by occasion of couetousnesse: God is recorde: neither sought we prayse of men, neither of you, nor yet of any other, when we might haue bene in authoritie, as ꝑ Apostles of Christ: but we were tender among you, euen as a nurse cherisheth her childrē, so wer we affectioned toward you. Our good will was to haue delt vnto you not the Gospel of god only, but also our owne soules, bycause ye were

Act.xx.
i.Thess.ii.

dere vnto vs. Ye remember brethren our labour & trauayle. For we labored day & night, bycause we would not be chargeable vnto any of you, and preached vnto you ỳ Gospell of God, Ye are witnesses, & so is God, how holily & iustly & vnblameably we behaued our selues among you ỳ beleued, as ye know, how ỳ we bare such affection vnto euery one of you, as a father doth vnto children, exhorting, comforting, & beseching you, ỳ ye would walke worthy of God, whiche hath called you vnto his kingdome & glory. Not only when he was a preacher was his life pure & vncorrupte, but also before he was called vnto the office of preaching, insomuch ỳ he sayth: As touching the righteousnes, whiche is in the lawe, I was vnrebukeable. And as the life of Paule was blameles both before his vocation vnto the office of preaching, & also afterward: so requireth he, that such as should be chosen to the ministery, be men of a pure & blameles lyfe, and such as no mã can complaine on, without rebuke shinyng as lights in ỳ world, holding fast ỳ word of life. A bishop, sayth he, must be irreprehensible or blameles,

Phil. i.

i. Timoth. iii.

and such one as ruleth wel his owne house, & hath children in subiectiõ wt all reuerence. For if a man can not rule his own house, how shal he care for the congregacion of God? He must also haue a good report of them, ỳ are without, least he fall into rebuke & snare of the euill speaker. Againe, A Bishop must be blameless, as the steward of God, &c. And vnto this end make these his exhortacions vnto Timothe and Titus: Be vnto thẽ ỳ beleue, an ensample in word,

Tit. i.
i. Timoth. iiii
i. Timoth. v
i. Timoth. vi.

in conuersacion, in loue, in spirite, in fayth, in puretie. Keepe thy selfe pure. Follow righteousnesse, godlynesse, fayth, loue, pacience, mekenesse. Se ỳ thou haue the ensample of the wholesome wordes, which thou hast learned of me, wt fayth and loue ỳ is in Christ Jesu. Study to shew thy selfe laudable vnto God, a

ii. Tim. i.
ii. Time. ii.
ii. Time. ii.
ii. Timot. iiii.

workemã that needeth not to be ashamed, distributing the word of truth iustly. Lustes of youth auoyde: but follow righteousnes, fayth, loue and peace with thẽ that call on the Lord with a pure heart. Watch thou in al things, suffer afflictions, do the worke thorowly of an Euangelist, fulfill thine office vnto the vttermost. In all thinges shewe thy selfe an ensample of good workes in the doctrine, with honestie, gravitie, and with the wholesome word whiche can not be rebuked, that he which withstandeth, may be ashamed, hauing no euill thing to say of you. S. Peter likewise commaundeth, that the pastors do not only feed the flocke of Christ with the worde of God, but that they also be an ensample of all godlynes and vertue vnto them.

Titu. ii.

i. Pet. v.

Thus see we, ỳ the holy Scripture requireth in euery place, ỳ in a spirituall minister not only puritie of doctrine, but also innocency of life should appeare & be founde. For as an Epicure is no mete mã to set forth abstinence or fasting, nor an irefull man to cõmend charitie, nor a dronckard to prayse sobrietie, nor an adulterer to exhorte vnto puritie of life, nor a couetous person to persuade vnto liberalitie, &c: no more is a vicious person a mete man to rebuke vice. He ought to be faultelesse, that prepareth himselfe to speake against other. It is worthely sayd of the most worthy Cato.

That thing which in an other thou arte wonte to blame,
Be wel ware, that thou offende not in the same.
For it is very shame, when a man will preache:
If that his dedes agaynst his wordes do teache.

It is a foule fault, sayth Erasmus, to blame an other for such things, as he him selfe most vseth. For the misbehauour of the preacher minisheth greatly the authoritie of his word. With what forehead dare a Surgiõ take vpõ him to heale other mens woundes, when he him selfe is ful of botches, sores, and diseases? Is ỳ man a mete Phisicion to cure other, which being full of diseases, hath nede to be cured, himselfe? May it not worthely be sayd vnto him, as Christ hath in the Gospell: Phisicion, heale thy selfe? With what face dare ỳ pastor rebuke in hys flepe, pride ambicion, couetousnesse, vnmercifulnes, contencion, fornicatiõ, &c:

Luk. iiii.

be

be him ſelf being proud, ambicious, couetous, vnmercifull, contencious, vnpure in life, &c: Is not this his rebuking of ſinne, a plaine maintenance of ſinne, whē ẏ worde teacheth one thing, and ẏ worke practiſeth an other thing? Perſuadeth ẏ word, more thē the worke: yea rather the worke more then ẏ word. It is well ſayd of the Greke Poet. The manners of the ſpeaker are they ẏ perſuade, & not ẏ which is ſpoken. Herewith agreeth Chriſoſtome ſaying: The things, whiche we ſpeake, are not ſo much conſidered and marked, as ẏ thinges which we doe. And ẏ a mā may know, ẏ it is ſo in deede, it is to be vnderſtanded, ẏ although we do ten thouſand times eloquently ſet forth in words ẏ treate of patience, & yet when time requireth, we do not exprẽſſe it in our works: the words ſhal not ſo much profite, as ẏ workes ſhal hurt. But if after ẏ words, we ſhew forth & perfourme ẏ ſame in works, then ſhall we be counted worthy to admoniſhe other of thoſe things, which we our ſelues do fulfil in our works. For Chriſte called thē bleſſed, ſaying: Bleſſed is he ẏ doeth & teacheth. Marke how he maketh mẽcion firſt of the worke, after of ẏ doctrine. And verely if ẏ worke go before, although doctrine do not follow, yet do the very works more ſuffice to teach thē ẏ loke vpō vs, thē any words. Therfore let vs haue reſpect vnto this cōtinually, ẏ we fyrſt of al teach w̄ workes, & afterward with wordes, leaſt ẏ be obiected againſt vs, ẏ bleſſed Paule ſayth: Thou ẏ teacheſt an other, teacheſt not thy ſelf. And whē ſoeuer we will monish other to do any of thoſe things, which are comely & neceſſary to be done: let vs fyrſt of al endeuour our ſelues to do ẏ very ſame ẏ we may haue the more boldneſſe to ſpeake, and ẏ all our cares may be for ẏ ſalnacīō of mens ſoules. So likewiſe ſaith ſ. Jerome: How can ẏ rector of a church or ruler of a congregation take away euill out of it, if he haue offended in ẏ like fault? Or how dare he be bolde to reproue him ẏ offendeth, when his own conſcience accuſeth him, ẏ he him ſelf hath cōmitted the very ſame things, whiche he condēneth in other? Againe he ſayth: Let not thy works confound thy words, leaſt when thou ſpeakeſt in ẏ congregatiō, ſuch as heare thee & hold their peace, anſweare & ſay: Why thē doeſt not thou thoſe things, which ẏ ſayeſt? Hereto agreeth ẏ ſaying of ſ. Auſten: The hearers deſpiſe to do ẏ words of doctrine, whē they ſee, ẏ the workes of ẏ preacher do differ frō ẏ words of his preaching. The authoritie of the preacher is neuer of any force, except he moueth ẏ heart of the hearer by his godlineſſe of life & converſacion. He ought to be pure & cleane frō vices, ſayth ſ. Gregorye, which taketh vpon him to correct other mens faultes. For as Iſidorus writeth: he ought not to rebuke ẏ vices of other men, whiche is wrapped with the diſeaſes of vices. It is a thing very vnfitting to reproue any thing in an other, wherof he feleth himſelfe giltye.

Menander apud Plutarchū

In Gene, Ca 2.

Matth. v,

Roma. ii

In Titū, Ca. 1.

De duodecim grad.

Lib. 3. de ſummo bono, ca. 32

Thus is it euident, how neceſſarye this kinde of feding Chriſtes flocke is: I meane, with vertuous examples of godly converſacion. Verely it is ſo neceſſary, ẏ the one without the other litle profiteth, ſpecially among them, which are weakelings, and are moued rather with works thē with words, not ſo greatly conſidering the puritie of ẏ doctrine, as the innocency of life, although the ſound and perfect Chriſtians reſpect principally the doctrine, & attend not ſomuch vnto the life, knowing, if the preachers preach well, ẏ is the hearers, & turneth vnto their cōmoditie & profite: but if the preachers liue wel, it is their own gaine, & maketh vnto their own ſaluacion: and therfore do the godly & perfect Chriſtians take ẏ which is theirs, ẏ is to ſay, the doctrine, & leaue to the preachers, ẏ is their own, ẏ is, their life and converſacion, remēbring ẏ an other mans ſeruaūt whether he ſtandeth or falleth, ſtandeth & falleth vnto his own maiſter. A good paſtor therefore muſt no leſſe take hede to his life, then to hys doctrine, ſeing ẏ the life in the ſight of the world perſuadeth & worketh more credite, then ẏ doctrine, as the Apoſtle ſayth: Take hede to thy ſelf and to the doctrine. So that doctrine is not only to be taken hede vnto, but alſo lyfe and converſacion. For looke what a margarite or precious ſtone is to a ryng of golde, or ſweete and plea-

Rom. xiiii,

i. Timoth. iiii

pleasaunt floures to a garden: euen the very same is good and vertuous life to doctrine. And verely although there be many vrgent, graue, weightye & necessary causes ỳ ought to stirre vp godly lyfe in a preacher or spirituall pastor, as ỳ he is a man, not only a mã, but also by his profession a Christen man: againe, that he is a preacher and setter forth of gods worde: a ruler in the congregacion of God: a light to the blinde: a mirrour of vertue to the sinnefull, Gods Angell or Embassadoure: Christes minister, &c, and such one as in all his thoughtes & deuices, in al his wordes and workes, ought to seke the glory of God, ỳ auancement of his blessed name, and the profite of his holy congregacion: yet are there two things aboue al other (if it be lawfull in this behalfe to make cõparisons:) whiche ought to moue him to lede a godly life, and to bring forth good worke. One is, that by his honest, godly and Christen conuersacion, he may stoppe the mouthes of such as maliciously seke all occasions to speake euill not only of vs, but also of the good doctrine, which we profesſe & teache. For who seeth not, if the spiritual pastor do neuer so litle treade out of the way, how the aduersaries of Gods truth glory, reioyce, and triumphe: Taking hereof an occasion to slaunder the glorious Gospell of Christ, to contemne and condemne it, to speake euil of it, to raile of it, to bisse at it, & to bring the greatest ignominie vnto it, ỳ can be deuised, with all manner persuacions to alienate, estraunge, withdrawe, and plucke away the mindes of other also, which before were not euill affected toward the doctrine of Christ. Then cry they out with their serpentlyke tonges & deuilishe voyces: Behold the fruites of their doctrine. If their doctrine were good and godly: workes agreeable to the same would follow. But ye see, what frutes the professours of the same bring forth: therfore may ye sone iudge what their doctrine is. Merely wicked, blasphemous, hereticall, slaunderous, blasphemous, schismatical, lately deuised by certaine sectaries, &c. Behold their pomps and pride. Behold their nice and galant apparell. Behold their insatiable couetousnesse. Behold their bribe taking. Behold their lasciuious & wanton maners. Beholde their fyne fare and delicate diet. Beholde their Epicureous lyfe. Behold their heathenlyke care for their wiues, children, frendes, kinnesfolke, &c. Beholde their negligence in prouision making for the poore. Behold the decay of hospitalitie. Beholde the exceding great abuses and wicked expenses of the church goods. Beholde their disorder in all their doings. What is to be looked for of these men, if they and their doctrine long continue, but an vtter subuersion and plaine desolacion of our common weale, &c?

Thus the aduersaryes of God and of all godlyneſſe, (yea and ỳ many tymes whẽ none occasion is geuen, so rancketonged are they to speake euill of al good men) continually barke against the louers of ỳ lords word, and specially against ỳ preachers of the same, ỳ by this meanes they may not onely deface the good name of the preachers, but also hynder and let the prosperous passage of Gods most blessed word. To stoppe these aduersaries mouthes therfore, ought al true Christians, but chiefely the Preachers of Gods worde, to lyncke, couple, & ioyne with their doctrine, innocencye of lyfe, ỳ they may not onely be the salte of the earth, but the light of ỳ world also. Unto this exhorteth S. Peter saying: Derely beloued, I beseech you as straungers and pilgrimes, abstaine from fleshly lustes, which fight against the soule: and see ỳ ye haue honest conuersacion among the Gentiles, ỳ where as they backebite you as euill doers, they may see your good workes, and prayse God in the day of visitacion. Agayne he sayeth: The will of God is, that with well doing ye may stoppe the mouthes of foolish and ignorant men. S. Paule also commaundeth, that a spiritual ouerseer should so behaue him self ỳ he may be wel reported of al men, & by no meanes fal into the daunger and snare of the euill speaker.

Matth. v.
i. Pet. ii.
i. Timoth. iii.

Auncient histories make mencion, how many, that were enemies to Gods religion, were in times past by the godly conuersacion of the Christians conuerted and turned vnto the Christen fayth, yea and became most worthy and noble Martyrs bestowing their liues for the testimonie of the Lord Jesu.

When

When the Emperour Traianus persecuted the Christians, vnderstanding afterward by the letters of Plinie the younger, that the Christians were quiet & obedient subiectes to all ciuile lawes & politique ordinaunces, liued vprightlye wt al men, were no troublers of the cõmon weale, got their liuinges with theyr own handes, abhorred all vice, & practised all vertue vnto the good example of other: he ceased from persecution, & became frendly to the Christians.

Agayne, when Petronius successour to Ponce Pilate at the cõmaundement of Gaius Caligula Emperour of Rome laboured with al maine to cõpel the Iewes, that they should worship the image of the Emperoure set vp and placed in the temple at Ierusalem: he beholding their constancie in retayning & defending gods true religion agaynst the hauing or worshipping of images, & considering also their godly behauour both in wordes & workes, ceased to execute the Emperours commaundement, and immediatly became a professour of god, embraced the heauenly doctrine, and vtterly forsoke his gentilitie.

Moreouer we rede, ỳ certaine Iewes beholding the tender mercy, pitifull cõpassion, and redy helpe of the Christians in preseruing thẽ from drowning, forsoke theyr Iudaisme & became Christians. Abundaunce of such examples ỳ Ecclesiasticall historiies do minister vnto vs: so ỳ of the good life of ỳ Christians, not only ỳ aduersaries mouthes are many times stopped, but they also are allured of enemies to become frends, of persecutors, fauourers, of tyrantes, vpholders, & maintayners of ỳ Christen religion. If al men ỳ loue ỳ Lord Iesu ought to shewe their vttermost endeuour, ỳ this thing may be brought to passe vnto the glory of God & vnto the encrease of his church: much more ought the ministers of ỳ Lordes word so to liue, ỳ this thing may be accomplished by their godly & vertuous conuersaciõ, yea and ỳ so much the more bicause they are like vnto a citie built vpõ an hill, & like vnto a brenning candle, which is not set vnder a bushell, but on a candlesticke, ỳ it may geue light to all ỳ are in the house. If priuate persons offend, fewe are moued with the matter: but if the minister of ỳ Lords word offend neuer so litle, it is streyght wayes in the sight of al men, such an offence, as is worthy a double death, so narowe eyed are the people in ỳ consideration of the ministers liues. And verely so much the more ought the spiritual pastors to take hede vnto their manners, life, & conuersacion, bicause theyr state hath alwaies beene, & yet is, in more daũger of euill tonges, thẽ any other degrees of persons, so redy is ỳ deuil at al times to stirre vp, if none other crosse, at the least euill and slaunderous tonges agaynst the preachers of Gods truth, passing all other. Was not Helias ỳ Prophet called euen of the king himselfe, a troubler of the common weale of Israell? Was not Micheas the Prophet accused to be the kings enemye, & a false preacher? Was not Christ himselfe called a glotton, a winnebibber, a frend of publicanes, whores, and sinners, a mad mã a Samaritan, an heretyke, a traytoure, an impastor or deceauer of the people, &c? Was not Iohn Babtist ỳ priestes sonne reported to haue a deuill in him? Was it not layd to S. Stephens charge, that he spake blasphemous wordes agaynst the temple & agaynst the law of Moses? Were not the Apostles of Christ accused to be sowers of sedition, troublers of cõmon weales, destroyers of olde customes, peruerters of all good orders, &c? Was not S. Paule counted to bee a seditious person, a defiler of the temple, a preacher of straunge doctrine, a setter forth of new deuils, a pratler, a mad man, a malefactoure, &c? Was not ỳ holy man Athanasius byshop of Alexandria accused both of whoredome & murther? Tyme should fayle me, if I should go forth to rehearse all those noble, learned, godly and vertuous preachers (as I may speake nothing of the histories of oure time) whose good names & innocent liues ỳ wicked worldlings in al ages most vniustly haue laboured to obscure & deface. If none otherwyse, yet with slaunderous tonges the true preachers of gods worde may be sure to be persecuted in all ages, so ỳ euery one of thẽ had nede to pray with Dauid, & to say: Deliuer my soule, O Lord, from lying lippes, and from a deceatful tonge.

Socrates in Eccles. hist. cap. 38.

Matth. v.

iii. Reg. xviii
iii. Reg. xxii.
mat. xi.
Ioan. viii
Luc. xxiii.
matth. xxviii.
Math. xi.
Act. vi.
Act. 4. 5. 13
14. 16. 17. 19.
21. 22. 23. 24
25. 26. 28.

Psal. 120

Nowe to stoppe the mouthes of these cursed speakers & Antichristiã aduersaries sarles (so much as is possible) it shal be conuenient ẏ al Christen preachers dos trade their life accordyng to the doctrine of godlynesse, ẏ the enemies may haue no iust occasion to blaspheme the truth of Christes Gospell, as thapostle sayth:

Phil. ii. Be ye such, as no mã can complaine on, & vnfayned sonnes of God, without rebuke in the middest of a croked & peruerse nation, among whom se ẏ ye shine as lightes in the world, holding fast the word of life.

The second cause, ẏ ought to moue the preacher of gods word to leade a godly life, is the auoyding of offence, ẏ he be no stombling blocke or cause of falling to the weakelyngs thorow his corrupt or lewde behauour. For such as be yet in firme and weake, & newly planted in the religion of Christ, and haue taken no sure roote in the same, are easly moued, as young setlings, & caryed away, when they see the lyfe of a preacher differ from his doctrine. Thus to offend ẏ weake, I meane, to edifye with worde, & to destroy with worke, is wout doubt a greate fault in a preacher: Merely such a fault as is worthy of great punyshement be-

Math. xviii. fore God, as these words of our Sauiour Christ manifestly declare: Who so offendeth one of these litle ones, which beleue in me, it were better for him, that a millstone were hanged about his necke, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea. Wo vnto the worlde bicause of offences. Necessary it is, ẏ offences come. But wo be vnto that man, by whom the offence commeth. S. Paule euen in matters that are indifferent, ẏ is to say, that may be done or left vndone without offence to God, had rather lose his libertie and abstaine from ẏ which he might lawfully do, then he woulde once offende his weake brother. Are not these his wordes? See that no mã put a stombling blocke, or an occasion to fal,

Rom. xiiii. in his brothers way. For I know, and am full certified by the Lord Jesus, that there is nothing common of it self, but to him ẏ iudgeth it to be cõmon, to him it is common. If thy brother be greued with thy meate, now walkest thou not charitably. Destroye not him with thy meate, for whom Christ died. Cause not your treasure to be euill spoken of: For the kingdome of God is not meate and drinke, but righteousnesse and peace, and ioy in the holy ghost. For he that in these things serueth Christ, pleaseth God, & is commended of men. Let vs therfore follow those things, which make for peace, & thinges wherwith one maye edifye an other. Destroy not the worke of God for a litle meate sake. Al thyngs are pure: but it is euill for that man, which eateth with hurt of conscience. It is good neyther to eate flesche, neyther to drinke wine, neyther any thing, wherewith thy brother stombleth, eyther falleth, or is made weake.

Agayn he sayth: But take hede, least by any meanes thys liberty of yours be

1. Cor. viii. an occasiõ of falling to thẽ ẏ are weake, &c. And so thorow thy knowledge shal ẏ weake brother perysh, for whõ Christ dyed. Whẽ ye sinne so against ẏ brethrẽ, & wouñd theyr weake cõcience, ye synne against Christ. Wherfore if meate hurt my brother I wil neuer eate flesh, least I should offende my brother. The blessed Apostle, which moued euery stone (as they vse to say) to win al mẽ vnto ẏ fayth of Christ, rather chosed to refuse hys libertie in meates & drinks, thẽ he would once offend his weake brother. Howe much more ought ẏ Preacher of ẏ Lords word to abstaine frõ those thyngs, which being directly agaynst ẏ law of God, are prohibited vnto al mẽ vnder payne of euerlasting dãnation, lest by his dissoluciõ of life he ofend his weake brother, & vtterly plucke him by his corrupciõ of mãners frõ ẏ truth of Christs gospel. If he walke not after ẏ order of charitie, if he sinne against Christ, which by abusyng hys libertye in indifferent thyngs, as meates, drinkes, &c, woũdeth ẏ conscience of hys weake brother: is it to be coũted a smal offence, when those things are cõmitted against ẏ lawes of god, nature, & mã against all godlinesse & honesty, against al ciuilitie & publique policie, which offend both ẏ weake and ẏ stronge, & open a windowe vnto al loosenes of life, so ẏ by this meanes men are not edifyed but destroyed, not brought vnto Christ,

1. Cor. x. but remoued from Christ: God haue mercy on vs. See ẏ ye geue none occasion of euill, neyther to ẏ Iewes, not yet to the Gentiles, neither to the congregaciõ of god: euẽ as I please al mẽ in al things, not seking myne owne profite, but the site of many ẏ they might be saued. What soeuer therfore ye do, do al to ẏ prayse of God sayth S. Paule. This sayeng of ẏ Apostle ought to be continually before ẏ eyes of euery true preacher: I so runne, not as at an vncertayn thyng. So fyght I, not as one ẏ beateth ẏ ayer, but I tame my body, bryngyng it into subiection, lest by any meanes it come to passe, ẏ when I haue preached to other, I my self should be a cast awaye. A spirituall Pastor thus fedyng the flocke of Christ both with worde and worke, both with doctrine and life, so that as he teacheth truly, so likewise he lyueth purely, by this meanes stoppyng the mouthes of the aduersaries, and geuing none occasion of euill either to the weake or stronge Christians, but rather alluryng with his teaching and manners all men, so much as in him is, vnto the Gospel of Christ, sheweth him selfe a faithful seruaunt, and fulfilleth this commaundement of the noble man: Occupye till I come. i. Cor. ix

pro-

The thyrde kynde of fedyng Christes flocke, is with hospitalitie, or prouision makyng for the poore. As it is the dutie of a true and godly Pastor to fede the soules of Christes shepe with the moste wholesome pastures of Gods worde, and to frame hys lyfe accordyng to the same worde vnto the good example of other: so likewise is it his office, if he be of habilitie, to fede the bodies of Christes shepe with corporall sustenaunce and bodily foode. For as the shepe of Christe are made of two partes, that is to saye, of bodye and soule: so ought prouision by the spirituall Pastor to be made for them both. If the flocke of Christe had soules onely, so myght the spirituall foode, whiche is the worde of God, abundantly seme to suffice. But for as muche as they haue bodyes also, bodely foode is also required, that the Preacher maye be founde a perfecte Pastor, that is to saye, an whole and full feder of Christes congregacion both in bodye & soule. And this is signified, say some, by the third Pasce when Christ sayd, Pasce, Pasce, Pasce: Fede, Fede, Fede. Of Hospitalitie.

In the olde law God appoynted large tythes & liberall oblacions to be geuē to the Priestes, not onely that suche as serued in the ministerye shoulde lyue of them, they, their Wyues, their Children, and Familye, but also that of suche abundance the Priestes shoulde be able to healpe and succour the poore, and such as wer in necessitie: which thyng God playnly setteth forth in these wordes by the Prophete: Bryng in (sayth he) euery tythe into my barne, that there maye be meate in my house. Here is a commaundement geuen of God, that all tithes shoulde be brought into his barne, yea and that vnto this ende, that there myght be meate in hys house. What this his house is, it is easye to vnderstand. Verely the house of a spirituall Pastor, whether he be Bysshoppe, Person, Vicare, Archedeacon, Deane, Prebendarye, or anye other ghostly Ministier. God wolde haue all tythes brought into their barnes, not that they shoulde be vnfruitfully spent in noble mennes seruices, or at the vniuersities, or beyonde the Seas, or vpon Bawdes, Whores, Dogges, Hawkes, idle and lasye lubbers, sumptuous apparell, costly buyldynges, delicate fare, &c. or in enrichyng their wyues, children, kynsfolke, frendes, &c. or in purchasyng landes and Lordshyps for their owne commoditie and profite, for their owne lucre and gayne, but that there myght be meate in their houses, that is to saye, that they myght be the more able to succour and comforte the poore, the afflicted people of God, the hungrye, the naked, the harbourlesse, the wayefaryng man, &c. so that who soeuer lacke foode either for body, or for soule, the same should repaire to the Priestes or Pastors house, as we haue an exāple in Dauid & in the that were with him, whiche when they were hongry, & had not to eate, repayred vnto the house of Ahimelech ẏ Priest, which gaue the to eat. Like wise rede we of Elizeus ẏ Prophet, which, so sone as he was called vnto ẏ ministery, preached not only ẏ worde of God, but also prepared meat for ẏ people, & gaue thē to eat. Againe, whē there was a great dearth in ẏ cōtrey, he fedde ẏ children of ẏ Prophetes wt many other people, so that they wanted not, but had abundance of all thynges. Christ that hye Bysshop and chiefe Pastor wylyng to leaue behynde hym to all true and faithful shepheardes a lyuely myrrour & cleare glasse, wherin they may vnder-

Malach. iii

i. Reg. xxi
Matth. xii
Marc. ii
Luc. vi
iii. Reg. xix iiii. Reg. iiii nedly beholde and learne the office and dutie of a godly Paſtor (I meane by owne lyfe faithfully deſcribed and ſet forth vnto vs in writing by the foure Eu-geliſtes) in the tyme of his miniſterye here in earth, dyd not only fede the flocke of his heauenly father with moſte pure doctrine and vertuous example of godly lyfe, but he alſo wyllyng to ſhewe hym ſelfe a perfecte Paſtor and faythfull feder of his fathers ſhepe fedde them as in the ſoule, with the worde: ſo likewiſe Matth.14.15. in body with corporall ſuſtenaunce. How many thouſandes fedde he at diuerſe Marc.vi.viii tymes with bodily foode, whiche otherwiſe ſhoulde haue peryſhed? To declare Luc.ix. by this his acte, that greate liberalitie ought to ſhyne in ſpirituall Paſtores to-Ioan.vi warde the poore, and not nyggardly, grutching and vnwyllyng almoſſe, for as ii.Cor.ix muche as God loueth a cherefull geuer. If all the actes, whiche Chriſte dyd in his lyfe tyme here in this worlde, are to be followed of a godly Miniſter: verely this acte of releuyng the poore ought moſte cheifly to be practiſed of hym, yea and that ſo muche the more becauſe that he in his miniſterye repreſenteth the perſon of Chriſte. I haue geuen you an example (ſayeth Chriſte) that as I haue done, ſo likewiſe ye ſhould do.

And as Chriſte the Lorde and maſter was at all tymes liberall in prouidyng for the poore, and for ſuche as were in neceſſitie: ſo lykewiſe dyd his Apoſtles after hys departure practiſe the ſame liberalitie and redy healpe towarde the poore of their tyme. Suche prouiſion thorowe their godly exhortacions and charitable counceis was made for the nedye Chriſtianes that no man wanted. Di-Act. iii. ſtribucion was made vnto euery man accordyng as he had nede. Moreouer that Act.iiii the Apoſtles myght the more freely geue themſelues to prayer and to the preachyng of the worde, they appoynted certayne Deacons to attend vpon the poore, to ſee that they lacked no good thyng: where we maye eaſly learne, that
The office of an Archdeacon or Deacon. the office of Deacons or Archedecons is: verely to make prouiſion for the neceſ-ſities of the faithfull, and to haue a diligent eye to the poore, that all thynges Rom.xii. neceſſarye be miniſtred vnto them, as Thapoſtle ſayeth: diſtribute to the neceſſitie of the Sainctes. And vnto this ende is the Archedeacon called Oculus Epi-ſcopi, that is to ſaye, the Byſhoppes eye, that while the Byſhppe is occuppyed at home in prayer and doctrine, he ſhoulde diligently ouerſee the Byſhoppes dioceſſe, and conſider in what ſtate the poore people are, and what prouiſion is to be made for them: and aboue all thynges aforeſee that they lacke nothyng, but that all good thynges be miniſtred vnto them, eyther by collections made for ii.Cor.viii. thē, as the Apoſtle appointeth, or by the liberalitie of ỳ Byſhop and of the ritche of the ſame dioceſſe, or otherwiſe.

Act.xi.xxiiii Lykewiſe rede we of bleſſed Sainct Paule, whiche beyng called vnto the mi-Rom.xv niſterye, laboured not onely in the worde, but alſo in prouiſion makyng for the i.Cor.xvi poore. Howe greate hys diligence was in this behalfe, both hys owne Epiſtles, ii.Cor.viii.ix and the Chronicle of the Apoſtles actes do manifeſtly declare. Beſides his colle-Galat.ii ctions made for the poore, he hym ſelfe alſo with his owne handes laboured Act.xx. both day and nyght, that he might haue wherof the more liberally to geue to i.Cor.ix the poore and nedye brethren. He exhorteth alſo other to do the ſame: ſo carefull ii.Theſſ.iii was he to prouide for the poore Chriſtianes, ỳ they myght lacke no good thing, ii.Cor.xi. as he ſayeth: I am combred dayly, and do care for all congregacions.

And as Chriſte and his Apoſtles were diligent at all times to prouide for the poore: ſo likewiſe were the reuerend Byſhoppes and godly Miniſters after the time of the Apoſtles, as we haue Spiridion, Athatius, Cyrillus, Eruperius, Am-broſius, Auguſtinus, Baſilius, Gregory the greate, Sixtus, Laurence, &c. for example. Yea many of the godly fathers were ſo ſtudious for the poore, that they ſpent not onely vpon them the goodes of the Churche, but alſo their owne pa-trimonie. And yͤ that coulde not ſerue, they laboured with their owne hādes, Act. xx that by this meanes they might ſupply that whiche lacked, according to the ex-
ii. Theſ. iii ample of S. Paule. They bydd not men to kepe ỳ poore out of their gates, but Gene.18.19 they appointed men to ſtande before their gates, after the example of Abraham and Lot, to call the poore into their houſes; neither fedde they the poore with the fragmentes that came from their tables, but with the beſt meat and drinche

that

that was in their houses, beyng persuaded that what soeuer liberalitie and louyng kyndenesse they shewed to the poore Christianes, it was so acceptable and thanckefull to Christe, as thoughe it had bene done to hym selfe, accordyng to these hys wordes: What soeuer ye haue done vnto one of the leaste of these my brethren, ye haue done it vnto me. All their glorye was in hospitalitie, accordyng to thys sayeng of Saincte Jerome: The glorye of a Bysshoppe is, to prouide for the poore. But the ignominie of all Priestes is, to looke for their owne gayne and profite. Their doores were neuer shutte to the poore, but alwayes open with hartely welcome. They buylte ample and large houses, that they myght be able to contayne and holde the poore that came vnto them. And those their houses were not placed in wildernesse or secret corners, where fewe came, but in greate Cities whether all menne resort. Neither were their houses buylt there in backe lanes, or out of the waye, but in the moste notable parte of the Citie, euen nerte vnto the most famous Temple, that the poore beholdyng the hye steple (whiche is the poore mannes signe) myght knowe, where the Pastor or feder dwelt, where meate and drynck, and all other necessaries were to be had. And as the godly Fathers the Bysshoppes in those dayes tendered the poore Christianes, and dyd all thynges that myght turne to their commoditie, accordyng this commaundement of the Apostle: Let no man seke his owne profite, but the commoditie of other: so lykewyse dyd they appoynte suche Ministers and Pastores vnder them, as were tender louers of the poore, and appoynted their houses to be buylt nye vnto the Churches, that the poore people beholdyng the steple, whiche is the poore mannes signe, as I sayde before, myghte knowe where to be relieued. Pastores were then resident vpon their benefices, attendyng diligently vpon their flocke, and makyng dayly prouision for the poore, accordyng to this cõmaundement of God: Breake thy bread to ỹ hungry, &c. Neither wer they thẽ troubled wt many benefices (as the mãners now a dates is) but they were content wt one, which one in those dayes was sufficient both for thẽ & for their familie & also for the conuenient releefe of the poore, beyng farre vnlyke our three halfe penye benefices, whereof seuen or eight beyng put together will scasely furnishe the Pastor with such conuenient expenses for him, his familie, and the poore, as one benefice dyd in those dayes, so greatly hath blynde superstition and folishe deuotion encreased the nomber of Parishe Churches.

matth. xxv

De Vita Clericorum.

Phil. ii.

Esa. lviii.

Moreouer in the description of a Bysshoppe, where are mencioned the godly qualities, that ought to be in a spirituall ouersear, the holye Apostle sayeth, not onely that he ought to be a manne of a blamelesse lyfe, and suche one as is apte to teache, but also a mayntayner of hospitalitie: declaryng hereby, that in an herdman of the Lordes flocke is required an vnrebukeable conuersacion, an aptenesse to teache, and a relieuyng of the poore: so that these three thynges ought to concurre and be together in a spirituall shepheardc, in so muche that that Pastor maye iustly be counted an vnperfecte and mangled Pastor, that wanteth anye of these three properties. The spirituall ouersears are called in the holye Scripture Pastores, that is to saye, Feders, that as with doctrine, so lykewise with corporall foode they shoulde kede the shepe of Christe. Hospitalitie is commaunded all menne, that are able, in the worde of God without exception: and is it to be thought, that the Ministers of the Lordes worde, whiche ought to geue example of all goodnesse and godlynesse to other, are free from this commaundement? All riche menne that haue goten the goodes of the worlde either by their owne labour, wysedome and polecie, or elles they haue chaunced vnto them by enheritaunce, are bounde vnder payne of euerlasting damnacion to relieue the poore: & shal they leaue the poore people socourlesse, whiche haue their goodes brought vnto thẽ without their own labour & trauayle? Other mẽ geue of their own: & shal not ỹ spirituall ouersears geue vnto ỹ poore people, ỹ which they haue receaued to be distributed to other? Christ sayth: Geue to euery one ỹ axeth thee: & shall the ghostly Pastor turne away his eare frõ the poore, so that he shall not relieue him? Jesus the sonne of Syrach sayth: Let not thy hande be

Rom. xii. i. Pet. iii. Heb. xiii.

Matth. xxv

matth. v Luc. vi

stretchedout to receaue, and shutte when thou shouldest geue. Ought not the Eccles.iiii. spirituall feder to be as well mynded to geue as to receaue? All receaue gladly:
ought not all to distribute also gladly? What rusticall shepheard is he, or what herdman of the fielde, whiche wyllyngly suffereth hys shepe to starue for hunger, yea rather whiche seaketh not all meanes possible to fynde out good and 1.Pet.5 wholesome pasture where hys shepe maye fede and waxe lustye and fatte? And shall the herdman of the Lordes flocke so neglecte the shepe of Christe, redemed and bought not with corruptible Siluer and Golde, but with the pretcious bloude of that vndefyled Lambe of God, that they shall perishe for hunger, or lacke any good thyng, wherewith he is able to relieue them? A Preа-cher of the Lordes worde is bounde to do good vnto all menne, not onelye to suche as be of the houshoolde of fayth, but also to Turckes, Iewes, Saracens, and suche other miscreantes: and shall he not regarde them, whiche principally and before all other are committed to hys cure and charge? Bare, naked, and vnhanged walles bryng not suche and so greate deformitie to a spirituall ☞ Pastors house, as the lacke of hospitalitie doth. Hospitalitie is the same to a Preacher of Gods worde, that a crowne of Golde is to a kyng, greene flourishyng leaues to a tree, swete and pleasaunte floures to a garden, hair to the head, syght to the eye, &c. And would GOD, would GOD, all spirituall ouersears were as diligent to make prouision for the bodyes of the poore Christianes, whiche are the Temples of the holye Ghost, as they are to pro-uide that their owne houses, wherein theyr mortall and corruptible bodyes for a shorte tyme dwell, be adourned, decked, garnyshed, trymmed and set forth with all costly and goodly araye, in so muche that it maye not here vniustlye be recited, that a certayne manne writeth: Bysshoppes, sayeth he, builde houses Hugo de claus stro animæ. Lib.i. cap.i. in byggenesse not vnlyke to Churches. They haue a greate delyght to haue theyr chambers paynted and set out with moste goodly and precious coloures, and hanged with riche and costly clothes: but the poore manne goeth naked and standeth before the gate with an emptye belye, moste miserably cryeng, & as I may truly saye, the poore are many times spoyled and robbed, that stones and stockes maye be garnyshed. They garnyshe their halles with greate and mygbtye pillers: they set lodges before their doores, but would GOD, they were made to receaue and not to decreaue the poore.

The holye Fathers coulde not abyde, that the Temples and Oratories of the Christianes shoulde be garnyshed with costlye araye, and the poore lacke.
Are not these the wordes of Sainct Hierome? Let other buylde Churches, hang walles, make greate pillers, and gylde the toppes of them, and decke altares with Golde and precious stones. But be thou of an other mynde, I meane, to clothe Christe in the poore, to fede hym in the hungrye, to visite hym in the sycke, to receaue hym in them that want lodgyng, specially in them that are of the houshoolde of faith. Sainct Bernarde lykewise sayeth, O vanitie passyng all vanities, and yet not more vayne than madde. The Churche shyneth in the walles, and lacketh in the poore. It garnysheth her stones with Golde, and leaueth her children naked. That whiche shoulde be spent vpon the poore, is bestowed to please the eyes of the riche.

Verely there is not so greate an ornament to a spirituall Pastor, of what soeuer degree he be, as hospitalitie and prouision makyng for the poore and ne-Heb. xiii dye members of Christe. For thereby as the Apostle sayeth, haue diuerse menne lodged Aungelles vnwares. To relieue the poore the holye Fathers in tymes paste gladly solde alwaye (when nede required) what soeuer precious thynges they had in the Temples. They wyshed rather the stonye Temples to want theyr furniture, than the Temples of the holye Ghost shoulde want their necessarye prouision. The Churche hath Golde, sayeth Sainct Ambrose, not to hoorde it vp and to kepe it in store, but to laye it out and to bestowe it vpon the poore. Agaynste all suche as wyshe rather the dead Temples, than the lyuyng Temples of God to be enryched, maye thys sayeng of the Poet not vniustlye be alleged.

Dicite

Dicite Pontifices in sacro quid facit aurum.
Nempe hoc quod veneri donata a virgine puppa.

Temples, Palaces, Personages, Vicarages, houses of Deanes, Prebendaryes, Archedeacones, &c. ought rather to want their apparell, then the houses wherein God by his holy spirite dwelleth, shoulde want their iuste and necessarye furniture. Hospitalitie was so greatlye regarded in tymes paste amonge the Fathers of Christes Churche, that if any spirituall Pastore, that were of habilitie dyd not nourishe and socoure the poore, it was counted a sufficient cause, to depriue hym of his spirituall promotions. Neyther dyd they feare to put this thynge in execution. For we rede that a certayne Byshoppe was deprined at Antioche because of hys tenacitie and nyggardynesse, and an other set vp in hys place called Rusticus, a manne not greatlye learned, but liberall towarde the poore, and a greate mayntayner of hospitalitie. Saincte Hierome sayeth: What soeuer the Clerkes haue (he meaneth the Byshoppes, and Ministers of Christes Churche) that is the poores: and their houses ought to be commune to all menne, and they ought to applye them selues vnto the receauyng and entertaynyng of Pilgrimes and straungers. Note well. Dist. 85. Cap. Archidiaconũ Quest. 1. ca. Quoniam.

And in the Popes lawe it is thus founde wrytten: hospitalitie is so necessarye for Byshoppes, that if they be founde to be no mayntayners thereof, they maye lawfully be deposed. Agayne, A Byshoppe to the vttermoste of his power ought to Minister to the poore, and to the sicke, whiche thorowe weakenesse are not able to labour with their owne handes, meate, drynck, and clothe. Also in an other place: A Byshoppe shoulde haue a liberall hande. He shoulde healpe them that are in nede, and thynche other mennes necessitie to be hys owne necessitie. If he be not thus affected and mynded, he beareth the name of a Byshoppe in vayne. There be also diuerse auncient Canons and Councelles both generall and nationall, made in tymes paste by diuerse auncient, godlye and learned Fathers, whiche straightlye charge and commaunde, Byshoppes and other spirituall Pastores to mayntayne hospitalitie, to receaue the poore into their houses, to shutte out no man that hath nede, to bestowe the goodes of the Churche vpon Prisonners, Captiues, poore Wydowes, Fatherlesse children, Scholers, &c: and not vnfruitfully to consume them vpon Hawkes, Dogges, Horses, idle and vnprofitable seruauntes, &c. And Saincte Gregory appoynteth, that the goodes of the Churche shoulde be diuided into foure partes. One to the Byshoppe and to his familie for the mayntenaunce of hospitalitie and relief of the poore. The seconde, to the Clergye, that is to saye, to the Ministers, Deacons and Scholers. The thyrde, to the poore. The fourth, to the reparyng of the Temples. Here see we, that the third part of the Ecclesiasticall goodes is appoynted vnto the prouision of the poore. We see here also, that the fyrste and chefest part, whiche ought to be the best and largest, is appoynted to Byshoppes for the mayntenaunce of hospitalitie and reliefe of the poore. For albeit that hospitalitie is required in all spirituall Ministers, yet in Byshoppes cheifly. A Byshoppes house without hospitalitie, is as a tauerne without wyne. Their great courtes, their large houses, their wyde haulles, their longe & many tables, their greate yearely reuenewes, do euidently declare, what hospitalitie ought to be mayntayned of Byshops. Nowe to abuse these goodes, whiche are committed vnto them, not to hoorde vp, but to distribute, not to enriche them selues, but to relieue other and to bestowe them otherwise, then the good will of God is, and the auncient Churche of Christ hath appointed, is it a small offence? Saincte Hierome sayeth: It is a poynt of sacrilege, not to gene vnto the poore the thynges ꝑ appertayne vnto the poore. Agayne he sayeth: So many as with the goodes of the Churche satisfie their owne pleasure, are lyke to the Pharisees, whyche gaue money to ꝑ kepers of Christes sepulchre, to oppresse the glory of God. And Urbã Bishop of Rome sayth, ꝑ the goodes of ꝑ Churche ought not to be turned vnto any other vses, thẽ vnto Ecclesiastical vses & the cõmoditie of ꝑ poore. For they are, saith he, ꝑ oblacions of ꝑ faithfull, & ꝑ patrimonie of ꝑ poore, geuẽ vnto Dist. 81. ca. Episcopus. Dist. 86. ca. Fratrem. 11. q. 2. Can. Quatuor. Ad Pãmach. In Matth. cap. 28.

the Lord for this purpose: If any man therfore (whiche God forbid) bestoweth them otherwise, let him takeheede, that he falleth not into the dānation of Ananias and Saphira, & be proued giltie of sacrilege. S. Bernarde sayth, ỹ those spirituall ministers, whiche are not content with ỹ liuing, whiche is sufficient, but vngodly & wickedly moreouer retayne ỹ vnto them selues for the maintenaunce of their owne pompe and delicate fare, whiche ought to be bestowed vpon the poore, synne greuously two manner of wayes. Firste, in that they robbe the poore of their goods. Secondly in that they abuse holy thinges vnto the satisfyeng of their vanities and filthy pleasures. Hereto agreeth Cæsarius, sayeng: Forasmuche as not only the tentes are not ours, but are appoynted for the reliefe of the congregacions, but also what soeuer we receaue more of God, then we haue nede of: that altogether ought we to bestowe vpon the poore. If we reserue that for our owne lustes, or vanities, whiche is appointed for the poore: looke how many people dye eyther for honger, or for want of clothes in al those places where we dwell, let vs be well assured, that at the daye of iudgement we shall render an accomptes for the lyues of them all. This is to hyll a manne, sayeth Sainct Ambrose, to denye him the thinges, that shoulde preserue his lyfe. Take hede ỹ thou do not shut the health of the nedy within thy coffers, and as in graues burye the lyfe of the poore. So sayeth the wiseman: The bread of the nedye is the lyfe of the poore: he that defraudeth hym of it, is a murderer. He is a verye theefe and robber, sayeth Basilius Magnus, whiche maketh that thing his owne, that he hath receaued to distribute and to geue abrode. For the breade, sayeth he, whiche thou retaynest and kepest, is the bread of the hongrye: the garment, whiche thou kepest in thy cheaste, is the garment of the naked: the shooe, that is moulde with thee, is the shooe of him that is vnshood: and the money, whiche thou hydest in the grounde, is the money of the nedye. Moreouer thou doest iniurie and playne wrong to so many as thou forsakest, when thou arte able to healpe them.

In Cantica, Sermo. 23.

Cæsarius in ad monitione.

Ambros. in Psal. cxix

Eccles. xxxiiii Serm. in diuites auaros.

Thus see we, howe necessarily hospitalitie and prouision makyng for the poore is required in a spirituall Pastore, and howe daungerous and perillous a thing it is to abuse the Churche goodes, and to transferre and turne them vnto any other vse, then they be appoynted for. Verely it is so necessary, that without it a Bysshoppe or any other spirituall Officer is counted an vnperfecte and vnsufficient feder of Christes flocke. And verely though there be many causes (as we haue tofore hearde,) that iustly ought to moue the Ecclesiasticall Ministers to be liberall in hospitalitie and prouision for the poore, and specially in these our dayes, and in this our realme: yet are there two cheifly, I meane, the stoppyng of the aduersaries mouthes, and the wynnyng of the weakelynges vnto the Gospell of Christe. When the aduersaries consider the state of the Churche, and howe greatly enriched and endowed with worldly possessions it is, and compare the hospitalitie of our men with the hospitalitie of their predecessoures, whiche were in the tyme of darkenesse, they straightwayes yell and crye out: Wordes they haue plentie: but where are their workes? Other they exhorte vnto mercifull liberalitie and liberall mercie vnto the poore: but where is their mercie, their liberalitie. They greatlye in their sermons commende hospitalitie, but where is their hospitalitie and frendlye entertaynement of the poore, whiche was in their predecessoures? Where is either meate, drincke, clothe, or money for the poore? The poore maye dye for honger in the stretes: so litle or rather nothyng is geuen to them at their gates, whiche moste cheifly ought to make prouision for the poore, yea whiche haue the poore mens goodes in their handes. What soeuer their predecessoures coulde get, they bestowed it in hospitalitie and releuyng of the poore. But nowe a dayes what soeuer our menne haue, they thyncke all to lytle for them selues and for theirs, so with no care are they ledde towarde the poore. Ought not these aduersaries mouthes to be stopped? Ought not suche liberalitie appeare in the Ecclesiasticall Ministers towarde the indigent and nedye, that the aduersaries should

ſhould haue none occaſion, to ſpeake euil of them, or of their miniſtery: Sainct Paul would not vſe his libertie in thoſe thinges, which he myght lawfully haue taken & enioyed, becauſe he would not hynder the Goſpel of Chriſt. It were better for me to dye (ſaith he) then ẏ any man ſhould take away this reioyſing from me. Verely nothing is to be left vnattempted of Euãgelicall Paſtor, ẏ may further the Goſpell, ſo farre is it of ẏ thorow his vnliberall holdyng faſt & merciles behauiour towarde the poore he ought to hinder the proſperous progreſſe of the Goſpell. If Thapoſtle refuſed to take thoſe thinges whiche the lawe of God frely gaue him, becauſe he would geue none occaſion to ẏ calũniatour to ſpeake euill: ought not our Paſtores at this preſent in ſo great miſery and neceſſitie of the poore, liberally and wyllingly, to depart from ſome portion of ſuch thynges as be geuẽ vnto them to diſtribut, ẏ by this meanes they maye ſtop the mouthes of the aduerſaries: hauing foode & clothing, ſayth S. Paul, let vs be contẽt. For we brought nothing into the worlde, neither ſhall we cary any thing out of it. i. Timoth. vi

Agayne, when ſuch as are yet weake in knowledge of Chriſt and of his holy Goſpel heare ẏ hoſpitalitie is required in a ſpirituall Paſtor, and ſee nothyng in the Preachers but wynde & words, & no conſideracion of the poore, nor regarde of the nedye, but rather gredy gryping, careful couetouſneſſe, and hongry hoordyng vp of worldly goodes, contrary both to their doctrine and profeſſion: then take they ſmall courage to go forewarde in the Goſpell, yea they are rather diſcouraged and plucked away from the Goſpell, wyſhyng rather to remayne and continewe in ẏ doctrine which is full of outwarde good workes, then in that learnyng, whiche is onely full of good wordes. But cõtrarywiſe, if they ſee in the Preachers a redy & gredy affection & feruent ſtudie to healpe ẏ poore, to maintayne hoſpitalitie, to relieue the nedie, to ſuccour all men ẏ are in neceſſitie, to the vttermoſt of their power, ſekyng rather ẏ commoditie of other, then their owne priuate lucre & ſingular auauntage: they with embracing armes receaue the Goſpel, delight in the Goſpel, and are mightely confirmed in doctrine of the ſame. For what moued ſo many and ſo great multitudes of people to adioyne them ſelues in the begynnyng of Chriſtes Churche to the Chriſten congregacion, but the mutuall loue, hartye frendſhyppe, vnfayned amitie, perfecte vnitie of myndes in all godlyneſſe, gladde and redy proviſion for ẏ poore, equall diſtribucion of temporall thinges accordyng to euery mans neceſſitie, generall care for all men, & ſuch other fruites of Chriſten charitie, which they ſaw vnfaynedly to floriſhe among them ẏ profeſſed Chriſt? This redy diſpoſicion and bent good will to do good to other ought to ſhyne in all men, but ſpecially in ẏ Prelates and Paſtors of Chriſtes Churche, whiche by their vocacion and office are bounde not only to beſtow ſome honeſt portion of their liuing vpon the poore, but alſo to geue their liues for the flocke of Chriſt, as Chriſte him ſelfe ſayeth: A good ſhepheard geueth his life for his ſhepe. And S. Iohn ſayth: hereby perceaue we loue, becauſe he (Chriſt) gaue his life for vs: & we ought to geue our liues for ẏ brethrẽ. But who ſo hath this worlds good & ſeth his brother haue nede, & ſhutteth vp his cõpaſſion from him: how dwelleth the loue of God in hym? My babes, let vs not loue in worde, neyther in tonge, but in worke and truth. Certes he that doth nothing but rake and take, cratche and ſnatche, kepe and ſwepe all that he can get, & beſtoweth nothing vpõ the nedie, is rather an hyreling and a wolfe, thẽ a ſhepheard or feder: which euill diſpoſicion when ẏ weake Chriſtiãs, beholde and ſee in our Paſtoures: they are rather diſſuaded then perſuaded to receaue the pure doctrine of Chriſt. It ſhall therfore be conuenient, that all ſpirituall Paſtors, euery one accordyng to the bleſſyng that he hath receaued of God, as with ſpirituall foode, whiche is the worde of GOD and vertuous example of lyfe: ſo lykewyſe with corporall ſuſtenaunce to fede and relieue the nedye and poore flocke of Chriſte, that they maye be Paſtores, that is to ſaye, feders both in worde and worke, both ſpiritually and corporally. And that the godly Paſtors may be the more able to do this moſte worthy and commendable acte, that is to ſaye, to mayntayne hoſpitalitie, to receaue the poore afflicted Sainctes into their houſes, to relieue the nedie, to redeme ẏ godly priſonners,

Ioan. x.

i. Ioan. iii

Weake lynges

to comforte them that are in neceſſitie, &c. it is the dutie of all men whom God Eſa.xlix hath bleſſed with worldly ſuſtaunce, but namely Kynges and Quenes, and other noble perſonages, whom the holy ſcripture tearmeth, the Nurſes of Gods congregacion, not wickedly and vniuſtly like Julianus Apoſtata to pluck from the Churche what ſoeuer by any meanes may be goten, but bounteouſly & liberally after the manner of the noble and godly Emperoures, Conſtantinus Magnus, Theodoſius, Valens, Iuſtinianus, &c, to enriche and endowe the Churche with honorable and large giftes, that their bleſſing beyng plenteous, both the Min-ſters of the Lordes worde and the poore of the Chriſten congregacion, maye be not nyggardly and ſparingly, but liberally and frankly prouided for and ſuſtai ned, that by this meanes the bleſſing of God may be the more large and bounte
i.Cor.ix ous toward thē againe, as it is written: If we ſowe vnto you ſpiritual thinges, is it a great thing, if we reape your bodely things? If other be partakers of this power ouer you, wherfore are not we rather? &c. Do ye not knowe, howe ỹ they which minifter about holy thinges, liue of ỹ ſacrifice? They which wayt of the temple, are partakers of the tēple. Euen ſo alſo did the Lorde ordayne, that they Galat. vi which preach the Goſpell, ſhuld liue of the Goſpell. Alſo in an other place: Let him that is taught in the worde, minifter vnto him that teacheth him in all good thynges. Be not deceaued. God is not mocked. For what ſoeuer a manne ſoweth, that ſhall he alſo reape. For he that ſoweth in the fleſhe, ſhall of the fleſhe reape corrupcion. But he that ſoweth in the ſpirite, ſhall of the ſpirite reape lyfe euerlaſtyng. Let vs not be wearye of well doyng. For when the time is come, we ſhall reape without wearyneſſe. Whyles we haue therefore tyme, let vs do good vnto all men, and ſpecially vnto them, which are of the houſeii.Cor.ix holde of fayth. Item, He which ſoweth lytle, ſhall reape lytle. And he that ſoweth (in geuyng) largely and freely, ſhall reape plenteouſly. And let euery manne do accordyng as he hath purpoſed in his hearte, not grudgyngly or of neceſſitie. For God loueth a cherefull geuer. God is able to make you ryche in all grace, ỹ ye in all thinges hauing ſufficient vnto the vttermoſt, may be ritche vnto all manner of good workes, as it is written, he hath ſparſed abrode, and hath geuen to the poore: his righteouſneſſe remayneth for euer.

And the Miniſters of the Lordes worde plenteouſly diſtributyng what ſoeuer is rychely deliuered vnto them, or prouided afore hande by our Elders, that not only they thē ſelues may haue their double honoure that is due vnto them, but alſo haue what liberally to diſtribute to the neceſſitie of the Sainctes, ſhall both garnyſhe the miniſterye with this their faithfull diſtribucion, ſet forth the glorye of God, relieue ſuche as are in nede, ſtoppe the mouthes of the ad-uerſaries, wynne other to the doctrine of Chriſte, and alſo get vnto them ſelues a good name and commendable reporte with all men, leaue a worthy memorye of their well doyng vnto their poſteritie, and at the greate day, for as much as they haue faythfully accompliſhed this commaundement of their Lorde and Luk.xix Maſter, Occupye tyll I come: they ſhall receaue an immortall rewarde, euen an matth.xxv vncorruptible crowne of glorye, hearyng theſe moſt ioyfull and comfortable worde ſpoken vnto them: Well, thou good and faythfull ſeruaunte, for as much as thou haſt bene faithfull ouer fewe things, I will make thee ruler ouer many thyngs: Enter into the ioye of thy Lord. And as Daniel ſayth: The wyſe Dani.xii (ſuche as haue taught other) ſhall glyſter as the ſhynyng of heauen: and thoſe that haue inſtructed the multitude vnto godlyneſſe, ſhal be as the ſtarres world without ende.

I therefore (moſt reuerend fathers and my ſingulare good Lordes) hauyng continually this commaundement of our Lord and maſter before myne eyes, Occupye till I come: haue done myne endeuour theſe xxvi. yeares (ſo longe haue I tra uayled in the miniſterye) both by preaching and writyng, beſides my other ex-erciſes, accordyng vnto the grace geuen me of God in this behalfe, to ſhewe my ſelfe not altogether vnprofitable in this my vocacion & calling. My talēt, I frely confeſſe, ỹ is committed vnto me, is litle, ſlender & baſe, & not to be cōpared with the giftes of many our brethren in theſe our dayes, whoſe ſingular knowledge

and

and great learning I ſingularly and greatly reuerence, prayſe, & magnifie: and therefore in all my ſermons & writings I haue not attempted matters of hygh knowledge & farre remoued frō the common ſenſe & capacitie of the people, but I haue bene content at all times to handle ſuch matters, as might rather edifye the brethren, then to driue them into an admiration or ſtupare at ẏ doctrine of ſo rare, vnwonted, high, and vnſearcheable myſteries, and as might moſt make vnto ẏ auancement of vertue, and vnto the repreſſion of vice, alwayes hauyng before myne eyes this ſaying of the Pſalmographe: I do not exerciſe my ſelfe in great maters, or in ſuch things, as are to high for me, according to ẏ commaundement of the wyſe man, which ſayth: Seke not out the thyngs, ẏ are aboue thy capacitie, and ſearch not the ground of ſuch thyngs as are to mightye for thee: but loke what god hath commaunded thee, thinke vpon that alway, and be not curious in many of his workes. Pſal. 131 Eccleſ. iii.

The ſumme of the authors doctrine.

To teach ẏ people to knowe themſelues and theyr ſaluacion in the bloud of Chriſt thorow fayth, & to walke worthy ẏ kindneſſe of god, leading a lyfe agreeable to the ſame, hath only bene the ſtoppe & marke, wher eunto I haue directed all my ſtudyes and trauayles both in preaching & in writing. I haue ſought in al my doings to offend none, but to pleaſe ẏ godly. And therfore haue I euer vſed a temporate, moderate, and quiet kynde both of preaching and of writing, ẏ by thys meanes I might winne ſome, and looſe as fewe as I might. Notwithſtanding (moſt reuerend fathers) ẏ chaunced not in all poyntes which I ſought, as Sathan is alwayes contrary to all well doings, and laboureth vnto ẏ vttermoſt of his power both by hymſelf and by hys miniſters, which chaunge themſelues into Angels of light, and faſhiō themſelues as though they were the miniſters of ryghteouſneſſe, to hynder and let what ſoeuer is entended to auance ẏ glory of God, and to encreaſe the number of ẏ faythfull, knowing ẏ his kingdome is in no poynt ſo defaced, as in ſetting forth the true doctrine of our ſaluacion in the death of Chriſt. For certayne mē (whoſe names I here paſſe ouer wt ſilence, committing the whole cauſe to hym ẏ iudgeth ryghteouſly, whiche alſo kepeth the truth agaynſt an other day, & will helpe them ẏ ſuffer wrong) which by theyr vocacion ought to haue encouraged and maintayned me in my vertuous ſtudyes and godly trauayles, ſought al meanes poſſible after long impriſōment and vngentle handling to deface both me and my doctrine, not only by open proclamacions condemning and burning my bokes, but alſo the bookes of many learned men here in thys Realme of England, and alſo ẏ workes of the beſt and greateſt learned men ẏ are beyond the ſeas. And although ẏ vniuſt condemnacion of my bokes by publique authoritie at the pleaſure of a fewe, which then alone ſemed to rule the roſte, dyd not a litle greue me: yet foraſmuch as I had ẏ fellowſhip of other men in thys behalfe, whiche farre excelled me both in wyſedome, knowledge, and learning, it dyd ſomwhat comfort me, yet Notwithſtanding greatly lamentyng the malicious and obſtinate blyndneſſe of our malicious and obſtinate aduerſaryes, which contrarye to theyr knowledge, & contrarye to theyr owne conſcience condemned thoſe thynges in our bokes, which they them ſelues moſt certaynly knewe to be true, and agreable to the worde of God, yea and dayly prayed for theyr conuerſion, if ẏ God at any time would geue them repentaunce for to know the truth, and ẏ they myght come to themſelues agayne out of the ſnares of the deuil, which were holden captiue of hym at hys will, and ſo at the laſt become ſaued. The fault ẏ they founde with vs or with our bokes, was no fault in dede, but a very quarellpicking, as theyr manner is. They will be counted alone to be wiſe, alone to haue the knowledge and vnderſtanding of all thyngs both prophane & diuine. What ſoeuer they bring forth alth ough neuer ſo prodigious and monſtrelyke, they wonder at, extoll, commend, prayſe & magnifye, and count it as an oracle of Apollo, yea as a voyce commyng downe from heauen, ſo blinded are they with ſelfe loue, being of the number of them, whiche ſtrayne out a gnat, and ſwalowe in a Camell. But what ſoeuer other with greate labours and payne trauayle and bryng forth ẏ is ii. Cor. xi. i. Pet. iii Pſal. 146. ii. Time. ii. Math. xxiii.

is out of hand iudged heretical, schismatical, offensiue, slaunderous, erroneous, contrary to our mother holy church, enemye to ỹ common wealth of men, noysome to all countreyes and Realmes, and at the last, what not? so greatly hath malice blinded theyr eyes, being of ỹ number of them, whiche deale extremely with ỹ louers of ryghteousnesse, and take away their laboures. But forasmuch as tyme hath brought her doughter Truth vnto light againe in these our dayes, so ỹ now she dare shewe her face in the sight of al men, hauing also not a fewe, yea and those the most worthy, most noble, most learned, most vertuous, frendly and fauourable vnto her, so ỹ neyther Ieoakim, nor Antiochus can destroy the bokes any more ỹ are written thorowe the spirite of God by many godly and learned men: I being not a litle encouraged with ỹ blessed felicitie and happye state of thys our age, which I wishe and desire of God to be continuall vnto the end ỹ Antichrist ỹ sonne of perdicion shortly may be slayne with the breathe of the Lords mouth, haue at ỹ instant desire of certaine godly and zelous brethren reuised and diligently perused fyrst of al the bokes, which before .rr. yeares past I published and set forth vnder ỹ name of Theodore Bassille: which bokes I haue so now newly recognised and diligently corrected, ỹ I truste, if Momus hymselfe shoulde reade them, he could not fynde what iustly to calumniate, or to pycke quarels with, although I am not ignorant, howe easye a thyng it is to fynde a staffe, if a mā be mynded to beate a dogge. In this fyrst tome or volume in stead of the Catechisme, which then I made in meter, I haue written a newe Catechisme both long and large, wherin I haue comprehended ỹ summe of the holy Scripture: so ỹ in that one boke the Christen Reader shall easly fynde, whatsoeuer is necessary to be knowen, whether doctryne or manners be considered. Agayne, forasmuch as a certayne boke treatyng of Matrimonie compyled by the great learned and famous Clerke Master Henry Bullinger in the Dutch tonge, and translated into our speche by ỹ godly & zelous man Master Myles Couerdale, borne to setforth the true Christen doctrine both by tonge and penne, was also for the more redy sale setforth in my name by ỹ hongry prynter with my preface, to make it the more plausible to ỹ Readers: in place therof I haue written a new worke of Matrimonie, wherin I haue at large handled what soeuer may seme necessarily to appertayne vnto that matter.

Sap. v.

The fyrst tome of the authors workes.

M. Henrye Bullinger.

M. Myles Couerdale.

In the second tome I haue comprehended al those workes, which I wrote vnder the godly reygne of the most blessed and vertuous kyng Edwarde the sixte, a Prince worthy of immortalitie, if immortalitie mighte chaunce to a mortall man. In thys volume are contayned diuerse litle treatises persuading vnto vertue, and dissuading from vice, as I may speake nothing of the principal poynts of Christen religion, and of the Godly exercises of a true & deuoute Christian towarde the Lord hys God, both by spirituall meditacions, godly prayers, harty thankesgeuings, &c.

The second tome of the authors workes.

In ỹ thyrd volume, wherof part I wrote vnder ỹ vnhappy reygne of Queene Mary in the tyme of cruell persecution, and part vnder the most blessed and florishing reygne of thys our most gracious Lady Queene Elizabeth a most worthy Patronesse of all true religion and good learning, a most noble defender of all godly disposed people, a noble Conquerour of Antichrist and of hys most wicked kingdome, a Princesse for her knowledge, learning, wisedome, godlynesse, and vertue, for her tender affection toward vs her graces subiectes, yea and for her clemencie toward all men, euen her very aduersaries worthy, whose prayses the eloquent Oratours, with their fugred and ornate eloquence ỹ noble Historiographers with their learned pennes, the famous Poets with their most pleasaunt meter, may commend to immortalitie.

The thyrd volume of the authors workes.

In thys thyrde volume, I say, as the time and manners of men iustly required, I haue somwhat more sharped my penne in some places against Antichrist and his Babilonicall broode, then in my bookes heretofore made and published In them also I haue disclosed a great number of Antichrists inuglings, superstitions, newe found sectes, pardons, pilgrimages, ceremonies, and suche lyke deuises.

Antichrist disclosed.

uiſes. I haue alſo ſhewed what is to be thought of the byſhop of Rómes primacie, which he chalengeth ouer and aboue al other, yea and ẏ by the faithful teſtimonies of certaine moſt faythful writers both auncient & of this our time. In fine, I haue diſplayed the wicked kingdome of the ſonne of perdicion and ſet it forth in hys liuely colours, ẏ all men, if they be not obſtinately blinde, and willingly ſet themſelues againſt the manifeſt truth of gods word, may eaſly know Antichriſt and beware of his woluiſhe whealpes & of their Phariſaicall leauen. Notwithſtanding I haue not ſo dealt with the aduerſaries of Gods true religion in any of my bokes, ẏ I haue at any time forgotten Chriſten modeſtie, or paſſed the bounds of frendly peace. I haue fought not with the men (whoſe ſaluacion in ẏ bloud of Chriſt I wyſhe no leſſe then myne owñ) but with their errors and wicked doctrines, which they ſtoutly, yea with tooth and nayle, as they vſe to ſay, defend againſt ẏ true doctrine of our Sauiour Chriſt, and againſt ẏ vſe, practiſe, and teaching of the auncient fathers of Chriſtes church, perſecuting al ſuch as ſpeake or write againſt their fonde fanſies, idle imaginacions, triſling traditions, deueliſhe decrees, Antichriſtian actes, croked cuſtomes, cankred conſtitucions, wicked vnwritẽ veretyes, ſuperſticious ceremonies, &c, with ſwearde and halter, with ſtocking and blocking, with chayning and manacleing, with burning and drowning, with impriſonment, and baniſhment, &c: By this meanes declaring, whoſe children they are: verely euen hys, which was a liar and a murderer from the beginning. For Abell perſecuted not Cain, but Cain, Abel. Neyther dyd Jacob perſecute Eſau, but Eſau, Jacob. Nor yet Iſaac Iſmaell, nor Dauid Saule, but contrary wyſe. Notwithſtanding if theyr vniuſt perſecution were recompenſed with iuſt execution by ẏ handes of them, to whom God hath committed the ſwearde for ẏ defence of hys truth: were it a matter out of ẏ way and not to be ſuffered? God in the olde law cõmaunded, ẏ al falſe prophets and teachers, which went about with their falſe and corrupt doctrine to turne away the peoples heartes from their Lord God vnto falſe and ſtraunge Gods, ſhould be ſlayne and dye ẏ death. Dauid ẏ moſt worthy & ryghteous magiſtrate ſayth: There ſhall no deceatfull perſons dwell in my houſe. He ẏ telleth lyes, ſhal not tary in my ſight. I ſhal ſoone deſtroy all the vngodly ẏ are in the land, ẏ I may roote out all wicked doers from the citie of the Lord. S. Paule ſayth, ẏ the magiſtrate is the miniſter of God to take vengeaunce on them ẏ do euill: neyther beareth he the ſwearde in vayne. And to whom are theſe wordes of the holy ghoſt vnknowen, ſpoken to the faythful people of God againſt ẏ whore of Babilon and all her marked marchauntes? Come away from her, my people, ẏ ye be not partakers of her ſinnes, and ẏ ye receaue not of her plages. For her ſinnes are gone vp to heauen, and God hath remembred her wickednelle. Reward her, euen as ſhe rewarded you, & gene her double according to her workes, and poure in double to her in the ſame cup, which ſhe filled vnto you. As muche as ſhe glorified her ſelfe, and liued wantonly, ſo much poure ye in to her of punyſhment and ſorowe. For ſhe ſayd in her ſelf: I ſit being a Queene, and am no wydowe, and ſhall ſee no ſorowe. Therfore ſhall her plages come in one daye: death and ſorow, and hunger: and ſhe ſhall be brent with fyre. For ſtrong is the Lord God, which ſhall iudge her.

Ioan. viii.

Deu. xiii.

Pſal. 101

Rom. xiii.

Apoc. xviii.

I ſpeake not thys to the end, ẏ I being a priuate perſon wiſhe the deſtructiõ, and thurſt the bloud of the aduerſaries of Gods truth (whoſe conuerſion and amendment I dayly deſyre of God with all my heart, although moſt miſerably and vniuſtly intreated of them diuerſe times from my fyrſt entring into the miniſterye, but only to ſhewe by ẏ way, what the Chriſtẽ magiſtrates may do with them by the authoritye of Gods word, ẏ are the ſworne, obſtinate, ſtiffenecked and incorrigible enemyes of Gods true religion, and ẏ ſturdye and ſtoute maintayners of Antichriſt and of hys kyngdome againſt the lawes both of God and man. Notwithſtanding whatſoeuer I haue written againſt ẏ doctryne of Antichriſt in thys thyrd volume, I haue not done it with vncharitable raylynges, cruell wordes, fyrye inuectiues, taunting termes, vnſauery ſcoffings, vnconiely

teſtyngs

seſtings, &c, but with the authoꝛitye of the holy ſcriptures, and with the teſtimo nyes of the Godly auncient fathers, ſeking al meanes poſſible to edifye, and not to deſtroy, to pleaſe, and not to diſpleaſe, and yet not ſo to pleaſe, ẏ I will diſ-pleaſe God, and betray his truth, oꝛ ſo wynke at abuſes, ẏ I haue ſpared to diſ-Galat. i. cloſe them, and to ſet foꝛth the true vſe of thinges accoꝛding to Gods holy oꝛdinaunce. Foꝛ as S. Paule ſayth: If I ſhoulde pleaſe men (he ſpeaketh of wicked men and of the aduerſaryes of Gods woꝛd) I could not be ẏ ſeruaunt of Chriſt.

Theſe my woꝛkes after ẏ I had finiſhed and diligently peruſed, conſidering with my ſelfe to whom I might moſt conueniently offer them: your honoures came ſtreyghtwayes vnto my remembꝛaunce, as perſons moſt mete, to whom I ſhould dedicate theſe my labours: partlye bycauſe your wiſedomes being the chiefe pꝛelates and paſtoꝛs of Chriſtes flocke in this Realme of England, are beſt able to iudge of my doctrine, to whoſe iudgement I offer both my ſelfe and all my woꝛkes eyther to ſtand oꝛ to fall: partly, ẏ they being publyſhed and cõ-mended to the readers vnder the defence of your honours names, may ẏ moꝛe ioyfully be deſired, receaued, & embꝛaſed of other. Foꝛ thys our Realme of Englãd reuerenceth you as fathers, honoureth you as Godly paſtoꝛs, beareth you as true miniſters of Chriſt, followeth you as faythful guides, beholdeth you as lanterns of light and mirrours of all ver tue, dependeth on your ſincere & pure iudgement in al matters of Chriſtẽ religion, cõmitteth ẏ tuicion of their ſoules to your paſtoꝛall diligence, and iudgeth themſelues then moſt bleſſed, happye, and foꝛtunate, when they can dꝛawe moſt nyghe vnto your doctrine and life, as markes, who ſo toucheth, ſhall obtayne the cꝛowne of gloꝛious immoꝛtalitie & immoꝛtall gloꝛy. Our common countreye eſteemeth you in doctrine, ſincere and ſound: in lyfe, pure and vncoꝛrupt: and accoꝛding vnto their eſtimacion of you (I doubt not) ye ſhew your ſelues to be the ſame, ẏ ye are reputed to be. In doctrine, ye ſet befoꝛe your eyes continually ẏ wholeſome learning of our ſauiour Chriſt, and accoꝛding to the ſame ye foꝛme and frame all your ſermons, al your doctrines, al your exhoꝛtacions without any intermixcion of mans idle inuencions and trifling tradicions. In this behalfe ye reſpect neither King noꝛ Kaiſer, neyther Pope noꝛ Cardinall, neither articles noꝛ iniunctions, neither actes noꝛ pꝛoclamacions of any woꝛldly ruler, neither foꝛecaſte noꝛ polecie, neither ſafe-gard of body noꝛ indemnitie of goods, but come life, come death, come pꝛoſperi-tie, come aduerſitie, come fauoure, come diſpleaſure, come loſſe of goods, come conſeruacion of the ſame: all your ioye, gloꝛye, and felicitie is truly & faythfully accoꝛding to your vocacion and calling to ſet foꝛth the woꝛde of God. No cruel foꝛtune can diſmay you, noꝛ pluche you from doing your office: Neither is your Act. xx. life dere vnto you, ſo ẏ ye may fulfill your courſe with ioye, and the miniſtracion of the woꝛde, which ye haue receaued of the Loꝛd Jeſu, to teſtifye the Goſpel of the grace of god. Biſhops in times paſt were wont to be occupied in annoyling and cꝛoſſing the foꝛeheades of infantes, in Chriſtening bels, in hallowing churches, copes, veſtmentes, altars, alterclothes, and in ſuch like trifling tradi-cions of men: but all your ſtudye, labour, and trauaile is, to purge the church of Chriſte from the vnſauerye dꝛegges of ẏ whoꝛe of Babilon that ſinfull Sinagoge of Sathan, to plant the true religion of God in the heartes of the people, to moue them vnto repentaunce and vnto the knowledge of themſelues, to exhoꝛt them to ſeke theyꝛ ſaluacio̅ in the mercies of god by fayth, to repoſe al their affiaunce and truſt in the death of Chriſt, whiche alone is our lyfe, health, and gloꝛy, to become newe creatures, and to walke woꝛthy the kindneſſe of God in all their life and conuerſation, that they may appeare to be truly regenerate in Chriſt Jeſu.

Other Biſhops heretofoꝛe haue buſyed themſelues in the ſtudyes of woꝛldly affayꝛes. But all your diligence is in reading the holy Scꝛiptures and the aun-cient wꝛitings of the holy and Catholike Doctoꝛs of Chriſtes churche, that ye may be able not only to render a reaſon of the doctrine whiche ye now teache, but alſo to conuince, refel, confute, and ouercome the aduerſaries of gods truth:

yea

yea and to gene your liues also for the same, if nede requyre.

And as ye shewe your selues true Bishops and pastors of Christes church in word and doctrine: so do ye likewise in conuersatiō and life. The people behold you as bryght lampes and shinyng lightes in the world. As they see you cladde with vestures and colours white and blacke (ẏ white rochet signifieth purtie & innocencie of life: the blacke chymer, mortification to the world and al worldly things, so ẏ ye set your whole affection on heauenly things, and not on earthly things, as the Apostle sayeth: Ye are dead (vnto the worlde) and your life is hyd with Christ in God.) So fynd they in your behauiour nothing but vncorrupti- Colos. iii.
on of life, and contempt of worldly things: so farre is it of ẏ ye be led with any worldly or carnall affection, eyther couetousnesse, ambicion, pryde, &c. All your whole life is nothing els, than a mirrour of vertue, and glasse of godlines wher in all men may see and learne to depart from euill, and to do good: to dye vnto sinne, and to liue vnto righteousnesse.

Agayne, where as heretofore many of your vocation and calling were studi- ous of worldly things, bet to gather together the transitorie treasures and pas- sing away possessions of this wicked world, to the end ẏ they might scrape toge ther great and innumerable summes of golde and siluer, by thys meanes pro- uidyng for an harde winter, as they vse to saye, if any shoulde chaunce to come, or that with suche and so great aboundaunce of worldlye goodes they myghte enryche theyr kinnesfolke and frendes, as though God had no care for them, &c. Your wysedomes diligently consideryng, that ye are not the proper owners of the Ecclesiasticall possessions, but rather (prouision for you and for your fami- lye honourablye made) the dispensatoures and stewardes of the same vnto the profite and commoditie of the poore Christiās, for whose sake also those goods in tymes paste were geuen of our Godly Elders to the Churche of Christ, that by thys meanes not only suche as liue in the ministerie, but also the indigente and nedye people in theyr necessitie, might be succoured, relieued, and holpen, ye largely and liberally mayntain hospitalitie. To the hungry ye gladly breake your bread: the naked ye cloth with necessarye garmentes, the harbourlesse ye bring into your house, and whosoeuer hath nede, hym ye liberally succoure and sustayne, hauing a care with the Apostle for al men, ẏ none (so muche as ligheth in you) may lacke, and be ouercome with miserye. Ye are not vnlike to that aun cient Bishoppe and Godly Father, which rather wished the stonye temples to wante their precious furniture, than that the liuing temples of God shoulde wante their necessarye foode and rayment. Ye are also of that same affection, that an other auncient and Godly Bishop was, which being demaunded, when he laye on his death bedde, who shoulde be his executoures, and enioye his goods after his departure, answered and said: I wil, that the poore people haue all my goods. Neyther are ye estraunged from the minde of a certaine vertuous, and charita- ble Bishop, which, rather than the poore shoulde perysshe, chose to bestowe not only the Ecclesiasticall goods, but also hys owne patrimonie. All your glorye and ioye is to see the poore members of Christe lacke no good and necessarye thyng. Your honoures thynke your selues then to bee in beste estate and moste worthyly to doe your office, when ye shewe moste liberalitie vnto the poore, knowing that there is no treasure, no riches, no golde, no siluer better layd vp, than that whiche is couched in the bosome of the poore and nedye, that ye maye be founde pastors and feders not onely in worde and life, but also in hospitali- tie and prouisiō making for the poore, after the examples of Christ, his Apostles and the godly olde fathers of Christes church.

When suche and so greate vertues reygne and florishe in your honoures o- penly and in the sighte of all men vnto the good example of other, and vnto the greate glorye of Gods moste glorious name: as I am glad for thys my natiue countreye, to whom it hath chaunced after so many cruell and boysteous tem- pestes to haue so gentle, so louing, so fauourable, so mercifull, so Godly, and so lear-learned paſtors and fathers: euen ſo do I wiſh your eſtate to be alwayes honourable and proſperous, that we may thorowe your Godly trauailes long enioye this moſte noble and ſingulare benefite of God, I meane, the true doctrine of Chriſtes Goſpell, vnto the exceding great ioy and conſolacion of al true Chriſtians, and vnto the vtter confuſion of Antichriſt and of his adherentes. And that this thing maye moſte fortunately come to paſſe, I ſhall (as I do dayly) pray to God the Father of our Lord Ieſus Chriſt to preſerue your Lordſhips in health, wealth, and proſperous felicitie with daily increaſe of honour: moſt humbly beſeching you to take in good part theſe my rude and groſſe trauailes, whiche with all humilitie I offer to your honoures.

Chriſt that high and euerlaſting Biſhop preſerue your good Lordſhips in his fayth feare, and loue vnto the end, ỹ al your enterpriſes may turne vn to the glorie of his moſt bleſſed name, & vnto the profite of his holy congregacion, that when the chiefe ſhepeheard ſhall appeare, ye may receaue the incorruptible crowne of glorye.

1. Pet. v.

AMEN.

From the Cathedrall and Metropoliticall Churche of Chriſtes in Canterbury, the xvii. day of January. In the yeare of our Lord. 1564.

Your honoures moſt humble and dayly Oratoure:

Thomas Becon.

11 JU 62

The firſt part of the bokes, whiche Thomas Becon made and publiſhed in ỹ name of Theodor Baſille, diligẽtly peruſed and cõrected, and now newely ſet forth in this preſent yere of our Lorde.

1560.

The names of the bokes contayned in thys firſt parte.

1. The Newes out of Heauen.
2. The Chriſtmas Banket.
3. The Potacion for Lent.
4. The Pathway vnto Prayer.
5. The Noſegay.
6. The Nolecye of warre.
7. Dauids Harpe.
8. The Newe yeres gyfte.
9. The Inuectiue againſt ſwearing
10. The Gouernaunce of vertue.
11. The Catechiſme.
12. The boke of Matrimonie.

The Newes oute of heauen both pleasaunt and ioyfull, lately set forth to the great consolacion and comfort of all true Christians by Thomas Becon.

Rom.x.

O howe beautifull are the feete of them which bring the glad tidinges of peace and shew good and mery newes.

Luke.2.

¶ Be not afraid. For beholde, I bring you tidings of greate ioy, that shall come to all people. For vnto you is borne this day in the citie of Dauid a Sauiour, which is Christ the Lorde.

Ioan.7.

¶ My doctrine is not mine, but his that sente me. If any man will doe hys will, he shal knowe of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speake of my selfe. He that speaketh of himselfe, seketh his own prayse. But whosoeuer seketh hys praise that sent him, he is true, and no vnrighteousnes is in hym.

Ioan.8.

¶ He that is of God, heareth the wordes of God,

Ioan.18.

¶ Euery one that is of the trueth, heareth my voice.

¶R.P.D.D. Ioannes Park-

hurſtus Epiſcopus Noruuicenſis ad Thomam Bæconum.

VIdi & perlegi doctos Bæcone libellos, Quos tua non pridem ſancta Minerua dedit.
Diſpeream ſiquid legi vnquam ſanctius, aut ſi
Quid potuit populo tradier vti lius.
Auſpice perge Deo tales vulgare libellos,
Vani loquax ſed nec lingua timenda tibi eſt.
Sic Chriſtum poſſis auido inculcare popello,
Sic poſſis nomen condecorare tuum.

Ad Lectorem Iacobi Cathhilli Carmẽ.

PErlege Bæconum patria tibi voce loquentem, Quisquis es: & tempus diſperiſſe neges.
Es rudis, & nulla ſat dum formatus ab arte,
Erudit hic Chriſti congnitione ſatis.
Doctus es, & titulos tibi multa ſcientia donat, Diſcere, ne timeas, iſta legendo potes.
Hinc animi medicina tui, via certa ſalutis,
Et vitæ poterit norma ſequenda peti.

In tria volumina operum Thomæ Bæconi I.C. carmen.

HInc, quæ ferre queas, ſcitaris commoda lector?
Et quid tanta ſtrues, vtilitatis habet?
Hæc, præcepta dabunt tibi, trina volumina, vitæ,
Et triados ſuperæ, iuſſa ſacrata ſerent.
Vtq́, parem numerũ, par numinis æquat imago:
Sic, parilem promet, ſcriptio materiam.
Authoris vigiles, commouit ſuada labores, Et cœptis voluit fructibus, ire comes.
Huc igitur quicunq́, cupis cœleſte cacumen, Tuta eſt, acceleres, hic patefacta via.
Cuius at a labris hæc ſit ſuadela profecta,
Atq́, ſalis ſcatebras, noſcere lector aues?
Bæconi proprio, illuſtrata volumina Marte, Bæconum celebri grata canore colant.

Ad lectorem Epigramma Eliſei Bomelij Phyſici.

CVm poſcit dubijs Eccleſia preßa leuamen
Rebus, & in pelago iam peritura ratis, Nauarchas Chriſtus cæleſti mittit ab arce, Diuina proram qui tueantur ope:
Quorum præſidio protecta Eccleſia ſiſtat
Ceu rupes, rapido non violata mari.
Hi multum ingenio, multum linguaq́ valentes,
Impia confutant dogmata, vera docent.
Atq́ Euangelij ſanctiſſima ſemina ſpargunt, Vnde redit ſacris luxq́, nitorq́, libris.
Talem noſtra tenent Pelidem ſæcla, Beconum Præconem vérbi, maxime Chriſte, tui.
Deſuper hic miſſus, quaßæ ſit vt anchora Cymbæ Rectoris quoties mæſta requirit opem.
Hoc nullo peritura die monumenta Beconi Oſtendunt, varijs vaſa referta bonis.
Haud dictu facile eſt, ex cornu diuite nobis
Fuderit in cupidos munera quanta ſinus.
Quicquid habent veterũ perplexa volumina Patrũ, Ille tribus mira texuit arte libris.
Quos Daius terſos prælo commiſit, vt inde
Maxima percipiat commoda, ſacra cohors.
Hos voluas, quiſquis vis myſtica verba docere,
Elabi manibus nec patiare tuis.

¶ To the right worshipfull

Maister George Pierpount. Thomas Becon wisseth continuall healthy and prospe-rous felicite.

IF with studious and attent mindes we read the most sacred scriptures marking wel such thinges as make to oure informacion, learning, eruditiō, and encrease of diuine knowledge, we shal easely and without any difficulte perceaue that among al other vertues and fruites of the spirit, Christ our Lord and Sauioure exhorteth vs vnto none so much as to loue and charite. In this thing, saith he, shal al men know that ye are my disciples, if one of you loue another: as though he should say, other mens seruaūts are known by their maisters cognisaunces, I will also that you which are my disciples be known by my cognisaunce in lyke maner, which is loue comming out of a pure hart, and a good conscience, and a faith not fained. And as Christ himselfe did inculke and beat in nothyng so muche, as pure loue and feruent charite: so did the Prophetes and Apostles in all their sermons & writinges, aboue al thinges exhort mē to mutual loue, yea and that vnfained, as we may see in their prophecies and Epistles, in somuch that S. Paule saith, that though he could speake with the tonges of men and aungels, and yet had no loue: he were euen as sounding brasse or as a tingling cimbal. And though he could prophecy and vnderstond al secretes and al knowledge, & had al faith so that he could moue mountaynes out of their places and yet had not loue: he were nothing. And though he bestowed al his goods to fede the poore, yea and though he gaue his body euen to be burnt, and yet had no loue, it profiteth him nothing. The excellency of this Christen loue must nedes be great and inestimable, seing that without it nothing is acceptable in the sight of God, though it be iudged of the world to be a work of neuer so hie and singulare merit. Of this loue Christ did prophecy that it should wax cold in the harts of many now these last dates, & that wickednes should abound and be plentuous. Certes according to his prophecy, which euer is true, in asmuch as he is the self trueth and cannot lie, is it come to passe. For if we consither wel the maners of men at this present, we shall without doubt easely perceaue that this Christen loue toward god and our neighbour reigneth but in the harts of a few. And that they haue nothyng lesse than that true & working faith, which the holy scriptures cōmend so highly in euery place. For the Christen faith worketh by charite, saieth S. Paul. Now in asmuch as the faith whereof so many boste now a dates, worketh not this charite or loue in them, it is manifest and an euident argument, that their faith, as S. James calleth it, is a dead fayth, that is: a fayth in name but not in dede. If there were true and liuish faith, than would it worke loue in their harts, both toward god and their neighbours. Again, if there were such a loue as is the fulfilling of the law, than would it when time requireth and an occasiō is geuē, shew forth it self by external operaciō & outwarde working. Who cā iustly affirme ỹ he loueth god & yet worketh not his wil, nor yet walketh in the way of his most godly cōmaundementes. He that saith I know him, and keepeth not his commaundement, saieth S. John, is a lier, & the trueth is not in him. But he that kepeth his worde, truly in him is the loue of god perfect. Again, this is the loue of god, that we kepe his commaundementes. Behold, S. John saieth, Loue is the cognisaunce and badge whereby Christes seruauntes are knowē. Ioh. xiii.

i. Tim. i.

Of loue.

i. Cor. xiii.

Without charite nothyng pleaseth God. Math. xxiiii. Iohn. xiii. Titum. i.

Fayth worketh by loue Galla. v. Iacob. ii.

Of loue toward God. Rom. xv. i. Timo. i. Psalm. i.

i. Iohn. ii.

i. Ioan. v.

that the loue of god is in none, but in thē only which do his wil. Nether do Chriſts sayings differ from this: if ye loue me (saith he) kepe my commaundementes. He that hath my commaundements and kepeth them, he it is that loueth me. If any man loueth me, he wil kepe my worde. He that loueth not me, kepeth not my words. If ye kepe my commaundements, ye shal abide in my loue. Ye are my frendes, if ye do these things that I commaunde you. Christ saith here plainly, that whosoeuer hath an harty and vnfayned loue towarde him, kepeth his commaundements: but if any do the contrary, surely he loueth not Christ. How than may these men be recounted and iudged to loue Christ, whan they go not about to fulfil one point of his worde? His word is that they should loue him with al their hart mind, soule & strength: But in the stede of him, they loue them selues, their carnal pleasures and worldly vanities: the end wherof is damnacion. His word is that they should honour and reuerence Gods most holy and blessed name, but they omitting the iust honour of it, blaspheme it, raile on it, and wickedly swear by it to the great defasing of gods glory, so much as lieth in their power. For thorowe their wickednes the name of god is stil blaspheмed, railed vpon, & euil spoken of, as ỹ holy scriptures saith. If Christen princes do not shortly find some remedy to exile and banish this most detestable, hainous, and abhominable maner of swearing out of their realmes: certes it is to be feared, yea we may be certain, ỹ god wil powre out vpon vs his vengeaūce, and plage vs greuously, although we haue not wanted, nor yet daily do, diuers tokens of his fearce anger toward vs, and yet doe we not repent and amend. God is a righteous iudge, and god is euer threatning. If men wil not turne, he wil whet his sweard, bend his bowe and make it ready. He wil prepare him the weapons of death, & orden his arrowes to destroy. Again, his word is, that they should sanctify the Sabboth day, that is, so to temperate themselues and abstain frō wicked lustes, that they may quietly meditate in gods law, read the holy scriptures, geue themselues to diuine contemplacion, talke of serious matters, pray to god for grace, geue him thanks for his benefites, visite the sicke and comforties, and continually be geuen to the workes of the spirite. But what do they lesse: the most sacred and holy Bible (thankes be to God which hath brought these things to passe, by his dearely beloued seruaunt and our king Henry the eight, a prince of famous renowne and immortal glory, whose graces highnes I most hūbly beseech almighty god, in whose hands the hart of euery king is, like as are the riuers of water, to turne it whither soeuer it shalbe his pleasure to beutify with the benefit of perpetual helth, that his most excellent maiesty liuing here among vs his faithful subiectes the yeres of aunciēt Nestor or sage Tithonus may stil cōtinually auaunce, promote and set vp Christs most blessed gospell, to the glory of god, the saluacion of his subiectes soules, the immortality of his graces most noble renowne, & to the vtter confusion of Antichrist & his kingdom: the most sacred and holy Bible, I say, is now had among vs in our vulgare tonge, and frely permitted to be read of all men vniuersally, at times conuenient without any let or perturbacion euen in the churches, but how many read it: Merely a man may come into some churches & see the Bible so inclosed & wrapped about wt dust, euen as the pulpet in like maner is both with dust & copwebbes, that with his finger he may writ vpō ỹ Bible this Epitaph. Ecce nunc in puluere dormio. that is to say, Beholde I slepe now in the dust. So litle pleasure haue these filthy swine & currish dogges in ỹ most swete & singuler treasure, which is the meate of the soule, the sweard of the spirite, the tree of life, the lanterne to our fete, and the light to our pathes, which also turneth soules, geueth wisedom euen vnto babes, reioiseth ỹ hart, geueth light vnto the eyes, & is able to saue the soules ether of the readers or hearers, if they earnestly folowe it. O cruell murtherers of their owne soules. Merely this is the condemnacion ỹ the lyght is come into the world, & men loue ỹ darknes more then ỹ light, for their workes are euil. Whosoeuer doth euil hateth ỹ light, and commeth not to the light, ỹ his dedes should not be reproued: but he ỹ doth the truth, commeth to the light ỹ his workes may be knowen that they are done by god. Merely I thinke the wrath of god to be so whot against vs,

that

Iohn, xiiii.

Iohn. xv.

He loueth Christ that kepeth his worde.

Exod. xx.
Deute. vi.
Mat. xxii.
Philip. iii.
Deut. v.

Of swearyng.

Esay. vii.
Eze. xxxvi.
Rom. ii.

Would god it mighte once come to passe.

Psal. vii.
Deut. v.

What it is to sanctifie the Sabboth day.

King Henry the eight

Prouer. xxi.

The holy Bible frely permitted to be read in the English tonge.

Iob. vii.
Deut. viii.
Math. iiii.
Ephe. vi.
Prouer. iii.
Psa. cxviii.
Psal. xviii.
Iacob. i.
Iohn. iii.

Beware therfore betymes.

that except we hoztly repent, and receiue thys glozious light of Chzists most blessed gospel which now is come among vs, with more thankfull harts than we haue done hitherto, God will surely take it away again from vs, & cõmytte vs into more blind darknes than euer we wer involued and wrapped in before. He loued turning, saith the Psalmographe, and it shal come vnto him. He would not haue the dwelling, and therfore shal it be far from him. The kingdome of God shalbe taken from you faith Chzist, and shalbe geuen to such as shall bzyng forth the fruites of it. Such as thus wilfully despise Gods wozd, are like to ỹ old godlatets and disobedient rebelles the Iewes, which had rather be in Egipte among the grely fleshe pottes, than to be in the seruice of God eating Manna that celestial and Angelis food. But as they for their disobedient and vnthankfull harts wer extremely punished, so shal these wicked hypocrites be, except with al hast they repent & turne. And as they are negligent in reading the holy scriptures, so are they also in deuout meditacion and feruent prayer. They are commaunded they say, to pray in secret. Merely many of the pray so secretly, that neither God noz man know any thing at al of their prayer. O new kind of praying. How they vnit the poze and comfortles accozding to gods precept, their daily maners do shew, foz to the ale house and tauernes ronne they as flockes of sheep vpon the Holidaies and other holy dayes, so sone as seruice is done, yea many before it is begun, beraule they at long foz to cõe to late, wher they eate, drinke, swil, gut, banket, ly and swere til they be more like brute beastes than men. If they haue a godly and learned curate, which accozding to his office would be glad to teach the the wil of God, him do they hate, they with the pulpit a tzipple. They think it a punishment yere, if he preacheth but halfe an houre, so litle pleasure haue these alle heades in hearing the glozious and blessed wozd of God. And wheras they should spend al their talke vpon godlynes, and suffer no filthy communicacion to procede out of their mouthes, their whole talke is nothing els than lasciuious, wanton, and vncleanly wozds, hurting greatly the chast eares of other. And as foz their pastimes, they are such as rather moue & entise to vnhonestly than honestly. What shal we now say? Is not the loue of many cold, accozding to Chzists prophecy? Al seke their own and not that which is Iesu Chzists. They loue the glozy of men, more than the glozy of god. Thus se we that they haue no loue towarde God. For though they say ỹ they know God, yet with their dedes they deny him, foz so much as they are abhominable and disobedient, & vnmete to all good wozkes. Now seing that their loue is so cold toward god, what is to be thought of their loue toward their neighbour? which necessarily foloweth of the loue of god. Can stoudes of water cõtinually flow out of a place, wher ther is no head spring? Neither can the true and Chzisten loue towarde our neighbour be in that hart, which is without al loue of God. S. John saith, whosoeuer loueth him that begat, loue him also which was begotten of hym. It foloweth therefore that foz asmuch as they loue not god, as we haue heard before, neither do thei loue his creature. For if they did loue the creature of God, I meane their neighbour: surely they would expresse it by external operacion and outward dedes. Colde is that fier, yea rather it is no fier, which containeth not in it the vertue & strength of burning. Semblably cold is that loue, yea rather it is no loue which cõtaineth not in it the vertue and strength of working. The priest and Leuite (as we read in the gospel of Luke) saw a man which was robbed and wounded so greuously that he was left half dead, yet they moued with no compassion toward him, passed by, and helped nothing his miserable state. But a Samaritain comming that way, & seing the wounded man in so great misery, sorow and pain, was streighte waies moued with pitie, and comming vnto him, bounde vp his woũdes tenderly, powred in vile and wine, and laied him vpon his beast, brought him into an inne and made prouision for him. How chaunced it, that al they thre seing this mã in such miserable case, wer not alike moued to help this man? The priest and Leuite wer merciles, the Samaritain was merriful. Verely in the Samaritaine was the loue of God, which excited and moued him again to shew loue toward his neighbour. But in the priest and Leuite was ther no loue toward God, therfore had they no

Psal.cviii. Math.xxi.

Nume.xxi. Psal.cv.

Math.vi. Mat.xxv. Iacob.i.

Of vnthãkeful persons.

Ephe.iiii. Colloss.iiii.

Mat.xxiiii.

Philip.ii. Ioha.xii. Titus.i.

Of loue towarde ours neighbour. Note. 1.Iohn.v.

Luke.x.

The loue ỹ we haue toward God, maketh vs to loue our neighbour.

pitie and compassion vpon their neighbour, so that where the loue of god liueth, ther can the loue of our neyghbour haue no place. And to say the truth, I think sure ly that according to Christes prophecy, the loue of many was neuer so cold. For when was ther euer so many sayre wordes, and so much dissimulation: when ca at this day vnfainedly know his frend from his foorat truth is bitterly deraid amang the children of mē. Euery one speaketh lyes to their neighbor, their lippes are deceitful, they speake one thing and think an other. In their mouth they speake peace with their frend, and yet secretly they lay in wait for him. They stretch out their tonge as a bow of lying, and not of truth. As the fowlers lay snares to take birds so do they lay snares and trappes to take men. And as the trap is ful of birds, so ar their houses ful of deceit. Now is the time come that Christ speaketh of in the holy gospel. The brother (saith he) shal betray the brother vnto the death, the father the son, and the children shal arise against their fathers and mothers, and shal put them to death. Many are become right Iudasses, that is frendes in pretence, & extreme enemies in their workes, so that almost no man knoweth who he may trust and take for his frend. It shal therfore become al men to folow the admonicion of the Prophete Jeremy, which saith: Let euery man be ware of his neighbor, & put his affiance and trust in none of all his brothers. For euery brother wil supplante and deceine, and euery frend wil walke deceitfully, so that one brother shal mocke andther, and not speake trueth: For they haue taught their tonge to speake lyes, and studied very ernestly to do wickedly. Hereto pertaineth the saying of the Prophete Miche: kepe the secretes of thy mouth from her that slepeth in thy bosome, for the son shal worke the father displeasure, and the doughter shal ryse against her mother, and the doughter in law against her mother in law, and a mans owne housold and familiars shalbe his most enemies. Thus se we what loue there is now a dayes among men. Again what vnmercifulnes reigneth amōg mē at this time: How slenderly are the poore members of Christ prouided for now a dayes: How do they go about from dore to dore lamenting and expressing with dolorous and sorowful words, their to much wretched and miserable state, and yet no man pitieth them: What token of loue is this, ether toward god or our neighbour: God saith, there shall be no nedy and pore man at al among you, that the lord thy God may blesse thee. How is this commaundement obserued among vs, which seeyng the number of beggers increasing daily more and more, do not only not prouyde any meanes to exile and banish this absurdite out of the common weale, but also suffer them to liue comfortles, ye and many to dy for faut of succour: O lamentable case. God saith by his Prophet: breake thy bread to the hungry, & lede into thy house the poore and harbourles. When thou seest a naked man, coner him & thou shalt not despise thy flesh. Than shal thy light break forth as the morning light, & thy health shal spring the soner, and thy righteousnes shal go before thy face, & the glory of the lord shal enclose thee. Thou shalt than cal on the lord and he shal graciously heare thee, thou shalt cry vnto hym, and he shal say: behold here at hand, for I the lord god am merciful. How many, yea rather how few are moued to the workes of mercy, ether by the commaundementes or promises of God: No louing commaundement, no swete promise, can ones moue our vnmercifull harts, they are so stony and hard. The pure and cleane religion before God and the father is this, to visite the fatherles and widoes in their affliction, that is to say to comfort so many as haue nede. This religion professe we al, but obserue it do very few. We may iustly say with the Prophet Osee: there is no trueth, there is no mercy, and ther is no knowledge of god on the earth. Cursing & lying, mā slaughter, theft and whoredom, haue ouer flowed the world, and bloud hath touched blod But to be short in this behalf, let vs know that the iudgement shalbe without mercy to him that wyl shew no mercy. Let vs also be assured that as the mercyful shal obtain mercy, so shal the vnmerciful receiue euerlasting damnation. Moreouer what couetousnes raygneth among men at this preset time: How ioyne they house to house, land to land, ferme to ferme, pasture to pasture, so long as any is to be gotten, as though they should dwel vpon the earth alone: From the least to the Mat. xxiiii. Of dissimulacion.

Psal. xi. Iere. ix. Ieremy. vi.

Math, x.

Math. xxvi.

Ieremy. ix.

Miche. vii.

Of vnmercifulnes toward the poore. Den. xv.

The poore people ought to be better prouided for. Esay. lviii.

Iacob. i.

Osee. iiii. Iacob. ii. Mat. v. Mat. xxv.

Of couetousnes. Esay. v. Iere. vi. viii.

the most they hang al vpon couetousnes, and from the Prophet to the priest, they go al about with falshode and lies. They are shameles dogges ꝓ be neuer satisfied euery one followeth his own couetous appetite, euen from the highest to the lowest. They receiue gyftes to shed blud. They take vsury as encrease. Their oppressed their poore neighbors by extorcion, they are like rauening wolues to shed blud, and to destroy soules for their couetous lucre. They heape vp other mens goods. They lade themselues with thick clay. They couetously gather together euil gotten goodes into their houses, ꝓ they may set their nest on hie to escape from the power of misfortune. They are riche, not to god, but to the world. They heape treasure vpon treasure & yet know they not for whō they gather that treasure. They do so abounde in al kind of riches, ꝓ their goods be corrupt. Their garments are mothea-ten, their gold & their siluer are canckred, & the ruste of the shalbe a witnes agaynst them, and shall eate their flesshe as it were fier. And yet for al their great abundans, mercy shew they none to the poore people, but the more they haue, the more they couet. For they are proude, they put their hope in vncertaine riches, and not in the liuing God, which geueth vs aboundantly al things to enioy them. They do no good, they be not rich in good workes, they do not distribute and geue with a good wil, they gather not vp treasures for themselues, which shuld be a good foundacion agaynst the time to come, ꝓ they may lay hand on eternal life. Therfore to al such it is not with out a cause sayd. Wo be vnto you rich men, which haue your consolacion. Wo be vnto you ꝓ are ful, for ye shal hunger, wo be to you ꝓ laughe now, for ye shal wepe and waile. Again, It is more easy for a Camel to go thorow the eye of a needle, than a rich man to enter into the kingdome of god. What loue I pray you, can ther be to a mans neighbor, where such couetous affectes and insaciable lustes do reigne. God turne away this pestilence out of the earth. Further more what detestable, filthy, stinking, and abhominable whordome reigneth in the world now a dayes, yea and ꝓ so freely and without punishment, ꝓ it is accounted no sinne at al among many, but rather a sport, a good felowlike daliance a token of loue, and a touch of lusty youth. The holy scripture commaundeth that fornication, adultry, whordom, and al vncleanes shuld not once be named among vs, much lesse perpetrated and done. yet to do defloure maidens, to corrupt wiues to defile widowes is now iudged and taken but for a playe and triseling matter. Yea many are growen into such vnshamefastnes, ꝓ they vse to enterlase their talk at the time of their repast with such fylthy communication, nothing fearing to declare before other how valeant champions they haue shewed themselues in Venus court. Thus do they reioyce whan they haue done euil, and make a sport at vnsutting things. O detestable abhominacio. This maketh, as the prophet saith, ꝓ ther are so many adulteres. This maketh ꝓ they fal to whordom, and haunte harlots houses. This maketh them like stoned and wild horses to ney at their neighbors wiues. Yea this maketh chast matrimony to be despised, & whores to be set more by than honest wiues. Oh the fearce wrath of God ꝓ hangeth ouer our heades, yf this high abhomination be not shortely exiled from among vs. How greatly thys vnclenes was punished in the old law at gods commaundement, it is not vnknowen to them, ꝓ with attent mindes read the holy scriptures. Yea God hym self oftentimes toke vengeaunce of the fornicatoures and adulterers for their vnclennes. What caused al the world sauing eight persons to be drowned, but vnclennes? what made Sodom and Gomorre with certain other cities to be burnt with fier and brimstone from heauen, but vnclennes? What moued God to slaye in one day. xxiiii. M. of the Israelites, but vnclennes? If God at ꝓ time did so cruelly punish this vnclennes, let vs no think ꝓ we shal escape vnpunished now. For he is stil ꝓ god, ꝓ reioyseth not in wickednes. Nether can any vngodly perso dwel with him, nor the vnrighteous before his eies, for he hateth al ꝓ worke iniquitie. Moreouer this word abideth euer true: nether fornicatoures, nor adulterers, nor weaklings, nor abusers of themselues with man kind shal inherit the kingdom of god. Again, wedlocke is honorable among al men, and the bed vndefiled. But fornicators & adulterers God shal iudge. Therfore can not we escape, except we repent, &

Esay. lvi.
Eze. xxii.
Sopho. iii.
Abac. ii.
Marke. x.
Psa. xxxviii.
Iacob. v.
i. Tim. vi.
Amos. vi.
Luke. vi.
Mat. xix.
Marke. x.
Luke. xviii.
Of whordom and vncleane liuing.
Ephe. v.
O abhominacyon.
Prouer. i.
Ier. v. and. ix
Eze. xxii.
Beware betymes.
Deute. xxii.
Ge. vi. & vii
ii. Pet. ii.
Gene. xix.
Num. xxv.
i. Cor. x.
Psal. v.
i. Cor. vi.
Ephe. v.
Hebru. xiii.

leaue this great abhominacion of filthy and vncleane liuing. Thus is it euident ly ꝓ the loue of our neighbor is cold in the harts of many, euen as we heard before of the loue of God. For who cā loue his neighbor and dissemble with him, be vnmerciful vnto him, count his goods, and abuse his wife, doughter or maid. These be manifest tokens, not of loue, but of hatred. So ꝓ we may perceiue ꝓ prophecie of Christ to be true, which saith, ꝓ in the last dayes, iniquitie shall abounde or be plentious, and the loue of many shal wax cold. Some men will mervaile peraduenture how it commeth to passe ꝓ the loue both toward God & our neighbor should thus decay in these last dayes, seing ꝓ God is now no lesse beneficial, gentle, bountyous, and merciful to vs, than he hath ben in times past to our ꝓgenitors, and like gentlenes, they say, deserueth like loue. Certes to vtter as I conceiue with my self the great decay of Christen religiō, and the vtter subuersiō almost of al Godly liuing, me think ꝓ two things are the chef and principall causes. The first is, the want of the knowledge of our selues. The second, the want of the knowledge of God. For the first point of wisedom by the common consent of al learned men, is the knowledge of our selues. Now if we do not know what we are of our selues verely we cā neuer know God aright, nor yet haue any delectation or pleasure in him. And if we do not delight in him, how can we loue him. For who loueth that thing wherin he hath no pleasure. Therfore the next and most ready way to make vs ꝓne to loue God, is to learne to know our selues. Who seeth himself sick and set in great daunger of his health, which desireth not the help of a ꝓphitiō. If we did know ꝓ so many of vs as be borne of the sede of Adam, be borne very seede of fleshly vnpure, vnhalowed, abhominable before God, ꝓ sonnes of wrath, wrapped in infinite errours, set round about with corrupt affections, not able to thinke a good thought of our selues, much les of power to worke any goodnes, breathing nothing but the frutes of sinne, vnable ether to think, lust, or employ our selues to any good thing, but that is vngodly, croked vnequal, and vnpure, so that we see nothing but the feare wrath, the grevous iudgement, the extreme vengeance of God, sinne, death, hel, desperatiō, laid out and ꝓpared for vs accordyng to our deserues, if we had this knowledge, I say, of our selues, than would we most humbly fal down before our lord God, confessing how beggerly & miserable we are of our selues, seking at his goodnes, grace, fauour, peace, remissiō of sinne, tranquilitie of cōsciens, and al cōfortable things ꝓ should make vnto our saluatiō, yea than would we cōfesse that our destructiō commeth of our selues, and that al our helpe commeth of God only. Now in asmuch as the most part of men want this knowledge of themselues, therfore stand they wel in their own cōceit, please themselues wel, make much of their own actes, be they neuer so vnpure. These Iusticiaries thike themselues righteous, as the ꝓud & arrogant Pharise did in the gospel of Luke, and therfore haue they no part in Christes death. For Christ saith: I came not to cal the righteous, that is, such as iustify them selues, and think ꝓ they be made sufficiently righteous by their own good deds, merites and desertes, but sinners to repentaunce. And this want of the knowledge of themselues, maketh that they cā not feale the goodnes of God, nor perceiue wherfore Christ serueth, wherefore he was borne, why he died, for what cause he rose again. And therefore is the loue of God cold in them. For if they did know themselues perfectly, and were perswaded that their whole saluacion dependeth altogether of the goodnes of God ꝓ father thorow Iesus Christ our lord and sauiour, thā would they with al their hart louse God, please God, delight in God, & seke the glory of God aboue al thing. Yea thā would this their loue toward God be so feruente and mighty in operatiō, ꝓ euen of very loue again, and with a willing spirite, they would loue their neighbours euen as themselues, and employ al their diligence to accōplish gods most holy wil and ꝓ not of feare, but of loue. For perfect loue casteth out feare. And would God that all ꝓachers would vse this trade and maner in their sermons, ꝓ is to say, first teach men to know themselues, ꝓ they may perceiue their own misery, wretchednes and damnatiō. Secondly declare vnto them ꝓ there is no way to escape this great daunger, but only to flye to Gods mercy, and there to seke remedy thorow Iesus Christ.

Math. xxiiii.

The cause why ꝓ Christen religiō decayeth.

Noſce te ipſum.

Note. Math. ix.

Ioh. iii. Ephe. ii. ii. Cor. iii. Rom. viii.

The knowledge of our selues, maketh vs to flie vnto God.

Ozee. xiii. Oze. xi.

Luke. xviii.

Math. ix.

Mark what knowledge of our selues doeth.

i. Ioh. iiii.

Preachers.

Chriſt. If they did thus, ſurely it would kindle in mens harts a mervailous feruẽt loue toward God, and an vnſpeakable redines to walke in the Lords path wayes, and ſo hartely to loue their neighbor, that they would wiſh no leſſe kindneſſe to their neighbours than to themſelues, and in al things do to them, whatſoeuer lyeth in their power. They would vndoubtedly do al things for loue. For whan they conſidered the great bounty of God toward vs, and perceiued that whã we wer in a damnable ſtate, he freely of his own mere goodnes ſaued vs, and made vs heires of eternal glory, they could none otherwiſe do but loue him again, and employ themſelues to accompliſh that thing that he commaundeth, which is to loue our neighbor, and to walke in a new lyfe. For what natural mã ſheweth vnkindnes for kindnes: who hateth, where he is loued: Wen therfore hearyng this vnſpeakable loue of God toward them, muſt nedes loue him again, and out of thys loue orderly, bryng forth a true and vnfayned loue toward their neighbor, and an harty deſire to walke without ſpot in the ſight of ſo gentle and louing a father. If we marke wel the Epiſtles of the bleſſed Apoſtle S. Paul, we ſhal eaſely perceiue that he in lyke maner vſeth this trade aforeſaid almoſt in al his Epiſtles, but chefely to the Romayns, Galathians, and Epheſians. I therfore ponderyng with my ſelf but lately the great decay of the Chriſten religion, and the vtter deſtruccyon almoſt of al Godly liuing, thought with my ſelf that I could not at this preſents beſtow the ſmall talent, that God hath committed and lent vnto me, better and more aptely to the anauncement of Gods glory, & to the edificacion of his church, than to compile ſome litle treatiſe out of the holy Scriptures, which ſhould contayne in it theſe things aforeſaid, and paint out as it wer in a certaine table, firſt the knowledge of our ſelues, and afterward the benefites of God the father, toward vs by Jeſus Chriſt, that men perceiuing their own abhominacion, maye make the more haſt to Gods goodnes, and whan they haue once taſted of that, endeuour themſelues to walke worthy ẏ kyndnes of God. This thing haue I done in thys worke folowing, according as I truſt, to the pure vayne of the holy ſcriptures. I haue entiteled the boke, Newes out of heauen, becauſe it ſheweth to vs the pleſaunt, ioyful and comfortable newes of Chriſt. It openeth to vs abundantly the ſingular and incomparable benefites, that we receiue of God through Chriſt. The ebuccinatour, ſhewer, and declarer of theſe newes, I haue made Gabriell ẏ angell and Embaſſadoure of God, becauſe that he firſt of all brought tidinges of Chriſtes incarnacion, to the moſt pure and cleane virgin Mary. I will not prayſe the boke, leſt I ſhould ſeme to hunt after vain glory, nether wil I diſpraiſe it, leſt I might ſeme raſhely and without a cauſe to condemne that, which is worthy prayſe and commendacion of it ſelfe. I leaue it therfore to the iudgement of other that be goſtly learned and taught of God. This I dare boſt, that it cõtaineth more true and Chriſten learning, than a great ſort of volumes, that we haue highly eſtemed in times paſt. He that ſhal make this boke his companion, ſhal here find in few leaues, that the whole Bible and commentaries of the auncient Doctors doe teach of Chriſt in many, ſo that it might wel be called the treaſure houſe of Chryſten knowledge. Nether can any man iuſtely condemne or reiect this boke, except he alſo wil contemne and ſet at nought the moſt ſacred and holy Bible, with the authorities wherof this litle treatiſe is ſufficiently and plẽteouſly fortreſſed and defenſed againſt the borryſhe teth and ſerpent like tonges of theſe craking calumniatours, & ſubtile Sicophantes, which after the maner of Momus are ready to carpe reprehend, and condemne euery mans worke and enterpriſe, be it neuer ſo godly, whan they themſelues bryng forth nothyng at al, that is worthy eyther the readyng or the hearing, except men haue pleaſure to read or heare blaſphemes. If any man ſhal thinke that I ſet out Chriſt and Chriſtes benefites to largely (which I am ſure, no man wil do, except he be a very Antechriſt and a wicked Papiſt) let hym know that I ſet forth Chriſt no more thã the holy Scriptures do beare. The argument alſo of my matter requireth no leſſe than I haue wrytten. Chryſt muſt be declared otherwyſe thẽ Poles. For Chryſt is a Sauiour. And he bryngeth ioy, peace, fauour, tranquilitie of conſcience, and free remiſſiõ of ſinnes. Therfore as a Sauioure

The goodnes of God deply pondered maketh vs to loue him agayne, and freely to worke hys wyll.

Loue maketh vs to worke the wil of God.

Paules order in teachyng.

The occaſiõ of makynge this treatiſe

Newes out of Heauen.

Luke. i.

The profite of this boke

The treaſure houſe of Chriſten knowledge.

Math. i.

Sauiour muſt he be declared, and not as an extreme reuenger. At Chriſtes birth the Angel ſayd to the ſhepeherdes: Feare not, for beholde I ſhewe vnto you greate ioy, which ſhalbe to al people. For this day is a Sauioure borne, which is Chryſte the Lord, in the citie of Dauid. And Chriſt himſelf after his reſurrection ſayed to his Apoſtles: go ye into the vniuerſal world and preach the goſpel, that is to ſay, good and mery tidinges to euery creature. He that ſhall beleue and bee baptyſed, ſhalbe ſaued. But he that ſhal not beleue, ſhalbe condemned. Here may al men ſe, that both the Angel and Chryſt are on my ſyde, and agree with me in facte. Nether is the preaching of Chryſt and of his benefites a wyndow to al kind of carnall lybertie and diſſolute liuing (as ỳ vngodly Papiſtes with vnſhamefaced forheades do lye) but rather, a prouocacion and ſtiryng vp of men, to true Godlynes, whych when they ſee the exceading goodnes of God toward them, take ſtreyght wayes, an occaſion to loue God again, and a valeant courage to do his moſt Godly wyll. He that readeth this my worke to the ende, ſhall eaſelye perceiue that I go not about to plucke men from good workes, but rather animate and encourage them to the doyng of good workes, prouing with manifeſt and euidente Scriptures that Chryſt is no Sauiour, but to ſuch as with a contryte hart and an humble ſpirite confeſſe their ſinne, repent them of their wickednes, cal to God for grace, amende their wicked conuerſacion, correct their ſinful maners, walke in a new lyfe, go frō vertue to vertue, and ſerue God their maker al the dayes of their lyfe, in holines, & righteouſnes. For God did chooſe vs in Chryſt, as S. Paul ſaith, through loue, before the foundacion of the world was layed, that we ſhould be Sayntes & without blame in his ſight. And although by grace we ar made ſafe through fayth, and that not of our ſelues, for it is the gift of God, and commeth not of workes, leſt any man ſhould boaſt himſelf, yet are we his workemanſhip created in Chriſt Jeſu vnto good workes, which God hath prepared that we ſhould walke in them. But I wil make an ende, leſt the preface of the worke, may ſeme to be longer then the worke it ſelfe. Now for aſmuch as in the beginning of a new yere, men vſe cuſtomably to ſend one to another gyftes and tokens, wherby they declare the beneuolence and good wil that is betwene thē: I for my part knowing how greatly I am bound to your right worſhipful Maiſterſhip, coueting by ſome meanes to declare agayn my good wil and obſequious and ſeruiſeable hart to your moſt bounteous gentlenes, do ſend vnto you this litle treatiſe at this tyme for a new yeres gyfte. moſt humbly deſiring your right worſhipful Maiſterſhip to accept and take in good worth this my litle gift, although not worthy your great gentlenes towarde me, yet as a memorial of my ſtudious minde towarde your goodnes. At another tyme (God furtheryng my ſtudies) I ſhal wt the ſame diligence compyle other workes no leſſe ſerious, weighty & graue: dedicating thē likewiſe to your maiſterſhips name, as I truſt vnto ỳ glory of God, the edificacion of his church & the immortalitie of your renown. In ỳ meane ſeaſon I ſhal moſt harteily deſier God the author of euery yere, that this new yere with many other, may euer begin vnto you with good fortune, procede with better, end with ỳ which is beſt, & al wai be proſperous and fortunate ſo long as they laſte. God preſerue your ryght worſhipful Maiſterſhip, with the good Gentle woman your wyfe in continual helth and proſperous felicite. Amen.

Luke. ii.

Marke. xvi.

What thys word goſpel ſignifieth.

The preaching of Chriſtes benefites, is a prouocacion to liue well for the faithfull.

Pſalm. l.

To whom Chriſt is a Sauiour.

Rom. vi.
Pſal. lxxxiii.
Luke. i.
Ephe. ii.

Yours at wyl and commaundement.

Thomas Becon.

¶ The Newes out of heauen.

¶ Gabriell the Aungell and Embassadoure of God speaketh.

Wherefore are ye sad O ye men mortal? wherfore do ye walke as persons desolate, disnaid and altogether comfortles? wherefore do ye sygh, wepe, sob, and take thoughte? wherfore do you wring your hãds and teare your heere? why rather do ye not reioice? why do ye not eleuate and lyft vp your heades, walkyng pleasauntly? why doe ye not loke with smiling countenaunces? why doe ye not putte oute of your harts al thought and care? why do ye not so compose and set your selues, that all the gesture of your body may franckely and with a lusty courage, declare your ioye, mirth, gladnes, felicite and pleasaũce? There is, beleue me, not one cause of sadnes, but of gladnes many yea and innumerable. For God is now no more an enemy vnto you, but a dere frende. He is become of a seuere iudge, a merycfull sauioure, of an austere and fearce Lorde, a bounteous and gentle father, of an extreme reuenger, a tender forgeuer, to be short, he is now become the very same vnto you, that a most tender, moste gentle, most louing, most bounteous, most kynde, most beneficiall, most liberal, most benigne father is to that hys natural sonne, whom he most intierly loueth, and tẽderly enhalseth aboue al the other. How therfore can ye be sad? How can ye any other wyse than reioyce and be mery, seing that al dolor, al sorow, al care, al grefe, al payne, al perel, al trouble, all daunger, all disquietnes, al hatred, al malyce, all emnite, al maliuolence, al euil wyl, al wrath, al displeasure, al desyer of vengeaunce, and all that euer is contrary to your ioye and pleasaũce, to your healthy and comfort, to your rest and tranquilytie is vtterly extinguished & so put a way for euer and euer, that you which are of Gods faithful congregacion, obediente to hys worde and ready to accomplyshe hys most holy and diuine will, shall neuer after thys perysh and fal out of fauour, but haue eternall lyfe. And all thys is come to passe thorow we Gods grande mercyes by the glorious natiuitie and most blessed birth of hys welbeloued sonne Jesus Chryst, whych this day is borne of a pure and cleane birgyne in Bethleem a citie of Dauid, thorow the meruailous & wonderfull operacion of the holy gost, that he shuld be a sauiour, yea and an omnisufficient sauiour to saue his people, that is to say, so many as beleue in him, frõ their sinnes, and from the daunger of Satan, that they

The greate loue of God toward vs.

Iohn.iii.

Mich.v.

Math.ii.
Luke.ii.
Math.i.

map

may be made inherytoures of eternall glory.

Luke.i. These newes out of heauen am I Gabriel the Aungel and Embaſsadour of God ſent for to declare vnto you, that ye may vnfaynedly reioyce, not in vain and worldly thyngs, but firſt in the lord God your ſauioure, and afterward in celeſtial and heauenly thyngs, and euer more be thankeful for thē, walking worthy this inestimable benignite and vnſpeakable goodnes of God ẏ father thorow Jeſus Chriſt, that theſe ſinguler benefites may not at any time ſeme to be ſhewed vnto ingrate and vnthankeful perſons.

ii.Cor. x. Phi.iiii. Colo. iii. i.Theſ.ii.

We thinke I ſee you now begin to reioyſe and ſkip for ioye, yea and ſeriouſly to triumphe as perſons ful of franke courage at the hearyng of theſe moſt pleaſaunt and ioyfull newes, which thing certes to me is no vulgare delectacion and ſmale pleaſure.

But that you may reioyce vnfainedly, & know that ye in dede haue an vrgent and weighty cauſe to be glad, yea and that with a continual mirth, and ſuch a ioy as ought to be immortall and neuer dye: I wil reherſe to you in what damnable ſtate ye were in, before theſe moſt comfortable newes were ſent vnto you from the moſt glorious and imperiall ſeate of the moſt bleſſed Trinite, that you perceiuing youre owne miſerable condicion, may the more ſeriouſly reioyſe in thoſe ſwete and delectable newes.

The knowledge of our ſelues maketh vs to flie vnto Chriſt for ſuccour.

God in the beginning, as the holy ſcriptures teſtifye, created man accordyng to his own ſimilitude, likenes and ymage, that is to ſay, he indued him wyth immortality, wyt, reaſon, ſapience, iuſtice, free wil, mercy, goodnes, holynes, trueth, and all perfeccion, and gaue hym imperie and rule ouer all liuing creatures, placing hym in ioyfull Paradiſe a garden full of pleaſure, that he ſhould worke in it and kepe it: geuing hym alſo authorite, power and libertie to eate of euery tree in the garden, ſaue onely of the tree of knowledge of good and euill. If man did eate of that neuer ſo ſone, God tolde hym before, that he ſhould dye the death, that is, fall from the glorious ſtate wherin than he ſtode, become mortall, wretched, ſinnefull, miſerable, ſeruile, thraull, captiue, and a very bonde ſlaue to Satan, hated of God, voyde of all goodneſſe, bent to all miſchiefe, the ſonne of perdicion, a fier brande of hell, a veſſell of yre and wrath. All theſe thinges did God tell before to Adam, that he might be prudente, wyſe and circumſpecte, and the better enarme himſelfe with courageouſſe valeaunce to fyght agaynſt the crafty and ſubtyle aſſaultes of his enemye.

The creacion of man. Gene.i, Sapi.ii. i.Cor.xi. ii.Cor.iii. Collo. iii. Ephe. iiii. Pſa.viii. Gene.i. The death of Adā and what it is. Rom.ix. Ephe.vi. Eſa. xiiii.

Not long after, Satan, whom God before had throwen out of heauen for his proude diſobedience and diſobediente pryde, enuying man that bleſſed and glorious ſtate wherin he did remaine, deſyryng alſo his like perdicion, ful craftely & lyke a wily ſerpent, attempted the woman as the more fraile veſſel, and ready to be deuicte and ouercome: ſo that at the laſt thorow his ſubtil and crafty perſwaſions, ſhe gaue place to ẏ wily ſerpent, the father of lying, & wickedly trāſgreſſed Gods moſt ii.Pet. ii. i.Pet.iii. Iohn. viii. i.Tim.ii.

holy

holy commaundement. For Satan told her plainli, that there was no daunger in eating of that fruite, which was forbidden, neither shoulde they dye the death, though they so did, yea rather their eyes shuld be opened, and they should be as gods knowing good and euil. The womā beyng enflamed with these honilike and swete entisementes, seing also that the tree was good to eate of, fayre to the eye, and pleasaunte to beholde, toke the fruite of it, did eate, and afterwarde gaue of it to her husbād, which did eate in like maner, so that streight waies both their eies were opened, and they saw that they were naked, that is, perceiued right wel, that they were now become miserable wretched, sinful, redacte to extreame calamite, and vtterly fallen from the fauour of god for the trāsgression of his most blessed precept, which thing made them to be very much ashamed, and to hide themselues from the face of god. O miserable and piteful chaung, O chaunse more perillous than it can be expressed. Now is a man become of immortal mortal, of good euil, of righteous wicked, of wise folish, of holy prophane of vertuous il disposed, of free bond, of merciful cruel, of godly, deuilish, of faithful vnfaithful, of spiritual carnal, of true false, of a vessel of mercy a vessel of wrath, of the sonne of god the sonne of the deuill, of the heire of glory the heire of damnation. Alas whan man was in honor he perceiued it not, and therfore is he now become euen like vnto a brute beast. He is altogether without the spirite of god, he is al carnal and fleshely, therfore cānot gods spirite abide in him, neither can he perceiue those things that pertaine to the spirite of god, yea and that is more to be lamented, not Adam alone is fallen into this damnable state, but also all his posterite. For thorow this his fault and wicked sin, al the earth with the inhabitantes therof are accursed. So that so many as come of this olde Adam, ar damned, cursed and throwen from the fauor of god. This one transgression of gods commaundemēt hath made you al subiect to the yoke and tyranny of Satan, and bonde to euerlasting damnation. Adam is your father, and you are his children. Loke therefore in what case he is, in the very same are you. Adam is carnal, therfore are ye carnal. Adam is wicked, therfore are ye wicked. Adā is a sonne of wrath, therfore are ye the sonnes of wrath. Adam is a lyar and nothyng but vanite, therfore are ye liers and nothing but vanite. Adam is captiue and bonde prisoner to Satan, sinne, death and hell, therfore are ye captiues and bond prisoners to Satan, sinne, death and hel. How can it otherwise be? That which is borne of flesh is flesh. Do men gather grapes of thornes, or figges of briers? So likewise euery good tree bryngeth forth good fruite: but a corrupt tree bryngeth forth il fruit. A good tre cannot bryng forth ill frute nother a corrupt tree good fruit. Euen as it is impossible for a sower crab tree to bryng forth sauery and swete apples, so is it impossible for a sinful man drowned and buried al in sin, I meane Adam, to beget anye other then sinneful, vngodly and wicked children. A good mā out of the good treasure of his hert, bringeth forth Gene.iii. The craftye assautes of Satan.

Al is not golde ỳ glyneth.

Beholde what synne doeth.

The miserable fal of man.

Psal.xlviii.

Gene. vi.

i.Corin.ii.

Rom. v.
Gen.iii.
Al we are damned in Adam.

i.Cor. v.
Iohn. iii.
Ephe.ii.

Psalm.xv.
Iohn.iii i.
Math. vii.

Luke. vi.
Math.xii.

that which is good. And an euil man out of the il treasure of his harte, bringeth forth that which is il. Now was Adam euil, therfore whatso Rom.v. euer he bronghte forth, muste nedes be euil: Yea verely by the synne of this one man Adam, euil was brought forth vpon all men vnto damnacion. By the disobedience of him were ye all made sinners, and by Ephe.ii. nature the sonnes of wrath. For this one mans fault did sin enter into the world, and thorowe synne, death, and so came death vpon all men, Rom.v. inasmuch as al ye haue synned. Ye were therfore begotten in synne, co-Psal.l. ceiued in synne, and brought forth in synne. None of you al are pure, Rom.iii. but euery one is polluted with vngodlynes. There is no difference, al haue sinned, and want the glory of God. Ye are corrupte and become Psal.xiii. abhominable in your studies, there is not one that doeth good, no not one. For the Lorde hath loked from heauen vpon the children of men, for to see if there wer any ỳ hath vnderstanding or seketh after God.
Rom.iii. But al are fallen from that true way, they are become altogether vnprofitable, there is not one that doeth good, no not one. Their throte is
The fruites which we bryng forth by Adam. like a wide mouthed graue, they worke deceit with their tonges, the poison of adders is vnder their lippes. Their mouth is ful of cursing & bitternes, their feete are swift to shed bloud. Destruccion & wretchednes are in their waies they know not ỳ way of peace, neither is there any feare of God before their eies. These are the sinful, wicked, & damnable fruites, which you ful of sin, wickednes & damnacio bring forth.
Gene.ix. Your minds & thoughts also are prone to euil at al times. Ye are not a ii.Cor. iii. ble once to think a good thought of your selues. Who being borne of a Iob.xxv. woman can appeare pure and cleane in ỳ sighte of God, before whom the starres are not pure? What is than to be thought of man, which is Prouer.xi. nothing but dust and a very worme? Who is able to saye, my hearte is cleane, and I am pure from sinne? Ye haue al sinned, ye are all become Esay.xlvi. vncleane, al your righteousnes are like a cloth polluted with menstrue Ye are fallen as a leafe, and your iniquities haue caried you awaye as i.Iohn. i. the wind. If ye say, that ye haue no sin, ye deceiue your selues, and the trueth is not in you. For your hart is wicked and inscrutable. Ye are Iere. xvii. vnprofitable seruaūts. Yea ye are Hipocrites & wicked, and ỳ mouthes Luke. xvii. of you al haue spoken folishnes. Al the sort of you haue gone astraye as Esay .ix. shepe, euery one haue walked after his own fantasy. Ye all are of stub-Pet.lxiiii. burne hart, ye loue vanities and seke after lyes. To be shorte, ye are fo-
Psalm.iiii. lish people, vnwise children & mad. To do mischief ye are wise inough, Iere. iiii. but to do good, ye are very soles. Here may ye see as in a cleare mirrour
What we are of our selues. your deformite, your botches, your sores, your greuous wounds. Now may ye learne what ye ar of your selues, certes very flesh, that is to say, al that euer nought is, enemies to god, louers of your selues, captiues to Satā, and fire bronds of hel. What remedy? what shift wil ye find? whither wil ye go? to what coast wil ye turne you? How wil ye escape the fearce wrath of God? whither wil ye go from his spirite? whyther Psal.cxxxix. will ye flie from his face? If ye go vp into heauen, he is there, if ye go down to hel, ther is he redy also. If ye take your flight in the morning and dwel in the furthest part of the sea, verely his hand wil rethe you there, yea and his ryght hand shal catch you. What wyl ye do now? to flie profiteth nothing, to abide also bringeth damnacion. Thus see you that ye cannot escape by no meanes. To mitigate and swage the diuine yre and Gods wrath ye ar not able. Your syn hath made God angry with you. What haue ye now I pray you, wher wyth ye may plese him? your selues as ye haue heard here to fore, are the childrē of wrath, begotten in syn, conceiued in syn, borne in sin, carnal, wicked, and vngodly: your hart is corrupt, vncleane, stinking, flowing with iniquity, arrogant, puffed vp, proude, hating God, louing it selfe, ful of hipocrisie and al euil. Your frutes are like vnto your selues, that is, detestable in the sight of God What vertue then can there come out of such corrupt and polluted place? What purenes can there flowe out of a puddle so filthy, so dirty, so vncleane, so stinking, so vnsauery? Thus se ye that ye haue no way to pacifie Gods wrath, which ye haue styred vp agaynst your selues through your own wickednes. What therefore remayneth but only ỳ you loke for al cruel & greuous thyngs? Helles mouth is opē and redy to swallow you vp. The fier of hel which shal neuer be quenched, taryeth you. Euerlasting tormentes, intollerable punishmentes, perpetual turmoilings abide you. Ye ar appointed to that place, wher weping and gnashing of teth is, where the fier is inextinguible, wher the worme of thē that be there, neuer dye. What wil ye do now? What shift wil ye find? Wil ye fulfil the law which God gaue you by Moses, and so pacify his wrath? But this to doe ye are not able. For of your selues ye are nothing but flesh and vtterly without God. Flesh & blud cannot possesse the kyngdome of God. They that are fleshlye, regarde those things that pertayne to the flesh. And the desyer of the flesh is death. Yea the desire of the flesh is emnite agaynst God. For it is not subiect to the law of God, neyther can it be by any meanes. They that are in the flesh, cannot please God. Yea they that liue after the flesh, shal dye. And he that hath not Gods spirite, pertayneth not to God. Now haue not ye the spirite of God, inasmuche as by Adam ye be all flesh (for the flesh lusteth agaynste the spirite, and the spirite against the flesh) how than wyl ye fulfyl the law to appease Gods wrath?

down

Ephe.ii. Psal.l. Iohn.iii. Iere.xvii. esa. xxxiiii. Iacob.iii.

O dolorous calamitie, & miserable wretchednes. Math.xxii. Exo.xxv. Esa.xxxvi. Of the law. Iohn.iii. Gene.vi. i.Cor.xv. Rom.viii.

Gene.vi. Gala.v.

Moreouer the law is spiritual, that is, it requireth not only politike and ciuile workes, but also the pure affectes, and cleane mocions of the spirit, and must be fulfilled not wyth the external workes only, but also wyth a franke and free hart, doyng the workes of the law not of cōstraynt and for feare of punishmente, but of loue. For perfect charitie or loue casteth out feare. But as the law is spiritual, so are ye carnal, that is, prone and ready to all noughtynes, buried in sinne and no lesse bonde to Sathan, than a boughte slaue is obstricte and bonde vnto his maister. Nowe is the lawe and you of a contrarye nature. Whan than shal ye agree? The lawe, I confesse, is holy and the pre-

Rom.vii. The law is spirituall, i.Iohn.iiii. Rom.vii. i.Tim.i.

cept is holy, righteous and good, but ye are vnholy, wicked and euill. How wil ye then accõplish the law, ỳ ye may pacifie Gods wrath, and deserue remission of your sinnes through your own merites & desertes? Can he that is dead, erect and lift vp him self? Can he resume and take agayn his armoure? Can he recouer new strengthes? Can flesh teache flesh no more to sin? Can the Egle commaunde her self no more to flye? Can the Dolphine cease to swym? Can the man of Inde chaunge hys skin? and the cat of the mountayn her spottes? Neyther can ye of youre selues cease to be that ye are, nor yet worke good, whiche so long haue been exercised in euil. The law killeth, it geueth not life, The law worketh wrath, displeasure and damnacion, it purchaseth not grace, fauor, mercy, remission of synnes, peace and tranquilitie of cõscience. For cursed is euery one that abideth not in all thinges that are written in the boke of the law that he may do them. No man fulfilleth the whole law ergo no man is iustified by the law, but rather cursed and brought to damnacion. For he that kepeth the whole law, & yet offendeth in one, is made gilty of them al. Moses gaue you a law, and yet none of you al do fulfil it. Neyther ye nor your fathers wer euer able to beare ỳ yoke of the law. Who euer entred into glory by ỳ fulfilling of the law? Whil ye therfore seke to be iustified by the law, ye are vtterly fallen from that which ye sought. You not knowyng the righteousnes of God, and seking to stablish your own righteousnes, cannot be made subiect to the righteousnes of God. The law was geuen you by Moses frõ God, not that you should seke to be made righteous by it, which is a thynge impossible, but that it should declare to you the wil of God, proue the obedience of your hart, kepe you in an honest and Godly trade of liuing, refraine you from wicked doing, represse ydolatry, swearyng, vngodlynes, disobedience, theft, manslaughter, adultry, false witnes. &c. set before your eyes your abominable wickednes and sinful liuing, that you may learne to know your selues, and make the more haste to approche vnto Gods mercy. For by the law commeth the knowledge of synne. We should not haue knowen sin but by the law. For ye had not knowẽ concupiscence except the law had sayd, thou shalt not couit. The law is a schole maister to teach you what ye ought to do. Whose admonicions, warninges & instruccions, seing ye folow not nor obey as it teacheth, and as ye oughte, it rather condemne than saue you, kyl then quicken you. For no flesh shalbe iustified by the workes of the law in the sight of God. Your laboure therfore in this behalfe is vayne, seing that ye seke Gods fauour, remission of sin, iustificacion, saluacion, and eternal glory by the workes of the law only. Whither wil ye now fie? wil you pacify Gods wrath by offring vp the sacrifices of the ceremoniall lawe? This also is in vaine. For if the workes of the moral law, I meane the. x. commaundemenents, bring no man to perfeccion, and are nothing lesse thã able to pease the diuine wrath because of their vnclennes which do the commaundementes, yea rather which do them not, how than can this be

Iere. xiii.

ii. Cor. iii.
Rom. iiii.

Deu. xxvii.
Gala. iiii.

Iacob. ii.

Iohn. vii.
Actei. xv.

Gala. v.
Rom. x.
Why ỳ law was geuen.

i. Tim. i.

Rom. ii.
Exod. xx.
Deut. v.
Gala. iii.
Rom. iii.

Rom. iii.

Gala. v.

The sacrifices of the olde law.

Hebru. vii.

be brought to passe by external & outward ceremonies whiche are nothyng but tipes figures, cloudes, & shadowes of good things to come? Here therfore do ye nothyng els thā as the cōmō prouerbe is, go about to make an Ethiop whyte. For as touchyng your sacrifices, it is manifest by diuers places of the Scriptures, ỳ God hath no pleasure in thē. Wherfore, saith he, do ye bryng vnto me ensence out of Saba, & swete smellyng Calamus out of far countries? Your burnt offeringes ar not accepted, & your sacrifices haue not pleased me. Again, put your burnt offrynges to your sacrifices, and eate the flesh, for I did not speake with youre fathers, neyther did I commaunde them on that daye, whan I brought them out of the land of Egipt, any thing at al of burnt offrings and sacrifices, but I commaunded them this word, saying: Heare you my voice, and I shalbe your God, and ye shalbe my people, walke in euery way that I haue cōmaunded you, that ye may prospere. But they would not once heare me, nor gene attendance to me but they folowed their own pleasures, and walked in the lewdnes of their malicious harts, so that they fel cleane from me. To what purpose do ye offer vnto me the multitude of your sacrifices, sayth the Lord? I am ful of thē. The burnt offerings of your wethers, and the fat of your fatlings, and the bloud of your calues, of your lambes and gotes wuld not I haue. Whan ye come before my sighte, who requireth these thynges of youre hands? Offer, I pray you, no more sacrifice to me thus in vaine. Youre ensence is abhominacion to me. Your Sabbothes and holy dayes by no meanes can I away with. He ỳ offereth an ore, is lyke to him that killeth a man. He that slayeth a beast, is like vnto him ỳ wraieth a dog. He that offereth an oblacion, is like vnto him that offereth swines blud. Here se you that God hath no pleasure in these external sacrifices but rather abhorreth them. Than perceiue you ful wel, that this is no way to deliuer your selues out of captiuitie, and to obtayne the fauour of God. What wil ye now do? Will ye inuent new things of your own fantasy, and offer them to God of a good intente, that by this meanes he may be the more merciful to you? This also is yet most vayne. For if things prescribed and commaunded of God himself cannot obtain for you remission of your synnes, what shal then your dreames, your fantasies, your inuencions, your good intentes, your godly zeles, do in this behalf? Verely ye are in a miserable case. For ye may not put any thyng to the worde of God, nor yet plucke oughte from it. Ye must walke in the waye that God hath appointed you, neyther maye ye decline on the righte hand nor on the left hand. Yea ye may not do to your Lorde God that, whiche ye thinke beste in youre owne eyes, but that onely whiche he commaundeth you. Here therfore is no euasion, nor waye to escape the fearce plages of God. Certes the longer ye wrastle and entangle your selues in this behalfe, the worse ye are, so far as I can perceiue, so vnable are ye of youre selues, in any pointe to satisfie Gods

Hebru. x.

Iere. vi

Iere. vii.

Esay. i. Amos. v. Mala. i.

Esay, lxvi.

Thinges of a good entent.

Deute. iiii. Prou. xxx. Apo. xxii.

Deute. xii. and. xiii.

Our deseruing is euerlasting damnacion. Rom. vi. iiii. Esa. xv.

wrath, and to make him your frend. What refuge than can ye now inuente? yet is there nothing before your eies set, but onely desperacion and eternal death. For ye haue deserued no other, and the rewarde of sinne is death. Certes the hoke is laid at the rote of the tree, and euery tree that bringeth forth not good fruite, shall be hewen down and cast into the fier. Howe now wil ye escape from the wrath that is to come? Math. iii. Wo be vnto them that synne and kepe not my commaundementes, Psal. ix. saieth the Lorde, surely I will not spare them. Synners shalbe turned into hell, yea and all those people that forget God. For God shal raign Psalm. xi. snares vpon sinners, fier and brimstone, stormе and tempeste shall be Psal. xlvii. parte of their cuppe. As smoke decayeth, so shall the wicked decaye, and as wax melteth before the face of the fier, so shall synners perishe Eccle. xii. before the face of God. The moste highest hateth sinners, and he will be reuenged of the wicked. The soule that haue sinned, shal dye. The Eccle. xviii. Psal. xxxiiii. countenaunce of the Lord is vpon them that do euil, that he maye rote i. Pet. iii. the remembraunce of them oute of the earth. He that committeth sinne i. Iohn. iii. is of the deuil. For the deuil sinneth from the beginning. God is a cõsu- Deu. iiii. ming fier. It is a dreadful thing to fal into the hãds of the liuing God. Hebru. xiii. Wo be to you therfore O ye vngodly men, which haue forsaken the law Eccle. xli. of the Lord that most high God. If that ye be borne, in cursing shall ye be born, and if ye die, in cursing also shalbe your part what wil ye now do? Here ye see nothing but malediccion, cursing, wrath, vengeaunce, destruccion, perdicion, damnacion. Here perceiue ye no way to escape ỹ great displeasure of God, but only to precipitate and cast your self head long into hel pit to be burnt with the cõtinual flames of that most terrible and greuous fier. Remedy is ther none, al comfort is gone, besides sorow and mourning, nothing here doth appere. O the miserable case, wherin ye stand. Me think I see you now again very sory, much lamẽting, wrynging your hands, tearing your heere, cursing ỹ time of your birth, hauing pleasure in nothing walking as persons in distresse, void of al consalacion and cõfort. Verely I haue brought you into this case that your ioy afterward should be the greater, and that you shuld haue the more pleasaunt and ioyful newes, which I now bryng to you oute of heauen. For no man knoweth what a precious thyng a Phisicion is except first of al he fealeth himself diseased, and perceiueth that he hath nede of a Phisicion, if he intende to enioy the benefite of health. They that are strong haue no nede of a Phisicion, but they that ar sick. Now therfore heare again your most pleasaunt newes, that your sadnes may be turned into ioy, and that your ioy may be ful and perfect.

The miserable captiuite of man.

The knowledge of our selues leadeth vs to Christ. Math. ix. Iohn. xv. and. xvi.

God perceiuing in what miserable case Adam and al his posterite was set through the breaking of his most blessed and holy commaundement, agayne that by the enuy of Satan, death was come ouer all ỹ world, willing of his own free mercy without any of your merites or desertes, to shewe himselfe of no lesse puissaunce, to saue man, than the deuil was to condemne him, sayd at that presente to Sathan, whan

Gene. iii. Sap. ii. Titus. iii.

Adam

Adam had offended: I wil set emnite betwene thee and an woman, betwene thy sede and her sede, and that selfe seede shall treade down thy head. O most swete and comfortable promise. O most heauenly worde of grace. Here is the beginnig of your ioy and gladnesse. In Adam wer ye al lost, but in this sede of a woman are ye al saued. But who is this sede? Not Abel, Enoch, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, nor Dauid. Who then? Verely the sonne of God, euen Jesus Christ, which without the sede of man by the wonderfull operation of the holy gost, did take very flesh of the most pure virgin Mary, and is this day borne into the worlde. He is this sede of a woman, which shal tread downe the head of the serpent, that is to say, destroy hys power, deliuer you out of captiuitie, set you again at libertie, recõcile you to God the father, purchase remission of your synnes, obtain the holy goste for you, and make you felowe heires with him of eternal glory. Sathan, sinne, death, and hell, wyth al their army shal now no more agaynst you preuayle. For by this sede of a woman Jesus Christ your Lord, hath God geuen you the victory, So that now with triumphant harts and reioysing spirites, ye maye say, O death wher is thy sting? O hel wher is thy victory? For nõw is he borne, which shal slay death, and deliuer you frõ the power of death, yea from death it self shal he redeme you. And hel shal he swalow vp, so that Satan shal haue no more dominion ouer you.

Gene. iii.

The beginning of our saluacion, is Christ here first promised.

Esay. vii.
Math. i.
Luke. i.
Gene. iii.

Christ ouercommeth Satan for vs.

What it is to tread down ỹ serpents head.

1. Cor. xv.
Osee. xiii.

Moreouer in this sede alone Jesus Christ shal al nacions be blessed. In Adam ye al wer cursed, but in Christ ye al be blessed. Adã brought to you wrath and displeasure, but Christ bringeth loue and fauour. Adam is the author of sinne, death and damnacion, but Christe is the author, of goodnes, life and saluacion. Adam casteth you down into hell, but Christ lifteth you vp to heauen. Adam maketh you fyre brandes of hell, but Christ maketh you inheritours of eternal glory. By the synne of Adam many wer dead, but by the goodnes of Christ, grace hath cõe vpon many. By the wickednes of Adam synne came vpon al men vnto damnacion, but by the righteousnes of Chryst saluacion is come vpon all men vnto the iustificacion of lyfe. By the disobedience of Adam, many were made sinners, but by the obedyence of Chryste many are made righteous. Thus se you that in Chryst ye are blessed, that is, pardoned of your synnes and receiued into fauour.

In Christ we are blessed.

Gene. xxii.
Gala. iii.

Mark what we are by Adam and what by Christ.

Rom. v.

Furthermore this is he, of whom Jacob did prophecie that he shuld come being loked for and delyered of al nacions. This is that Prophet whom God promised to Moses that he would raise vp among his brothers, and put hys wordes in his mouth, so that whosoeuer wyll not heare him, shall perisshe and vtterly be destroyed. This is he, whyche was fygured in the olde lawe by so many tipes, ceremonies and shadowes. This is that kyng whose kyngdome God promysed vnto Dauid to corroborate and establysshe for euermore. Thys is that euerlastynge Pryeste, after the order of Melchizedeche. Thys is he,

Gene. xlix.
Deut. xviii.
Actes. xvii.
Exod. xii.
Num. xxi.
ex. xvi. xvii.
i. Par. xvii.
Psa. cxxx.
Psal. cix.
Esay. lxiiii.
Psal. cxliii.
Luke. x.

whom so many kinges and Prophetes haue desired to see. And nowe is he come which so long hath ben desired. Howe muche blessed and fortunate are ye therfore, vnto whō it hath chaunsed to see thys daye: ye may wel reioyse, and clap your hāds for ioy. For he is not borne to be vnto you a tirant, a fearce Lord a cruel iudge, an extreme reuēger, but a swete sauiour, a gentle Lord, a bounteous fauourer, a merciful forgeuer. Which thing ye may wel perceiue by his name, for his name is Iesus, geuen vnto him of God his father by the Angel, which by true interpretacion, is a Sauiour. For he it is that shal saue hys people from their synnes. Marke he shal saue them and not condemne them. If he had had a rigorous name, ye might wel haue ben afeard of him, but his name is ful of swetenes, pleasure, delectacīo and comfort. And because ye should not feare to come vnto him, behold he is not borne royally after ỳ maner of ỳ worldly Princes set out wt gallāt pompe, but humbly, mekely & lowly. For he lieth simply, in a māger wrapped in vile clouts, whan not withstanding he is Lord ouer al things both in heauē and in earth. But his kingdō is not of this world. For he hath not so muche as a place wher he may lay his head. Thus is he become poore, that by his pouerty ye should become ritche. O howe much are ye bound to this your new king and Sauiour, which whan he was in ỳ forme of God, yea very God himself toke vpon him the shape of a seruaunt, and becāe very man for your sake. If he had not done thus, certes ye had ben dāned for euer and euer. For your synne was so hainous and greate, that it could not otherwise be taken away but only by him. By him, yea by him alone are al your sinnes put awai. He it is, yea he it is alone, which putteth away your iniquities for his own sake, and wil remember thē no more. A righteous God, and such a one as saueth, is ther none but he alone. He is that lambe of God which taketh away the sinne of the worlde. He is that Sauiour, which is come into the world for to saue synners. He it is, in whose name and in no others vnder heauen, men must be saued. Moreouer diuers graue, weighty and serious causes ar ther, why it was conuenient that this your Sauiour should be borne. First, that in as much as ye al are greuous sinners and haue broken all the commaundements of God, he should fulfil the law for you, deliuering you from the curse of the law, wherunto ye are bonnd, or els saued could ye be by no meanes. And this shal this child, which is now born, do for you: I meane satisfy the law before he ascende again vnto his father, and set you fre frō the maledicciō and curse of the law. For Christ is the perfect fulfilling of the law vnto iustificaciō for euery one ỳ beleueth. Christ shal redeme you from the curse of ỳ lawe, while he is made accursed for your sake. For it is written, cursed be euery one ỳ hangeth vpon a tree. O what ioyful tidings are these vnto you for to heare, that Christ shal deliuer you from the curse of the law, and restore you vnto life, which before wer dead: Secondly seeyng that the world is without all knowledge of God, corrupte with Idolatry, poisoned with their Psal.xlvi.

Iohn. iii.
and.xiii.
Math.i.
Iesus by enterpretacion is a sauior.

Christ became poore for to make vs riche.

Luke.i.
Psal.viii.
Hebru.ii.
Iohn.xviii.
Math.viii.
ii.Cor. viii.

Philip.ii.

Christ alone saueth, and maketh, vs cleane from all synne.
Esay. xliii.
Esay. xlv.
Iohn.i.
ii.Tim.i.
Actes.iiii.

The vrgent causes of Chrystes birth.

Christ deliuereth vs from the curse of the law.
Gala.iii.
Deu.xxi.

Christ teacheth truely the wyl of his father.

their owne ymaginacions drowned with ypocrisy, & altogether set on wickednes (the head Pristes Bishops, lawers, Scribes and Pharises corrupting the holy Scriptures on such maner with their pestilente gloses) it is necessary that this Christe the wisdome of the father come down, and redresse these great absurdites, reducing & bringing the diuine Scriptures again to their true sence, ỳ men may forsake all Idolatry, al vngodly doctrine, al wicked customes, & learne to knowe the true God. And surely as he is come from God to be a maister & teacher so wil he vndoutedly teach Godly things. For he that commeth from heauen, is aboue al men. And that he hath sene and heard, that will he testify. For he whom God hath sent, speaketh the wordes of God. For God geu[e]; not him the spirite, to a measure. But the spirite of God is plenteously vpon hym, because he hath annointed him, to preache glad tidings to the poore hath he sent hym, that he shuld heale the broken in hart, preach deliuerance to prisoners, sight to the blind, and freely set at libertye them that are bruised, and declare that acceptable yeare of the Lord. The earth shalbe ful of the knowledge of the Lorde. Al nacyons shal resort vnto him. They shal say one to another, come, let vs go vp to the mounte of the Lorde, and to the house of the God of Jacob, and he shal teach vs his wayes, that we may walke in his pathes The people that walke now in darknes, shal se a great light, & they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, shal haue the light shine vpon them Christ shal multiply ỳ people and encrease their ioy also. He shal make them to reioyce, euen as men that make mery in haruest, and as men that haue gotten ỳ victory, when they deale the spoile. For he shal breke the yoke of the peoples burden. The wolfe shal dwel with the lambe, & the cat of the mountaine shal ly with the goate. The calfe, the lion, and the shepe shal dwel together, and the yong child shal not once be afeard of them The calf and the beare shal fede one with another, and their yongelings shal take their reste together. And the lion lyke as the oxe shal eate chaffe. And the infant so sone as it is wened, shal ly playing vpon the holes of adders and the child that is weaned shal put his hand into a cokeatrices nest. They shall not hurte, nor they shall not kyl in al Gods holy mountayn. For the earth shalbe ful of the knowledge of ỳ Lorde, euen as thoughe the water of the sea flowed ouer the earth. O what a singuler pleasure is this for you, which hitherto of blind gides haue blindly be led in al kind of Idolatry and wickednes to the great daunger and peril of your soules health (for if the blind lead the blynd, both fal into the ditch) to haue such an heauenly teacher cõming down from the bosome of God the father, which cannot lie, but will purely & sincerly teach you al trueth, that ye may vndoubtedly knowe the true, God, which thing is euerlasting life, and consummate or perfect righteousnes. Can any newes be brought vnto you more ioyfull than these? He is truly to much brutal, that reioyseth not at the hearing of them.

Iohn. iii.

Esay. lxi.
Luke. iiii.

Esay. xi.
Esay. ii.

Esay. ix.
Math. iiii.

Esay. xi.

Math. xv.

Iohn. iii.
Titus. i.

Iohn. xvii.
Sap. xv.

Christe confirmeth his doctrine wt miracles.

Thirdly he shall not onely with all sinceritie enforme you of the diuine uine will of his celestial father, but he shal also worke many straunge & wonderful miracles among you, to confirme his doctrine, and to shew that he is vnfainedly the true Messias, which so many yeres was promised before to come. For he shal restore ỳ sick to their health, the blind to their sight, the deafe to their hearing, the dom to their speaking, the halt to their going, the mad to their whole mind, the possessed of the deuil to their perfect state, the dead to their life, the sinfull to grace & vertue. Then as the Prophet sayeth, shal the eyes of the blynd be made to see, and the eares of the deafe shalbe opened. Then shal the halt skip as the hart, and the tonge of the dom shalbe losoned. They shall walke as persons deliuered and set at libertie of the Lord. They shall turne and come into Sion with prayse, and euerlasting gladnes shalbe vpō their head. Joy and mirth shal they haue, sorow and mourning shal flie from them. Whose hart reioyseth not to hear these most pleasaunt and comfortable newes? Fourthly he shall watch, pray and fast exercising all kinde of beneficence and vertue, yea and that not for hymself shal he do these thynges, but for you, for your health, for your commoditie, profyte and saluacion. Al that euer he shal do, shalbe done for your sake. Hys watching, fastyng, praying, almes dede, and al that euer he doeth, shal be done for you. Al his good dedes shalbe yours. His righteousnes, holines and godly life shalbe yours. Christes dedes must nedes be yours, for Christ himselfe is yours. This child is borne for your sake, and thys sonne is geuen vnto you. He is your new yeres gift. He that hath not spared his own sonne, but hath geuen him, for al you, how is it possible but that with this his sonne he must nedes geue you all thynges? Who shal now therfore attempt any synne against you that be the electe and chosen people of God? It is God that iustifieth and maketh you righteous, who than is he that can condemne you? O most blessed and ioyful tidinges. Fiftely whan he hath ful godly on thys maner both liued verteously, and also preached purely the diuine wyll of his celestiall father, the Bishops, the head Priestes, the Scribes & Phariseis, (whiche through their obstinate blindnes and pretensed malice shall euer hate hym, laye in wayt to snarle hym in his sermons, calumniate hys moste Godly doctrine, obscure his most pure and irreprehensible name) shall at the last grow into such & so great a malice and fury against Christ, that they shal neuer cease vntil they haue cruelly slayne hym.

Math. viii.
Math. ix.
Luke. xi.
Math. xii.
Luke. xii.
Iohn. xi.
Math. ix.
Luke, v,
Esa, xxxv,

Christe is ours and all Christes good dedes ar our good dedes.
Luke. ix.
Math. iiii.
i. Corin. i.

Esa. ix.

Christ is our newe yeres gyfte.
Iohn. iii.
Esa. liii.
Rom. viii.

Of ỳ death of Christ.
Iohn. vii.

Math. xxii.
Math. xi.
Iohn. viii.
Iohn. xii.
Math. xi.
Math. xii.

For they shal report hym to be a gloton, a wyne bibber, a frend of publicans and synners, one that casteth out deuils by the helpe of Beelzebub prince of the deuils, a Samaritan, one possessed with a deuil, one altogether set a madding, a seductour and deceiuer of the people, a destroyer of Gods tẽple, an heretike, a traitor, and one that forbiddeth to pay tribute to Cesar. They shal make his own disciple to betraye hym through gyftes & rewards. They shal bring in false witnes against him for to cõdemne hym to death. They shal bryng hym before the temporal iudges. They shal lay many thyngs to his charge vniustely. They shall Iohn. viii.

Iohn. x.
Iohn. vii.
Iohn. xi.
Luke. xxiii.
Maeh. xxvi.
Luke. xxiii.
Iohn. xi x.
Mark. xv.

shal mock him, they shal rail on him, they shal spit on him, they shal buffet him, they shal scourge him, they shal put a crowne of thorne on hys head, they shal nayle him on a crosse, they shal pricke hym euen to the hart wt a speare, they shal for very despyte hāg hym betwene .ii. theues and cruel murtherers, as though he wer ẏ chef & pryncipal. No kind of torment or vilany cā be inuented, but ẏ very same shal they exercise vppō hym. For from the sole of ẏ fote, to ẏ top of hys head, shal there be no hole place in his most blessed body. O cruel fury and furious cruelnes.
All these things shal he suffer not for his own, but for your sake, for your health & saluaciō, yea and that willingly. He shal geue his body to thē that stryke & hys chekes to thē that plucke them. His face shall not he turne away frō thē that rayl and spit on him. Like as a shepe shal he be led to be slain, & like a lābe before the clipper shal he hold his peace, nether shal he once opē his mouth. Thus because it is his plesure, shal he offer him self vpō the altare of ẏ crosse, & by his most precious blud pay our rāsom. By thys hys gloryous passiō shal he take vpō hym your infirmities, & beare away your sinnes. By his most blessed woūdes shall al your iniquities be put away. Al your synnes shalbe laid on his back.
His blud shal make you cleane frō al your sin. By his blud shal ye haue remissiō of your synnes. By ẏ precious blud of this Christ, as of an immaculate and pure lābe shal ye be redemed from the tiranny of Satā.
By the oblacion of Christ shal ye be made free from al wyckednes, de-liuered from the power of darknes, & caried into the glorious kingdom of God. For he is the lambe of God whych taketh away the syn of the world. This is that sōne of man, which is come to saue that which was lost, and not to destroy the soules of men, but to saue them. And al this shal come to passe by the oblaciō and offryng of his own most precious and blessed body. For he shal be your Bishop, not such one as also shal haue nede to offer for his own sinnes, but for yours onely, neyther shal he be like the bishops of the old law, which offer dayly for ẏ synnes of the people such sacrifices, as can neuer take away syn, nor yet make men perfect. But this your Bishop shalbe Godly, innocent, fautles, segregated frō sinners, and made higher then the heauens, whiche shall not nede, as ẏ other bishops do, daily to offer sacrifices first for his own sinnes, & afterward for ẏ the sinnes of the people. For he beyng wout al sin shal once for al offer himselfe. And this one sacrifice or oblaciō of his most blessed body shalbe able to saue so many as beleue in him, euen to the vttermost. Christ being the Bishop of good things to come shal enter into the holy place by his own blud and find euerlasting redēcion.
He through the holy goste shall offer himselfe immaculate to God, and pourge your conscience from dead workes to serue the liuing God. He once for al offeryng vp himselfe shal take away the synnes of many. By the oblacion of the body of Jesus Christ done once for all, shall you be sanctified. With one oblacion shal he make perfecte for euermore them that are sanctifyed. Here see you of what inestimable pryce the Behold the paynes that Christ suffred for vs.

Esay. i.

Esay. l.
Esay. liii.

Colloſ. i.

Math. viii.
Esay. liii.

i. Iohn. i.
Colloſ. i.
i. Peter. i.
Titus. ii.
Colloſ. i.
Iohn. i.

Math. xviii.
Luke. xix.

Hebru. x.

Hebru. viii.

The one sacrifice of Christes death serueth for euer to put away sinnes.

Hebru. ix.

Hebru. x.

sacrifice

The vertue of Christes sacrifice neuer ceaseth, but endureth in perfect strēgth for euer and euer.

sacrifice of Christ your bishop is. The vertue of it neuer ceaseth, but endureth in perfect strēgth for euer and euer, that the sinnes of the faithfull repentaunt may be forgeuen at al times by it. Christes bloud shall not cry for vengeaunce, as the bloud of Abel did, but for mercy, grace & fauour. Yea by Christes bloud shall all thinges both in heauen & earth be pacified, appeased, set at a stay, & reconciled to god the father abundantly. So that now ye shalbe purged of al your synnes by this one & omnisufficient oblaciō of Jesus Christ your Bishop. For he alone shall tread down the wine presse, and take vpō his backe the great and inportible burden of your sinnes all. He by his death shal slay death and ouercome Satan, sinne, hel desperacion, & al that euer may be against you. So that now ye shalbe made so cleare, as though ye had neuer offended. Ye shall now be so set at liberty as though before ye had neuer ben in captiuitie. And al this shal come to passe by the death alone of this yonge child now borne, whose body shalbe the alone sacrifice of al your sinnes, vnto the which as vnto an holy anckere ye must alwayes

Ephe. iiii, Colos. i. Hebru. x. Esay. lxiii. Osee. xiii.

Augustinus in Manuall. Cap. xxii.

Mark well.

conne for aide, refuge and succoure, trusting assuredly, þ his death is your whole hope, your merite, your refuge, healthe, life and resurrecciō. For your merite is the compassion and exceading mercy of Christ your Lord, ye are not without merite, so long as the Lord of mercyes doth not faile. And if the merites of the Lord be many, than are ye plenteous in merites. The more able that he is to saue, the more safe and without daunger are ye. Thus se you what a great occasion ye haue to reioise in the death of the Lord Christ your alone sauioure, whereby so many singuler and great commodities shal chaunse vnto you. God forbid therfore that ye should reioyse in any thyng at al, saue onely in the crosse and death of your Lord Jesus Christ. Surely but in as muche as it is not sufficient that this your new king Jesus Christ doe dye for your synnes, except he also riseth again for your iustificacion, therefore do I also declare vnto you these most ioyful and comfortable newes, that after he be once dead and buried, he by the power of his Deite shal gloriously ryse again the third day from death to life for your iustificacion according to þ holy scriptures. For God his father shal make him

Galla. vi.

Of þ resurrection of Christ. Rom. iiii.

Osee. vi. Ionas. ii. and. iii. Math. xii.

aliue after two dayes, and on the thirde day he shal rayse him vp, and he shal liue in his sight. As Jonas was in the belly of a whale thre dayes and thre nightes, so shal the sonne of man bee in the harte of the earth thre dayes and thre nightes. And as Jonas by þ power of God came out of the whales belly the third day, so in semblable wise shal this Christ by the puissaunce of God his father rise again the third day frō death to lyfe. By thys glorious resurrection of Jesus Christ, shal ye get the victory ouer Satan, sin, death, hel, desperaciō. &c. By this glorious resurrection of Jesus Christ shal ye be made righteous in God the fathers sight. By this glorious resurrection of Jesus Christ shall heauen gates be opened for you, which so long haue been sperred. By this glorious resurrection of Jesus Christ shal ye also rise again, and enter into

i. Cor. xv. Rom. iiii. Iohn. x. Iohn. v.

euerlasting

euerlasting life. By this glorious resurrecciō of Jesus Christ, shal God of his exceading mercy beget you a new into euerlasting hope, and an immortal heritage, which is kept for you in heauen. For Christ is ỳ resurrecciō and life, he ỳ beleueth in him, although he be dead, yet shall he liue, and euery one ỳ liueth and beleueth in him, shal neuer die. Here see you in how ioyful and mery a state ye shalbe set by Christs most glorious resurreccion. What is here but ỳ moueth and stireth vp to ioy and gladnes? To muche dul and all is he whiche at the hearynge of these moste swete and delectable newes doth not seriously reioyse. i. Pete. i. Iohn. iii.

Furthermore after that this Lord Jesus Christ is risen agayn from death to life, and hath continued here vpon the earth certaine dayes shewyng hymself vntaynedly to haue risen vnto his disciples and certaine other, than shal he by the wōderful power of his Godhead ascend vp into heauē very God and very man in the presence of his disciples, that they may be faithful witnesses herof to other, and sit down on the right hand of God his father, as equal God concerning his deite with his father in al vertue, puissaunce strength & power. By this his meruailous ascencion shal he go and prepare places for you in the house of his eternal father. For he is that waye, the trueth and the life. No man commeth to ỳ father but by him. By this his meruailous ascension shal he draw you all vnto him. By this his meruelous ascencion shall he gene diuers spiritual gifces vnto you throughe the sending of the holye goste that swete cōforter, which shal lede you into al truth. Although he ascend vnto his father, yet wil not he leue you cōfortles. For by his diuine spirit he wil be with you euen to ỳ very cōsummacion and ende of ỳ world. He wil not leaue and forsake you. For he is called Emanuel which is by interpretacīō, God is with vs. For he is ỳ God which will euer accōpany you so long as ye abide in his word. Yea he wil come & dwel with you. He wil offer himself to you, euē as a gentle & louing father doth to his most tender childrē. For this is his promise, I wil, saith he, dwel amōg thē, and be conuersaunt among thē, I wil be their God and they shalbe my people, yea I wil be their father, and thei shalbe my sonnes and daughters. Agayne though the Chryste shall sit on the tyghte hande of God the father almighte, yet shal he not be there ydle and vtterly fallen from seking your profyte. For he shal there continually pray and make intercessiō to God his father for you. This man Christ Jesus is your alone mediatour, so that if any of you doth sinne, ye haue him to be your aduocate, euen Jesus Christ the righteous. And he it is that obtaineth mercy for youre synnes. Whatsoeuer also ye aske of the father in his name, he wil surely gene it you. What wil ye desier more? Are not these comfortable and swete newes to heare, that you haue this day so precious a tre wel borne among you, yea and geuē you freely? Verely your ioye oughte to be so greate, that it could not be expressed. But let vs heare no ioyfull tidinges. Wha the time is once come that this world shal haue an end, then shall this your Lord and king Jesus

Of Christes ascension. Mat. xxviii. Mar. xvi. Luke. xxiiii. Iohn. xx. Actes. i. Hebru. i.

The fruites of Christes ascencion. Iohn. xiiii. Iohn. xii. Ephe. iiii. Psal. lxvii. Iohn. xiiii. and. xvi. Mat. xxviii. Iosue. i. Hebru. xiii. Math. i. Esay. vi. Iohn. xiiii. Leui. xxvi. ii. Corin. vi.

Christ alone is our mediatour and aduocate. Romā. viii. he. vii. &. ix i. Tim. ii. i. Iohn. ii. Iohn. xiiii. and. xvi. Esay. ix.

Of Christs comming to the iudgemente. Math. xxv.

Christ come ful gloriously from the right hand of his father in his mai. Cor. xv. iestie, and before him shalbe gathered all nacions. For at ẏ voice of the
i. Thes. iiii. archangel and trompe of God, shal all people rise out of the earth, with Esay. xxvi. their bodies, both faithful and vnfaithful. They ẏ haue done good, shall Iohn. v. come forth into the resurrection of life, but they ẏ haue done euil, into ẏ Rom. xiiii. resurrection of damnacion. All shalbe present before the iudging place of
ii. Corin. v. Christ. Euery man shal receiue according to their dedes. Than shal you Rom. ii. which are his faithful people receiue for your corruptible body, an in-
i. Cor. xv. corruptible body: for your mortal body an immortal body, & euen suche Philip. iii. one as shalbe like to his own glorious body. It hath not yet appeared ẏ ye shalbe. But know ye, that if he once appeare ye shalbe like vnto him
i. Iohn. iii. for ye shall see hym as he is. This day of iudgement shalbe to ẏ wicked and vnfaithfull, a day of wrath, a day of trouble and heauines, a daye Soph. i. of calamite and misery, a day of darknes and mist. They shal walke as Ioel. ii. men being blind, because they haue offended the Lorde, & their bloude Amos. v. shalbe shed as the dust, & their bodies as dunge hils. Nether shall their siluer and gold be able to deliuer them in that day of the lords wrath.
Math. xxv. For to them it shalbe saied: Depart from me ye cursed into euerlasting fier, which is prepared for the deuill and his angels. But ẏ daye to you, which are his faithfull people, and obedient to his word, shalbe a daye of consolacion, comfort, ioy and mirth with all gladnesse. For to you it Math. xxv. shall be saied: Come ye blessed of my Father, inherite the kingdome prepared for you from the beginning of the world. For ye shalbe take vp
i. Thes. iiii. in the cloudes for to mete the Lord in the aire, and so shall ye euer be w the Lord in glory. But who is able to expresse what ioy, what pleasure what mirth, what gladnesse ye shal haue in heauen? The eye hath not Esay. lxiiii. sene, and the eare hath not heard, nether hath it entred into the hart of
i. Cor. ii. man, that God hath prepared for them that loue him. Ye shall see hym Esay. xxv. face to face, vpō whō Angels desier to loke. With sorow, care, thought, Apo. vii. paine or death, shal ye no more be entangled. God shall wipe awaye all and. xxi. teares from your eies. Your ioy, your gladnes, your mirth shalbe per-Esay. li. petuall. All the pleasure of this world compared to the least ioye of heauen is nothyng. For this celestiall citie is of pure golde, like vnto cleare Apoca. xxi. glasse, & the foundacions of the walles of this citie are garnisshed with all maner of precious stones, the gates are of fine pearle. Yea ẏ stretes of this heauenly citie are pure golde. It hath no nede of the sonne, neyther of the mone to lighten it. For the brightnes of God doeth lighten Esay. lx. it, and the lambe is the light of it. In this citie shal ye glyster as the shi-Daniel. xii. ning of heauen, and shalbe as the starres, world without end. Ye shall Math. xii. be as the angels of God that are in heauen. Ye shalbe pillers in ẏ tem-Apoca. iii. ple of God. Ye shalbe clothed w white garments. Ye shal sit w Christe on his seate. Ye shal eate Manna ẏ is hid. Ye shal eate of ẏ tree of life, Apoca. ii. which is in ẏ mids of the Paradise of God. Ye shal haue a white stone and in ẏ stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saiuing he Iacob. i. that receiueth it. Ye shall receiue the crowne of lyfe, which the Lorde hath

hath promised to them that loue him. Ye shal receiue the vncorruptible crown of glory. Ye shal receiue the crown of righteousnes, whiche the Lord a righteous iudge in that day shal geue to al them that loue hys comming. To conclude, you shal according to his promise receiue euerlasting life, in the which ye shal liue with God the father, and this hys sonne Iesus Christe your Lord and Sauiour, with the holy goste one very God worldes without ende, to whom alone be all honoure and glory for euer and euer. Amen. i. Peter. v. i. Tim. iiii. i. Iohn. ii. i. Tim. i.

¶ A breefe rehersall of all those thynges that goe before.

Thus haue I declared vnto you the moste swete, most comfortable, most pleasaunt, moste mery newes oute of heauen at the commaundemente of the moste high and puissant God. Ye se into how miserable a case ye are redacted and fallen by the sin of Adam, and howe that by him ye are all damned and made the sonnes of wrath. Ye see that of your selues because of your imperfeccion, ye are not able to dooe any good thynge, that maye satisfie the diuine wyll and appease Goddes wrath. Ye see that the workes of the lawe can not make you free in the syghte of God, neyther are ye able of youre owne strength and free will so purelye, so spiritually to do them as the lawe requireth, that you maye obtayne remissiō of your sinnes, by doing of them. Ye see also that the sacrifices of the olde lawe came neuer put awaye synne, and as for workes of youre owne inuencyon they are most of all imperfect, and most vnapte to purchase grace and fauoure. Thus see you that of your owne selues, of youre owne polecy, of youre owne ryghteousnes ye are not able to escape the daunger of damnacyon, yea rather damnacyon it selfe. Therefore dyd I declare vnto you the comfortable newes oute of heauen, shewynge you that God, not for the workes of ryghteousnes, that ye haue done, whyche in dede are none, but of hys owne free and greate mercye hath he vouchesaufe to preserue and kepe you from the daunger of Sathan, syn, death and hel, yea and that by thys his welbeloued sonne Iesus Christ whyche thys daye is borne in the citie of Dauid to be the Sauioure of the worlde, so that for Iesus Chrystes sake God is well pleased wyth you. Rom. v. Ephe. ii. ii. Cor. iii. Rom. iii. Heb. x. Deu. iiii. xii. xiii. Titus. iii. Luke. ii. Math. iii.

Ye haue heard that the law hath condemned you, in asmuch as ye are transgressoures of it, and hath made you accursed. Frō this curse of the law shall Christ deliuer you, not from the lawe it selfe, that you shoulde Deu. xxvii. Gala. iii.

liue vngodly, and after a remisse & dissolute maner (for such haue no inheritaūce in the kingdom of Christ and of God) but frō the curse, seruitude, bondage, dānaciō of the law. For he shal fulfil the whole law euē to the vttermost. And his fulfylling shalbe accepted before God the father for the fulfilling of so many as beleue in him. And he setting you at libertie from the curse of the law, shall geue you a newe harte, and put in you a newe spirite, and he shall take away your stony hart and geue you a fleshly, that is, a soft and gētle hart, redy to encline to the accomplishment of Gods will. He shall geue his lawes into your minds, and write them in your harts, that you may euer after franckely and with a free spirite fulfil them.

Ephe.v.
Math.v.
Rom.x.
Eze.xxxvi.
Iere.xxi.
Hebru. viii.

We haue heard how this Christ shal bring you out of the darkenesse into the light of trueth by the sincere declaring of his fathers will. For he is the light of the world, and God hath geuen hym to be a witnesse vnto the people, a captaine and a maister among the heithen. And this his doctrine shal be cōfirme with such miracles, as shal euidently shew and proue that he is that true Messias, which was promysed to come. Againe ye haue heard that all his good dedes are yours. For with him hath God the father also geuen you all thyngs, so that he is your wisedom, your righteousnes, your sanctificacion and redempcion.

Ionn.viii.
Esay.ix.
Math.iiii.
Esay.lv.
Dan.ix.
Rom. viii.

We haue heard also that he shal offer himself for you to God the father an oblacion and swete smelling sacrifice vpon the altare of ẏ crosse and that by this one oblacion and sacrifice of his most blessed body dōe once for al, al your sinnes shal be put away: ye shalbe made perfect, and washed from all defoūmitie so cleane by Christes bloud, as thoughe ye had neuer offended here tofore. We haue hearde againe that as Christ shall die for your sinnes, so shall he rise againe for your iustificacion, obtaining for you the victory ouer sinne, death and hell, by that his moste glorious resurreccion. We haue heard that after he is once risen againe he shall here remaine certaine daies, and than ascende corporallye into heauen, and sit down on the right hand of God ẏ father, sending down the holy gost, whiche shall leade you into all trueth. We haue heard also that Christ sitting on the right hande of God the father shall not bee ydle, but still prouide and seke your health. He shall be your mediatour and aduocate. He shall make continuall intercession for you. He shall pleate your cause before God his father. He shall auaunce youre matter before the presence of God. If ye at any time excite or stire vp Gods wrath againste you through your iniquitie, he shall straighte wayes apease it, and make God the father, still your louinge father, whiche els woulde bee to you an extreme reuenger. We haue hearde againe that Chryste at the laste daye shall come gloriously from the righte hande of his father to iudge the quicke and the dead, and howe that after the iudgemente is once done, ye shall enter into glorye wyth hym, lyuinge for euer after in suche ioye, pleasure, and gladnesse, as can not by Act.v.

Mar.xvi.
Actes. i.
Hebru.i.
Iohn.xvi.
i.Tim. ii.
i.Iohn.ii.
Rom.viii.
Hebru.vii.
i. Iohn.ii.
Math.xxv.
Esay.lxiiii.
i.Corin.ii.

any

any meanes either be expressed by tonge, or conceiued in hart. All these commodities, pleasures and profites shal ye haue by this your new kig and Sauiour Jesus Christ, which this day is borne in Bethleem a citie of Dauid. What more pleasaunt and thanke worthy newes coulde be brought to you thā these? What coulde haue set suche a ioye in youre hartes, as the hearinge of these newes? Can any thing like vnto these, chaunse vnto you, so great, so welcome, so acceptable, so ioyfull? Verely if ye seriously consider the miserie wherwith ye wer oppressed and ouerwhelmed before, ye shall easely perceiue that ye haue an earneste cause to reioyse. No prisoner, no captiue, no bond slaue was euer in so greate captiuitie and thraldome, as ye wer, before these newes wer brought to you. If a prisoner reioiseth for his deliueraunce out of prison, whiche once must nedes haue an ende, if none otherwise, yet at ỳ lest by death, how great a cause then haue you to reioyse for your deliueraūce which wer captiues and prisoners to that horrible monsture and pestiferous serpent euen Satan himself, yea and that not for certayne yeares but for euer worldes without ende? Neyther was it your body alone, that was in captiuitie & bondage but youre soule also. Both your body and soule were captiue to him, so that if this your new kyng, redemer and Sauiour shoulde not helpe you, it coulde none otherwise be but ỳ you muste nedes haue been damned, caste into hell fier, there to burne, to wepe, to lament, for euer and euer remediles. But from this most greuous destruccion shal this child Jesus Christ deliuer you, & make you heires of euerlasting glory. What a cause haue ye now to reioyse? Your ioy cannot be expressed, your gladnes is vnmeasurable.

Math.i. Luke.ii.

Therefore seing ye shal receiue of this youre newe king so many, so great, so inestimable benefites, loke that ye be not vnthankful. Receiue this your Sauiour with embrasing armes. Runne vnto him, if not to the fete of your body, yet wyth the fete of ỳour minde. Knowledge him to be your alone and omnisufficient Sauioure, and that there is none other name geuen vnto men vnder heauen, wherin they must be saued but only this name of Jesus Chryste. Confesse him to be the true sonne of the liuing God, which hath now taken flesh of the moste pure and cleane virgin Mary, for your sake. Cōfesse him alone to be your peace, life, health, defence, goodnes, wysedome, ryghteousnes, sanctificacion, redempcion, pastor, shepeheard, Bishop and head. In all your trouble resorte to hym as vnto a stronge Bulwarke, that he maye ease you of your miserable burdens. Poure out your harts before this lord. Know hym to be youre alone mediatoure and aduocate. Aske all thynges in his name. Dout nothing of his great goodnesse and exceading mercye towarde you. Can a woman forget the child of her wombe, and ỳ sōne whom she hath borne? And thoughe she doeth forget him, yet will not he forget you. For beholde he hath wrytten you vp vpon hys hands so that euer ye are in his sight. He wil vndoubtedly ease yon of your burdens, be they neuer so greate. If ye thurste, he wil geue you of the well

Pſalm.ii. Actes.iiii.

Mat.xvi. Eſay, vii, Ephe.ii. Iohn.xiiii. i.Corin.i. Eze. xxxiiii. Coloſ.i. i. Tim. ii. i.Iohn.i. Iohn.xvi. Eſay. xlix. Mat. xi.

of the water of life freely. If ye hunger, he is that bread of life, which cam Esay.xliiii. down from heauen. If any man eate of that bread, he shal liue for euer.
Apo.xxi. If ye be sicke, he is a Phisicion, ready to cure and heale al your diseases Iohn.vi. If ye be bond and in seruitude, he wil make you free, and set you at li-Math.ix. berte. If ye be dead in sin, he is the resurrection and life. If ye walk in Iohn.viii. darknes, he is the lighte of the worlde. He that followeth him, walketh Iohn.xi. not in darknes, but shal haue the light of life. If ye be poore, he is ritch Iohn.viii. vnto al them that cal vpon him. If ye be wicked, prophane and foolishe Rom.x. he is righteous, holy and wise. If ye be oppressed with sin, death or hel, i.Cor.i. he hath subdued them al. If ye feare the wrath of God the father, he is Osee.xiii. your mediatour, aduocate and attonement maker. If ye haue condem-i.Cor.xv. ned your self through sin, he is a Sauiour, and wil saue his people frō i.Tim.ii. their sinnes. What wil ye haue more? ye want nothing, but he wil sup-i.Iohn.ii. ply it for you aboundantly, and to the vttermost. Feare not therfore to Math.i. come to this your new king Iesus Christ. For the very cause of his cō-Rom.x. ming is not to destroy, but to saue the soules of men. Receaue him ther-Luke.ix. fore with ioyful harts. Forsake all idolatry and vayne superstitiō. Be-An exhorta- leue in him alone. Put your affiaunce & trust in none other but in hym tion to the only. And let not this your faith be dead, but quicke, liuishe, and mighdiligent do- tie in operatiō. Let it be such a faith, as worketh by loue. First let your ing of good faith bring forth an earnest loue toward, God and out of this loue toworkes. ward God, let such a loue procede toward your neighbour, ỳ out of ỳ Galat.v. loue ther may spryng plentie of good workes. Be lyke vnto a good tre Psal.i. which bryngeth forth her fruite in due tyme. Be no baren and vnfruit-Math.xxi. full fygge tree, lest the malediccion and curse of God fall on you. While Gala.vi. ye haue time, worke good to all men. For God hath not deliuered you from the power of your enemies, and of all such as hate you, that you should still continue euil, or returne to your olde wickednesse, but that Luke.i. ye set at libertie and voide of al feare, shoulde serue him in holines and righteousnesse before him all the daies of youre life. The lawe of the Rom.viii. spirit of life through Iesus Christ hath made you free from the lawe of sin and death. Notwithstanding though ye be called into libertye, yet Gala.v. let not your liberte be an occasion to the flesh, but by loue serue ye one i.Peter.ii. another. Be as free not hauing the liberte for a cloke of wickednes, but euen as the seruauntes of God. For Christ hath not of his owne mere bountie deliuered you from the miserable seruitude of Sathan, that ye should run again to that your enemy, but ỳ ye should serue hym, which hath shewed you such great kindnes. Ye are now Christes altogether therfore must ye loke what he wil haue you do. For if he be punished, which disdaine to fulfil the commaundement of a terrestrial and earth ly Prince, in what case than are ye, if ye do ether caste awaye or despyse the commaundement of an heauenly gouernour? Certes ye ought so to institute and order your lyfe, that it should serue Chryst your captayne on such maner, that Satan should haue nothyng to doe wyth you, nor Iohn.viii. ye with him. For he ỳ doeth sin, is the seruaunt of sin. Therefore oughte you

you to cast away al sin from you, and geue youre minde to puritie and holines of life, and euer study to maintain mutual loue. For not euery one that saieth, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdome of heauen, but he that doeth the wil of God which is in heauen. He that pertayneth to Christ, is a new creature. And they that belong vnto him, haue crucified the flesh with the lustes therof. Therefore if ye be souldiers of Christ, declare it in outward workes. For it is a pointe of notable vnshamefastnes to bost your selues that ye pertayn to Christs army, and yet do no thing at all that he commaundeth. He that saieth ꝑ he dwelleth in him, ought to walke as he hath walked. If ye saye, that ye haue felowship with Christ, and yet walke in darknes, ye lie and do not the trueth. But if ye walke in light, as he is lighte, than haue ye felowship together, and the blud of this your Sauiour Jesus Christ Gods own sonne maketh you cleane from al synne.

Math. vii.
ii. Cor. v.
Gala. v.
i. Iohn. ii.
i. Iohn. i.

Wherfore yf ye wil enioye these most comfortable and pleasaunt newes, which I haue brought from Heauen and haue now declared vnto you, forsake all wickednesse, and embrace all godlines, reiect al ydolatry, and practise the true worshipping of God, cast away the workes of the flesh and put on the fruites of the spirite, mortifie old Adam, and become new men, to be short, let your light so shine before men that they maye see your good workes & glorifie your father whiche is in heauen, to whō with this your new king and omnisufficient sauiour Jesus Christ Gods owne sone, and the holy gost that most swete cōforte, be all honoure and glorye worldes wythoute ende. Amen.

Gala. v.
Math.

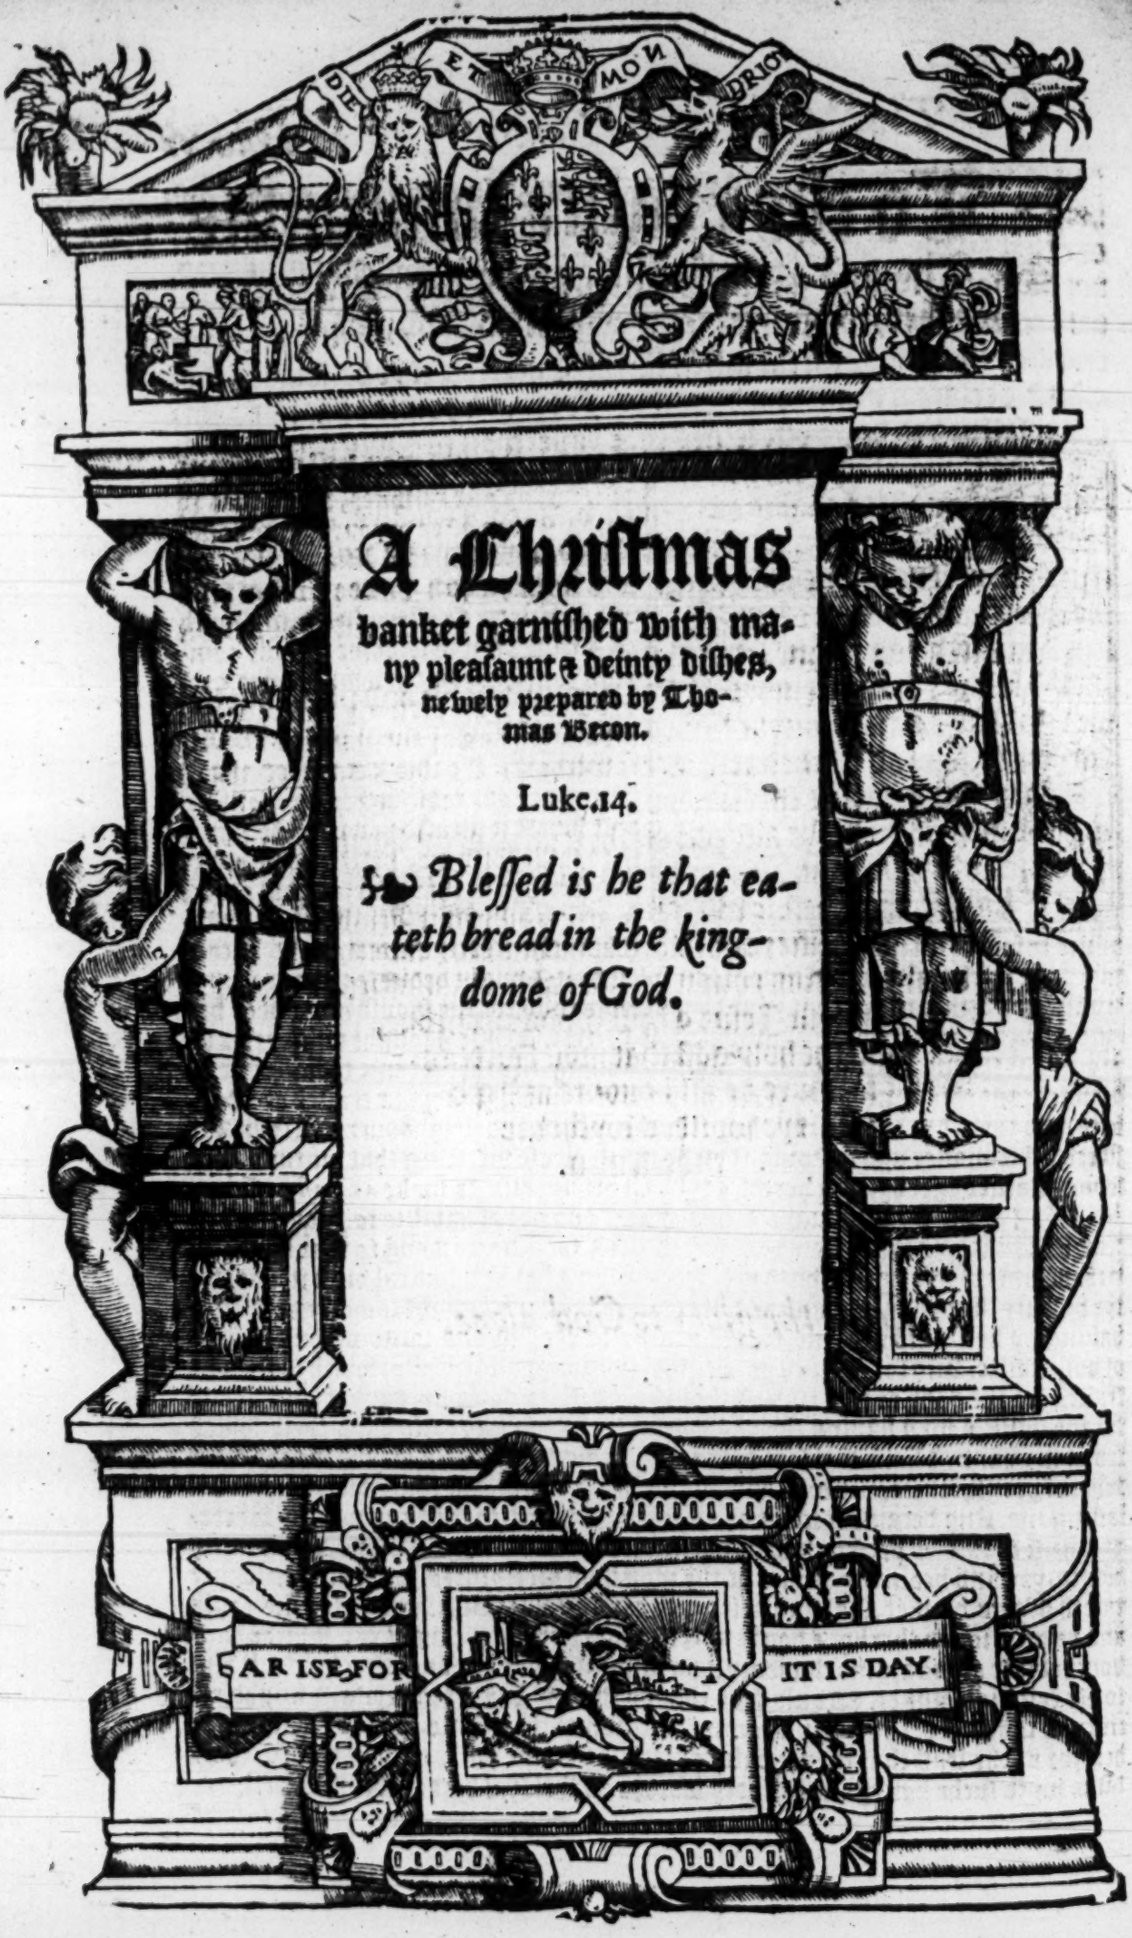
Geue the glory to God alone.

BRITISH MUSEUM

A Chriſtmas banket garniſhed with many pleaſaunt & deinty diſhes, newely prepared by Thomas Becon.

Luke.14.

Bleſſed is he that eateth bread in the kingdome of God.



To the ryghte honorable

Sir Thomas Neuelle knyghte, Thomas Becon wyssheth longe lyfe, contynuall health, and prosperous felicitie.

I Feare lest some men wil accuse me of temerite and rashnes, seyng that so boldly I dare offer to your ryghte honorable maistership this litle lucubracion and worke, which I made now of late, and entitled a Christmas banket, inasmuch as I haue been so seldome in your company, and haue not attempted nor proued at any tyme perfectly by mutual cõfabulacion howe your minde is affected towarde me. To this I aunswer, that I sitting at your table before six monthes past where it pleased you very benignely to talke with me, perceiued in youre maysterhyp at that time, as at al other, so greate humanite, gentlenes and affabilitie towarde all men, that it hath since that tyme greatly animated and encouraged me to excogitate and inuent somwhat that I might dedicate to your name, trusting by this meanes that your benevolence towarde me should not onely be encreased, but also made consummate and perfect. While I sought diligently an argument fit and worthy your benignite, among all other it came to my remembraunce that this time of the yeare, men vse customably to make feastes and bankets, and there vnto for to call their frendes, louers and neighboures. When I cõsidered this maner and custome, it did so much please me, seing that mutuall loue is maintained therby, that hereof I toke an occasiõ also to make a Christmasse banket. For I thoughte although I were poore and not of habilite to make suche a feast or banket, as the custome requireth, yet I would accordyng to that kynde of riches, wherwith god hath indued me, prepare some banket, and cal vnto it, not twẽtye or forty, but euen so many as wil come, that all men might commende Becon hauing no house of his owne, for his houshold keppyng and large mayntenaunce of hospitalite. And for asmuch as ther shal not want vniuersally, which shal make feastes for the body at this time, I thought it best, to make my banket, a bankette for the soule, ỳ men hauing their bodies fed of other, might also haue their soules fed at my hand, I haue therfore prepared a banket, not such a banket, as the meat wherof perisheth, corrupteth, and commeth to nought, but that abideth into euer lasting life. And because it maye be a Christmasse banket in dede, and worthy whereat Christ should be present I haue garnished it with many delicious, pleasaunte, deinty, yea and heauenly dishes of the most holy Scriptures. So that whosoeuer eateth of this banket, shal find in it much comfortable nourishment for his soule and be occasioned therby, I doubt not, to geue God hartye thankes, whiche hath vouchedsafe of his diuine clemency, and vnmeasurable goodnes, freely to call him to his celestial banket. Would God that by this my banket makyng, I might excite and moue other to vse like communicacion at their table, as they shall fynde here, or at the least that they would enterlase in some parte of their repaste theyr talke wyth suche honeste and Godly wordes as thei shal here read, and vtterly re-

Iohn. vi.

iecte

iecte and caſte away al filthy and vncleane communicacion, al ſclling and raſling al blaſpheming and curſing. So ſhould they haue Chryſt more preſent with them at their feaſtes, than many haue now a dayes, at whoſe table ſuch kind of talke is vſed, as may iuſtly ſeme not to be worthy of God and his ſonne Jeſus, but of Bacchus and Venus. Theſe be no Chriſtmaſſe bankettes, but Chriſtleſſe and diuiliſh bankets. They be no feaſtes fit for Chriſten mē, but for Gentiles and Ethnickes. God baniſhe onte this great abſurdite from the tables of thē that profeſſe Chriſt. Now for aſmuche as at the beginning of a newe yeare, the vniuerſall cuſtome is to geue giftes one to another, wherby they proteſte their mutuall good will, loue and fauoure: I becauſe I wil not ſeme to be eſtraunged from this point of humanitie, doe here humbly offer to your honorable mayſterſhip this my Chriſtmaſſe banket for a newe yeares gyfte, moſte inſtantly deſiring you fauourably to accept it, as the gyfte of hym, whiche wiſheth to you from God the father, long life continuall health and proſperous felicitie. Hereafter God proſperyng me in my ſtudies, and directing my pen in the trauaile of his word, I truſt to compile, vnto the glory of God, and the immortalite of your name other workes no leſſe Godly and profitable to the readers. In the meane ſeaſon that God, whoſe bleſſed worde you muſte intierly fauoure and folowe, mought preſerue in ſafe eſtate, youre good mayſterſhip to the auauncement of his glory, and the great quietnes of vs al in this country, by executing on your behalf, according to your office committed worthely vnto you by the kinges moſt gracious byghnes, ſuch iuſtice and equitie in your iudgements, as ſhal may turne to the vtter expulſion of all vice, and the high promotiō and furtheraunce of all vertue. In the trauayle whereof that lord mought aſſiſt you, by whom kynges raigne, and the makers of lawes diſcerne righteous thynges, by whom alſo, as Salomon ſayeth:

Pro. viii. Prynces beare rule, and the heade officers geue iudgement accordinge to iuſtice. Amen.

The

¶ The Chriſtmaſſe Banket.

¶ Philemon the maker of the Banket, Theophile, Euſebius, and Chriſtophor the geſtes.

PHILEMON.

I Thinke it very long vntil my neighbours who I haue bidden to this my Chriſtmaſſe banket do come. For I woulde be glad, that before we fede our hungry bodies, we ſhould ſuſtaine and feede alſo our hungry ſoules, which do no leſſe hunger for the word of God being the only nouriſhmente therof, than the bodies do for corporall meate, as Chriſt witneſſeth: a man, ſaieth he, ſhal not lyue with bread alone, but with euery word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God. Therfore that it might be a Chriſtmas banket in dede, that is to ſay, ſuch a feaſt, as whereby Chriſt may be glorified, and our ſoules no leſſe refreſhed than the bodies: I deſire verye much to ſee my neighbours here ſhortly, that firſt we may taſte, as it is conuenient and right, of the celeſtial table of Gods word vnto the conſolacion of our ſoules health, and afterward refreſh our mortall bodies with ſuch alimentes and norylhinges, as we haue receiued this day of Gods great liberalitie. And behold I pray you where they come. Brothers and neighboures welcome vnto me. Theophilus. Brother Philemon we thanke you hartely. Euſebius. We are come hither this daye to put you both to payne and coſt. Philemon. I pray you thynke not ſo, it is to me neither paine nor coſt, but rather comfort and pleaſure, to ſe you thus frendly come and viſite your neighboure. And I thanke you ryght hartely that ye haue not diſdayned to come at my requeſte. I beſeche you, that ye wil take the paines to come hither into my parloure. Chriſtophor. I am loth to go ſo ſone out of this your hal, which fedeth mine eies with ſo many Godly and goodly ſpectacles. Phile. Why, is here any thing that you thinke worthy to be loked vpon? Chriſto. Euery thyng is here ſo pleaſaunte and comfortable to the eye of a Chriſten man, that he being in this hault maye iuſtlye ſeme to be in a delectable Paradiſe, I had almoſt ſayd, in a nother heauen. For here is nothyng dumme, all thing ſpeake. Theo. I pray you what is there written vpon your parcloſe doze? Phile. The ſaying of Chriſt. I am the doze. By me if any man entreth in, he ſhalbe ſafe, and ſhal goe in and oute, and ſhall find paſture. This is done to put me and my houſholde in remembrāce that Chriſt is ỳ doze, by whom we muſt enter into the fauour of God, and obtaine the glory of heauen, as he himſelf witneſſeth, ſaying: I am the Gods word is the fode of ỳ ſoule.

Deut.viii.
Math.iiii.

The doze.
Iohn.x.

Iohxiiii. the way, the trueth, and the life. No mā commeth to the father, but by me. Euseb. This is Christenly done. What is this, that is written vpon your chimney? Phil. The saying of the Prophete Esay. The fier of them

The Chimneye. Esay.lxvi. shall not be quenched. Chri. This is a terrible and hard saying. Phil. I haue paynted this sentence in that place, that as the other fixed vpon doore maketh me to reioyse and to put my whole affiaunce in Christe, so this in like maner should abstere and feare me and mine from doynge euil, whā by loking on this text we cōsider with our selues the vnquēcheable flames of hell fier, and most greuous paynes, which are there prepared for the wicked transgressoures and breakers of Gods lawe This doeth incute and bete into our harts the feare of God, which expelleth syn, and is the beginning of wisedome. For he that feareth God

Psalm.cxi. Pro.i.ix. Eccle.i. Psal.cxi. shal do good things, saieth the Scripture, and shall haue all his pleasure in the Lordes commaundementes. Euse. What haue ye ther written in your windowe? Phil. Christes saying in the gospel of S. John. I

The windowe. Ionn.viii. am the light of the world. He that folowethme, walketh not in darknes, but shal haue the light of life. This teacheth vs, that as by this material window we receiue light into our house: so by Christ ar our soules and senses lightned with the diuine intelligence and Godly vnderstāding of his blessed worde, which els should continue in darknesse and i.Cor.ii. Iohn.i. ignorancy, for asmuch as a natural mā vnderstandeth not those things that pertayne to the spirit of God. For Christ is that true lyght, which

The table. doth lighten euery man that commeth into this world. Theo. Your table also, me thinke, speaketh. Phile. Herein is grauen ỳ saying of Christ:

Luke.xiiii. Blessed is he, that eateth bread in the kingdom of God. This is to admonish vs that we should not haue all our pleasure in eating drinking and banketing after the maner of the Epicures, but rather desier so to liue in this world, that after this life we may be fed in the ioyful kingdom of God by enioying the most glorious sight of the diuine maiestie. Euse. What haue ye paynted ouer youre table? Phi. The sayinge of the Esay.lviii. Prophet Esay, yea rather the cōmaundement of God by his Prophet. Breake thy bread to the hungry, and leade in the nedy and way faring into thy house. When thou shalt see a naked man, couer hym, and thou shalt not despise thy flesshe. Chri. Doe ye according to this commaundemente? Phi. I would be loth brother Christopher to professe one thing

Luke.vi. in mouth, and to practise another in my liuing. For that seruaunt that knoweth his Lordes will, and doth it not, shalbe beaten wyth many stripes. But in asmuch as we al are to muche slouthfull in doing oure

Duetie, and chefely in this one point, therfore I haue caused thys texte to be here painted, that it may alwayes put me in remembrance of doing my office to the poore members of Christ. For I tell you trueth, I

Gentle reders shall. thinke him no good Christen man, which receiuing many benefites at the hand of God, cannot vouchsafe to imparte and geue some portion of them to the indigent and nedy. You remember, I am sure, the story of his table, and yet would haue no pitie and mercy vpō the poore Lazar when he came to his doore, but suffered hym to dye for want of succoure, and therefore was he caste into hell fier, and there greuously punyshed. Euse. I remember it wel. Phi. This one story ought to moue vs for to haue compassion and pitie vpon the poore people, excepte we be myn-ded in this worlde to fare wel, and after this life with the ritch mā to be tormented in hel fier. For ỳ wise mā sayeth: The bread of the nedy is the life of ỳ poore, he ỳ defraudeth him of it is a manslear. The. Would God that al mē would remēber this, than shuld the poore people fynd more gentlenes at mens hands, than they do nowe a dayes. But what haue ye writtē iust by ỳ forsaid text. Phi. The saying of S. Paul to ỳ Colos. Be ye thankful. This sentēce is placed there for to put me in remēbrāce that I shuld at al times geue God thanks for all things ỳ I receyue of him, meate, drink, cloth, health. &c. But chefely whā I haue dined or supped, to be thankful for his bounteous giftes whervō he hath fed both me and my houshold. For Chrisostome sayeth. It is cōuenīēt that we both when we go to the table, & come from it, geue God thanks. For he that employeth himselfe to do this, shal neuer fall into dronkenship or lewd-nes, he shall not be diseased vō surfetyng but hauyng the expectacyon of prayer put vpon his sences in ỳ stede of a bridle, he shal eate of al things set on the table vō a decent modesty and honest temperaunce, and shall replenish both his soule & body vō much blessyng. For that table which beginneth and endeth of prayer, shal neuer want, but shall bryng to vs all good thinges more plenteously than any fountayne. These are the words of Chrisostome. Chri. Godly forsoth, and worthy to be folowed Euse. Neyther is this cup dum and spechles. Phi. Upon this is written Chrystes sayinges: If any mā thirsteth, let him come to me and drynk. This is not don to prouoke mē to superfluous drinking, but to put the in remēbraunce that if they thirst, that is to say, desier remission of ther sinnes, encrease of vertu, perfection of a spiritual life, quietnes of mind, purenes of hart, or any other good thig, they shuld hast to Christ, which geueth to hym that thyrsteth of the water of lyfe freely. For whosoeuer drynketh of the water that Christ geueth hym, he shall neuer thyrste more, but the water which is geuen him, shalbe made in him a well of water, spryngig vp into euerlastig life. The. Very Godly forsoth. Your dishes also want not spethe. Phi. They rehearse the saying of Chryst in the gospel of John: Uerely, verely I say vnto you, except ye eate ỳ flesh of the sonne of man, and drinke his blud, ye haue no life in you. But he that eateth my fleshe and drynketh my blond, hath eternall lyfe, and I wyll rayse hym vp at the last day. For my fleshe is very meate, and my blud very drynk, he that eateth my flesh, and drynketh my blud. dwelleth in me, and I in him, This putteth vs in remembraunce when we eate oure meate, of the breaking of Chrystes moste blessed body and the shedding of his most precious blond, and by ỳ remēbrāce of it, & the beleuing of ỳ same, our soules at that very present, ar no lesse fed & sustei-

Luke.xvi. the riche man in the gospell of Luke, which fared deintely euery day at his

Eccle. xxxiiii.

Coloss. iii.

Hom. lxxix. De ōracione.

Of the cup. Iohn. vii.

What this word, thirstie signifieth.

Esay. lv. Apo. xxii.

Iohn. iiii.

The dithes.

Iohn. vi.

ned, than our bodies are with the meate ẏ is brought vnto vs in these dishes. And this remẽbraunce of Christes death, maketh vs to be thãkful vnto God the father, and to endeuour our selues to liue worthy hys inestimable kindnes, and in al pointes to do our diligence ẏ God may dwel in vs by his spirit, and we in him through ẏ faith, which worketh by charite. Euse Here is euery thing so Godly and pleasaunt, ẏ it ouercõmeth al praise. But seing ẏ we haue begun to demaund of you these questions concerning the scriptures in your house, we wil go forth soto do, trusting that ye will not be greued with vs for so doing. Phi. Brother Eusebius I am not only not greued with you, but also very glad that these my deuices haue in ani point pleased your mind. Euse. I pray you what is it that your chaires and stoles haue carued on them. Phi. A saying of Chryst in the Reuelaciõ of Iohn: To him that ouercõmeth wil I grant to sit võ me in my throne, Chri. A very swete saying. But what meane you by this? Phi. It is not vnknowen to you, I am sure, how comfortable a thing it is for a wery body to sit and to haue a resting place. Chri. Trueth, what thã? Phi. Certes it is a thousãde times more comfortable to haue a place where body and soule after so many great and daungerous conflictes in this miserable world, may quetly rest. Therfore haue I writtẽ this text on my chayres & stoles, to put me and myne in remẽbraunce, ẏ if we wil find rest after this life, we muste seriously not dally, but fight võ Satã our enemy. We maye neuer gene place to the world, the deuil nor the flesh, but mainly resist thẽ, beeyng clothed with the armature of God & neuer leaue vntil we haue gotten the victory ouer them al. So shal we rest in the kingdom of God, or els not. For ẏ Scripture saieth: To him ẏ ouercommeth, will I grãt to sit with me in my throne. The. What scripture, I pray you, haue ye writtẽ here ouer your lauer? Phi. They saying of Esay: Be ye washed, be ye cleane, take away the euil of your thoughtes from my eies. Here so ofte as we wash our hands, we are moued to remẽber with our selues, if any malice or hate be in our harts towarde our neighbour. If there be any at all, we suffer not the Sonne to fal down vpõ our anger, but according to Christs precept we go streight wayes & reconcile our selues to such as võ whom we ar at debate or they wyth vs. Moreouer if ther be any other vnclennes or notable vice in vs, we streight put it awaye out of our harts by true & vnfayned repentance, and not only banishe ẏ vice from vs, but also embrace the vertue contrarye to the vice, as the Scripture sayeth. Decline from euill, and do good. Agayn, cease to do euil, and learne to do good. By this meanes hath synne no dominiõ in vs, but vertue very much. Euse. I would wish soner to come into thys house, thẽ into any palace either of Emperour or kyng. I counte hym to dwel in a fortunate yle, that dwelleth in a house so adourned & garnished võ the most odiferous, redolent, & swete smellyng floures of the holy Scriptures. The. It semeth vnto me also, that youre virginalles speake, although no man playeth on thẽ. Phi. They saye thus: The eye

hath

Beholde what the remembrance of Chrystes death doth.

Gala. v.

The Chaires & stoles.

Apoca. iii.

i. Peter. v.
Ephe. vi.

The Lauer.

Esay. i.

Ephe. iiii.

Math. v.

Psal. xxxiii.
i. Peter. iii.
Esay. i.

The Virginalles.

hath not sene, nor the eare hath not heard, neyther hath it entred into the harte of man ẏ God hath prepared for them that loue hym. Thys sentẽce teacheth ẏ though ẏ sound of ẏ instrument which is but vain & fedeth ẏ eare for a litle while, semeth pleasaunt & ioyfull to the hearers for the time, yet is that nothing in comparison of the celestiall melodye and heauenly ioy, ẏ God hath prepared for them ẏ loue hym. Therefore are we here admonished not to delyghte in fantasticall instrumentes, the pleasure wherof is more vayne, than the smoke, but in that melody and ioy, which is perpetuall and neuer decayeth, & so to institute oure life ẏ we may be partakers of ẏ vnspeakable pleasure & ioye. Esay.xxxiiii. i.Cor.ii.

Chri. The longer I beholde the partes of your house, ẏ more I am moued to meruayle, seing so rare spectacles ful of all vertue & Godlines. Your postes also salute youre gestes, so farre as I can perceiue. The postes.

Phi. They expresse this sentence of S. Paule, The temple of God is holy, which you are. This putteth vs in remembraũce in what soeuer part of the house we go, that we should so kepe our harts cleane from the infeccion of mortall synne, that God in them by his holy spirite might dwel perpetually. i.Cor. iii. vi. ii.Cor. vi.

Euse. I pray you what two great tables haue you hanging there openly.

Phi. This is the table of the .x. cõmaundements, which teacheth vs what we ought to do, & what to eschewe. The other is a table also which containeth in it ẏ offices of al degrees & estates. It teacheth vs what we owe to our most noble Prince, to our parentes, and to all superioures. In this table euery man from the highest degree to ẏ lowest may learne his office & duety. Therfore are these two tables red euery day openly in my house, my wyfe, and children, with al my seruaunts, beyng called therunto, & geuing attendance diligently to the readyng of the same. If any of my housholde transgresse any percel of Gods law, he is brought streight way to these tables, & by thẽ is his faulte declared vnto him. So that hereby he taketh an occasion to amend his life, and to be the more circumspect & ware, that he falleth not againe into that sin afterward. This is the order of my house. Other correccion thã this vse I none. Yet not withstanding, I thank my Lord God, all doe their duety so wel that I cannot wysh it to be done better. Two Tables.

The. O mercifull God, what haue I heard and sene thys day? so Christian a house, so Godly an order neuer saw I in my life. All householders maye take an exãple of you. Would God ẏ many seyng this your act, would in like maner folow it in euery cõdiciõ, garnishing their houses w holy scriptures, & trayning their liues accordyng to ẏ same. O what a florishinge realme than shonld we haue? with howe sincere faith should we serue God? with how feruẽt charite shuld we procure ẏ commoditie of oure neighbor? with how redy minds endued with al hũble submissiõ shuld we faithfully obey our most Christẽ Emperor, moste redoubted king, & most excellent ruler? with how feruent hart should we profligate and chase awaye sinne? with howe valeaunt courage should we amplecte and enbrace vertue? It cãnot be expressed with how many & great cõmodities this moste prosperous realme shoulde florishe to the glory of God, the auaumcement of the kinges most excellent maiestie, to ẏ great pleasure and contentacion of al your minds, if this thing wer brought to passe. Phi. I am here vnder God and my prince a ruler ouer this my litle housholde, and I thinke my selfe to be so much bounde in conscience to bring them vp vertuously, that if any of them should perish for lacke of my instructions their blud should be required of my hand at ẏ dread ful day of iudgemente, Chri. Would God ẏ al housholders, yea all Bishops & Curates would waite and attend vpon their parishes with no lesse diligẽce thã you do on your flocke. Euse. The very same woulde I wish. The. Thã should Christen men know Christe & his lawes better then they do now a daies, & serue their prince wt a more faithful & obedient hart. Phi. Wel, thus haue ye sene my simple wit in diuising these a foresaid things for ẏ right institucion of my self and family. And it pleaseth me wel, seing ẏ it doth not displease you. Euse. The sight herof hath so delighted vs, ẏ nothing heretofore hath fed our eies wyth so greate delectacion and pleasure. Neyther haue we ben here vayne and ydle spectatours but haue reposed all these thinges in our brestes, so ẏ euery one of vs intend to garnish his house & order his family in like maner, geuing you ryghte harty thankes for the calling of vs hither thys day Phi. Seing ẏ ye haue now sene the most princial pleasures of my hauli, I pray you vouchsafe to take the payne for to come into my parloure. The. We folow you gladly. Phi. Now are ye welcome hither. Chri. I pray you neighbour Philemon, what haue we here to do? I am nowe more rauished then I was before. Here is euery thing so godly pleasaunt that it semeth vnto me to be a figure of the new and celestial. Ie rusalem, which is so gorgiously decked & garnished wt all kynde of heauẽly treasures. But I pray you, what do ye meane by your table spred with a faire white & fine cloth? Again what foure bokes haue you laid vpon the table, clad & couered most precioully with cloth of gold. Phi. It is not vnknowen to you neighbours ẏ I did byd you vnto a Christmasse Banckette, and very frendely ye are come to me. Nowe that it myght be a Christmasse Bancket in dede, I was minded not onely to prouide meate for your bodies, as the common fashion of the world is, but also for your soules, or els howe could it be a Christmasse Banket? These foure bokes that lie here, are thus named. The first is the fyue bokes of Moses with certain other volumes of the old Testamẽt. The second is the Prophetes. The third the new Testament. The fourth, ẏ Doctours of the church. For euery one of vs here is a boke of lyke nomber, and for euery one of vs, al. These are the masters of the Christmas Banket. These are they which shal feast you. These are they, that haue in store so many Godly and goodly dishes moste comfortable for oure soules health. When we haue once taken our repast of these most delycious dishes, than by Gods fauour wyl we repare to the feast of ẏ body, which ẏ common sort onely celebrate, neglecting ẏ. which is principal

Exe. xxxiii.

Apo. xvi.

pal and most precious. Chri. We desier very much to taste of these plea saunt and deinty dishes. The. My hart reioyseth to heare these things Euse. We think it a hundred yeare til we begin our bāket. Phi. Seing ẏ ye ar so desirous to tast of this most Godly banket, come of, and that it may be done among vs with the more fruite, let vs al with one consent knele downe and pray to God for the assistence of his spirite. Euse. Agreed. Phi. If it will please you to geue audience, & quietly to heare, I wil pray in the name of you all. The. Let it be so. Euse. Yea I praye you. Chri. That is best Phi. Heare now.

The prayer.

Good God and mercifull father the author and geuer of al wisedom, which at the intercession of thy welbeloued sonne Jesus Christ our Lord & Sauior didst send down according to thy promise thy holy spirite to lighten the hartes and sēses of the Apostles before they could sincerly vnderstand the high misteries of thy diuine wil: we most humbly besech thee, that all cloudes of ignorancy and darknes dispelled and put away we being here gathered together in thy name, may through ẏ same thy spirite enioy the light of thy eternall verite, and so reuerently read and talke of thy most blessed word at this present, that we vnderstanding the same and being enflamed with the loue and reading therof, may in al pointes fashion our lyse according vnto thy holy word, and seriously prouide, that the lyght of al our actes and maners maye so shine before men, that they seeing oure good workes, maye glorifie thee our father which art in heauen, to whom wyth thy beloued sonne Jesus Chryste and the holy goste thre distinct persons in deite, and yet one very true & perfect God in essence, be al honor, praise, and glory for euermore. The. Amen. Euse. So be it. Chri. Lord let it so come to passe. Phi. Nowe let vs fall in hande wyth our Christmasse banket. I beseche God so to tēper our tonge through the influence of the holy goste, that we speake here this day nothing dissonant from the veritie of his holy trueth, but altogether to the glory of his most blessed name, and the comfort of all our soules. The. The very same thing we also wisshe. Phi. Now wil I bring forth vnto you the banket, and because I wil not onerate and ouercharge your stomackes with to much meate at once (although ther ought not to be any sufficiēcy, much lesse any nimiete in spiritual thigs so desirous of them at al times should we be) I haue at this present only prepared according to ẏ number of vs, foure dishes, ẏ we tasting of thē, yea rather eating, deuouring & digesting thē vō gredy stomackes, may haue the more lust & desier to returne to thē shortly. I pray you sit downe euery mā in a chair. Now wil I serue you with your first dish, cōtained in the first boke of Moses. Faile not ye therfore to whet your stomackes, & gredely to deuour whatsoeuer I bring forth vnto you.

Iacob.i.

Act..iii.

Math.v.

The first dissh.

Gene.iii. CVrsed is the earth in thy work. It shal bring forth vnto thee thornes and brambles. The. This is a dissh litle pleasant for the beginning of our bãket. Phi. Content your selues, it is necessary that this dissh hath the first place, that the other that folow may sauour the more deliciously to youre mouthes. The acrimonye and tartnes of thys dysshe shal so pearce your stomackes that it shal minister to you an appetite and lust to deuoure the other the more gredely. For I do not in this behalf folowe the maner of Satan, which promised first to Eue swete and delectable thigs and afterward paied her with things moste sower and displeasaunte, but rather of the Prophete Esay and of John Baptist, which first of al greuously rebuked the wicked in their sermons, and afterwarde comforted them againe most swetely. Nether differed Christ and his Apostles from this maner of preaching. Take therefore this dissh in good worth, and heare me now pacientiy. When through the suggestion of the old wily serpent, Adam and Eue had transgressed Gods commaũdement. God according to their desertes expulsed them oute of Paradise, and sent them into this vale of misery, saying vnto Adam among all other thinges this aforesaied texte: Cursed is the earth in thy worke. It shal bryng forth vnto thee thornes and brambles. Here do we learne that for the sinne of Adam all the earth, that is to say, all the creatures are cursed and made subiect to vanite. They now bryng forth no more goodly and pleasaunt frutes, but thornes and brambles, that is, sinne, wickednes, vice, and al other abhominacion. This one sinne of our first father Adam hath condemned vs all that euer haue been borne since, or shalbe hereafter. Euse. Me thinketh that though he be offended, yet his offence should not turne to our damnacion, seing we were not thẽ borne. Phi. Yes in good faith brother Eusebius: For his sinne was our sinne. His damnacion was our damnacion. His death was our death. I wil read vnto you the mind of the famous Doctour Origen, concernyng this matter: If Leuy, saieth he, which was borne the fourth generacion after Abraham, was than counted to be in the loynes of Abraham, much more al men that are borne or haue been borne in thys world, were in the loines of Adam, whẽ he was yet in Paradyse. And all men wyth him and in him were expulsed out of Paradise, when he was put out from thence, and by him death, which came vnto hym by the transgression, came also consequently vpon them, whom he had in his loines. The. I pray you let vs heare what the holy Scriptures say in this behalf. Phi. We read in the fourth boke of Esdras ỳ third chap. on this wise. The first Adam bearing a wicked hart did synne, & was ouercome, and not onely he, but all that were borne of him. Also Oste

Gene.iii.

Esay.i. Math.iii. Marke.i. Acte.ii. viii.

Gene.iii.

The synne of Adam is the cause of our damnacion.

Adams syn is our synne

In epist. ad Rom. lib v. Capit. v.

Osee.

the

the Prophete sayeth: They eate as Adam haue transgressed the couenaunt and therin haue they sinned agaynste me, that is, saieth S. Jerome, vpon this texte, In Paradise all haue synned agaynste me, euen like vnto the sinne of Adam. For it is no meruaile, saieth he, if ỳ which went before in the father, be also condemned in the children. But I wil rehearse to you more Scriptures: Of a woman came the beginning of sinne, saieth the wyse man, and by her al we dye. Christ also saieth, that which is borne of flesh is flesh. Again, how can ye speake good things, when ye your selues are euil? Also in an other place, Euery one ỳ doeth synne, is the seruaunt of synne. S. Paule also sayeth: By one man sinne entred into this world and by synne death, and so went death through all men, in as muche as all we haue synned. Agayne, In Adam all are dead. In a nother place also he sayeth: All haue synned, and wante the glory of God. Therfore Dauid confesseth that he was begotten in sin, and borne in sinne. And. S. Paule affirmeth plainly, that we ar borne by nature the children of wrath. What say ye now my frendes, doe ye not now at the last perceiue that the sinne of Adã hath condemned vs all, so that his synne is our sinne? Chri. We perceiue it well and beleue it also. Phi. I wil rehearse vnto you a saying of. S. Bernarde. In the fall of the first man, saieth he, did we all fall. We fell vpon an heape of stones and in the miet, so that we are not onely inquinated, spotted & defiled, but also wounded and greuously shaken, bruised and broken. Againe he saieth: Verely we are begotten in sinfull pleasure, therefore although it be agaynst our wyll, yet doe ye fele certaine vnlawful and beastlike mocions of concupiscences in our selues. Hereto agreeth. S. Austen saying, Marke brothers beholde that mankinde came forth frõ the first death of the first man. For synne from the first man entred into the world, and by synne death, and so went death through al men. Marke this word went thorowe. Consider ỳ ye haue harde, loke what this is, went thorowe. It went thorowe. Herby is the yonge child gilty. Sin he hath not done, but drawne. For the sinne did not remayne in the fountaine, but went through, not him or him but went throughe all men. The first sinner, the first preuaricatour begat sinners bonde to death. Thus see you that both the holy Scriptures and also the auncient Doctours do conclude that al we are damned righteously for Adams offence. So that euery man naturally, as. S. John Chrisostom sayeth, is not onely a synner, but also euery whit synne, as the Apostle sayeth: we were by nature the sonnes of wrath. And this is it, ỳ God the father sayd to Adam: Curſed is the earth in thy worke, as I rehearsed to you before. The. Than haue we learned here, that al we are cursed and damned in Adams worke, that is, for the synne which he committed in breaking Gods most holy commaundementes. Phi. Ye saye truth. Euse. This is a thing necessary to be knowen. Phi. Without the knowledge of oure selues, we can neuer truely know God nor vnderstande his holy Scriptures. Therfore wil I go forth to minister vnto

Tim.vi.
Ecclesi.xxv.
Iohn.iii.
Math.xii.
Iohn. viii.
Rom.v.
i. Cor.vi.
Rom.iii.
Psalm.li.
Ephe.ii.
Sermo in cena Domini.
Ibidem.
De verbis apost. Se.iiii.
Rom.v.
Ho. xxxvi. De aduen. Domini.
Ephe. ii.
Gene.iii.
Ephe.iii.
Marke thys thyng well.

Knowledge of ourselues necessarye.

you the residue of your first dishe. It followeth: It shal bryng forth vntō thee thornes and brambles. I pray you what other thing doeth our corrupt nature bring forth vnto vs than thornes and brambles, that is to say, sin, wickednes, vngodlines, and al that euer is contrary to the wil of God? And in dede sin may wel be compared to a thorne or bramble.

Sinne compared to a thorne.

For as the thorne and bramble pricketh the body and woundeth it greuously, yea and bryngeth many tymes destruction vnto it, except other wyse it be holpen, so like wise sin most greuously prycketh, woundeth and vtterly destroyeth the soule, except it be remedied by Gods mercye through Jesus Christ. The. I thinke this to be true. Phi. It therfore followeth that in asmuche as all we are dead in Adam, we are not able of our selues to rise again from death vnto life And seing that we are sinners, al that euer we do, must nedes be sin, yea it is sin in dede, and deserueth euerlasting death. For as the Scripture saieth. The disposicō and thought of mans hart is prone to euil from his ponge age. We are wicked children, and a wicked sede. We are that sede, which was cursed from the beginning. We are like brute beastes. We are carnall and flesshely, solde vnder sin. We are vnprofitable seruauntes. We all haue gone astray lyke shepe. We al are Hipocrites and wicked. We are al liers. We al are vncleane, & al our righteousnes is as a cloth polluted w̄ mensture. Al haue synned. There is not one that doth good, no not one There is no man cleane from fylthines, no not the ponge childe. Ther is no man able to say. My hart is cleane, and I am pure from syn. For our harts are wicked and inscrutable. We are not able to think a good thought. Al that euer we bryng forth is thornes and brambles, that is to say, syn, vngodlines, and al abominacion. What are we now of our selues, I pray you tel me? Chri. Very synners. Eusc. Yea and al that euer we do in Adam, and of our own strength, is plain sin and wickednes. Phi. I am glad that we haue learned what ye are of youre selues by Adā. I pray you what are ye able now to do for to saue your soules from this peril, whereunto ye are fallen by Adam? The. Verely I cannot tel. Eusc. Forsoth I thinke very litle. Phi. Ye might right wel haue sayd, nothing at al. For I ensure you that ye being left vnto yourselues can do none other wyse but syn, and fall headlong into all kynde of mischefe. Your wyt, strength, polecy, imaginacion, reason, and free wyll auayleth here nothing, to deliuer you from the captiuite of Satan. He leadeth you as the mayster doeth hys bond slaue, whither soeuer it pleseth hym, as Chryst wytnesseth: Euery one that doth syn, is the seruāte of syn. Ye remember, I am sure, the story of the wounded man, in the gospel of Luke, which being dispoiled and robbed of al his clothes and greuously wounded, lay still half dead. The. I remember it very wel. Phi. This wounded man signifieth euery child of Adam. The clothes signify, faith charite, iustice, mercy, and such other vertues. The theues are Satan and his angels. The woundes are synnes. Halfe dead is to be alyue in the flesshe, and slayne in the soule through sin. Al this are we by

The captiuite of man through syn

Iohn. viii.

Luke. x.

Marke here. The parable of the wounded mā declared

Gene. viii.
Esay. lvii.
Sapi. xii.
Psal. xlviii.
Rom. vii.
Luke. xvii.
Esay. liii.
Esay. ix.
Psal. cxvi.
Esay. liii.
Rom. iii.
Psal. xiii.
Iob. xxv.
Prouer. xx.
Hiere. xvii.
ii. Corin. iii.
Gene. iii.

by Adam. And as this wounded man could not be holpen of the Priest nor of the Leuite, vntil the Samaritan came, no more can we be holpen by any creature or worke, til Christ cōmeth the true Samaritane We cannot certes, we cannot helpe our selues, but euen lie styll in the stinking puddle of syn. Loke in what case Satan leaueth, vs in the very same do we remayne, except God of hys mercy through Christ helpeth vs. Neither can free will nor all the wyt and polecy that we haue, profite here any thing, till God indueth vs with strength from aboue. For as S. Austen sayeth: The nature of man although it did remayne and continue in that integrite and purenes, wherein it was made, yet could it kepe it selfe by no meanes, if the creator and maker of it did not helpe. Therfore seyng that without the grace of God it could not kepe the health that it receiued, how is it able to repare and get agayn that which it hath lost, without the grace of God? Agayne he sayth Fre will sufficeth vnto euill, but vnto good it auayleth litle, excepte it be holpen of that almightie God. Therefore is it well sayed of the Apostle, God worketh in vs both the wyll and the dede Hereto agreeth the sayinge of Christ. As the vine braunche cannot beare fruite, excepte it abide in the vine, no more can ye except ye abide in me. I am the vine and ye ar the braunches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bryngeth forth much fruite. For without me ye can do nothing. If any man abydeth not in me, he is cast out as a braunche, and is withered, and men gather it and cast it into the fier, and it burne. Thus see ye what ye are of your selues by Adam, and that no strength ye haue once to aspire or breath toward any goodnes, much lesse to do or work any good thing excepte ye be holpen of God. We see also howe full of synnes, diseases, woundes, sores, botches, cankers, and all that euer noughte is ye are. We se agayne, how ye are not able of your selues to recouer your innocencye, that ye lost by Adam. Chri. Alas what is now to be done? The. The rehearsyng of these thynges maketh me very sad. Phi. It shoulde rather make you very glad. For as S. Hierome sayth: This is the true wisdom of a man to know him selfe to be imperfect, and as I maye so speake, the perfeccion of all ryghteous men in the flesh is imperfecte. Againe he saith: Than are we righteous, when we confesse our selues synners, and our ryghteousnes consisteth not of our own merite, but of the mercy of God, as the holy Scripture sayth. The ryghteous man is the accuser of himselfe in the beginning of his spech. Therfore muste ye confesse your selues to be that in dede, which ye ar, that is, very sinners if ye wil be set free from this miserable captiuite, wherwith ye are now to muche wrapped and ouerwhelmed. Euse. We confesse the same. The. We now knowledge that of our selues by Adam, we are nothyng but synners, and all that euer we do wythoute the spirite of God is playne syn, as S. Paule sayeth: Whatsoeuer is not of fayth is synne. Phi. Wel seing that ye haue so frutefully digested the first dissh of your Bancket, now haue I a fit place, a conuenient time, & a good occasion to bring,

Epist. cvi. ad Paule.

Lib. de vocāt c. a. viii. Item. de cor et grat. ca. ii. Philip. ii. Iohn. xv.

In dial. contra Pelagi.

Contra. Pa lag. lib. c. Prouer. xviii

Rom. xiiii.

vnto

vnto you the seconde dysshe, as it foloweth in order. Chri. I praye you let vs tast of it. Theo. That thing also do I greatly desier.

The seconde dysshe.

¶ Philemon.

Our seconde dysshe is contayned in that same chap. wherin ỳ first is recited. Therfore devour this with no lesse gredy appetite than ye have done the other. For this dish is muche delicious and very wholsome for the vertuous preseruacion of the soule. I now bryng it forth vnto you. Behold here it is. I wil set emnitie betwene the and an woman, betwene thy sede and her sede, and that selfe sede shall tread downe thy head. Howe doeth this sauoure in your mouth? The. Very pleasātly forsoth: but we do not perceiue what it meaneth. Phi. Heare therefore: These were the wordes of God the father to the serpent whan by his craft and sutteltie he had made Adam to offende, and in them is comprehended an whole See of heauenly treasures. For they declare both our free deliuerance from captiuitie, and also the victory ouer Satan and all his army. when Satan had thought that he had gotten the ouerhande of man, and bronght him into the same case wherinto he was throwen for hys to much arrogancy and pride, thinking by this meanes to deceiue god of his purpose, which had made man for to supply the nomber of Angels, which perisshed when Lucifer fell from heauen: God wylling to shew himselfe of no lesse puissaunce to saue man through his mercy, thā Satan was to condemne him through his craft, pitied streighte waye the miserable fall of man, & afterward spake these comfortable wordes to the great confusyon of Satan, and the exceading consolacion of mā:

Gene. iii.

Gods free mercy toward man.

I will set emnitie betwene thee and an woman, betwene thy sede and her sede, that selfe sede shall treade down thy head. This woman is ỳ moste blessed & pure virgin Mary, whiche was here promised to bryng forth the sede, which should treade down Satans head. This sede is Jesus Chryst which toke flesh vnfaynedly of that most pure virgin, and beāe man for oure sake. And he it is, which was promised of God the father to treade down the head of the Serpente. The. I perceiue that by the Serpent ye meane Satan. But what is ment by the treading down of his head. Phi. The destruction of his power. For the chefe strength & power of a Serpent consisteth in his head. Though his tayle or bodye be striken or wounded, he foreth not much. For he will put them both in perill for the safegarde of his head, but if his head bee once stryken or wounded, than loseth he his power, than dyeth he shortly. Therfore is Christ promised here, not to tread downe the tayle or body of the Serpent, but his head, wherby is signified the destruction of his whole power. So ỳ now Satan shal neuer more triumph agaynst Gods electe.

The womā

The sede.

The treading downe of the Serpētes head.

Do ye now perceiue this matter? Euse. Yea forsoth Chri. I neuer hard so much before. Phi. Wel, now behold the great and exceading mercye of God towarde you, that ye may learne that to be true, whiche God speaketh by his Prophet Ose: Thy destruction, oh Israel, commeth of thy selfe, but thy saluacion cōmeth onely of me. Ye haue heard ỳ Adam sinned, and that through his sin al we wer damned. Thie. I remember it wel. Phi. The Scripture testifieth that so sone as Adā had offended, he hid himselfe, and fled frō the face of God, he was so greatly ashamed of the syn that he had committed. For after his offence he came not to God as he ought to haue done, neither sought he grace and remissiō of his sin at the goodnes of God, by confessing his sin with a faithfull repentaunt hart, but streightway after the transgression of the precepte he fled from God and hid himselfe from the face of God, and as they vse to say, put his head in a bush like a cowarde for feare? Oh wher are the powers of free wil, if man be once without the spirit of God. Mā hath now no power to seke for saluacion, but rather continueth still in his old wickednes, and seketh to be far from the face of God, coueting rather to be damned than he would once approch vnto the sight of God, sin hath so slain his courage, Satan in him hath so great dominiō: yea whan he considereth his wickednes, he is angry with God, hateth god and wisheth that there wer no God, that he might escape vnpunyshed, euen as an enemy of the publique weale wysheth that there were no king, no Emperour, no ruler, no gouernoure, no magistrate, but al like himselfe, that freely and without punishment he might deforme, teare, despoile the publique weale at his own pleasure. Now beholde the vnspeakable benignitie of God. When Adam had fled from him, and hyd himselfe, so that he had no hope of health, but vtterly despaired of al cōsolacion, loking for extreme punishmēt, to be exercysed vpō him at euery houre according to his desertes: God like a mercifull father soughte him vp, and spake before him the swete words heretofore rehearsed to Satan, that by this meanes he might receiue consolacion, and so besaued by geuing earnest fayth to that moste comfortable promise. O the vnmeasurable goodnes of this celestial father: He is that shepehearde, which neuer leaueth seking vntil he hath found ỳ shepe that was loste. He is that father, which ioyfully receiueth agayne into his house that sonne, which prodigally had spent al his substance. He is that Samaritane, which healeth the wounded man. He is that Lorde, which maketh of a blasphemer an Apostle, of a persecutor a preacher. And whēce cōmeth this his goodnes? of vs? of our good dedes? of our merites? Naverely, but of his free bounteous mercy and great goodnes. Freely and wout our desert worketh he this thing. We are saued by grace through fayth and that not of our selues, for it is the gift of God, and commeth not of workes, because no man should bost himselfe. We being iustified by his grace ar made heires, according to hope of euerlasting life. Not for the workes of righteousnes which we haue done, but according to his Osee.xiii.

Gene. iii.

The misery of Adam.

Free wyll. Synne.

The goodnes of God toward mā.

Luke.xvii.

Luke. x. Math. xxvi. Actes.ix.

Ephe. ii.

Titus.iii.

Rom. iii. his merry hath he saued vs. We ar iustified frely bi his grace. By grace are we saued, and not by workes. If by grace then not of workes, or els grace wer not grace. He did chose vs by his grace, and not we hym by our workes, as Christ wytnesseth, ye haue not chosen me, but I haue chosen you. Paul also sayeth, God did chose vs in Christ before the foũdacions of the worlde were layed. Hereto pertayneth the saying of the Psalmographe: Blessed is he O Lord, whom thou hast chosen and take vnto thee, for he shal dwel in thy inner courtes. That God of hys free mercy did chose vs wythout oure desertes, whan we were synfull and poore wythout any goodnes or Godlynes, he himselfe testifieth by hys Prophet, saying: I haue chosẽ thee in the fier of pouertie Euse. So far as I can perceiue now, God alone is the author of oure saluacion, and he of his free mercy & aboundaunt grace dyd chose vs to be his heyres, before the foundacions of the world wer layed. Chri. Yea and that before we wrought any goodnesse, or shewed any point of kyndnesse toward hym. Phi. Ye say trueth. And that ye may knowe that I waste not the Scriptures, I wyl read vnto you the saying of S. Austen. He was geuen sayeth he, for our synnes, and rose agayn for our iustificacion. Thy iustificacion, thy glorificacion is not of thy self, By grace ar ye saued through faith, and that not of your selues, but it is ỹ gyft of God, not of workes, lest peraduenture thou wouldest say, I haue deserued it and therefore haue I receiued it. Thinke not that thou didst receiue it by deseruing, which couldest not haue deserued except thou hadst receiued it. Grace went before thy meryte, grace is not of merite, but merite of grace. For if grace wer of meryte so hadst thou bought it, and not receiued it frely. Thou shalt saue them, saieth he, for nothing: What is this thou shalt haue them for nothing? Thou fyndest in them nothing wher by thou mayest saue them, and yet dost thou saue them. Freely thou geuest, freely thou sauest. Thou goest before al merites, that thy gifts may obtain thy merites. Utterly doest thou geue freely, saue freli, which findest nothing, wherof thou mayest saue, and findest muche whereby thou mayest condemne. Agayne he sayeth, thou hast done no good, and yet is remission of synnes geuen vnto thee. Let thy workes be loked vpõ and they be al founde euil. If God would geue thee that whiche is due to thy workes, he should surely condemne thee. But God doth not geue vnto thee that payn which is due, but geueth thee ỹ grace, which is not due. Also vpon thys text. To al that are at Rome beloued of God, saintes by callyng: Here also, sayeth he, he sheweth that it is the exceadyng mercye of God rather then thy meryte For he sayeth not, to them that loue God, but to them that are loued of God. For he loued vs fyrst, that we beyng loued should also loue hym. S. Bernarde also sayeth: Grace maketh me iustified freely, and likewise delinered from the bondage of syn. Hereto agreeth Fulgentius, saying: God geueth grace to the vnworthy frely, wherwith the wycked beyng iustified may be lightened with the gift of good wyll, and with the power of good worckyng, that mercy

Rom. xi. Iohn. xv. Ephe. i. Gods election. Psal. lxiiii. Esay. xlviii. God alone author of mans saluacion. Ephe. i. De ver. Apo. Ser. xv. Ephe. ii. In pro. Psal. xxxi. Ia. ep. ad. Roma. In Cant. Ser. lxvii. Lib. i. ad monimum.

mercy preuenting and going before he may begin to doo good and mercye subsequent and folowinge, he maye be able to do thee good that he willeth. Thus perceiue you, that when there was nothing in vs, wherfore God shoulde loue vs, yet he freely loued vs & chosed vs by his grace to be his children, as S. John sayeth: Beholde, what a loue the father hath geuen to vs, that we should be called the sonnes of God. Agayne he sayeth: In this is loue, not that we loued God, but that he loued vs and sent his sonne to make agrement for our synnes. And a litle after: we loue him, because he firste loued vs. The. What moued God to be so beneficial vnto vs, seyng we had offended so greuously, and wer thā by no meanes able to pacify his wrath with any good worke? Eutebi. This would I also gladly know. Phi. His owne mere goodnesse was the occasion of his loue toward vs for hys sonne Jesus Christes sake. In him, by hym, and for him, is God the father merciful vnto vs, and freely saueth vs with out any respecte of our good workes. For as S. Paul sayeth: If righteousnes came by the law, than died Christ in vain. And God himself sayeth by the Prophet, I am, I am he, which putteth away thine iniquities, yea and that for myne owen sake, & will remēber thy synnes no more. Put me in remembrāce and let vs be iudged together: Declare if thou hast any thing, ỳ thou maiest be iustified. And this is it, ỳ we speake of before, that selfe sede shal tread down thy head. Furthermore God said to Abraham: In thy sede shall all nacions of ỳ earth be blessed. This sede, saieth S. Paul, is Christ by whō al we ar blessed that is to say, receiued into fauour, forgeuen of our synnes, freely iustified and made heires of eternal glory. Chri. How commeth this to passe by Christ I pray you. Phi. Verely on this wise. When al we wer damned in Adā, God of his mere mercy and exceading grace promysed to Abrahā & to his posterite, ỳ ther shuld be one borne, which shuld deliuer thē out of their seruitude & restore thē again to grace. This dyd God ỳ father in the olde lawe not onely many tymes promyse, but also obumbrate & shadow by diuers misteries, figures, cloudes and ceremonies, that by thē the faythfull might receiue cōsolacion. And at the time appointed of God ỳ father, this man Jesus Christ came into the worlde. He was cōceiued by ỳ holy gost & borne of the virgin Mary, according to the holy scriptures: He was begotten of the sede of Dauid as pertaining to ỳ flesh. The. Yea and that whout the sede of man. Phi. Ye saye trueth. He receiued very flesh by ỳ wonderful operacion of Gods spirite of Mary, she stil remaining a pure & cleane virgin. It was necessary ỳ he shuld be borne of a virgin, for asmuch as ỳ nature of mā is full of carnal cōcupiscēce, & defiled by Adā, or els could not he haue ben a pure & sufficient sacrifice before God for vs. For by nature al we are borne ỳ children of wrath, sayeth S. Paul. Therfore whout the sede of any mā, which is corrupted in Adam, was he borne of the most pure & vndefiled virgi Mary, being cōformable to vs in al thigs sin alone except. For our sin was so great, ỳ it could be put away nether by any child of Adā

i. Iohn. iii.

i. Iohn. iiii.

All good thyngs are geuen to vs of God for Christs sake

Gala. iii.

Esay. xliii.

Gene. iii.

Gene. xxii. Gala. iii.

Blessed what it is.

Gene. iii. and. xxii. Deut. xviii. Exo. xii. and. xvi. Num. xxi. Esay. vii. Rom. i.

Christe true man of Mary ỳ virgin.

Luke. i.

Ephe. ii.

He. ii. iiii.

nor yet by angel, but onely by such one, as being of our flesshe, should be borne without the sede of man, and without any carnall corruptisser. And for asmuche as this coulde not be brought to passe by any carnall man, therfore was it necessary that the sonne of God shuld come down from the right hand of God the father, and be made bery man for oure sake, that he being both God and mā might by his most precious blud

Colos. i. pacify God the fathers wrath, and reconcile vs again to him. God so lo-

Iohn. iii. ued the world, saieth Christ, that he gaue his only begotten sonne, that euery one ẏ beleueth in him, may not perishe, but haue euerlastyng life. For God sent not his sonne into the worlde for to condemne ẏ worlde, but that the world should be saued by him. He ẏ beleueth in him, is not condemned. But he that beleueth not, is already condemned, because he hath not beleued on ẏ name of the onely begottē sonne of God. God

Rom. viii. spared not his owen sōne, saieth S. Paul, but gaue him for vs al. Again

Rom. v. God setteth oute his loue that he hath to vs, seyng that whyle we wer yet synners, Christ dyed for vs, much more than now, seing we are iustified in his bloud, shal we be preserued from wrath through hym. For if when we wer enemies, we were reconcyled, to God by the death of hys sonne, much more seing we are reconcyled, we shalbe preserued by hys lyfe. Not only so, but we also ioy in God by the meanes of our lord

i. Iohn. iii. Iesus Cryste, by whom we haue receiued this attonemente. Also S.

i. Iohn. iiii. John saieth: For this purpose appered the sonne of God, for to loose the works of the deuil. Again, in this appeared the loue of god to vs ward, because that God sent his only begotten sonne into the world, that we might liue through hym. Thus se you ẏ whan there was no hope of sal uacion for vs in any creature, God of his owen free goodnes sent down his only begotten sonne to be a Sauioure vnto vs. Euse. This doe we Math. i. Iesus what it signifieth perceiue right wel. Phi. Now marke agayne, how ẏ by hym alone we Actes. iiii. are saued. His name is Iesus, that is to say, a Sautour, for he it is that Actes. x. saueth his people from their sinnes, neyther is there any other name ge-

Actes. xiii. uen vnto mē vnder heauen, wherin they must be saued, but only bi this

Iohn. i. name Iesus. To him geueth al the Prophetes witnes, ẏ throughe hys Iohn. xi. name, al shal receiue remission of synnes, that beleue in him. Be it kno-

Iohn. xiiii. wen vnto you, ye men and brothers, that by this Iesus Christ remissiō

Iohn. x. of synnes is preached vnto you, and from al things, from the which ye

Iohn. xv. could not be iustified by the law of Moses, by hym is euery one ẏ bele-

i. Cor. i. ueth iustified. He is that lambe of God, which taketh awaye the syn of Ephe. ii. the world. He is our resurrectiō and life. He is the way, truth and lyfe.

i. Timo. ii. No mā commeth to the father but by him He is the good shepeheard,

i. Iohn. ii. by whō we be saued frō the wolfe. He is the doze, by whō we must en-

Apo. xxi. ter into grace. He is the vine, in whom we being ingrafted must nedes

Rom. v. bring forth much fruit. He is our wisedom, righteousnes, sanctificatiō &

Christ is the beginninge and endinge of al our sal uacion. redēction. He is our peace. He is our mediator & aduocate. He is alpha & omega (ẏ is) both the beginning & endyng of our saluacion. Moreouer by him are we at peace with God. By him haue we a waye in through faith vnto this fauor, wherin we stand, and reioice in hope of the prayse that shalbe geuē of God. By him is the fauor of God plēteous toward vs. By him and his righteoulnes ar we made righteous. By him hath the lawe of the spirit of life made vs fre from the lawe of sin and death. By him hath God the father blessed vs w al spirit ual blessyng in heauenly things. By him did God chose vs, before the foundations of the world wer layed, ꝑ we shuld be sanctes & fauries before him. By him ar we made nere to God ꝑ father. By him haue we redēcion, by his bloud remission of sinnes. By him ar al things both in heauen & earth gathered together. By him we, which in times past wer far of, ar made nigh through his blud. By him we haue an open way vnto ꝑ father. By him ar at our sinnes forgeuen vs. By hym ar we deliuered from ꝑ wrath to come. By him & by his blud ar we made cleane from all sin. By him and by the oblacion of his most blessed body done once for at ar we sanctified. Yea by ꝑ one oblacion hath he made perfect for euermore them that ar sanctified. To cōcinde, by hym is euerlasting life geue vnto vs. This see you that by Christ al good things chaunce vnto vs, and that God ꝑ father is wel pleased and set at one w vs for his sake, as he himself witnesseth. This is my welbeloued son in whom I am wel pleased or for whose sake I am fully contented w man. Hereto agreeth ꝑ saying of S. Austen. Al that euer receiue euerlasting life, receiue it not but by Christ. Therfore sayeth he in another place. Al my hope is in the death of my Lord. His death is my merite my refuge, succour, health, life, and my resurrection. My merite is the compassion of the Lord. I am not with out merite, so long as the Lord of mercies shal not want. And ꝑ mercies of ꝑ Lord be many, I am plenteous in merites. The stronger he is to saue, the more rowm hath he to forgeue. Let vs therfore geue thanks, that eth he, to ꝑ Lorde our sauioure, which no merites going before, hath healed vs ꝑ wer wounded, reconciled vs his enemyes, redemed vs to captiuitie, brought vs agai out of our darknes into light, called vs again from death to life, and let vs not onely confesse our sinnes & weaknes vnto him mercye, and in al muche as he hath preuented vs, as the Psalmograph sayth, pray vnto him mercy, he may vouchesafe not only to preserue and kepe in vs, but also to augment & encrease his giftes & benefites, which he hath vouchesafed to geue vs. Christ. Amen. The. So be it. Luke. Lord let it so come to pas. Fr. Now both I desire nothyng more of your Banket pleasaunt & comfortable to our soules health. Luke. We haue now learned what we are of our selues, and what we owe of right to be, wherein. But by what medles shal we come by it, what thing may be the occasion wherby we may receiue so many & so great benefites at ꝑ hand of God ꝑ father for Christes sake. I pray you a good reason why he place this vnto vs. Pet. I neuer had a question asked in better time. For the answer to it is your part vnto, which before you proponed this question. I was fully determined to set before you. And now here it is.

fayth

Rom. viii.
Ephesi. i.
Ephe. ii.
Colos. iii.
1. Thes. i.
1. Iohn. i.
Hebru. x.
Rom. vi.
Math. iii.
Ad vipal. Ep. cvi.
In manuel. capi. xxii.
Lib. i. Hom. xiiii.

The thirde dissh.

¶ Philemon.

Marke.i.

Hom.lxxx. de penitencia.

Repentãce what it is.

Psal. xxxiii.

Math.iii. Luke. xxiiii.

Peter .iii.

Actes.ii.

In.Math. Hom.xiii.

Math.ix.

i.Reg.xii.

Exãples of repentãce.

iii.Reg.xx.

REpent, & beleue the gospel. These wer ꝑ wordes that our sauiour Christ, as Marke testifieth, vsed when he begã to preache. In ꝑ which he declareth by what meanes we may obtain remission of our sinnes, & the celestial heritage of Gods glory. Repent (saith he) and beleue the gospel. Furthe he exhorteth vs to repẽtance, which is, as Chrisostom sayeth, not only to cease frõ the old euils, but also to folow better offices, & such thinges as ought of duety to be done, as Dauid saieth: Decline frõ euil, & do good. S. Iohn ꝑ Baptist in like maner in ꝑ beginning of his preaching said: Repent, for ꝑ kingdõ of heauẽ is at hand. Christ also after his resurrection cõmaunded his Apostles to preach repẽtance & remission of sinnes in his name vnto al nacions. Likewise we read in ꝑ Actes of ꝑ Apostles ꝑ whẽ Peter preached to ꝑ Iewes much of Chryst, & shewed thẽ that he was ꝑ same Lord Iesus, whõ they had crucified, they were pricked in their harts & sayd: Ye mẽ & brethrẽ what shal we do? Peter saied vnto thẽ: Repẽt, & be baptised euery one of you in ꝑ name of Iesus Christ for ꝑ remission of sinnes, & ye shal receiue ꝑ gift of ꝑ holy gost. Here see you ꝑ Christ & hys Apostles declared repentaunce to be a meane whereby we may obtain remission of our sinnes and euerlasting life. And ꝑ you may perceiue ꝑ matter ꝑ more plainly, I will liuely paint in most eudent colours & let it out before your eyes. In certaine Godly histories of both Testamẽts ꝑ ye may learne ꝑ to be true, which Chrisostome sayeth. The. I pray you, what sayeth he? Phi. There is not, sayth he, ther is not, beleue me, any syn in the world, that doeth not geue place to the vertu of repentaunce, yea rather to the grace of God, which when we turne to better thinges, doeth streight waies worke to vs. Eusc. This is a comfortable saying for sinners. Phi. Yea & in al pointes agreeable to the holy scriptures. For Christ came not to cal the righteous, but sinners vnto repentaunce. Now marke for your healthy & consolation. Dauid committed both manslaughter & adultry, & therfore was he rebuked many euils of God by his Prophet Nathã. Not withstanding he had not so sone repẽted him of his acte, & confessed his faulte, saying: I haue offended ꝑ Lorde. but ꝑ Prophet sayd: The Lorde hath turned away thy syn, thou shalt not dy. King Achab also did slay his subiect Naboth, that he might enioy his vineyard. And God therfore sent his Prophet Helias vnto him for to tell him that the dogges should licke his bloud also euen there, where they licked the bloud of Naboth, and that euery one of the house of Achab that maketh water against the wall, should be slaine &c. Achab streight waye was ashamed of his faulte, repented, cut his clothes, couered his flesh with garmentes of heer, fasted, slept in sacke cloth, & walked in a heauy countenaunce, & therfore God sayd his repentaunt harte, sayed that he would not dyng in that euil in his dayes, but in his sonnes time. Againe king Manasses, in asmuch as he repented, for al the abomination ꝑ he committed against God and his glory, was forgeuen, & afterward nombred amõg the frendes of God. The Niniuites were threatned vñto in .xl. daies to be subuerted for their dissolute & wicked liuing. But they dyng strikẽ vñto repentãce in ꝑ mene season, and mẽding their life, receiued fauor and were saued. As I maye come nerer home, as they say, who was more famous in sin than Mary Magdalene, yet in asmuch as she faithfully repẽted, & bewailed her sinful liuing, her sinnes were forgeuen her. Peter denied Christe, yet seing he repented and wept bitterly for his offẽce, he was fauourably receiued to grace. The prodigall sonne although he had consumed all his goods, was ioyfully receiued in as much as he repẽted & knowledged his offẽce. The theefe called neuer for grace til the houre of death, yet seing ꝑ he bewailed thã his misery, and mercy, he was heard, & went vñto Christe into Paradise. Doe not these histories besides other, shewe of what great stregth repẽtãce is? Chri. Certes they be very comfortable for poore afflict sinners. Phi. Thus se you ꝑ repentãce is a great cause of the mitigacõ of Gods wrath, yea & an acceptable Sacrifice to God as Dauid saieth, A sacrifice vñto God is a troubled spirite, a cõtrite & humble hart God will not despise. Thus repentaũce maketh a mã to dy vnto sin, and to liue vnto righteousnes. It mãketh vs so long as we ar in this world valeantly to enarme our selues, and to enter battayle wyth Satan and his army, and cõtinually to fight against our enemies. It maketh vs to hate al wickednes, & embrace al vertu, so ꝑ daily we procede more & more frõ faith to faith, & frõ vertu to vertu. It maketh vs to hũger & thirst after righteousnes. It maketh vs to desier to be dissolued frõ this mortal body, and to be vñ Christ. No mã is able to expresse sufficiently the excellency and vertus of this true & faithful repentãce. And this is it, which maketh Christ so bolt to cry out on this maner: O repentãce, which through Gods mercy forgeuest sin, & openest Paradise, which healest a mã cõtrite and broke, & makest merry him that is sad, restest again life frõ death, restorest the state, renuest the bonds, geuest boldnes, restorest strengthes, and preuayest in again grace more aboũdant. O repentaunce, what new thyng shal I tel of thee? Thou doest loose all things that are bounde. All things loosened doest thou set at liberty. All troublous things dost thou mitigate. All things broken doest thou make whole. All confused things dost thou make cleare. All despe rate things dost thou encourage. O repentãce more radiant & shining than gold, more bright than the sonne, whom sin doth not ouercome, nor delectacion corrupte, nor desperacion put aback. Repentaunce whereby loue liuely, wretched brethren, or che with clamour & madnes, maketh louing, wretched bondmen free, retrayning thy tonge, fashioneth maners, falsety maketh, excludeth enuye, perfect repentaunce compelleth a sinner to fulfil all thynges gladlye. If a violente person seue that that he iiii. Reg. xxi. ii. Pa. xxxiiii

Ionas. iii.

Luke. vii.

Math. xxvi.

Luke. xv.

Luke. xxiii.

Psalm. l.

Behelde what true repentaũce worketh in man.

Rom. ii. Psa. lxxxviii. Math. v. Philip. ii. Ser. xxix. De penitẽcia.

The prayse of repentãce hath he forbidden him not. If he taketh awaye his garment, he streweth not againſt him. To him that striketh the one cheke he preſenteth the other. If any man will compel him to go a mile with him, he will of his owne free will go two. If he be chaſtiſed he geueth him thankes. If he be prouoked, he holdeth his peace. If he be sharpely ſpoken vnto, he ſpeaketh gently againe. To his ſuperiour he geueth reuerence. To his inferiour, he is lowly. In his hart is contriction, in his mouth confeſſiō, in his worke al humilitie. This is that perfect and fruitful repentance.

To him that repenteth ſo, God is at hand, a norſyher to him that is hūgry, a geuer of drynke to him that is thirſty. O repentance the mother of mercy, the maiſtres of vertues, thy worke are great, wherwith thou doſt loſen the gilty, refreſheſt them that offend, ruleſt them ꝑ ſlide, recreateſt the deſperate. By the Chriſt, appointeth vs that the kingdom of heauen is at hand, ſaying. Repente, for the kingdome of heauen is at hand. Hitherto haue I rehearſed vnto you the mind of Chriſoſtom concerning repentaunce, wherby ye may perceiue, as I ſayed before, that repentaunce is one of the principal meanes, wherby we obtaine remiſ-ſyon of ſinnes and the kingdome of heauen. Euſe. God geue vs all grace truely to repent. The. But how ſhal we know, whan we truely repent on ſuch maner, ꝑ it prouoketh God to be merciful to vs. Chri. In dede this is a thing neceſſary to be knowen. Phi. To this your queſtion ſhal S. Auſten anſwere, which ſayeth: whan thou doeſt ſo repēt, that that thing ſauoureth to thee bytter in thy mind, which before was ſwete in thy life: and that, which did delight the before in thy body, doeth trouble thee in thy hart, than doeſt thou repente well, and ſaye to God, To thee alone haue I ſynned, and euill haue I done before thee. So ꝑ the whole ſum of repentaunce is this, to die vnto ſynne, and to liue vnto righteouſnes, which is ſignified by our plonging in the fonte when we are baptiſed, and by our taking out again, as S. Paule ſayeth, we are buried together with him by baptiſme into death, that as Chriſt is raiſed vp frō the dead by the glory of his Father, ſo we in like maner ſhuld walke in a newe lyfe. The. If we repent, be ſorye for our ſynnes, confeſſe our wickednes, amend our life, is this ynough? Phi. This is much reſpecting, but not all. For repent is not only contayned in your diſhe, but alſo Beleue the Goſpell. This your repentaunce muſt be ioyned with fayth, and linked with a ſure perſwation, that God the father accordynge to his promiſe will vndoubtedly forgeue you your ſinnes for his ſonne Je-ſus Chriſtes ſake. For Cain, Eſau, Pharao, Saul, Antiochus, Iudas and many other repented and graunted their offeces, yet were they not forgeuen. Many also among the very Heithen and Gentiles glyſtered outwardely with a meruailous godly conuerſation, and ſorowed very greatly if at any tyme they had defile their innocencye with any ſyn of vnclenes, yet were they not made heires of eternal glory. And why?
Were by they raſed after a certayne maner of the firſt part of your diſh, but not at the laſt. They repented, but they beleued not the goſpel, that Signes of true repentaunce. Ser. ser. de. Nati. do. Pſal. li. Marke wel.

The ende of repentaūce.

Rom. vi.

Repentance and fayth muſt be ioyned together.

is,

is, they sought for no helpe of their wickednes at gods exceading mercy through Jesus Christ. They had not the liuely faith in the, which comming from a repentaunt and sorowful hart, maketh haste to God, and approcheth boldly to the throne of his grace, that it may obtain fauour and remission of synnes. Repentāce without faith bringeth desperacion, but repentance accompanied with fayth, bringeth remission of synnes, tranquillitie of conscience, and everlasting life, as we may easely perceiue by two of Christes Disciples Judas solde Christ, and Peter denied and forswore Christ. Here both synned, both repented, both confessed their offence. One by manifest wordes, and the other by teares. Yet was Peter saued, and Judas damned. How so? Because that the repentaunce of Peter was ioyned with fayth and hope of forgeuenes, and the repentaunce of Judas was not so. Mary Magdalene did not onely repent of her sinneful living, but also beleued to haue remission of her sinnes. And therfore did not Christ only say of her vnto Simon the Pharise, Many synnes are forgeuē her, because she loued much, but he also sayed vnto her with a lusty voyce, Thy faith hath saued thee, goo thy way in peace. Heare what Chrisostome sayth: If thou be wythered and worne away of syn, renew thy selfe by repentaunce. Mary, euery he that repenteth be saued: yea vndoubtedly. He therof commeth it to passe of the Lordes fauourable mercy. Trust not to thy repentance. For thy repentance can neuer put away so great synnes. If it were thy repentaunce alone, thou mightest well feare, but seing that the mercy of God is accompanied with repentaunce, be on a good comfort, for it ouercōmeth thy wickednes, and God is exceading merciful, and so ful of gentlenes, that he did not spare his owne sonne for to redeme the vnkynde seruauntes. Say not vnto me, I haue synned to muche, howe can I be saued? Thou canst not in dede saue thy self, but thy Lord can. And he forgiueth away thy synnes, that there remayneth no spyrit, signe or token of them. Here se we also by Chrisostome that repentaunce without an earnest fayth had and reposed in the mercy of God, can by no meanes put away sin. This your dish therfore teacheth you both to repent and also to beleue. For whatsoeuer is not of faith, is synne, sayeth S. Paul. The word of the Lord is right, sayeth Dauid, and al hys workes are in faith. A worke without fayth, sayeth Chrisostome, is nothyng. Again he sayeth: we must haue fayth euery where, I meane that fayth, which is the mother of al good thinges, the medicine of health, without whiche a man cannot perceiue the doctryne of great and excellent things, but is like vnto them, which taking in hand for to sayle ouer the sea without a ship, when they are a litle forward, their handes, and their feete being once wery, are vtterly ouerwhelmed with the waues of the sea. Also in another place. All our elders are reported that they pleased God by fayth, therfore without that, all things come to nought. Hereto agreeth S. Austen, saying: The medicine of the soule is of al woundes, and the alone sacrifice to appeale Gods wrath for the synnes of al men, is to

The worke of Fayth.

Hebru. iiii. marke this well.

Matth. xxvi.

Luke. vii.

Hom. lxxv. De penitentia

Rom. viii.

Rom. xiii.

Psal. xcvii.

In Matth. Hom. xxx.

In Iohn. Hom. xxvii.

In. i. Ti. Ho. ii

De ver. do. Sermo. xi.

beleue in Christ. Neither can any man at al be made cleane, ether from original sin, which he hath drawne of Adam, in whom al haue synned, and be made naturally the children of wrath, or from the sinnes, which they, by not resisting the carnal concupiscence, but by folowing it and seruing it by vngraciousnes and wycked liuing haue added and put therto, except by fayth they be enunied and ioyned together in the body of hym, whiche without any carnall entisemente and mortiferous delectacion was conceiued. Thus se you that repentace without faith auaileth nothing, but enunied and ioyned with faith is a singuler and high treasure. For by fayth doth God beare vs. By fayth are we blessed. By faith doeth God appeare vnto vs. By fayth doe we vnderstand the trueth. By faith do we kepe the commaundementes of God. By fayth are we maryed to God. By fayth haue we eternall life. By faith are we purified. By faith are our harts made cleane. By fayth are we made the sonnes of God. By faith are we iustified. By faith we please God. By fayth we be borne of God. By faith we subdue Satan. By faith do we ouercome the worlde. To conclude, by faith all goodnes chase vnto vs, and without faith all euill thynges fall vpon vs. No meruaile, for as Chrisostome sayeth: Fayth is the foundacion of the most holy religion, the bond of charite, the subsidie of loue. This fayth confirmeth holines, corroborateth & maketh strong pure liuing, garnisheth dignities. In children it shineth, in ponge men it florisheth, in old men it is a Godly spectacle, it confirmeth all kindnes, it exalteth degrees, it kepeth all offices, in the poore man it is pleasaunt, in the meane mā mery, in the ritch honest. Faith preserueth frendships, gathereth together assemblies, reporteth euer well, it despiseth no man, it contemneth no man, it faileth no man, except perchaunse he first faileth her. Faith vnderstandeth the commaundementes, kepeth the preceptes, fulfilleth promises. Faith maketh vs acquainted with God, and constituteth vs frendes vnto Christ. Thus haue I declared vnto you in this your third seruice, that the only meanes to obtayne remission of your sinnes, and to be made heires of eternall glory, is vnfaynedly to repent, and faythfully to beleue, that is to say, to forsake our old liuing and to become newe men, garnishinge our liues with all the fruites of the spirit, and to beleue earnestly, & thought this repentaunce and fayth, God wyll vndoutedly for Jesus Christes sake forgeue vs al our sinnes, receiue vs agayne into fauoure, & make vs heires of his eternall glory. Finis. This is the most pleasaunt dyshe that euer I tasted. The. These thinges that you haue spoken vnto vs are so comfortable that me thinke I am now more enflamed and more set on fyre than euer I was before. Chri. As I may vnfaynedly report vnto you, the affect of my hart: Merely since that ye declared to vs the goodnesse of God the father toward vs through Jesus Christe I haue felt in my hart such an earnest fayth and burning loue toward God & his worde, that me thynke a thousande fiers could not plucke me awaye from the loue of hym. I begyn now vtterly to contemne, despise, reiecte, caste awaye

Faith in Christ alone saueth.

1. Para. vi.
Psalm. ii.
Sapi. i.
Sap. iii.
Eccle. xxxiiii.
Osee. ii.
Iohn. iii.
Gala. iii.
Actes. xv.
Iohn. i.
Gala. iii.
Rom. v.
Gala. iii. iiii.
Hebru. xi.
i. Iohn. v.
Ephe. v.

The prayse of Fayth.

Ephe. vi.
i. Peter. v.
i. Iohn. v.
De vite Abrahā. ser. xxxiii

Repentāce and Fayth are the only meanes, to obtayne the remission of synnes.

The preachyng of Gods kindnes maketh men earnestly to loue God, and to seke for to fulfil his wyll.

way, and set at nought all the pleasures of thys world, wherin I haue so greatly reioyced in times past. All the threates of God, all the displeasures of God, all the feers and payines of hell coulde neuer before thys day so allure me to the loue of God, as you haue now done by expressing vnto me the exceading mercy & vnspeakable kyndnes of God towarde vs wretched synners, insomuch that now from the very hart I desyer to know what I may doe, that by some meanes I may shew agayne my hart to be full fired on the seking of his glory. For I now desier nothinge more then the auauncement of his name. Phi. Ye reioyceth me to heare these thinges of you. Therefore now will I, as due order requireth, bring forth your fourth yea and last dishe, that ye may know wot what ye ought to do again toward God for his vnmeasurable bounti, and infinite benefites toward you, that ye liuing in this world worthy of his kindnesse, maye after this life receiue the crown of glory. The. I pray you bring it forth streight waies, for we much desier to taste of it. Eute. There is nothing that I wish more than continually to be feddе with the meate of such an heauenly banket. Therefore I pray you goe forth to minister vnto vs the residue of our most delicious feast. Phi. I agreed, but marke well, for here it is.

The foureth dishe.

Ephe. ii.

WE are the workemanship of God, created in Christ Iesus vnto good works, which God hath prepared that we should walke in them. This is the sayinge of S. Paul, which a litle before this sentence in his Epistle to the Ephe. declareth, as I haue before taughte you, that by nature we are the children of wrath, & are saued only by grace through faith, and that not of our selues, for it is the gifte of God, and commeth not of workes, lest any man should boast himselfe. And whan he hath thus done, immediately he exhorteth vs to good workes, saying that we are the workemanship of God, created in Christ Iesu vnto good workes, which God hath prepared that we should walke in them. Here may ye learne, what is your duety to do vnto God agayne, seeing that he freely (through faith) hath saued you without any merites, deserueinges of good dedes on your behalfe. Your duety is to liue well, to practise good workes, to exercise all Godlynesse, to leade a vertuous conuersation, & that your life through the study of innocency to seke the glory of God. Also that your conuersation declare and shewe by exercise of workes together your repentance be vnfayned or not, together your faith and loue toward God be sincere, true, and proceeding from a Godly harte or not. For if your repentance, faith and loue be Christian and vnfayned, that shal good workes ensue and so lyue agreeable to the same. For faith, saieth Chrisostome, shewеth

But the vnity of the faythfull is. In i. Tim. Hom. xi.

Faith is the mother of good workes shewerh that, which is true. And out of sincer fayth commeth charitie, in so much that he, which beleuerh truly in God, can neuer be with out it. S. Ambrose also sayeth: fayth is the mother and bringer forth both of good wyl and righteous worlyng. Agayne he sayeth: A ne we creature hath this property by grace, that they which are the workemanship of God, which are made in Christ by an heauenly natiuitie, be no more fruitfull nother geuen to liue dissolutely, but they go forth and profyte from vertue to vertue, in walking by the way of good workes. Also in another place he sayeth, God geueth to them who he chooseth, without merytes, wherof they maye be garnished with merytes also. And it is not truely sayd, that the entente and determination of our inwarding is not in the elect. For the gifres of vertues cannot be vole. Thus see you that liuish fayth whereby ye are ingrafted in Christ, bringeth forth good workes. Neyther is true repentance, sincer fayth, vnfained loue in you if good and Christen workes doe not folowe your conuersation. Wo they that bost of fayth and bring not forth the workes of fayth, derogate much the glory of fayth, and cause the true and Christian faith to be slaundered and ill reported among them which neuer tasted nor yet at any time in their harts felt what a precious thing, and of how great strength, efficacy and power, the sincere faith is. Therfore if your faith be not accompanied with good workes, your fayth is dead, as S. James sayeth, that is to say, it is a true and Christen faith no more, than a dead corse is a man. For that faith, which is approued before God, worketh by charitie, and charitie cannot be idle, but breaketh out into good workes, whansoeuer it seeth an occasion geuen: who ca loue his neighbor, and suffer him to perish for want of his helpe? Therefore is a faithful man compared in the first Psalme to a tre, which is planted by the waters side, and bringeth forth her fruites in due tyme. I am the true vine, sayeth Christ, and ye are the braunches. He that abydeth in me, & I in him, bringeth forth much fruite. Agayne he sayeth: He that beleueth in me, flodes of liuing waters shall flowe out of his belly. Here see you that he which dwelleth in Christ by fayth, and beleueth in him, bringeth forth plenty of good workes. He therfore that is an vnfruitfull tre, bringeth forth no good fruite, surely he beleueth not aryght in Christ, nother hath he the Christen fayth, bost and crake he neuer so much of it. I could not thinke than by your wordes, that good workes were necessarely to folowe the Christen faith. For as euen as necessarely as the shadow folowerh the body, and as ath the lyke. The. They than which lyue dissolutely and without workes of good workes, haue not the Christe faith, no more than a dead dole hathan it. Pha. Therfore ought all men not to quenche the spyrite, but with al mayne and mighty courage to applye themselues to the diligent practise of good workes. Phi. Ye say truth, for as ye heard before, we are ye workemanship of God created in Christ to good workes which God hath prepared, that we should walke in them. But I pray you more

a fewe

De voat. Gen. ca. vi. Lib. i. Ibidem.

De vo. ge. cap. vi. li. ii.

Marke this well.

Mayne bragers of faith

Capi. ii.

Gald. v.

The nature of true faith

Psal. i.

Iohn. xv.

Iohn. vii.

Christen faith bringeth forth Christen

i. Thes. v.

Ephes.

a fewe thynges, which I will now declare vnto you concerninge thys our dilhe and last seruice. First S. Paule sayeth: we are the workemanship of God. This sheweth that God made vs, and not we our selues. He wrought vs by his diuine power. But by thys workemanship not we onely are made that beleue in God, but also the vnfaythfull, yea the very brute beastes, and wormes, with al thinges contayned in heauen and earth. Therfore of this making haue the faythfull no more cause to reioyce, than the vnfaythfull haue. Wherfore it doeth folowe: Created in Christ Iesus. Behold here is a newe creacion. Here is another birth here is a regeneracion, whiche farre differeth from the olde nacluytie. Here are we made newe creatures. In whom, in Moses by the lawe? Nay verely, but in Christ by faith. By fayth are we regenerate, borne anew, created againe in Christ Jesus. Wherunto? Unto wicked maners? Nay certes, but vnto good workes. Note ỹ he saieth, vnto good workes. They that are borne a newe in Christ through fayth are created in him vnto good workes. If any man therfore be not studious of good workes: he is not created in Christ, but remaineth stil in the creacion of Adam. But vnto what good workes is the faythfull created in Christ? vnto Rome running? gadding on pilgrimage? setting vp of cãdels? gilding of ymages? painting of tabernacles? building of monasteries? purchasing of pardons? and such other trifelyng fantasies inuẽted of the ydle braines of the Papistes for lucres sake? Na verely. For these are no good workes in dede before God, but only so called to blinde the eyes of carnall men with suche goodly and Godly titles. Unto what good workes thã ar they created? In good fayth, to those good works which God hath prepared that we should walke in them. Marke that he sayeth, which God hath prepared, and not that man inuented. In thẽ should we walke, that is to say, labour dayly more and more to fulfyll them, and neuer to cease vntill we ware auncient and perfecte in the accomplishment of Gods wyll. The. We thanke you ryghte hartely for the declaracion of this text. For we perceiue now our duety better thã euer we did before. Euse. But what are those good workes, whyche God hath prepared that we should walke in them? Phi. His commaundementes. We read that the Jewes sayd to Christ, what shall we doe, that we may worke the workes of God? Christ answered and sayed to them: This is the worke of God that ye beleue in hym, whõ he hath sent. This is the greatest and most principal worke of God, that ye beleue in his only begotten sonne Jesus Christ. He that truely fulfylleth this worke, doeth very easely accomplishe the residue. For out of thys worke, as out of the head fountayne, do all other workes of god spring and procede. If thou canst beleue, sayeth Christ, all thynges ar possible to hym that beleueth. He that beleueth truly in Christ, abuseth not the name of God, prophaneth not the Sabboth daye, dishonoreth not the magistrates of the publique weale, contemneth not the ministers of Gods worde, despiseth not his parentes and superioures, killeth not, committeth

Psal.xciiii.

A double creaciõ one in Adã: another i Christ

Good workes declare a man to be created a newe in Christ Jesv. Good workes are not the fãtasies of man, but the cõmaũdementes of God.

The true good workes are the commaũdemẽts of God. Iohn. vi. True fayth in Christ is the mother of all good workes. Marke. ix.

committeth not adultry, stealeth not, beareth no false witnes, coueteth not his neighbours goods, but rather doth the contrary, hatinge the vice, and embrasing the vertue. He mortifieth olde Adam. He maketh the body subiecte to the spirite with the moderate vse of eatyng & drinkyng. He exercyseth himselfe in Godly meditacions, in reading the holy Scriptures, in offryng vp prayers and thankes continually to God. He succoureth the poore members of Christ. He leaueth no man comfortles. He goeth about to hurt no man, but studieth to profyte all men. He wisheth and procureth no lesse goodnes to other, than he doeth to himselfe. To be short al his whole lyfe tyme, he doeth nothyng els than dy to synne, and lyue vnto righteousnes. These are the workes of God, wherin so many as are created in Christ, ought vnfaynedly to walke. These are the workes of God, which leadeth to heauen, where vnto also throughe Christe we deserue the reward of euerlastynge lyfe. In these workes therfore (most dere brethren) exercyse your selues both day and night. Beleue in God, loue God, feare God. Confesse hym from the very hart to be the alone and true God. Knowledge hym to be your only and omnisufficient sauiour. In al aduersite flye vnto hys moste blessed name as vnto a strong Bulwarke. Haue your hartes at peace with God. Study day and nyght in the Lordes law. Exercyse faythful and continual prayer. Procure in all thyngs the glory of God. Honor your moste victorious prynce, and redoubted kyng. Be faythful to hym both in hart, worde and dede. Do nothyng that may in any poynt derogate hys graces honoure. Knowe that he that resisteth hym, resisteth the ordinaunce of God, and getteth to himselfe damnacion. Honoure also all the magistrates that are sent and appoynted of hym. Your parentes & superiours haue ye in reuerence. Manslaughter, adultrye, theste, false witnes, carnal concupyscence, and all the workes of the flesshe hate ye, & vtterly cast them from you. To conclude, loke for those thyngs that are aboue, and not for those that are vpon the earth. Liue no more to your selfe, but to him that died for your synnes, and rose agayne for your iustificacion. Chri. We wil to the vttermost of our power labour to accomplishe your most Godly admonicions. Phi. Labour and God wil helpe. And to saye the trueth to you, it was neuer more nedefull for Christen men to bring forth good and Christen workes, than it is at this tyme. You see (thankes be to God) that the diuine scripture is come nowe among vs more plenteously than euer it was before, insomuch that now it is lawfull for all men to reade it, heare it, talke of it, so that it be done reuerently. This hath God vnfainedly brought to passe by his welebeloued seruaunt and our kyng Henry the eyght a prynce of moste noble fame and immortall glory. We see agayne that this worde of God hath many enemyes, whiche both labour to suppresse that, and also so many as sincerily professe it. We se that these aduersaries of Gods word haue no other pleasure than to haue an occasion both to blaspheme the word and also ye earnest fauourers of it. Behold, say they, ar these gospellers!

Learne here the Christen and true good workes

The studye of a Christē man.

Psalm. i.

Admonicions for true obedience to warde the kings grace

Rom. xiii.
i. Peter. ii.

Colloss. iii.

Rom. iii.

This tyme hath greate nede of good workes

The enemies of Gods word.

Are these professours of Gods worde? Are these they that mayntayne Gods trueth? Verylye mought they with their gospell. For they wyll not faste nor praye, nor gene almes, nor vse any kynde of vertue. These whom they call Pharises, do much excell them in euery degre of Godly liuing. They wyll shewe themselues conformable to no politike ordinaunce. They hunte carnall libertie. They seke to lyue freely and without punishmente. Their whole religion consisteth in obseruyng mans lawes and auncyente customes. Farewell they therefore with their gospell. We wyll folowe our forefathers. This and such lyke talke is heard dayly among the enemies of Gods worde.

Therefore oughte they that loue Gods trueth to walke circumspectly, seeing the dayes are euil, as S. Paule sayeth, and to haue an honest conuersacion among Gods enemies, that they which backebyte them as euil doers, maye see their good workes, and prayse God in the daye of visitacion. For so is the wyl of God, sayeth S. Peter that with well doing ye shoulde stoppe the mouthes of ignoraunte men, as free, and not as though ye toke libertie for a cloke of malicyousnesse, but euen as the seruaunres of God. Whiche thing (moste deare brothers) woulde God ye would do, that by your vertuous conuersacyon ye mighte not plucke men from, but vnto the gospell, not dishonoure but honor God, not hinder but promote the Euangelicall trueth, that with one minde harte, will, tonge and dede we all mighte together professe one God and one trueth. Than should God be glorified among vs. Than should hys moste blessed worde be embraced of all men.

Ephe. v.

1. Peter. ii.

Than should we vnder one kinge liue in an vnite, peace and concorde of Christen religion, without any schisme, heresy or dissencion. Than might we well saye, that the true repentaunce and sincer fayth, whereby a Chrysten man is iustified in the sighte of God were in vs. For so long as we continue in our olde wickednesse, and amende not our maners, certes neyther true repentaunce, nor Chrysten fayth is in vs, and to say the trueth, neyther haue we any part of Chryste or Chrystes merytes, but pertaine still to Satan and his sinfull synagoge. For as S. John sayeth: If we saye, that we haue felowshyp wyth God, and yet walke in darkenes, we lie and performe not the trueth. But and if we walke in light, euen as he is in light, than haue we felowshyp with him and the bloud of Jesus Chryste hys sonne, maketh vs cleane from all synne. Therefore (dearely beloued) lette vs caste awaye the workes of darkenesse, walke in the lyghte of Gods trueth, lyue accordyng to oure vocacyon, garnishe the doctrine of Chryst our Sauioure with Godly maners, and so in all pointes instructe and order our life accordyng to Goddes wyll, that we maye be that same in life and dede, that we desier to be reported, that is to saye, perfecte and true Chrystenmen both in harte, woorde, and dede. So maye we be certayne in thys lyfe to haue GOD a mercyfull father vnto vs throughe Jesus Chryste hys sonne, and after the departyng out of this worlde to enioye the glorious

Rom. v. Gala. ii. Good workes declare vs to be of charite.

1. Iohn. i.

Roma. xiii.

Titus. ii.

ſighte of the moſte bleſſed Godhead, and there to remayne in ioye and glorye worldes without ende. Amen. Thus endeth youre bankette. Euſebius. Prayſed be the Lorde for it. Theophilus. Both nowe and euermore. Chriſtophor. For he alone is worthy all honoure and glory. Philemon. If it ſhall pleaſe you, I wyll nowe gather together in fewe woordes that whiche hytherto I haue diſperſed in many, that they maye the more eaſily remaine in your breſte. Theophilus. I praye you lette it be ſo. Philemon. In your firſte diſhe I miniſtred vnto you the knowledge of your ſelues, and declared what ye are by Adam, that is to ſaye, children of wrath, all carnall, and without the ſpirite of God, as S. Auſten ſayeth, let no man ſtande in hys owne conceite. For of hys owne, he is very Satan, but of Gods, he is bleſſed. What is thys to ſaye, of hys owne, but of hys ſynne? Take awaye the ſynne, whiche is thyne, and the ryghteouſneſſe, ſayeth God, is of myne. For what haſte thou, that thou haſte not taken? In your ſeconde diſhe ye receyued the knowledge of Gods fauoure towarde you freely through Ieſus Chryſte. In youre thirde diſhe, ye perceiued by what meanes ye maye obtayne thys fauour of God, verely by true repentaunce and ſincere faith. In your fourth diſhe I proued vnto you that of thys youre repentaunce and fayth, woorkes muſt nedes folow, yea and that thoſe woorkes, whiche God hath prepared that we ſhoulde walke in them. Here is in fewe woordes concluded the whole ſumme of youre banket. I pray you loke that ye both remember theſe thynges wel, and alſo exercyſe them in your liuing. Euſebius. We wyll laboure to the vttermoſt of our power. And becauſe we can do nothyng wythoute the helpe of God, we ſhall at all houres wyth fyrme and ſure fayth moſte inſtantlye deſier God to worke that thinge in vs by his holy ſpirite, that he commaundeth vs to do, that we maye neyther thynke, breath, ſpeake or do any thyng, but that maye turne to hys glorye. Philemon. It is Godly ſpoken. Thys one thyng than remayneth, that we geue God thankes for thys oure bankette. Chriſto. I pray you, let it be ſo.

A breſe reherſal of all thynges ſpoke of before

In Iohn. Trac. xlix. Cap. xi.

ii. Cor. iiii.

Epho. ii.

Iohn. xv.

¶ The thankes geuing.

PHILEMON.

Iohn. vi.

PRayſe, honoure and glorye be vnto thee (O heauenly father) whyche at thys tyme haſte fedde vs wyth meate not that periſheth but that abideth into euerlaſting life. Graunt (O good God) that we hauinge the knowlegde of thy worde, maye alſo practyſe the ſame in our conuerſation, that we both intierly louing & vnfaynedly liuing thy holy word, may after thys lyfe lyue with thee

in

in that life, whiche is immortall. Theophilus. Amen. Eusebi. So be it. Chri. Lorde lette it so come to passe. Phi. Seyng that accordyng to the commaundemente of Chryste, we haue nowe fyrst sought the kyngdome of God, and the righteousnesse thereof, and haue fed ours soules with this celestiall banket of Gods worde, I pray you nowe vouchsafe to come with me, and take suche poore repast for the sustenaunce of your body, as it hath pleased God to prepare for vs. The. We geue you right hartye thankes. Euse. I pray God that we may once recompense your kyndnes. Phi. My power is small, but my wyll is muche. Folowe me I beseech you. Chri. Praysed be the Lorde for this our moste comfortable banket. The. Amen. Math. vi.

¶ Geue the glory to God alone.

A Potacion

for Lent very comfortable for al penitent sinners prepared by Thomas Becon.

John. 7.

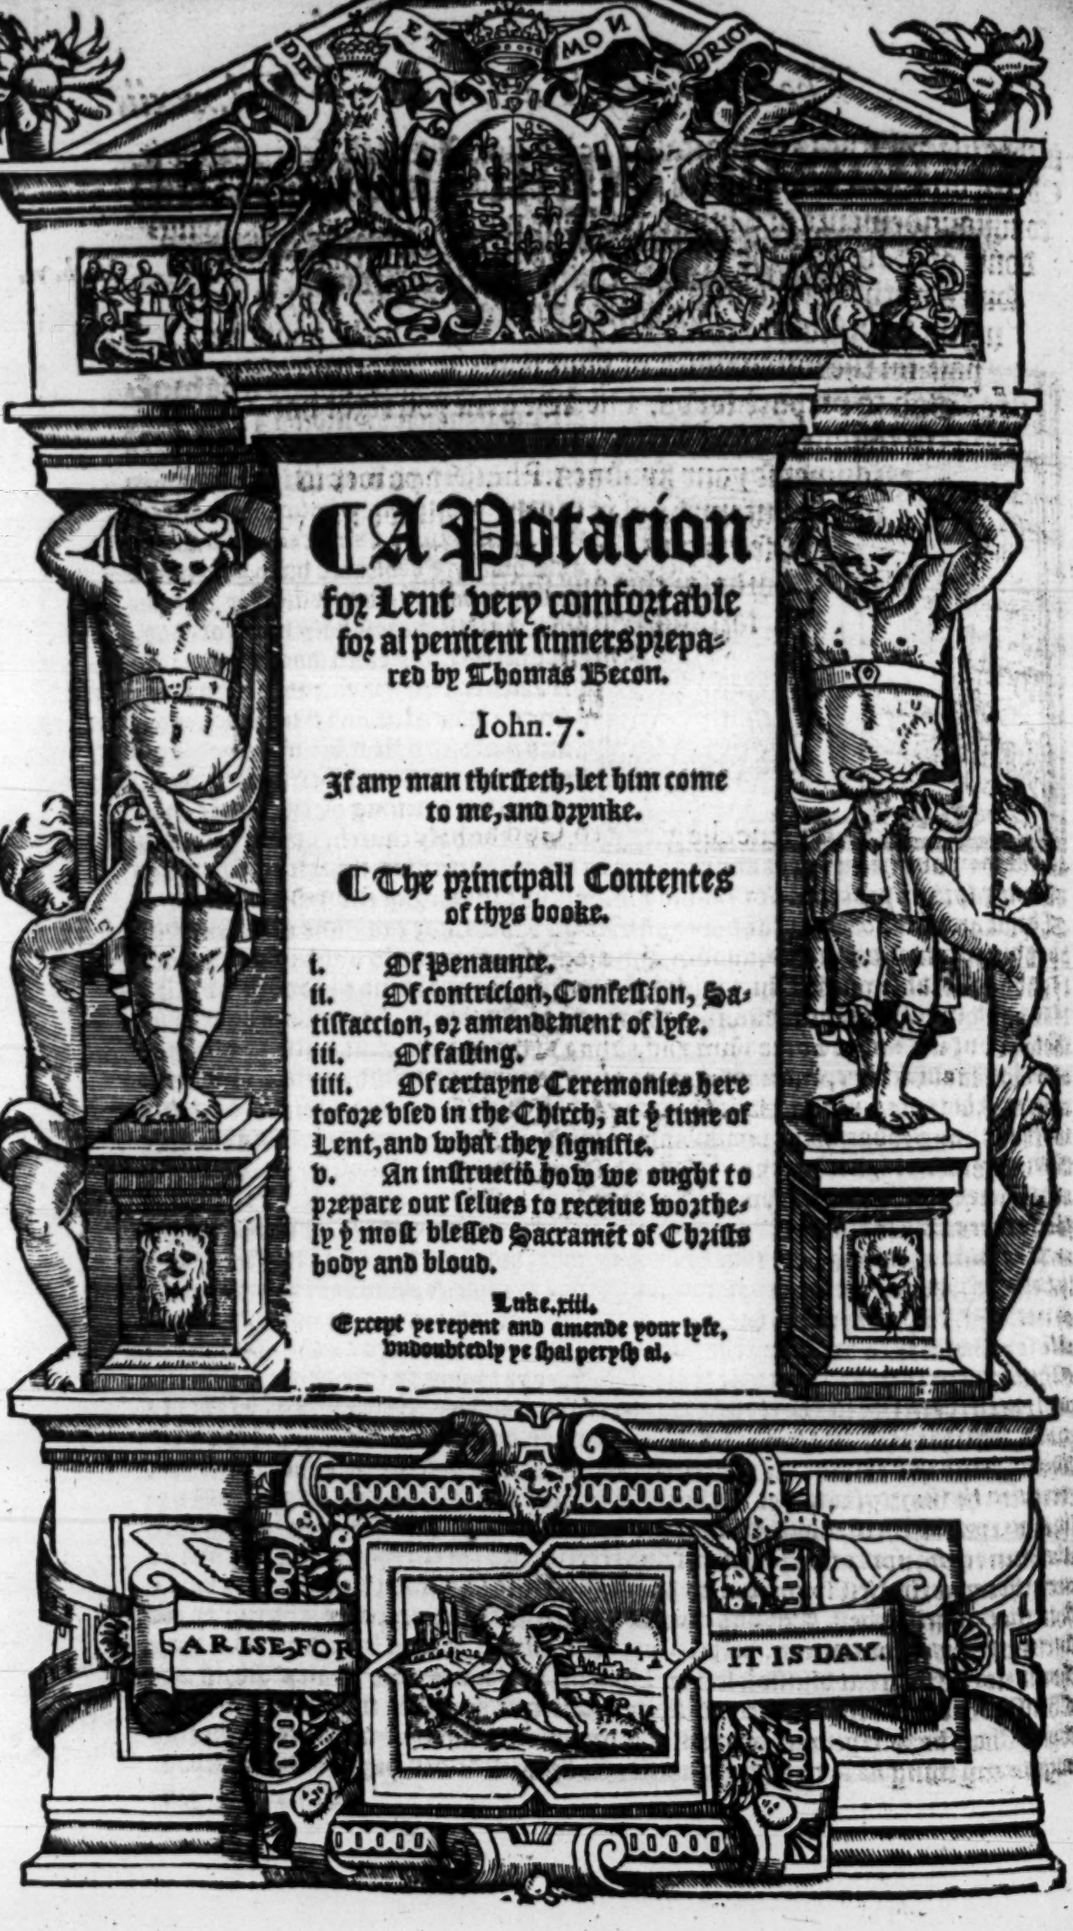
If any man thirsteth, let him come to me, and drynke.

The principall Contentes of thys booke.

i. Of Penaunce.
ii. Of contricion, Confession, Satisfaccion, or amendement of lyfe.
iii. Of fasting.
iiii. Of certayne Ceremonies here tofore vsed in the Church, at ỳ time of Lent, and what they signifie.
v. An instruetiõ how we ought to prepare our selues to receiue worthely ỳ most blessed Sacramẽt of Christs body and bloud.

Luke. xiii.

Except ye repent and amende your lyfe, vndoubtedly ye shal perysh al.



To the ryghte honorable

Sir Thomas Neuelle knyghte, Thomas Becon wisheth long lyfe, contynuall healthe and prosperous felicite.

I haue not forgotten with how gētle and thankeful mind (as I may passe ouer the singuler beneficence and grād liberalite, which at that time ye shewed to me) your ryghte honourable maistership did receiue ỳ Christmas banket which now of late I dedicated vnto your name chefely whan you had diligētly compared it with the most holy word of God, the touche stone of all doctryne to trye the adulterine, fayned and fals from the sincere, Germaine and true learnynge, and perceiued that it did not onely agre wyth the most sacred Scriptures, but also wyth the teaching of the aūciēt Doctors of the holy church, whom you haue as al men ought, in great admiracio, wyth whose auctorites it is richly fortressed Merely for the probacion of that my worke, and comparyng it wyth the trueth of Chryst and the doctrin of the holy and learned Doctors, I can none otherwise but highly commende, prayse, auaunce, and magnify the industry and labour of your ryght honorable maistership, which so prudently proue al kind of doctryne with ỳ true and infallyble touchestone of Gods most blessed word. For in thus doing you shew your selfe not to be led with any blind or percial affect, but with an vpryght and high indifferency, much alienated and estraunged from the maners of diuers men at this tyme, among whom some as folysh simple receiue all kind of doctrine wythout any probacion or triall, some agayne contrary to the derterpte of Chrysten indgement lyke frantyke persons do temeraryously, rashly, and wythout any aduisement condemne a thyng before they haue iustely examined it by the holye Scriptures. S. Paul sayeth: Quench not ỳ spirit. Despyse not Prophesies. Proue and examine al things, and that which is good, hold. S. Iohn also sayeth. Dearely beloued, beleue not euery spirite, but proue the spirites, whither they ar of God or not. Hereto pertayneth the saying of Chryst, Searche ye the Scriptures Dauid also sayeth: Blessed are they that searche the testimonies of the Lord. Here are al Christen men commaunded not furiously streyght wayes to condemne, whatsoeuer lyketh them not at the fyrst blush but to searche the scriptures, and by them to proue, whither they be true or not. Luke declareth in the Actes of the Apostles, ỳ whan Paule and Silas preached to certayne men at Berrea, they that heard the, receiued the word gladly, yet not withstanding, they searched the Scrypptures dayly, and tryed by them, whither it was so or not, as they preached. So becommeth it al men to do, not rashely to admit and receiue, nor yet furyously to condemne euery thyng at the first syght, but as Paule sayeth, to proue al thing, and to chose & hold that which is best. Thyngs must be proued by the Scriptures and not by the spirite of pryde, contencion, despite, and contumacy. If men would do this, there should not be so great diuision in the Churche, as there is now a daies. Christ and Christes trueth is only learned of the holy Scriptures. They that teach ani other thyng than the Scriptures, teache not Chryste, but humayne inuencions. Nether ought any thing as a necessary trueth to be beleued vnder payne of damnacyon.

Gods word is a touche stone to proue and try al doctryne.

ii. Thes. v.

i. Iohn. iiii.

Iohn. v.

Psal. cxviii.

Actes. xvii.

ii. Tes. v.

Of the holy Scriptures is Christ & his trueth only lerned.

for to be admitted in the Churche of Chryst, except it may be established by the holy Scripture and pure worde of God. For the righteousnes of God is proued, saieth. S. Paul, by the testimony and wytnes of the law and Prophets. Agayne he sayeth: If we our selues or an Angel frō heauen do preach vnto you any other gospel, than that we haue preached vnto you, hold it accursed. As I sayd before, so say I now agayn, if any man shal preach vnto you any other gospel than that, whiche ye haue receiued, hold it accursed. Hereto agreeth Origene, It is nedefull for vs, saieth he, to cal the holy Scriptures into witnes. For our iudgementes and expositions wythout these wytnesses, haue no fayth. Also S. Jerome. That we affirme must be established and approued wyth the testimonies of the holy Scriptures, in the which God speaketh daily to them that beleue. Item Cirillus, Chriſte alone is to be followed as a mayster, and to hym alone ought we to cleaue. They that bryng any other thyng besydes the doctryne and teachyng of the Apostles, sayeth Theophilact, Paul playnly sayeth, that slaunders, that is to say heresies and dyscensions are brought in of them. Do not these thyngs declare how cold and bayne al thyngs are, that fyght wyth the worde of God, and haue not their foundacions of the most holy Scriptures? Certes as touching my workes, which I haue hitherto made, or shal by the helpe of God hereafter make, I submit them all with moste submission and humilite of mind to the sincere iudgements of them that are godly learned and taught of God in Chriſtes church to be iudged, tryed and examined by the infallible verite of Gods worde. If the holy Scriptures shall approue and allow them, I most humbly beseech al men thankfully to accepte them, and to geue al the glory and prayse vnto God. If they shal seme to fight and dissente from the worde of God, hold them accursed, as Paul sayeth, and so do in like maner the workes of al other, that consent not wyth the Euangelike veritie. But if the worde of God testifieth and beareth witnes of them, receiue them, and geue God thankes, which so plenteously worketh in his seruauntes for the edification of hys church. Moreouer this your diligent searching and comparing of my Banket with the holy Scriptures and the auncient Doctors did so greatly please me, that since ỹ time I thought it not vnsitting to prepare a Potacion for thys time of Lent and to dedicate that also vnto your name. Which thing I haue done, yea & that in al points accordyng to the verite of Gods worde and the mind of the most auncient and best learned Doctors. Whosoeuer shal vouchsafe to be present at this Potacion, and with a gredy appetite to tast of it, certes he shal not a litle reioyce of it. For he shal here learne almost al thyngs that are necessary to be knowen of a Chriſten man concerning this tyme of Lent. First I haue entreated of Pēaunce, declaring what it is, how it ought to be done, of whom we should aske grace truely to repent, and how it may be obtayned. Secondly I haue spoken of Contricion, Confession and satisfaction or amendement of lyfe. Thirdly I haue declared the true maner of fasting. Fourthly I haue intreated of diuers ceremonies, that be vsed in the church thys tyme of Lent, and declared what they signify and preach vnto vs. Lastly of all I haue shewed how we ought to prepare our selues for to receiue worthely at the tyme of Easter the most blessed Sacrament of Chriſtes body and blood. All these thyngs haue I done in this Potacion, not folowyng myne owne fantasy or imagination but the verite of Gods worde, the authority of Chrystes most holy churche and the mind of the auncient and best learned Doctors. Thys my labour, whatsoeuer it be, I now dedicate and offer to your ryghte honorable maisterships name desiring you to accept this litle gyft as a testimony of my good hart and obsequious mind toward you, most instantly also beseechyng you & all other in your name to iudge it by the worde of God, and to compare it wyth the trueth of Chrystes gospel. In so doing I doubt not, but that both thys and al my other workes shalbe receiued wyth the more thankful and acceptable minds, vnto the great profyt of the readers, and the hygh glorye of almighty God, who euer preserue youre ryghte honourable maysterhyp in continuall health and prosperous felicite. Amen.

Roma. iii. Gala. i.

The iudgementes of Doctoures without the authorite of the holy Scriptures, are not to be receaued.

In Iere. Hom. i. Ad Cresiphō In Iohn. cap. vi. In Roma. cap. vlti.

The minde of the author concernyng all his bokes that he hath or shal set forth here after.

Gala. i.

A Potacion for Lent.

What profyte there is to be gotten at thys Potacion.

¶ The Potacion for Lente.

¶ Philemon the maker of the Potacion, Theophile, Eusebius, and Christophor the gestes.

PHILEMON.

IT is not long agon since I made to certayne of my neighbours a Christmasse Banket, whiche so fat as I can perceiue, they haue right weldigested, wherof I am not a litle glad. For since that tyme they haue not only garnished their houses with the most sacred scriptures after the maner of thys my poore mansyon, but they are also become newe men in their conuersacio. They haue vtterly put of old Adam, and put on ỳ newe mā Jesus Chryste. They haue cast away the workes of the flesshe, and put on the armours of light, yea they haue ioyfully embraced the fruites of the spirite. For they walke now no more in darknes, but as the childrē of lyght in all goodnes, iustice and verite. To the poore people they are become very mercifull and tender, to their neighbours gentle and louing, to their enemies pacient and long sufferyng, not renderyng euill for euil, but ready at al times not only to forgeue them but also to doe them good to the vttermost of their power. Moreouer to oure most soueraigne Lord and excellent King they shew them selues vnfaynedlye obedient both in word and dede with al submission and humilitie. The other magistrates of the publique weale they also haue in greate reuerence. And as for the spirituall ministers of Gods worde they entyerly loue, reuerently feare, and haue them in no lesse honoure, than true and faythfull children haue their naturall parentes. Yea they esteme them as the seruauntes of God, and dispensatours of the diuine misteryes, & therfore do they geue them double honour accordyng to the admonicio of the Apostle. To conclude, they so behaue themselues, that they ar irreprehensible and faultlesse in the sight of all men. They shine as greate lyghtes among their neighbours. They garnishe the doctryne of oure Sauioure Chryste wyth all innocency and puritye. So that by their meanes there are, I thanke my Lorde God, many of oure neigboures which now begin to folow that trade and to practyse lyke Godlynes. And as they themselues are wholly bent to this true Godlynes, so likewise do they trayn and bryng vp their family and housholde after that trade, which is to me a singuler great pleasure. If thei go forth, as they begyn, I do not doubt, but that within fewe yeres it wyl come to passe, that no Realme through Christendom shalbe able to compare wt̄ Englande in sincere doctrine and Godly liuing. Seyng therfore that they

The profites that folowe the Christmasse banket.

Rom. xiii.

Ephe. v.

Rom. xii.

i. Timo. vi.

Philip. ii. Titus. ii.

receiued so great profit of my Christmas Banket, I was the gladder to cal them now again vnto a Potacion or drynking, trustinge that they shal receiue hereof no lesse commodite than they did of the other. They appointed to come vnto me about two of the clocke this after none. I merualle therfore that they are so long absente. For the houre is paste. I will go forth out of my doores and se whither they come or not. But what nede it? me thinke I heare one knocke at the doore. It are they I am sure. I wyll goe and bringe them in. Neighboures, I haue loked longe for you, but ye are welcome to me at the last. The. Brother Philemon, we thanke you hartely. Euse. I pray you be not discontented that we haue some what taried after our houre. For we were cõpelled to tary for this our neighbor Christophor. Chri. A frend of mine olde acquaintaunce came vnto me from my parentes, whych did somwhat let vs in dede. Phi. It maketh no matter, ye are welcome now al vnto me. Wil it please you to go with me into my parloure? The. I had rather, if it shalbe your pleasure, tary here a while in your hal to behold these most Godly spectacles, and to see, whither my house be in al pointes garnished lyke vnto this or not. Phi. To tary here lenger for that purpose, wer nothing but a losse of time. For our houses in this behalfe are so like one to another, that ye can lesse discerne an egge frõ an egge or a figge from a figge as they say. They be in all pointes like, concerning the inwarde garnishing of them with the holy Scriptures. Therfore I pray you all, come your way into my parloure. Chri. We folow gladly. Phi. Brothers and neighboures welcome once agayn. Euse. We most intierly thanke you. Phi. If it shal please you to sit down, I wyll be glad to talke wyth you. The. I pray you speake what it pleaseth you we wil here you gladly with attent mindes. Euse. Nothing cã bryng to vs more pleasure than to heare you, your communicaciõ is alwaies so Godly and fruitfull. Chri. We are now we all set, and wholly bente to heare you. Phi. The spirite of God bee amonge vs, and leade vs into all trueth of Gods most holy wisdome. Neighboures it is not vnknowen to you, that this Christmas last past I bad you to a Christmas banket, vnto the whiche you very gently came. At the whiche banket, I did not onely set before you meate for your bodyes, but also for youre soules I fed you with a Christmas, that is to say, an heauenly Banket in the which I brought forth vnto you foure dishes. I am sure, ye remember it ryght wel Eu. Yea forsoth brother Philemõ. Phi. Although I doubt not but that ye retaine them al in your memory ryght wel, yet by your pacience I wyll now rehearse them agayne to you in fewe wordes.

The sum of the Banket Gene. iii. Iohn. iii. Ephe. ii.

Chri. I pray you let it be so. Phi. In the firste dishe that was set before you, ye tasted of the fall of our forefather Adã. In that ye learned, how that by the syn of Adam we al wer not only depriued of immortalite & all goodnes, but also damned, so that we became very flesshe, without the spirite of God, vtterly estraunged from al feare of God, and borne sõnes of wrath, in somuch that we being left to our selues, could neuer

haue

haue bene deliuered from that miserable captiuite, into the which Satan had cast vs, through the transgression of Gods commaundement, but dayely more and more we must nedes haue precipitated and caste our selues headlong into an hell of euils. Therefore because ye shoulde not dispaire, I brought forth to you your seconde dish, wherin I declared and proued vnto you by the holy Scripture and the auncient Doctors, ỳ whā we wer in this miserable & piteous case, God of his greate mercyes without our merites or deseruinges had pitie on vs, and promised to saue vs through his intierly beloued Sonne, oure Lorde and Sauioure Jesus Chryst. which thing according to hys promyse at the tyme predefined and afore appointed came vndoubtedly to passe. Than in your third dish did I expresse to you, by what meanes ye myght come by and obtain these so large and so bounteous benefites of God the father through Jesus Chryst. I sayd vnto you, that the next and the most ready way to get this kindnes at the hand of God is to repent and beleue, that is to say, to be sory for the synnes committed, and to beleue to haue remission of oure synnes of God the father for Chrystes sake. In your fourth dishe I declared vnto you that after we haue repented vs of our synnes, and beleued to haue forgeuenes of them through Chryst, it remaineth that we than shewe our selues new men in our conuersacion, and medle no more with the vnfrutefull workes of darknes, but rather reproue them. For except our repentaunce and fayth worke in vs a newe lyfe, they profyte nothyng at al. Bryng forth fruictes, saieth S. John, worthy of repentaunce. For euery tree, that bryngeth not forth good fruite, shal be cut down and cast into the fier. And as concerning fayth. S. James sayeth. As the body without the spirite is dead, so is fayth without workes dead. Therfore I declared vnto you in that your fourth dish, that as without good workes your repentaunce and fayth auayle nothing (I speake of thē which haue opportunite to worke and yet will not) so likewise to them that exercise no good workes but remayn in their old sinful liuing is Christ no Sauiour, but remayneth stil vnto them a Lord and iudge without merry. For Chryst wyll not know them at the day of iudgement to be his people, that are vnfruitful trees, and in this world bryng forth no good workes, yea he wil say vnto them, depart from me ye workers of iniquite. The virgins that haue not onely lampes, but also oyle, shal enter in with the Brydegrom vnto the mariages, the other shalbe sparred out. Not the idle lubbers but the faythful workers in the vineyarde shal haue the peny at nighte. Not the sonne which sayed to his father, that he would worke in hys vineyarde, and did not, shalbe his fathers heire, but that sonne whyche wrought in it in dede. The fruitful olyue tree shal dwel in the house of ỳ Lord, but the vnfruitfull figge tree, glistereth it neuer so pleasauntly w grene leaues, shalbe cursed, and committed vnto hel fyre. In cōsideracion wherof I exhorted you at that tyme vnto the diligente operation of good workes, that ye myght be foude worthy that kyngdom, which Titus.iii.

Gene.iii.
Roma. i.
Marke.i.
Ephe.v.
Repentāce and fayth profite nothing at all wythout amendments of lyfe.
Math.iii.
Iacob.ii.
Marke well Christ is a Sauiour only to them that repente beleue and amende.
Psal.vi.
Math. vii.
Math.xxv.
Slaunder not the author, that he teacheth fayth without good workes.
Math. xx.
Math.xxi.
Math.xxv.

youre

your heauenly father hath prepared for them that fulfill his wil from the beginning of the worlde. These and such other thynges (for whose thy the hearyng I rehearsed to you at that Christmas banket, perchaū haue ye forgotten them, I am sure. The. No verely neighboure Iohan mon. Euse. We haue sence that time full oft called them to our remem- Matth. vii. braunce, and communed of them together. Phi. In so doing, ye haue done well. For not they that heare the law are righteous before God, Rom. ii. but they that expresse the law in their dedes shalbe counted righteous. He that loketh on the perfect law, which is the lawe of liberte, so that Iacob. i. he is no forgetfull hearer, but a doer of the worke, he shalbe blessed in his dede. Chri. God geue vs grace to do that alwaye, which he requireth of vs. Phi. Your fruites sins that time haue manifestly declared your newnes and change of your life, whereof I very much reioise and geue God harty thankes desiring him to finish ỹ in you prosperously, which he hath begun frutefullye. And this is the cause neighboures ỹ I haue ben so bold to call you againe now to a Potacion or drinking, trusting What the tyme of Lēt requireth of Christē mē. that if you marke those thynges wel, that shall at this tyme be spoken ye shal feale no lesse swetnes in them, than ye did in the Banket. For ye know that this is a time not for the body, but for the soule, not for the belly, but for the spirite, not for the mouth, but for the mynd. This time requireth modest sobriete, and not luxurious royot. This time requireth a penitent and sorowfull hart, and not a minde set al on pleasure. This time requireth abstinence and not delicate welfare. This tyme requireth sober prayer and not vayne iestinges. This time requireth lamentacion for oure synnes, and not a pleasure to remayne in them. Therefore haue I nowe prepared for you a Godly Potacyon, worthy this time, that ye may go home agayn from me, not with mouthes but with mindes, not with bellies, but with soules, replenished and enforced with celestiall meate. I wil now declare vnto you, what your Potacion shalbe. I pray you heare me diligently. Euse. Brother Philemon we thanke you for your Godly kindnesse towarde vs. What soeuer it shalbe your pleasure to say, we shal not only be diligent to heare it but also to beare it awaye, and do there after, so nere as God shall geue vs grace. Phi. For asmuch as the doctrine of Penaunce (as they terme it) is in this time of Lent more vsually taughte vnto penitente synners, than at any other time throughout al the yeare, therfore am I now determined to talke somewhat with you in this matter. This thyng once Of what thynges it shalbe entred in this Potacion. done. I wil teache you the true and Christen fast, that your fast maybe pleasaunt to God and profitable to your soules health. Afterwarde I wil declare vnto you the signification of certayne ceremonies, that be vsed in the Churche this time of Lent. Last of all I will shew you, how ye shall prepare your selues to receiue worthely at the time of Easter, the most blessed Sacrament of Chrystes very body and bloud. For as al these thinges are Godly, so are they very necessary to be knowen of al Christen men. Which thyng moued me to cal you hither at this tyme

that

that you hauing knowledge of them, may the more godly behaue your selues this time of Lente and at al other times also both before God & man. Chri. This youre beneficence towardes vs vndoubtedly proce-deth from an hart stuffed with true and Christen charite, seing that ye desier no lesse the saluacion of our soules, than of your own. Phi. That affecte and mynd ought to be in euery Christen man, ỳ was in Christe Jesus. God forbid therfore that I or any man should hide vp the talēte in the grounde which God hath geuen vs, but rather employ it to the vtilite and profit of other. Therfore while I liue shall I be ready at all times by the helpe of God gladly to impart to other what soeuer God hath vouchedsafe to geue to me eyther in goods spirituall or corporall.
But I praye you marke diligently, for now beginneth our Potacion.
Chri. Our Lorde God mought geue vs vnderstandyng in al thynges and so at this time watch vpon his worde, that it maye not returne a-gayne in vayne, but prosper and bryng forth fruite in vs rychly, to the glory of his name and the consolacion of al our soules. Euse. Amen. The Lord let it so come to passe.

Philip.ii.

Math.xxv.

ii. Tim.ii.
Ieremy.i.
Esa.xliii.

¶ Of Penaunce and the partes of it.

PHILEMON.

THis Latin worde Penitentia, called in ỳ Greke tonge μετάνοια whiche some turne Repentaunce, some Penaunce, (is as Chrisostom sayeth,) not onely to cease from the olde euils but also to follow better offices. For it is sayd: Decline from euil and do good. Neyther is it ynough for vs vnto health, sayeth he, only to haue pluckedoute the shafte, excepte we also laye medicines to the wounde. Of these wordes of the holy Doctor S. John Chrisostome, is it euident, who truly repenteth and who not If not onely a cessation or leauing of from the syn, but also a diligente exercise of the vertue folowyth Penance, than is it true and vnfayned. But if there be proued a continuaunce in the syn and no correccion or amendment of lyfe, than is it manifest that such one had neuer no true repentaunce in his hart. For S. Austen sayeth, what other thyng is it to repent or to do Penaunce, than to be sory for the synnes past, and from hencefoorth to abstayne from those thynges, whiche he hath committed? Againe he sayeth, the frute worthy of Penaunce is to lamente the sinnes being past, and not to do them agayne, as it is wrytten, cast not sin vpon sin. Be ye washed, sayeth the Lord by the Prophet Esay, & be ye cleane. He therfore is washed and is cleane, which both lamēteth the thinges past and doeth not commit agayne those thynges, that are worthy to be lamented. Paul describeth ỳ true penatice in these wordes

What Penaunce is.

Ho.lxxx. De penitent.

Psal. xxxiii. Marke well

What Penaunce is true & vnfained.

Contra pela. iii. lib. Hipon Ser de ten. lxi

The frute of Penaunce.

Eccle.xxxiii. Esay.i.

put

How Paule describeth Penaunce.

Put of, sayeth he, the olde man with hys actes, and put ye on the new man. Here he appointeth vs not onely to put of the olde man, but also to put on the newe man. Again he sayeth, fashion not youre selues vnto the maner of this worlde, but be ye chaunged by the renuyng of youre minde, whereby we are made a newe creature, walkynge in the newenes of life. Doth not our Baptisme also preach vnto vs this thyng? We are buried together, sayeth Paule, with Christ by Baptisme vnto death, that as Christ is risen agayne frō the dead, so we likewise should walke in the newenes of life. Thus haue we learned both by the holy Scriptures, and the auncient Doctors, what the true penaunce is.

Colos. iii. Rom. vi.

To do truly Penaunce what it is.

Chri. We haue learned of these your wordes that to doe truly penāce is not onely to abstayne from the syn, but also to amplecte and embrace the vertue contrary to the syn. Phi. Ye say trueth. And thys is it that the Prophet sayeth, Cease to do euil, and learne to do well. Euse. So farre as I remember, ye taught vs the very same, or els not much vnlike, in your Christmasse Banket. The. Yea forsoth, in the third dishe. Phi. Ye say trueth that ye al say. Therfore nede I now to make the fewer wordes concerning this matter, if ye retayne those thinges in your memorye, which at that time I taught you. Chri. We remember al those things well. Phi. I am very glad. But this muste ye note in your Penaunce, that it ought rather to be done for the loue of vertue, than for the hate and detestacion of vice, as the Psalmographe sayeth, thou hast loued righteousnes, and hated vnrighteousnesse. Here ye see that the loue of righteousnes goeth before the hatred of vnrighteousnes. The Scripture saieth of Mary Magdalene, many sinnes are forgeuē her, because she loued much. The loue that she had to chastitie and purenes of lyfe made her to abhorre and vtterly despise all vnclennes, which before she had vsed. Therfore was the great multitude of her synnes remytted & forgeuen her. A Christen mans hart ought so to be enflamed with the loue of vertue, that euen for the only loue of that he shuld vtterly detest and abhorre all vice and noughtines, as the Poet sayeth.

How Penaunce ought to be done. Psal. xlv.

Esay. i. Searche the Christians Banket.

Mary Magdalene. Luke. vii.

Horatius.

Oderunt peccare boni, virtutis amore
Oderunt peccare mali, formidine penæ.

That is to say. They that are good, hate sin for the loue that they haue to vertue. But they that are euil, hate sin for feare of paine. And S. Austen saieth: Euery man hateth sin so much, as he loueth rygh-teousnes. Againe: He is an enemy of righteousnes, which sinneth not for feare of payne. But he shall be a frende, if he sinneth not for the loue of it. Hereto pertayneth the saying of S. Ambrose, it is no true penaunce saieth he, except feare doeth succede & come after loue. And not of feare but of the loue of righteousnes begynneth the Penaunce, and of the intencio and feruentnes of loue, doeth the more feruent hate of syn folow. Euse. Seyng than that it is necessary fyrst intierly to loue vertu before we can vnfaynedly hate the vice, I beseche the author of all goodnes to engraffe in vs this loue, that we embracing vertue, may the more ea-

Ad bonifa. lib. i. ca. ix.

In Lucam. Trac. xiii. True Penaunce begin neth of loue to warde vertue.

sely

thy sche we vice. Chri. We think it is an hard thing for a man to loue vertue so, that for the loue of that only, he should abstayne from synne. For there be many, which would neuer ceasse to do euil, as their dayely conuersacion proueth, if they did not more feare the punishmente of this worlde and the most greuous paynes of hell fier, than they desyer to haue the fauour of God and the glory of heauen. Phi. Trueth it is that ye say. Such haue not in them the true Penaunce. The. What is than to be done? How maye we come by and get suche Penaunce that may set such a brenning loue in oure hartes towardes vertue, that for the very loue of it, we may freely hate vice, and ceasse to do euil. Phi. It is hard for a natural man which vnderstandeth not those thinges that pertayne to the spirite of God to do this of his owne strength & power. For true Penaunce is the gift of God. Euery good gift and euery perfecte gift commeth from aboue, descending from the father of lyghte. S. Ambrose sayeth: Those are good teares, which washe away the faute. Moreouer they, whom God beholdeth, lament their offence. Peter denied first, and he wept not. For the Lorde had not loked vpon him. He denied the seconde tyme, and wept not. For the Lord did not yet looke vpon him. He denied the third time, Jesus loked vpon hym, & he wepte very bitterly. Let them rede the gospel, & se that the Lorde Jesus was than within whan he was heard of the high Priestes, and that the Apostle Peter was without and beneth in the hall, somtime sitting, somtime standing at the fier with the seruauntes, as it is declared with a very true and accordant telling of the Euangelistes. In consideration whereof, it cannot be sayd that the Lord dyd loke on hym with his corporal eyes by admonishing him diuinely. And therefore as concerninge that, which is written there, the Lord did loke vpon hym, it was done inwardly, it was done in the minde, it was done in the will. The lorde did helpe hym with his mercy secretly. He touched his harte. He called againe the memory. He visited Peter with his inwarde grace. He moued and brought forth the affect of the inwarde mourninge into outewarde teares. Beholde howe God is present and helpeth oure wills & dedes. Beholde how he worketh in vs both the will and the dede. That true Penaunce is the gifte of God, it is also manifeste by these wordes of the Apostle. It becommeth the seruaunte of the Lord not to striue but to be peaceable vnto all men, and apt to teache, and one pacyent, that the euil in meekenes, and can informe them that resist, if peraduenture God at any tyme will geue them repentance for to know the veretie, that they maye come to themselues again out of the snare of the deuill, whyche are taken of hym at his owne will. Chri. Seing that the true and defamed Penaunce is the gifte of God, how is it possible for vs to obtayne it? Eule. This is a diligent thing to be vnderstand. Phi. Surely by feruent and continuall prayer maye we easily obtayne this thing of the hande of God. As he himself sayeth, Aske and ye shall find, knocke and it shalbe opened vnto you. God vndoutedly will not fayle to geue

i. Cor. iii.

True penaunce is the gift of God. Iacob. i. In Lucam. Liber. x. Ang. lib. i. cō Pela. & Cel. de gra. Chri. Matth. xxvi.

How Christ loked vpon Peter, whō he wepte.

Philip. iii.

ii. Tim. ii.

How we maye come by true penaunce. Matth. vii. Luke. xi.

them a good spirite, that aske it of him, that they may vnfaynedly wepe Ieremy.iii. loue righteousnes and hate vnrighteousnes. Pray with the Prophete Jeremy. Turne me O Lorde, and I shalbe turned. For thou arte the Iere.xvii. Lorde my God, and after thou hast turned me, I repented. Agayne heale thou me, O Lorde, and I shalbe healed; saue thou me and I shal be safe, for thou art my prayse. If we will pray thus, God vndoubtedly wyl graunt vs our petitions, and gene vs all good thynges. If we will Apoca.iii. cal, he is ready to come. Yea he standeth and knocketh at the doore, so that if any man will open the gate, he will enter into him, and sup with
i. Tim.ii. hym, and he with hym. What would we haue more? If we therefore If we perish the fault is in our selues and not in God. perysshe, the faulte is in oure selues, and not in God, whiche willeth all men to be saued and to come to the knowledge of the trueth. The. God What hytherto is taught. gene vs all grace to pray aryght, truly to repent, fermently to loue the true, that vnfaynedly we may hate vice. Eusc. So be it, Christ Lorde let it so come to passe. Phi. I haue now taught you, what Penaunce is, how Seache the Banket. it ought to be done, of whom we shoulde aske grace truely to repent, and how it may be obtayned. Eusc. We remembre al these thinges right well. Phi. What nede I declare vnto you of what vertue, puissaunce, strength, power and efficacye, Penance is, seeing that I haue alreadye
The vertue of Penance. spoken of it sufficiently in the thirde dyshe of my Banket. The. I remem-
The heresye of the which deny remission of synnes after Baptisme, and whē it began. ber well that ye taughte vs there, that there is no hyme in the worlde that doeth not gene place to the vertue of Penaunce. Philemō. We say trueth. Eusebius. Yet I haue heard, that somemen nowe of late haue presumed vp, whiche denye this thing, and affyrme playnly, that suche as fall into hyn agayne after they be baptised and haue put on Christ, can haue no mo synnes be forgeuen, neyther doeth Penaunce auayle any thyng to the remissiō of their sinnes. The. O detestable heresy. Phi. Yea O the Detestable Heresy. This is no newe heresy, for it began about 250 yeares of our Lorde. C C xiii. and was first brought vp of two famous Here-tykes, called Nouatus and Catharus. For at ye time wrote S. Cipriane wryte agaynst the Nouatians, as we may see in his Nouatus Catarui. li. ep. iiii. Ep. iii. li. ii. & pen. cap. ii. De vera peni. bookes. Iunyose also, which liued in the yere of our Lord. C C Cipr.
did write against the fauourers of that sect. So like wise did Fulgen-tius, whyche liued in the yeare of our Lorde. v C. besides diuers other.
Of these two Nouatus and Catarus enlued no small sweatnes of he-retykes, whiche euer that tyme haue mayntayned styl abhominable heresy, and in these our dayes, the Catabaptistes renued it agayne to The Catabaptistes. great perturbacion of the Christen publique weale, and much hynde-rance of Christes gospel. The. God forbid that any man shoulde allow or thys their wicked opinion, seeing it doeth not only fyll hell, with the soules of them that mayntayne this abhominacion, but also manifestly fight with Gods most holy worde. Phi. We say trueth. Although it had leasure, it were but a trifle to confute this their wicked heresy, with all the other that they mayntayne, yet will I for the confirmation of your consciences rehearse certaine Scriptures, which shall vtterly refyll and confute their wicked opinion of denying remission and forgeuenes of synnes to sinners. God sayeth by his Prophet these wordes. If the wicked will repente hym and turne from all his synnes, and kepe all my commaundementes, and do iudgement and iustice, he shall liue and not dye. I will not remember all his iniquities whiche he hath wrought, but he shall liue in his righteousnes which he hath wrought. Shall he liue? As my wyll sayeth the Lord God, and not rather that he should turne from his wayes & liue? Conuert your selues, and repente you from all your iniquities, and your iniquite shall not make you to fall into condemnacion. Cast away from you all your wickednesses wherein ye haue offended, & make you a newe hart and a newe spirite: and wherefore will ye dye O ye house of Israel? For I will not the dethe of any man, saieth the Lord God. Returne and liue. And by another Prophet he sayeth, Returne O thou rebell Israel, sayeth the Lord, and I will not turne away my face from you. For I am holy, sayeth the Lord, and I will not be angry for euermore. Againe in an other place the Prophet sayeth, Turne to the Lorde your God, for he is gentle and mercyful, patient and of much gentlenes and ready to forgeue his malice. Do not all these scriptures playne manifestly that Gods mercy lyeth bent out for all maner of synners at all tymes, if they repent and turne? Christ. I meruayle how they coulde fynde in their harts to establishe suche heretycall doctrine, seeing they repugne so euidently with the diuine Scriptures. Eusc. They refuse the authorite of the olde Testament, and onely cleaue to the newe. Phi. I know that righte well, yet is the olde Testament of neuer the lesse auctorite therfore. Eus. They gather their fantasticall opinion, as I here say of S. Paule to the Hebrues, where he sayth, It is not possible y they, which were once lyghtened and haue tasted the heauenly gyft, and were partakers of the holy goost, and haue tasted the good worde of God, and y vertues of the world to come, if they do fall, could be renued agayne by penaunce. Agayne, If we synne willingly after we haue receyued the knowledge of the trueth, there remayneth no more sacrifice for synnes but a fearefull looking for iudgemēt and violent fyer, which shall deuoure the aduersaryes. Phi. These textes stablishe nothyng theyr opinion, but rather manifestly condemne it. As touchyng the first sentence of Paul S. Ambrose vnderstandeth it not of penaunce, but of Baptisme. The renouncion or reuiuyng, sayeth he, by the fountain of holy Baptisme ought not be made the seconde tyme. To be renued, he sayd, that is, to be made newe. For it is the office of holy Baptisme to make a man newe. And a litle after he sayth. As Christ died once on y crosse as concerning y flesh so dye we by once in Baptisme, not in flesh, but in syn. And as he cannot dye agayne, so cannot we be baptysed agayne, except peraduenture wyth the teares of penaunce, not wyth the regeneracion of that sollempne sacrament. What than wyll you saye, is there no penaunce? There is penaunce verely, but not another Baptisme. There is vndoubtedly penaunce

Eze. xviii.

The cōfutacīō of the heresy whiche denieth remission of sinnes after Baptisme.

Ieremy. iii.

Ioel. ii.

Hebrū. vi.

The herese of denying remissiō of sinnes after Baptisme is gathered.

Hebrū. x.

Marke well.

In Heb. ca. vi

The textes wherof the afore sayd heresy is gathered, is expouded by S. Ambrose.

and it hath much vertue and strength, yea euen for him also, that is very much drowned in syn. Thus see you that they that syn after Bapti-me, cannot be made a newe by Baptisme (for that is no more reiteted) yet is not here Penaunce denied vnto them, but synne they neuer so greatly, yet if they repent, and turne to our Lorde God, they shal easly finde mercye and be saued. And as concerning the seconde texte, S.
In He. ca. x. Ambrose vpon the same place sayeth, that Christ dyed once for our sy-nes, and shal no more for them be offered. For with one oblacion hath With one oblacion of Christ, the faythfull are made perfect he made them perfect for euermore that are sanctified. Thou art made cleane, thou art free from synnes, thou art made the son of God. If thou returnest to thy first vomite, another iudgement tarryeth for the, except thou be reuued by Penaunce. Therefore let euery one, whyle he hath tyme, flye vnto the medicine of Penaunce, least he be committed vnto euerlastyng fyre. These wordes declare openly, that so ofte as we repent and turne, so oft shal we be forgeuen. Onely we ought not to loke for another Sacrifice. For Christe already hath suffered once for all. Do ye not perceiue nowe, howe greatly both the olde Heretykes, and also these their newe Apes, be deceaued? Euse. Yes verely. The. It is easy to perceiue for hym that loketh vpon the textes wyth a single eye, & with an vncorrupted hart. But I praie you rehearse some textes of the new Testamente, that maye euidently shewe that they whyche synne after Baptisme may be reuued by Penaunce, and that Gods mercy is ready for them, whan so euer they repent and turne. Phi. That synners may receaue remission of their synnes thoughe they synne after they haue knowen the trueth, and are Baptised, it is manyfeste by diuers places of the new Testament. Who doubteth but that Peter was both baptysed and knewe the trueth, whan he cõfessed Christ to be ỳ son of the Math. xvi. liuing God? The. No man. For Christ sayd vnto him, thou arte blessed, Math. xxvi. Simõ. Flesshe & bloud haue not shewed this vnto thee, but my father, Peter knew the trueth & sinned after Baptisme, yet was he forgeuen. which is in heauẽ. Phi. Very wel. Yet did he fall agayne after ỳ, when he denyed Christ. Euse. Ye say trueth. Phi. Did not he afterward, whẽ he repented, obtayne mercy at the hande of God? Chri. No mã wyll deny that, I am sure. Phi. Very well. Hereof doeth it folowe, that remison of synnes is not denied vnto synners, if they repente & beleue. Agai.
i. Corin. v. did not one among the Corinthians after he was Baptysed, commyt a
The Corinthiane. greuouse & detestable offence, in so much ỳ he was excommunicate and put out of the Christen congregacion? and yet whan he repented, was ii. Cor. ii. he not receaued agayne among the faythfull? If this synne had been irremissible and could not haue ben forgeuen by no meanes, woulde S.
Paule haue commaunded ỳ he should haue ben taken agayne into the
i. Iohn. ii. cõpany of ỳ Christians? Euse. It is to be thought nay. Phi. Ye may be The lost son is receaued. sure, he would not. S. John also sayeth, my litle children, these thinges Luke. xv. haue I wrytten to you, that ye shoulde not synne. But if any man shall synne, we haue an aduocate wyth God the father Jesus Christ ỳ righteous one. Is not the lost sonne receaued, whã he repenteth, knowledgeth

geth hys saule, and commeth home againe? Is not the wandryng shepe fetched hame agayne vpon shoulders. Is not the wounded man cured and made whole? Doeth not Christ daily cry, come vnto me all ye that labour and are laden, and I shal refresh you. Came not Christ to call sinners to repentaunce? Is not Christ a perpetuall saulour? The O moste swete and comfortable sayinges. Phila. These authorities vtterly condemne the opinion of the aforesaied Heretikes, and sette forth highly the dignitie of Penaunce vnto the greate consolacion and comfort of all faythfull and penitent synners. Therfore let vs runne to this medecine as vnto a strong Bulwarke. Let vs flye vnto it as vnto an holy anchore. Let vs delight in it, as in an hauen of health. Let vs not dispaire, but beleue with a sure faith, that if we vnfaynedly repent and turne vnto God, desiring mercy for Jesus Christes sake, he wyll surely remit our iniquitie, and take vs agayne vnto his fauour. Christ. Blessed be God for it. Phi. I haue spoken sufficiently for this tyme of Penaunce. I will now declare some what of the partes thereof to you. For they are also necessary to be knowen. Eusc. I pray you let it be so.

The wandryng sheps is fetched agayne. Luke.x.

The wounded man is healed. Math.ix. Mark.xi.

¶ Of Contricion.

PHILEMON.

Penaunce consisteth in three partes, Contricyon, Confessyon, and Satisfaction or amendement of lyfe. First as concerning Contriction, ye shall vnderstande that it consisteth in two spetiall partes which must alwayes be conioyned together, and cannot be dissevered. Eus. I pray you what are they? Phi. The first is a very sorowe or mourning of the hart for the synnes committed agaynste the wyll of God. The seconde is a constant fayth, to beleue that be the synnes neuer so great and manifolde, yet if we repent and aske mercy, God the father wyl, not for the worthines of any merite or worke done by vs, but for the onely merytes of the bloud and passion of our Sauioure Jesus Christ, vndoubtedly forgeue vs our synnes, repute vs iustified and of the number of his elect children. The contricion of such a Penitente synner pleaseth God greatly, yea it is an acceptable Sacrifice vnto hym, as Dauyd sayeth, A Sacrifice to god is a troubled spirite, a contrite and humble hart God wyll not dispice. God, sayeth S. Austen, wyll not the Sacrifice of a slayne beaste, but of a slayne hart. An hart that is humbled wyth the knowledge of the filthynesse and abomination of her owne synnes, and slayne wyth the feare of God, and yet trusteth in the most comfortable promises of God the father made vnto vs in Christes moste blessed bloud, chaungeth for strength to do the wyl of God, can none other wyse but haue God mercifull vnto her. God fylleth them y are hungry with good things, saieth

Penaunce consisteth in iii. partes.

Of contricio and the two partes therof.

Psal.li.

De ciuī dei. li. x. cap. iiii.

What sacrifice God requireth. Luke.ii.

1. Peter. v.
Math. v.
True contrition dryueth away both presumpciō and desperacyon.
What true contrition worketh in a penitente faythfull hart.
Why Christ is called a Physicion.
De pe. ad. ve.
The golden sentence of Fulgentius concernynge remission of synnes.
Howe we may come by the true and perfecte contricion.
Rom. x.
The Scripture deuided into two partes.
Marke thys similitude.
Syn is not easely perceiued except we beholde our selues in the glasse of the law of God.
Rom. iii.
Proue. vi.
Psal. cxviii.
A good lesō
Psal. cxviii.

themost glorious virgin, but he letteth go the ritche emptye. God resisteth the proude, but to the humble he geueth grace. Blessed are they that hunger and thirst after righteousnes for they shalbe filled. Who soeuer hath this Godly contricion in him, can neyther presume nor yet despayre. For if he be vnfaynedly contrite and sorowful for his sinnes, he must nedes graunt himselfe to be sinful, miserable, voide of all goodnes, bent vnto euil, prone to noughtines, which thing vtterly subdueth presumpcion and engraffeth in the hart submission, obedience and humilite of minde. Againe, if he be truely contryte, be his sinnes neuer so great and innumerable, yet casteth he his eies on Gods merey, set forth to al penitent sinners in Chryst Jesus, that will lay hande on it with a sure and vndouted faith, which likewise maketh him, ỹ by no meanes he can dispaire. For though his sinnes be great, yet he knoweth that the mercye of God is greater, and therfore can not his sin condemne hym. Why is Christ called a Physicio, but because he is able to heale sinners? If our Physicion be wise, saieth Fulgentius, than can he heale al infirmities, If our God be merciful, than can he forgeue al synnes For ther is no perfecte goodnes, of whom all noughtines is not ouercome. Ther is no perfect medicine, to whom any disease is founde incurable. Thus see we that where perfect contricion is, ther, is nether presumpcion nor desperacion. Euse. I pray you, how may we come by this true and perfect contricion? Phi. Verely by the worde of God. For fayth commeth by hearyng, and hearing by the worde of God. We shal note that the holy Scripture is deuided into two parts, that is to say, the law and the promises, the knowledge wherof is ryght necessary for the obtainings of true and perfect Contricion. We know that a mans face shalbe long defiled, spotted and deformed before he shal perceiue it, except it be eyther tolde him of other, or els that he himselfe seeth it euidently in some myrroure or glasse Semblably, the soule of a Chrysten mā shalbe spotted with sin a great space, before he perceiueth it, and be truly contrite, and sorye for it, excepte it be either tolde him of other by declaryng the law of God to hym, or els he himself loketh in ỹ glasse of trueth, which is the law of God, and by that meanes perceiueth his own deformitie, misery and wretchednes. For by the law commeth the knowledg of sin The commaundement is a lanterne, and the law is a lyght and waye of the lyfe, saieth Salomon. Dauid also sayeth, O Lord thy worde is a lanterne to my fete, and a light to my pathwaies. So that ỹ next way to haue the knowledge of our sinnes, whereby we shoulde be moued to be contrite and sorowful in our hartes for our wickednesses & offences and to stande in feare of Gods righteousnes, is euer to haue the law of God before our eies I haue hidden thy speches in my harte, saieth Dauid, that I may not offende thee, Chri. Now I pray you how shall we doe concerning the seconde part of Contricion. Phi. When ye are vnfaynedly striken with this Contricion, so that your harts do truly feare the iustice of God, and ye abhorre sin euen to the vttermost of your power wer longing greatly for strength to do the wil of God ỳ ye may walke innocently before the eies of the diuine maiestie, than for the consolacion of your consciences, and the reioysing of your hartes oughte ye to consider the most swete, moste ioyefull, moste comfortable promyses of God, made to vs freely in Christes most precious bloud. Nowe to put away desperacion, doeth conuenient time require, that ye cleaue stedfastly with al maine to the promises, which lay forth Gods mercye before youre eyes. Therfore loke whersoeuer ye heare or see any comfortable promise of God in the holy Scriptures, that declareth mercy to penitent synners beleue without doubting that that pertaineth vnfained ly to you. When soeuer ye heare or reade that Christe is a Sauioure, streight wayes lay hande on that, and beleue that he also is your Sauioure. When the Scriptures shal say to you: Jesus Christe came into the worlde to saue synners, and euery one that calleth on the name of the Lorde shalbe saued, beleue you streight wayes, that ye are of that nomber which shalbe saued by Christ. When the Scripture shal saye, God wil not the death of any sinner, but rather that he turne and liue, beleue you streight wayes, that Gods pleasure is, ye should be saued, if ye returne to him with a contrite and faythfull harte, and so liue with him for euermore in the celestial glory. Except ye haue this fayth also annexed with your sorowe, verely as your contricion is imperfect, so is it able to cast you into desperacion. Againe to haue a faith that GOD wil forgeue you your sinnes, and not to be sory for your offenses, nor to stande in feare of Gods indignacio for transgressing his most holy law nor to hunger and thirst after righteousnes, verely as your contricion is unperfect, so is it the right way to lede you to presumpcion. Neyther desperacion nor presumpcion oughte to be in the harte of any Christen man, but a penitente and sorowfull minde erected and lifted vp wyth fayth. For S. Austen saieth, if faith be the foundacion of penaūce without the which there is nothing that good is, verely ỳ penaunce oughte to be desired, whiche it is euident to be grounded on fayth. For a good tree cannot bringe forth euill fruites. Therefore that penaunce whiche procedeth not of fayth, is vnprofitable. For we must beleue that remedy is graunted to penaunce of our Sauioure. Fulgentius also sayeth Judas that betrayed Christ, repented hym of hys sin, but he lost helth and saluacion, because he trusted not to be forgeuen. He repented worthely in dede because he sinned betraying the righteous bloud, but he therfore lost the fruite of his repentaunce, because that he did not truste that the sin of his betraying should be washed away with his bloud, whom he betraied. Thus see you how necessary faith is vnto a contrite hart, and how that wythout that, it is not possible for any penitent sinner to receiue remission of his sinnes, as diuers manifest textes and Histories of the holy Scripture do euidently proue and shewe. The. You taught vs this thing aboundauntly before in the thirde dishe of youre Banket, neyther haue we forgotten it. Phi. I am glad of it. Therefore

Marke well.

The comfortable promyses of God must be laid hande on.
i. Tim. i.
Ioel. ii.
Actum. ii.
Rom. x.
Eze. xviii.

Marke and beare alwayes
Contricion wythout faith leadeth vnto desperacion.

Fayth with out contricion bringeth forth Presumption.
Deuera et falsa penitent. cap. ii.

Fayth is the foundacio of Penaunce.
Penās with out faith is vnprofitable.
De pœni. ad venam.

A notable & most goodly sentence of Fulgentius will I now tarye no lenger about this matter, but make hast to the second part of penaunce which is Confession. Euse. I praye you hartely let it so be.

¶ Of Confession.

PHILEMON.

After that ye haue conceyued in your heartes true & perfect Contrition, as I haue hitherto parted, than doth the second part follow to be right & due order, which is Confession. It is requisite þ a christen man be not only sory for hys offences committagaynst God, but also that he knowledgeth & con-fesseth hys synne. For the scripture sayeth that they which came to be baptised of John, confessed theyr synnes. Lyke wyse reade we in the Actes of the Apostles. But in asmuch as the scripture teacheth diuers kyndes of confession, therefore wyll I here somwhat to wch the al. Fyrst, the chefe & most principal Confessio is þ confessio of our fayth, wherin we cõfesse vnfaynedly, what soeuer þ holy scriptures teache of God. This confession is so necessary, that without it no man can be saued. No manacyng woordes, no imprisonment, no cheynes, no fetters, no sword, no faggot, no fyre ought to pluck vs from this confession. No tyranny ought so to be feared, that God & his trueth shuld not be confessed. For euery one, sayth Chryst, that shall confesse me before men, I shall also confesse hym before my father which is in heauen.
But he that shal deny me before men, I shall denye hym also before my father, which is in heauen. Of this Confession S. Paule sayth, with the heart it is beleued vnto righteousnes, but with the mouth confessiis made to saluation. Also S. John. Hereby shall ye know the spyrit of God. For euery spirite that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in flesshe, is of God: And euery spyrite whiche confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is not of God. And this is that spirite of antichrist, of whom ye haue herd, how that he should come, and now alredy is he in the worlde. But in asmuche as thys confession is not the part of Penaunce, wherof we do now entreat, I wyl omit it at this present. Another kynde of Confession is, which pertayneth more nerely to our matter, for to confesse our sinne vnto God, whom we haue offended.
Without this Confession our Penaunce auayleth but litle, as we may perceiue by diuers places of the scripture. For though al thinges are to the eyes of God, & nothyng can be hid from him, so that he knoweth althinges, yet wil he that we humblie confesse & knowledge our sinnes vnto him, that by this meanes we may make him the more merciful vnto vs. We read that a certaine blind man cried vnto Christ, saying, Jesu the sonne of Dauid haue mercy vpon me. Christ did knowe full wel wherfore he called on hym, yet not withstanding he sayde, What wilt thou that I do vnto the? Lord sayd he, þ I may receiue my sight. Christ demaunded this thing of him, because he would haue him confesse hys infyr-

Confession of synnes is necessary. Mat.iii. Mar.i. Luke.ii. Actum.xix.

Diuers kindes of cõfession.

The confession of fayth Math.x. Mar.viii. Luke.xii. Rom.x. i.Iohn.iiii.

The confession of sinnes vnto God. Heb.iiii.

Why God wyl haue vs confesse our sinnes vnto hym. Luke.xviii.

The blynd man.

ſtemitie & blindnes. Do is it conuenient for vs, if we will receiue our ſight, to cõfeſſe our blyndnes. Do. Joim ſayth, If we cõfeſſe our ſinnes, God is ſaythfull and ryghteous to forgeue vs our ſynnes, and to make vs cleane from all vnrygh teouſnes. If we ſay, we haue not ſynned, we make hym a lyer, and his word is not in vs. Dauid alſo ſayeth, I haue made my treſpaſſe knowē vnto the, & mine vnryghteouſnes haue I not hydden. I ſayde, I will confeſſe my vnrygh teouſnes to the Lorde, and thou haſt forgeuē the vngodlines of my ſinne. This confeſſion followeth a true repētant & cõtrite hert. The Prophet Daniel confeſſeth hys ſinne on this maner, we haue ſinned, we haue done vnrighteouſnes, we haue wrought wickedly, we haue gone away & rõne aſtrate fro thy commaundementes & iudgmentes. Alſo Eſdras, I and the houſe of my father haue ſynned, we were ſeduced vñ vanitie, & haue not kept thy cõmaundementes. Lykewiſe Dauid, whan the Prophet Nathan at the commaundement of God, rebuked hym for hys aduultery & manſlaughter, cõfeſſed hys ſinne, and ſaid, I haue ſinned vnto the Lord Almyghtie, O God I haue ſynned to the alone, & euel before thee haue I done. The Publicane alſo made his cõfeſſion on this maner, O God be thou merciſull to me a ſynner. This kynde of Confeſſion ought euery chriſten man daily and hourely to make vnto God, ſo oft as he is brought vnto the knowledg of hys ſynne. Another kynde of confeſſion is to knowledg and cõfeſſe oure ſinnes to them, whom we haue offended. Of this ſpeaketh S. James, ſaying, Cõfeſſe youre ſinnes one to a nother. Alſo Chriſt, If thou ſhalt offer thy gyft at the Altar, & there doſt remember, that thy brother haue any thing againſt the, leaue thy gift there before the Altare, & go thy way, and be firſt reconcyled to thy brother, and then come on thy waye, and offer thy gyft. This confeſſion, wherby we are reconcyled one to another, & conioyned in mutuall amitie, is ſo neceſſary, that without it, the other profyt and auayle lyeth before God. Thee is an other confeſſion, which is publique & open, & this is, whan we knowledge and confeſſe our ſinnes openly before the congregacion, as the maner was in the primatiue chyrch. Of this confeſſion ſpeaketh Chriſt. If thy brother treſpaſſe againſt the, go and tell hym hys faulte betwene thee and him alone. If he heareth thee, thou haſt won thy brother. But yf he heareth thee not, than take yet one or two with thee, that in the mouth of two or thre witneſſes, euery matter mate be eſtabliſhed. If he heareth not them, tel it to the cõgregation. If he heareth not the congregation, holde him as an Hethen and publicane. All theſe kyndes of Confeſſion are aboundantely fortreſſed and approued by the holy Scriptures. Theo. But we heare nothing all this while of auricular cõfeſſiõ, which is chefly vſed amõg vs at this time. Eu. Of this we wold be glad to heare. Chri. I pray you expreſſe your mind concerning this kind of cõfeſſion alſo. For ſome approue it, ſom again cõdẽn it. Phi. Why auricular cõfeſſiõ ſhuld be cõdẽned & exiled frõ ỹ bordes of chriſtiantie, I ſe no cauſe, but ỹ it ſhould be approued,

i. Iohañ. i.

Pſalm. xxxii.

Dani. ix.

ii. Eſd. i.

ii. Reg. xii.

Luke. xviii.

The confeſſiõ of ſinnes to our neighbour.

Iacob. v.

Matth. v.

The publique confeſſion.

Matth. xviii.

Of auricular confeſſiõ

Such like wickednes hath ben wrought by auriculer confession.

appoynted, retayned, mayntayned and vsed, I fynd causes manye, whose whole ought diligent and necessary. Chri. Suche auricular and secrete confession hath bothe ben conjoyned, learned, practised and done in dyuers churche, as histories make mention, neyther know we any experience of this thyng. Phi. I can not perwe these thynges to be true, that is nothyng so good and of so great excellencye, but it maye be abused. The abuse therof is to be taken awaye, and not the thyng it selfe. Thus confession hath ben greatly abused, it can not be denyed, as many other thynges in the Church haue ben also, yet ought it not therfore to be rejected and cast awaye, but rather refourmed to the olde purpose, to the vse, for the which it was fyrst instituted. And so shall it not only not hurt, but also profyt very highly, and bring much vtilitie and profyt to the Christen congregation. Theo. This thyng shall neuer come to passe, except they that set on confession be men of grauitie, sagacitie, wisdome, discrecion, sobrietie, integritie, and able to teache, to instruct and enfourme with all godly doctryne. Eusebius. Ye speake it an extreme poynt of madnes for a man, yf hys bodye be diseased, to hunte, enquire and seeke about for a sober, wise, prudent and cunning Phisition, that maye cure and heale it, & to be so necligente in those thynges that pertayne to hys soule. For many care not to what preest they go vnto, be he learned or vnlearned, wise or folysh, modest or lyght, of good conuersacion or of noughtye lyuing, so that to satisfye the custome they come to confesse, and receaue theyr Absolucion, & go awaye neuer the better instructed, nor with the moste penitent hartes. Chri. Thys is a great abuse. Phil. Ye saye truth. Therfore were it conuenient, they which should be appoynted to be Curates and ouerseers of the Christen people, into whose handes the whole life & care of Christes flocke is committed, shulde be of such sort, as S. Paule describeth in his Epistles to Timothe and Titus, that is to saye, irreprehensible, faultles, sober, discrete, syngulous, holy, temperate, apte to teache, & such one as cleaueth vnto the true worde of doctrine, that he may be able to exhort with holsom learning, and to improue them that speake agaynst it. For this cause dyd God commaunde in the olde Testament that they should not be chosen to be Preestes for to minister to hym, which had any blemyth on them, as they that were blynde, lame, with an euell fauoured nose, with any misshapen member, or that hade a broken foote or hand, or else backed, or any blemish in theyr eyes &c. Not ment God by this perfection of the Preestes membres, but only to shewe, y he wolwych should serue hym, and geue attendaunce on his flock, should be whole and sound in al kind of bertu and godlynesse, not corrupt nor deformed with any iniquitie or vnclenesse. A preest ought to haue no blemish on him, that is to saye, he ought to be pure both in hys doctryne and conuersacion. Chri. God graunte vs cure suche curates, that maye rule among vs with such integritie & syncerytie of doctryne, as is required of them in the holy scriptures. En. If thys myght be brought to passe, thus shulde the Gospell

Auricular confession hath ben wel vsed, vntil the goostly fathers be wise, discret sober and learned.

Mark thys similitude.

The blindnes of the common sort.

What maner of men they ought to be, yshould be Curates. 1. Tim. iii. Titu. i.

Leuit. xxi. All tho were refused to be Preestes in the old law.

Note well.

A Preest ought to haue no blemish on him Actum. xx.

of Chryst

of Chryſt ſlayne, and the flocke of Chryſte, whom he purchaſed with his moſt precious bloude, be better looked vpon and fed, than they are now adayes. Phi. Truth it is. But I pray you marke, what I ſhal now ſaye vnto you, concernyng thys auriculare confeſſion. That Auriculare confeſſion is a thyng of much weyght and graue importaunce it appeareth well, in as muche as it bringeth to men diuers ample commodyteyes and large profytes. Thu. I praye you, what are thoſe. Phi. Fyrſte it ingraffeth in vs certaine humilitie, ſubmiſſion & lowlines of mind, & depreſſeth al arrogancy & pryde, while we humblye are contented to confeſſe to our ghoſtly fathers ſuch offences, as wherwith we haue offended God. Secondly it inureth and beteth into our hartes a ſhamefaſtneſſe, wherby we are to aſhamed of our faultes here tofore cõmitted that we vtterly abhorre them, and are wholly inflamed with the loue of vertue. Thyrdly, it bryngeth vs to the knowledg of our ſelues, while we heare thoſe thinges of the Prieſt that ar neceſſary to be knowen of euery chriſten man. Fourthly in cõfeſſiõ we do not only learne to knowe how hainous and deteſtable a thing ſinne is before God, but also meanes and wayes to eſchewe it. Howe many, thynke you, are there, whiche if thys auriculer confeſſion were taken awaye, wouide not care howe they lyued, neyther would they regarde any part of Chriſtes doctrine, but lyue lyke braue beaſtes with oute any feare of God at all, or ſtudye of innocencye, wallowyng and tombling them ſelues daylye in ſynne, not once hauyng a reſpect vnto the correction of their vilde and wicked maners. Fyrſtely yf we be in doubt of any thing, in confeſſion we may learne the aſſurance and certaintie of it. Secretely in confeſſyon the ignorant is brought vnto knowledge, the blynde vnto ſyght, the deſperate vnto ſaluation, the preſumptuous vnto humilitie, the troubled vnto quietnes, the ſorowfull vnto ioye, the ſycke vnto health the dead to lyfe. What nede I make many wordes? Confeſſion bringeth tranquilite to the troubled conſcience of a chriſten man, while þ moſt comfortable wordes of abſolution ar rehearſed vnto him by the Prieſt. Euſe. I praye you, what is that abſolucion. Phi. Merely a pleadyng of the free baiſmaſter frõ all our ſynnes thorow Chryſtes bloud. How ſay you is here any thing to be cõdemned in Auricular confeſſion thus vſed? Chri. No verely, al thynges þ you haue rehearſed, or rather more thy high praiſe and commendacion. Phi. It is attributed and geuẽ by nature to cõmunicate vnto other the ſecretes of oure hartes cõcernyng tẽporal & worldly thynges, whither they be of ioye or ſadneſſe, and tyll we haue ſo done, we are neuer in reſt. Euſe. We ſay truth. Phi. Why ſhuld we than not be redy to do ſo lykewiſe in ſpirituall affaires, and thinges pertaynyng vnto the ſaluation of our ſoules, except peraduenture we be enemies of our owne health. Nothyng is ſweeter and more pleaſaũt, ſaith Cicero, than to haue ſuch one, with whom thou dareſt be bold to ſpeake all thinges as with thy ſelfe. A man hauing a learned, wiſe, diſcrete, ſilente, cloſe, faithfull ghoſtly father, which louyth þ penitent, Actum. xix.

The cõmodities that enſew of auricular confeſſion.

Detestable abſolucion is.

A naturall diſpoſition to break our myndes one to another.

Libro de amicicia.

penitent, no lesse than a naturall father doth hys chylde, why shoulde he feare to declare vnto hym the secretes of hys hart, whereby is redy to counsayle, to instruct, to counsayle, to teache and to do all thinges that shall make vnto his consolacion and heith. The Prophet Malachy saith, the lyppes of a Preste kepe knoweledg, and men shall seake the lawe at hys mouth. For he is a messanger of the Lorde of Hostes. If thys ought to be done at all tymes, whan haue we a more conuenient and fit time to do it, than in the tyme of Confession, whan we may freely talke to our spirituall fathers, what so euer pleaseth vs? Euse. It is truth that ye say. But what if such a ghostly father doth not chaunse, as ye haue declared heretofore. Phi. Verely ye ought alway to resort to the best learned men, and to seake for such ghostly fathers, as bothe will and can instruct and teache you the Lawe of God. But let it so be, that your Curate be not of the greatest learned men, yet is he to much symple, if he can bring out of hys Treasurehouse thinges neyther new nor olde, seyng that the holy Scriptures are so plenteously set forth in oure Englysh tong, that euen the very idiot may now become learned in the kyngdom of God. Therfore to make fewe wordes concernyng thys matter, disdayne ye not to go to Confession at the tymes appoynted, according to the lawe of our most excellent kyng, yea and that with all humble reuerence. Declare the diseases of youre soules vnfaynedly, that ye maye be healed with the most swete and comfortable salue of Gods word. Folowe the godly and wholsome admonicions of youre ghostly father. Go vnto hym with suche an hatred and detestacion of synne, that ye maye returne from hym with hartes al together enflamed with the perfection of vertue, innocency, and true Godlynes, beyng full fyred neuer to returne vnto youre olde vomyte and wallowyng in the myre. And whan he shall rehearse vnto you the most swete and comfortable wordes of Absolucion, geue earnest faith vnto them, beyng vndoubtedly perswaded, that your sinnes at that time be allredy forgeuen you, as though God hymselfe had spoken them, &c. according to thys saying of Christ. He that heareth you, heareth me. Again, whose synnes ye forgeue are forgeuen them. Thys haue I spoken concernyng Auriculare confession. The. Very Godly forsothe, Euse. What remaineth now? Chri. We promised consequently to entreate of Satisfaction or amendement of life. Phi. Ye saye truth. Of that matter therfore will I now entreate.

Gen. xxvi.

Mala. ii.

Men ought to seake for wyse & learned ghostly fathers.

Math. xiii.

ii. Peter. ii.

Earnest faith must be giuen to the wordes of absolucion.

Mathew. x. Luke. x. Iohn. xx.

Of Satisfaction or amendement of lyfe.

Satisfactiō or amendement of lyfe

As touching this word Satisfaction, which hath so long bene retayned in the Church of Christ, we must graunt and beleue vndoubtedly, that Christ alone is the omnisufficient satisfaccion for all our sinnes vnto God the father by the spryncklyng and effusion of hys most precious bloud which abydeth and lasteth for euer euer so perfect, that he is hable at all tymes to saue them, that are sanctifyed with that one and omnisufficient oblacion and Sacrifyce of his most blessed bodie done on the crosse, and that not onely from the fault, but also from the payne due and belonging vnto the fault. Behold that lambe of God, sayth S. John Baptist, whych taketh awaye the synne of the worlde. S. John the Euangelist sayth also: The bloud of Jesus Christ Gods owne sonne, maketh vs cleane from all synne. Agayne, yf any mā synne, we haue an aduocate with God the father Jesus Christ that ryghteous one. And he is the satisfaction for oure synnes, not for oure sinnes onelye, but also for all the whole worlde. By the deathe of Chryst are we reconciled to the father. Christ is our wisdom sanctification, ryghteousnesse & redemptiō. Christ is oure peace. By the bloud of Christ haue we remission of oure sinnes. By Chryst are all thynges reconciled to God, and by Chrystes bloud are all thinges pacified and set at a staye both in heauen & in earth. Christ was broken for oure sinnes. Christ bare oure sinnes on his body vpon the tree, by whose stripes we are made hole. Oure synnes are forgeuen vs for Chrystes name. All the Prophetes beare witnesse, that thorow the name of Chryst, euery one that beleueth on him, shal receaue remission of his synnes. Thus see we that there is no satisfaction perfect and sufficient to God the father for our synnes, but only the death of Christ, so that we may well saye with the Apostle, God forbyd that we should reioyse in any thyng, but in the deathe of oure Lorde Jesus Chryst, who so euer repenteth hym of his synnes from the very hart, and is sory for them, lamenteth bys misery, hongereth for strengthe to do the will of God, knowledgeth his offenses laboureth with all mayne to walke in a newe lyfe, nedeth not to doubt, but that Christ by his death hath aboundantly satisfyed to God the father for his sinnes. Chri. Is there no more behynd concernyng Satisfaction? Phi. Yes verely. After ye haue repented you of your wickednesse, ye must than amend your life, and bryng forth frutes worthy of penaunce, as the Scripture commaundeth. Ye must practise in your lyuing all Godlynes and innocency, Fastyng, prayer, and almes muste diligently be exercysed of you in your dayly conuersation. Ye must go from vertu to vertu, and from fayth to fayth. As ye haue walked before in darknesse, so must ye walke now in lyght. Youre whole lyfe muste nowe be nothyng elis, than a perfect meditacion of purite and innocency. Except ye labour to do thys, surely ye haue no part of Chryste, neythere is the death of Christ a satisfaction for your sinnes, but the wrath of God abydeth styll vpon you. God hath blessed you in Chryste Jesus, that euery one of you should turne awaye from his wickednesses as the scripture sayth. God hath not called vs, sayth S. Paule, vnto vnclennes, but vnto sanctification and holynes. These thynges once donne, than remayneth there a true and perfect satisfaction to our neyghbour, whom we haue offended or hurt either in word or dede.

For a satisfaction or amendes must nedes be made to our neyghboure, Christ alone is the omnisufficient satisfaction to God the father for all our synnes. i. Peter. i. Hebre. x.

Christ delyuereth from the fault & from the payne due vnto it. Iohn. i. i. Iohn. i. Iohn. iii. Rom. v. i. Cor. i. Ephe. ii. Colloss. ii. Esa. liii. i. Peter. ii. i. Iohn. Actum. x. Gala. vi.

Note for whose sines the death of Christ is a satisfaction.

Math. iii. Psal. lxxxiiii. Roma. i.

Ephe. v. Iohn. iii.

Actes. iii. i. Thess. iiii.

A satisfaction to oure neyghbour.

Mat. vii. Luke. vi.

or els we walke not after the order of Charitie, nor accordynge to the lawe of nature, whych commaundeth euery man to do to another, as he woulde other should do to hym. Therfore God in the old law commaunded that yf any man dyd steale from hys neyghbour an ore or a shepe, he should restore and geue hym agayne fiue ores for one ore, and foure shepe for one shepe. We reade also in the Gospell of Luke, that Exod. xxii. Luke. xix.

Zacheus sayd vnto Chryst: beholde Lorde I geue halfe my goodes to the poore people, & yf I haue deceyued any man of any thyng I gene him foure times asmuch agayn for it. These thynges declare manifestly, ỳ we are bounde to make satisfaction to our neyghbour, in what soeuer thynges we haue hurt hym. The. What yf we be not hable, shall we then lose the heritage of the kyngdome of heauen? Phi. God forbyd For then should all they that dye for theft, and many other be damned But this I saye vnto you, yf we be able by any meanes to make satisfaction to them, whom we haue offended, hindered or hurt, we ought without doubt to do it. But yf it so be, that by no wyse we are able, thē ought we to come to them, whom we haue offended, and desire thē for Chrystes sake to forgeue vs. And they agayne ought, yf they wyll be forgeuen of God to remitte and forgeue theyr offenders. Chri. Thys is very godly spoken. Phi. Hytherto haue I talked with you of Penaūce of Contricion, Confession, and Satisfaction accordyng to the vaine of the holy scriptures and the mynd of the auncient Doctoures. Eusc. We remember all these thynges well, and we thanke you ryght hertely for them. Theophilus. Neyghbour Philemon, ye promysed also to speake somewhat of fastyng whych is very necessary for thys present tyme. Philemō. Ye saye truth, and accordyng to my promyse I wyll now entreate of it.

Note well What they ought to do that ar not able to make satisfaction to their neghbour.

Of Fastyng.

The dignitie and excellency of fastyng. Gene. ii.

God was Author of fastyng.

Examples of fastyng Exo. xxxiiii. Iud. xx. i. Re. vii. xiii. iii. Re. xix. ii. Par. xx. Hester. iiii.

O tary longe in the prayse of fastyng, as it were but a vayne thing, so doth not the scarsenesse of time suffer it. How can it any otherwyse than be a thyng of hygh excellency and muche vertu, seyng that GOD hymselfe was the fyrste institutor and Author of it, prescribyng it vnto our prime parente Adam in Paradyse, which if he had obserued, none of vs all had fallen from that ioyful state into thys sorowful misery. Dyd not Moyses fast forty dayes, that he might be made worthy to receaue the Tables of the law: Dyd not the people of Israell many tymes fast when they had displeased God, to recouer and winne againe his fauoure, and at diuers other times: Did not Helias also fast xl. daies: Did not Iosaphat cōmand a solem fast to hys people Did not quene Hester & other Iewes fast thre daies & thre nightes, whē ther was a cōmaūdement mente geuen to destroye al the Jewes? Dyd not the kyng of the Niniuites, whan Jonas threatened them subuersion, comaund both man and beast, & all ỹ euer dwelt in the Cytye to fast? Did not Daniell many tymes fast, and neyther eate nor dryncke? Did not Esdras so lykewyse? As I may passe ouer many of the old Testament, dyd not Christ the sonne of God in the new law fast forty dayes and forty nyghtes? Dyd not John Baptist geue hymselfe to much and continuall fasting? Dyd not the Apostles after Christes Assension fast? Is there not a certayne kynde of dyuelles, whiche is not caste oute but by prayer and fastyng? Dyd not Paule fast oftentymes? Do not all these Hystories declare that fastyng is an excellent and very precious thynge? Is not fastyng one of the chiefe and principall workes, which are required of a chrysten mã in the holy scripture? Fasting sayth Basilius magnus, maketh lawers wyttye. It is the best custody and kepyng of the soule. It is the sure habitacion and dwellyng of the body. It is a defẽse and armour to valeaunt men. It is an exercyse to lusty Champiõs and prouers of maystryes. It expelleth temtacion. It is the vnction of godlyneſſe. It is the familiaritie of the fountayne, the gouernour of pure lyuing. Fasting is the ornament of a Citie, the establishment of the iudgyng place, the peace of houses, the helth and preseruacion of houshold. As I may make short tale, thou shalt fynd that fastyng hath made al ỹ sayncles freendes & neyghboures vnto God. Hitherto haue I rehearsed the wordes of the famous Doctor Basilius. The blessed martyr S. Cyprian also sayth, with fastyng the stinckyng poole of vyces is dryed vp, wantonnes wythereth awaye, concupiscences and lustes decaye, vaine pleasures go awaye. With fasting the flame of the burning Ethna is extinguished, and the fornace of the flammiuomus vulcane quenched within, dooth not burne the hylles nere vnto it. Fastyng, yf it be gouerned with discresion, tameth all the rebellion and fearcenes of the flesshe, & spoyleth and maketh weake the tyranny of glotonye. Fasting speareth vp and encloseth as though it were in a narrow prison the extraordinary and vnlawful mocios, yea it holdeth streight and bindeth the wanderyng appetites. Fasting if it be garnysshed with humilitie maketh the seruauntes of God despisers of the worlde. Fastyng is fed with the deynties of the Scriptures, it is refresshed with contemplacion, it is establisshed with grace, it is norisshed with celestiall and heauenly bread. Thus see you also by the auncient Doctours, howe precious a thing fastyng is. Agayne ye see of howe great vertue and strength it is, and how many commodities it bringeth to them that vse & exercyse it aright. Let these fewe thynges therfore suffice for this present, for the cõendacion & prayse of fastyng. Chri. We perceyue now right well that fastyng is a thynge of weyghtye importaunce. Euse. Verely me thinke that I can not approue nor allowe the manners of those Gospellers, as they cauill them selues, whyche contemnyng all kynd of godly fastyng, geue themselues to glottony and dronckennesse, perswadyng them

Iona.ii.iii.

Dan.ix.
Esd.i.
Math.iiii.
Act.i.xiiii.
xxvii.

Mar.ix.
ii.Cor.vi.xi.

Math.vi.
Ser.i.Deieiunio.

The prayse of fasting.

Beholde what a precious thyng fastyng is.

Ser.i.De Ieiunio et tent Christi.

The profyt of fastyng.

The mind of thautor concernyng the grosse gospellers.

themselues to be than best christen men, whan they ar furdest frō christianitie. The. Such grosse gospellers haue much hyndered the prosperous progresse of Gods worde. Phi. Truth it is that ye say. But I pray you be diligent a lytle whyle to heare me, and I wyll teache you both what the true and chrysten fast is, and also how ye ought to fast. The. I pray you let it be so. Eusc. Speake on brother Philemon, we heare you gladly. Phi. The true and chrysten fast, as Basilius magnus dooth defyne, is not only to abstayne from meates, but also to eschewe euell thynges, Of this diffinicion do ye learne two thynges, that is to saye, that the true and chrysten fast consisteth not only in the abstinence of meates, but also in the eschewyng of euell. Therfore sayth oure golden mouthed Doctor. There is a spirituall and a corporall fast. The corporall fast is to abstayne, from meates. The spirituall faste is to abstayne from synnes. For as the flesshe hath a pleasure in eatyng, so hath the spirite of the flesshe a pleasure in synnyng. In consideracion whereof the wyse men call euery synne, pleasure or lust, because we commyt euery synne with delectacion and pleasure. Agayne he sayth: He that abstayneth from meat, and not from euell workes, he appeareth to faste, but yet he fasteth not in dede. For loke how much he fasteth vnto men, so muche dooth he eate before God, seing he goeth forth styll to synne. In another place also he sayth, I call fastyng abstinence from vices. For the abstinence from meates is receyued for this purpose, that it shulde refrayne the rigoure and fearsenes of the flesh, to make it obedient euen as an horse is to his keper. He that fasteth, must aboue all thinges refrayne anger, learne mekenes and lenitie, haue a contryte heart, & that may repell and put abacke vncleane concupiscences and lustes, set before hys eyes alway the eye of the euerlastyng iudge, and the inprauable iudgyng place: by hys money to be made better and to haue rule ouer it, to be liberal in geuing almes, to admyt and receyue into his hert no euel agaynst his neyghbour, as Esay speaking in the person of God saith, Haue I chosē this fast, saith the Lord? Though thou wrest about thy necke lyke a circle, and strawest vnder the sackeclothe and asshes, neyther shall thy fast be so called acceptable, sayth the Lord. What shall than, tel me? Loose, saith he, the bondes of the wicked bargaines, breake thy bread to the hungrye, bryng the poore man that hath no house into thy house. If thou dooest these thynges, sayeth he, than shal thy lyght breake foorth as the mornyng, and thy healthe shal springe right hastely. Hast thou nowe seene (my welbeloued) what the true faste is? Let vs loke vpon this fast, & let vs not think, as many do, the fastyng standeth in thys poynte, yf we continewe without anye dinner vntyll it be nyght. Hitherto haue I rehearsed the wordes of S. John Chrisostom, of whom we may easelye learne, that the true and chrysten faste is not only to abstayne from meate, but also from synne. But let vs heare the myndes of some other doctors. Origene sayth, wylt thou that I shewe vnto thee, what faste thou oughtest to faste? Faste from euell dedes,

Ser. i. De Ieiunio.

What Fastyng is.

Hom. xv in cap. xi.

Two maner of fastynges.

Ibidem.

Note.

In Gen. i. Hom. ix.

Mark wherfore we abstayne from meates.

What he must do that fasteth.

Esay. lviii.

The true fast is to exercyse the workes of mercy.

The custom in tymes past was to fast from all meate vntill nyght.

In Leuiti. Homel. x. cap. vi.

abstayne

abstayne from euel wordes, refrayne from euill thoughtes, touche not the theuish breades of peruerse doctryne. Coupt not, nor luste not after the deceyuable meates of philosophye, that may seduce and turne thee from the truth. Such a fast pleaseth God. S. Austen sayth, the fastes of christen men are rather to be obserued spiritually than carnally. In consideracion wherof, let vs fast principally from our synnes, lest oure fast be refused of the Lorde, as the fastes of the Jewes were. What a fast is this, that an impostore or deceyuable person, I can not tell who should abstayne from meates, whyche the Lorde hathe created, and yet ware fatte with the fatnes of synnes? Haue I chosen suche a fast, sayth the Lorde? Rede the eyght and fiftye Chapter of the Prophet Esaye. And a lytell after he sayth, The fast which the most hygheste doeth approue and allowe, is not only to leaue of to refreshe the body, but also to depart from euell actes or dedes. Also in another place he sayth, The great and generall fast is to abstaine from iniquities and vnlawe full pleasures of the worlde, whiche is a perfect fast, that we forsakyng vngodlines & the lustes of the world, should lyue in this world soberly, righteously & godly. To thys fast what reward doth the Apostle geue It followeth and he sayth, Lokyng for that blessed hope and the appearaunce of the glory of the great God, and of our Sauiour Jesu Christ. In thys world as a Lent of abstinence do we celebrate, whan we liue well, whan we abstayne from wickednes, and vnlawfull pleasures. But because this abstinence shal not be without rewarde, we loke for that blessed hope of the reuelacion of the glory of the great God, and of oure sauiour Jesv Chryst. I could rehearse vnto you innumerable places bothe of these Doctors and of many other, If I had leasure, which declare euidently, ꝑ the true & christen fast doth not only cõsist in ꝑ abstinẽce of meates, but also in ꝑ forsakyng of synne. But these at this tyme may seme abundantely to suffice. The. O good Lord, how greately are many deceyued, which thynche ꝑ they fast wel, if they do onely but abstame from a smokiepece of Bacon, or hard salted and powdered befe, though they eate ꝑ most delicious fyshes ꝑ can be gotten, & enlarge their bodies lyke bellyed Hypocrites vꝑ al the swete meates that either Potecaries or any other can inuent or imagin, yea and ꝑ so vnmeasurably, that after they haue once dined, they ar prouoked ether to ꝑ pleasure of the body, or elles lyke beastes of the belly faulle straycht wayes vnto sleape, so that they are not able to serue God, nor themselelues, nor yet any other. O detestable abhominacion. Euse. Howe much also ar they deceyued of the true manner of fastyng, whych do not only faste after suche sorte, as ye haue nowe spoken, but also do norysh in theyr hertes all kynde of malyce agaynste theyr christen brothers sekyng how they maye destroy them and shed theyr bloud, yea neyther do they cease to pollute and defyle the most blessed name of God, so muche as lyeth in them, with most abhominable othes, and are also in all theyr conuersacyon wicked lyuers, as I maye adde nothyng therto.

What faste we ought to fast.

Ex sermone clxxii.

A notable sentence of S. Austen concernyng fastyng.

Esa. lviii.

Marke well

Extrac. xvii. in Iohn.

Titus. ii.

Note.

We kepe lẽt well whan we liue wel.

Against the wycked and vngodly Fasters.

Ser. i. De Ieiunio.

Undoutedly these men are farre from the true and chrysten manner of fastyng, whyche is, not only to abstayne from meates, but also from synnes. Agaynst those thondereth the holy Doctor, Basilius magnus on thys manner: Wo be vnto you ye dronckardes, not with wine only. For wrath and indignacion, is also a certayne dronckennesse of the soule makyng it euen as wyne dooth hertles and foolysh. For although thou eatest no flesh, saith he, yet neuertheles dost thou eate thy brother. Thou taryest from thy meate tyll it be nyghte, yet all the whole daye doste thou consume in sute and goyng to the law. But thynke not that the goodnes of fastyng is only in the abstinēce of meates. For the true fast is the eschewyng of euelles. Whan thou fastest, looson all wycked bondes, disquiet not thy neyghboure, paye thy money that thou owest, exercyse not lawyng and suyng by thy faste. &c. Thus haue I declared vnto you after the mynds of the holy and aunciente Doctoures, what the true and chrysten fast is, wherby ye may also easely learn to know the poppyshe and false fast. And because ye shall not doubt of thys doctryne concernyng fastyng, know you, that the kynges most royal maiestie also in hys Proclamacion concernyng eatyng of whitte meates thys tyme of Lent, hathe there no lesse prudently than godly, set forthe the very same thyng, that hytherto I haue taught you. The wordes of the Proclamacion are these: Let al men endeuoure themselues to their possible powers with this libertie of eating of whit meates, to obserue also that faste, whyche God most specially requireth of them, that is to saye, that they renounce the worlde, & the deuel, with all theyr pompes and workes, and also subdue and represse theyr carnall affections, and theyr corrupt workes of the flesshe, accordyng to the bowe and profession, made at the font stone. Howe saye ye to these words? Chri. Verely they are wordes of suche a Prince, as is worthy of immortalitie and eternall glory. Euse. I beseche almighty God long to preserue in prosperous healthy his most excellent maiestie. The. Amē, good Lord I beseech the. Phi. Seing that I haue taught you, what the true & christē fast is I wyll now accordyng to my promyse teache you also howe ye ought to fast. Euse. I pray you let it so be. Phi. In declaring to you this thing, whom shoulde I rather follow than oure Sauioure Jesus Chryste, the teacher of all truth? Howe we ought to faste he teacheth vs in the Gospel of Mathew on this manner, saying, whan ye fast, be not sad as the Hipocrites are. For they disfigure theyr faces, that they myght be seene of men to fast. Verely I saye vnto you, they haue theyr rewarde. But thou, whan thou fastest, annoynte thy head, and washe thy face, that it appeare not vnto men, that thou fastest, but to thy father, which is in secrete, and thy father whyche seeth in secret, shall rewarde the openly Chryst in thys place dooth not only rebuke the hypocritical and superstitious manner of the vngodlye fasters, but he also teacheth vs the true and germayne manner of fastynge. The. What is that I pray you? Phil. Verely, who so euer entendeth to faste aryghte, he muste obserue

Note.

The true fast is the eschewyng of euylles.

The kinges Proclamacion concernyng white meate.

Math. vi.

Thre thinges ar to be obserued in fastyng.

serue thee thinges. The first is, that he annoint his head. The seconde that he washe his face. The thirde, that he fast in secrete. Eusebi. Thys is so straunge a maner of fastyng, as euer I heard. Phi. It is peraduẽture straunge vnto you, because ye are not yet perfectly exercised in the phrases of the holy Scriptures, but if ye be once taught, what is signified by this maner of speaking, it shall not onely not seme vnto you straunge, but also very pleasaunt and platy. Chri. I praye you declare it to vs, that we may learne to fast aryght, and accordyng to the wyll of Christ. Phi. Because I wil not teache you any thynge of mine owne brayne, but that onely, which I haue read in the holy Scriptures, or els in the auncient Doctors, I wil rehearse vnto you the wordes of S. John Chrisostome, which shal abundantly satisfie youre desire in thys behalfe. In the annointing of the head, sayeth he, we knowe that mercy is signified. Therfore to annoint the head, is to shewe mercy to oure neighboure. For that mercy that is done vnto a poore man, is referred vnto God, which is the head of the man, as the Apostle sayeth. And the Lorde hymselfe sayeth, what soeuer ye haue done to one of my lesseste brothers, ye haue done it vnto me. In the steade of the whiche mercye, with the diuine retribucion, as wyth a certayne heauenly oyle, we are poured and shed ouer by him, which saith. Blessed are the mercyfull, for God shal haue mercy on them. Holy Dauid also did knowe the vncion and annointing of the celestial oile in the head, whan he sayed. As the annointment, which came down into the beard. But in washyng the face, the purite of a cleane body and of a sincere cõscience is knowen to be signified. So that to washe the face, is to make cleane the face of our hart, from al filthines of sin and from the vncomelynes of trespasse, and to haue a very pure conscience, that we may truly haue in vs the gladnes of celestiall ioye, and the familiarite and cherefulnes of ẏ holy gost Hitherto haue I rehearsed the wordes of Chrisostom, wherby ye may learne, that to annoint our head, is none other thing than to shewe our selues beneficial to the poore members of Christ. Agayne, to wash our face is to make cleane both body and soule from syn and wyckednesse. The. If this be to fast, I feare me that so many fast not before God, as pretende outwardly to fast before men. Phi. This maner of fastyng teacheth the holy Scripture, how soeuer men vse it. Therfore if ye wil fast aright after the minde of S. John Chrisostome, ye must first annointe your head, ẏ is to say, comfort the poore people with such goods as god hath committed to you. For the riches that ye haue, be not yours onely but they be Gods also, as he sayeth by the Prophete, golde is myne, siluer is mine. God hath putte them in youre handes, that ye shoulde distribute parte of them to the poore people. Ye are the stewardes of God and the dispensators of his treasures that you liuinge of them, shoulde also comforte the poore members of Chryste. If ye spend them otherwise than God hath appointed you in his worde, ye shall render an accountes for it. Ye haue nothing at all, but that ye shalbe called to

The author teacheth nothing of hys owne brayne Hom. xlv. ex. Cap. vi. Mat. Feria. iiii. Cinarum.

What it is to annoynte thy head. i. Cor. xi. Math. xxv. Math. v. Psal. cxxxiii.

What it is to washe the face.

Marke well.

Marke here O ye ryche men. Agge. ii.

Why God hath geuen men their ryches.

The author entendeth not here cõmunion of things which God forbyd that any mã should gather hereof but only monisheth the ryche men of their duety. Math. xxv.

an accomptes for it euen to the vttermost farthyng. If ye be not founde to haue vsed your talent wel, and vnto the profit of other, ye shall with that vnprofitable seruaunt of the Gospel be cast into outwarde darknes, where weping and gnashing of teeth shalbe. If ye bee proued vnmerciful and negligent in the distribucion of the worldly goods, surely surely ye shalbe caryed away wyth the ryche man, of whõ S. Luke speaketh in the Gospel, vnto hel, and there burne in suche cruel and bitter flames, as the fier whereof shal neuer be quenched, neyther shal the worme of them that shalbe there, dy at any time, as the Prophet saieth. Thus see you that ye haue no great cause to boast and glory of worldly goods, nor yet to auaunce your selues aboue other men for your possessions sake, no more than a great mans seruaunt hath to whom hys Lorde and Master hath committed his goods for a certayne space to kepe, the seruaunte loking at euery houre whan his master wil require them agayn. He is a very theife and robber, sayeth Basilius Magnus, which maketh that thing his own, that he hath receaued to distribute and geue abrode. For the bread, sayeth he, that thou retaynest and kepest, is the bread of the hongry, the garment, which thou kepest in thy chest, is the garmeut of the naked, the sho, that is moulde wyth thee, is the sho of hym that is vnshod, and the mony, whych thou hydest in the grounde, is the mony of the nedy. Moreouer thou doest iniury & plaine wrong to so many as thou forsakest, when thou art able to helpe them. Hytherto pertayneth the saying of the wyse man. The bread of the nedy is the lyfe of the poore, he that defraudeth hym of it, is a mansleare. Thus see you in how great iopardy, the ryche men are, that be vnmercyfull vnto the poore people, and how lytle their faste pleaseth God in their vnmercifulnes, seing they do not annoint their head, that is, shew no mercy to the poore members of Christ. God teachyng the true maner of fasting by hys Prophete among all other thyngs, saieth: Breake thy bread to the hongry. Marke that he sayeth, breake thy bread to the hongry. Certayne Doctors wryte on this text and say, that thou breakest thy bread than to the hungery, whan thou so fastest that thou sparest from thyne owne belly to geue it to the poore hongry man. For a Chrysten man ought è to be no lesse carefull for the poore than for hym selfe, so that prouision once made for his family, he must also shew mercy to the nedy. Thou therefore doest breake thy bread vnto the hongry whan, thou geuest hym that, whych thou thy selfe necessarily shouldest haue eaten. And this is to annoynte thy head aryghte, verely euen to breake thy bread to the hongry. The. Would God that all ryche men did knowe thus muche and woulde folowe it. For many thynke that they do God an highe Sacrifice, yea and that they be good almes men, if whan they haue once pampred their own bellyes wyth all kynde of deinties, they than at ỳ last geue or sende to ỳ hongry a few scrappes, whyche they will scasely vouchesafe to geue vnto their dogges. Phi. I pray God geue vs all grace to do our duetye. Nowe haue ye heard,

Esay. lviii.

Marks this exposicion. What it is to breake thy bread vnto the hongry.

D'preposterous almes geuers.

what

what it is to annoint your head. I wil also speake somewhat of washing your face, although I may seme aboundantly to haue spoken of the very effecte of it in the diffinicion of fasting.

If we wyll fast aright, we are not onely commaunded to annointe our head, that is to say, to shewe mercy to the poore people, but also to washe our face, that is, to make our hartes cleane from all synne, that we may haue a pure conscience. For it is not ynough to bee beneficiall to other, except we also be beneficiall to our selues. Thys shall come to passe, if we labour with al mayne to haue a mind pure and cleane frō all carnall affectes, and a body voide of wicked dedes. What was the cause ẏ God dyd cast away the fastes and solemne feastes which ẏ Iewes celebrated and kept holy in his name, but only ẏ they washed not their face, ẏ is, they went not about to put of their old cōuersacion, and to become new men? I hate and abhorre, sayeth God, your Sacrifices your solemne feastes, your fastes. Why so? For your handes, sayeth he, are ful of bloud. Your hartes are full of vengeaunce, your consciences are spotted and defiled with all kynde of synnes, ye haue no feare of God before your eyes. What is than to be done? Be ye washed, sayeth he, be ye cleane, take away ẏ euil of your thoughtes from myne eyes. Cease to do euil, learne to do well, seke iudgemente, helpe the poore oppressed, be fauourable to the cōfortles, defende the widow. &c. God hateth those prayers, those fastes, those good dedes, as they call them, which come from a defiled body, a corrupt hart, a filthy mind, a bloudy conscience, a [illegible] soule, as a certaine man saieth It profit a man not [illegible] and pray and to do other good thinges of deuocion, except [illegible] from vngodlynes, and the tonge from backebi[illegible] a principal respecte to ẏ harte of the doer of the [illegible] cleane and faithfull than doeth God approue [illegible] with synne. God casteth it away, appeare it neu[illegible]ient in the sighte of the worlde. Offer not, saieth he [illegible] for God wyl not receaue them. Chri. It is [illegible] chaunge not their wicked lyfe, cast away [illegible] make cleane their hartes, put out of their mindes al rancoure, [illegible] &c. and study aboue all things to leade a pure and [illegible] by no meanes please God. Phile. No forsoth. Therfore if ye desire to fast arighte, and to make your faste acceptable to God, procure earnestlye that your fast proceade from a pure and cleane heart, voide of all carnal affectes, stuffed ful of fayth and charite, and altogether studious of true innocency and vnfayned Godlynes. So shal it come to passe, that not onely your fast, but al that euer ye do besides accordynge to Gods worde, shal very greatly please God. The. I beseche God geue vs grace to do all thinges accordyng to his moste Godly will and pleasure. Phi. Labour and God wyl helpe. I haue declared two thynges that ar necessarye to the true vse of fastinge. There remaineth nowe the thirde to be

Why God did cast away ẏ fastes of ẏ Iewes in times past

Esay.i.

Rius Pont. Rom.

God iudgeth the worke of the hart, and not the hart of the worke.

Eccle.xxxv.

Godly admonicions concernyng the true maner of fastyng.

to be wroughte forth, which is so expedient and necessary for that purpose also, that the other two without this profiteth nothing. Euseb. I pray you let vs heare it. Phi. We are not onely commaunded in our fasting to anoint our head and to wash our face, but also to fast in secret.

What it is to fast in secrete.

The. What is it, I pray you, to fast in secret. Phi. Verely to fast in secret, is not to kepe you close from the sight of men, and so to abstayne from your meates in priuy corners, but not to hunt and hawke after vayne glory nor prayse of men for youre fastinge, nor to seke to be sene of men whyle ye fast, that they may commende and prayse you. We are counted before God than to fast in secret, whan we fast with such a mynde, that we would fast in dede, though no man liuing did see vs, and whā we regarde more the accomplishement of Gods wyll, and the subiection and taming of our body, than all the humayne glory that can be attributed vnto vs. Euse. It is lawful than to fast euen before men. Phi.

It is lawful to do any good dede in the sighte of men, so that vayne glory be absente. Math. v.

Yea verely, or to do any other good worke, so that the desier of worldly praise be not in your mindes. For Chryst saieth, let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good workes and glorifye your father, which is in heauen. But if we seke any praise of men and desier to be magnified for our good dedes, verely than [illegible] not of God, but of the world. For there is no [illegible] to poison any good worke, that it [illegible] than the desier of vaineglory, [illegible] cast down Lucifer from heauen into [illegible] what did exalt and lift [illegible] and glorious [illegible] but humilitie, as the [illegible] the Lorde. And my spirite [illegible] lohed vpon the humilitie of [illegible] shall all kindredes call me [illegible] humble be geuen grace [illegible] layeth God by [illegible] in spirite and [illegible] i. Peter. v.

The desier of vainglory poysoneth al good workes Esay. xiiii. ii. Pet. ii. Luke. i.

Esay. lxvi.

Math. v. How good workes ought to be done.

[illegible] that is poore and contrite [illegible] are the poore in spirite, for to [illegible] of heauen. Therfore all your workes, that ye do, [illegible] a simple mynde, and wyth such an harte as [illegible] desirous of vayne glorye, seketh onely the honoure of God, and the accomplishement of his moste diuine wyll. Thus haue I [illegible] youre labours both what the true and Chrysten faste is, and also how ye ought to fast. Chri. Brother Philemon we confesse before you, that we haue learned here thys daye more of you concernyng certayne thynges than euer we knewe before God geue vs al grace to followe your most Godly instructions. Euse. Amen, I beseche God. Phi. Well now is the greatest part of our Potacion past. What is more to be done? The. Ye promysed that ye would declare vnto vs the significations of certayne Ceremonies, that be vsed in the chirch this tyme of Lente. Chri. Ye sayed also that ye woulde teach vs, howe we should prepare

prepare our selues worthely to receiue the moste blessed Sacramente of Christes body and bloud. Phi. I remēber my promise wel, accordīg there vnto therfore wil I do.

¶ Of Certayne Ceremonies heretofore vsed in the Chirch at the time of Lent and what they signifie.

¶ Of the Ashes.

THe first Ceremony that was vsed in the Churche this time of Lente, was the impositon and layinge on of Ashes vppon the heades of Christen men. The. I pray you vnto what purpose was that Ceremonye vsed? what is the signification of it? Phi. This was done, to put vs in remembraunce what we are. For whan the Prest layeth ashes on your heades, he sayeth these wordes. Remember man that thou art ashes and vnto ashes thou shalt returne. This Ceremony preacheth vnto vs, ỳ we are, nothing but ashes, dust and earth, and to that we shal returne againe. If we marke this Ceremony wel, we shall haue but litle occasion to be proude or to magnifie oure selues, as the Scripture sayeth, wherefore art thou proude O thou ashes and earth? All flesshe is grasse, sayeth the Prophete, and all the glorie of man as a floure of the felde. If we consyder this thing wel, it shal geue vs vnto the contempt and bitter despising of the worlde, yea it shal withdrawe vs from synne and moue vs to do good workes, as the wyse man biddeth vs remember thy last end, & thou shalt neuer synne. And for almuch as they that would humble them selues before God by Penaunce vsed to syt downe in the ashes and to throwe ashes vppon their heades, as the Scriptures shew of Achab, of the Ninuites, of the Iewes, and other, whom were oppressed of Holofernes, and of diuers other, therfore the holy fathers of Christes chirche in times past instituted also this Ceremony to put vs in remembraunce of the Penaunce which thys time of Lente ought to be done of al Christen men for their wicked dedes, which they haue wrought all the whole yeare past. Do ye perceiue nowe, what the layīg of ashes vpon your heades do signifie? Chri. Yea very well. Phi. Forsith who soeuer repoleth the signification of this Ceremony in his hart, can none other wyse but alway be humble, gentle, lowly, meke, full of humilitie, estraunged from all arrogancye, despising terrestriall thynges, and desiring thinges celestial. Eusc. Ye say trueth But what meaneth I praye you, the couerynge of the Images, in the temples this tyme of Lente.

What the ashes signifie

Ecclc.x. Esay.xl.

Eccle.vii.

iii. Reg.xxi. Ionas.iii. Iudi.iiiii.

¶ Of the couerynge of Images, and what it signifieth.

PHILEMON.

Diuers causes alligned for the couerynge of Images.

The fyrste cause why Images are couered. Math.iii.

THe ecclesiasticall writers assigne diuers causes, one this, another that. But in this dissension and variete of opinions, I will alleage one or two reasons, & byd the other fare wel as things not greatly making vnto the edification of true Godlines. The. I pray you let vs heare. Phile One cause is to signifie vnto vs, that they that are synners and haue a pleasure styl therin to remaine, are not worthy to beholde the saintes in heauen, which are represented by those Images, neyther shall they at any tyme come vnto that glory, whereof the Saintes already haue the fruicion, except they repente them of their wicked liuing, rise out of syn, bryng forth fruites worthy of Penaunce and become new men in their conuersacion. Therfore whan we enter into the chirche and see all those Images couered, we ought to mourne and lament our sinful liuing, to recognise our selues synners, to repent and store vp our selues, to bryng forth fruites worthy of Penance, and to cut away by true and vnfayned Contricion our sinnes, that we may be founde worthy agaynst Easter, that is, agaynst the tyme of our passyng and goyng out of this world clerely to beholde and openlye to see in the kyngdome of heauen the shining face of God and his Sainctes.

The seconde cause.

Another cause is to declare the mournyng and lamentacion of sinners for their vngodly maners. We know that the custome is among vs euen at this day, that so long as we mourne for any of our frendes departed we vse to go wyth close faces, to weare simple apparell, laying asyde all gorgious and sumptuous garmentes. So likewise this tyme of Lent, which is a tyme of mournyng, al thynges y make to the adournemente of the chirche, are eyther layd asyde or els couered, to put vs in remembraunce that we ought nowe to lamente and mourne for our soules dead in synne, and continually to watch, pray, fast, geue almes, and to do such other workes of Penaunce as wherwyth God beyng excyted and stored vnto his olde and accustomed mercyes, may call vs again from death to lyfe, from syn to Godlynes, from wyckednes to innocency. Chri. I haue heard also that Images in the Temple are couered for this purpose in the tyme of Lent, to put vs in remembraunce, although we haue in any part of the yeare past committed Idolatry wyth them, yet at thys tyme we should vtterly geue ouer this abomination, and onely cleaue to God, and to his exceadyng great mercy by kyng for remission of our synnes and al other good thynges at his hand alone through Jesus Chryst our Lorde. In consideracion wherof the clothes that are hanged vp thys tyme of Lent in the Chirch haue painted in them nothyng els but the paynes, tormentes, passion, blond shedyng and death of Chryst, that now we should onely haue our mindes fyxed

The thirde cause.

fyred on the paſſion of Chryſte, by whom only we were redemed, and although we haue erred and runne aſtraie like ſhepe deſtitut of a ſhepard all the long yeare paſt, yet that nowe thys holy tyme we ſhulde retourne with humble and contrite myndes vnto Chryſt the byſſhop & curate of oure ſoules. Phi. It may be ſo ryght well. The ſygnifycation vndoubtedly that ye haue nowe rehearſed is verye godly. Well thus haue I declared vnto you that I haue red concernyng the couerynge of Images in Lent. The. We thanke you for it. Let me ſee, what other Ceremonyes are vſed in the Chirche this time of Lent? Euſe. There are diuers other, but I pray you neyghboure Philemon, declare vnto vs, what the Ceremonyes ſygnifye, whiche are vſed in the Proceſſion of Palme ſonday. For ſurely I thynke not one amonge a thouſand knowe what the Proceſſion preacheth vnto vs. Phi. I thynke ye ſaye truth in dede, and therfore is it ſo lytle regarded nowe a dayes amonge manye, whan not withſtandyng it preacheth vnto vs many godly and goodly leſſons, yf they were knowen. Therfore yf ye will marke diligently, I will to the vttermoſt of my power declare to you partlye myne owne coniecture, and partely what I haue redd and lerned of the auncient wryters in tymes paſt concerning this matter. Chri. I pray you let it ſo be. We wyll heare you gladlye.

Math.iii.

i.Peter.

Of the Ceremonies that are vſed in the Proceſſion of Palme ſondaye, and what they ſygnifye.

PHILEMON.

Of the Ceremonies in the Proceſſion of Palme ſondaye.

IN the begynnyng of the Proceſſion the people goeth out hauyng euery one a Palme in theyr hand followyng the Croſſe which is couered with a cloth. Euſe. Ye ſaye truth, but what doth it meane, That the Croſſe is caryed foorth beyng couered with a cloth, rather than with an open face? Phi. The Croſſe ſo belated and couered ſygnifieth Chryſt the ſonne of God, which being promiſed of the Father to the Jewes in the olde lawe was not then come, but only adumbrated ſhadowed and prefigured by certayne types, fygures, Ceremonyes, cloudes and ſhadowes, as by Manna the Rock, the Paſchall Lambe, the braſen ſerpent &c. All theſe prefigured Chryſt to come. In conſideracion whereof that Croſſe is borne enclofed. The. We perceyue nowe that ryght well. But what do thoſe people ſignifie, whiche go with the Croſſe? Phi. Verely the fathers of the olde Teſtament, which lyued longe before the commyng of Chryſte beyng vnder the cloudes and ſhadowes of the olde lawe. Euſe. For whatintent doe they beare Palmes in theyr handes? Phi. For loth to ſignifye the victorye that they haue gotten by Chryſte. Chri. Why I praye you, howe could they get any victory by Chryſt, whan he was not yet borne? Phi.

What the bubledcroſſe ſignifyeth.

Ex.xvi.xvii xii.

Num.xxi.

What the people ſignifye.

What the palme ſignifyeth.

Marke this well.

Yes forsoth brother Christopher. For although Christe at that tyme was not come in the fleshe and borne of the most glorious virgin Mary, yet did they beleue vndoubtedly, and wer perfectly persuaded that he should come, and that they shuld be redemed by his passion, and that he should paye theyr dettes to God the father, euen with his most precious bloud, delyuer them oute of captiuitie, and make them partakers of the glory of heauen. And although they dyd not see Christ with their corporall eyes, yet did they see hym with theyr spirituall eies, that is to say, with the eyes of theyr fayth, yea and beleue without any doubtyng or doubtyng, as Christ sayde of Abraham to the Iewes: Abraham your father dyd reioyse that he myght see my daye, and he sawe it & was gladde. Thys is to be vnderstande that Abraham did se Christ with the eyes of hys fayth, which is the very true and perfect syght. Euse. So farre as I remember I haue red this text in the Scripture, blessed are the eyes that see those thynges, whiche you see. For I saye vnto you, that many Prophetes and kynges would haue sene those thinges that ye see, and yet haue they not sene them, and heare those thynges, which ye heare, and yet haue they not heard them. Phil. Ye saye trueth. This is vnderstanded of the corporal syght of Christ. They desyred so greatly the redemcion of Israell, that they euer more wyshed the comming of Christ in the flesh, as we may perceyue in the Prophet Esay, where we reade these wordes: Sende forth O Lorde, that Lambe the ruler of the earth out of the rocke of the desert vnto the mount of the doughter of Syon: Agayne, would God thou wouldest cleaue a sunder the heauens and come downe. They desyred in dede very greately to se Christ with theyr corporall eyes, but yet dyd they see hym none otherwyse than with the eyes of theyr faithe, in asmuch as he was not then borne, but only promised of God the father, and shadowed by diuers ceremonies of the olde law. For as saynt Paule saith, all our fathers were vnder a cloude. Therefore in asmuch as they dyd faythfully beleue in Christ and hope to be saued by his moost blessed passion, although they dyd not see hym with theyr corporal eies, yet was he vnto them a Sauyour, a redemer, a perfect satisfaction, so that by him they euen at that tyme had got the victory ouer synne, death and hell. The. But I praye you why do they rather beare a Palme in theyr hãdes than any other thyng? Phi. I wyll tell you neyghbours, that which they beare in their handes, is not properly called a Palme, for they are the bowes of a Salowe tree, but because we haue no Palmes growing in this land, therefore do we beare them in stede of Palmes. By beatyng of these Palmes the victory that we haue gotten ouer Satan thorow Christ is signifyed. Chri. Why rather by the Palme than by any other tree? Phi. For Aristotle and Plutarch do write, as Aulus Gellius testifieth, ỳ the nature of a Palme tree is this, ỳ although there be neuer so great weights & burdẽs laid vpõ it, so ỳ a mã wold not think it possible to Iohn. viii. The spirituall syght which is by faith, is the true syght. Luke. x.

Marke wel.

Esa. xvi.

Esa. lxiiii. Gen. iii. Ex. xvi. xvii. xii. Num. xxi. 1. Cor. x.

We by victory is signified by a Palme tree. The nature of the Palme tree.

borne,

borne, yet doth not the Palme tree once bow, nor geue place to ỹ burden, but valeauntly artied and prepayleth against the weighte layde vpon it. Therfore by this Palme tree rather than by any other is vnderstode alwaye signified, yea and that not onlye in diuine but also in humayne literature. Chri. We perceyue it now ryght well. Euse. Surely it is a thyng much worthy to be noted. Phi. We say trueth. If men dyd knowe the significatiõ of those bowes, which they beare in theyr handes at that tyme, they wolde not so superstitiously abuse them, as they do. The. We saye truthe, but let those thynges passe, and let vs go forward with our Procession. Phile. Than go they forth with the Crosse, vntyll they come vnto a certayn sted of the Church yearde, where they stande styll, and in the meane season, the Priest rede the gospell. Eusebi. It is truth what meaneth that? Phi. It signifieth the Prophetes, which prophesyed of Chrystes comming, and declared that whan he once came, captiuitie shulde be exiled, and liberty reduced, all sorowe and care shulde be dryuen away, and al ioyfull and mery thynges succede and come in place. They prophecyed that at hys commyng the eies of the blynd shal be opened, the eares of the deaf shal heare, the halt shal lepe as the hart, and the tong of the dume shall speake. Again, they preached, that whã the annoynted sauiour come, he shal preach mery tidinges to the poore, heale the contrit in hart, preach delyueraunce to the prisoners, & syght to the blynd &c. Are not all these ioyfull and pleasaunt newes? Thys doth the Gospel signifye, which the Priest redeth there. For the Greke word Euangelion, which we call Gospell in English, soundeth in our common tonge, a good, ioyfull and mery message. Thus ye perceaue, what the readyng of that Gospell signifyeth. Theo. Yea forsothe very well. I praye you go forth. Phil. The Gospell beyng once done, than goeth the people forth with the crosse that is couered, and euē streightwayes not far from them come other people and the Priestes with the Sacrament, which haue with them a crosse bare and vncouered, pricked ful of grene Olyues and Palmes. Chri. What do al those thinges, I pray you, preach vnto vs? Phile. Tary a whyle, and I shal declare to you altogether. But fyrst ye shal note that there comforth certayn children before the naked Crosse, syging a certayn song, which beginneth, En Rex uenit. Beholde the king commeth. Euse. What meaneth that? Phile. Thys may be vnderstanded by those Prophetes, which prophecyed of Chrystes comming a lytle before he was borne, shewyng that he was nere at hand, or it may ryght well signifye Saynt John Baptist, which did not only shewe before that Chryst was at hand, but also poynted hym euen with his fynger, saying: Behold the lambe of God, whyche taketh awaye the synne of the world. Now as touchyng the naked Crosse, it signifyeth Chryste already come, and borne into thys world. And they that go with the crosse, betokeneth the people of the new Testament, whyche belene in Chryst, and receaue hym with emprayling armes. Eusebi. But I pray you for what cause is that Crosse adour-

Pro. viii. Sym. viii. Lib. iii. Cap. vi.

What the reading of the Gospell in the church yard signifieth.

Esai. xxxv.

Esay. lxi. Luke. iiii.

What Euãgelion is.

What the children signify, that syngyng before the crosse

Iona. i.

What the naked crosse signifyeth.

What those people signify, which go with the Crosse.

adourned with grene Olyues and Palmes? Phi. The grene Olyue leaues declare vnto vs the vnmesurable abundaūce of vertues, which are in Chryst of whom alone we haue all that euer good is. And what so euer vertue is in vs or what so euer good dede come from vs, al that we do receaue of Chryst, the sole author and fountayn of all goodnes. I am the vyne, sayth Christ, and ye are the braunches. He that abydeth in me and I in hym, bryngeth foorth much fruit. For without me ye can doe no thyng. And as concernyng the Palmes, they sygnify the victory, whych Chryst hath gotten ouer Satan, synne, death, hell, deiperacion. &c. by hys most blessed passion, & the shedding of hys most precious bloud, as he sayth by the Prophet Oze, from the power of death (sayth he) wyll I delyuer them, yea from death it self wyll I redeme them. O death, I wyll be thy death. O hell, I will be thy destruction. Thus ye see, what is ment by the grene Olyues and Palmes, wherwith the naked Crosse is adourned. Chri. Yea verely. Phi. Nowe marke what followeth. After the song of the childzen, the Priest goeth foorth with the Sacrament and certain people also with the naked Crosse, vntyll they mete with that Crosse, that is obuelated and couered. They are not so sone met, but the bumbled Crosse vanysh awaye, and is conueyed from the company streyght wayes. Than all the whole people enclose together with great ioye, synging and makyng melody triumphantly followyng the naked Crosse, bearyng in theyr handes euery one a Palme, in some places also they beare grene herbes in the steede of Oliues. Euseb. What is signifyed, I praye you, by all those thinges? Phi. Where as the couered Crosse vanisheth awaye and goeth out of place at the ingresse and commyng in of the naked and open Crosse, it preacheth to vs, that whan Chryst was once come, and appered in the flesshe & had suffered and dyed for vs, that then all the ceremonies, types figures, clowdes and shadowes of the olde law vanished awaye, and were no lenger of any effect. Whan the lyght once shyneth, the darkenesse beareth rule no lenger. Chryst the true lyght of the world is come, therfore those Ceremonyes of the olde law are nowe nomore necessary. The truth of Gods promise is performed. Therfore all shadowes, which were as pledges ought of necessitie to vanish away. They that are truly conuerted vnto the Lord, haue no more the vayle of ceremonies before theyr faces, but are free, and with open eyes of theyr fayth they see the Lorde Chryst. Moreouer the people, that accompany both crosses mete togither and enclose as one, follow wing the ope & naked crosse. The. What signifyeth that? Phi. This sheweth that they, whych were before the comming of Chryst, and they that haue ben sithe that tyme, are all one, of one church, of one congregacion, of one shepefold, professe one God, beleue in one Sauiour, haue one heauenly father, & loke for one reward which is the glory of Heauen thorough Jesus Christ. S. Paule sayth All did eate of one spirituall meat, and all dyd drynke of one spirituall dryncke, for they dronke of the spirituall rocke, which accompa-

What the grene Olyues sygnifie on the crosse.

Iohn. xv.

What the Palmes signifie on the Crosse.

Oze. xiii.

What the going away of the couered crosse signifyeth.

Iohn. viii.

Note.

ii. Cor. iii.

What the enclosing of both the people together signifyeth.

i. Cor. x.

accompanied them. And this rock truly was Chryst. The synging and makyng melody together, signifyeth theyr inward and vnfained ioye, which they haue conceiued in theyr hartes for the redemcion that they haue in Chryst Jesus. Chri. But what meaneth theyr Palmes and Olyues or other grene herbes in theyr handes? Phi. I haue declared vnto you before, that the Palmes sygnifye the victory, that we haue gotten ouer Satā through our Lord and captayn Jesus Chryst, as S. Paule saieth, death is swalowed vp into victory. O death, where is thy sting? O hell, where is thy victory? The sting of death is synne. The strength of synne is the lawe. But thankes be vnto God, whych hath geuen vs the victory through our Lord Jesus Chryst. Chryst hym self also saith. In the world ye shall haue trouble, but be on a good counfort, for I haue ouer come the world. All that is borne of God, ouercommeth the world, sayeth S. John, and this is the victory, which hath ouercome the world, euen our fayth. Euse. What is signifyed by the grene Olyues or other herbes? Phi. The aboundaunce of vertues. The bearyng of Olyues sheweth that we are not only delyuered out of seruile captiuitie, and that we haue gotten the victory through Jesus Chryst, and are set at libertie, that we beyng without feare and deliuered from the power of our euemyes, should serue God al the daies of our life in holines and righteousnes, but þ we being also through him, plenteously garnyshed with al kindes of vertues, do now no lesse florish with vertues thā the Olyue tree dooth with fruite, which as Plini writeth, is neuer without grene leaues and fruit. Therfore sayeth Dauid, I being God fore as a fructful Olyue tree in the house of God, haue trusted in the mercy of euermore. Chr. We perceiue now these thinges right well. What followeth I pray you? Phi. These thinges once don, thā the people goeth somwhat further vnto the chirche boreward, and there standeth still. Euse. I remember it well. Phile. Immediatly after, certein children standing vpō an high place right against the people, sing with a loude voyce a certain Hympne, in the prayse of our Sauiour Jesus Chryst, which beginneth, Gloria laus. The. It is truth. Phil. At the end of euery verse, the children cast downe certayn cakes or breades with floures. Euse. What do they meane by this? Phi. The children whyche syng, betoken the faithfull christen men in this world, whiche ought to be simple and humble in heart as a chylde is, as Chryst sayth, verely I say vnto you, except ye be conuerted and become as a chyld, ye shal not enter into the kingdom of heauen. Who so euer therfore humbleth hym self as this chyld, he it is that is greatest in the kyngdom of heauen. Also S. Paule: Brothers, be not children in vnderstanding, how be it, as concernyng maliciousnes, be children, but in vnderstanding be perfect. Now as concerning the synging and castyng downe of cakes and floures, ye shall here note three thinges. The first is gyuyng of glory and prayse to Chryst for hys innumerable benefites shewed vnto vs, whych is signifyed by the synging of the Chyldren. For it is conuenient

What the synging of the people to gither signifyeth.

Palmes.

i. Cor. xv.

We haue gotten the victory ouer our enemies through we Chryst.

Iohn. xvi.

i. Iohn. v.

The Olines what they signifye.

Luke. i.

Note hereof the Olyue tree.

What the children signify, that syng Gloria laus.

Math. xviii.

i. Cor. xiiii.

What the syngyng of the children signify.

Thanckes geuyng. Psalm.xlix.

that we be not forgetfull of Gods goodnes toward vs, but that we be thankefull agayne for it, & syng perpetuall prayses to his moste blessed name. For this is the reward & amendes, ye he desyreth as he hym selfe sayth. The Sacrifyce of prayse shall honoure me. Also the Psalmegra-phe saith: Offer to God ye sacrifice of prayse. The seruice is an honest conuersacio, & the continual exercise of godly vertues, which is signified by the floures, that the children cast downe. For seyng ye we are restored vnto our olde liberty thorow Christ which we lost in Adam, & are now become Christen men, we ought not only to be thankefull to God in hys benefytes, but also leade an honest & pure lyfe, that by this meanes also Gods glory may be set forth by vs, as Christ sayth, let your light so shyne before men, that they maye see youre good workes, and glorifye youre father, whiche is in Heauen. We are set without feare, and delyuered from the power of our enemies, sayeth Zacharye the father of S. John Baptist, that we shulde serue God all the dayes of our lyfe, in holynesse and ryghteousnes. We are the workemanshyp of God, saith S. Paule, created in Jesu Christ vnto good workes, which God hath prepared that we should walke in them. Again, ye are dearly bought. Glorifie God now therfore in your body and in your spirit, whych are Gods. Also in an other place. If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature. The third is mercy toward the poore people, which is signified by the casting downe of the Cakes. This mercy toward the nedy members of Christ, ought diligently to be exercised of all christen men, which haue the goodes of the world in theyr possession, yt is they shewe themselues vnworthy the benefites of God. For by mercy and fayth are synnes pourged, sayeth the wyse man. To do mercy and iudgement pleaseth the Lorde more then Sacrifice. Geue almes, saith Christ, and behold all thinges are cleane vnto you. Thus see you, what is signified by the synging of the Children, and by the casting downe of the floures and of the cakes. Wherof ye learne, what is youre duty to doe agayne vnto God for hys excedyng and incomparable benefites toward you, verely to be thankefull, to leade a godly lyfe, and to be mercifull to the poore members of Christ. The. Undoubtedly the significations of theise ceremonies are godly. I would all men knew them, and would doe therafter. Phi. The very same willhe I also. Chri. But what dooth it meane I pray you, that the Children, whyche syng, and cast downe the floures & cakes, stond in so high a place from the ground. Phile. Thys preacheth vnto vs, that they, whych geue praise vnto God and practise an honest conuersacyon, and shew mercy to the poore people, should not doe it for vayne glory nor for the prayse of men but only for the glory of God, setting theyr mindes, seyng they ar come to Christ, no more vpon earthly thyngs, but vpon thynges celestial & Heauenly: in token wherof they ascend & goe vp into such an high place from the earth. And thys is it, ye S. Paule writeth, yt ye be risen again wt Christ, seke yt

What the floures signifye. Good vertues. Note.

Matth.v.

Why we ar delyuered from our enemyes. Luke.i. Ephe.ii.

i.Cor.vi ii.Cor.v.

What the casting down of the Cakes signifye. Prouer.xv. Prouer.xxi. Luke.xi.

Beholde what oure duty is toward God.

What the standyng of the chyldren in so high a place signifyeth.

Marke this well. Colo.iii.

seke for those thinges that are aboue, wher Christ is sitting on the right hande of God. Seke for those thinges that are aboue, and not that are vpon the earth. For you are dead, and your lyfe is hid wyth Christ in God. Euse. This is a good lesson, we thanke you for it. Phi. Wel, nowe marke the ende of youre Procession, for it is almoste done. The. I praye you declare what is euer remaineth. Phi. These thinges once done thā goeth the procession forth, vntill they come to the churche doze, whiche, whan they come vnto it, is sparred, and certayne children in the church synging. The song being once done, the Priest taketh the crosse in hys hande, and pitcheth the doze from him with it, and so openeth it, and entreth in with all the other people after hym. Chri. What doe all those thynges preache vnto vs? Phi. The spearyng of the churche doze signifieth that heauen gates were spearred agaynst vs for the sin of our first father Adam, in whom al we haue offended, so that no man could once enter by hys owne vertue, power, merytes and good dedes into heauen, as Christ witnesseth. No man goeth vp into heauen, but he that came down from heauen. That is to say, no man by his own strength and vertue ascendeth into heauen, but Christ, which descended into heauen, and toke flesshe of the most glorious and pure virgin Mary. Therfore euery one that goeth vp into heauen, goeth vp by Christ, as he him selfe witnesseth, I am the way the truth and the lyfe, no man commeth vnto the father, but by me. Therefore to declare that oure ingresse and entering into heauen, commeth onely by Christ and by Christs death, the Priest openeth ꝑ doze with the crosse. For ye know right well, that none of all the holy Patriarches, Prophetes, Kynges, and other godly fathers of the olde Testamente did enter into the glory of heauen vntill Christe had suffered and payed oure raunsome by his most precious blood. Eusebi. Ye say trueth. Phi. This declareth therefore manyfestly, that by Christe alone we haue free passage into eternall glory, as S. Paule sayeth. Euerlasting life is the gift of God, through Christ Jesus our Lord. Theo. But what is signified by the children which are within the Chirche, at the dooze synging? Phi. Verely the mirth, ioye and melodye, whiche the Angels make in them, for mans redemption by Christe. It sheweth howe glad and merye they are, that man is becōe partaker of the glory, wherof they haue the fruicion. And this their ioy maketh them to come for to mete the soules of the faythfull, and to present them to the diuine maiestie. Chri. This is a very godly exposicion Phi. Whan they are once entred into the chirche, wherby heauen is signified, than doeth al the people knele downe, and the Priest pluckynge vp the cloth, wherwyth the crucifixe was couered, and makyng it open to all that are there present, syngeth a certayne songe, the people in the meane season praying and geuing thankes vnto God. And so endeth ꝑ Procession. Eusebius. I pray you declare this also vnto vs. Philemon. This signifieth that whan we be once departed oute of thys worlde, and are broughte of the Aungels into heauen, that than we shall for

The ende of the processiō

What the spearyng of the churche doze signifieth. Gene.iii. Rom.v. Iohn.iii.

Christ alone saueth. Iohn.xiiii.

Our entrāce into heauen commeth onely by Christ.

Rom.vi.

What the children signify, whiche syng within the Chirche.

What the Chirche signifieth.

What the Crucifixe & the people signifie.

euer and euer worldes without ende enioy the most glorious syght of the diuine maieste, singing vnto him praises incessantly on this maner. Apoca.iiii. Thou art worthy, O Lorde, to receaue glorye, honour and vertue, for thou hast made all thinges, and for thy will they are and were made. Thou art worthy to take the boke and to open the seales of it. For thou wast slayne and haste redemed vs by thy bloud. Apoca.v. To hym that sytteth on the throne, and to the lambe be blessyng, honor, glory, and power, worldes without ende. Amen. Now haue I declared vnto you neighboures, what euery Ceremony that is vsed in the procession of Palme Sonday signifieth. The. We haue done so in dede dyuers Philemon. We do not onely thanke you for this your greate payne, but also desire almightie God with most humble hartes to rewarde you for it in hys glory. Phi. Iohn.xvii. In thus doing I haue done but my dutye, and I cõfesse my selfe to be an vnprofitable seruaunt. Notwithstanding if this my simple declaracion hath profited you any thing at all, or set forwarde your knowledge in Christ, verely I am not a litle glad. And if I shall perceiue hereafter, that ye practise those things in your daily maners, that I haue taught you in wordes, surely neighboures I shall vnfaynedly reioyse and geue God harty thanks, that you are so serious and earnest labourers in the Lordes vineyard. Chri. Neighboure Philemõ, doubte ye not, but that with Gods grace we will laboure diligently to folowe your most Godly and wholesome admonicions. Then fore if there be any mo Ceremonies to be declared, I pray you expresse them to vs. Eust. What meaneth the washyng of the Altars on Maundye thursdaye in after none?

¶ Of the washing of the Altares, and what it signifieth.

PHILEMON.

Iohn.xiii. There ar diuers answeres made vnto it, as we reade, but I thinke it is done to put vs in remembraunce howe Christ washed hys disciples fete at his maundy, that we in lyke maner should be ready at al tymes to do good vnto oure Christen brothers yea euen to washe their fete, which semeth to be the most humble and lowlye acte, that we can do vnto them. If I, sayth Christ, beyng youre Lorde and master haue washed your fete, verely you also ought to wash one anothers fete. For I haue geuen you an example, that as I haue done to you, so likewyse ye should do. Philip.ii. Let ỹ minde be in you, sayeth S. Paule that was in Christ Jesus.

¶ Of garnishing the Chirche on Easter day, and what it signifieth.

What the garnishing of the chirch on Easter day signifieth.

PHILEMON.

What meaneth it that on Easter daye the Images and all other thyngs, ỹ wer before hyd, ar made open, & the Temple restored to her old beauty? Phi. Nothing els but ỹ after Christ had once suffred suffred his passion for our sinnes, and was risen againe from death to life for our iustificacion, al cloudes and shadowes wer taken away, all Ceremonies and Sacrifices of the old law ceased, all ioy, all mirth, all felicite, al pleasure, al liberte, and al that euer we lost before in Adam, is now recouered again by Christ. In token of this our wealth & ioye is the Temple on Easter day most pretiously adourned. Chri. We are nowe aboundantly satisfied concerning the Ceremonies that are vsed in the Lent. I pray you therfore declare vnto vs the laste part of oure Potacion according to your promise, which is this, how we oughte to prepare our selues for to receaue worthely at the time of Easter that most blessed Sacrament of Christes body & bloud. Phi. Neighboures I wil do it with al my hart, I pray you therfore, marke wel, what shal be sayed. Eusc. Speake on brother Philemon, we will heare you with diligent eares and attent mindes. Rom.iiii.

How we ought to prepare our selues to receaue worthely at the time of Easter, the most blessed Sacrament of Christes body and bloud.

PHILEMON.

That you maye prepare your selues condignely and worthely to receiue the most blessed Sacrament of Christs body and bloud, it shalde necessary that ye obserue certayne thynges. First that ye labour vō al mayn to erect & lyft vp your selues frō your old sinful liuing, wherin in tymes past, ye haue bene miserably detained, before ye approch vnto this celestial table. For if it wer not lawful for ỳ vncircūcised in the flesh to eate of ỳ figuratiue Paschal Lābe, how much more than is it vnlawfull for the vncirrūcised in the hart, that is, for the synful and vnclene parson to tast of the true Paschall lambe; whiche was offred and slayne for our sake? Purge out the old leuē, sayeth S. Paul, that ye may be newe dowe, like as ye are swete bread. For Christ is offered a Paschal Lambe for vs. Here he sheweth, that if we wil worthely celebrate our Easter, we must put away our old and sinneful liuing. But before al things in this expurgacion of vice, ye muste earnestly labour, that ye come not to receaue the holy misteries of Christes body & bloud with a malicious, hatefull and vncharitable harte. For this is a Sacrament of peace, of vnite, of concorde and of vnfayned loue. Therfore there oughte to be mutuall reconciliacion on all partes, before any come vnto this celestial feast, as S. John Chrisostom saith, Let no Hipocrite approche, let no man with a cloked mind once be so bolde as for to draw nigh vnto so great misteries, lest he be cōdemned and deserue the sentence and suffer that, which Judas suffred. For after the commun ion of the table, the deuil entred into him. Let no Judas therefore be at the table. This Sacrifice is a spiritual meate. For as corporal meate whā it findeth a belly occupied with aduerse & corrupt humors, doeth both hurt the more, noy the more, and helpeth nothing at al, so this spi-

Certen thīges to be obserued for ỳ right receauing of the Sacrament.

i. Cori. v. Christ is our Paschall Lambe.

Ho. xxxiiii. De prodit. Iu. Math. xxvi. The Sacrament of christes bodye & bloud is a spirituall meate.

rituall

ritual meate likewise, if it findeth any man polluted with malice & evil, shal destroy him the more, not of his owne nature of it, but through the fault of him that receaueth it. Let the mind therfore & the thoughts be pure in all thinges, for the sacrifice is pure. Let vs prepare an holy soule. Let vs holde fast the holy kisse, which associateth the soules, & concileth the mindes, and maketh one body. For we all seme to take vpon vs one body. Therefore let vs mix our selues in one body, not by the communion of bodies, but beyng bounde in the charite of soules, & by this meanes we may be associated to the fruites of the diuine table. For among all vices, this table of that Lorde detesteth nous so much as the sinne of malice, seing that it most of al alienate the mens mindes from the worthy receiuing of this holy communion. Therfore proue aboue al things, that no kind of displeasure be in your minds, but that ye be of that affection towarde al men, that Christ Jesus was towarde you, which disdained not for your saluacion, to suffer his moste blessed body to be broken, and his most precious bloud to be shed vpon the altare of the crosse. Eusc. We will employ al our endeuoure to come vnto this moste holy Banket with pure mindes and charitable hartes. Phi. God graunt it. Secondely know that it is not ynoughe vnto the condigne and worthy preparacion of your selues vnto this most heauenly Table to expourge and put syn out of you, except ye also garnish your mindes with Godly vertues. Is it inough for a man against the coming of his frende onely to make cleane his house? Is it not also conuenient that he adourne and garnishe it so pleasantly as he can deuise? The Reason requireth so. Phi. It is a thousande tymes more conuenient, that when we shall receiue the Lord of all Lordes and king of all kynges into our hartes, we than do not onely make cleane the house of our soules, but also garnishe it with the most odoriferous and redolent floures of diuine vertues. Chri. Verely ye say trueth. Phi. Remember how greuously, that man was punished, which presumed to come vnto the maryages not hauing the nupciall garment. Eusc. We remember it well. Phi. Take hede than, that ye doe not onely mourde for the expurgacion of vice, but also for the adourment of vertues, lest a worse thing chaunce vnto you. Blissed is he that watcheth, saieth God, and keepeth hys clothes, that he walke not naked, and men see his filthynes. Thirdly it is requisite, that whan ye haue thus garnished your selues, ye trust not in your owne good workes, or in your owne preparacion, as though you had made your selues worthy ynough to come vnto the eatyng of thys inestimable treasure, but let your whole assurance be in the mercy of God, and whan ye have done all that ye are able to do, graunte your selues vnprofitable seruaunts, and desire more and more continually valeaunce and strength to do the wyll of God, beseechyng hym of hys infinite goodnes to supply that, which lacketh in you. And because that ye maye receiue the more grace and strength to walke in the pathwayes of the Lord, ye now come with all reuerence vnto the mos-

It is not ynough to expell the vice, except we embrase the vertue.

Matth. xxii.

Apoca. xvi.

We may not trust in our owne good workes but in the mercy of God.

moſt heauenly meate, wherwith you being ſatiated, may valeaunt̄lye enarme your ſelues and mainly fight againſt Satan, and his wicked army. Fourthly, ye muſt geue ſerious diligence, that ye come vnto this table of the Lord with a feruent deſier, with an hongry ſtomake, with a greedy mynde, and with a thirſty ſoule. For this Sacrament hateth a ſtomake that is already ſaturated and filled. It propoſeth and ſetteth forth all kinde of celeſtiall deinties to the hongrye ſoule, as the moſte bleſſed virgin ſayeth, he hath filled the hongry with good thynges, but the ritche hath he let go empty. Bleſſed are they, that honger and thirſt righteouſneſſe, for they ſhall be fylled. All ye that are a thyrſte, ſayeth Chryſt, come vnto the waters, and ye that haue no mony, make haſte, bye and eate. Come bye without money, and wythout any marchaundiſe wine and milke. Againe, I will geue to him that thirſteth of the well of the water of life freely. And he that is a thirſt let him come, and he that wyll, let hym take the water of lyfe freely. The fatte Pharyſe, ꝑ belied Hipocrite, the poſſeſſing Juſticiarie, whiche truſt in their owne righteouſneſſe, are no fit geſtes for thys moſte delicious table, but the humble ſinner, which knoweth his infirmitie, confeſſeth his imbecillite, deſireth valeaunce, hongreth and thirſteth for ſtrength to doe the wyll of God. The. God ſende vs thys honger and thirſt for euermore.

Luke.i.

Math.v. Eſay.lv.

Apoca.xxi.

Apoca.xxii.

Juſticiaries & they that truſt in their owne good workes, are no fit geſtes for the heauenly table.

Phi. Fiſtely ye may not onely come vnto this celeſtial table wyth hongry ſtomakes to obtaine theſe inestimable treaſures, but alſo beleue vnfainedly that ye ſhal haue all good thynges, that ye wyſhe or long for, accordyng to youre deſier and fayth. For he that commeth vnto God, ſayeth S. Paul, muſt beleue that God is, and that he is a rewarder to them that ſeke hym. Wythout this faith, no man commeth worthely to receaue the body of oure Lorde, as Chryſoſtome ſayeth: Let vs al that are ſicke go vnto Chryſte wyth great fayth. For if all they, whiche dyd but towche the hem of hys garmente, receaued their perfecte health, howe muche more ſhall we be corroborated and made ſtronge, if we haue hym whole wythin vs? Therefore when we ſit downe to receaue the Sacramente of the body of Chryſte, call ſtreight wayes to youre remembraunce the death of Chryſt. Remember that his body was broken for you vpon the Altare of the Croſſe. Remember that he offered himſelfe a ſweete ſmellyng Sacrifice to God the father for the abolyſhment of all your ſynnes. Remember that hys bloud was ſhed for ꝑ remiſſion of your ſynnes. Remember that by the effuſion and ſheddynge of hys moſte precious bloud, all your offences are cleane waſhed away and you purged from all iniquitie. In conſideracion whereof, ye nowe receyue the holy miſteries of Chryſtes body and bloud, becauſe ye ſhuld nothyng doubte of the remiſſion of youre ſynnes, and of the fauoure of God towarde you, as Chriſte himſelfe wytneſſeth. He that eateth my fleſhe and drinketh my bloud, hath eternal life, and I ſhall raiſe him vp in the laſt day. For my fleſhe is very meate, & my bloud is very drynke. He ꝑ eateth my fleſhe & drynketh my bloud, dwelleth in me & I in him.

Hebru.xi.

Hom.in. Mat xxv.ca. xiiii.

What thigs are to be remembred at the receauig of the Sacramente.

Ephe.v. Math. xxvi. Luke.xxii. i.Iohn.i.

But

Remember and beleue the promises of God.

But do not only cal to remembraunce these aforesaid thinges, but beleue faithfully also, and be perswaded vndoubtedly, that they bee true, and shall chaunce to you according vnto your faith. So shal it come to passe, that with the receiuing of the Sacrament, ye shal also receiue all the benefites, giftes, and graces of Christ, if ye beleue, so that not onely Christ is become altogether yours, but also al ỳ euer he hath besides is yours, as S. Paule saieth, he that hath not spared his owne sonne, but gaue hym for vs al, how is it possible, that he also should not geue vs al thinges with him? O the inestimable treasures, that ly bent out in this most holy Sacrament of the body and bloud of Christ for the faithful.

Rom. viii.

The fruicte that he taketh which receaueth the Sacrament worthely.

Blessed is he that is a faithful gest of this celestiall table. Blessed is he that with a pure faith and sincere charite eateth the body of his Lorde Blessed is that man which receiueth this most honorable Sacrament with an vndefiled conscience. For Satan, syn, death, hel, desperation, &c. shal not preuaile against hi. Such one may be sure to dwel in Christ and Christ in him. Such one may be sure to haue his heart aboûdâtly enfarsed with celestiall graces and heauenly gyftes. Such one maybe sure to haue God the father, God the son, and God the holy goste dwelling perpetually in his brest. When ye haue done these things aforesaid than draw nigh, when time requireth, with all humble and reuerende feare vnto the feast of the Lordes body, and before that ye receiue it into your mouth, pray on this maner.

¶ A prayer to be sayed before the receiuing of the Sacramente.

Math. viiii. Iere. xxviii. Psal. li.

Lord I am not worthy, that thou shouldest enter into me but say the word only, and my soule shal be made whole. Heale thou me O god, and I shalbe healed, saue thou me and I shalbe saued. Create in me, O Lord, a cleane hart, that wyth true fayth, and perfecte charite I may receiue thy moste holy body with suche dignitie and worthynes through thy grace into my brest, that thou maiest dwel in me and I in thee for euermore. Amen.

Thus haue I neighbours declared vnto you in fewe wordes, how ye shall prepare your selues worthely to receiue at the tyme of Easter ỳ most blessed Sacrament of the body and bloud of Christ. If ye receiue it on such maner, as I haue taught you heretofore, ye may be sure to receiue it worthely and according to Christes institucion vnto ỳ health of your soules. Euse. I pray God geue vs grace to receiue it according to your most Godly instructions, that oure soules maye be truly fedde with the body of our Sauioure Jesus Christ. Phi. But for asmuche as we see many departe vnreuerently from the Lordes table, therfore will I in fewe wordes by your pacience declare to you, after what maner ye shall go from it and how ye shall behaue your selues euer after, that

Ephe. v.

ye

ye may walke as it becommeth the children of light. Chri. I praye you hartely let it so be.

¶ Howe we ought to behaue our selues, after that we haue receaued the Sacramente.

PHILEMON.

NOw most dere brothers after that ye haue receaued the Sacrament of the body and bloud of oure Lorde Jesus Christ, which as Chrisostome sayeth, is the health of oure soules, washeth, garnisheth, enlãeth oure soules, maketh our mind more shining than the fyre, more cleare than ỹ golde, and is the sufficient price of the whole world, it is conuenient that ye shew your selues thankful agayne to God for these his inestymable benefytes, which he at that tyme hath freely geuen vnto you, euen the very body and bloud of hys welbeloued son and oure Lord Jesus Chryst, with all the other incomparable treasures whiche pertayne vnto hym. For al these things hath he most bounteously geuẽ you in this most holy Sacrament. It is therfore, I say, cõuenient, that ye shewe your selues againe thankful to him, by rendryng hartye and immortall thankes. For this moste holy mistery is called. Sacramentum Eucharistiæ, that is, the Sacramente of thankes geuyng, because that whan we receiue it, we should geue God moste hartye thankes for hys bounty and kyndnes, shewed to vs through Jesus Chryste. Who commeth to the table of any man, and departeth wythout thanks geuing? To approche therfore to sit down at the table of the most hygh and redoubted kyng, and to depart from so heauenly a table with vnthankeful hartes, certes it wer a thyng to much for to be detested. It shal therfore be very conuenient after ye haue receiued that most blessed Sacrament, not to depart out of the chirche before ye haue geuen God hartye thankes for hys manyfolde benignitie towarde you. Ye maye do it on thys maner.

Hom. lxi. De. sac. par. Myst. The bloude of Chryste is the health of our soules walheth and garnisheth them. &c.

Why the Sacramente of Chrystes body and bloud is called the Sacrament of thankes geuyng.

The table of the Lordes supper can abide none vnthankfulnes.

¶ Thankes geuing after the receiuing of the Sacrament.

WE thanke thee most gentle and merciful father that thou haste vouchedsafe this day of thine owen goodnes to fede vs with an heauenly meate, euen with that very body & bloud of thy most intierly beloued son our Lord and Sauiour Jesus Chryst. Graunt we beseche thee that we by this celestial feast engrafted, yea incorporated in his most holy body may so infixe in our brestes his most bitter death that we by remembryng thesame, may daily dye vnto syn, & so encrease through thy diuine grace in al vertues, that thy name may be perpetually sanctified in vs, thy wyl accomplished among vs here in earth, as ſt is in heauen, and our chriſten brothers loued vnfainedly and ſocoured mercifully, vnto the immortall prayſe of thy moſt holy and bleſſed name, to whom be all honour and glory for euer and euer. Euſe. Amen.

Learne here what we profeſſe to do whan we receaue the Sacrament.

Theo So be it. Chri. Lord let it ſo com to paſſe. Phil. After that ye departe from the table of our Lorde God, call vnto youre remembraunce what ye haue done, and what ye haue profeſſed. Fyrſt remēber that ye haue receyued the holy miſteryes of the body and bloud of our Lord & alone Sauiour Jeſu Chriſt. Secōdly remēber that by the receyuing of ẏ, ye haue profeſſed your ſelues to be ẏ ſons of God, ẏ mēbers of Chriſt, ẏ mayntayners of true godlines, ẏ ſtudious folowers of Gods wil, the feruent louers of our chriſtē brothers, & the extreme enemyes of Satā & his army, ſo long as euer ye liue. All theſe thiges do ye profeſſe, whāye ſyt at the moſte heauenly table. Loke therfore that ye do not dally, nor mocke with God leſt worſer thinges chaunce vnto you. Let vs depart from that table, ſayth Chriſoſtome, as Lyons that breath fyer, that we may be terrible to the diuel. Therfore that this thing may com to paſſe, remember that ye are now engraffed in Chryſt, and become members of Chriſtes body, How vnſittyng then wer it, to fall agayne frō Chriſt, and to adioine your ſelues vnto vnclennes? Remember that ye ar waſhed from your ſinnes and ſanctifyed by Chryſtes bloud and iuſtifyed by the name of the Lord Jeſus. Wer it not then very vnſemely to polute and defyle your ſelues agayne with youre olde fylthines? Remember that God hath nowe delyuered you out of the lande of Egipt from your moſt cruell enemy Pharao the diuell, and hath brought you into the land of promiſe. Haue not than a pleaſure to returne into that land of captiuitie. Remember that God hath delyuered you from the fylthye and abhominable Sodomites. Prouide therfore that ye loke not back agayn vnto theyr pernicious manners. Remember that God hath delyuered you from the babilonical captiuitie, and hath brought you vnto the new & celeſtiall Jeruſalem, ſo that now ye are no more Geſtes and ſtraungers, but Citiſenſes with the Sayntes and of the houſhold of God. Were it not then a thing of much ignominy for you to fal from ſo great an honour? what ſhall I make many wordes with you? Be pertayne now all together vnto God. Loke therfore that ye loſe not ẏ fauour and gentlenes of ſo bounteous a Lorde. Moreouer ye haue profeſſed daily to dye vnto ſin, and to walke in a new life. Loke that ye anſwer faithfully to this your promiſe. Againe, ye haue profeſſed, that ye wil loue your chriſten brothers, and do for them to the vttermoſt what ſoeuer lieth in your power. All theſe thinges haue ye promiſed to do, by the receyuing of this moſte bleſſed Sacrament, Loke therfore that ye be not negligent in the accomplyſhment of the premiſſes leſt the wrath of God falleth vpon you. For it is not ynough to begin wel except ye go forthe in youre enterpriſes. He that continueth vnto the ende ſhall be ſafe, ſayeth Chryſt. Agayne, Be thou faythfull vnto deathe, and I ſhall geue thee the crowne of lyfe. No man that putteth hys hande to the plowghe, Iohn. v. Hom. lxi. De fac. part Myſt.

what is to be conſydered after we receaued the Sacrament.

Cori. vi.

Ephe. ii.

Continuaunce in the chriſten religion to the end ſaueth.

Math. x. Apoca. ii. Luke. x.

plough, and loketh backwarde, is mete vnto the kingdome of heauen. Therfore neighbours do as ye haue professed. Caste awaye your olde wicked liuing. Cõtinew in the body of Christ through a newe lyfe. Remaine for euermore in ỳ seruice of God. Seke the kingdõe of God & the righteousnes therof aboue al things. Procure ỳ furtherãce of hys most holy word, and do not only loue but also liue the Gospell, ỳ ye maye be counted both before God and man true and earnest folowers of Gods word. Furthermore loue your Christen brothers with a true, perfect & vnfayned loue, and let your loue bring forth good workes that it maye appeare to be voyd of dissimulaciõ, or fayning. Aboue al things as I haue euer exhorted you, be obedient to the kinges graces maieste, yea & that not only for feare but much more for conscience sake, in al things, as it becõmeth faythful subiectes. The other publique magistrates also spiritual or tẽporal haue in perpetual reuerẽce and honor. To be short, be so affected toward al men, euen as Iesus Christ was toward you, & in al your words & dedes, let your lyght so shyne before men, ỳ they maye see your good workes, & glorify your father, which is in heauen, to whõ be al honor and glory for euermore. Amen. Thus endeth your Potaciõ The. Praised be God for it. Euse. Both now & euer. Chr. For he alone is worthy al honor & glory. Phi. Thus haue I neighbours accordyng to my promise in ỳ beginning of our Potacion, performed al things, concerning Penance, with the partes therof. Of fasting, of Ceremonies & of the most honorable Sacrament of Christes body and bloud I haue also taught you many godly things, worthy to be imprinted in ỳ harts of al Christẽ men. Now brothers I most instãtly desire you by ỳ great merryes of God and by the precious bloud of our Sauioure Christ, to repose these thigs in your memory, & not to forget thẽ, but vỽ al diligẽce mainly to prosecute & folow them, yea & liuely to expresse them in youre daily conuersacion. For the seruaunt, which knoweth his masters wil, and doeth it not, shalbe beaten vỽ many strypes. If ye do these thynges, know ỳ in this world ye shal haue God the father, a merciful father vnto you, God the son, a swete Sauiour vnto you, & God the holy goste a ioyful comforter vnto you, & after this life, ye may be sure to enioye the most blissed and glorious sight of ỳ holy Trinite. Amen. The. Neighbour Philemon for this your Potacion we thanke you, and we truste that ye shal se such frutes procede frõ vs, ỳ ye shal reioyse to haue called vs vnto this your most godly Potacion. Phi. So doing neighbours, know me to be altogether yours. Wel seing this spirituall Potacion is so fortunately ended, I pray you folowe me, that we maye also refreshe our bodyes with corporall norysemente, and so with one mynde prayse God for al thynges. Euse. We folowe. Blessed be God for thys heauenly Potacion. The. Amen.

Mark. vi.

Loue & liue the Gospell.

Marke well for true obedience towarde the kynges graces maieste.

Rom. xiii. Philip. iii. Math. v.

A breefe reherfall of all thynges in this Potaciõ

The request of the authoz

Luke, xii. Iacob. iiii.

Geue the glory to God alone.

The pathway

vnto Prayer, full of muche godly fruite and Christē knowledge, made by Thomas Becon.

Psalme 36.

Delight thou in the Lord and he shall geue the, the peticions of thy hert.

The contentes of this booke.

i. The Prologe or Epistle.
ii. What prayer is.
iii. Of what vertue and stregth the true and Christen prayer is.
iiii. How a Christen man shuld prepare hymselfe to pray.
v. In what place he should pray.
vi. After what maner he ought for to pray.
vii. For what things he shuld pray.
viii. At what time he ought to pray.
ix. Of thankes geuing to God.

Reade and than iudge.

To the right honorable and vertuous Ladye, Anne Grey. Thomas Becon wysheth long life, contynuall health, and prosperous felicitie.

IT is not without an vrgente and moste necessary cause that we are so oft commaunded in the most sacred and holy Bible to watch and pray. For if we that professe our selues to be souldiors of Christes army do seriously and without fayning ponder, wey and consither oure state and manner of liuing in this worlde, we shal shortly be occasioned to confesse and graunte with the holy and paciente man Job, that the lyfe of man is nothing els than a very knyghthode or warfare vpon the earth, full of misery and trouble, replete with litle ioye & pleasure. To whom it is vnknowen what a great multitude of mortall enemyes euery one hath in this worlde, that doeth professe Christ aryght? Among all other haue we not three capital and chiefe aduersaryes the deuil, the worlde, & the flesshe, which cease not dayly to assaile vs after the most crafty and subtyle maner? How doeth Satan spreade his nettes in euery Forrest and Parke, that no deare may escape his deuouryng teth and rauening pawes? How many waies seketh he to destroy, kil and slay the innocent shepe of Christ? Euen from the beginninge of the worlde hath he exercised his tyrannicall fury, and furious tyranny against mankinde. Who hath at any time ben free, were he neuer so good and perfecte, from his subtile and to much crafty assaultes? He is so bent and feruently addicte to the destruction of man, that so sone as we are regenerate and borne a newe in Christ by the holy goost, and the most blessed and honorable Sacramente of Baptisme, he streight waies fallech in hande with vs, labouryng by one meanes or other vtterly to allure and entise vs from our profession, as we may see in our Sauiour and Lord Jesus Christ, whom after his Baptisme, Satan did not feare to assaile and to tempt vnto much absurdite and wickednes. If the son of God were not free frō his craft, subtilite and gile, how shal we than miserable creatures eschewe his tyranny, which are ready to fall at euery houre, except we watch and pray? Our strife is not, saieth S. Paule, against bloud and flesshe, but agaynste rulers, agaynste the powers, agaynst the Lordes of the worlde, I meane, the gouernoures of the darkenes of this worlde, against spiritual subtilities in heauenly things. Therefore sayeth S. Peter: Be ye sober and watche, for your aduersary the deuil goeth about like a roring Lion seking whom he may deuoure. Moreouer what an extreme enemy is ỹ worlde to so many as professe Christ? How many occasiōs haue we through the entisementes & vain pleasures therof to fal frō the true godlynes? How doeth it allure vs to the loue of transitory things? How doeth it deligot vs with the beholding of the vain spectacles therof? How doth it draw vs to the loue of worldly things, and to the vtter contempt of things celestial and heauenly? Yea howe almoste doeth it winne vs altogether on her side? Whan the Scripture not withstandyng, sayeth: Loue not the worlde, nor thole thinges that are in the worlde. If any man loueth the worlde, the loue of the father is not in him. For all that is in the worlde, as the concupiscence of the flesshe, and the lustes of the eyes, and the pryde of the life, is not of the father, but it is of the worlde. And ỹ worlde passeth a-Matth.v. Marke.xiiii. i.Peter. iiiii. Ephe.vi.

Iob.vii.

A Christen mā hath many enemyes in this worlde.

The deuil. Gen.iii.

Math.iiii. Marke.i. Luke.iiii.

Ephe.vi.

i.Pet.v.

The worlde.

i.Iohn.ii.

way, and the luſtes therof. But he that doeth the wyll of God, abydeth for ever more. S. James alſo ſayeth: O ye adulterers and adultereſſes, doot ye not knowe that the frendſhip of the worlde, is emnite with God? Who ſoeuer therefore wyll be the frende of the worlde, he is become an enemy of Gods. Furthermore what a cruel aduerſary is the fleſhe vnto a Chriſten man? how doeth it at all tymes luſt contrary to the ſpirite? how doth it continually fight with the heauenly motions of the holy goſt? how doeth it moue vs to the loue of our ſelues, to pryde, vnclennes, glotony, couetouſnes, wantonnes of liuing, vnmercifulnes, crudelite, and al that euer nought is? And this enemy do we noryſhe in our own breſtes. He is a domeſtical aduerſary and one of houſholde as they vſe to ſay. He is euer at hande to do vs diſpleaſures. He is neuer from home, but alwaies within the dores, ſo that we are in daunger of deſtruccion at euery houre, except we diligently watche and take hede. Whyther ſoeuer we turne vs our enemyes mete wyth vs and ſo cruelly aſſaile vs, that except the grace of God aſſyſt vs valeauntly, we are at euery moment of an houre ready to be caſt into hel fyer. O the vnſpeakeable miſery of mã in this moſt miſerable worlde. Where are they now that ſo liue in al worldly ioy, and pleaſure, that they take no thought for the cruell aſſaultes of their enemyes? Where are theſe wicked ydolaters, ſuperſticious Hipocrites, abhominable blaſphemers of Gods moſt bleſſed name, and breakers of the Sabboth day, which ſetyng a ſide al loue and feare of God throw themſelues headlong into all kynde of vngodlynes? Where are theſe diſhonorers of our moſt excellent and moſt redoubted kyng, and of the other publique magiſtrates, ſent by hym for the puniſhments of euil doers, but for the praiſe of them that do well? Where are the diſobedients to their parentes? Where are theſe menſlayers, which dayly thirſt for innocents bloude, no leſſe then the thirſty hart panting for heat, deſireth the liuiſh ſpringes of waters? Where are theſe abhominable adulterers, vncleane fornicatoures, and ſtinking whoremongers, which contemning the bonde of honorable wedlocke, ỹ law of the vndefiled bed, and the chaſt liuing with their own wyues, doe dayely hunt after whores, defile virgins, pollute maried wemen, corrupt widowes, as I may paſſe ouer much other deteſtable vnclennes, which it ſhameth not them to cõmit and do, yea and that ſo boldely that thys ſynne of fornicacion is among many at thys preſent recounted no ſyn, but a natural inclinacion, a token of loue, a putyng away of emnite and diſcorde? I thinke if it be not redreſſed ſhortly, it will growe vp into ſuch freedome and libertye, that it ſhalbe counted no ſin at all, but rather a vertue, or at the leaſt a ſpur and prouocacion to vertue. O the abhominacion of the worlde, O intollerable wickednes: O vnclennes more deteſtable, thẽ it may any lẽger be ſuffered. The great diſpleaſure, the ſcarce wrath, the extreme bẽgeaunce, the ſcarre and cruell plages of God hang ouer our heades, if this tomuch deteſtable vice be not ſhortely removed from the boundes of Chriſtianite. Againe where are theſe malicious Theues, which deſpiſing labour, liue of the ſweate of other mens faces, & of the labour of other mens handes, after an vniuſte & wrong maner? Where are theſe falſe wytneſſes, whiche for very malice or els for mony are ready to the vtter damnacion of their ſoules for to ſwere and geue euidence agaynſt the innocentes and giltles? Where are theſe Caterpillers and Extorcioners of the poore people, which do nothyng al the whole day but gape after bribes and polyng fees, no leſſe than the hongry Lyon doeth after hys praye? They deuoure, my people, ſayeth God, as a pece of bread. Where are theſe ryche men, to whom God hath committed the goods of this worlde, which lyke inſaciable doggs hauing neuer ynough, do continually hunt after the augmentacio of worldly treaſures: as by ioyning Lordſhip to Lordſhip, Ferme to Ferme, land to land, paſture to paſture, houſe to houſe, benefice to benefice, Colledge to Colledge, Prebend to Prebend, Chauntry to Chauntry, office to office, promocion to promocion, yea & promocion for a dauntage, as they ſay: and yet are they vnmercyfull to the poore people, deſpyſe the mayntaynaunce of hoſpitalite, which the holy Scriptures commend ſo highly in euery place, and do nothyng leſſe then exercyſe themſelues in ỹ

Lamb. iiii.

The fleſhe, Gala. v.

O the vnſpeakable miſery of man without the grace of god

Take hede o ye ſcorners of Gods worde.

Idolaters.

Rebelles. Rom. xiii. i. Peter. ii.

Bloud ſoupers.

Whore mongers. Heb. xiii.

Extreme abominacio.

The vnſhamefaced whordome ỹ is vſed nowe a dayes.

Beware ye abhominable whoremougers be tymes.

Theues.

Falſe witneſſes.

Extorcioners. Pſal. xiii.

Ryche men.

O inſaciable couetouſnes

The vnmercifulnes of ryche men now a dayes

wo3kes of mercy. Where are these spirituall rulers, whiche geuinge themselues to voluptuous lyuing, neglecte to fede Chr̄stes flocke with Gods most blessed wo3d. Where are these Antech3istes which labour to suppresse Chr̄istes most swete and comfo3table Gospell. Where are these Papistes, which desire the old Papisticall and vngodly superstic̄yon to reygne agayne among vs. Where are these captiues of Satan which wallow and tumble themselues in the dungehyls of syn. To cōclude where are al these wicked persons, which trausgresse Gods cōmaundemēts and so lyue as though there were no God at all. O the vngodly and wycked fashions of thys wo3ld. O the conutenaunce of the Chr̄ysten publique weale, not a litle defo3med th3ough the pernicious manners of the false Chr̄ystians. Thus see we what a nomber of mo3tall enemies reigneth euery where among vs, and yet is there no man that lamenteth hys synne, detesteth hys wyckednesse, bewayleth his misery, desireth amendement, seketh fo3 grace, p3ayeth fo3 the fauoure of God that th3ough the holy gost we may be resto3ed to our old purite and clennes. If ỳ righteous man shal scarcely be saued, wher shal the vngodly and synner appeare? Who seeth not in how miserable a case we are? Who perceiueth not howe great nede there is of amendement? Who doeth not see as it wer in a table liuelyly paited befo3e hys face, that except we amende sho3tly, and co3rect our synful maners labouryng to be that in dede, which we p3ofesse in wo3de, I meane, true Chr̄istē men, God wil surely poure out his fearce plages vpon vs, rote vs out of the earth and destroy vs fo3 euermo3e? Fo3 as he is a bounteous Sauioure, so is he a rygh-teous Lo3de, as he is a gentle and tender father, so is he a righteous and fearce iudge, as he is a fauourer, so is he a destroyer, as he is vnfayned charite, so is he co sumyng fyre, as he wyll saue, so wyl he cōdemne. Mercely to the good, is he a merciful Sauiour, and to the euil, a righteous and streyght iudge. If we therfo3e conuite to tast of hys gentlenes, rather then of his ryghteousnes, let vs cast away our olde sinful liuing, and amend our wicked conuersacyon, lyuyng wo3thy the kindnes of God, and as it becommeth sayntes. Fo3 although we haue ron far astraye, lyke shepe ỳ haue wandered far from the true shepehard, yet yf we returne to the shepeheard and curate of onr soules wyth faythful repentaunce, and amende oure lyues he wil surely fo3 his mercyes sake, haue pitie on vs, biesse vs, lyghten hys countenaunce vpon vs, and graciously pardon our iniquitie. Fo3 he is not ỳ Lo3d that wyl be angry fo3 euermo3e. If he perceiueth our amendemente, he wyll not surely withd3aw his grace, but bounteously geue it to vs. Woulde God therefo3e that while we haue time, we would no lesse consente to do good, then we haue in tymes past to do euill. What, if we haue been darkenes in tymes past, let vs not dispayre, but rather study to become lyght in the Lo3de, and to walke as the chil-d3en of lyght. Onely let vs bende our selues towarde goodnes, and God wil surely be p3esent with vs. Satan wyth all our enemies shal no lenger against vs p3euayle, but we shal triumphantly haue the victo3y ouer them all. Be ye obedyente to God, sayeth S. Iames, resyst the deuil and he shal flye from you. D3aw nigh to God, and he shal d3aw nigh vnto you. Make cleane your hands O ye synners, and purify your hartes, O ye that are double mynded. Be ye troubled, and mourne, & wepe, let your laughing be turned into mourning, and your ioy into so3ow. Shew your selues humble in the sight of the Lo3d and he shal lyft you vp. O ỳ we would folow the godly counsel of this holy Apostle, and so red3esse our wycked maners, that the Chr̄ysten publique weale myght be resto3ed to her olde amiable beautye and glo3yous pleasaunce. How many wayes hath God left here among vs, wher-by we mayo make hym a mercyfull father, and a gentle Sauioure vnto vs. As I may leaue of to speake of fastyng and almes dede, what a goodly & godly meane is true and Chr̄ysten p3ayer, fo3 to obtayne the fauoure of God, and to p3ouoke his most tender mercy toward vs. Hath any thyng in tymes past so greatly apeased the diuine wr̄ath, did not the holy fathers in tymes past in all their troublous aduersite fly vnto P3ayer, as vnto an holy Anchoze, o3 sure Asile, and stronge Bulwarke. Whom would it not delight to talke wyth the kinges grace, if he wer ad-

Heb.xiii.
i.Peter. iiii.
Spiritual rulers.
Antech3istes Papistes.
Captiues of Satan.

Pro.xi.
i.Pet.iiii.

God is both a Sauioure and Lo3de.
i.Iohn.iiii.
Deute.iiii.
Heb.xiii.
Ephe.v.
Esay.liii.
i.Pet.ii.
Psal.lxvi.

Gala.vi.
An exho3tacion to repētaunce.
Ephe.v.
Set on hand and God wyll helpe.
Iacob.iiii.

wayes to obtayne Gods fauoure.
Of P3ayer.
The commēdacion of p3ayer.
A goodly example to moue vs vnto p3ayer.

mitted thereto. What a treasure than is it to talke with the King of Kinges and Lorde of Lordes, in comparison of whom all earthly creatures are more vile then the wormes? This thing commeth to passe by true & Christen prayer. For what other thing is prayer, than a familiar communication with God, wherin we may freely powre out the troubles of our hartes, and declare all our matters boldly to him, as the childe doeth vnto his father, and obtayne at his hande all good things? Verely we are our own enemies, if we neglect and despise this great commodite and singular pleasure. We can not excuse our self by ygnorancy, in asmuch as we haue plenty of prayers prepared for vs in the Englishe tonge both in the holy Bible, and in other godly treatises, which are now in this most florishing Realme of Englande published vniuersally vnto the great glory of God, and the exceadynge consolacion of all true Christen men, in so muche that as S. Paule sayeth: If the gospell be yet hid, it is hid in them that perishe, in whom the God of this worlde hath blinded the senses and wyttes of the vnfaithfull, that the light of the gospell of the glory of Christ, which is the Image of God, should not shine vnto them.

What prayer is.

Englande is without excuse.

ii. Cor. iiii.

Thankes be to God for this his incomparable benefite geuen vnto vs by his wel beloued and faithful seruaũt Henry the eight our most redoubted kyng. That lord might also graunt that we abuse not this his most gentle gift, but rather vse it vn to the glory of his name, the edification of his church, & the comfort of our soules. Now for asmuch as there is sufficiency of prayers prepared already and set foorth by other, whom God might also prosper in their most godly affaires: I thought it a vayne thing to encrease the nomber of them, and to acumulate prayers vpõ prayers, wherby werines rather then cherefulnes should be brought to the Readers: I therfore couetyng in this behalfe to worke some what that might make vnto the auauncemente of prayer, wherby the deuoute Christiãs might receiue knowledge and be the better instructed in the true manner of praying, haue now of late compiled a worke entiteled, A pathway vnto Prayer, I was the gladder to take it in hãd, because no man hath as yet perfectly entreated of this matter neither in the Greke Latin, nor Englishe tonge, that euer I could see. What doeth it auaile or profyt a man, being of a debile and weake nature to haue a Pomgranate or any other thing that comforteth nature, restoreth strength and bryngeth agayne the perfection of health, if he knoweth not the vse of it and wherfore it serueth? Verely eũ so of prayer. If there be neuer so many prayers prepared for men, if they knowe not the vse of them, nor wherefore they serue, nor yet after what manner they should be exercised, what profite receiue they of them? It is but an easye thing to pray, but to pray aryght and accordyng to the wil of God, is a thing of great difficulte and muche laboure. We think it an harde thinge to speake vnto a terrestiall Prince with wordes conuenient, apte and decente, and is it but a trifle to speake to the most high Prince, in whose sight the most eloquent is very barbarous, and the moste holy, prophane? I haue therefore in this my treatise folowing declared what prayer is, wherfore it serueth, and vnto what ende we shoulde vse it. I haue also declared of what vertue and strength the true and Christen prayer is, and how we should prepare our selues to prayer, that we may pray aright, and accordyng to Gods pleasure. And forasmuch as som men ar of so scrupulous, I had almost said superstitious conscience, that they thinke no prayer to be hard, but ỹ onely which is prayed in the chirche or some other sacred place, as they call it, I haue declared both by Scriptures and auncient Doctoures, in what place it is lawfull to praye. Again I haue shewed after what manner men should pray, that God may accepte their prayer, and for what thynges they should pray, yea and at what tyme. And forasmuche as this worde Prayer doeth contayne in it not onely Petition, but also thankes geuing for the benefite that is receaued, therefore haue I also declared my mind concetning geuing of thankes to God the father through Jesus Christ. All these thynges haue I done in this litle worke accordyng to the true vayne of the holy Scriptures and the tudgemente of the beste learned Doctors, seking in thys my laboure onely the glory of God, and the profite of his holy congregation.

A pathwaye vnto prayer.

The cause of making this worke.

Marke well.

To praye aryghte is a thing of great difficulte.

The cõtents of this boke.

Prayer signifieth peticiõ and thankes geuyng.

Collos. ii.

Which

which thing if it shal may come to passe, I shall not onely not repent me, but bery much reioyce in the Lord of this my trauaile, and shall hereby bee encouraged after this, to take in hande other argumentes of no lesse vtilitie and profite.

Now gentle and prudent Lady, disdaine not to take this litle gift, which youre Oratoure doth with most gentle hart offer vnto you as a testimonye of his obsequious will to warde your good Ladiship. I doubt not but that as you youre selfe shall fynde muche pleasure and profitte by the readinge of it, so shall all the reders of the same obtaine so much godly fruite and Christian knowledge by it, that they shal render harty and immortall thankes to God, that such a worke cometh forth dedicated to your Ladyships name. I againe on my behalfe shall moste instantlye desyre almightie God to assiste you at all tymes wyth hys holye spirite in the readyng not onely of this my litle treatise, but also of al other workes y make to the glory of God and the health of youre soule, and chefely in readinge the most comfortable Gospel of his derely beloued sonne Jesus Christe oure Lord and omnisufficient Sauiour (wherin the whole fruyte and pleasure of a true Christian ought principally to be) y you hauyng your whole meditation in the law of the Lord both daye and nyghte, Psalm.i.
may find such swetenes and pleasure in his moste delectable worde that you wanting at this present the company of a corporal husbād, may be maried to the most glorious and beautiful kig Jesus Christ gods owne son in your soule by faith in this worlde, & after your departure frō thys vale of misery to liue with him presently in the fulnes of perfect ioy, worldes without end. Amen.

¶ The grace of oure Lorde Jesus Christe be with you and with all your housholde.
So be it.

The pathway vnto Prayer.

¶ What Prayer is.

¶ The fyrst Chapter.

The diffinicion of prayer.

PRayer after the common diffinicion of the Doctors, is a lyftyng vp of a pure mynd to God, wherein we aske somewhat of hym.

This diffinicion of Prayer semeth vnto me so godly and in euery part agreable to ꝑ holy scriptures that I thinke it my bounde duty to search out euery worde of it in order and to compare it with the moste sacred Scriptures, and the sayinges of the auncient Doctors. Fyrst it teacheth vs that Prayer is a lifting vp of a pure mynde. Note fyrste of all that it sayeth, a lyftyng vp,

Lifting vp what it signifieth.

what other thynge meaneth this worde, lyfting vp, than to shewe that who soeuer entendeth to pray, must vtterly seclude and put out of hys heart all vayne cogitacions and worldly thoughtes, all carnall fantasyes, all vngodly ymaginacions, to conclude all such thinges as myght make the heart of hym that prayeth to crepe vpon the ground, to alyenate and estraung his mynd from the meditacion of celestiall and diuyne matters. And this is the very same thyng that Christ teacheth in the Gospell of Mathew, where he sayth: Whan thou praiest, thou shalt not be lyke to the Hipocrites. For theyr manner is to stande praying in the Synagoges and in the corners of the stretes, that men may se the. Certes I saye vnto you they haue theyr reward. But whan thou praiest enter into thy closet, and when thou hast sparred thy doze, pray to thy father whych is in secret, and thy father which seeth in secret, shall rewarde the openly. In these wordes Christ doth not only rebuke the false and fayned manner of praying, which the Hipocrites vse, hunting only after vaine glory, and seking the prayse of men more then the glory of God and the healthe of theyr owne soules, but he also declareth howe we shall prepare our selues for to praye, that we may be harde. He commaundeth vs to enter into our closet, and to speare oure doze.

Math. vi.

Hypocrites hunte only after vayne glory in ther prayers.

What it is to enter into the closet, & spar the doz.

what other thinges meaneth Christ by this, but that, as I haue sayde before, we shuld expulse all temporall thinges out of our heartes whan so euer we entend to pray and haue our mindes altogither set vpon celestiall & heauenly thinges? Therfore ought somany as entend to pray with frute to seeke an occasion to be sequestred from all temporall affayres, and from the troubles of worldely thynges, whiche myght bee an impediment to them in theyr holy meditacions, and so to be free fro all externall and worldly thinges that theyr prayer in dede maybe a very lyfting vp, according to the beginning of our diffinicion.

¶ The

¶ The second Chapter.

And that this thing may the more cõueniently be brought to passe it shalbe expedient for suche as intend to exercyse prayer to repose them selues and to set theyr heartes quiet from al the troubles of the world, yea and to subduce and conuey themselues from the company of the worldly people into some secret and solitary place for the time of theyr prayes, that they may the more frely geue theyr myndes to deuout, & holy meditacion, as the maner of many holy men was in times past. Examples haue we of dyuers in the holy Scripture, whiche vsed this trade. The Gospell sheweth how Chryst was wont many tymes whan he wold pray to go into the feldes and there beyng alone vpon a mountayne, vtterly secluded from all other company, to persever and continue in the praier of God all the whole nyght. Agayn a litle before hys passion we reade that he entendyng to praye vnto his celestiall father, forsoke the company of other, yea and although he toke with hym only thre of his disciples at that instant, Peter, John, and James, yet notwithstandyng whan he was in the mount of Oliuet, ỳ accustomed place of hys praying, he wente awaye from them also about a stones cast, and he kneling downe, prayed so hartely and so long to God hys father, that for very anguish, payne & sorow, the sweat of his most blysed body was eũ as the drops of bloud ronning downe vpon ỳ earth. Peter also beyng in the house of Simon the Tanner, went vp into the vpper part of the house to praye, that he myght not be troubled with ỳ other company. Helyseus also, whã he shuld pray to God for a certayne child that was dead, went alone into the chamber, wher the child lay, & sperred the doze and so prayed. Agayn Sara the doughter of Raguel, desiring to be deliuered frõ the impropery & imbraiding, as it would appere, of a certen default, wherwith one of her fathers handmaidens dyd imbrayd & cast her in the teeth, forsoke all company, & went streght into an vpper chamber of her house, and there beyng alone, did nether eate nor drynke by the space of three dayes & thre nightes, but continued in praier, and besecked God euen with teares that he would deliuer her from this imbrayding and rebuke. Judith in like maner, whan she should put herself in ioperdy for the helth of her people, went fyrst in to her Oratory & secret place, wher she was wont to pray, & so desired the help of God. At certain other times also before she slew, Holofernes, she went forth in the night time for to pray quyetly by herself. Quene Hester also putting of her Princelike garmentes, praied for her people to God secretly in her chamber. Agayne Daniel, when certaine Dukes & Earles for the hatred and euell wyll that they bare vnto him, had caused kyng Darius to make an Acte that whosoeuer asked any Peticiõ of eyther God, yea or of any man but of the kyng alone for the space of thirtye dayes, he shoulde be cast into the denne of Lyons, ceased not to praye for all the Act of the king, but still as he was wont to do, prayed boldely to hys Lorde God, beyng in hys chamber secretly by himself alone

Penne muste be in quiet, whan they entend to pray, and solytary.

Luke. vi. Christ prayed in the fieldes.

Math. xxvi.

Act. x. Peter prayd aboue in a tãners house iiii. Re. iiii. Heliseus prayde in a chamber.

Tob. iii. Sara praied in the vpper chamber of her fathers house.

Iudith. xiii. Judith prayde in her Oratory.

Hester. xiiii. Hester praid secretly in her chamber

Daniel. vi. Daniell praid secretly to God in his chãber, ỳ kinges commaundemẽt nat withstãding.

loue. Thus see we that both Chryst & other holy men also, sought euermore an occasion to be quiet & sollitary, that they myghte the more freely talke with God in their prayer, and so came it to passe that their prayer was vnfainedly a lyftyng vp.

¶ The third Chapter.

Psal. cxl. Prayer compared to a perfume.

¶ It is not without a cause that Prayer in the holy scripture is compared to a sweete perfume, whose nature is alway, yf it be once incensed or set on fyre, to lyft vp it self & still to go vpward so long as it lasteth. In lyke maner the true and christen prayer ought to lifte vp it self with diuine contemplacion, and still to go vp so longe as it lasteth with the medtacion of celestiall thinges, & not to crepe vpon the grounde with vayne thoughtes and worldly ymaginacions. For so is that prayer no lyftyng vp of the mynd of him that prayeth, vnto heauen, but rather a thrustyng downe to hel, yea and worketh synne and damnacion to him that prayeth, as the Psalmographe sayeth: Oratio eius fiat in peccatum.

Psalm. cviii. Colo. iii.

If you be rysen agayne with Chryst, sayeth S. Paule seeke for those thynges that are aboue, where Chryste is sytting on the right hand of God. Set your mindes vpon thinges aboue and not vpon the thinges of the earth. For you are dead, and your life is hyd with Chryst in God. When so euer Chryst our lyfe shall appeare, then shall we also appeare with him in glory. So that not only prayer, but also the whole lyfe of a christen man ought to be a lyftyng vp, that is to saye, a feruent desire and diligent seekyng of supernall and heauenly thinges. But let vs procede with our diffinicion. Hytherto haue we heard that Prayer is a lifting vp. Wherof I pray you? of handes or eyes? Nay verely, but of a pure mynd. For as touching the lifting vp of handes and eies, it maye also be vsed so well of Hipocrites as of true Chrystians. Therfore sayth Chrisostome, Though thou dost not bow thy knees, nor knock thy breast nor stretche oute thy handes vnto heauen, yet yf thou only shew forth a feruent mind thou shalt make a perfect prayer. Not withstandyng yf suche thynges be donne in time of prayer procedyng from the feruent & inwarde affection of the spirite, they are not to be discommended. For Dauid sayth, I haue lifted vp myne eyes vnto thee, which dwellest in heauen. And S. Paule sayth, I will that men pray in euery place, lyftyng vp pure handes without wrathe and contencion. We reade also that Chryste vsed to knele when he prayed. And the humble and poore Publicane knocked his breast when he prayed saying, O God bee thou mercifull to me a synner. Therfore as touching the externall gesture & outward behauour, as the lyftyng vp of handes or eies, the kneling or knockyng on the breast, in as muche as they are meane and indifferent thinges, they are to be left to the iudgement of deuout and well disposed people, eyther to be done or to be lefte vndone, as their mindes shall serue them. And for as much as they pertayne nothyng to our matter, I wyll let them passe and goe forth with our diffinicion.

The whole life of a christen man ought to bee a feruent desyre and diligēt seking of heauenly thynges.

Hom. lxxix. Deoratione.

Note of externall gestures in prayer.

Psalm. cxxii. i. Tim. ii.

Luke. xxii. Luke. xviii.

¶ The

The fourth Chapter.

PRayer, say the holy Doctors, is a lyfting vp of a pure mynd. These wordes are not be gone ouer with a lyght foote, as they vse to say, but depely to be weyed, and seriously to be pondered For in them doth consist in maner the whole efficacy, vertu, strength, power & pith of prayer. Fyrst we shall note that prayer is not the work of the mouth, but of the mynd, yea and that not of a corrupt, fleshly, malicious & sinfull, but of a pure immaculate, clene, vnspotted, faythfull and charitable mind. But I will fyrst shew by the scriptures and holy fathers, that prayer is the worke of the mynd according vnto our diffinicion, and afterward somewhat declare of the puritie of the mynd. That prayer is the worck of the mind, it is manifest by diuers places of holy scripture. For whan Moses at the commaundement of God, led the people of Israell out of Egipt, and Pharao with his cruell army followed, purposyng vnmercyfully to slay the, he being in great thought and care how he myght safely conduite the Israelites, and yet styll trustyng and hauyng hys whole affiaunce reposed in theyr Lorde God, prayed nothing at all with his mouth, but only vttered his cause secretly in hys hearte vnto God, and he was heard. For the Lord God sayd vnto him: What cryest thou vnto me? His crying was not the voyce of the mouthe, but the affection of the heart. He cried with a pure mynd to God, and therfore was he hard, though the mouth kept styll. In like manner Anne the wyfe of Helcana, whan she had ben long barren and without fruit, prayed God, that he would take awaie from her the opprobry & shame, and geue her chyldren, whiche thing she obtayned. And yet sayeth the scripture, she spake in her hearte. Her lippes only moued, but her voyce was heard nothyng at al. Mary Magdalen also prayed, not with her lyppes and mouth, whan she washed Christes feete with the teares of her eyes, and wiped them with the heare of her head, kyssyng and annoynting them full tenderlye in the house of Symon the Pharise, she only lamented in her hart her synful lyuing and dissolute conuersacion, desyring in her mynd to haue remissiō of her synnes, and she heard this swete voyce of Christe. Her synnes are for geuen her, because she hathe loued much. Yea & immediatly after Chryst said to her. Thy faith hath saued thee, go thy way in peace. Christ also the self truth & wisdō of his father saide to the woman of Samaria, when they talked togither of worshyppyng God: Woman, beleue me, the hour cōmeth, when nether in this mountaynе, nor yet at Jerusalē, ye shall worshyp the father. Ye worshyp that ye know not, we worshyp that we know. For helth is of the Jewes. But the houre cometh & now it is, whan the true worshippers shall worshyp the father in spirite and truth. For the father seketh such that shulde worshyp hym. God is a spirit, & they that worshyp him, must worshyp him in spirit & truth. Here Christ, which is ỳ very truth & can not lye, sheweth vs two notable thinges. One that God his father is a spirite, another, that as he is a spirite, so will he be worshipped in the spirite. Who perceaueth not than that it is the Spirit, the hart, the Prayer is the worck of the mynd.

Exod.xiiii. Moses only prayde in his mynd & was hard.

i.Regum.i. Anne prayde in her herte, her lyppes only moued, but her voice was not harde.

Luke.vii. Mary Magdalen with teares but spake not thyng.

Iohn.iiii.

God must be worshipped in spirit and truth.

Iohn.xiiii.
Titus.i.
Note.

mynd, I meane the inward and ſpiritual mā, that muſt worſhip God: It is a common ſaying among vs, lyke will to lyke. And euery one deſyreth ſuch as he is himſelf. Truth it is. Now is God a ſpirite, therfore requieth he a ſpirituall manner of worſhyppyng, which doubtleſſe proceedeth from the hart, and not from the ſtētoreous and crieng voice of the mouth. The pure affeccion of the hart, and not the whiſpering noiſe of the lippes doth God require. God which is the ſearcher of the hart, ſeeketh to be worſhipped in the hart, as he ſayth by Salomō, ſon geve me thy hert. Moreouer S. Paule ſaith, God is my witnes, whom I worſhip in my ſpirite. In my ſpirite, ſaith he, & not in the vnfruteſull babling of my lyppes. Agayne, ſpeake amonge youre ſelues in Pſalmes, Hymnes and ſpiritual ſonges, ſinging & making melody in your hartes to the Lord. Lo ſtil he maketh mencīō of the hart, willing that all praiſes, ſonges and melody be don in our hartes to the Lord our God. As though he ſhuld ſay, al that euer is don without the hart, is vaine, vnfruteſull, yea and plain abhominacion before God, rather worthy damnacion then ſaluacīō to the doers of it, as Chriſt ſaith: This people honoure me with theyr lippes, but theyr hart is far from me. Uerely they worſhip me in vayne. Thus ſe we proued by the ſcripture, that Prayer is the worke of the harte, of the ſpirite, of the mynd, and not of mouthe and lippes. But let vs heare what the Doctors ſaye to this matter.

Pro. xxiii.
Rom. i.

Ephe. v.

Al that proceadeth not frō the harte is vaine and vnfruteſull.
Mat. xv.

¶ The fyfthe Chapter.

In oratione Dom. Ad trāſiſmund. Liber. ii.

God is not the heater of the voice but of the hart, ſayth ſayncte Cyprian.

Libro de Cain et Abel. ca. ix
Pſalm. cviii.
Harke thys well.
Gene. iiii.

Unto God not wordes but thoughtes ſpeake, ſayth ſ. Ambroſe.
Moral. lib. xxii. ca. xviii

Saint Cipryan the bleſſed martire ſaith, which Fulgentius alſo teſteth, that God is not the herer of the voyce, but of the hart, neither is he to be admoniſhed with exclamacions and out cryes, whiche ſeeth the thoughtes, as the Lord proueth and ſaieth, what doe ye think wickednes in your hartes? And in another place, Al cōgregacions ſhal knowe, that I am the ſearcher of the raines and hart, that is to ſay, my inward part. Alſo S. Ambroſe ſayeth, take hede that thou doſt not bable out raſhly the miſteries of the Crede, or of the Lords prayer. Doſt thou not knowe, how greuous a thyng it is to heape vp ſyn in Prayer, where thou truſteſt to haue remedy? Certes the Lord taught by the Prophet that this is a greuous curſſe, ſaying: His prayer is becom euen very ſyn. Except peradventure thou recounteſt it but a tryfle to miſtruſt. It is ſurely a great incredulite and vnfaithfulnes to thinke thus of the power of God, that thou canſt not be heard, except thou cryeſt out. Let thy worke crye, let thy faith cry, let thy mynde cry, let thy paſſions and ſuffrynges cry, let thy bloud, as the bloud of holy Abell cry, wherof God ſayd to Cain: The voice of thy brothers bloud cry vnto me. For he heareth in ſecret, which maketh cleane in ſecrete. We can not heare a man except he ſpeaketh vnto vs, but vnto God, not wordes but thoughtes do ſpeake. Agayne, S. Gregory ſayth, vndoubtedly true prayer conſiſteth not in the voice of the mouth, but in the thoughtes of the hart. For our wordes do not make the voyces the more pythy and valeaunt to come vnto the most secret eares of God, but our desyre and affections. Therfore saith the Lord in the gospel: Enter into thy closet and speare thy doze. He speaketh the doze, & praieth in his closet, which holdeth his peace with his mouth, & poureth out the affectiō of his mind in ẏ sight of God aboue. Moreouer S. Austen sayth: Thou knowest, I am sure ẏ it is cōmaunded vs for none other thing that we should pray in oure closettes beyng speared (wherby the secrete partes of the mynd are signified) but that God seaketh not to be monished or taught by our speaking of that thing, which we couet that he should geue vs. For he that speaketh, geueth out wardly a sygne or token of his will by some articulate, playne and eudent sound. But God is both to be sought and to be prayed vnto, euen in ẏ very secret places of a reasonable soule, which is called the inward man. For he wylleth that these be hys Temples. Wherfore we nede no speakyng whē we pray, that is to say, no wordes that shall make any sounde, except peraduenture as the priestes do, for to vtter theyr mind, not that God, but that man should heare them, and with a certain consent be drawen to cōtemplacion by remembryng thē. Hereto agreeth the saying of S. Jerome: we ought, sayth he, to syng, to make melody, and to praise the Lord rather in minde then in voce. And this is it that is sayd, syngyng and makyng melody to the Lord in your hartes. Let yong men heare these thinges, yea let them heare, whose office it is to sing in the Church, that they must sing to God not in ẏ voice but in the hart, neither muste their throte and chawes be annoynted after the manner of Gameplayers with swete oyntmentes, that in the church singing more fit for game places should be heard, but in feare, in worch, in knowledg of the scriptures ought they to sing vnto the Lord. Origen also sayth, God in prayer doth not so much weye & ponder our wordes, as he doth the hart and the mind. For he it is, which searcheth the hertes and the raines. Although I could reherse many mo notable sayinges of these and other Doctors, which proue manifestly that prayer is not the worck of the mouthe but of the hert, not of the voice, but of the thought, not of the lyppes but of the mynd, yet these at this presente maye seme abundantly to suffice. Neither do I recite the testimonies of the olde fathers to confirme & make our matter the more strong, which al redy is sufficiently established by the holy Scriptures, neither nede they the confyrmacion of any mans doctrine, which of thē selues ought to be beleued without hesitacion or doubtynge of the faythfull, in as much as they be the Oracles and infallible speches of God, in whom al necessary truth for our saluacion is cōprehended, and without the authoritie wherof al that euer is taught or writtē, be but mere fantasies and humaine inuencions: but I haue called the holy catholik Doctors to witnes, because they teach the same thing that the scriptures doth, & to stop the mouthes of certayne wicked and ignorāt persons, which the think no trueth to be truth except by mans authoritie it be established, and that men seing & hearing the iudgment of such as ar learned, shuld

True prayer cōsisteth not in the voyce of the mouth, but in the thoughtes of the hart, sayth S. Gregory Note. Math. xv. Lib. de mag. i

God must be sought & prayde vnto in the very secret partes of a resonable soule saieth S. Austē In Epist ad Ephe. Ephe. v.

A good lesso for our musicions and Chaunters. S. Hirome teacheth our musicions a newe maner of syngyngs Ad Roma. Lib. vii chap. viii. Psa. vii Sap. i. Apo. ii. Iere. xvii.

The holy scriptures suffice for our saluacio without any mans doctrine.

The cause of reherslnge ẏ Doctors in this Boke.

be the more redy to cast away theyr hypocrisy and accommodat them selues to the true manner of worshipping & praing to our Lord God.

¶The sixt Chapter.

WEll of these thinges thā here tofore rehearsed, it is easy to learn that such as wil pray to God with fruit, must pray in hart, in spirite, in mynd, in thought, in affection, in the soule, in the inwarde man, or els the noyse of the mouth, the mumbling of the lippes, the roring of the throte, the shakyng of the head, the knockyng on the brest, the kneling on the ground, and what soeuer can be reasned more is vayne, vnfruitfull, and nothyng to the purpose, rather bringing dānacion then saluacion, as we haue hard heretofore. What is then to be thought of such persons, which when they ar in the tēple or els where, neuer leue babling, theyr myndes beyng vtterly drawen from theyr prayers, and altogyther set vpon transitory and worldely thinges? Yet stretche out theyr praiers into an innumerable nomber of leaues, thinkyng so to do God an high sacrifyce. Some also vpon theyr bedes taly vp, I can not tel how many Lady Psalters, beyng perswaded that by that menes they shall see our Lady corporally before they dye, and that when they are once dead, our Lady and all the .xi. M virgins with other sainctes mo, whose nomber is infinite, shal mete with them, euery one hauyng in theyr handes a brennyng taper of wax, and so receyue them into glory, puttyng vpon theyr heades a crowne of golde garnysshed, I can not tell you, with how many red Roses. Som agayn worshyp dayly a great nomber of Sainctes euery one hauing to theyr part an hundred Pater nosters, with as many Aues, beside the Credes, and that for diuers causes. These thinges be more openly knowen thā that they nede here to be rehersed, except we be so blynde that we wyll see nothyng, and so ignorāt that we wyl nothing know. I feare greatly lest that may iustly be spoken of such vayne dablers, which is spoken by the Prophet Esay, and rehearsed of our sauiour Jesus Chryst in the Gospell of Mathew. This people, saeyth he, honoreth me with theyr lyppes, but theyr hearte is farre from me. Verely they worshyp me in vayne. Yea I feare lest that they throw such vnfaythfull babling do acumulate and heape vp to them selues the greater dānaciō, as Christ wytnesseth in the Gospell. Woo be to you Scribes and Pharises Ypocrites, sayth Chryst, whych eate the houses of wydowes, yea and that vnder the pretext of long Prayer. For this shall ye be punysshed more greuously Agayn he sayth: Beware of the Scribes, which haue a pleasure to walke in long roobes, and loue to be saluted in the Marketes, and to haue the chefe preminence in the Synagoges, & the hygh seates at feastes, which deuour the houses of wydowes fayning outwardly longe Prayers. They shall receyue the greater damnation. If we shall at the daye of iudgement render an accountes of euery ydle word that we speake, as the holy Scripture testifyeth, what is then to be Against the vain dablers and superstitious worshyppers of sayncte.

Esa. xxix. Math. xv.

Math. xxiii. Luke. xx.

Math. xii.

An accoūtes of euery ydle worde.

thought

thought of those wordes, which we vnfruitfully waste, when we pretend outwardly to pray, and yet inwardly haue our mindes entangled with the care of worldly thynges or els entised from the affection of prayer with vayne cogitations of thinges carnall. It is to be feared lest we incurre and run into greater damnation, then they which praye nothing at al. For what is such prayer any other thyng then playne mocking of God? Their external gesture is as though we prayed, and desyred to haue our prayers heard of God, but in dede our maner of praying is nothing els (I speke of the vnfruitfull babblers) but only a bablyng of God that he should heare vs and our prayers nothyng at all regard, for our selues doe not heare them, nor yet mind them in our hartes. Yea we despyse hym that he wyll take vengeaunce on vs for our mockyng & bablyng. And thys is it that S. Ambrose sayeth, Take hede (man) thou dost not bable out rashly ỳ misteries of ỳ Crede & of the Lordes prayer. Dost thou not know how grieuous a thing it is in praier for to heap vp synne, where thou trustest to haue remedy? Certes the Lord taught by the Prophet that it is a grieuous curse, saying: His prayer is turned to hym euen for synne. S. Gregory also sayeth, Simulata sanctitas est duplex iniquitas. Fayned holynes is double iniquitie. To praye nothyng at all is iniquitie and playne synne, but to pretende outwardly an holy maner of prayeng and yet not praie in dede in our hertes, is double iniquitie, and encreaseth muche damnation vnto vs, as we haue heard heretofore, in asmuche as we are dissemblers bothe before God & man. But let vs heare what S. John Chrisostom sayeth: Many comming into the church do extend and stretch out theyr prayer vnto a thousande verses, as though the multitude of wordes were nedefull vnto God as vnto one that doth not know what thou seest, which knoweth ỳ matter, before thou thinkest. For they them selues also do not know we what they saye. Theyr lyppes are moued only, but theyr minde is without fruit, and therfore are the eares of God deafe. Thou heerest not thyne owne prayer, and wylt thou that the Lord shulde heare thy prayer? I haue bowed, thou saist, my knees. Thou hast bowed in dede thy knees within, but thy mind wandreth abroade. Thy body is within, but thy thought is without. Thy mouth in dede spake, but thy mind did thinke vpon buries. It did count the reuenewes of thy possessions. It did behold the destructions & balowinges of houses. It remembred ỳ wordes of thy frendes. It looked vpon the negligences of thy seruauntes. It laughed at the pleasaunte iesting of the Parasites. It considered the beauty of women. Therfore knowing that these thinges are done follow thou beyng a man the woman of Canane, which very diligently & with high wisdō praied vnto the Lord and therfore deserued to obtain her requestes. But thou wilt saye, peraduenture, I haue no doughter, which is replet with ỳ diuell, but thou hast a soule, which is stuffed full of synne. Agayne he sayth, If whan the body ligheth prostrate vpō the ground, and the mouth bableth vainly, the minde goeth about ỳ house

Prayer without the affection of the heart, is a playne mocking of God

Libr. de cain et Abel. cap. ix.

Psalm. cviii.

Note. A godly lesse for the that shall pray.

Homel. xii. Demul. canan

The multitude of wordes is not necessary in prayer.

Chrisostom against the wicked maner of prayeng nowe a dayes.

Math. xv.

Homel. xxxv. De oratione.

and market, how maye suche one say that he hath prayed in the sight of God? For he prayeth in the sight of God, which gathereth also gether his mynde quietly, and hath nothyng to do with the worlde, and lyfteth vp himself euen vnto heauen, and putteth out of his mynde all vnclean thoughtes. For he that prayeth, must so pray, that he letteth his mynde be quiet from worldly thinges, and calleth on God with a feruent affection of his heart. Neyther maye he vse many wordes, nor drawe out his prayer on a great length, but speake few woordes, yea and those simple, plaine and homely. For not in the multitude of woords, but in the quietnes of mynde both y whole matter consist, that we shulde be heard. Our prayer shall be layed (Ju prayer there is not so much nede of the voyce as of the thought, nor of the stretchyng out of the handes as of the intention of the mynde. Thus see we also proued by the Doctors, y it is the mynde onely with a Christe man must pray. The mumbling ouer multitude of prayers, the crying out of the voyce, the pellyng of the throat, the lyftyng vp of the handes, the knockyng of the brest, the shakyng of the head, the kneelyng on the knees, and whatsoeuer can be inuented & inherited by idoles vaine thinges are in vayne, yf the mynde be not present in the tyme of prayer. I will pray in spirit, saith Paule, & I will pray also in minde. I will syng in Spirite, and I will syng also in mynde. Therfore that it may be prayed aryght, let euery man laye, face well to all humayne affayres and worldly matters, and so quietly repose hymself, whyle he prayeth, that according to our diffinicion, his prayer in deede may be a lyftyng vp of the mynde.

Who prayeth in the sight of God

Ibidem.

1. Cor. xiiii.

The seuenth Chapter.

But some man will saye peraduenture, is it enough, if I pray with my mind, the hert being remoued from mundane affayres & worldly businesses? I answer: Our diffinicion teacheth vs not onely to pray with the mynde, but also with a pure mynde. For prayer is the lyftyng vp of a pure mind. So se we that it is not inough to pray with the mynde, except it be pure. It will be obiected, than shall we neuer pray. For who can say, my heart is cleane and I am pure from synne? I answere: If ye saye, we haue no synne, we deceyue our selues, & the truth is not in vs. But yf we confesse our synnes, God is faythfull and righteous to forgeue vs our sinnes, and make vs cleane from all vnrighteousnes. The scripture sayth, Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgeuen, and whose synnes are couered. Blessed is that man to whom the Lord hath imputed no synne. Ye sayth not: Blessed are they, which haue no iniquities, or which haue no sinne. For Sa. James sayeth: In many thinges we synne all. So long as we are in this mortall flesh, we can neuer be pure and cleane from the dregges of synne, yf from the synne it selfe. We can neuer in this lyfe attayne vnto so greate perfection of innocency, that we may appere pure & righteous in the sight of God in whose eyes the very starres and Aungels be not cleane. How we shall

Pray with a pure minde.

Prouer. xx. i. Iohn. i.

Psalm. xxxi. Rom. iiii.

Iacob. iii.

No man is pure frō sin in this lyfe. Iob. xxv.

maye we praye with a pure mynde? Verely yf oure mynde be faythfull to God, & charitable to our neighbour, God doth dissemble al our faultes, and in asmuch as we are faythfull vnto hym, and louyng to our christe brothers, he counteth vs all pure, as S. Iohn sayth: He that is borne of God, synneth not, that is to say, he that beleueth in God the synne is not imputed vnto hym, in asmuch as he consenteth not to the synne, but hungreth & thirsteth after the perfection of true innocency. Our hertes be purified by faith, saith the scripture, so that who so euer praieth with a faythfull and charitable mynde, he is counted before God to praye with a pure mynde. For God iudgeth not as the worlde doothe. The worlde thynketh hym to be a good deuout man that goeth vpp & downe with a cogging payre of Bedes in hys handes, or kneleth downe in the stoole solemply with a great Matens booke in his hand, making suche a nople with his lyppes and tonge, that all the whole Churche ringeth of it, although his hart be far from God and hys mynd occupyed about worldly businesses. But God beholdeth the mynd, the hart, the inward man, and loketh whether he prayeth in purite & clennes or not. If the hart be stuffed with fayth and charite, then is God well pleased, & accepteth the prayer for an high and pleasaunt Sacrifice. So he beyng in the Temple hearyng the proude Pharise, and the poore Publicane praying togither, would not haue esteemed y Pharise to bee more righteous and pure in the syght of God, then the wretched Publicane: For the Pharise confessed no synne, but bostyng many, he gaue God thankes that he was not lyke other men which are extortioners, vnrighteous, adulterers, and as the Publicane was. He fasted twyse in the weke, & gaue the tentes of all thinges that he possessed. O angelyke righteousnes and seraphicall perfection. Who would not haue thought hys holy religious father worthy to be canonised and related into the nomber of Saynctes? Yet sayeth Christe playnely, that the poore Publicane, whych brought forth no good dedes, but stode a farre of and durst not lyfte vp hys eyes to heauen, but humbly knocked hys brest, saying: O God be thou mercyfull vnto me a synner, went home more rygh teous in Gods syght then the Pharise, why so? For the Pharise had no true fayth in hym, but an arrogant presumpcion, bostyng and reakyng of hys good dedes, as though God were in hys det, and he not in Gods. And that he had no christen charite in him, it is euident seyng that he despised his neighboure. For Charite, saythe the Scriptures, couereth the multitude of synnes. Thus the Publicans prayer came from a pure mynde, that is from a mynd faythfull and charytable, it is manifest. Fyrst because that with an humble herte he came to God for remission of hys synnes, beleuyng to obtayne it. Secondly, seeyng that he accused no man but hymselfe only. Therfore went he home more iustifyed, sayth the holye Scripture. Therfore to all suche as outwardly pretend holynes, and yet are impure in theyr mynd, Christ saieth. The Harlots and Publicans shal go before you into the kyngdom of heauen. Agayne, Learne here how we may praye with a faythfull mynde. 1. Iohn. iii. Marke well. Actes. xv.

God and the worlde iudgeth not alike.

The worlde. The godlye before the worlde.

God.

The Godlye before God. The Pharise and the Publicane. Luke. xviii.

A spectacle for our iustyciaries.

Pro. x. i. Pe. iiii.

Mat. xxi. Luke. xvi.

Luke.xvi.

ye are they that iustify youre selues before men, but God knoweth youre hartes. For that which is praise worthy before men, is plaine abhominacion before God. Abell also and Cayn offred both sacrifices to God, and Genes.iiii. the Scripture sayeth that God loked vnto Abell and vnto hys gyftes, but vnto Cayn and vnto his giftes he loked not. It is here to be noted God iudgeth not the person of the dede but the act of the person. that God not after the fashion of the world iudgeth the person of y act, but the act of the person. He first loketh to the person, and afterwarde vnto the acte, as the holy Scripture sayeth here. He loked vnto Abell, and vnto hys gyftes. First vnto Abell, and afterwarde vnto Abels gif-tes. If the person be good, that is, faithfull and charitable, than doeth Psal.xv. Psal.xxxiiii. God accepte the gifte, not for the dignitie of the gifte it selfe, but for the faith of hym that offereth. For as the Psalmograph sayth, God hath no nede of our goodes. The earth is the Lordes, and al that euer is contained in it. As concernynge that the Scripture sayeth, God loked vnto God loked vnto Abel what it sig-nifieth. Abell, it signifieth that God fauoured Abell, in asmuch as his hart was both faythfull and charytable. And that God loked to the giftes of Abell, it sheweth that God was wel pleased with them, seyng they proded from the hart of such one as was enfarsed wyth fayth and charite.
God loked not to Caim what it sig-nifieth. As touchyng that the Scripture sayeth: God loked not vnto Cayn and vnto his giftes, it signifieth that God neyther fauoured Caim, nor yet accepted his giftes, seing that Caim had in hym neyther fayth nor i.Iohn.iii. Charitie. For hys hart was stuffed full of yre and wrath towarde hys brother Abell, in so much that shortely after it came to passe accordinge to hys pretensed malice, that he slewe his brother. And wherfore did he slay hym? verely because his owne workes were euill, and his brothers ryghteous. Thus see we, that be our giftes neuer so precious in ỹ sight of men, yet if the geuer be wycked, that is, vnfaythfull and vncharitable, God vtterly contemneth and setteth them at nought, as the wyse Eccle.xxxiiii. Iere.xxxvi. De tempore. man sayeth: The gyftes of the wicked, the moste high doeth not alowe and approue. S. Austen also sayeth, the prayer of an enuyous man is wont to be put a backe from the eares of God. Hereto agreeth the saying of Chrisostome: Let vs, sayeth he, in euery place lyfte forth a pure Hom.xxvii. in ge.ca. viii. minde. For that is the cause of al good thynges. The good Lord is not wonte to attende and gene hede to those thynges, that are done of vs but vnto the inwarde minde, wherof we are moued to do these things.
And good loking to this minde, doeth eyther approue or turne awaye Prayer fa-sting and almes are our spiritual sacrifices. Math.v. those thynges that we doe. Therfore whither we pray, or fast, or geue almes (for those are our spirituall Sacrifices) or wyther we doe any other certayne spyrytuall worke, let vs do that, being moued therunto wyth a good mynde. Therfore sayeth Christ, when thou offerest a gyft at the aultare, and there doest remember that thy brother hath any thyng agaynst thee, leaue thy gifte there before the Aultare, and go thy way, be first reconciled to thy brother, and than come and offer thy gifte. In like maner when we pray, we may not onely prouide that we may pray wyth the mind, al humayne thynges and worldly affayres remoted and layed

laied aſide, but alſo we muſt geue earneſt diligence, that we pray with a pure minde, that is, with a mind ſtuffed ful of faith and charite. For as Dauid ſayeth: If I perceiue any vnrighteouſnes, that is to ſay, vnfaithfulnes, in my harte, God wil not heare me. Againe: The Lorde is nie to al that call vpon him, yea to al that cal vpon him in trueth. And the wiſe man ſaieth: Into a malicious ſoule wiſdom wil not enter, nor into a body ſubiecte vnto ſin. S. Paul alſo ſayeth, I wil that men pray in euery place, lifting vp pure handes without wrath and contencyon. So that he which beareth a heart faythful towarde God, and charitable towarde his neighboure is fit to pray in the ſight of God. Therfore let vs labour ſeriouſly, that whan we intend to pray, we may exclude and put out of our hartes al infidelite, wrath and contencion, and be ſo plenteouſly enfarſed with fayth and Charite, that our prayer may iuſtly ſeme to be a verye lifting vp of a pure minde. And that thys maye be done the more conuenientlyt, it ſhal be neceſſary for vs to pray with Dauid, Create in me O God a pure and cleane heart, and a right vp ſpirit make thou a newe in my inwarde partes. But let vs heare more of our diffinicion. It folowethy.

Pſal. lxv.

Pſal. cxliiii.

Sapi. i.

i. Tim. ii.

Pſal. li.

¶ The eight Chapter.

VNto God. Note that he ſayth, vnto God, not vnto Jupiter, Apollo, Mercurius, Bacchus, Juno, Minerua, Pallas, Uenus and ſuch other Gods and Godeſſes, yea rather diuils, as the Pſalmographer ſayeth, the Gods of the Heithen are diuils, vnto whom the Ethnickes and Gentiles did flie in their praier for ſuccoure, nor vnto Baal, Aſtaroth, Moloch, the Quene of heauen, and ſuch other Idols, as the olde Idolaters the Jewes worſhipped and cried vnto for help, no nor yet as our newe Idolaters wer wont to do, as vnto Luke for the Ore, vnto Job for the pore, vnto Anthony for ỹ pig, vnto Loy for the horſe, vnto Apoline for the tothake, vnto Roke for the peſtilence, vnto Syth for things loſt, vnto Gertrude for the ratonnes and miſe, vnto Blaſe for the Ague, vnto Agaſſe for the fyre, vnto Barbara for the thonder, vnto Chriſtophor for cõtinuall healthy, vnto Annes for a huſband, vnto Margarete for women with childe, vnto Katherine for learning, vnto Criſpine and Criſpinian for ſhoes making, vnto Coſme and Damiane for Phiſicke, vnto Clement for bruing beere, and ſuch other innumerable, but vnto God. For Prayer is a lifting vp of a pure minde vnto God. Vnto God ought we to lift vp our hartes when we praye, as the Pſalmographer ſayeth, vnto thee haue I lifted vp mine eyes, which dwelleſte in heauen. Agayne, I haue lifted vp mine eies into the mountaines, from whence helpe maye come to me. My helpe commeth from the Lorde which made heauen and earth. Alſo in another place, when I was in trouble, I cryed vnto the Lord, and he fauourably hard me. The eies of the Lord are vpon the righteous, and hys eares are bent vnto theyr prayers. Mine eyes, ſaieth Dauid, are alwayes vnto the Lord, for he ſhall

Pſal. lxxxvi.

Againſt the ſuperſticiõs Innocation of ſainctes.

Vnto God only oughte we to flie for helpe and ſuccoure.

Pſal. cxxii.

Pſal. cxx.

Pſal. cxix.

Pſal. xxxiiii.

i. Pete. iii.

Pſal. xxxiiii.

Psal.xxix. shal plucke my fete out of the snare. The Lorde hath heard me & pitied me, he hath turned my mourning into ioy, he hath cut away my sacke cloth, and compased me rounde about with gladnes. Beholde the eyes Psal.xxxii. of the Lorde are vpon them ỳ feare hym, and vpon them ỳ trust in hys mercy. The righteous haue cried, and the Lord hath fauourably heard them, and frō al their troubles hath he deliuered them. For the Lord is iust by them ỳ are troubled in the hart, and the hūble in spirite wyll he saue. Blessed is the man, which putteth his trust in ỳ name of the Lord Psal.xxxix. Psal.ii. and regardeth not vanities & false imaginations. For God beholdeth the prayer of the hūble, & he despiseth not their desire. Euery good gifte and euery perfect gift is from aboue, cōming downe from the father of lyghtes. If any man want wysdome, sayeth S. James, let hym aske Iacob.i. it of hym that geueth, that is, of God, which geueth to al men, without doublenes, and casteth no man in the teth, and it shalbe geuē hym. But let him aske in fayth, nothyng doubtyng. Why than go we vnto any o- ther but vnto God alone for to obtayne any good thynges, whereof we haue nede? Is not he the author of all good thyngs? Cā any other geue vs those treasures, which he alone hath in hys custody? Haue we at a- ny time perceiued crudelitie or vnkyndnes in God, whereby the lest we should be minded to go vnto hym? Is the hand of the Lord so shor- tened, that it cannot helpe? Is his eare so stopped, that it cannot heare? Are his eyes so dim, that they can see no more? O ye vnwise people vn- derstand and ye fooles be once wyse. He that planteth the eare, shal not he heare? or shal he not see that made ỳ eye? To whō cryed Adam, Abel, Seth, Enos, Enoch, Nohe, Thare, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses, Aharō, Jetro, Eleasar, Phinees, Josue, Caled Othoniel, Gede- on, Helcana, Samuel, Nathā, Dauid, Salomō, Helias, Micheas, Eli- zeus, Ezechias, Esaias, Josias, Job, Mathathias. Thoby, wt al ỳ other auncient fatheres and holy Prophetes of the old Testament, but vnto God alone? Again, vnto whō prayed Joseph, John Baptist, Lazarus, Nicodemus, Gamaliel, Cornelius, Apollo, Dionisius, Aquila, Steue, Philip, Agabus, Ananias, Timothe, Titus, Joles, Philemon, and all the Apostles, wyth many other, wbych are cōtained in the volumes of both Testamentes, but vnto God alone? They prayed and were heard. Shall our prayers than be vayne, if we pray wyth that same purpte of mynde that they dyd? The Scripture sayeth, who soeuer beleeueth in God, shal not be confounded. For there is no difference betweene Jewe and Gentyle. For one is Lord of al, which is rich ynough vnto all that cal on hym. For whosoeuer shal cal on the name of the Lord, he shalbe safe. Let vs therfore trust in God, poure out our hartes before hym, la- ment our cause to hym, desyryng to haue hys most gracyous ayde and helpe in all oure trouble and aduersite, and we may be sure to obtayne whatsoeuer we aske accordyng vnto hys wyll, and to feale remedye re- present, that nothyng can be wyshed nerer. Thus see we that Prayer is a lifting vp of a pure mynde vnto God. It foloweth.

Esay. xxviii. Rom.x. Ioel.ii. Actes.ii. Psal.lxi. i.Iohn.v.

The holy fa- thers both of the olde & newe testa- ment prayed vnto none but vnto god alone.

All good thynges we must aske a- lone of god.

Esay.l.lix. Psal.lxxxxv.

The

The ninth Chapter.

Wherin we aske somewhat of him. He that entendeth to pray with fruite, must before he begin to pray, cõsider with himself for what thing he hath most nede to pray. If thou be proude, thã hast thou nede to pray for humilite. If thou be wrathfull and enuious, thã haste thou nede to praye for charite. If thou be a gloton or dronkarde, then hast thou nede to pray for sobriete. If thou be faulty in any vice, thã hast thou ned to pray for the vertue contrary to the vice. If thou be a Magistrate and ruler of the people, than hast thou nede to pray vnto God for grace, that thou maiest gouerne his people committed vnto thi charge accoʒding to equite and mercy. If thou be a Bishop or spirituall ouerseer, than hast thou a great occasion to flie vnto God with thy prayers that thou maiest faithfully geue attendaunce on the flocke, ouer whom the holy goste hath made thee an ouerseer to gouerne the congregacion of God, whom he hath purchased with his bloud. To be shoʒt, in what soeuer state of liuing thou be, if thou cõsidereste and weiest depely with thy selfe thy maner of liuing, thou shalt finde sufficient occasions for to pray. They therfoʒe which pray but for a custome, and because thei will exercise their lippes, lest they should seme to the Congregacion but a litle deuout and holy men, not caring what they pray so they praye, and do not before they pray determinate with themselues wherefoʒe they will pray, certes though they spende whole woʒkes in such kind of praier, yet doe they nothing lesse then pray. If we serche the holy volumes of the diuine Scriptures we shal easely perceiue, that they which praied, did neuer pray but for vrgent and right necessary causes. As for an example: whan Moses perceiued the wrath of God to be whot against the Israelites, because they had woʒshipped the goldẽ calfe, he streight waies for the healthy of his people prayed, saying: Either forgeue them this fault, or if thou do not, wipe me out of the boke of life, which thou hast written. King Dauid praied many tymes for diuers vrgente causes as we may see in the Psalmes. King Salomon his son praied for wisedome, that he might gouerne the people aright. Ezechias hearing the blasphemies and proude crakes of Senacherib prayed to the Lord for helpe. Judith and Hester prayed for the deliuerannce of their people. Again in the new Testament, the blind praied for their sight, the laime for their going, the deafe for their hearing, the sick for their health. The poore Publicane praied for remission of synnes. The woman of Canane praied for the health of her doughter, as diuers other did for theyr children and seruauntes. Christ and Steuen prayed for their enemies. The Chirche of Christ prayed for the deliueraunce of Peter. Paule and al the apostles prayed for the swift and ready passage of the gospel, and for the fortunate conuersion of the vnfaythful vnto the faith of Christ. Thus see we that all holy and deuout persons did euer premeditate to themselues, wherfoʒe they should pray before they prayed. And so some as

A good lesso for the that shal pray. He that praieth muste pray for somewhat.

Actes. xx.

Praiers at aduenture and referred vnto no certen ende are vnprofitable

Exo. xxxii.

psal. l. ii. para. i.

iiii. Re. xix. Iudi. x. xii. Hester. xiiii. Luke. xviii. Math. xiiii. Luke. xviii. Math. xv. Math. viii. Luke. xxiii. Actes. vii. Actes. xii.

as an occasion of praying was offred vnto them, they fel streight waies vnto prayer, and fled vnto God with moste harty supplicacion for the purchasing of their hartes desire. So ought we to do, and not rashly to mumble ouer a great multitude of Psalmes or other prayers, after the maner of certayne ydiotes and vnlearned Priestes, we care not how, nor cannot tel wherfore, but ponder, wey and cõsider depely our cause, and see what a great occasion we haue to pray, and than with an humble contrite and sorowfull hart lament our cause before god with most bitter and heauy teares, neuer leauing vntill we haue obtayned that for thee whiche we pray. If we would do thus, than should our prayers be modest, sober and decent, and not temerarious, rasshe, and babled out of order, and by this meanes accepted of God, heard and granted. Thus haue I declared as I trust accordyng vnto the vayne of the holy Scripture, and the mynde of the auncient Doctors, what prayer is. Now I wil hast to declare of what vertue and strength the true Chrysten prayer is, that men knowing the efficacy and dignite, yea and the necessite therof, may wyth the more plausible and ioyful mynds delyght in it, exercysing themselues therin both day and night to ỳ great glory of God, and the vtter confusion of Satan, and the hygh consolacion of their owen soules.

¶ Of what vertue and strẽgth the true and Chrysten Prayer is.

¶ The.x. Chapter.

Of what vertue and strength the true & Chrisẽ prayer is.

IN declaryng the efficacye, vertue, strength and powet of the true and Christen Prater, I would gladly wishe vnto me the pleasaunt speache and fugred vtteraunce of the most famous and excellent Orator Pericles, whose eloquence was so great and wonderous, as it is reported, that euen of very nature it semeth incomparable and not in any part able of any mortal mã to be followed and practysed, of so great admiracion, yea and estimacion in the sight of al men was it recounted. But seeyng that my wish in this behalfe is vayne, and that there is no mã more barbarous and of lesse eloquence thã I am: Agayn, seing that God hath euer chosen the fooles and vnwyse of thys world to set forth hys glory and to confounde the wisdom of the worldly wyse, and the vnderstandyng of the fleshly mynded, seing also that the trueth of Gods woꝛdes hath no need of ornate eloquence nor paynted colours, which of the faythfull for the simplicite of it, is euer imbraced and receaued ioyfully, I shal most instantly desire God, that he maye so directe my pen and inkhorne in suche maner

i. Cor. i. Iacob. ii.

The prater of the author

ꝑaner into my breſt ꝑ knowledge of the moſte holy Hiſtories of the ſacred ſcriptures, which aboundantly declare howe mygtyy in operatiõ the true and chriſten ꝑaier is, that I by rehearſing the, and Gods moſt holy ſpirit worꝛyng therwith alſo, maye ſo attend, kindle, inflame and ſet on fyꝛe Chriſten mans hertes with the loue of faythfull ꝑayer, that they maie vnfaynedly reioyſe in the continuall exercyſe and godly meditacion therof. By ꝑayer Abraham deliuered kyng Abimelech from deathe, which God thꝛetened him, becauſe he had taken to hym Abrahams wyfe. And where as God had ſtryken the kynges wife and hadmaidens with the byꝛe of ſterilite & barennes for the aforeſaid fault, at Abrahams ꝑayer they were made whole. By ꝑayer Moyſes ceaſed and turned awaye the plages of Egypte. By ꝑayer Moſes cauſed the water to flow out of the hard rock. By ꝑaier Moſes obtayned the victoꝛy for the Iſraelites againſte Amelech, but whan he ceaſed to ꝑaye, than dyd theyr enemies ꝑeuayle and get the victoꝛy. By ꝑayer, when God was ful determyned to ſlay the Iſraelites, becauſe they worſhipped the golde caulfe, Moſes apeaſed the diuine wꝛath, and reconcyled the people to the fauour of God. By ꝑaier Moſes cauſed the fyꝛe ſodẽly to be ſwalowed vp, whꝛich deuoured the tentes of the murmurers. By ꝑayer Myriã, whiche ſpake agaynſt Moſes was deliuered from her leꝛpoſi. By ꝑaier the people which were greuouſly ſtryken & woũded of the fyry ſerpentes for theyr diſobedience, were deliuered ſoõ them and made whole. By ꝑayer Joſua cauſed the ſonne and the Mone to ſtand ſtill by the ſpace of an whole day, vntyll he was reuenged of hys enemyes. By ꝑayer Anne the wife of Helcana being baren long before was made as a fruitfull vyne. By ꝑayer the people of Iſraell dyd valeauntly ouercome theyr enemies the Philiſtines. By ꝑaier Dauid obtayned the fauour agayne of God, although he had committed ꝑ moſt haynous ſynne both of manſlaughter and whoꝛedom. By ꝑayer Helias rayſed from death to lyfe the ſonne of the wydowe of Sarepta. By ꝑayer he in lyke maner cauſed the great plenty of rayne came downe from heauen vpon the earth, where as before it had not rayned by the ſpace of thꝛee yeres and ſixe monethes. By ꝑayer Joſaphat obtayned God mercyful to him, ſo that eaſily he had the victoꝛy ouer his enemies. By ꝑayer Ezechias ouercame hys proud aduerſary Senacherib & all his armie. By ꝑaier the ſame Ezechias did ꝓlong his life .xv. yeares. By ꝑayer Manaſſes was deliuered out of captiuitie, and reſtoꝛed agam vnto his kingdom. By ꝑaier Nehemias obtained of the kyng al his deſyre. By ꝑaier all good thinges chaunſed vnto Thoby and Sara the doughter of Raguell. By ꝑayer Judith ouercome Holofernes & his army. By ꝑayer quene Heſter had her deſyre for ꝑ Iſraelites of the kyng Aſſuerus. By ꝑaier Daniel was preſerued from the cruel fearcenes of the Lyons. By ꝑayer Suſanna was deliuered from the moſt bytter death ꝓpꝛed againſt her. By ꝑaier Jonas was deliuered out of ꝑ whales belly. By ꝑaier Judas Machabeus gat the victoꝛy ouer his enemies, but in two battayles whan he ſhuld fight võ Antiochus,

Gen. xx. What great thinges the old fathers bꝛought to paſſe thoꝛow ꝑayer.
Exo. viii.
Exod. xvii.
Exod. xxxii.
Nume. xi.
Numeri. xxi.
Ioſue. x.
i. Regum. i.
i. Regum. vii.
ii. Regum. xii
iii. Reg. xvii.
Iaco. v.
ii. Par. xx.
iiii. Regũ. xix iiii. Regũ xx.
Eſa. xxxiii.
ii. para. xxxiii
ii. Eſdras. ii.
Iob. viii
Iudit. xii.
Heſter. xiiii.
Dan. vi. xiiii
Dan. xiiii.
Ionat. ii.
i. Mat. iiii.

and prayed not, he fled away. And when he did fight with Bachides
i. Mac. ix. and Alcimus he was slain, because he did not praye, as before. By prai-
ii. Mac. xi. er Jonathas whē al had forsakē him except a few, obtained ỹ victory.
By praier the Jewes were deliuered from death and trouble, and the iii. Mac. iii. goodes of the temple preserued. Diuers historyes there be more of the olde testamēt which declare of how great vertu and strength the true and christen prayer is, but these at this present may seme abundantly to suffice. I wil therfore reherse a few of the new Testament, concerning thys matter also, and then make an ende, that men in few wordes may see of what efficacy and power faythfull prayer is.

¶ The. xi. Chapter.

Luke. xviii. Mat. ix. Mark. ii. Math. xv. Math. viii. Math. iiii. Math. xxi. Math. xii. Marke. ix. Math. xi. Lu. vii. xviii Luke. xviii. Luke. xxii. Iohn. xv. Math. xxvi. Act. vii.

BY prayer the Lepers were delyuered from theyr leprosy. By praier the blynde were restored to theyr syght. By prayer they that were sycke of the palsey, were made whole. By praier the woman of Chanane obtayned health for her doughter. By prayer dyuers men obtayned healthe for theyr sonnes and seruauntes. By prayer the lame were restored to the ryght vse of their limmes. By prayer the deaf wer made to heare. By prayer the dumme recouered theyr speache. By prayer the dead wer restored to life. By prayer sinners obtained remission of their sinnes. By prayer Mary Magdalene had seuen diuels cast out of her. By prayer the Publican went home more iustifyed then the Pharyse. By praier the faith of Peter fayled not. By praier the holy Ghost was purchased for the Apostles and all the faithfull. By prayer Christe and Stephan obtayned remission for theyr enemies. By prayer Peter healed Eneas of the palsey. By prayer he reysed vp Tabitha from deathe to lyfe. By prayer also he learned that all meates are pure, and none common or vncleane. By prayer Cornelius deserued to receyue the holy Ghost before he was baptised. By prayer Peter was delyuered out of prison. By praier Paule saued somany as were with hym in the ship from the daunger of drowning. By prayer we lyue vnder the magistrates and head officers of the publique weale, peaseably and quietly with all godlynes and honestie. By praier the Gospell of Christe hath euer had prosperous and fortunate progresse. By prayer we are made safe in our sickenes. By prayer the conuersyon of the Gentyles came fortunately to passe. By prayer the glory of God hath euer be promoted.

Acte. x. Act. x. xi. Act. xii. Act. xxvii. i. Timo. ii. Iacob. v.

By prayer the Churche of Christe hathe euer had the victory ouer Antichristes Synagoges. To cōclud, by prayer all good thynges chaunce vnto vs, and without prayer nothyng prospereth with vs fortunately. If I shuld goe forth to recyte all the hystoryes of the holy Byble, that make to the auncement of prayer, I shulde contexe and make a worke longer then the Iliades of the Greke Poet Homer.

But of these few hystoryes heretofore rehersed, the faithful and Christen reader may righte well perceiue, what efficacye, vertue, strengthe and power is in the true and Chrysten Prayer. Howe can Prayer bee vsed by other wyse then a thynge of greate excellencye, seeyng that the holy Ghost ly Ghost was the Author of it, seyng also that so many incomparable thynges by it haue ben obtained and so many diuine matters brought to passe? No man therfore ought to doubte of the dignitie of it, seyng ỹ Jesus Chryst Gods owne sonne dyd both very diligently at al tymes, and in all fortunes and chaunces, yea and that both night and daie exercyse it, & also not only commaund other to pray, but lykewyse taught and prescribed the moste godly way of praying. Christes Apostles also with Mary the mother of Jesu, & other holy women persevered togyther very much in fastyng & praing after Christes ascencō, as we read in the actes of the Apostles. I could gather here many thinges out of ỹ olde historyes, which should declare vnto vs how greatly ỹ auncient fathers of Christes church delighted in this godly exercise of praier, as we reade of S. James, whose knees showed the continual vse of kneling in his praiers, had great warts or wens, call them what ye will, growing vpon them after the maner as Camelles haue, but my mynd is not to set forth the cōmendacīō, praise & auancement of praier by any Histories, but only those, which ar contained in the holy scripture. Notwithstāding, seing that hitherto I haue fortressed this my treatise with the sayinges of ỹ godly learned Doctors, I will therfore now rehearse a sētence or two of the golden mouthed Doctor S. John Chrisostō, which shall not a litle make to the auaūcement of the true and christē praier.

The holy ghost is the author of prayer. Luke.xvi. Math.xxvi.

Christ bothe prayd and taught other to pray. Math.vi. Actes.i.

Mr.l. James Note.

The xii. Chapter.

Homil.lxxix De oratione.

DErely beloued, praier vndoubtedly, sayth he, is an excedyng good thing and great treasure. For yf he that talketh with a vertuous man, receaueth by that meanes no smal profit, how many cōmodities then shal he enioie, to whom it is giuen to talke with God? It is impossible, forsoth it is impossible for that man which praieth aright & maketh continuall supplycacion vnto God, for to synne at any time. For the fountaines of water do not make gardens so fertile and frutefull, as the fountaines of teres watering the plante of prayer, make it to exercise and grow vp vnto a very great height, and let him that praieth before the Lord. Herof cometh it to passe ỹ he must nedes be heard. Agayne he sayeth, as the Sonne is the light vnto the body, so is prayer vnto the soule. Praier getteth an holy lyfe, and the congrue, decent and semely worshippyng of God, and after a meruaylous manner it layeth vp treasure for our soules. For whither ỹ a man will labour to kepe virginitie, or in mariage reuerētly to maintain continencye, or to suppresse wrath, and to lyue mekely, or to repurge enuy, or to do any other decēt and comely thyng, prayer beyng hys gide, and preparyng such a waye to the life, he shal vndoubtedly haue a quiet and easy passage vnto godlynes. For it is not possible, but that they which aske of God, purenes of lyuing, iustice, mekenes and benignitie, must nedes obtaine it by praying. For he saith, Aske and it shal be giuen you. Seake and ye shal fynd knock & it shal be opened to you. For euery one that asketh, receaueth, &

He that praieth arighte continually, can not synne.

What a treasure prayer is.

By praier al thinges are easy.

Ser primo De ora.

Math.vii. Luke.x.

he that seketh, fyndeth, and to hym that knocketh, it shall be openned.

Ser Secundo De ora.

Prayer receaueth vs full of synnes, and streyght wayes maketh vs cleane. Prayer is the present remedy for the soules of them that are sick. Prayer doth not only make clene from synne, but also put a back great perels. Prayer is, truly called, a celestiall panoply and heauenly armature, and that alone is able valeauntly to preserue them, which haue consecrated them selues vnto it. So that without prayer no good nor wholesom thyng shal chaunce vnto vs. Prayer is the head of all goodnes and the conciliatrice and purchaser of health and euerlastyng life.

Ibidem.

Prayer is the cause of all vertue and iustice. Prayer is the occasion of healthe, the purchaser of an immortall soule, the sure Bulwarke of the Chyrch, the inconcusse, vnshaken and puissaunt custody or watch of the faythful, terrible to the diuilles, but healthful to the godly. Prayer hath wayting on her all vertues. To be breue, looke what the foundation is in an house, the very same is prayer in the soule. Hytherto haue I rehearsed the wordes of the golden mouthed Doctor, which declare manifestly of how great vertue and strength the true and christen prayer is. Of these thinges then heretofore rehearsed, haue we sufficiently learned what an exceadyng and incomparable treasure Prayer is to the soule of a chrysten man. Certes whyther we haue respect to the cõmoditie of our body or of oure soule, prayer is the only meanes, wherby it is obtained and brought to passe. Be God neuer so angry with vs, prayer apeaseth hys wrath, as the Poet sayth. Flectitur iratus, voce rogante Deus. Et Dominum mundi flectere vota valent. If we be sinfull, prayer purifyeth vs. If we be barren, prayer maketh vs frutefull. If we bee sick, prayer maketh vs whole. If we be ignorante, Prayer engrafteth knowledg in vs. If we be blynd, prayer lyghteneth our senses. If we be comfortles, prayer is redy to assist and helpe vs. If we be sorowful, prayer comforteth vs. If we be poore, prayer enritcheth vs. If we bee prophane, prayer maketh vs holy. If we be carnall, prayer maketh vs spiritual. If we be captiues of Satan, prayer maketh vs the derely beloued sonnes of God. If we want any thing prayer is redy to get it for vs. To conclude, yf we be euil, prayer maketh vs good. If we be good, prayer maketh vs better, and neuer forsaketh vs vntill it hath brought vs vnto the presence of almighty God in his eternall glory. What wold we haue more? Seyng that so large commodities and great profytes come vnto vs by the true and christen prayer, let vs cast away al sluggyshnes, and exercyse our selues maynly in the most godly meditacyon of vertuous prayer. By this meanes doubteles shall vice decrease and minish in vs and contrary wyse vertue shall augment and encrease very much both in body and soule. And that this thyng may be donne the more conuenientlye, I wyll now by Gods fauour declare how a chrysten man shoulde prepare hymselfe to pray, that by no meanes he maye abuse thys great and syngular treasure.

Beholde what prayer doth.

❧ Howe a Chriſten man ſhould prepare himſelfe to Praye.

¶ The xiiij. Chapter

Although there be ſo many thynges to be conſidered in the godly exercyſe of prayer, that we may praye aright, yet me thynk that eight thynges chiefly aboue al other muſt be cõſydered and obſerued in it, without the which no man can prepare hymſelfe to pray accordyng vnto the wyll of God. Of theyſe eyghte therfore wyll I now ſpeake in order by the aſſiſtẽce and helpe of Gods moſt holy ſpirit, whom I moſt inſtantly deſyre ſo to direct my pen, that I maye wryte all thing vnto the glory of God, and the profyt of hys holy churche. Fyrſt it is requiſyte, that he whyche entendeth to praye, conſydereth depely with hymſelfe his ſtate and caſe wherin he ſtandeth. If he doth thus, then ſhall he fynd that to be true, which the Pſalmographe wryteth: Euery man that lyueth, is nothyng but altogether very vanitie. Agayne, the children of men are bayne. They are lyers and falſe, in ſomuche that yf thou putteſt them and vanitie together in a ballaunce, vanitie wyll ſurely wey them vp. All fleſh is graſſe, and all his glory is lyke a floure of the feld. Moreouer he ſhall eaſily perceaue that all hys ſenſes and thoughtes are prone to euel, and that he is not hable of hymſelfe to thynk a good thought. Agayne, he ſhall ſhortly vnderſtand that hys heart is wycked and inſcrutable, and that there is no whole parte in hym from the top of the head to the ſoole of the foote, but that in all hys thoughtes, wordes and dedes, he is a very ſynner and greuous offender of the diuine maieſtye. Thus muſt he fyrſt of all, when he entendeth to praye, conſyder with hymſelf what he is, euen a very ſynner, a tranſgreſſour of Gods precepte, a breaker of the diuyne lawe, and a wycked doer in all hys actes.

Eyght thinges are to be conſydered in the prepara cõ of prai er.

He that entendeth to praye muſte fyrſt conſyder in what caſe he ſtandeth.

Pſa. xxxviii.
Pſal. lxi.

We are all bayne wicked & ſinful.

Eſai. xi.
Gene. vi.
ii. Corin. iii.
Ieremi. xvii.
Eſai. i.

This conſyderacyon fyrſte of all is very neceſſary, For it bryngeth a man to the knowledge of hymſelfe, and maketh hym the more deſyrous for to praye, that he maye be deliuered from this great enormitie. Certes except a man doth fyrſt of all on this wyſe iudge, vnderſtande and perceaue of hym ſelfe, he can neuer be truly bente for to praye. For who deſyreth the health and warmenes of clothe, that feleth no colde? who longeth for meat and drynk, that is not hungry and thyrſty? who wiſheth health that is not ſycke? who prayeth for remiſſion of ſynnes, that fealeth not hymſelfe to be a ſynner? Woulde Ezechias haue prayed for health and longe lyfe, yf he had not felt hymſelfe ſycke and at the point of deathe? Woulde Salomon haue deſyred wyſdom for the ryghte gouernaũce of hys people, if he had not perceaued, that he had had nede of

The knowledg of ourſelues maketh vs to haſt vnto Chryſte, and to ſeake remedy.

iiii. Reg. xx.
Eſai. xxxiii.
Ezechias.
ii. Para. i.
Salomon.

 woulde

ii. Reg. xii. Psalm. l. Dauid. it? would Dauid when he had played the adulterer with Bethsabe the wyfe of Vryas, so greatly haue lamented his sin, if he had not knowen him selfe to be a greuous synner? wolde the poore Publicane contrary Luke. xviii. Publicane. to the maners of the proude Pharise haue stande a far of, beyng afraid to lyft vp his eies, and knocking his brest, saying: O God be thou mercyfull vnto me a synner, yf he had not knowen hymselfe to be ful of syn, Luke. vii. x. Mary Magdalene. misery and wretchednes? Would Mary Magdalene haue ben so desyrous of Christes company, yf she had not knowen her self to be a miserable synner, and Christ a bounteous Sauiour? Nay verely. Therfore the next and most redy way for a man to prepare hymselfe to praye aryght, and with a feruent spiryte and hungry mynde, is to knowe and graūt himself to be a sinner, & that therfore he hath great nede to pray.

¶ The xiiii. Chapter.

The mercye of god alone deliuereth vs from our misery. SEcondly, when he hathe once thorowly debated and beaten with himselfe hys owne mysery, wretchednes, synne and abhominacio, and perceyueth that to be deliuered therof, ther is no other waye, but only by the mercy of God thorowe prayer, he must streyghte wayes set before hys eyes the Cōmaundement of God, which after the knowledg and confession of his synne commaundeth hym to praye. And here ought he not a lytle to reioyse. For who, whan he hath once offended God, durst be so bolde as once to desyre pardon of his offence, & to pray vnto God for mercy, yf God himselfe had not commaunded hym so to do? Verely no man. For the transgression of Gods commaundement doth so confounde the consciences of the transgressour, that it soner dryueth hym vnto desperacion, then to any hope of help or fauour. This is wel proued by Adam, which, when he had once broken Gods precepte in Paradyse, fled streyghte wayes from the face of God, hyd him, and sought all meanes possible no more to come in to hys syght. Howe was Caym also confounded in his conscience when he had killed hys brother Abell, though there was yet no law raygnyng? Was he not stryken with such feare, that he sayd: Euery one that fyndeth me, will kyll me? was he not ashamed so greatly of hys manslaughter, that he sayd, myne iniquitie is greater then I maye deserue forgeuenes? Hyd he not flye from the face of the Lorde, so farre as he myght? Agayne, was not Judas so ashamed of hys dede when he had sold Christ to the Bishops and head priestes, that he brought the mony agayn to them, and sayd, I haue synned, betraying the innocent bloud? Did not sinne so confound and slaie his conscience at the last, that he went and hanged vp himself, and when he was hanged, did not he brast a sunder in the middes, and all his boweis gusshed out? Who beyng a Traitour dare come before? kynges maiestie to desyre pardon of his offēce? Yea who rather beyng fauty in that detestable synne, flyeth not from hys graces presence into straunge countreyes, that he maye be free and without punishment? For the rewarde of synne is deathe. Therefore I saye ought he that Gene. iii. Adam. Gene. iiii. Cayne. Math. xvi. Judas. Actes. i. A goodly example. Rom. vi.

knoweth

knoweth and graunteth himselfe to be a sinner very muche to reioyce that God for his offence hath cõmaunded hym to pray, which els durst nothing lesse thã once to attempt for to approch before the diuine maiestie with any kind of prayer, and when sin shal labour according vnto the nature therof for to cõdemne the conscience, and to expell from the hart al faith, confidence, and trust in God, than to erect, eleuate & lyfte vp himself by geuing sure and vndoubted fayth to the cõmaundement of God, which cõmaundeth hym to pray, ẅ thys perswasiõ, ẏ God hath not cõmaunded him for to pray in vayn. He must therfore put these and such lyke cõmaundementes euer before his eies, Aske, Seke, Knocke, watch, pray. Again, cal on me in the day of trouble. Come vnto me all ye ẏ labour and are laden. Al ye ẏ thirst come vnto the waters. And ye that haue no money make hast, by and eate. Come & bye wythout mony, and ẅout any marchaundise, wine and milke. These most gentle and louing commaundemẽts of God cõfort the sorowful minde of the sinner greatly, & engraffeth in hym a certain gladnes & hope for to obtai remissiõ of his sines, seing ẏ god so boũteously cõmandeth hi to pray

The nature of sinne.

Matth. vii.
Psal. l.
Matth. xi.
Esay. xliiii.

¶ The .xv. Chapter.

THirdely when he hath on this maner pondered the commaundement of God, wherwyth he is prouoked to pray, than doeth conuenient tyme require ẏ he also cõsidereth ẏ most louyng, gentle, & bounteous promyses of God, in the whych he promyseth for to heare vs and to graunt vs our peticyons. For what doeth it profit for to aske & not to obtayne? If God had onely commaunded vs to pray, & not also promised for to heare vs, & gẽtely to geue vs our desires, what greate pleasure had he done for vs? what had he done for ẏ which we had nede once to say, Lord, God a mercy? what singular benefite had we receyued of hym? But although ẏ cõmaundemẽt to pray putteth vs in good cõfort, yet whan we are promysed also graciously to be heard, this maketh vs vnfaynedly to reioyce & seriously to triũph. This maketh vs to put out of our hart al doloure and sadnes, & to be replete ẅ al mirth and gladnes. The promises of God bryng quietnes to ẏ cõscience, cherefulnes to the hart, tranquilite & peace to ẏ soule. No man is able to expresse how much and how great ioy lieth buryed vp in the diuine promises, & how feruent consolacion the sinner taketh by ẏ hearing of them. What ioy thinke ye was thys vnto Adam for to heare after his offence, ẏ the son of God should be borne of a pure mayde, and tread downe ẏ Serpentes head, that is, subdue Satan and deliuer Adam with al his posteryte from his tyranny, bring thẽ agayn into ẏ fauour of God, & make them heyres of eternal glory? What cõfort I pray you was this to faithful Abraham for to heare ẏ in his sede al nacions of the earth shoulde be blessed? What a great pleasure was thys to ẏ Israelites, whẽ they wer greuously stinged & slayn of ẏ fyry Serpentes for their dysobedience, to heare this promise of god: Make a brasen Serpẽt, & set it vp for a signe

The commaundemẽt to pray without the promyse to here auaileth litil

The promyses of God bringeth quietnes to the conscience.

Gene. iii.

Adam was greatly comforted by the sede promised.

Gene. xxiiii.

Abraham.

Num. xxi.

Israelites.

Iosua.i. he that is striken and loketh vpon it, shall liue? What exceading comfort receiued Iosue by this promise of God vnto him? I will not leaue thee neither will I forsake thee. Be therefore stronge and take a good hart vnto thee? As I may come nerer to our matter, how muche ioye, consolacion and pleasure haue the faythful fealte of this one promise of God: Euery one that calleth on the name of the Lord, shalbe saued. Ioel.ii. Actes.ii. Rom.x. Therfore in this behalfe the promises of God must be earnestly weyed ponndered and considered. In them must we rest daily as in a moste sauft Herboure. In them must we repose our selues. In them must be all oure delighte, pleasure and felicite. The chiefe promises concerning Prayer are these. Delight thou in the Lord, and he shall geue thee, the petitions of thy hart. Cal on me sayeth God, in the day of thy trouble, and I will deliuer thee, and thou shalte honour me. Agayne he sayeth: Seing that he hath put his trust in me, I wil deliuer hym, and I wil defende him, in asmuch as he hath knowē my name. He cryed vnto me and I will graciously heare hym, I am with him in tribulacion, I wil deliuer him and glorify hym. With the length of daies will I replenish hym, and shewe hym my sauing health. Christ also sayeth: Come vnto me al ye that laboure and are laden, and I shal refreshe you. Euery one that is athirste, let hym come to me and drynke. Agayne, aske, and it shalbe geuen you. Seke and ye shal fynd. Knocke and it shalbe opened vnto you. For euery one that asketh, receiueth, and he that seketh, fyndeth, and to hym that knocketh, it shalbe opened. If ỳ son asketh bread, of any of you, which is his father, wil ye profer hym a stone? or if he asketh fishe, wil ye geue him a serpent? or if he aske an Egge, wil ye profer hym a Scorpion? If ye than which are euil, know how to geue good giftes to your children, how much more shal your heauēly father geue the holy goost to them that desier it of hym? These and such lyke promises of God, must he that intendeth to praye set before hys eyes, that he comforted with the remembraunce of them, may with the more frāche courage geue himselfe to godly and deuout prayer at all tymes.

The promises of God are our onely comforte. Psal.xxxvi. psal.xlix. psal.lxxxx. Math.xi. Iohn.vii. Matb.vi. Luke.xi.

¶ The.xvi.Chapter.

Faith geuē vnto the promises of god establisheth the mynde. Titus.i. Psal.cxliiii. Esay.xl. Note well. Without fayth: gods goodnes profyteth vs no thyng at all. Marke this example.

FOurthly when he hath on this maner confirmed and establyshed his mind vō the cōtemplacion and beholding of ỳ diuine promyses, he may not dout any thyng at al of them but faythfully beleue and vndoutedly perswade himselfe that they are true, in asmuch as they are the promyses not of man but of God, which cannot lye, whiche is true, yea which is the selfe trueth, which is faythful in al his wordes, and holy in al hys workes, whose worde and trueth also abyde for euer and euer. For though God be neuer so mercyfull, and bounteous in gyftes, yet if we do not beleue that hys mercy & bounte pertayne also to vs, we are neuer ỳ better. Let it so be, that whan a traitour for hys offence committed against ỳ kinges maiesty, flieth beyonde ỳ seas into a straunge coūtrey because he wil eschewe ỳ daūger of the law, & escape ỳ paine due for

for his offence, the kinges grace hath pitie on him, pardon his faultt, & sende ouer his letters vnto him, wherein is declared the kinges greate mercy and gentlenes toward him, and willeth him to returne into his natiue country, and there agayn to enioy the benefites of the same, and of all other thinges that he possessed before, yea and that with no lesse fauoure, thā he did in times past, whan he was most estraunged frō ẏ fault of treason: if the Traitour not beleuing ẏ wordes of the most gracious and free pardon, would contemne and despise it, recountynge it to be but a vaine gloose, and of no trueth, what should the kynges gentlenes in this behalfe profite hym? The king is merciful, but the traytour is vnfaythfull. Therfore receiueth he no commodite by ẏ kynges pardon. And yet is not the fault in the kyng, but in the traytour, which beleueth not ẏ glad and merye tidinges. Agayne: Be it in case, ẏ a cunning and learned Phisition come vnto a sicke man, promising hi helpe and deliueraunce of his disease, and yet if the sicke person beleueth hym not but setteth nought by hym, and despyseth his medicines what doth it profit him? what is he holpen by the presence of the Phisicio, be he neuer so cunnyng? what doeth the readines of helpe profit hym, if he refuseth to take and enioy it? Verely nothyng at al. In like maner bee God neuer so merciful and bounteous, and neuer so ready to helpe vs, yet if we beleue hym not to be so, his mercy, bounty & assistence profite vs no thing at al. The Psalmograph sayeth not onely, ẏ Lord, is nigh to all that cal on hym, but he addeth, to al that cal on him in trueth. What is it to call on God in trueth, but to beleue earnestly ẏ he will truely performe his promises, and do in al thyngs as he hath promysed? Agayne, Dauid sayeth: Mercy and trueth haue met together, righteousnes and peace haue kissed one another. What is this, mercye & trueth haue met together but ẏ as God is merciful in making his promises, so is he true in performynge thē? Agayn, what meaneth this, righteousnes & peace haue kissed one another, but onely to shewe, that the ryghteousnesse of God in fulfilling his promyses, and the tranquilite of conscience haue ioyned themselues together in the hartes of the faythfull. Therefore if we do not obtaine the high treasures and greate pleasures that God hath promised, let vs impute it to nothing els but only to our vnfaythfulnes. For S. Paule sayeth, wythout faith it is not possible to please God. He that commeth to God, sayeth he, must beleue ẏ God is, & that he is a rewarded to thē that seke him. Againe, we being iustified by fayth haue peace toward God through our lord Jesus Christ, by whō also it hath chaunced vnto vs, that by fayth we should be broughte into thys grace, wherin we stande, and reioyse vnder the hope of the glorye of God. S. James also sayeth, If any man wanteth wisedome let hym aske of hym that geueth it, I meane God, which geueth to al men without doublenes, & casteth no man in ẏ teth, & it shalbe geuē him. But let hym aske in faith and wauer not. For he that doubteth, is like ẏ waues of ẏ sea, tossed of ẏ winde, & caryed to violēce. Neither let that mā thinke

Another example.

Psal.cxliiii.

To cal on god in truth what it is. Psal.lxxxiiii.

Percy and trueth haue met together, righteousnes and peace haue kissed one another, is expounded.

Heb.xi.
Rom.v.

Iacob.i.

that

Marke.xi. that he shal receiue any thing of God Christ also saith, Whosoeuer shall say to this mountayne, take away thy selfe, and cast thy selfe into ỳ sea and shal not wauer in his hart, but shal beleue that thys thinge which he sayeth, shall come to passe, what soeuer he sayeth, shall be done vnto him. Therfore I say vnto you, what soeuer ye desire when ye pray, beleue that ye shall haue it, and it shall be done to you. Agayne he sayeth,

Haue ye the fayth, of god in you, is expounded. Haue ye the faith of God, that is to say, a sure perswasion and cõfidence of the promyses of the grace and mercy of God, and learne ye to assent and agree to the promise of God, which thing if ye shal do, verely I say vnto you, al thynges that ye aske whan ye pray, beleue that ye shal receiue them, and they shal chaunce to you, as he sayeth, all ỳ euer ye aske whan ye pray, beleue that ye shal haue them, and they shal chaunce vnto you. We read ỳ whan two blind men desired Christ to make thẽ se to see, he sayd vnto thẽ, do ye beleue that I am able to do thys thynge? They answered, we beleue Lord. Than sayed Christ vnto them, according to your fayth, be it to you. And their eies wer open. Agayne whã a certayne man brought his son to Christ for to be healed, Christ said to him: If thou canst beleue, al things ar possible to hym that beleueth. In

Math.x.

Marke.ix. diuers other places we reade, ỳ Christ said to them whõ he healed. Be it vnto thee according to thy fayth. And thy fayth hath saued thee. For Fayth. by faith are we maried to God. By faith are we made the sõnes of god

Luke.vii. By fayth al good things chalise vnto vs. Therfore ỳ we may be partakers of the comfortable promises of God, let vs earnestly beleue them,

Math.xv. beyng perfectly perswaded that whatsoeuer God hath promysed, he

Oze.ii. wil surely fulfil it. For he is ỳ trueth, which can neyther lie nor deceiue, Iohn.i. but graciously al things aboundantly to thẽ ỳ aske in fayth. Theophilacte

Gala.iii. hath a very golden and notable saying, which is this. The foundacyon

God is that trueth which can neyther lye nor deceaue. and grounde of al prayer is fayth. For except a mã doeth beleue, ỳ he shall receaue ỳ to his profite, which he asketh, ỳ praier ỳ he maketh is vayne.

In Lu.cap. xviii. But if it be so that we are yet weake, and haue no sure trust of the clemency and greate goodnes of God towarde vs, nor cannot perswade our selues that our prayer is heard, but doubt and wauer peraduenture of the diuine promises, than after ỳ exãple of the Apostles let vs praye,

Luke.vii. Lord encrease our fayth. Yea let vs vỏ teares cry out and say vỏ the father of a certayne chylde: I beleue Lord, succoure & helpe myne incredulite and vnfaithfulnes. And ỳ mighty ruler, which is a mercyful and

Math.ix. Exo.xxxiiii. gentle God, pacient, long sufferyng & true, which kepeth mercy, which taketh away iniquitie, wickednes and sin, wil surely haue mercy on vs

Esdr.ii. and encrease fayth in vs. For the power of the Lord shalbe with them which seke him with al their affect, hart and mynde.

¶ The.xvii. Chapter.

We muste aske al thigs in the name of Chryst. Fyrstly whan we aske any thyng of God, we maye not aske it in our own name, in our own dignite and worthynes, in our own iustice & righteousnes, in our own good dedes & merites, in our owne

innocency

innocency and purenes, but in the name of Chryst. What is it to aske in the name of Chryst, but onely to confesse that for our owne dignite and worthynes, we are not worthy to be heard, and therfore desiring to obtayne mercy, grace, fauoure, and remission of our synnes, we approche vnto the throne of God with oure faythfull prayers, not in oure owne name, but in the name of Chryst, that is to say, in Chrystes dignite, worthynes, iustice, righteousnes, innocency, purenes, good dedes and merytes. And for hys sake and for hys goodnes do we desire to be heard, and to haue our peticions graunted. This is a great comforte for them that shal pray, that though they be imperfect, yet is Chryst perfect, and his perfection is their perfection, though they be vnrighteous, yet is Chryst ryghteous, and his righteousnes is their righteousnes, though they be vnholy, yet is Chryste holy, and hys holynes is their holines, though they be voide of perfect good workes, yet hath Chryst perfecte good workes, and his good workes are their good works, if they leue their vngodlynes, turne from their wicked wayes, and studye to lyue innocently, and therfore nede they not feare for to praye, but boldlye to aske al things in the name of Chryst. Our righteous aduocate, saith S. Gregory, shal defende vs ryghteous in the iudgemente, because we do both knowledge and accuse our selues vnrighteousse. Therefore not in our owne wepinges, not in our owne actes, but in the allegacion of oure aduocate let vs trust. Hereto pertayneth the saying of S. Austen. The prayer which is not made by Chryst, doeth not onely not put away synne but also the prayer it selfe is made very syn. Chryste sayeth, whatsoeuer ye shal aske in my name, that wyl I do, that the father may be glorifyed by the son. If ye aske any thyng in my name, that shal I do. Agayne if ye abide in me, and my wordes abide in you, aske whatsoeuer ye wil, and it shalbe done to you. In another place also he sayeth: Verely verely I say to you, whatsoeuer ye shal aske the father in my name, he shall geue it you. Hitherto ye haue asked nothing in my name. Aske and ye shal receaue, that your ioy may be perfect. Thus see we that in Christs name we must aske al things. For there is none other name geuen vnto men vnder heauen, wherin we must bee saued, but onely thys name of Iesus Chryst. Euery one that calleth on thys name shalbe saued. For the name of the Lord is a strong tower and valeaunt Bulwarke, vnto that doeth the righteous, that is, the faythful man flye. Blessed is that man, which trusteth in the name of the Lord, and hath no respect vnto vanities and false made fantasies. Moreouer Dauid, although God praiseth him greatly, and sayeth, that he hath fonde Dauid his seruaunt euen after hys owne hart, yet did not he, when he prayed, desier to be heard for hys owne name, and for hys owne righteousnes and vertue, but he prayed on this maner, Lord heare my prayer, heare my requeste for thy truethes sake, yea fauourably heare me for thy ryghteousnes. Again: In the O Lord haue I trusted, let me neuer be cõfounded, but deliuer me in thy righteousnes. My strẽgth & my refuge art ỹ, and for thy what it is to aske in the name of Chryst.

A comfortable saying for synners.

In Eze. Lib. i Hom. viii.

In. psa. cviii.

Iohn. xiiii.

Iohn. xvi.

Actes. iiii.

Ioel. ii. Pro. xviii. Psal. xxxix.

Dauid.

Psal. xlii.

Psal. xxxi.

names

Pſal. xxiii. names ſake ſhalt thou leade me forth & norriſhe me. For thy names ſake Lord ſhalt thou be merciful to my ſin, for it is much. O God for thy names ſake ſaue thou me, and in thy vertue deliuer me. Helpe vs O God our Sauioure, and for the glory of thy name O lord deliuer vs, and be merciful to our ſinnes for thy names ſake. Beholde he deſireth not the fauoure of God for hys owu ſake, for hys owne name, ryghteouſneſſe, trueth and vertue but for Gods name, for Gods ryghteouſnes, trueth and vertue. Now who is the righteouſnes of God, but Jeſus Chryſt the ſon of God, which alone is founde righteous among me? As paul witneſſeth, He is made of God our wiſedome, righteouſnes, ſanctification and redemcion, that as it is wrytten, he that reioiceth, may reioice in the Lord, who is the trueth of God, but he which ſayeth of himſelfe I am the way, the trueth and the lyfe. No man commeth to the father but by me? who is the vertue of God, but he that hath done no ſynne, nor in whoſe mouth any gile was founde, which is Chryſt? S. Auſten wryteth of Chryſt on this maner, I am, ſayeth he, the way, trueth and lyfe. No man commeth to the father but by me. As thoughe he ſhoulde ſay, wilt thou walke? I am the way. Wilt thou not be deceaued? I am the trueth. wilt thou not dy? I am the lyfe. This doeth thy Sauioure ſay to thee, there is none other, to whom thou mayeſt go, but vnto me. There is no way that thou canſt go, but by me. S. Ambroſe alſo ſayeth: Chryſt is our mouth, by the which we ſpeake to the father: our eie, by the which we ſee the father: our ryght hande, by the which we offer to the father: which Chryſt except he be oure interceſſoure, neyther we, nor all the Saintes can haue any thyng to do wyth God.

Pſal. lxii. Pſal. lxxviii. The righteouſnes of God in Chryſt. i. Cor. i. Ieremy. ix. The trueth of God. John. xiiii. The vertue of God. i. Pete. ii. Trac. xxii. in Io. cap. v. Lid. de Iſaac et anima.

So that for Chriſtes ſake and not for his owu did Dauid, although both godly and vertuous, yea and dearly beloued of God, deſyer to be heard, and to haue the Petitions of hys hart graunted. But it may be obiected. Dauid alſo prayeth on this maner. Heare O Lorde my righteouſnes, and geue attendaunce vnto my prayer. Let thy iudgements come forth from thy face, let thine eies ſee equite. Thou haſt proued my harte and viſited it in the nighte, thou haſt tryed me wyth fyer, and yet hath there none iniquite be founde in me. Agayne, I wyl be wythout ſpot with him, I wil kepe me from iniquite, and the Lord ſhal reward me accordyng to my ryghteouſnes, and accordyng to the purite of my handes in the ſyghte of hys eyes. Alſo in another place, Judge me O Lord, for I haue walked in my innocency. In theſe and ſuch like Dauid layeth out hys owu innocency, purite and ryghteouſneſſe, & ſeemeth to deſire to be heard for them. I anſwere if Dauid deſired to be heard for his owu ryghteouſnes, than ſhould he fyghte wyth hymſelfe, where in many and diuers places he confeſſeth hys ſyn and cleaueth onely to the mercy of God, deſireth to be heard for the ryghteouſnes, trueth and vertue of God, and not for hys owu ſake. Enter not into iudgement, O Lorde, ſayeth he, with thy ſeruaunt, for no man ſ liueth ſhalbe iuſtified in thy ſyght. How than could he ſet out his owu ryghteouſneſſe before Pſal. xvi. An obiectiō for Dauids ryghteouſnes wyth an anſwere to the ſame. Pſal. vii. Pſal. xxv. Pſal. cxiii.

God,

God, that he might be iustified by it: What shal we then say to this matter? I answere, yea and that not without the authorite of the holye Scriptures and the minde of the auncient Doctors, that as in diuers other places of the Psalmes, so in these and such like he speaketh in the person of Christ, and not in hys own. He speaketh of Christes innocency, purite, righteousnes and vertue, and not of hys owne. He representeth Christes person, and not hys own. When he speaketh in his own person he graunteth himselfe alwayes a synner, seketh health of God, and desireth not to be heard for hys own ryghteousnes, but for Gods ryghteousnes, which is Iesus Christ. So that in Christes name he offered by hys prayers vnto God the father, as all the faythful ought to do. For Christ is that lãbe wythout spot. Christ is that lambe of god, which taketh away the sin of the world. Christ is that dearely beloued son, for whose sake God the father is wel pleased with man. Christ is ỹ Bishop, which is godly, innocent, vndefyled and segregate frõ synners Christ is the dore, by whom alone we must come to the father. Christ is that Sauioure which saueth hys people from their synnes. Christe is he by whom grace and verite is shewed vnto vs. Christ is he, which by his most precious bloud hath reconciled vs to God the father Christ therfore is he, in whose name that is, in whose dignitie, righteousnesse, innocency, vertue and puritie, we must offer vp our praiers to God the father. For all our ryghteousnesses compared to the iustice of God, are lyke a cloth polluted with menstrue. That we are not able to obtayne any thyng of God for our own righteousnes, it is manifeste by these wordes which God himselfe speaketh by his Prophete Esay, I am, I am he, which putteth away thine iniquities, yea & that for myne owne sake. (Marke ỹ he sayeth, for myne owne sake.) And wil remember thy synnes no more. Put me in remembraunce, and let vs be iudged together. Tel me if thou hast any thyng wherby thou mayest be iustifyed. Again: For my names sake, wil I put away mine anger. For mine own sake, yea for mine own sake wyl I do this, that I may not be blasphemed and euil spoken of. In the name of Christ therfore let hym aske, that entendeth to obtayne any thyng of God the father, as S. Paule sayeth, whatsoeuer ye shal do in worde or dede, doe all thynges in the name of the Lorde Iesus, geuinge thankes to God the father by hym. And so doing, let him not doubt, but that he shal obtayn al good things according vnto his hartes desyre.

Note thys solucion.

Exo. xii.
Iohn. i.
Math. iii.
Heb. vii.
Iohn. x.
Math. i.
Iohn. i.
Colloſ. i.
Eſai. lxiiii.
Eſai. lxiii.
Eſai. xlviii.
Colloſ. iii.

¶ The. xviii. Chapter.

Surely, he that entẽdeth to pray, must earnestly prouide that he aske thal thynges according vnto the wyl of God. He may not aske after his own fantasy, wyl and pleasure, but after the wil of God. For our wil in comparyson of Gods wil, is neuer good, but euil or prone to euil. For we know not what we should pray, as it berõmeth vs. Therfore whatsoeuer we aske, we must refer it vn-

All thynge must be asked according vnto the wil of God. Rom. viii.

to the wil of God, & be contented to be ordered in al things accordinge vnto his most holy wil, as Christ taught vs to pray in the. Pater noster Let thy will be fulfilled as in heauen, so likewise in earth. Christe also himselfe for to geue vs an example, when ỳ houre of his passion began to draw nigh, prayed vnto his father on thys maner: My father, if it be possible, let this cup go away frō me: Not withstāding let not mine but thy wyll be fulfilled. The Leper also sayd to Christ, Lorde if thou wilt, thou mayest make me whole. Here ỳ Leper desired to be clensed of his Leprosy, yet he referred his requestes vnto Christ, either to bee graunted or denied. So it becōmeth vs in lyke maner to aske al things accordyng vnto ỳ wil of God, & whatsoeuer we desier, euer to submyt and refer it vnto Gods wyl, which knoweth best, what we haue nede of, and what is most necessary for vs, before we pray. For we haue not a greater war nor an harder fight in thys world, than the battaile and stryke of the spirite, and of the flesh, which two are al wayes so at debate, ỳ the hatred betwene thē cā neuer be apeased. For as the flesh lusteth agaynst the spirite so doeth the spirite fyghte very valeauntlye agaynst the wycked, fierce and cruell violence of the flesh, and are euermore, as the Apostle wytnesseth, one agaynst another, so ỳ we cannot do those things ỳ we would, in somuch ỳ we are compelled to try out wyth the Apostle: O wretched and vnhappy that I am, who shal deliuer me from thys body bonde vnto death? How euil it is to folowe our own wyll, negiectyng in ỳ meane season the good pleasure of God, diuers Hystories of the holy scriptures shew. King Saul thought that he had done wel, when he perceiuing the people to go away from hym, offered burnte offrynges to the Lord in the absence of Samuel, saying that he did it to pacifye the Lorde, and that he was cōpelled to doe so. But Samuel sayd vnto hym, thou hast done folyshly, neither hast thou kept the commaundementes of the Lord thy God which I commaunded thee. Again God cōmaunded Saul to slay Amelech, to destroy al that euer there was, not to spare one, not to couite any thynge of theyr goods, but to kyl man, woman, chylde, sucking babe, ore, shepe, camell, asse and whatsoeuer could ther be founde besides. But Saul folowig hys own wyl more then ỳ wyl of God, spared Agag the kyng of Amelech alyue wt the best flockes of shepe, orē. catel, & al ỳ euer was faire he spared, & would not destroy thē, but what soeuer was vile & of no price, ỳ he destroyed. Whā Samuel came vnto hym & sayed, what voyces of beasts do I heare here? He answered ỳ peple haue brought thē frō Amelech. They be ỳ best & fattest of al ỳ flocks, & thei be reserued to be offred vnto ỳ Lord: But Samuel sayed vnto hi Because ỳ hast cast away the word of ỳ lord, ỳ lord hath cast away thee ỳ thou be no more kyng. Will the Lord burnt offrynges & sacrifyces and not rather ỳ it may be obeied vnto hys worde? Obedience is better then Sacrifyces, & to geue eare to ỳ Lordes cōmaundemēt is more thē to offer ỳ fat of wethers. What goodly excuses had kig Saul here to couer his faulte, and to make hys wil

Math. vi.

Math. xxvi.

Math. viii.

☞

Math. vi.

The spirite and the flesh can neuer agree.

Gala. v.

Rom. vii.

How euil it is to folowe our own wyls and good ententes.

i. Reg. xiii.

i. Reg. xv.

will vnto carnall iudgementes to appeare very vertuous and godly? For all that euer he did, was done to honor God, to sacrifice and offer oblacions to God. Yet God casteth away that will, which is contrary to his will, seme it neuer so godly, vertuous and good in the syghte of fleshly wyse men. Yea cursed be all good wyls, all good zeles, all good intentes that fight with the worde of God. Oza also thought he had doe well when he seeyng the arke of God in iopardy of fallyng oute of the wayne, steyed it with his hande, yet for all hys good wyll, because he touched it, was he stryken of the Lord, and streyght way dyed. Lykewise Ozias in lyke maner of a good intente would haue taken vpon him to burne incense vnto the Lord, but Azarias the Priest said boldely vnto hym, it is not thyne office Ozias to burne incense vnto the Lorde, but it pertayneth to Priestes the sonnes of Aaron, whiche are consecrated to such ministrey and seruice. He commaunded hym also to go out of ỹ sanctuary, and told hym that that which he had done, shuld not turne vnto his prayse of the Lord God. And immediatly after for hys disobedyente presumption, he was stryken wyth leprosy, and so beeyng caste out of the house of the Lord, he continued a Leper euē vnto his death. The Iewes did put Chryst and hys Apostles to death of a good zele, wyl, intente and purpose. The tyraunites which dyd slay the holy martyres thought they dyd well. The bloud soupers also, whiche at thys tyme persecute Chrystes gospell vnder the name of Heresy, and cruelly slay and shed the bloud of the true Chrystians vnder the preterte of persecutyng Heretikes, perswade themselues that they do well, and thinke they meryte greatly in the syght of God, as Chryste sayeth. The tyme shal come that they which kyll you, shall thynke that they do an hygh seruice vnto God. Whyle we folow we our owne wyll doe commit many absurdities and vnsitting thynges. Therefore whatsoeuer we doe, we muste haue a respecte to the wyll of God, and make ours conformable vnto it, lest we hepe vp damnacion vnto our selues in all oure peticions prayers and requestes. We must aske accordyng to the wyl of God. He that doeth other wyse, doeth euill, and therefore he obtayneth not that which he desyreth, as S. Iames saieth: Ye aske, and haue not, because ye aske amysse, for to consume it vpon your volupteousnes. If he doeth obtayne it, vndoubtedly it is to hys greater damnacyon. Therfore let vs aske accordyng to the wyll of God. So may we be sure to haue our hartes desyre, as S. John sayeth. Thys is the truste we haue in God, that if we aske any thyng accordyng vnto hys wyl, he heareth vs. And if we know that he heareth vs, what soeuer we aske, we know we that we shall haue the petityons that we desyre of him. And that we may do it fruitefully, let vs pray wyth the Psalmograph, Teach me O lord, to do thy wil, for thou art my God. So shal God worke his good pleasure in vs.

God casteth away that wil which is contrarye to his wil, seme it neuer so good and godly. ii. Reg. vi. ii. Pa. xxvi.

Good intēts not groūded on gods worde, are the authors of all euill.

Iohn. xvi.

Iacob. iiii.

i. Iohn. v.

Psal. cxiii.

¶ The xiii. Chapter.

We may appointe God no time.

MOreouer although in our prayers we aske al thinges accordyng vnto the wil of God, yet may not we appointe God the tyme of obtaining these thinges. We must pray and aske, but our peticions we must refer and commit to God for to be graunted, whā it shal be his most godly pleasure. For he knoweth what is moste fit for vs better thā we do our selues, and he wil vndoubtedly graunte vs those thinges that we aske, or els much better, whan he seeth his time. Therfore let vs lift vp our eyes vnto him, which dwelleth in the heauens. And as ẏ eyes of seruauntes are euer on the hands of their maisters, & as ẏ eies of the handemayde are all wayes on the handes of her maistres, so let our eies be bent euer vnto the Lord, vntil he hath mercy vpon vs. Let vs aske, and paciently abide his diuine wil, and surely we shal not be deceiued of our desires. But if we shal appoint hym ẏ tyme and wil ẏ he be obedient to our wyl, rather then we to his, thā doe we tempt hym, & prouoke hys anger agaynst vs. Example haue we in the Hystory of Judith, where we read ẏ whan the Israelites had ben long oppressed of Holofernes & his army, and had cōtinued many houres in their prayers, cryng vnto ẏ Lord for helpe, and yet perceaued none at al at ẏ hand of God: They al consented that if God did not helpe them wtin. v. dayes, they woulde geue ouer both themselues and their citie vnto Holofernes & his people. But whā Judith that vertuous woma heard of it, she sayd: Why haue ye consented to geue ouer ẏ citie vnto ẏ Assirians, if helpe cōmeth not vnto you frō the Lorde wtin fyue dayes? What are you ẏ thus tempt the Lord. This is not a saying for to prouoke mercy, but rather to stirre vp yre, and to kyndle furor. Haue ye appointed the tyme of the Lordes merey? and haue ye appointed hym a day at your pleasure? But seing the Lord is patient, let vs repent, and be sory for this thyng, & let vs desire his fauour with weping teares. Thus see we that it is no smale offence, be our peticions neuer so righteous, for to appoint God the tyme. For that appoyntment of tyme declareth vs to be vnfaythful. It sheweth that we haue no ryght perswasion of God. It is a manifest argument, ẏ we depende and hange vpon gods goodnes and mercy only for our carnal profyt and auaūtage. It maketh euident, ẏ we do no longer regarde God, than he satisfieth and fulfilleth our lustes, pleasures, and desires. Therfore let vs do, that we are commaunded, that is, humbly offer vp our prayers to God, with submission of mynde, powre out oure hartes before hym, & with vnfayned teares lament our cause vnto hym, nothyng doubtyng, but ẏ according to his most godly promyse he wyll heare vs, graunt vs those or els better thynges, when it shalbe hys pleasure. And if God semeth to withdraw his helpe frō vs at any tyme and not streyght wayes to graunte vs our requestes, let vs not dispair, nor fal frō the true confidence, trust & hope in the most comfortable promises of God therfore, but rather be the more earnest and importune in asking, being perswaded that God only differreth and prolongeth the accomplishment of his most fatherly promise, promise, because he wil try our faith, whither it be ryght, constant, and stedfest or not. Dearely beloued, sayeth S. John Chrysostome, whan I say, pray vnto God, beseche hym, and wayt vpon hym, thou sayest: I haue prayed once, twyse, and thryse, yea and .x. tymes and xx. times and what haue I receiued, saiest ỹ? Go not thy way, til thou receauest for the ende of the thynge asked, is the receiuing of hym that prayeth. Than cease thou, whan thou hast receaued yea rather neyther cease, thou than, but styll perseuer and continue, geuing thanks for ỹ which thou hast receiued, ỹ which thou hast taken, may continually remayne with thee. Let vs folow the woman of Canane, which, as it woulde appeare, being denied of her peticions diuers tymes, at ỹ lest receiuig but smale comfort at Chrystes hande, would not cease, but stil continued in makyng suite and supplicacion for the health of her doughter, til at the last she heard this swete and comfortable voice, O womã great is thy fayth. Be it vnto thee, as thou wylte.

Psal. cxxii.

Iu. vii. viii.

What is to be done, if God graunteth not vs oure desyres straightwaies.

Math. xv.

The woman of Canane is to be folowed.

¶ The .xx. Chapter.

The last of al, which is to be considered in the preparacio of prayer, is so necessary, that wythout it, all the other are but vain, and nothyng to the purpose. And it is thys, that whansoeuer we entende to pray, we do first forgeue such as haue offẽded vs, or els by no meanes can we obtayne remissiõ of our synnes and fauoure at ỹ hand of God. Therfore we do on this maner pray in ỹ Pater noster: Forgeue vs our dettes, euẽ as we forgeue our detters. And chryst saith, forgeue and it shalbe forgeuen you. Yea he geueth vs a playne commaundement that we should forgeue so many as haue offended vs, beefore we pray, or els our prayer worketh vs rather damnacion than saluacion. Whan ye prepare your selues to pray, sayeth Chryst, forgeue if ye haue any thyng agaynst any man that your father, which is in heauen, may forgeue you also your trespasses. Agayne he sayeth: if ye forgeue men their faultes, your heauenly father wil also forgeue you. But if ye doue not forgeue mẽ their faultes, neither wyl your father forgeue you your faultes. We reade ỹ Peter came vnto Chryst, and sayd, Lord how ofte shal my brother syn agaynst me, and I shal forgeue hym? Untyll seuen tymes? Chryst answered, I say not vnto the, vntil .vii. times but vntyl seuenty tymes seuen tymes. And in Luke he saieth: Take hede to your selues. If thy brother synneth agaynst thee, rebuke hym, and if he repẽt forgeue hym. And if he synneth seuen tymes in a day agaynst thee, and shal seuen tymes in a day turne agayne vnto thee, saying: It repẽteth me, forgeue hym. And in Mathewe to make the matter more playne, that we shal not be forgeuen of God, except we forgeue them ỹ offende vs, he putteth forth a similitude or parable of a certayne kyng, whiche when he called his seruauntes to a countes, had one broughte to him, which ought hym .x. thousãde talẽtes. Whã he was not able to pay, his Lord commaunded hym to be solde & hys wife, & his children, & al that Mathe. vi.

Marke. xi.

Math. vi.

Math. xviii.

We muste forgeue if we wyl be forgeuen.

So oft as our neighbour offende so oft muste we forgeue hym.

Luke. xvii. Math. xviii.

euer he had, and paiment to be made. The seruaunt fel downe, & worshipped him, saying: Lord be patient toward me, & I wil pay thee altogether. The Lord had pitie on that seruaunt, losoned him, and forgaue hym al that he ought. But that seruaunt going forth founde one of his felowe seruauntes, whiche ought hym an hundred pence, and layinge hand on him, and takyng hym by the throte he sayd, pay ẏ thou owest. His felow seruaunt fel down, and desired him, saying: Be paciente towarde me, and I wyl pay the altogether. He would not, but went his way, and cast him into prison, vntil he should pay the det. When his felow seruauntes saw that which was done, they lamented very sore, & came, & opened vnto their Lord al those things that were done. Than did their Lord cal hym, & sayd vnto hym, Thou vngracyous seruaunt I forgaue thee al that det, when thou desiredst me, had it not ben conuenient also, that thou shuldest haue had pitie on thy felow seruaunte? And hys Lord beyng angry, cõmitted hym to the Jaloures, vntyll he should pay al that was due vnto hi. Christ cõcludeth: So likewise shall my heauenly father do vnto you, if euery one of you euen from the very hart doeth not forgeue hys brother their offences. Herof doeth it appere more clerely thẽ the light, that excepte we forgeue, we shall neuer be forgeuẽ, neyther can any thyng please God that we do, if it be done out of charitie. For the word of God abydeth fyrme, sure, and cõstante for euer more And this saying of Christ cannot be mocked away by any meanes, nor made frustrate, So likewise shal my heauenly father do vnto you, if euery one of yov euen from the very hart doeth not forgeue hys brother their offences. What S. Paule writeth of those workes, which are done out of charitie in the first Epistle to the Corinthians ẏ xiii. Chapter, it is not vnknowẽ to thẽ that reade the holy Scriptures. God loueth no vncharitable, malicious, wycked, enuious, and bloudy prayers. Euery one ẏ hateth hys brother, is a manslayer. And ye know sayeth S. John, that euery manslayer, hath not euerlastynge lyfe abyding in him. Agayn If any man sayeth, I loue God, & hateth hys brother, he is a lyer. For he that loueth not hys brother, whõ he hath sene, God, whom he hath not sene, how can he loue? And thys commaundement haue we of hym, that he, whych loueth God, do also loue his brother. But let vs heare what our golden mouthed Doctor saieth to this matter.

Prayers doe out of charite please not God.

i. Cor. xiii.

i. Iohn. iii.

i. Iohn, iiii.

¶ The xvi. Chapter.

Homi. lxxxix Deoratione.

If that we be commaunded not onely to pray for the faythful but also for ẏ vnfaythful, consider ẏ how great an euill it is to desier euill agaynst the brothers. What doest thou O man? Commest thou to god for to make him mercyful vnto thee, and doest thou wysh euill to another? Except ẏ doest forgeue, neither shal it be forgeuẽ thee. Thou doest not only not forgeue, but thou also desirest god ẏ he wil not forgeue? If it shal not be forgeuẽ thee, which doest not forgeue, doest thou not alonly not forgeue, but also desirest god not to forgeue? If it be not forgeuẽ him,

him, that doth not forgeue, how shall it thē be forgeuē hym, which praieth ꝑ Lord, that he may not forgeue? If it be a shame to haue enemies, consider thou then, how great a sinne it is to desyre euell to them, whā thou oughtest to pourge thy self. Because thou hast enemyes, dost thou also accuse them? what forgeuenes shalt thou obtayne, detracting and reportyng euyll of thy neyghbour, chefly at such tyme, when thou hast nede of no meane mercye. For thou camest āls to pray for thyne owne synnes. Remember not therfore other mennes fautes leste thyne owne be reserued. Thou art a man, vomyte not oute the poyson of adders. Thou art a man, play not the cruell wylde beast. Thou hast a mouthe made vnto the for this cause, not that thou shouldest bite, but that thou shouldest heale. Remember what God manifestly hath monyshed thee to do, euē that thou shouldest spare & forgeue. Againe in another place he sayth As concernyng that which is wrytte: Forgeue vs our detters, as we forgeue our detters, who is he amōg vs al, that dare boldly saie these thynges to God? For although we do no euill to our enemis and detters yet haue we within vs a wound of offence, that is incurable, & can not be made whole. But Chryst will not only that we forgeue thē that offend vs, but also that we loue them and prai for them. For if only thou dost not hurt hym, which hath hurt the, and yet turnest awaye thy self from hym, and wouldest not gladly se him, without doubt ther abydeth a wound in thy brest, and sorow encreaseth styl in thy hearte. If it be so, certes that is not fulfilled, which Chryst hath cōmaunded. wylt thou that God be mercyful vnto thee on such sort, that he shulde not hurt thee, and yet turne himselfe awaye from the, and remēber thy synnes, and haue no mynd to see thee? Therfore euen such one as thou wouldest that God shuld be vnto thee, whē thou desyrest forgeuenes of thy sinnes, such one oughtest thou to shew thy self vnto them, whyche haue offended against the. As a certain wise man writeth, saying, He ꝑ seaketh vengeaunce, shall fynd vēgeaunce of the Lord, which shal surely kepe him his sinnes. Forgeue thy neighbour the hurt ꝑ he hath done the, & so shall thy synnes be forgeuen the also when thou prayest. A man that beareth hatred against another, how dare he desyre forgeuenes of God? He that sheweth no mercy to a man which is lyke hymselfe, how dare he aske forgeuenes of his sins? If he ꝑ is but flesh, beareth hatred, & kepe it, who shall intreat for hys synnes? Seing therfore that excepte we do forgeue our detters, our dettes shal not be forgeuen of God, and in asmuch as we shall find God such one to vs, as we ar to our neyghbours, let vs follow Chryst & Steuen, whyche prayed to God for theyr enemies in the middes of theyr tormentes, that they myghte be forgyuen. For let vs know this to be true and nothing more true, that as a Surgiō can not heale perfectly the wound, so long as any yron is in it, so lykewyse can not prayer profit so long as the mynd is cankered, and defiled with gyle, fraude, deceyt, simulacion, rancoure, hatred, malyce emnite, and such other wickednesses. Ther is nothing, sayth Chrisostō that

Note well.

Why God hath geuen vs a mouth. De compūc. cordis. li. i.

We oughte to be ꝑ same to other that we woulde God shulde be to vs. Eccle. xxviii.

Mat. xxvi. Actum. vii.

Marke this similitude.

In math. cā. vi.

that maketh vs more lyke vnto God thē if we be gentil and eafy to be intreated of them that be euel, and do hurt vs. God is readi to forgeue at al tymes, yf we forgeue. God maketh hys fonne to fhyne both vpon the good and euel, and fendeth rayne vpon the righteous and vnrighteous. Let vs therfore after the example of our heauēly father, loue not only our frendes but alfo our enemies, yea and that from the botom of the heart. Let vs forgeue fo many as offend vs, and fhew our felues of fuch affeccion toward them that offend vs, as we defyre that Chryfte fhuld be toward vs. Let vs be fo feruently geuen vnto the preferuacyon of fraternall concorde aud mutuall charitie, that if thorow humain infirmitie it chaunfeth at any tyme that contencion rifeth vp amonge vs, we maye notwithftandyng fo fhortely put it away by reconcylyng oure felues one to another, that all difpleafure taken awaye, the fonne maye not fall downe vpon our anger. Let vs euer fet before our eyes this fayying of S. Paule: As the elect of God, holy and beloued, put on tender mercy, kyndenes, humblenes of mynd meknes, long fufferyng, forbearyng one another, and forgeuyng one another (yf any man haue a quarell to another) as Chriſte forgaue you, fo doe ye. But aboue all thynges put on loue, which is the bond of perfeccion. And the peace of God mought rule in your heartes, vnto the which peace ye are called in one body, and fe that ye be thanckefull. If we wyll doe thus whatfoeuer we praye, we maye be fure to praye with frute, we may be fure to obtayne what fo euer we afke of God the father thorow Jefus Chriſt, we may be fure to haue forgeuenes of all our fynnes, and euer to haue God the father a bounteous and gentyl father vnto vs. Hytherto haue I declared, what prayer is, of what vertu and ſtrengthe the true and chriſtē prayer is, and how we ought to prepare oure felues for to pray. Now it remayneth that I declare in what place a chriſten man fhuld praye, and after what maner. Agayne for what thynges, and at what tyme he ought to praye.

Matth. v.

Folowthese admonicions. Godly counceis to continew in loue and charitie.

Ephe. iiii.

Col. iii.

¶ In what place a Chryſten ſhoulde praye.

¶ The .xrii. Chapter.

Although God in the olde law was called vpō, and prayed vnto of the Jewes in the Temple of Jeruſalem, which Salomon bulded, and although God had choſē that place, wherin chefely they ſhould call vpon his name, offer Sacrifice vnto him, read and learn his moſt holy law, and do ſuch thinges as he had appoynted them in his worde, yet both at that tyme, yea and alſo many yeres before, we reade that dyuers holy men praied in other places beſides that Tēple, as wer hard. Nether did God ſo inſtitute that tēple to be a houſe of praier, as though it ſhould only be

them

there lawful to cal on his diuine name, but that by ỹ meanes he shulde kepe the grosse Iewes in an order, which els would haue inuẽted new kyndes of worshiping God after their owne fãtasy, & resorted to suche places, where Idolles were worshipped, & by this means be prouoked vnto Idolatry, where vnto they were very much bent, as we maye se in the holy Scriptures. Therfore God appointed thẽ to pray in ỹ temple of Salomõ, not takyng away yet for all that the libertie of praying in euery place frõ the faithfull. For we read that Enos the son of Seth by d fyrste begin to cal on the name of the Lord, before any Tẽple was builded. And it is to be thought, that Abel also praied vnto God, when he offered sacrifice. Enoch, Nohe, Thare, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph with many other of the aunciẽt Patriarkes worshypped & praied vnto God, one in this, another in ỹ place before any one peculiar house was appointed & dedicated vnto praier, yea & God heard those prayers, accepted them, & graunted the peticions asked in thẽ. What other thing do the ensãples of all these holy men teach vs, then that it is lawful for a faithful man to pray without any differencye in euery place? Did not the childzen of Israel pray to God, when they were oppressed with miserable captiuitie in Egipt a land full of Idolatry, supersticiõ, & al kind of wickednes? Did not Moses and Aaron many tymes pray vnto the Lorde in wylderues? Did not Josue praye vnto God in hys warres, when he made the Sonne and Moone to stand still, vntill he had reuenged himself of his enemies? Did not Helias praye in the house of the widow of Sarepta, when he restored her son from death to life? Did not he agayn pray in the top of the mount Carmelus, and obtayned after long drout plentie of rain? Did not Ezechias the kyng, whan he heard that he shuld die, praie to the Lord in his bed, and obtained to liue.xv. yeares longer? Did not Nehemias butlar vnto king Artarexes both do seruice vnto hys Lord, & also pray vnto God? Did not Toby & Sara his wyfe pray vnto God in theyr houses? Did not Job pray vpõ the dũghyl? Did not Judith pray vnto the Lorde in her Oratory, and dyuers other places? Did not Daniel, when he serued the wicked kyng, knele downe and pray vnto the Lord thrise euery day in his chãber? Did not he pray to God, when he was cast into the den of Lions? Did not Jonas pray in ỹ whales belly? Did not Quene Hester praye secretly in her chamber? Did not Sulanna praye in the streate, as she wente for to be stoned vnto deathe? Did not Jeremy praye vnto God, when he was in preson? Did not Christ customably pray on the mountaynes in the feilde? Did he not pray in the gardyns? Did he not praye hangyng vpon the crosse? Did not Stephen pray to God, whẽ he was stoned vnto death? Did not the Apostles with certaine women, & Mary the mother of Jesu & his brothers pray togither after Christes ascenciõ in a parloure? Did not Cornelius the Centurion praye at home in his house? Did not Peter pray in the ouer parte of the house of Symõ the Tanner? Did not Paule with his companyons pray in diuers places, as

Why the trimple of Salomon was builded.

A Christen man maye lawfullye praie in euery place. Exod.ii.

Gene.iiii.

Iosue.x

iiii.Reg.xx.

Esa.xxxiii. Nehem.i. Toby.viii.

Iudi.xii. Dan.vi.

Dan.xiiii.

Ionas.ii. Hest.xiiii. Dan.xiii. Luke.vi. Mat.xxvi. Math.xxvii. Actum.vii. Actum.i.

Actum.x.

Actum.xx.

res, as Cities, Townes, Feldes, see bankes, shippes, prisons, &c: were not al these heard: yes verely, and theyr peticions graunted them mer-
A christē mā is bound to no place for to praye. Iohn. iiii. cifully. What do we lerne of all these Histories? Certes that a faythfull christian is bound to no place. Where soeuer a faythfull man prayeth, he shall vndoubtedly be heard. Christ sayd to the woman of Samaria: Woman beeleue me, the houre cometh when neither in thys mountayne, nor at Jerusalē ye shal worshyp the father. Ye worshyp ye know not what. We worshyp that we know. For health is of the Jues. But the houre cōmeth, and now it is whan true worshippers shall worshyp the father in spirite and truth. For the father also seketh such that make worshyp hym. For God is a spirite, and they that worshyp hym, must
i. Timo. ii. worshyp him in spirite and truth. Saynt Paule also sayth, I will that men praye in euery place, lyfting vp pure handes without wrath and contencion. But let vs heare what Chrisostome sayth.

¶ The .xviii. Chapter.

Homi. lxxxix De oratione. LEt vs not excuse our selues saying, that it is no easy thing for a man being entāgled with worldly businesses to praie, seing that he hath no Oratory nor house fytte for prayer nigh vnto hym. For wher soeuer thou be, thou mayst make and appoynt thyne altare. For the place hyndereth nothyng, neyther doth the tyme let, but though thou dooste not bow thy knees, nor knocke thy brest, nor stretche out thy handes to heauen, yet mayest thou pray aryght, and make thy prayer perfect, so thou only shewest & bringest forth a feruent mind. For thou maist whē thou goest vnto market, and walkest by thy self alone, make long prayers. Thou mayst also sitting in thy shop, and sowing skynnes, dedicate thy soule vnto the Lord. The seruaunt also that byeth, or goeth vp and downe, & the Cooke doyng hys office whā he can not go to Church, may make a prayer long and discrete. For God disdaineth not the place, but requireth one thing, that is to saye, a feruēt mynd and a pure soule. For Paule also, not in an Oratorye, but in the prison lying wyde open, not standyng ryght vp, nor bowyng his knees for the clog, wher with his feete were bounde, dyd not suffer hym, yet seyng that he lying, prayed feruently, he shaked the prison, vnlosened the foundacion, and dyd bring the keper of the prison, and after ward brought hym vnto holy religion. And Ezechias not standing ryght vp, nor bowyng hys knees, but lying wyde open in his bed because of his sykenes, when he turned hym self vnto the wall, in asmuch as he called vpon God feruently and with a pure soule, he bothe called agayn the sentence pronounced, obtayned much benenolence, & was restored to hys olde helth. And ye theefe beyng stretched out vpon the crosse, with fewe wordes purchased the heauenly kingdom. And Jeremy in the myre and lake, and Daniel in the prison and among the wild beastes, and Jonas in the belly of a whale, prayeing vnto God, did both dissolue al maner of euels, wher with they were beseged, copassed & set about, and also found fauour at ye hand of God.

what

what then oughteſt thou to ſaye, whan thou prayeſt? Verely euen the ſame thing that the woman of Canane did. For euen as ſhe ſayd, Haue mercy on me, my doughter is greuouſly vexed of a deuell. So ſay thou lykewyſe, haue mercye vpon me, my ſoule is very greuouſly vexed of a diuell. For ſynne is a great dyuell, ſhe that had the dyuel, did find mercy, and yet was ſhe hated when ſhe dyd ſyn. Haue mercy on me, is but a ſhort ſaying, yet doth it contayne an whole ſee of mercy. For wher ſoeuer mercy is, there are al good thinges. Though thou be without the Church, cry, ſaying, haue mercy on me though thou doſt not moue thy lippes, but only cry in thy mynd. For God alſo heareth them that holde theyr peace. Ther is no place to be ſought, but a begynnyng of a place. Jeremy was in the myre, and he made God bounteous vnto hym by prayer. Job was on the dunge hyll, and he made God mercyfull vnto hym. Jonas was in the whales belly and he had God gentyll to hym. Though thou be in a barne praye. Where ſo euer thou be, praye. Thou arte the Temple, ſeke no place. The ſee was before the Jewes, and the Egipcians behynd at theyr backes, and Moſes in the myddes ſpeking nothyng, for he was greatly troubled in his prayer, yet ſayd God vnto hym, what cryeſt thou to me? In lyke manner thou therfore, when ſo euer temptacion ſhall com vnto thee flye vnto God, & cal on the Lord. Is he a man, that thou ſhouldeſt ſeke after a place? God is euer at hād. For thou yet ſpeaking, he will ſaye: Beholde here I am preſent. Thou haſt not yet made thy prayer, and he bryngeth healpe. For yf thou haſt a mynd pure from vnclene motions, though thou be in the market, or in the waye, or in the conſiſtory, or in the ſee, or in the Inne, or in the ſhyp, or in any other place of the worlde, looke where ſo euer thou calleſt on God, there maiſt thou obtayne thy petition. Hytherto haue I rehearſed the wordes of S. John Chriſoſtom. Lyke vnto this wryteth Saynte Auſten, ſaying: Why doſt thou ſeke for a fyt and holy place, when thou ſhouldeſt make thy ſupplication to God? make cleane thy inwarde partes and al euell luſtes expulſed from thence, prepare thy ſelfe a ſecret place in the peace of thy hearte. Thou wylyng to pray in the Temple, pray in thy ſelfe, and ſo behaue thy ſelfe alwaye, that thou mayſt be the Temple of God. For God heareth there, where he dwelleth. Thus ſee we bothe by the authoritie of the holy ſcriptures, and the aunciente fathers, that a faythfull and chryſten man may praye lawefully in euery place, in aſmuche as he is the Temple of God, as S. Paule ſayth: Do ye not know that ye ar the Tēple of God, and the ſpirit of God dwelleth in you? The Temple of God is holy which you ar. And this is that Chryſt ſayeth, When thou ſhalt pray, enter into thy cloſet, and the doze ſpeared praye to thy father, whyche is in ſecret. Therefore let hym that ſhall praie, nothyng feare to pray vnto God in euery place boldly, with this perſwaſyon that God wyll heare hym, and graunt hym hys herts deſyre in what ſoeuer place he bee.

Wher mercyis, there is all good thynges.

De vera innocen. Cap ccxxiii.

The ſoule of a Chriſtē man, is the temple of God.

i. Cor. iii. vi. ii. Cor. vi.

Math. vi.

¶ The

¶ The.xxiiij. Chapter.

Slaunder not ye sicophantes.

I Haue not spoken these thynges to make any person for to haue the lesse deuocion to go vnto the Chyrche and accustomed place of prayer, when tyme requireth (which thing God forbyd that any man contrary to my meanyng should gather of these my wordes, or thereby be occasyoned the lesse to obserue and kepe the commendable order of this Realme now a dayes vsed among vs) but to shew that a faythful christē man may lawfully by Gods worde praye in euery place, with this perswasyon that God wyll also heare hym in euery place yea and that when soeuer he prayeth, so that hys prayer be made accordyng vnto the wyl of God, & as I haue taught heretofore. For we reade that Christ at dyuers tymes dyd so approue and allowe the temple of Jerusalem, that of the very same place he rehearsed this text of the holy scripture, My house shall be called the house of prayer. Agayn, he droue out with whippes suche as dyd by and sel in the Temple, declaryng therby, that it was a place of moreholines, and of greater pryce in the sight of God, then that any prophane businesses myght lawfullye be in it exercysed. He also many tymes preached in the Temple, and it is not to be doubted but that he also vsed there to praye. Agayne, we reade that the Apostles after Christes ascencion repared thyther oftentimes boothe to preache and praye. Places therfore dedicated to prayer ought not to be despysed nor abhorred, but vsed vnto the ende for the which they were instituted. Christ sayth, wher soeuer two or thre shalbe gathered together in my name, there am I in the myddes of them. Now in Chyrches it is to be thought that many are gathered to gyther in Christes name, therfore is Christe there among them. Seyng that he is so, euery man ought ioyefully to repare thyther, when they maye conuenientlye, but chefely when the time and publique order doth require, and there boldly faithfully to pray deuoutly to be present at the ministracion of the most blessed Sacrament of Christes body and bloud, and diligently to read or heare the word of God, and furthermore to do suche thynges, as the place and tyme shall then require. At all other tymes when so euer a christen man shall be disposed to praye, let hym praye boldely, and although he be not in the Church, yet let him nothyng doute, but that his praier shall there also be heard and graunted.

Hayne not spoken these thynges to make any person for to haue the lesse deuocion to go vnto the Chyrche and accustomed place of prayer, when tyme requireth (which thing God forbyd that any man contrary to my meanyng should gather of these my wordes, or thereby be occasyoned the lesse to obserue and kepe the commendable order of this Realme now a dayes vsed among vs) but to shew that a faythful christē man may lawfully by Gods worde praye in euery place, with this perswasyon that God wyll also heare hym in euery place yea and that when soeuer he prayeth, so that hys prayer be made accordyng vnto the wyl of God, & as I haue taught heretofore. For we reade that Christ at dyuers tymes dyd so approue and allowe the temple of Jerusalem, that of the very same place he rehearsed this text of the holy scripture, My house shall be called the house of prayer. Agayn, he droue out with whippes suche as dyd by and sel in the Temple, declaryng therby, that it was a place of moreholines, and of greater pryce in the sight of God, then that any prophane businesses myght lawfullye be in it exercysed. He also many tymes preached in the Temple, and it is not to be doubted but that he also vsed there to praye. Agayne, we reade that the Apostles after Christes ascencion repared thyther oftentimes boothe to preache and praye. Places therfore dedicated to prayer ought not to be despysed nor abhorred, but vsed vnto the ende for the which they were instituted. Christ sayth, wher soeuer two or thre shalbe gathered together in my name, there am I in the myddes of them. Now in Chyrches it is to be thought that many are gathered to gyther in Christes name, therfore is Christe there among them. Seyng that he is so, euery man ought ioyefully to repare thyther, when they maye conuenientlye, but chefely when the time and publique order doth require, and there boldly faithfully to pray deuoutly to be present at the ministracion of the most blessed Sacrament of Christes body and bloud, and diligently to read or heare the word of God, and furthermore to do suche thynges, as the place and tyme shall then require. At all other tymes when so euer a christen man shall be disposed to praye, let hym praye boldely, and although he be not in the Church, yet let him nothyng doute, but that his praier shall there also be heard and graunted.

The Author condemneth not praying in the church

Math. xxi. Mark. xi. Luke. xix. Iohn. ii. Esa. lvi. Iere. vii.

Christ dyd approue the Temple of Salomon.

Acter. iii.

Places dedicated to prayer ought not to be despysed.

Math. xviii.

¶ After what maner a christen man oughte to Praye.

¶ The.xxv. Chapter.

NOw it remayneth to declare after what manner a Christen man ought to pray. In the declaracion hereof it shal be necessary, that he which wil pray a right, doth fyrst consider what he is to whom he muste praye. Agayne, what he hym selfe is that that prayeth. It is no man nor Aungell, but God which is prayed vnto, whom the angelike potestates do reuerently feare, whō all ỹ whole company of heauen do magnifye, commende, prayse, worthip and honour, whom the diuels do feare, tremble and shake for dreade, in whose name euery knee bothe of thinges in heauen, of thinges in earthe, and of thinges vnder the earth do bowe, which is of puissaunt power in ho-lines, terrible, al praise worthy, and doing merueilous thinges which is a consuming fyre, which is a great Lord aboue all the Gods, which is the Lord of all thinges, and no man can resist his maiestie, which is great in strengthe, iudgement and righteousnes, whose eyes are open vpon all the waies of the sonnes of Adam, and in whose sight no creature is innocent. When he hath on this maner considered of God, ye must he ponder what him self is, euen a very miserable sinner, destitute of all goodnes, void of all godlynes, and vnworthye to approche vnto the throne of the diuine maiestie. For this humiliacion of our selues hel-peth greatly to the auauncement of our praier. For the more that any man detecteth and throweth downe himself, the nerer is he made vnto God. The Pharise was farre of from God, although he stode nerre vnto the Propiciatory, remembring his good dedes, and despysynge other men in comparison of hymselfe. The Publicane, whiche standyng a far of prayed, came nigher vnto God. For the Lord is high, ȝet doth he behold humble thinges, he knoweth high thinges afar of, he despyseth the hauty, and loketh on the praier of the humble, and the praier of them doth not he despyse. Wylt thou heare, how high a thing the prayer of a man, which humbleth himselfe, is? The wyse man teacheth this thing saying: The prayer of him that humbleth himself, shal pearse and go thorow the cloudes, and til it draweth nigh, it shal not be cōforted, and it shal not com downe vntil ỹ most highest doth loke vpon it. This humilitie do we reade to be much vsed among holy men, in times past.

Daniel prayed on this maner. Not in oure owne righteousnesses O Lord do we powre oute oure praiers before thee, but in thy great mer-cyes. Heare vs, O Lord, Lorde be merciful vnto vs. Heare vs, and doe these thynges that we aske, yea and that for thine owne sake. Also Baruch. The soule, sayth he, that is vexed for the multitude of her synnes.
which goeth on heuely and wekelye, whose eyes begin to faile, forelye suche a soule ascribeth prayse, glory and righteousnes vnto the O Lord:
Not for the righteousnes of our fathers do we powre out our prayers in thy sight ȝ aske mercy before thy face, O Lord our God, but because thou art mercifull. Haue therfore mercy on vs, for we haue sinned before thee. This consideracion once had both of God and of himself, wherby he hath learned God to be righteous, himselfe vnrighteous, God to be good, himself euil, God to be holy, himself prophane, God to be honorable, hym selfe miserable, God to be pure, hymselfe vnpure, God to be immaculate, himself spotted with al kind of synne, God to be high, and nothing more high, himself to be vile and nothing more vile: then must he

Who it is vnto whom we pray.
Iacob.ii.
Philip.ii.
Exod.xv.
Deut.iiii.
Hebru.xiii.
ii.Par.ii.
Hester.xiii.
Iob.xxxvii.
Iere.xxxii.
Exo.xxxiiii.
What he is that prayeth
The lowlier the nearer to God.
Luke.xviii.
Eccle.xxxv.
Dani.ix.
Baruc.ii.

before

Meanes to prouoke the merci of god toward hym that shall praye. An example.

before his prayer vse som meanes wherby he may excyte and fyre hy the benevolence and good wyll of God toward him, & so adourne and garnish himself with ghostly operatiō, that both he and his praier may be the more acceptable in the syght of God. For who dare com vnto a kinges or Emperoures presence for to desyre any thing of them, except fyrst of all he so composeth himself, that nothing may offend their eies? He putteth on clenly apparell, he kymbeth his head, he washeth his body, yea and also perchaunse annoynteth it, and so appointeth himself in euery condicion, that nothing may displease them, but rather allure them to the syght of hym, and the hearyng of his petition. Semblably it shalbe conuenient for him that wil pray vnto God with fruit, & hath truly with hym selfe considered the highnes of God, and ỹ humbleness of himself, to geue diligence that he on such sort cōposeth himself, ỹ there be nothing in him that may offend the eies of God but that his prayer may be fauourably accepted and gratiously heard. And that this thing may com to passe, it shalbe necessary that he follow the auncient and holy fathers in times past, which whē they offered their praiers vnto god vsed continually both to fast and geue almes. For as Thoby saith, praier is good with fasting & almes, better thē to hide vp treasures of gold. For almes doth deliuer from death, and it is that which purgeth sines.

Toby. xii. Prayer is good with fastyng and almes.

¶ The .xxvi. Chapter.

FYrste as concerning fastyng, we must knowe that it ought to procede from a contryte, humble, and sorowfull heart, and from such a soule as taketh displeasure with it self that she hathe ben no more circumspecte in the accomplishment of Gods wil, for the which she beyng sory and doloyous, casteth awaye the delectacion and pleasure of worldly thinges as eating, drinking, banckettyng, wearyng of gorgious apparel, with all other mundane and worldly vanities, & streightway with all humilite of mynd and submission of heart approcheth by sincere faith and true repentaunce vnto the most glorious throne of almyghtie God, and there lamenteth her miserable state, bewayleth her to much synfull condicion, powreth oute the secretes of her heart, desyreth remyssion of her synnes, hungreth and thirsteth for strength to do the wyll of God. This kynd of fastyng accompanyeng prayer doth very much eleuate, extoll and lyft vp the prayer of the humble synner vnto the presence of God. And this is it that Tobye sayth, prayer is good with fastyng. We reade that when Jonas at the commaundement of God came vnto the Niniuites, preached vnto them, rebuked their sinfull lyuing, threatned them subuersion, destruccion, and the vtter decay both of themselues and of their citie, they being vtterly dismayd with the consideracō of their iniquitie dyd streightwayes detest & abhorre so greatly their abhominable liuing, that they vtterly laid aside al their vaine pleasures, wherin so much before they delighted, & fel immediatly vnto fasting and praier with such other godly exercises of the spirite,

Toby, xii. Ionas. ii, iii.

Note and folowe.

so that so that by this meanes God beholdyng theyr true and vnfained cõuersion had pitie on them, saued them, and receiued them into the nomber of hys welbeloued people. Esdras also at diuers tymes dyd both fast & pray seuen daies togither, that he might vnderstand the high misteries of God. We haue fasted, sayeth he, and prayed vnto the Lorde for a fortunate and quiet iourney, and it hath chaunsed vnto vs prosperously. Agayne Dauid for the lyfe of hys chyld, which was sycke, did both faste and pray a long season, and would eate no meate nor drynke. I haue prayde sayth Daniel, to the Lord my God in fasting, sackcloth, and asshes. Judith also fasted and prayed the mooste part of her lyfe in the vppermost part of her house, & before she slew Holofernes, she many times fasted and prayed, Moreouer Quene Hester for the delyuerance of her people did fast and pray thre dayes and thre nightes, before she wẽt vnto the kyng. Sara the doughter of Raguel did fast and pray thre daies and thre nightes, that she myght be delyuered from a certaine vmprope ry and rebuke. Paule before he was baptysed dyd continue in prayer and fastyng at the Citie of Damascum thre dayes and thre nightes. Luke also in his gospel sheweth how that a certayne womã called Anna the doughter of Phanuel beyng a Prophetisse went for ẏ moste part neuer oute of the Temple, but gaue her mind to fasting and prayer both night and day. Again Christ saith, This kind of diuels is not cast oute but by prayer and fasting. And it is not to be douted, but ẏ Christ himself, when he fasted the forty daies and forty nightes, did also pray vnto god his father, as at many other times. The same also is to be thought of the Apostles and other holy men. Thus se we how necessary a thing it is to ioyne fasting with prayer, Therfore sayth Peter: Be ye sober, & watch in prayer. Also S. Paule, let vs walke honestly as in ẏ day, not in excesse of eating and dronckennes, not in chambryng and wantonnesse, not in stryfe and enuieng, but put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, & make not prouision for the flesh to fulfill the lustes of it. Hereto pertaineth the saing of our golden mouthed Doctor S. John Chrisostom Fastyng sayth he, is an helpe to prayer. For prayer without fasting, is but slender and weake. The prayer is valeaunt and strong, which is made in an humble spirit and a troubled heart, as the Prophet saieth, a Sacrifyce to God is a troubled spirite, a contrite and humble hearte God wyl not dispyse. But an humble spirit and cõtrite hart can he not haue, which eateth and drinketh, and setteth al hys mynd on delicious fare. For bread maketh strong the heart, and wine maketh it merye. The strength that commeth of bread suffreth not the spirite of the flesh to be humble, and the merines that cometh of wyne, doth not suffer the hart to be contrite. Therfore when soeuer the holy men woulde pray to obtayne any thing of God wherof they had nede, they euer ioyned fasting with prayer, as Daniel & other did. And in as much as fasting is ẏ vertue of prayer, therfore are they neuer seperated a sunder, but ar euer put togither. Prayer is good w fasting. Again, This kind of diuels is not iiii. Esd. v.

i. Esd. viii
ii. Reg. xii.
Dan. ix.
Iud. viii.
Hest. iiii.
Toby. iii.
Actum. ix.
Luke. ii.
Mark. ix.
Math. iiii.
i. Peter. iiii.
Rom. xiii.
Hom. xv. super illud. Math. vi. Cum ieiunatis.
Psal. li.
Tobi. xii.
Mar. ix.

caſt out but by praier and faſting Therfore as a Souldiour is nothing without armoures, nor armoures without a Souldiour, ſo is prayer nothyng without faſtyng, nor faſtyng without prayer. Hytherto haue I reherſed the wordes of S. John Chriſoſtom, wherof we may eaſely gather how neceſſary faſtyng is vnto the auaunceмēt of prayer before God. Hereto pertayneth the ſaying of ſaint Cyprian: Prayer is mighty in operacion, ſo that faſtyng goeth before. To be briefe concernyng this matter, faſtyng muſt nedes make hyghly to the auaunceement of prayer ſeeyng ẏ he which faſteth right, contemneth worldly thinges, deſpyſeth pleaſure, hateth ritches, abhorreth the workes of the fleſhe, mortifyeth carnall affectes, and is vtterly giuen, fyred and bente to the fruites of the ſpirite. Therfore he that entēdeth to pray with fruit, ſhall not a lytle auaunce and ſet forwarde his prayer, yf on this manner he applyeth hymſelfe for to praye.

Ser. de Ieſu et Tent Chriſti.

Note what it is to faſt a ryght.

¶ The .xxvii. Chapter.

Of almes.

MOreouer as this kynd of faſtyng doth very much ſet forth a chriſten mans prayer, and maketh it greatly to be accepted in the ſight of God, ſo doth almes and the glad diſtribucion of worldly goodes vnto the poore members of Chriſt in lyke manner garniſh, adourne, and make very pleaſaunt the humble ſupplycacion of a ſinner in the eies of the diuine maieſtye, as we read of Cornelius, to whom the aungel ſayd: Thy Praiers and thine almeſſes ar come vp into remembraunce before God. Beholde how he ioyneth prayer and almes together. Toby in like manner ſayth: Prayer is good with faſting & almes. Lo, here is combined and ioyned togither prayer, faſting, and almes, as thynges neceſſaryly concurrent. The wiſe man alſo ſayth, to prayer & geue almes, deſpiſe not. Bleſſed is he, ſayth Dauid, that conſidereth the nedy and poore, the Lord ſhall deliuer hym in the day of hys trouble. Chriſt alſo ſaythe: Geue ye almes, and behold al thinges ar clene vnto you. Hytherto pertaineth the ſaying of Chriſoſtom. It is written, ſaieth he, in the law. Enter not into the ſyght of the Lorde thy God voyde & empty. Verely he entreth in empty before God, which commyng vnto prayer, dooth no almes. Agayn he ſayeth, he prepareth his ſoule before prayer, which doing almes commeth vnto prayer. For as oyle doth kindle the light of a lampe, ſo doth good workes excite and ſtyre vp ẏ fayth of the hart, and geue boldnes to pray vnto God. But it wil perchaunce be obiected, euery one can not geue almes, for they want ſubſtaūce: ſhal not they therfore pray & be heard? I anſwer, as by faſting, I do not only vnderſtand the abſtinence frō meates and drinckes, but alſo ẏ mortificacyon of carnall affectes, & the contempt of mundane pleaſures, without the which the externall and outward faſtyng is nothing els then diabolical Hypocriſie and wycked diſſimulacion, ſo lykewyſe by almes I meane not only the beneficēce toward the indigent, poore and nedy, which without doubt is a ſinguler and muche prayſe worthy worke before

Actum. x.

Toby. xii.

Eccle. vii.
Pſalm. xl.

Luke. xii.
Homi. xv. in cap. vi. Math.

Marke thys well.

An obiectiō.

The anſwer What the Author vnderſtandeth by faſtyng & almes. Note hereof faſtig and almes.

before God, but also the desyre of heauenly thinges, and a will vtterly estraunged frō all carnall concupiscences and fleshly lustes. So that he which entēdeth to pray with fruit, yf he can not do the one, yet oughte he to do the other of necessitie, & to be enflamed with ỳ desire of thinges celestial, that he may say with the Psalmograph, As the heart desireth to the fountaines of waters, so doth my soule desyre vnto thee O God. My soule is a thyrst for God that liuing fountaine, when shall I come to appeare before the face of God. Again O how amiable ar thy dwellinges thou Lord of hostes, my soule hath a desyre and longing for the court of the Lord. My hart and my flesh reioyse in the liuyng God. This heuenly mynd was in S. Paule liuing here in this world, whē he said, I desire to be loosened out of this mortall body, and to be with Christ. Seeyng therfore ỳ fastyng and almes are so necessary to ỳ promocion and forthe rance, to the eleuacion and lyfting vp of prayer, and are called of certayne holye Doctors the two winges of prayer, in as muche as by them prayer flyeth vp vnto the throne of the diuine maiestie, and is the better accepted in Gods presence, it shal be expedient for hym that entendeth to pray with fruit, to exercyse himselfe some what before in fastyng and almes, on such manner as I haue taught heretofore. So shall it com to passe, that God shal the more thākfully accepte hys prayer, and graunt him his heartes desyre. Not only the exercise of these two vertues, but also of al other, shall be necessarye for hym that prayeth, that he may prouoke God the more fauorably to beare hym. These thinges once done then let hym pray, but after what manner I wyll expresse in fewe wordes.

Psalme. lxii.

Psal. lxxxiii.

Phili. i.

Fasting and almes ar the two winges of prayer.

¶ The .xxviii. Chapter.

The hearte must be set on the prayer.

FYrst aboue all thinges, let him geue earnest diligence that whyle he prayeth, hys heart may be seryously affyxed and set on his prayer or els he prayeth in vayne, according to thys olde sentence Dum cor non orat, in vanum lingua laborat. That is to say, whyle the hearte doth not pray, ỳ tong laboureth in vaine. Christ also sayth: This people honoreth me with their lippes, but theyr heart is far frō me. Herein they worshyp me in vayne. For what great absurditie is this, to desyre God to hear our prayers, & we oure selues do not heare them? What a kynd of praying is this to babble with our lippes, to roye out vō our thotes, piteously to shake our head, to sit bare headed, to knele on ỳ bare grounde, to knock our brestes, and yet to haue our mynd troubled and occupied aboute fylthy and vncleane thynges? Is this a manner of prayinge to make God the father merciful to vs? Yea it rather exciteth and styreth vp his anger toward vs. Saint Austē feareth not to wyte on this maner as the voice of a man without modulacion or swete armony, is as the voice of swine or hogges: so is prayer without deuocion as the bellowing of Oxē. There are two verses published in the name of S. Jerom, which seing they ar godly, & teach the true manner of praying, I

Esai. xxix. Mathe. xv.

Note.

thinke it conuenient to alleage them in this place.

Non vox sed votum, non cordula musica, sed cor.

Non clamans sed amans cantat in aure Dei.

That is to say, not the voyce but the desyre, not the musicall instrument, but the hearte. Not the cryer but the louer singeth in the eare of God. Chrisostome also writeth on this maner: It is the duty of a deuout minde to pray to God, not vnto the voice or with the sound of the voice, but vnto the deuocion of ỹ mind, and vnto the faith of the hart. Again he sayth, ỹ crieng of the voice is not ỹ worke in praier vnto God, whom we know ỹ he beholdeth the secrets of the hart, but the crying of faith, & the deuocion of a religious & godly mind. Therfore the best way to pray, is to pray vnto the hart, mind, spirit, soule, & inward mā. Now it wyl be demaunded, whether a Christen man ought to praye vnto an open voice or not. Although I haue spoke sufficiently cōcerning this matter in ỹ diffinicīō of praier, yet I will here adde thre wordes as they saye, touching this thing also. Although praier be the work of the spirit, & not of the voice, of the hart, and not of the lippes, of the mind & not of the mouth yet is not the external sounde of the voyce to be condemned, whither it be in readyng or singing, so ỹt it foloweth the affection of the mind & doth seruice vnto that. For seing the glory of God ought to shine after a certen māner in all the partes of our body, it is conuement ỹ the tong chefly be addict & geuen to this ministry and seruice both in singing & speking, which was chefly made to declare and preach the magnificēce, laud and praise of God. Therfore wher the tong and hart do consent and agre togither, beyng alyke occuppyed in the effusiō of the praier, it is not onlye tollerable, but also cōmendable to pray both with tong and hart. Now as concerning the external gesture in praing, as kneling, knocking on the brest, lifting vp of the handes &c. in almuch as they be indifferente, & we reade that they were vsed of Christ and many holy men in times past, they are not to be despised. Nothing is vnfytting that proceedeth from the feruent affeccion of the mynde. But I haue spoken of this thing also before in the diffynicion of praier. Therfore wyll I hast to these thynges that remayne, as more necessary to be intreated of.

Floria. xliiii. De Ioan et Paule Festo.

A demaund.

Note when we may lawfully pray with the voyce.

Why the tong was made.

Of external gestures.

Of what thynges we ought to praye.

The xvii. Chapter.

Rom. viii.

FOr almuch as we ar so ignorant and blind of our selues ỹ we know not what we shuld desire, as we ought, lest we shulde aske any thing vnfitting, and otherwise then becommeth vs, or that shulde not be acceptable to God, oure sauiour Christ willing in this behalfe to succour oure necessitie, and to helpe oure ignorance and blyndnes, hath appoynted and set fooryth as it were in a certen table the true manner of praying in the Pater noster, where he hathe compendiously declared for what thynges we ought to praye either Matth. vi.

either pertayning to the glorye of God, or to the profyt of vs many as profesle hys most holy name. And although euery day and euery houre doeth offer to vs occasions sufficiently for to pray vnto God, yea & that for innumerable causes, yet it may seme ỳ Christ in that prayer which he taught hys disciples, hath in fewe wordes comprehended whatsoe-uer we haue nede to pray for. Therfore whosoeuer at any tyme shalbe myndied to pray, let hym above all thynges seke ỳ aduancement of godes glory in hys prayer. For the first petition of the Pater noster, wyth the next two that folow, pertayne onely to the glory of God, wherein we aske, that the name of God may be sanctified, ỳ his kingdō may reigne among vs, that hys wyl may be done here in earth as it is in heauen.
So likewise did Christ a lytle before his passion, pray, saying: O father glorify thy name. Gods glory therfore ought we to seke above al thigs in our prayers at al tymes. After that we haue sought the glory of god, place requireth that then we should aske those thynges, which pertayn vnto the euerlasting health and saluacyon of our soules. For the healthy of our soules ought to be desired before ỳ wealth of our body, as Christ monitheth. First seke the kyngdome of God and the righteousnes ther-of, and all these thynges (he speaketh of meate, drynke and cloth) shall be cast vnto you. Dauid also sayeth: One thyng haue I desyred of the Lorde which I wyl require, namely that I may dwel in the house of ỳ Lord all the dayes of my lyfe. And in asmuch as the sincer preachynge of gods worde helpeth much vnto the saluacion of oure soules (for the gospel of Christ is the power of God vnto saluacion for euery one that beleueth, and a mā shal not liue vō bread alone, but vō euery word that commeth out of the mouth of God, for fayth commeth by hearyng, and hearyng by the word of God) it shalbe necessary for vs to praye ỳ gods word may haue free passage among vs and ỳ al wicked doctrin, superstitious teachyng, herely, sinistral opinions, sectes and al ỳ euer is contrary to wholsome doctryne, may be exiled & banyshed out of Christes chirche. Pray for those thynges, sayeth Dauid, ỳ make vnto the peace of Jerusalem, that is, vnto the sale, quiet, lucky, & prosperous preseruacion of Christes chirche, ỳ the doctryne of the gospel, whiche bryngeth peace & quietnes to the hartes of the faythfull, may triumphantly reigne among vs. But in asmuch as thys Euangelio & glad tidinges of Christ can neuer be ministred to the Christen congregacion wythout sincere and true preachers of ỳ word, therfore ought we also praye, ỳ all Anti-christes, Papistes, Heretikes, Schismatykes, & seditious praters sub-moued and put abyde, true Euangelistes, faythfull Prophetes, & sincer Preachers, may reigne amōg vs vniuersally. For how shal they preach, except they be sent? Therfore sayeth Christ, pray vnto the Lorde of the harueste, that he may shote forth workemen into hys Haruest.

Howeuer seeyng that we haue not onely a soule but also a bodye, and God hath appoynted ministers for them both, it shal also be conuenīēte accordyng to the admonicion of S. Paul, to pray for the magystrates

The glorye of God ought we to seke in our prayers chefely.

Iohn. xii.

Secondly for our soules health.

Math. vi.

Psal. xxvi.

Thirdly for the promocion of gods worde.

Rom. i.
Deut. viii.
Math. iiii.
Rom. x.

Psal. lxxi.

Luke. i.

Forthly for the ministers of gods worde.

Rom. x.
Math. ix.

Fiftely for the magistrates of the publique weale.

of the publique weale, as for our most redoubted and moste excellente kyng and for al other that are in authoritie that we may leade a peasable and quiet lyfe vnder their dominion wyth al godlynes and honestie.

i. Timo. ii.

After these thynges it shal not be vnfitting to pray for thinges necessary for oure body, as meate, drynke cloth, frendshyp, health, wisdō, knowledge, reason. &c. Yet in the requeste of all these thynges aforelayed, we must referre the matter wholly vnto the wyll of God, and bee contented to receaue as it shalbe his pleasure to geue, ether much, lytle, or nothyng.

Of God alone we ought to aske al good thynges.

To be short, whatsoeuer we haue nede of, we must streyght waies turne vnto god, and aske it of him only, whither it pertayneth to ỳ soule or to the body, which geueth to al men without doubletuesse, and casteth no man into the teeth, as S. Austen sayeth: we oughte to aske of none but of the Lord God, what soeuer we truste, ỳ we eyther should worke well, or obtayne for good workes.

Ex enchi ad. Lau. ca. cxiiii

The .xxx. Chapter.

Ephe. iiii.

Rom. viii.

Math. vi.

i. Tim. i.

i. Cor. xiiii.

But this is to be noted in prayer that in asmuche as all that profes Chryst vnfaynedly, haue one common and heauenly father, and are brothers one to another, yea brothers to Chryst and felow heyres wyth hym, and seyng that Chryst also hath taught vs in his most godly prayer, not onely to pray for our selues, but also for all other in common, it shalbe necessary that a Chrysten man doeth so direct his prayer vnto God, that he may seme no lesse to seke in it the helpe of hys Chrysten brothers, than of hymselfe. For true and vnfayned Charite, which proceedeth from a pure hart and a good constience, and a fayth not fayned, seketh not her owne, but rather that, whiche pertayneth to other.

Beholde what charite doeth.

Rom. xii.

She reioyceth no lesse in the health of other, than in her own. She seketh no lesse thought to profit other than herselfe. She reioyceth wyth them ỳ reioyce, and wepeth wyth thē that wepe. Yea she many tymes forgetteth her selfe, and is wholy bent to seke the commoditie of other, as S. Paule sayeth, charite seketh not her own. We reade ỳ such excellent charitie was in Moses, which whan the people of Israel had horriblie offended God by worshipping the golden Calfe, perceauing the wrath of God to be whot agaynst thē, prayed on this maner and sayed, oh this people haue done a great sin, and haue made thē gods of golde. Now forgeue thē their sin, or els wype me out of thys boke, ỳ thou hast writtē.

i. Cor. xiii.

Exo. xxxii.

S. Paule also wished him selfe to be cursed frō Chryst for ỳ Israelites. Chryst cōmaūdeth to blisse them ỳ curse vs, to pray for them ỳ do vs wrōg & persecute vs, how much more thā ought we, seing we are one body & one spirite, one lord, one fayth, one baptisme, one God & father of vs all, to pray one for another generally in ỳ vnite of the spirite through ỳ bonde of peace. If we search in ỳ Hystoryes of ỳ moste sacred Bible, we shal in many places find & euidently perceiue wt how we great affectiō & feruēt mind one prayed for another, so ỳ ther was in their prayers a certayn godly cōmunion, & a lyke thought or care for al men. For as ỳ

Rom. ix.

Math. v.

Ephe. iiii.

as he that loueth the father of the houſeholde vnfaynedly, doeth alſo loue hartelye all hys whole familye, ſo in lyke maner they that loue our celeſtiall father with a true affecte and mynde can none otherwiſe do but loue alſo hys people, hys houſeholde, hys heritage, whō he hath ſo greatly honored that he hath not diſdayned to call thē the plenitude and fulnes of hys onely begotten ſon. Therfore the prayer of a Chriſtē man ought on ſuch maner to be made, that it may be common and cōprehende in it al men that are hys brothers in Chryſt, and pertayne to the houſholde of faith. Yea he ought to pray for al men liuing in thys world, be they Turkes Saracennes, Jewes or any other of the hethenyſhe and vnfaithful ſort, that God may deliuer them by his holy ſpirit out of the darkeneſſes of ygnorancy, and bring them into the meruaylous light of his moſt bleſſed word, that in the vnite of the ſpirite they may alſo confeſſe with vs one Lord, one God, one Sauiour, one faith, one Chriſten religion, and one trueth. But ſome men wyl ſay peraduēture, is it not lawful for a man to pray ſeuerally for hymſelfe, and for hys own priuate affayres? Yes verely, ſo that the mynde be not vtterly deflected and turned away from the contemplacion of thys cōmunite, but referreth al thynges vnto that. For Chryſt prayed perticularely for hymſelfe vnto hys father a litle before hys paſſyon. Ezechias prayed for hys own health. Dauid prayed for the remiſſion of hys syn. The Publicane deſired mercy and forgeuenes of hys offence. The thiefe deſired Chryſt to remember hym, whan he came into hys kyngdome. All theſe prayed for ther own priuate affayres, and wer heard. Semblably it is lawful for euery Chriſten man to lament his own cauſe before the mercyful eyes of the diuine maieſtie. Art thou a magiſtrate and gouernoure of the commō weale, perceiuing that thou wanteſt wyſedom to gouerne the people of God aryght & accordyng to iuſtice? Than maieſt thou lawfully pray with Salomon to God for the gyfte of wyſedome. Art thou a miniſter of Gods word? So mayeſt thou after the example of the Apoſtles pray for the influence of the holy goſt, that thou mayeſt be repleted wyth the knowledge of ſpirituall thynges, and ſo fede the flocke of Chryſt, whō he hath purchaſed with his moſt precious bloud, that thou mayeſt receyue the vncorruptible crowne of glory, whā that Prynce of ſhepeheardes ſhal appeare. Art ỹ an houſholder? than mayeſt thou lawfully pray vnto God for grace, that thou mayeſt gouerne and rule thy family accordyng to gods moſt holy word. Art thou a ritchmā than oughteſt thou for to pray vnto God, that thou mayeſt diſtribute hys goods committed vnto thee accordyng to hys pleaſure vpon ỹ pore people. Art thou pore? than pray to God ỹ thou mayeſt pacyently ſuffer the croſſe of pouerte, which he hath laied vpon thee. Feleſt thou any vyce to rayne in thee? So mayeſt thou be bolde to pray vnto God for the ſuppreſſion of that vyce, and for the obtayning of the vertue contrary to the vice.

Note this ſimylitude. Ephe.i.

Our prayers ought to be common.

A queſtion.

The aunſwere. Math. xxvi. iiii.Reg.xx. eſay.xxxviii. Pſal.l. Luke.xviii. Luke.xxiii Magiſtrate. iii.Reg.iii.

Miniſter of gods worde. Actum.i. Actum.xx. i.Peter.v.

Houſholder.

Ritch man.

Pore man.

Vicions.

To be ſhort, art thou a Chriſten man? So mayeſt ỹ at all tymes beholde Chriſten mē bolde to pray that God may so endewe thee with strength from above that thou mayest lyue in al poyntes accordyng to thy profession.

¶ The xxvi. Chapter.

But in thus praying for our selues we must take hede, that we desire not those thynges, which should turne to our own priuate auauntage, and to the hinderaunce or discommoditie of other. For this is not acceptable in the syghte of God. The childzen of zebedeus desyred Chryst, that one of them myght syt on hys ryght hande, and another on hys lyft hande. But Chryst answered and sayd, ye knowe not what ye aske. They desyred the primacy, and to be aloft in superiozyte above all the disciples, which made the other to haue indignacion at them both. That petition therfore is not lawful nor ryghteous, whiche hath a respect more to priuate auauntage then to publique vtilitie. As if a Physicion should pray that many might fall sicke or that they that are sicke, might so continue long, that he might haue the more auauntage. Or if an heire did pray that his parentes might die shortly, that the heritage might quickely chaunce vnto hym. Or if a wycked Souldiour did desyre that many temples myght be spoyled, and diuers honest men robbed, that he myght come home loden wyth prayes and robberyes.

Math. xx. Marc. x.

Examples.

These and such lyke requestes, in as much as they come forth from the flesshe, and not from the spirite, God, which is a spirite, doeth not heare them, as S. James sayeth, ye aske and receiue not, because ye aske euil that ye maye consume it on your pleasures. And if he heareth, certes he heareth vnto the great euil and incommoditie of them that pray. For they styre vp and prouoke the anger of God towarde them. S. Austen sayeth. Thynke it no great thyng to be heard at youre owne wyll, but rather thynke it a great thyng to be heard vnto your profyte. For the deuils were heard at their own will, and were suffered to go into the swyne accordyng to their desyre. Their Prince also the diuel was hard at hys own wyll, whych desyred to haue Job and to tempt hym. The Israelites also wer heard at their own wyl, and whan the meate was yet in their mouth, ye knowe what thynges followed. Thynke it therfore no greate thyng to be heard at your own wyll and pleasure. For God sometyme beyng angry geueth that, whiche thou askeste, & God beyng mercyfull and well pleased, denieth that, whyche thou askeste. But yet is their prayer much more wycked, which being enflamed with the fyre of malicious fury, and furious malice, doe desyre euill to themselues, ỳ worse may chaunce vnto their brother, whō they hate. Neather want not, which not only could be cōtent wyth al their hartes to lose one of their eyes, so that he, whom they hate, myght lose both, but also put their owne lyues in iopardy to bring death vnto other. O cruel tyranny. Such petitions be detestable, and are to ỳ desirers therof, not onely much pernicious, but also very damnable, in as much as they stand not wyth ỳ order of Charitie. Thys also is to be iudged of them, which

Se. liii. de. ve. Do. sec. Iohn.

Iohn. iiii. Iacob. iiii.

Math. viii. Iob. i.

Exo. xv. Num. xi.

curse

curse and ban such as they hate. Let vs therfore aske nothing, but that maketh to the glory of God the auaunсement of hys most holy worde, the encrease of vertue, the destruction of vice, the healthy of our soules, ꝓ conseruacion of the publique weale, and the profit of oure neighbor. In al our peticions let vs submit our selues to the wyll & pleasure of God nothing doubting but that he wyll graunt vs ꝓ we aske, or els things of more weightie importaunce & more profitable for our saluacyon. For it is not alway conuenient that we shoulde obtayne what soeuer we aske of God. He knoweth much better what we haue nede of, then we our selues do. It is many tymes more expedient for vs to haue scarsenes than aboundaunce, to be vexed wyth warres & persecucions thā to enioy carnal securite and fleshely quietnes, to be sycke than to be whole, to be temted thā to be wythout temptacion. Paule at diuers tymes desyred God that he myght be deliuered from the pricke of the flesshe, but it was answered, My grace is sufficiēt for thee, and he reioyced in hys infirmitie and weakenes. Therfore in al thynges let vs pray for godly and honeste thynges, beyng alwaye contented to receiue, as it shall be gods most holy pleasure to geue. ii. Cor. xii.

¶ At what tyme we oughte to praye.

¶ The .xxxii. Chapter.

IF we consider the vnoutspeakeable and manifold miseries, wher wyth in this vale of calamyte we are inuolued, wrapped and inclosed aboute on euery syde, we shall wythout any greate difficulte perceiue that we haue nede of nothyng so much as of prayer, yea and that feruent, and contynuall. For the diuel goeth about like a roryng Lyon, seking whom he may deuoure. The worlde also with his vaine pleasures is ready at euery houre to seduce and leade vs a waye from oure profession, if we take not hede. Agayne the flesshe is so domestical & nigh enemy vnto vs, ꝓ we cā neuer be without it. It euer assaileth vs. It alway fighteth & lusteth contrary to the spirite. It turneth, as they say, euery ston to make vs enemies vnto God. The soldior of Christ, sayeth a certain Doctor, ought not to put a waye vnto hym ꝓ shielde of prayer so lōg as ꝓ battaile endureth. But ꝓ battaile endureth, so lōg as thys present lyfe endureth, as Job sayeth, ꝓ lyfe of a mā vpō ꝓ earth is a warfare, & perels do neuer faile, therefore haue we nede cōtinually of gods helpe. Misery doeth neuer wante in this lyfe, therfore haue we euer nede of gods mercy & cōtinual prayer. Wherof it followeth ꝓ we haue great nede of prayer at al times, if we will be saued for no mā shalbe crowned, except he warreth valeantly. To him that ouercōmeth, saieth God, wyll I geue to eate of ꝓ tree of life, which is in the myddes of the Paradyse of God. Our Sauiour Christe therefore knowing

We haue nede of nothyng so much as of continuall prayer. i. Pete. v. Gala. v.

Pari. part. Tr. de. Iust. ca. xiii

Iob. vii.

ii. Tim. ii.

Apoca. ii.

knowing oure imbecilite and weakenes to be no lesse than our mi and wretchednes, exhorteth vs principally and aboue all thynges pray. Watch and pray, sayeth he, that ye fall not into temptacion. And Math. xxvi. in as much as our enemyes cease not to fight agaynst vs by their cra ty and subtile assaultes, therfore ought we not to cease for to fyght Iacob. v. gaynst them with continuall prayers. For the prayer of a ryghteous man, sayeth S. James, auayleth much. Christe in the gospell of Luke Luke. xviii. proponeth a certayne parable of an vnrighteous Judge and of a wi dowe, wherin he teacheth that we ought to pray alwayes and neu to cease, nor once to be wery. Reade the Chapter. A Christen mā ought A Christen mā ought to pray at all tymes. to pray at al tymes, and neuer to desist and cease from praying. Ther Colloss. iiii. fore sayeth S. Paule, Continue in prayer and watch in it with thā
i. Tes. v. geuing. Agayne: Reioyce alway, pray without ceasing, in all thynges
i. Pet. iiii. geue thankes. Hereto agreeth the saying of S. Peter, Be ye sober and watche vnto prayer. For continuall prayer causeth that our enemyes What continuall prayer doeth. can not haue the vpper hande ouer vs. Yea contynuall prayer maketh that the loue of celestiall goods doeth euer encrease in vs, which eue it be oftentymes suscitated and fyred vp with ardent desyres and fer uent prayers, as fyre is with wynde, it fyrst abateth, and afterwardes litle and litle it is vtterly quenched and put cleane out. For as he is worthy to receiue any thyng, which geueth not thāks for those thynges that he hath already taken, that is, whiche doeth not knowledge and magnifye the beneficence of God, so doeth not he deserue to enioye great felicite, ioye and pleasure, which eyther doeth not desyre it or desyreth it coldly. Who feruently loueth a thyng, and doeth not con tinually wyshe that the thyng, whyche he loueth maye chaunce to him.
So that it is manifeste of these thynges aforesayd, that we ought pray at all tymes, and neuer cease, in asmuche as we haue at all tymes most vrgent, weighty and necessary causes.

¶ The .xxviii. Chapter.

An obiectiō. BVt it wil be obiected, how is it possible for a mā to pray at al times and neuer to cease? This is a thynge not onely of impossibilite also contrary to the commaundement of Christ, which sayeth, when Math. vi. ye pray, speake not many wordes. I answere, Christ in thys aforesayd place doeth not forbid the assiduite and continuaunce of praier, but multiloquie and maner of babling in prayers, which the Ethnicke
The answer Infidels dyd vse, trustyng by that their to much bablyng they shuld the soner be heard, as we reade of those wycked Prophetes, which cal
When ye pray vse not many wordes is expouded. ed on the name of Baal frō morning til nyght, saying none other thyng but thys onely, O Baal heare vs, O Baal heare vs. But the Prophet iii. Re. xviii. Helias mocked them, saying: cry with a louder voyce. For he is a God but peraduenture he talketh with some body, or is occupyed in pur sing hys enemyes, or is gone some iourney, or happely he slepeth, and be waked and reised vp with your crying. They cryed therfore with great

great voice, and cut them selues after their olde maner with sweardes and botkins, vntill they were all on goze bloud. But all in vayne. The wozdes of Chryst are these, whan ye pray, speake not many wozdes as the Ethnickes do. Foz they thynke it should come to passe, that through their babling they shoulde be heard. Be not ye therefoze lyke them. Foz your father doeth knowe, what thynges ye nede, before ye aske of him. Math. vi.

These wozdes shewe manifestly that Chryste doeth not condemne the assiduite and continuaunce of prayer, which both he hymselfe vsed, and also taught other the same, but the vayne loquasite and vnfruitful babbling annexed wyth thys perswasyon, that our prayers cannot be hard except we be euer inculkyng and beatyng them into the eares of God after the maner of the Hethen, as though God dyd rather heare vs foz our loquasite and babblynges sake, than foz hys most louing and gētle promise, oz as though God were not so ready to geue, as we ar to aske if our peticions be accozdyng vnto hys wyl. The Ethnikes multiloquy and heathenishe babbling doeth Chryst here not only forbyd, but also cōdemne. Therfoze sayeth the wise man, be not to rashe in speaking, neyther let thy hart make hast to bryng forth a wozd in the syght of God. Foz God is in heauen, and thou art on earth, therfoze let thy wozdes be few. Foz as the dreame commeth of manifolde busines, so is the voyce of a foole in the multitude of wozdes. S. Iohn golden mouth vpon the aforesayd text wryteth on thys maner, he calleth here Battalogian, loquacite, that is, babbling oz much speaking, which we than be rely vse, when we aske of God thynges that are not profitable foz vs, as foz an example, that we should obtayne power and glory, and that we should ouercome our enemyes, and that we should abounde wyth many ritches, to conclude, whan we aske those thyngs, that should pro fit vs nothing at all. Foz he knoweth what soeuer we haue nede. Moreouer he semeth vnto me to forbyd long prayers. Yea verely, lōg I say, not in tyme but in the multitude and prolixite oz lēgth of wozds. We must persever in askyng those thynges that are profitable. Contynue, sayeth he, in prayer. Foz the Lord hymselfe also sendeth vs to the example of the wydowe and of the vnmercyfull and cruel Iudge, that he should commende the diligent continuaunce of prayer by the importunite of her interpellacion and harty request. And whā he sayeth, that a certayne man came vnto hys frende, whan it was verye late in the night, and that he raysed hym beyng a slepe out of hys bed, yea & that he deserued thys thyng not so much foz familiarite and acquayntaunce sake, as foz sedulite and careful diligence: He wylled none other thyng, than that he shoulde be called vpon contynually. Yet he dyd not commaunde that they should bryng vnto hym a prayer of a thousande verses long, and recyte that vnto hym. Foz thys hath he already reproued. Foz they thynke that in their much speakyng they should be heard. But your father, sayeth he knoweth, what ye haue nede, before ye aske. But thou wilt say, If he knoweth, wherfoze than nede we to pray? Verely ye Marke well. Luke. vi. xxii Math. xxvi. Luke. xviii.

Eccle. v.

In Mat. ca. vi Hom. xix.

When we vse babblinge in our prayers.

Colos. iiii.

Luke. xviii.

Luke. xi.

Mat. vi.

Marke thys well, Why we must pray to god, although he knoweth whereof we haue nede, before we pray.

not that thou shouldest teache God, but that thou shouldest make him good vnto thee, that thou shouldest be acquaynted with him, by reason of thy frequent and often speakyng vnto hym, that thou shouldest humble thy selfe in praying, and that thou shouldest oftentymes remember thy synnes. Hytherto haue I recited the wordes of S. John Chrisostome which as they condemne the vnfruiteful babling and vayn tangling of wordes vainly and causles pronounced, so do they highly commende and approue the feruent continuaunce of praying. So that hereof it is euident, that a Chrysten man ought to pray at al tymes.

¶ The.xxxiiii. Chapter.

Wheras some man wyll saye peraduenture that it is not possible for men to pray at al tymes, seing that diuers other affayres & businesses must also be done of thē so long as they lyue in this world as eatinge, drinking, sleping. &c. and men muste also labour by their liuing, euery man accordyng to his vocacion and callyng, which thynges all must nedes be an impediment and let to the contynual exercyse of prayer: I wil in fewe wordes declare how a Christen man may pray wythout ceasyng at al times according to ỳ precept of Christ and the Apostle S. Paule. Some expositoures of the holy Scripture wryte, that to pray alway and wythout ceasyng, is nothyng els than to pray seriously, earnestly and diligently after the example of the widowe, which would neuer leaue crying and callyng vpō the vnrighteous Iudge, vntil he had heard her request, that she myghte be reuenged of her aduersary. They say it is a trope called Hyperbole, so that he is counted to pray alway and wythout ceasyng, which pray vsually, at tymes, seriously and instantly, and doeth not cease from prayers, vntil he hath obtayned that, which he asketh. After that maner is this spoken: Cry, cease not, lift vp thy voice as a Trompe.

How we may praye at al tymes and without ceasing. Luke.xviii.

esay.lviii.

Some say that to pray alway and not to cease, is throughout al our lyfe, feruently to desire that high goodnes, which is promised vs in the world to come. After this sort, say, they, whatsoeuer men do in this life whether they eate, drynke, slepe, worke, talke, bargayne, studye, meditate. &c. so long as this celestial desire remayne in them, al their whole lyfe is a certayne perpetuall prayer. The perpetuall study of liuing godly, sayeth Erasmus, is a continuall prayer. And Beda saieth, he prayeth alway, that doeth good thynges alway neyther doeth he cease to pray but whan he ceaseth to be righteous. Other affirme that to praye without ceasyng, is feruently and with an ardent mynde to pray at certain houres destinated and appointed vnto prayer. Merely al these expositions, in asmuch as they be godly are not to be reiected nor caste away. Therfore seing that we cannot for our imbecilitie, weaknes and imperfection alway and without ceasing pray vnto God, yet, besides ỳ godly meditacion of celestial thynges in our mynd, and ỳ perpetuall desyre of liuing innocētly, whiche ought neuer to depart from a Chrysten breast,

What it is to pray alway.

De modo orandi. He prayeth alway that doeth good alway.

hath

hath the feare of God before her eies we ought to prescribe & appointe vnto our selues certayne peculiare houres euery day which shulde not passe away without prayer, and which should haue the whole affectes of the mynde vtterly occupied in this behalfe. And whan those houres shal come, than ought we to lay asside al mundane affayres & worldly busines, & wholly to geue our selues to deuout meditacion, & diuine cõtẽplacio of celestial thynges. Than ought we feruently to pray with the hart & mind, & so wt al humilite to behaue our selues, as though God wer there present, & we spake vnto hym face to face, yea thã oughte we to watch, as ỳ scripture admonisheth, ỳ is, so take hede & cast al perels, that our aduersarye ỳ deuill, which goeth about like a rorying Lio, seaking whom he may deuoure, do not once draw away our mindes frõ talking with God, but that quietly & attentiuely we maye be occupied in offryng vp our petitions vnto God at that tyme of praier.

Certayne houres appointed euery day for prayer.

Wyth how great a reuerence we ought to pray. Math.xxvi. i.Peter.v.

The.xxxv.Chapter.

And because no man should be offended with ỳ obseruaunce and appointment of certayn houres vnto prayer, as a thyng superstitious and repugnãt to ỳ Christẽ liberte: I wil shew ỳ diuers holy men had their certayne houres also, wherein they vsed custumably to pray. we reade ỳ Dauid did pray & geue thãks vnto God. vii. tymes in a daye. His words are these: Seuẽ tymes in a day haue I geuẽ prayse vnto thee for the iudgementes of thy ryghteousnes. What. vii. times in a daye these were, all are not manifest in the holy Scripture, but some are, which I wyll here reherse. As touchyng the morning he sayeth, O Lord early shalt thou heare my voyce, betymes in the morning shall I make my prayer vnto thee, and I shall see that I haue obtayned my prayer. Now for the tyme of hys repaste he sayeth, as ashes dyd I eate my bread and my drynke dyd I myngle wyth wepyng. Thoughe here he make the none euidente mencion of Prayer, yet it is not to be doubted, but ỳ in thys his great sorow, he also vsed at that present, prayers vnto God. As for his praier at night, we read on this maner. Let my praier, sayeth he, be directed vnto thee as frankensence in thy syght: the lifting vp of my hands as an euenyng sacrifice. Againe he sayeth, I shall wash euery nyght my bed, yea euen wyth my teares wyl I water my bed. That he prayed to God at midnight also it is manifeste by these words. At midnight, sayeth he, dyd I ryse to geue prayse vnto thee.

Psal. cxviii. Dauid prayed. vii. times in a day vnto God.

Psalme. v.

psal.lxi.

psal.ciiii.

psal.vi.

Of these Scriptures aforesayed it is euident that Dauid prayed vnto God customably these foure tyme besides other, that is, in the morning, at hys dynner, in the euening, and at midnight, whiche all be very conuenient times for a Christen man to pray. As he prayed at these tymes, so did he vndoutedly at other, though they be not expressed in ỳ Scripture. Moreouer we reade ỳ Daniel vsed customably to pray euery day three tymes vnto his Lord God. The Euangelistes also declare, that Christ preaching and worckingmiracles all the whole daye, vsed often

psal.cxviii.

Dani.vi. Daniell prayed thryse euery daye vnto God.

Luke.v.

tymes to spende the whole night in prayng vnto hys father. S. Luke Actes.iii. also in the Actes of the Apostles declareth that Peter and John went vp into the Temple at the nynth houre of prayer. Whereof it doeth euidently appeare ẏ in the old law they had certayne tymes appointed in the which they should pray. Haue not we also among vs now a dayes certayne tymes appoynted for to come together and to pray in the temples? What do we learne of al these thynges? Verely that a Christen man may lawfully & without any scripule of cõscience appoint certain houres in ẏ day, wherin he may exercise hymself deuoutly in godly prayer & spiritual meditaciõ. But I would he should not so superstitiously ¶ be addicte to those houres, ẏ he should thinke it syn to breake any of the whan occasion of necessitie is geuen (for that wer a wicked thyng) but to vse those tymes as meanes for to bringe hym vnto a more feruent maner of praying cõtinually. For ẏ Sabboth day was made for man, Marke.ii. and not mã for ẏ Sabboth day. The kingdome of God shall not come wyth obseruaciõ and lokyng for, saieth Christ, neither shal they say, beholde here, or beholde there, for lo, the kyngdome of God is within you.
Luke.xvii. We obserue dayes monethes, tymes & yeares, sayeth Paule, I am afeard of you, leste I haue laboured in vayne for you. Againe, let no man
Gala.iiii. iudge you in meate or drynke, or in part of an holy day, or of the feast of the newe Mone, or of ẏ Sabbothes, which are ẏ shadowes of thinges Collos.ii. to come, but the body of Christ.

¶ The.xxxvi. Chapter.

The appoitment of certain howres for prayers is very commendable.

SEing than that the appointement of certayne houres for prayers is very commendable, yea and necessary for the trainynge vp of ourselues in the godly exercyse of prayer (so ẏ superstitious obseruaunces be absent) it shalbe much decent and prayse worthy for euery man to appoint hymselfe such certayne houres euery day for to praye, as wherein he shal perceiue that he may be most quiet, and most apte to talke with God in hys prayers. And although euery Christen man knoweth what tyme is best for him to pray (in asmuch as the vnction of God teacheth
i.Iohn.ii. thẽ al things, & they haue no nede ẏ any mã shoulde teache them) yet I wyl here assigne such houres to pray, as I may thynke to be moste conuenient and apt to prayer, and that not onely because they seme fytte in my conceite, but rather in asmuch as I see those same houres appoynted of godly learned men, as most sitting and apte vnto the true exercise of Psal.xliiii. prayer. Dauid in his Psalmes writeth on this maner, I wil cry to god and the Lorde shall saue me. At nyghte and in the mornynge and at middaye shall I praye hartely, and he shall heare my voice. Here Dauid prescribeth three solemne tymes, whan a man ought of dutie euery
Note whan we ought to pray vnto God. daye to pray. At nyght when he goeth to bed, in the mornyng when he riseth, and at midday whã he goeth to meate. He that leaueth God vnsaluted with his prayers at these three tymes, verely he is much estraunged from the manners of a true Christen man, as I maye leaue of to speake speake of his ingratitude and vnkindnes towarde our Lorde God. S. Ambrose appointeth mo times of praying: Solemne prayers layeth he, ought to be made wyth thanks geuyng whan we ryse from slepe, whē we go forth to our busines, when we make ready to take our meate & whan we haue taken our meate and when we go to bed. Would God that al mē would folow the doctryne of this most holy and catholyke Doctor. Thā shoulde all thynges be replenished to the blessyng of God more plenteously than they are nowa dayes. S. John Chrisostome differeth not frō thys, where he sayeth, we must whan we ryse out of oure beds preuent the sōne to the worshipping of God, and whā we come to the table, and whan we should slepe. Yea at euery houre ought we to offer a litle prayer vnto God, and to run an equal course with ỳ day, and in the tyme of wynter to spende also the most part of the nyght in prayers and bowing our knees wyth much feare to geue attendaunce to prayer, recounting our selues blessed, whan we thus worshyp God. Tel me how darest thou loke vpon the sonne, whā thou doest not worshyp hym, that sent that most swete and comfortable light? How shalte thou bse thetable, and not worshyp that geuer and superdtatoure of so great good thynges? With what hope goest thou to the time of ỳ night what maner of slepes doest thou loke for, when ỳ doest not contynue, make strong and defende thy self with prayers, but without any watch commest to slepe like a miser and wretche, ready to fall into the captiuite & bondage of the most vngracious diuels, which continually goe about waiting the time ỳ they may quickely catche any man ỳ is bare, & not defensed wyth prayer: which whan they see vs enarmed with prayers, run backe streyght wayes as theues and malefactoures, which fere a sweard hanged vp at the hande of the Souldiour. But if it chaunceth that any mā be bare, and not weponed with prayer, than is he streight way plucked & tost of ỳ diuels, he is moued vnto syn, & brought into infinite calamities & euils. We therfore fearyng al these things let vs enarme our selues al way with prayers & hymnes, ỳ God hauing pitie on vs, may make vs al worthy the kingdom of heauen through his onlybe gotten son, to whom be glory & rule, worldes without ende. Amen.

Lib. de. vir.

De oratione. Serm. ii.

Parke well.

¶ The. xxxvii. Chapter.

HItherto haue I recited the wordes of the golden mouthed Doctor, wherin we may learne not onely whā we ought to pray, but also how necessary a thyng prayer is, and how ỳ without prayer we cā do nothyng wel, nether can ani thing without ỳ chaunse vnto vs prosperously. Would God therfore that whan we ryse in the mornynge we would with hūble and faythfull hartes geue thāks to God, for the slepe wherewith he hath refreshed our wery bodyes ỳ nyght, and most hartely desyre hym ỳ hys holy Aungel may haue ỳ right gouernaunce of vs, al the day folowyng, that he defendyng vs from all euill, we may only lust, couit, aspyre and go about those things, which shal may turne

Prayers in the morning to the glory of God, the saluacion of our soules, and the profyte of the Christen publique weale, not once offending the eyes of ỹ diuine maiestie neyther in thought, worde nor dede at any tyme. Agayne tho' almyghtie God we are all borne to labours, euery man in hys office, euen as the byrde is to flye, and seeyng that we are commaunded of God to eate the labours of our handes, and to eate our bread in the sweate of our face, leaste we houlde not be, as the Poet sayeth, burdenous vnto the of earth, sluggish beastes, and onely borne vainely to fulfyll the greedy frutes of the earth: nor ought whan we entende to go about our busynesses, euery man according to hys office (the Magistrates about the affaires of the publique weale, the spirituall officers aboute the studie of holy lettres and the ministracion of the diuine misteryes, ỹ husbandman about hys husbandry, the craftes man aboute hys occupacion) first to go to God with most humble and hartye prayers, and to beseche hym, that he wil vouchsafe for to prosper that we go aboute, and make all thynges to chaunce accordyng to our hartes desyre, and that in al our labour & trauayle (priuate auauntage layd aside) we may haue a respect vnto the glory of God, and to the commodite of our Christen brethren. If we would do thus, vndoubtedly our enterpryses would be come to a more fortunate and prosperous ende than they do howe a dayes. God would fortune our labours. God would prosper our trauayles, and would worke with vs, that all thinges should come to passe accordyng to our owne will. To whom are these sayinges vnknowen? The blessing of the Lord maketh men ritch. Agayne. Except the Lorde build the house, they labour in vain that build it. Except the Lorde kepeth the citie, he watcheth in vain that kepeth it. The Lorde feedeth me, saieth Dauid, and I shal want nothing. Verely whā we take any thyng in hand, except we first of al fly vnto God with our prayers, and desire his most godly helpe, it is not possible that our trauayle shuld prosper wel to passe, and accordyng to Gods most holy pleasure.

Prayers before labour. Iob. v.

Psa. cxxvii. Gene. iii.

Prouer. x. Psal. cxxvi.

Psal. xxii.

¶ The xxviii. Chapter.

Prayers before meats.

MOreouer whan we shal take our meate, before we sit downe to taste any of it, let vs withal humilitie & submission of mind desire God vnto our prayers, ỹ he wil sanctify those his giftes & benefites vnto vs, that we may receaue the according to his will, & by no meanes abuse the, either to the distemperāce of our bodyes, or to ỹ hurte & danger of our soules, but only receaue thē vnto the end, for the which they were created & prepared. Let vs not thinke it ynough to haue corporal fode, except we be blessed of God. Neither ought we to thinke that our bodely substaunce commeth only of our owne policy, but much more rather of Gods blessing, which except he did fortune our trauayles, al our labours were but hayne, as the Psalmographe sayeth, Feare ye the Lord all ye his Saynctes, for there is no scarcenes to them that feare hym. The ritche haue wanted & hūgred, but they that seke after ỹ Lord, shal

It is not ynough to haue temporal fode, except it be blessed of God. Psal. xxxiii.

no good thyng. Agayne, cast thy care vpon the Lorde, and he shall norysh the. Also in another place: The eies of all men trust in the, O Lord, and thou geuest them meat in conuenient time. Thou openest thy hand, and fyllest euery lyuyng creature with thy blessyng. Thus see we that oure corporall foode is the gyfte of God, and he it is that healeth & maynteyneth, as repose they yr assurance in hym. Therfore ought we before we eate any meate at the tyme of oure repast to pray vnto God, that he maye blisse the meat that we shall then receyue, confessyng that what so euer we haue, we altogether receyue it of his bountyfous hand. O merciefull God, we come now a dates vnto the table, as though we were heathē, and knew no parte of God, at the lest as though we were nothynge bound vnto God, and as though God were but a lyele beneficiall vnto vs. With what reuerence do we approch to our meat? And as we com vnreuerently & shamefully to the table, so do we continue all the whole tyme of our repast. The table shuld be replenished with readynges and talkynges of the holy scriptures, with deuotyng of serious and honest matters, and with godly meditations, but in the stede of them, rise at present blasphemyes, detractions, slaunders, backbytynges, lasciuious tales, wanton communication, vncleane iestynges, vncharitable rayllynges, and an whole sea of euils. This causeth that so many vnfyttyng thynges be committed at the table. This causeth that so many fall to disfauertyng and drunkenshyp. This causeth that so many dye before their time. Thys causeth that abundance is banished from among vs, and penury and scarcenes reygne vniuersally. This causeth y the hand of Gods blessyng is shortened, and y hospitalitie decayeth so greatly in euery place, vnto the great hinderaūce, yea and almost the vtter desolacyon of the commonweale, as the poore wretches shal fele within these few yeares, yf it be not otherwyse shortly prouyded. Would God therfore y for the auoidyng of these so great and so many incōmodities yea & abhominacyes, we would folow the exaūple of our sauiour Jesus Christ, which as we read in the Scripture when so euer he either fed other, or els did fede himself, vsed alway to geue yarty thaūckes to his celestiall father. And not he so, whē he fed at one time fyue thousād with fyue barly loues and two fishes, beside diuers other times? Did he not so likewise at his maundy, whē he instituted the most blessed Sacramēt of his body and blonde? Why did he this? Merely for our exaūple, that we shuld knowledge and confesse y what so euer we haue, we receyue it altogether at the bountyfous & liberal hand of God. Doth not S. Paul say, that meates are sanctified by the worde of God and prayer? We ought therfore surely when we go to dinner, or take any repast, to desyre God for to blysse our meate, and to make it healthfull & profitable to our bodyes, and to beleue that what so euer is there presents, we receyue it altogether of the grand munificence & exceadyng liberalitye of God, & so to behaue our selues al tyme of our repast, not only in receauing those gifts moderately & soberly, but also in our cōmunicacō, and

Psalm. lv. i. Pet. v. Psalm. cxliiii

Note.

Howe we ought to beh haue oure selues at the table.

O greate abuse. Marke and take hede.

The decay of hospitalitie.

Matth. xiiii. Mar. vi.

Iohn. vi.

Mar. xxvi.

i. Tim. iiii.

externall gestures, ỳ we may seme to sit not at a prophan, cõmune and vncleane table, but at the holy table of ỳ celestial and euerlasting king.

¶ The xxxix. Chapter.

Grace or thankes geuyng after dyner.

AGayn after we haue thus Godly and soberly taken our meate, let vs not faile to geue God hearty thankes for his benefites, which so bounteously of his own mere liberalitie & great goodnes hath fed vs at that present. Let vs also desyre hym that he will go forth to be a beneficiall father vnto vs, and to geue vs meat, not only that meate which perysheth, but much rather that which abideth into euerlastyng lyfe, I meane the most swet Gospel of hys interly beloued sonne Iesus Christ our most gentel Lord and omnisufficient Sauiour, that our bodyes beyng fed with corporall meate, and our soules susteined with ỳ word of lyfe, we may after thys lyfe be most happely fed with beholding the fruicion of the most blessed deitie. Amen. These thynges once done, let vs returne to our laboures, euery man accordyng to hys vocacyon and callyng, worksyng that thing that is pleasaunt in the sight of God.

John. vi.

For supper Note.

When the time commeth that we shall go to supper, let vs wt the same reuerence enioye the good creatures of God, that we did at dynner, as we behaued our selues at diner both in prayer and thankes geuyng, let vs so lykewyse do at supper. So shall it come to passe vndoubtedly, that we shall want no good thing, but haue plenty of all thinges accordyng to our heartes desyre. We must, sayth Christome, bothe when we go vnto the table, and come from it, geue thankes to God. For that table, whiche beginneth of prayer, and endeth also in prayer, shall neuer want, but shall bryng to vs all good thynges more largely and more plenteously then any fountayne. But I haue spoken of thys matter also in my Vaucket.

Deoratione Ho. lxxxviii.

¶ The xl. Chapter.

Howe we ought to beehaue our selues when we go to bed

AT nyght when we go to bed, we shal before we geue ourselues to slepe, knele downe vpon oure knes secretly in our chamber, with al humilitie and reuerent feare callyng vnto our remembraunce howe we haue spent al the whole day past. If we shall then perceyue that we haue offended the diuine maiestie in any thyng, either in thought, worde or dede, then let vs not fayle to confesse our sin streight way to God with a contrite and sorowful hart, desyryng him most humbly for his great mercyes sake, to forgeue vs that our iniquitie, and not to be angry with vs, but so assyst vs with the influence of his most holy spirite, that we may in no poynte transgresse his most diuine wyll, but worke all thynges that may be pleasaunt vnto hym. If we shal at that tyme perceaue that we ar at debate with any mã, let vs not go to bed before we be reconcyled one to another if it be possible accordyng to the precept of the Apostle, let not ỳ Sonne fall downe vpon your anger. If it may not cõueniently be don ỳ night, let vs not fayle the next morning betimes, or so sone as we may, to go vnto thẽ ỳ ar offended with vs, and Marke wel.

Ephe. iiii.

we with

we with the, and neuer ceasse till we haue made an agrement betwene vs, beyng perfectly perswaded, that we can by no meanes please God so long as we be not in loue and charytie. For as S. John sayeth, he þ loueth not his brother abideth in death. Euery one that hateth his brother is a manslear, and ye know that euery manslear hath not euerlasting lyfe abyding in hym. Loke what we haue offended God that day, let vs so bewayle our synne and take such thought for the doyng of it, þ we may haue no more pleasure to do that offence agayne, but rather be made the more circumspect and beware afterward that we be no more oppressed with the subtill assaultes of Sathan. Let vs euery day dy vnto synne. Let vs continually mortifye the affectes of the olde Adam. The longer we lyue, the lesser let sinne remayne in this our mortal body. Let all oure meditacion, study and endeuour be nothing els then a perpetuall care to leade a pure and innocent lyfe. i. Iohn. iii.

The .xli. Chapter.

But if it so chaunce, that when we haue considered the spendyng of the day, we perceyue no notable cryme and heinous fault committed neither agaynste God nor oure neyghbour, then let vs reioyse, geue God thanckes, and desyre hym so continually to ayde vs with his diuine helpe, that we may not only continue in that puritie of lyfe, but also go forth from fayth to fayth, and from vertu to vertu, tyl we waxe auncient in Chryste, and become perfect men in oure profession. These thynges once done, let vs then fal to prayer, desyring God for his great mercyes sake thorow Jesus Chryst to geue vs a prosperous and quyet nyght, and that neyther Satan nor non of hys Aungels do trouble vs but þ thoughe the body take rest & slepe, yet the mynd, the heart, the inward man, may alway watch to hym, and delyght in hym perpetually. After our prayers, let vs commit our selues to the tuicion of God, & so swetely geue our selues to rest. And let this be our dayly exercyse. O Lorde God, yf we would do this with a feruent heart and burning loue toward God, it can not be expressed what greate and singuler commodities would ensew. To do thus, is the dutye of vs all, but whyther we haue done it or not, let euery man searche his owne conscience and amende. Thus haue I declared what times I think most conuenient for prayer, and how we should behaue our selues in the time of praying I haue not done this to bynde and snarle the conscience of any christen man, which ought to be free to serue God at al houres, but to helpe the infirme and weake Christians, that they fyrst vsing these times, as certain introduccions, may afterward come vnto the perfeccion of worshyppyng God at all tymes. For a christen man shall haue abundante occasions at all houres to call on the name of the Lord for helpe. Notwithstandyng yf any man shall loke vpon these thinges, that I haue here written, with a syngle eye, he shal not find them altogither vaine. God geue vs all grace to follow them, or better, yf we maye. Rom. i. Psalm. lxxxiii. Note. Prayers before sleape.

Of thākes

Of thankes geuyng.

The.xlii. Chapter.

NOw begineth our worke to draw vnto an end. I haue declared sufficiently heretofore, as I trust, al thinges that moste principally pertaine vnto praier, that is to say vnto asking any thyng of God. It remaineth now therfore that I intreat somewhat of thankes geuing to God. For it is conuenient that we also geue thanckes vnto God for the giftes and benefites that we receiue of him, or els we may iustly seme to be vnworthy ani part of gods kindnes. For what haue we, ỳ we haue not receaued? The wise man ought not to reioise in his wisdom, nor the strong man in his strength, nor yet the ritch man in his ritches, but only in our Lord God, from whom euery good and perfect gift descendeth and cõmeth downe. Iacob.i. what hast thou that thou hast not receaued, saith Paule? If thou hast receiued it, i.Cor.iiii. wherfore dost thou reioyse, as though thou haddest not receiued it? Let not the wyse man, sayth God by his Prophet, reioyse in his wisdõ, nor Iere.ix. let not the strong man reioyse in hys strength, nor let not the ritch man reioise in his ritches. But let him that reioiceth, reioise in this, if he vnderstand and know me. For I am the Lord, which doth mercy, iudgement and righteousnes in the earth, and these ar those thynges that I desyre, sayeth the Lord. Seyng then that all our glory and reioysyng ought to be in our Lord God alone, as S. Paule sayth: Reioyse in the Lord alway, and agayne I say reioise, seyng also ỳ what so euer goodnes is in vs, it cõmeth only of him, verely we ought at al houres to reioyse in hym, as the moste blessed virgin Mary did, saying, My soule magnifyeth the Lord, and my spirite hath reioysed in God my sauiour, and to geue to him thankes, and to syng to his name, so long as our life lasteth, perpetuall laudes commendacions and prayses. If we wyll be moued to geue God thankes at any tyme, as we ought to do alwaye, we shall be firste conuemente to perpend, wey, and consyder his manifolde goodnes toward vs. Fyrst how at the begynning he made vs not lyke vnto brute bestes, but like vnto his owne symilytude and Image. And he made vs not to be fyre brondes of hell, but inheritours of euerlasting glory. For he gaue vs a body muche more beautifull and pleasaunte in aspect, then any other liuing creature hath. He gaue vs a mind also endued with wit, reason, discression, wisdom, vertu, knowledg, cunning, immortalitie, godlines. &c. He set vs in Paradyse, & gaue vs rule, power and dominion ouer all the fysshes of the sea, and the byrdes of ỳ ayre, and ouer all lyuing creatures that moue vpon the earth. Again when we in our parẽtes had transgressed his most godly precept, and therby deserued eternall damnacion, he did not streyghte way with the same rigoure and fearcenesse, wherwith he cõdemned the Aungels for their disobedient arrogancy, cast vs away in to the fyre of Hel, but ful gently sent vs in to this vale of misery for to repẽt, that afterward he myght

Iacob.i.
i.Cor.iiii.
Iere.ix.
All oure reioysig ought to be in God
Phili.iiii.
Luke.i.
How we may be moued to geue god thãkes.
Of our creation.
Note.
Gene.i.
Gene.iii.
ii.Pet.ii.
Esai.xiiii.
Gene.iii.
Psalm.viii.

saue vs, yet constituting and appointing vs styll Lordes and rulers ouer al lyuing creatures. ¶ The.xliii.Chapter.

MOreouer when it was not possible because of the great enormitie of our syn, ẏ we could of our owne power, strength, merites, deseruinges and good workes saue and wyn our selues againe into the fauour of God, how louingli without any desertes of our part euen of his owne mere goodnes and free mercy did he promise to saue vs by his derely beloued sonne our Lord Jesus Christ, and at his tyme predefined and appointed from euerlasting, sent him downe into thys world: which for our sake vnfaynedly by the wonderfull operacion of the holy Gost, toke flesh of the blessed, pure, and vndefiled vyrgin Marye, and became very man lyke vnto vs in all thynges, sinne alone except. which also after he had liued here certaine yeres, euē of his owne free wil without any cōpulsion for the feruēt and vnspeakable loue ẏ he euer bare toward vs, gaue himself vnto the very death, yea euen ẏ most spiteful and heinous death of the Crosse. He offered his most blessed body a swete smellyng Sacrifyce to God the father for our wickednesse. He suffred his most precious bloud to be shed vpō the Altar of ẏ Crosse to pay the raunsom for our sinnes. He refused no kind of painful grefe & greuous paine to apease Goddes wrath, and to recōcile vs vnto his celestial father. O good Jesu, sayth S. Bernard, how greatly were we endebted to thee, and yet dost thou pay our det? We haue sinned, & thou art punyshed. This is a worke without example, a grace without merite, a charitie without measure. Verely verely not the prodicion and betraying of Judas, not the furie and cruel malice of the Phariſes and Bishops, not the wicked and false witnesses, not the vnryghteous accusers, not the cruell & vnmercifull iudges did put Christ to deathe, but we our selues, our sinne, our iniquitie, our vngodlynes, our abhomination, our corrupt manners did slay hym, and put him to that most cruel deth. we ar they that dyd kyll him. we sought his deathe. we did betray hym. we did falsely accuse hym. we nayled him vpon the Crosse. we scourged his most blessed body. we shed his most precious bloude. we did cleue asūder his most blessed hart with a speare, out of ẏ which ran bothe water & bloud. We gaue him Eisel and Gaul to drincke. we scorned him, we mocked him, we did spit on his most swet face. we buffeted him, we bruised him, we were the Authors of all the tirāny, which was wrought against him. Yet for ẏ loue that he bare toward vs, did not he disdayne to suffer all these intollerable paines, by whose passiōs & suffringes we ar perfectly made whole, by whose most blessed bloud al oure sinnes are washed awaie, by whose deth, euerlasting life chaffeth abundantly vnto vs. O vnmesurable kyndnes. What a loue hath God to vs, that he spared not his onlye sonne, but gaue hym for vs all, that so many as beleue in him, may not perish but haue euerlasting life. And as God the father gaue hys sōne Christ vnto death for our sinnes, so dyd he raise hym vp agayne by hys mooste puissaunte power from deathe

Of our fre saluacion by grace & the mercy of god through Jesus Christ. Rom.i.

Luke.i. Marke.i. Heb.iiii. esay.liii. Phili.ii. Ephe.v. Math.xxvi. i.Tim.ii. Collos.i. Ser.quidam.

Note who did put christ to death.

Our synnes dyd put christ to death.

Mat.xxvi. Marke. xiiii. Luke.xxii. Iohn.xxii. esay.lii. i.Pet.ii. i.Iohn.i. Rom.viii. Iohn.iii. Rom.iiii. Ephe.ii. Math.i. Luke.ii.

death for our iustificacio. He is oure peace, how then can we be sad and heuy? He is our Sauiour, how then can we despayre? He is our waye, What christ is to vs. how then can we erre? He is our truth, how then can we be deceyued?
He is our lyfe, how then can we dy? He is our Resurrection, how then can we slepe in sin? He is our Physicion, how then can we be sicke & diseased? He is our lyght, how then can we walk in darkenes? He is our bread, how then can we be hungry? He is oure defender, how then can we be afeard? He is our wisdom, how then can we be ignorant? He is our righteousnes, how then can we be vnrighteous? He is our sanctificacion, how then can we be prophane and vnholy? He is our redemcio how then can we be damned? He is oure ryches, howe then can we be poore? He is our beauty, how then can we be deformed & yll fauoured?
He is our mediatour and aduocate, howe then can our matters be vn-heard? He is our head, how then can we his mẽbers perish? He is our Bishop and Curate of our soules how then can we want spiritual doctrine? He is oure dore, how then can we but enter into the kingdom of heauen? To conclude, he is altogither oures, & al that euer he hath, how then can we but sayle in a safe and quiet hauen? How then can we but haue all things prosperous & fortunate? Thus se we what an hie treasure Christ is to vs. If any mã desireth to know more of Christ, & what benefites we haue receiued by him let him read my worke of the News Search the newes oute of heauen. out of heauen, where he shall see Christ truly and liuisshly painted as lone and perfect redemer, and a plenteous and an omnisufficient Sauio-our for al them that faithfully repent and lede a new life. Would not these so greate cõmodities & large benefites, which we receiue of God the father thorow Jesus Christ, moue any christen hart in the world to be thankful, and to sing perpetuall prayses vnto God? For we haue lerned here, that all oure saluacion cõmeth only from God the father tho-row Jesus Christ, and that he saued vs mercifully when we were lost Tim. iii. miserably. But let vs beholde more of Gods kindenesse, that we may learne that thanks ought to be geuen vnto hym seriously.

¶ The .xliiii. Chapter.

ALthough by Christ we be set againe at libertye, and receyue our manumission and fredom frõ that captinitie, wherunto we were made bond by the synne of Adam, so sone as we ar regenerat and borne a new by the honorable Sacramente of Baptisme, and the holy Ghost, yet in as much as afterward thorow our fragilitie and weakenes we fal agayne into syn, and deserue thereby also to be cast from the fauour of God, & to be dampned perpetually, yf God dyd not also help vs in this behalfe, O Lord God, in how miserable a case are we? how should it profyt vs, by Christ to be delyuered from that wretchednes to the which Adã did cast vs, yf there wer not also a remedy to eyde that daunger, into the which we cast our selues thorow syn after Bap-tisme? Therfore here also doth the goodnesse of God appere very large and bounteous toward vs. For though we sin after baptisme neuer so grieuously

grenously, yet doeth not he streight waies take vengeãce on vs, & cast vs headlong into hel fyer, as he did the aungels, but he pacientlye abideth our conuersion, and loketh daily whan we wil repent, and amende, as the Prophet sayeth, the Lord long abideth vs, that he may haue mercy on vs. Also the Psalmograph. The Lord is gẽtle and merciful, pacient and of great pitie. The Lord is good & gentle to al men, and his tẽder mercyes are stretched forth vpon al his workes. Ieremy also saieth. It are the mercyes of the Lord that we are not consumed. Yea he exciteth and stirreth vs vp by his holy spirite, & geueth vs grace to repent, turne and amend, as he sayth by hys Prophet, I wil geue thẽ a new hart & a new spirite wil I geue in their inward partes, and I wil take awaye the stony hart from their flesshe, & geue them a fleshy hart, that thei may walke in my preceptes, and kepe my iudgementes, and do them. And they shalbe my people, and I shalbe their God Agayne, I wyll powre out vpon you cleane water, and ye shalbe made cleane from al your vn clennes, and from al your Idols wyll I make you cleane, and I wyll geue you a new hart and a new spirite wil I put in the mids of you, & I wyl take away the stony hart from your flesh, and geue you a fleshy hart, and I wyl put my Spirite in the mids of you, and I wyll make you to walke in my preceptes, and kepe and worke my iudgementes, & ye shal dwel in the land that I gaue to your fathers, and ye shalbe my people, and I shalbe your God & I shal saue you frõ al your vnclennes Moreouer he stil calleth vpon vs to come vnto hym, saying: Turne and repente you of all your iniquities. And your iniquite shal worke you no displeasure Cast away from you al your wickednesses, in the whiche ye haue offended, & make you a new hart, and a newe spirite. Wherfore wyl ye die O ye house of Israel? For I wil not that any shold dy, saieth the Lord God. Returne and lyue. Agayn, it is commonly sayd, If a mã leaue his wife, and she going away maryeth another husband shall he returne any more agayne vnto her? Shal not the woman be polluted and defyled? But thou hast played the whore wyth many louers, yet re turne again vnto me, saieth the Lord, and I wyl receaue thee. O most swete & comfortable saying. O most gentle Sauiour, worthy all praise glory and honor. Here may ye see how greatly we are bounde to God, and how great thankes we ought to geue hym, seeyng that he so great ly desireth our health, lyfe and saluaciõ, and willeth by no meanes our decay, death and damnacion. He is that gentle father, whych ioyfully receiueth again his lost son, and most louingly embraceth hym. He is ỳ shepehearde, which bryngeth home agayn on his shoulders, that shepe that was wandered away. He is that Physicion, that healeth ỳ sycke and diseased. He is that Sauiour, which came not to cal the righteous but synners vnto repentaunce. He is that helper, which daily cryeth, come vnto me al ye that labour and are laden, and I shall refreshe you Seke therfore the Lord, whyle he may be founde. Call on hym, whyle he is nigh. Let the vngodly forsake hys way, and the wicked man hys

ii. Pet. iii. Iob. iiii.

esay. xxx. Psal. cxliiii.

Lament. iii. God worketh repentance in vs. Ezechi. xi.

Eze. xxxvi.

Ezechi. xviii.

Ieremy. iii.

i. Tim. i.

Luke. xv.

Math. ix.

Mat. xi.

esay. lv.

thoughtes, and let hym returne to the Lord, and he shal haue mercy on hym yea but let him not fayle to turne vnto our God. For he is bounteous and very ready to forgeue.

¶ The.xlv Chapter.

By God are we preserued frō euill.

FVrthermore who is able to expresse how greatly we ar bounde vnto God for his diligent conseruacion and keping of vs? If we were not preserued & kept of hym, into how many euils shoulde we fall? How were it possible for vs to be free from the captiuite of Satan, to be pure frō the filthines of the flesshe, to be kept harmeles frō the tyranny of the world, if God did not defende vs? How many kynde of euils do we see daily perpetrated and done before our eyes, as theft, murder, treasō, adultry, fornicaciō, couetousnes, glotony, dronkenship, &c. which al vndoubtedly we should likewise do, if ye wer not preserued from them by the goodnes of God. For the fragilite of nature & the pronite vnto euil is al one in thē & in vs if we be left vnto our selues. Our perdicion cōmeth of our selues, but our saluacion cōmeth only of God, as ỳ prophete sayeth. Excepte the Lord, sayeth Esaie, had left vnto vs sede, we had ben as Sodom, & we might wel haue ben likened vnto Gomorre. Therfore seyng ỳ God kepeth vs frō these great enormites, we ar bey much bounde to geue him ryght harty thanks. Agayne vō how many gyftes doeth he endue vs daily? what haue we, that is not his gift, if it be good and godly? He engraffeth in vs by hys moste holy spirite, fayth, hope, charite, peace, ioy, pacience, longe sufferyng, mekenes, lenite, kindnes, modestie, honest behauour. &c. He geueth vs health for ours body. He geueth vs spiritual gladnes for our soule. He prepareth al thinges necessary for thys our nedy lyfe. He getteth frends for vs. He defendeth vs frō our ennmes. He preserueth vs in al goodnes. To cōclude, loke what a moste natural father is vnto his moste intierly beloued son, ỳ very same is he vnto vs. So that whatsoeuer we haue being good eyther pertayning to the soule or to the body, we altogether receiue it of this our celestial father. What great thanks therfore he is worthy to haue, who perceiueth not? S. Bernarde saieth, let vs geue thanks to our God for the good thynges ỳ we do, and let vs hūbly say to him wyth Esay the prophet: All our workes hast thou wrought in vs O Lord our God. Herto pertayneth the saying of S. Gregory: It is conuenient that we geue thankes alway to God, which neuer ceaseth to do wel, except he be lotted and hyndred through the noughtynes of men. Therfore what soeuer worke thou shalte begyn, fyrste call on God, and cease not to geue thankes, whan thou hast finished it.

Ose. xiii.

Esay. i. Rom. ix.

The benefites of God towarde vs.

Esay. xxvi.

¶ The.xlvi. Chapter.

We Englishe men aboue al nacyons are most bounde to geue God thankes.

ALthough it be so, that all nacyons of the world, euen frō the East to the West, ought to prayse the name of the Lord for hys innumerable benefytes, ỳ they wout deserues receaue of hym dayly, Yet I thinke there is no Realme throughout Christendō, ỳ hath so many & gēt weighty & necessary causes to geue god thāks, as we Englysh men haue haue at this present. To whom is it vnknowen wyth howe miserable captiuite we haue bene detayned and suppressed these many hundred yeares through the vsurped power and greuous tyrãny of the Bishop of Rome? Who knoweth not how greatly the consciences of Christen men were snared, yea and almost slayne through the decres of ỳ Byshop? How greatly was the Christian liberte enclosed and stopped vp so that no man could enioy the vse of those thinges, which the word of God determined free, wythout his license and dispensacion? How wer the singulare merites of Christes death, & the inestimable price of hys most precious bloud adnihilated and set at nought, and the Byshop of Romes pardons trusted vnto, and perfecte affiaunce reposed in them for remission of synnes and eternal saluacion? What a sort of Hypocriticall and superstitious workes crept in through oute Christendome almost, which onely were beleued to be the alone good workes, and the true good workes, which are commaunded of God in hys holy Scriptures, vtterly neglected, despised & set at nought? Who thoughte it not a more meritorious acte to gilde an Image, than to cloth a poore naked mã? Who thought it not a better dede to rũ gadding a pilgrimage into diuers countreyes for to seke dead Images, than to tary at home, and to visite ỳ poore members of Christ which lay bedrede, sicke, lame, feble and impotent? O extreme blyndnes. Agayne, what an infinite nõber of monstures, Monckes I would haue sayd, and other religiousse parsons, and God wot, as they desyre to be called, did there arise in this kyngdome? Who thought it not a better dede to put his childe into an Abbay, and there to liue idelly, swinishly and irreligiously pampred vp with al delicious fare that should prouoke vnto lewdnes, than to lette hym liue abroade in the worlde, and there to practyse some honest arte and occupacion, that might turne to the commodite and mayntaynãce of the common weale? What blindnes had inuaded thys Realme? Did not we thinke it rather our dutye to obey the proude Bishop of Rome than our own native kyng? Did not we esteme hys fantastic all decres aboue the edictes, lawes, & actes of our own kyng? Were we not more ready to folowe his sensuall lustes and beastly pleasures, thã to obey the commaundementes of our own kyng & ruler? Into what perylles would not we caste oure selues to do ỳ ramnish Bishop pleasure? Yea would God ỳ certayn of this realme in times past had not rather had a mynd to dye for ỳ maintenaũce of ỳ false vsurped power of ỳ Bishop of Rome than to liue wt obedyente and faythfull hartes to oure moste Christen kyng. O Lord God, what a blyndnes was thys? where was thys doctryne of Christ and hys Apostles become, that all men should be subiecte & obedyente to ỳ hygh powers? Thys sentence of S. Paule lay buryed: Let euery soule be subiect to ỳ high powers. For ther is no power, but of God. All powers are ordained of God. He therefore ỳ resisteth, resisteth ỳ ordinãce of god. And they ỳ resist, shal take to thẽ selues dãnaciõ. Also S. Peter: Be subiect to euery humaine creature for the

The tiranny of ỳ Byshop of Rome.

Rom. xiii.

Sapi. vi.

i. Peter. ii.

The king supreme head.

Lordes sake, whether it be vnto the king as supreme head, or to the rulers that are sent by him to the punishment of the euill doers, but vnto the praise of them that do wel. The Christen princes wer not had in reuerence and honor as thei ought O miserable case, and detestable abusii.

¶ The.xlvii.Chapter.

Beholde in what blyndenes we Englysh mē wer whē the Bishop of Rome ruled in this Realme.

FUrthermore what ygnorancy and blindnes was in thys Realme, concernyng the true and Christen knowledge? How many fauored Christ aright? How many walked in the streyght path wayes of Gods ordinaunces? How many beleued Christ to be the alone Sauioure? How many trusted to be saued only by the merites of Christes death, and the effusion and shedding of hys moste precious and blessed bloud? How many ran to God alone eyther in their prosperite or aduersite? How many embraced Christe for their sufficiente meditatoure and aduocate vnto God the father? How many felte the efficacye and power of the true and Christen fayth wherby a Christen man is freely iustified? Howe many coulde discerne the fayned and the true workes asunder? Howe many dyd knowe what they professed at Baptysme? How many had knowledge what their Pater noster mente, and wherfore they prayed? How many dyd perfectly vnderstande the articles of the Christen fayth? How many dyd knowe what the Ceremonyes of y Churche ment, as holy bread and holy water and such other? How many heard the Euangelical doctrine euer preached purely and sincerely? O good Jesu, be mercyful vnto vs. If I should go forth to rehearse all the abuses and al the ignorancy and blyndenes, wherewyth this now most free and flowrishyng Realme hath bē oppressed thys many hundred yeares through the tyranny of that Babilonicall strompet, it would vndoubtedly make a worke much longer then the Iliades of Homer. But now are these enormities yea and deformytyes of thys Realme of Englande vtterly eryled and banyshed. All false relygion is extirped and plucked vp by the rootes. The miserable captiuite, wherein we were oppressed in the Popes kyngdome, is turned into delectable liberte. Our consciences are restored to their old fredom. Christes death is beleued to be a sufficient Sacrifice for them that are sanctified. All pernicious fantasies inuented of ydle braynes are ful godly put downe. The famous Images, wherewyth the symple people commytted fornication, I meane, Idolatry, are iustly plucked downe, and conueyed out of the way. Al the monastical sectes haue put of their cowles and monstruous garmentes. Our most Christian kyng is now according to the verite of Gods worde and his iust and ryght title, recognysed to be supreme head and gouernoure of the churche of England next vnder Christ immediately here in earth. He is honored of vs his subiectes, as we ought by the law of God and had in reuerence aboue all creatures mortal. Not only hys most noble grace, but also so many as he appointeth to rule ouer vs, we obey wt al submission and humilite of mynde.

Apoca. xvii.

Englande is purged and made cleane of her deformities.

Heb. x.

¶ The.xlviii.Chapter.

Wherein

Moreouer ygnorancye and blyndnes are exiled & banished. Gods lawes are manifestly delared vnto vs. So that we may, if we wil kepe his most godly commaundementes. The moste sacred Bible is frely permitted to be read of euery man in the Englysh tonge. Many sauour Chryst aryght and daily the nomber encreaseth, thāks be to God. Chryst is beleued to be the alone Sauioure. We now faithfully trust to be saued by ỳ death of Chryst, and ỳ the bloud of Chryst maketh vs cleane from al syn. Chryst is beleued to be our sufficient mediatoure and aduocate. The true and Chrysten fayth, which worketh by charite, and is plenteous in good workes, is now receaued to iustifye. The good workes ỳ are appointed in the holy Scriptures, are now only vsed, & put in exercise amōge ỳ faythful. What we professed, whan we were baptised, many nowe know ryght wel. The twelue Articles of the Chrysten fayth, ỳ Lordes prayer, called the Pater noster, and the x. cōmaundementes are now rehearsed in ỳ English tonge both of yōg and olde, so ỳ now al vnderstande them. Many of the Ecclesiastical ceremonies are now ryght wel taught and knowen. To conclude, al old thynges are past, and newe thynges entred in steade of thē. And all these thynges hath God brought to passe by hys dearely beloued seruaunte, Henry our kyng. If his grace goeth forth, as he hath begū he shal make such a florishing Realme both in spiritual and corporal goods, both for the glory of God, & for the mayntenaunce of his Graces publique weale as none shal may be able to compare wyth thys Realme of Englande, throughout Chrystendome. And as hys most excellent maiesty shal easely ouercome and excel in the exercise of true godlynes all his predecessoures and leaue a memorable and immortal acte vnto his successours most worthy to be followed, so lykewyse may hys Grace be sure, that there is reposed and layed vp in store for hym in Gods treasure house ỳ vncorruptible crown of glory, which, whan his Grace shal geue ouer to nature, that most gloryous kyng of al kynges shal gene to hym vndoutedly for hys faythful walkyng in the diuine preceptes, & setting forth of gods glory. This thing brought to passe by hys Graces diligēce, ỳ al abuses plucked away, the true Godlynes may reigne, who shall not thā iustely thynke, that the golden world is come agayne, wherof the auncient learned men disputed so much in their most eloquent monumentes. Verely we shal than may wel say, as the Poet wryteth.

i. Iohn. i.

Gala. v. Rom. v.

The golden world.

Quid Meta. i. Vergilius. Eglo. iiii.

Magnus ab integro seclorum nascitur ordo.
Iam redit & virgo, redeunt Saturnia regna.

God mought assiste hys most excellent maiestie in all his godly and vertuous enterpryses. Amen.

¶ The .xlix. Chapter.

Thus see we how greatly we of the Englyshe nacion are bounde vnto God for the restitucion and bryngyng agayne of the knowledge of his most diuine wil, which so long hath ben hid vnder the bushel of mens tradicios. What cōdigne thāks ar we able to geue vnto him for this his inestimable goodnes? Uerely if euery one of vs, as Vergile saieth, had an hundred tonges, & an hundred mouthes, yet wer we not able sufficientlye to decantate, synge, & set forth his prayses. God graunte vs once to be truly thankfull. Now where are these parsons, which haue so litle pleasure in this regeneracio & new birth, as I may so speake, of gods most blessed worde and in the settyng forth againe of ỳ Euangelicall verite, oure onely lyfe, health & saluacion? Where are these Owles, which despising the most comfortable light of gods word chose rather cõtinually to walke in the darkenes of mens traditions, than once to approche vnto thys celistial lyght? Where are these Antichristes, which wil neyther themselues read the Scriptures, nor yet suffer other, that would reade them, but to ỳ vttermost of their power plucke men from readyng the most sacred Byble, the word of lyfe, of all ioy, and spirituall consolacion? Agaynst these wycked Papistes thondreth Chryst in the Gospel, saying: Wo be to you ye Scrybes & Pharises Hipocrytes, for ye speare vp the kyngdome of heauen before mẽ, ye do neyther enter in your selues, nor yet suffer them ỳ come to enter. Uerely if we do not shortly repent amende, and receaue with embrasyng armes this most swete worde of God we may be sure shortly to fealy most greuous plages of gods wrath fal vpon vs for our vnthãkfulnes And as Chryst sayd to certayne Cities for theyr ingratitude & vnthãkfulnes: Wo be to the Cozazin, wo be to thee Bethsadai, for if the vertues that haue been done in you, had ben done in ỳ citie of Tirus and Sidon, verely they would haue repented thẽ of their synnes in tymes past, yea and ỳ euen in sackecloth & ashes. Not withstãding it shall be more tollerable & more easy at the day of iudgemẽt to Tyrus and Sydon, thã to you. And ỳ Capernaum, which art exalted vnto heauẽ, thou shalt be plucked down euen to the very hel. For if the miracles whych haue been shewed in thee, had been shewed in Sodome, it had remayned vnto thys day. Notwythstandyng I say to you, it shalbe more tolerable to Sodome at the day of iudgemente than to thee: So may it be sayd to Englande: Wo be to thee Englande, for if the lighte of gods word, had come into other nacions, so plẽteously as it hath done in the verely they would haue repented and receaued it ioyfully. But ỳ doest neyther repent nor amende thy lyfe, nor take any pleasure in ỳ cõpany of it. Uerely it shalbe more easy at the day of iudgement to Sodome & Gomorre than to thee. Let vs not therefore doubte, but if we doe not shortly repent, amend our corrupt manners, and most ioyfully receaue wyth embrasyng armes thys most swete and cõfortable gospel of oure Sauiour Iesus Chryst, vndoubtedly the fearce plages of gods wrath will shortely fall vpon vs. The Scryptures shewe manifestly that the vengeaunce of God is not farre from vs. These benefytes, that are shewed vnto vs, declare euidently ỳ the plages of God are at hande. This lyght of Gods trueth, which now shineth to al mẽ, if they wyll receyue it, prooueth openly that gods wrath is ready to fal vpõ vs, if we shortely

The aduersaryes of gods worde.

Math. xxiii.

Math. xi.
Luke. x.

Marke and take hede.

doe

do not repent and amend. For this is the property of God, euen to send before his most holy word, as a messēger and ambassador to them that walke in darknes & liue dissolutely. If they receiue it, repent, & amende their liues, than doth his grace and fauor fal vppon them, and they are Gods welbeloued dearlinges, and shall wante no good thinge, as we read of the Niniuites. But if they obstinately resist it, laugh the worde of God to scorne, remain in their old infidelity and wickednes, thē doth God rise vp like a fearce Lion, whet his swearde, bende his bowe, and make ready his shaftes, which shall pearse the bodies of the wicked, as dartes of yron fire whot.

Note ỳ property of god in sendynge forthe hys word. Ionas. iii.

Beware ye scorners of gods worde betimes. Psal. vii.

¶ The. I. Chapter.

BVt come of I pray you hartely and tell me, did not God, whan he saw the world replenished so abundantly with sinne, that it coulde be no more, send Nohe to preach vnto them, and to exhort them vnto repentaunce and amendment of life, or els finall destruction shoulde chaunce vnto them? Yet for al this gentlenes of God, which desired rather their saluatiō than damnacion, if they would haue conuerted, they despised the most louing admonition of Gods messāger. They had the word of God in derision. They cōtinued stil in their brutall & beastlike liuing. They gaue them selues to eating, drincking, banketting, and al kind of carnall & volupteous liuing. They oppressed the pore people, for the maintenance of their fleshly and insaciable lustes. To be short, they walked as persons ful of carnal security, and cleane without all fear of God. But what followed this their wicked and dissolute liuinge, and contempt of Gods word? Verely vtter destructiō. For God saw ỳ they would by no meanes amend, but stil persiste in their abhomination, he repented him, that euer he made man, and shortly after sent such a flud vpon thearth, ỳ it ouerflowed & drowned al the worlde: Noe vō certen other onely reserued thorow the greate goodnes of God. O terrible history. Whose hart quaketh not for feare at the hearing of this history? Certes it is a terrible history for the aduersaries of Gods word, and for all wicked liuers. When the Sodomites liued so abhominably, that the very voyce of their sinne came vp vnto heauen, and pearsed the deuine eares, and cried for vengeaunce to fall vpon them, not only Abraham intreated for them, but also Loth preached vnto them, exhorting them to leaue their to much detestable and abhominable vnclennes, & to take the fear of God vnto them, and the study of a pure and innocent life. But they wold not. For the more that Lot rebuked them for theyr wickednes, the more plesure had they in it. They delited in their nought tines, & reioysed whan they had done euel. They had no fear of God before their eies. Yea they so liued, as though there were no God at all. Therfore God the righteous Lorde, seinge their detestable purpose still to remaine in theyr abhominable liuing, and no repentance, was of very iustice compelled to destroy them, by sending fire and brimston from

Gene. vii. ii. Pet. ii.

God set Noe to preach before he drowned ỳ world

Beholde the end of them that hate Gods word.

Gene. vi. Gene. vii ii. Pet. ii.

Gene. xix.

Lot preched to the Sodomites.

O abhomination.

Prouer. i. Psal. xiii

heauen, so that both Sodome & Gomorre withal thinhabitants therof, and al that euer pertained to them, were vtterly consumed with fire & brimstone from heauen. O dolorous spectacle, and heauy sight. This is an example, as S. Peter saith, for al them that do vngodly. Oh what it is to contempne the word of God and the true preachers therof.

ii. Pet. ii. Note.

¶ The. li. Chapter.

Moses and Aaron preached to the Egiptians. Exo. iii. Exo. xiiii.

AGain whan Moses & Aaron at the cõmaundement of God, preached to the Egiptians and willed thẽ to let the people of Israel go out of captiuity, that they might come and do Sacrifice to their Lord God, how litle was their preaching regarded? God plaged them, yet wold they not amend. At the last whan he saw none amendmẽt in them, did not he by strong hand deliuer thẽ out of captiuity, & drowned al their aduersaries? This came to passe vndoubtedly. If they would haue ben obediẽt to his voyce by ỹ mouth of his Prophets, they had neuer bene plaged, nor yet so finally destroied. Let al winchers & kickers therfore ỹ spurne against the truth, learne here what it is to despise the word of God and the faithful preachers therof. Moreoner as oft as the children of Israel did forsake their true God, which brought thẽ out of the land of Egipt, & ran an whore hunting after straunge Gods, and followed theyr own fantasies contrary to the prescript of Goddes word, God sent his Prophets vnto them, for to admonish thẽ of their duty, & to reduce and bring them again into the true way. But they wold not heare them, but persecuted them, entreated them vngentillye, prisoned thẽ, and neuer ceased frõ their crudelity, vntil they had slain them. God therfore seing how stifnecked & hard harted they wer, sent in their enmies on euery side, whiche destroied their Cities, spoiled their goodes, slue innumerable, & led the residue away captiue for theyr disobedience and ingratitude. At the last God sent vnto the Jewes his own sonne, that they might repent, conuert and amend. But how thankfully they receiued his comming, the Scriptures shewe more euidentlye than is nede here to be rehersed. What followed? Verely the vtter destruction almost of them al, as the histories make mention. Thend of them was so lamentable, yea and miserable, that no man can reade the history without teares and weping eies. Are not all these terrible histories to the despisers of Goddes word? Let vs not flatter oure selues nor make to much of our painted shethe, as they say. For surely that God, which in times past sent vengaunce vpon the earth for disobeying and contemning of his word, wil now also poure out his fearce plages vpon vs, we repent not shortly and amend. For after so greate lighte of Goddes word, if it be not thankfully receiued, obeyed and followed, commeth vndoubtedly alway a great and greuous plage, which is ineuitable & can not be eschued, except we amend. Let vs therfore with ioyfulnes receiue the doctrin of God, seke al meanes possible to promote it, liue therafter, practise it in our liuing, and win other men to it by our good conuersacion. Let vs not onlye saye that we are fauourers of Goddes word, Beware betimes beware.

Cruel murtherers. ii. Pa. xxiiii. Mat. v. xxiii. ii. Reg. xxv.

The Prophets of god wer vngentelly entreated of the Jewes.

Christe vngentelly entreated.

Behold the end.

God wil punish the vnthanckful reteiynge of his worde, if we do not amend.

word, and crake much of faith, but let vs liue soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world. For to read the scriptures, to talke of them, to boste our selues of faith is nothing to the purpose, except we institute our life daily according to Gods word. He that hath my commaundementes, saith Christ, and kepeth them, he it is that loueth me. Not euerye one that saithe to me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdome of heauē, but he that doth the wil of my father, which is in heauen. These thinges haue I spoken to admonish men of their duty, that they maye not abuse this singulare benefite of Gods worde, that is nowe come among vs, but liue worthy the kindnes of God, geue him righte hartye thankes, and so behaue themselues, that God may not take away this his inestimable benefite frō vs but rather encrease it vnto the glorye of his name, and the healthy of our soules. But I wil returne to our matter, and make an end.

Tit.ii

Marke thys well.
Ihon.xiiii.
Matth.vii.
Say not but that ye are warned.

A breue rehersall of Gods benefites towardes vs.

¶ The.lii. Chapter.

THus see we what greate causes we haue to geue thankes vnto God, if we cōsider his manifolde benefites, wherō he garnisheth vs daily. He made vs first of al not only like vnto his owne image, but also, whē thorow the sin of Adā we wer lost and dāned, he saued vs again freely of his greatmercy by Jesus Christ. And though we sin sometime thorow ỳ fragility of humaine nature contrary to oure promise at Baptisme, yet he hath mercy for vs laied vp in store, if we faithfully repent, & amēd our liues. He preserueth vs frō many greuous enormities, into ỳ which we should vndoubtedly fal headlonge, if we wer not preserued by his goodnes. He like a most gentle father federth vs, & sendeth vs al thinges necessary for this neady and porelyse. He appoynteth his holy Aungell to wayte vpon vs, that we may be oppressed nō no euell. He geueth vs fauoure in the syght of men. He sendeth to vs health both of body and soul. He grauntethy vs what soeuer we aske in the name of his sonne Jesus Christe. What woulde we haue more? Yea and that, which to a Christen man shoulde be moste acceptable and thanckfull, he hathe prepared for vs an euerlastinge kingdome, full of all ioy, pleasure, glory and felicity. No hart can thincke, no tounge can expresse, no eie hath sene those treasures, that God hathe prepared for so manye as loue him. Who hath euer had so bountifous a Lord, and so gentle and louing a father? He loueth, where he was not loued. He cureth where he was hated. He doth good to them, that despised his moste holy will. O burning charity. O incomparable loue. O kindnes vnspeakeable. How wil we now recompence this exceadinge benignitye of this oure bounteous and celestial father? What doth he require of vs again? Bilding of Monasteries? Gadding on pilgrimage? Offring vp of candels? Painting of Tabernacles? Gilding of Images? Prayng of long prayers without the affecte of the minde? Nay verely. For he hathe no nede of our goodes, as the Psalmograph saithe. What than? For sothe thankes geuinge. He that geueth hartye thankes to God for the benefites receiued,

God preserueth vs frō manye greuous enormities.
God fedeth vs.
God apoynteth hys holy angell to wayte vpon vs.
Ihon.xvi.
God sendeth vs helth bothe of bodye and soule.
God hathe prepared for vs an euerlasting kingdome.
Esa.lxiiii.
1.Cor.ii.
Rom.v.
Thinestimable kindnes of god toward vs.
Psal.xv
God requyreth of vs thanckes geuing for hys benefites.

Thankes geuing.

Note.

In cantica. Ser. liiii.

receiued, maketh God amendes largely. He onlye desireth of his faithful people, laudes, praises and thanckes geuing. Only he desireth that we be not vnthankfull, nor walke vnworthy his benignity & kindnes. For as S. Bernard saith, ther is nothing that displeaseth God so much chefely in the children of grace, as ingratitude and vnthankefulnesse. That he delighteth so much in prayses & thankes geuing it is euident,

The sacrifice of thankes geuinge.

Psal. xlix.

seinge that he disdaineth not in his holy Scripture to call it a Sacrifice, as though he should say, praise & thankes geuing is that, that pleaseth me, & geueth the swete sauour before my presence. But let vs heare the Scriptures. The Sacrifice of prayse, saith he, shall honor me. And a little before. Offer to God the sacrifice of praise, and pay to the moste highest thy vowes. Call on me in the day of thy trouble, and I will deliuer the, & thou shalt honor me. Do not al these sayinges declare manifestlye that the mooste acceptable sacrifice to God, is the Sacrifice of praise and thankes geuing? Can ther be a greater glory geuen to God than to confesse that all goodnes & vertue commeth only of him, & therfore all honour, laud, praise and glory ought to be geuen to hym alone? Undoubtedlye the Sacrifice of thankes geuinge pleaseth God highly. Neither is there any worke that we can do, that so highlye exalteth the name of God, as this sacrifice of thankes geuinge, or wherein god delighteth more. If there had vndoubtedly it had bene prescribed and setforth in the most sacred Bible. Did not al the holy Patriarches & so many as wer before Christes comming, offer this sacrifice of thankes geuing to God, as a thing to hym most welcome and acceptable? And although they also at diuers times offred externall sacrifices, yet wer these none other thing than a testimony & witnes of their inward sacrifice, which they offred in their hart, praising the name of our Lord God. Did not Christe also and his Apostles, as we reade in the holye scriptures, offer this kind of Sacrifice to our heauenly father? And as they did thus, so in like manner do they exhort vs euer to be thankfull to God, & to sing continual praises to his most blessed name. S. Paule saith, what so euer ye do in word and dede, do al things in the name of the Lord Jesu, geuing thankes to God and the father by him. Again. Be ye thankefull. Also in another place, geue thankes alway for all thinges in the name of our Lord Jesu Christ to God and the father.

Math. xi. Luke. x.

Col. iii.

Ephe. v.

To the Hebrues also he writeth on this manner. By him, he meaneth Christ, do we offer the Sacrifice of praise alway to God, that is to say, the frute of the lips, that geue glory to his name. Thus se we how diligent the holy scripture is, for to moue vs vnto this sacrifice of thankes geuing as a thing very pleasant, and much acceptable to the diuine maiestye. But let vs hear what S. Austen saith, ye we being instructed both with the holy scriptures & also with authorities of the ancient fathers, may the soner be moued for to geue God harty thankes at all times.

Heb. xiii.

Offer to God, saith he, the sacrifice of praise. I may come to my self, where I shall find that I may offer. I may come to my selfe, for in my self shall I finde the immolation and offring of praise. Thy altare is thy conscience. Offer therfore to God the Sacrifice of praise. We nede not take any thought, there is no cause why we should go vnto Arabia to seke frankensence, or to search the packes of the couetous occupiers. For God seeketh of vs the sacrifice of praise. This sacrifice of praise had Zacheus in his patrimony, had the widow in her closet, had a certain poore hostes, I know not what she was, in her time. Offer thou therfore to God the sacrifice of praise. This is thoffring, this is the sacrifice to geue thankes vnto him, of whome thou hast, what so euer good is, & thorow whose mercy is forgeuen, what soeuer euell is thine. Offer to God the sacrifice of praise, and pay to the most highest thy Prayers. For with this sauor is God delited. Behold how this most holy Doctor inculketh & beateth in stil the sacrifice of praise and thankes geuing. He saith, that we nede seke none other gift or present to bring vnto God but only the sacrifice of praise and thanckes geuing. For in that aboue al other hath God pleasure. The Psalmograph saith, thy vowes (God) are within me, which I shall pay vnto the, I meane, praises and thankes geuing vnto the. For thou hast deliuered my soule from death, and my feete from slidinge. Againe, I shall offer vnto the, the Sacrifice of praise, and call on the name of the Lorde. Also in another place, I wyll magnify the Lord at al times, and his praise shal euer be in my mouth: as though he should say, there shall no time passe awaye, whether it be troublous or mery, wherin I shall not praise the Lord. Both my youth and my age shall be bent to the praise of him. Hereof may we learne to praise our Lord God at euery momente.

In Psal. xlix.

Parke wel.

Luke.xix.

iiii. Reg.xiii.

Psal.xlix.

Psal.vi.

Vowes in ꝯ scriptures signifie prayses and thankes geuing.

Psal.cxvi.

Psal.xxxiii.

The.lxiii.Chapter.

There ought no vice to be further from the brest of a Christen man, then ingratitude and vnthanckfulnes. For as S. Bernard saith: Ingratitude is the enemy of the soule, the vtter putting away of merites, the disperson of vertues, the perdiction and losse of benefites, the fire that burneth and drieth vp the fountain of godlines, the dew of mercy, and the floudes of grace. If we geue our seruauntes any thing, they render vnto vs right harty thankes for it. Is it not therfore conuenient, that we be thanckfull to him, that geueth all things, and without whome we haue nothinge that good is: with what forehead dare we be bold to aske and receiue any thinge of God, and after warde not once to thancke him for it: O barbarous inhumanity. Ingratitude to much vnkinde. They that are of such churlish nature, are of the kind of the, which, as the Psalmograph saith, did forget the benefites of God, and the merualious tokens that he shewed. They were filled, yea they were stuffed euen full, saith God by his Prophet, & they than lifted vp they hart, waxed proud, & forgat me. And therfore I am become vnto them as a Lion, & as the Cat of the mountain, that runneth so swiftly.

In Cant. Ser.v.

What ingratitude is

Note.

Psal. lxxvii.

Ose.xiiii.

I wil

I wil mete with them as a Beare that hath lost her yong ones, and I wil breake a sonder their obstinat hart. Yea I wil deuoure them as a Lyon, and the beastes of the feld shall teare them on peces. O terrible threatning for the ingrate & vnthanckful persõs. This wil surely come to passe, if we put not away our ingratitude and vnthanckfulnes. For the Lord is faithfull in all his wordes, and can not lie, in asmuch as he is the self truthe.

Psal.xxxiiii. Titus.i.

The.lb.Chapter.

Therfore if we entend to haue God the father a beneficiall father to vs, & his sonne Jesus Christ a mercifull sauior, let vs in al thinges geue thanckes to God at all times, yea and that not only in prosperity but also in aduersity, as the holy man Job did, sayinge: The Lord gaue it, & the Lord hath taken it away, as it pleased the Lord, so is it come to passe, blessed be the name of the Lord. Let vs watche and pray that we fal not into tẽtacion. Let vs flie to God at al times with humble obsecrations & herty requestes. Let our praiers be continuall. Let thẽ procede from a faithfull & charitable hart. Let vs aske all thinges accordinge to the wil of God, yea and that in the name of Christe. Let vs in al our praiers seke the glory of God, the auauncement of his most blessed word, and the helth of our own soules. Let vs pray for the preseruation of the kings most excellent maiesty, and for the prosperus succesſe of his intierly beloued sonne Edward our Prince that most angelike impe. Let vs pray for al the Lordes spiritual and tẽporall, specially for those that haue the regiment of the publique weale vnder the kinges graces highnes. Let vs pray for the ministers of Gods worde, that they may frely speake the truth of Christes Gospell, as it becõmeth them. Let vs pray for al men vniuersally, chiefly for the inhabitants of this Realme of England, that they may all beare a faithful hart both toward God and oure kinge. To conclude, let vs pray that the will of God may be fulfilled in all thinges.

Iob.i.

Math.xxvi.

An exhortation to prayer & thankes geuing.

Col.iii.

When we haue thus praid, let vs at al times geue thanckes to God for his benefites. So shal it come to passe, that he shal not only not turn away his kindnes from vs, but also encrease it daily vnto the great consolation and comfort of vs al. If this thing shall come to passe that we both pray feruently, and also geue thanckes to God hartely, I shal not a litle reioyse that I haue taken the labor and paine in compiling this Pathway vnto Prayer, yea it shal encourage me hereafter to attempt other enterprises of no lesse importaunce and vtility. Which thing (most gentle reader) that it may come to passe, praye for me vnto oure Lorde God, that he may finish that thing in me, which he hath begun, vnto the glory of his most blessed name, the promocion of his most godly word, and the profit and edification of his most holy and Catholike Church. Amen.

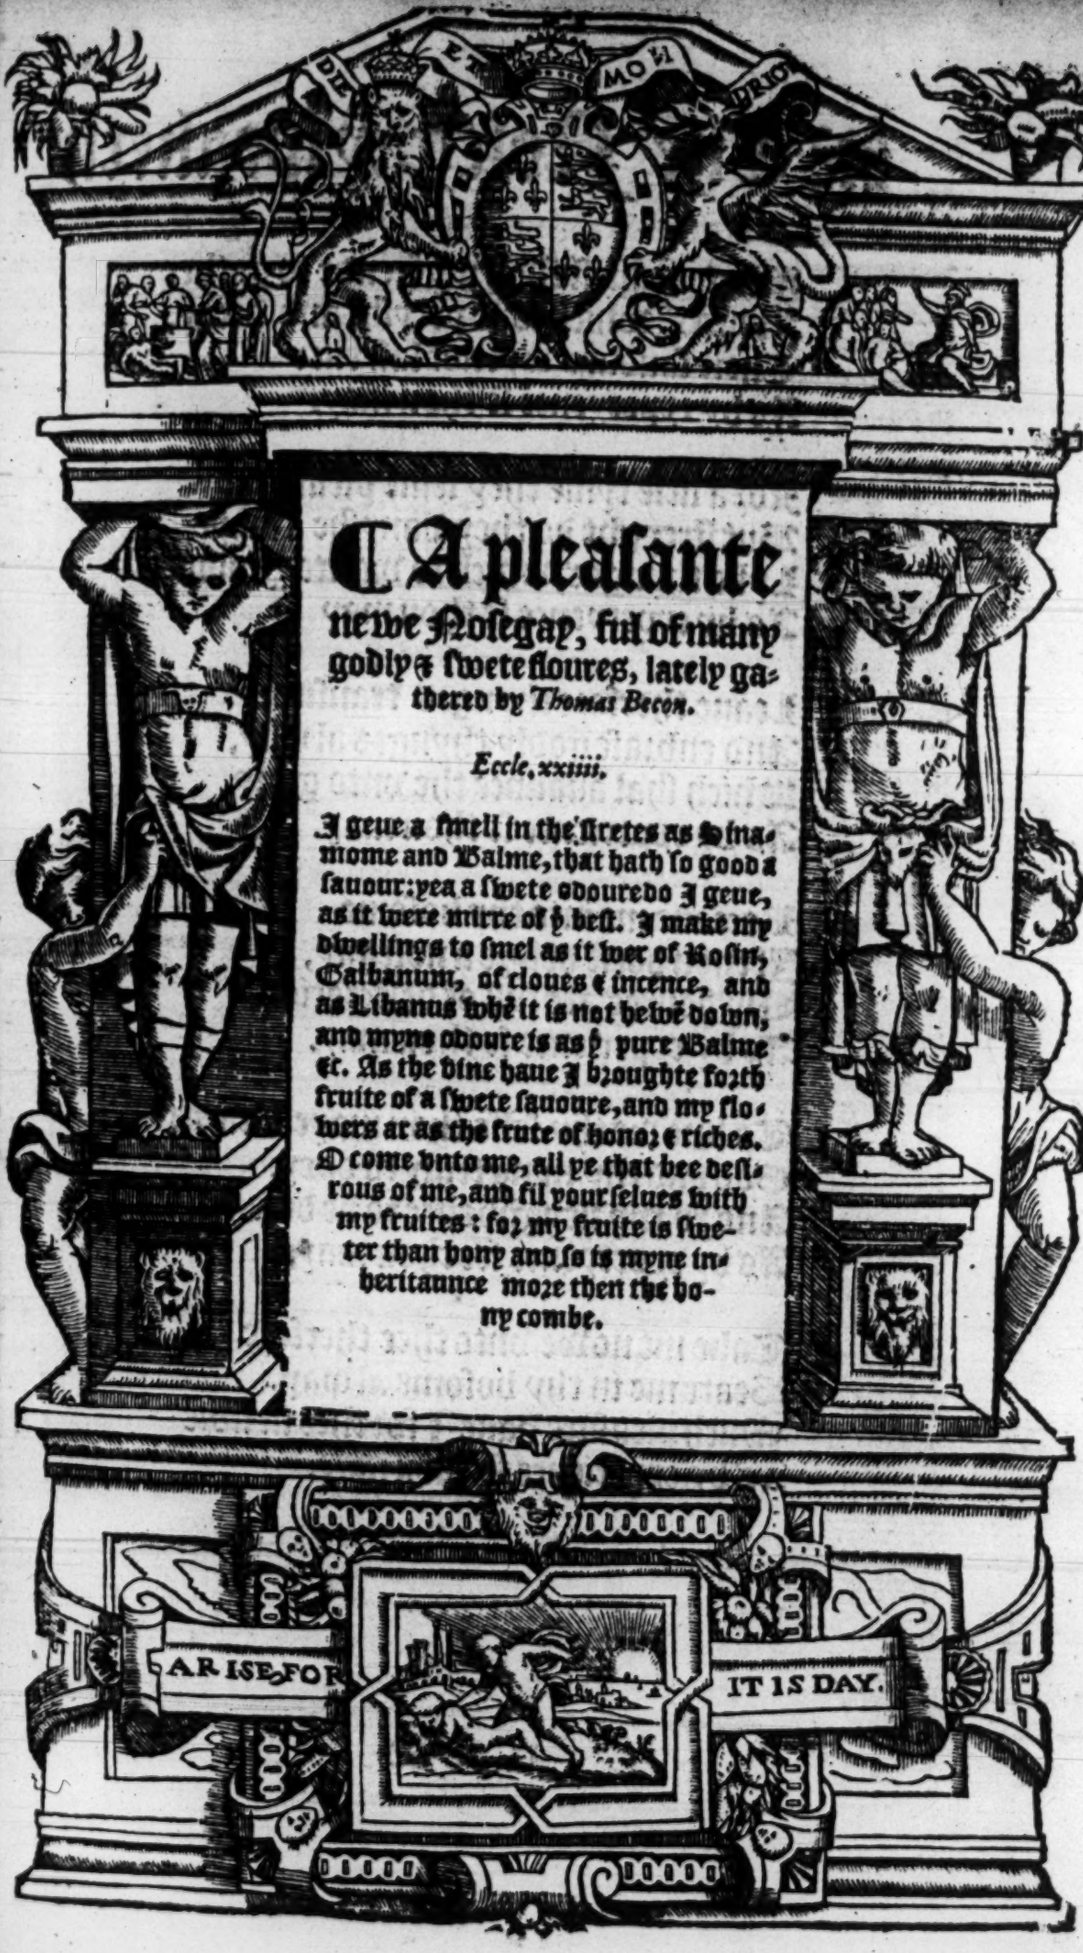
11 JU 62

Geue the glory to God alone.

¶ A pleasante newe Nosegay, ful of many godly & swete floures, lately gathered by Thomas Becon.

Eccle. xxiiii.

I geue a smell in the stretes as Synamome and Balme, that hath so good a sauour: yea a swete odouredo I geue, as it were mirre of ẏ best. I make my dwellings to smel as it wer of Rosin, Galbanum, of cloues & incence, and as Libanus whē it is not hewē down, and myne odoure is as ẏ pure Balme &c. As the vine haue I brought forth fruite of a swete sauoure, and my flowers ar as the frute of honor & riches. O come vnto me, all ye that bee desirous of me, and fil your selues with my fruites: for my fruite is swete ter than hony and so is myne inheritaunce more then the hony combe.



The Nosegay speaketh

What meanest thou my frende to gather Floures, which sone perysshe and decay,
Their sauours wyl not last euer
As by experyence se thou may.

For a litle tyme they seme pleasaunt
But streyght do they vanysshe awaye,
Lyke thynges, which to vanite graunt
As by experyence se thou may

Leaue therfore thynges transitory
And embrase godly thynges alway,
Which shal auaunce the vnto glory.
As by experience se thou may.

Receaue me into thy bosome
If thou doest desyre a nosegay,
My floures are full of delectacion
As by experience se thou may.

To knowe thy selfe thou mayest learne here
God and thy kyng truly to obey.
And to thy neyghboure to be dere.
As by experyence see thou maye.

Take me nowe vnto thee therfore
Beare me in thy bosome alway,
Much pleasure haue I for thee in store
As by experience se thou may.

BRITISH MUSEUM

To the ryghte worshypfull

mayster George Whetenhall Esquyer, Thomas Becon wisheth contynuall health, and prosperous felicitie.

Although we haue most vrgēt and weighty causes, yea and those innumerable to extoll, magnifie, commende and praise the exceadyng goodnes and bounteous liberalite of our most mercyful father, if we weigh, ponder & consyder hys inestimable benefites, which he freelyand without our deseruing daily geueth vnto vs myserable creatures, yet if we weigh al thynges in a iust balaunce, we shal easely & without any difficulte perceaue, that we are most bounde to celebrate & praise his moste blessed name for the restoryng of hys holy worde at thys tyme, broughte to passe by his true annointed Henry our most redoubted king as by another Josias, whose graces moste excellent maieste that Lorde of powers mought prosper in al his diuine affayres and godly enterprises. For before God restored to the world the gospel and ioyful tidinges of his derely beloued son oure Lord & Sauioure Jesus Christe, incredulite as chefe ruler reigned in our hartes, Hipocrisy as a vain glorious Empresse bare dominion, superstition, Idolatrye, false sectes, mens traditions, confidence reposed in humayne inuencyons, Pilgrimages, Offringes, Bulles, Pardons, dispensations, Masses of Scala celi, marchādise for merytes and workes, byeng and sellyng of ỳ diuine misteryes, wᵗ an whole sea of euils mo, had crept in, vnto the great perturbacion & disquietnes of the holy catholyke churche, as I may passe ouer the blynde ignorancy & ignorant blindnes, into the which by this meanes we wer cast and tombled. How cā it otherwise be: If the light of gods worde be obscured extincte or quenched, which only is the lanterne to our fete, and a lyght to our pathwayes, what maruayle is it, thoughe the fearce and outrageous floudes of Idolatry and all kynd of superstitiō breake in and inuade the boundes of Christianite, yea and ouerflow them. For as Faith, Hope, Charite, Peace, Mercy, Pacience, long sufferyng, humilite, sobriete iustice, spiritual liberte, obedience towarde the highe powers, and all goodnes reigneth, where the Lordes worde beareth rule so in lyke maner, where that is expulsed, banished and exiled, Incredulite, hatred, enuy couetousnes, vengeaunce, contencion, Glotony, dronkennes, rapacite, immoderate lustes, vncleane affectes, carnall lyberte, disobedience, insurreccion, arrogancy, pryde, ambiciō, crudelite, manslaughter, theft, false witnes, hipocrisy, ignoraunce, blyndnes, sectes, Heresy, and althat is contrary to the commaundement and wyl of God, beareth dominion, and hath preeminence, as Salomon sayeth, Where knowledge is not, there is no goodnes for the soule. Again, whan the preachyng of gods worde fayleth, the people perish and run cleane out of order. Therfore it is wryten by the Prophete, make hast to the lawe and witnes. If they speake not according to this worde, they shall not haue the mornyng light, that is to say, the true knowledge of God. Rebuked not Christ the Saducees, because they wer ignorant in the holy Scriptures, affirming that they were deceaued for lacke of the knowledge of the: Ye ar deceaued, sayeth he, because ye know not the Scriptures. Therfore in the gospel of John, he exhorteth all psal.cxviii.

Sapi.xiii.
prouer.xix.
Prouer. xxix.

Esay.viii.
Marke.xii.
Iohn.v.

teth al men to searche the Scriptures, saying: searche ye the Scriptures, for they Ihon.v. are they that beare witnes of me. And the Psalmograph calleth the blessed, which Psal.cxviii and.i. searche the testimonies of the Lorde and meditate in his law both day and night.
Rom.i. The worde of God must nedes be an excellente and precious treasure, seyng it is i.Tim.iiii. the power of God vnto saluation for so many as beleue, seing also it is profitable to teache, to improue, to amende, and to instructe, in righteousnesse, that the man of God may be perfect and prepared to al good workes. Who is able to expresse, what a precious relique and high treasure the worde of God is: Verely it is that Math.xiii. treasure, whereof Christe speaketh in the Gospell, that lieth hidden in the fielde, which, whan a man once fyndeth, for ioye therof he goeth and selleth all that he hath, and bieth that felde. And it is no lesse treasure to the soule, thā the corporall psal.cxviii. eies are to the body, as the Psalmograph testifieth: Thy worde, O Lorde, is a lanterne to my fete, and a light to my pathwayes. For as that man, that is depryued Math.ix. of his corporal sight, knoweth not how nor where to walke, so lykewise, he that wanteth the light of Gods worde seeth nothing, and therefore walketh he not in right but wandreth abrode like a shepe dispersed & destitute of a shepeheard. But as he that hath the true and perfecte sight of the eies stombleth not, but walketh at all tymes without daunger, so in like maner he that is endued by Christes spirite with the light of the holy Scriptures wandreth not frō that true way, which Ihon.xiiii. sayeth of hymselfe, I am the way, the trueth and the lyfe, but alway is preserued, that he walketh cōtinually in the kinges high way, declining neither on the right Deute.xii. hande nor on the left hand. He is not caried about wyth straunge doctryne. His Hebrn. xiii. faith is bilte on a sure rocke, therfore abideth he firme, immutable, stedfaste, sure Math.xvi. and constante, what soener kinde of tempeste assaileth hym. The gates of hell can Math.vii. not preuayle agaynst hym. Satan with all his army are not able once to abouse Luke.vi. remoue hym from the true way. For the light of gods worde is contynually before his eies, wherunto he geueth diligent attēdance, which also he foloweth earnestly in al hys iourneies, and therfore must he nedes walke the true way, and neuer erre. If he be blessed, fortunate and happy that hath the naturall lyght of his ii.Pet.i. body, how much more blessed and heauenly at ease is he, that is illumyned wyth the lyghte of the Lordes worde: whereof the holy kyng Dauid hauing experience psal.cxviii. prayeth on thys maner, open myne eyes, & I shall cōsyder the meruelous things Iohn.xii. of thy lawe. To walke in thys lyght, Christe exhorteth vs, saying, walke while ye haue lyght, lest the darknes come on you. He that walketh in darkenes, wotteth not whither he goeth. While ye haue lyght, beleue on the light, that ye maye be the children of light. So many as be of God, loue this light of the Lordes worde, and desire with al their hart to walke in it. But they that be of Satan, hate it, & refuse to walk in it. Why so? Verely for they are beastlike minded, stiffe necked, Actes.vii. in al thinges resist the holy gost. The light they hate, be it neuer so pleasaunt and wholesome, but the darkenes they enhalse, loue, kisse and kull, be it neuer so perilous and horrible. Therefore shall they receaue the greater damnation, as Christe Iohn.iii. witnesseth saying, this is the condemnacion that light came into the worlde, and men loued darkenes rather then light. For their works wer euil. Euery one that doeth euil, hateth the lyght, neither commeth he to the lighte, leaste hys workes should be reproued. O how blessed are they, to whom it is geuen to walke in this light. Againe, how miserable, wretched and vnhappye are they, that speare their Esay.xxx. eyes at the comming of this comfortable lyght, and wyll not only not walke in it themselues, but also laboure to the vttermost of their power to obscure & quenche it, that it may appeare and shine to none at all. These are those people, which, as the Prophete sayeth, prouoke God to anger. These are the lying and vnfaythfull children. These are the children that wil not heare the lawe of the Lorde. These are they, whiche saye to them that see, see not, and to them that looke, looke not for vs those thynges that are ryghte. Speake vnto vs pleasaunt thynges, prophesye vnto vs tales of Robyn hod, take away frō vs the right way, go out of the path, away with that holy one of Israel from our face. These are they, which hate him that reproueth them openly, and abhorre hym ẏ telleth the trueth playnly. These are they, which cal euil good, and good euil, darknes lighte, and lighte darkenes, bytter swete, and swete bitter. These are they which are wise in their owne eyes, and stande wel in their own conceate. But agaynst all such as contemne the holy Scriptures and cast away the law of their Lord God, willing neither to enter thẽ selues, nor yet suffring other, Christ thondereth on this maner, wo be to you lawers, for ye haue taken away the key of knowledge, ye haue not only not entred in, but ye haue also forbydden them that entende to enter. But wythout doubte they shal no lenger preuayle. For the day of the Lorde is at hande whan he shall breake Satans head and destroy both him and al his ministers with the breath of his mouth. For he wil no lenger suffer this great wickednes and high abhomination. He wil be knowen for the God and Sauiour alone. He is that Lorde which alone wil be exalted, and al Idols shalbe vtterly broken on peces. He is that god, which wil no lenger suffer his glory to be attributed ẏ geuen to other. He is that lawer, which wil expulse the darkenesses of mens traditions, that lighte with hys infallible verite, and bryng in the glorious lighte of his moste holy worde. To be short, he wil deiecte and ouerthrowe al the Idols, that obscure hys glory, and set vp hys blessed name to be praysed and magnified for euer and euer. So be it. Of this thing haue we experyence euen at this tyme, in the which that Lord of puissance hath most puissantly by his derely beloued seruaunt Henry our most vertuous and godly king, subuerted, to pied down, and ouerthrowe a great part of Antichristes kingdome, so that by hys diuine polecy and godly enterpryse, ẏ greate whore of Babilon, the mother of al whoredome and abhominacyons of the earth hath lost her chefe glory and renome, and is now become so vile, that she is eueu made the habitacion of diuils, and the holde of all folwle spirites and a cage of all vncleane and hatefull bydes. So that no man now wyl once by any of her marchaundyse. And without doubt the tyme is at hande, that Babilon shal haue such a fall, that it shal not be able after thys at any tyme to be repared. For the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it, which is faythful in all hys wordes, and whose trueth abydeth for euer and euer. Neyther can this prophecy of Christ be made frustrate by any humayne polecy: Euery plante, that my heauenly father hath not planted shalbe plucked vp by the rotes. Who reioyseth not to heare these thyngs, yea who triumpheth not to see them: Blessed are we to whom it hath chaunsed not onely to heare these thynges ioyfully, but also to see them pleasauntly, and which hereafter shal vndoubtedly see such thynges mo, as shal maye be able to prouoke any faythful hart seriously to reioyse. Verely al though we be occasioned diuers waies to geue God immortall thankes for diuers gyftes, yet me thynke we ar most highly bounde to be thankefull for the restitution of his most holy word in these oure dayes. And wo worth them, that be vnthankeful in this behalfe, excepte they repent and mende. The Scriptures shewe how that in the tyme of kyng Salomon there was so great plente of syluer at Jerusalem, as there was of stones in the stretes. What carnal man would not haue delighted to inhabite hymselfe there: Yet verely in my iudgement we do far excel the glorious aboundaunce of Salomon and al hys inworldly treasures, to whom it is geuen not only to florysh with worldly goods, but also wyth the incomparable treasures of the spirite. So that our condicion at this present doeth not a litle excede and passe the state of those Israelytes, whyche lyued so gloriously vnder the empyre and dominion of Salomõ Certes as concernyng my selfe, let God be but a litle merryfull vnto me, if I had not rather chose to lyue vnder thys oure moste Chrysten kyng wyth that litle nothyng that I haue, and to enioye the benefyte of Gods worde, than to lyue vnder Salomon, if he were nowe alyue, and there to abounde wyth all affluence and plente of all worldly rytches. I am sufficiently ritch, so long as I haue the rytches of gods worde wyth me. And I doubte not, but that of this opinion are so manye as tender the glory of God and the health of their own soules. Nowe seeyng that Amos.v.

Esay.v.
Luke.xii.
Iob.xv.
Esay.xi.
Daniel.viii.
ii.Thes.ii.
Esay.ii.
Esay.xlii.
Iacob.ii.
Apoca.xvii.
Apo.xviii.
Esay.xii.
Iere.xv.
Apo.xiiii.
Psal.cxliiii.
Psal.cxvi.
Math.xv.
iii.Reg.iii.
ii.Para.ix.

this incomparable treasure and inestimable benefite of Gods word, is so bountifully geuen vnto vs, let vs altogether consente with one minde to conserue and maintaine this most precious Jewel, that we lose it not hereafter throughe our own negligence. Let vs not hynder them that go about to repare and bilde againe the Temple of our Lord God, but rather pray for them, that they may haue prosperous successe, and bring their labours to a fortunate ende. Yea let vs euery one helpe to the edification and bilding of gods house. If we cannot make the walles yet let vs fetche morter and stones to the Masons for to make it wyth. Let vs further the building so much as we may, and not hinder it by any meanes, least we be cursed of God. Let vs cast our money together euery man for his portion to the making of this glorious temple, that the name of God may be praised in it of the faithful for euermore. If we be not able with the ritche men to cast great abowndaunce of goods into the treasure house, yet let vs with the powre widowe of the Luke.xi. gospel at the least geue two minutes, and God wil surely approue and accept our good wil. Onely let vs not hinder the workemanship of it, but further it to the vttermost of our power, so shal the blessing of God be among vs, and we shall dwell Esa.xii. safely in his holy mountayne, & the earth shalbe replenished with the knowledge of the Lord, euē as the water of the sea that ouerfloweth the lande. And although there may be inuented diuers wayes to reedify and bilde agayn thys house of the Lord, yet me thinke to speake generally, the nert and most ready waye to further it, and to bryng it vn to a good ende, is to liue vertuously, and euery man studyously to do that vnto the which God hath called hym. For withoute doubte thys i.Cor.vii. our dissolute and remisse maner of liuing hath hitherto very much hindred ỹ bylding of Gods temple, I wil not say, that it hath driuen away many, which would haue beene strenuous and valeaunt labourers in the worke of the Lorde, if our sluggishnes hadde not perswaded the contrarye. In consideracion whereof, although I am no fit person to be a workeman in this behalfe, yet verely I desire with al my hart that this bilding of the Lordes Temple may go forwarde, and I wishe to the labourers therof all prosperous and fortunate thynges, ỹ they maye bryng their worke vnto a glorious and ioyful ende. And although I cānot greatly further their godly labours, yet wil I not hynder them, but helpe them to the vttermoste of my possybilite in all thinges. Lette other bryng Ceder trees, silver, golde, Pearle and precious stones vnto the buildinge and garnyshinge of thys Temple, I wil again for my part gather stones, fetche the tymber, and make the morter or do such small thynges, as my lytle strengthes shalbe able to beare and Eccle.xiiii. sufferr. And that al men may haue an experiment of my good wil towarde the bil-
Esay.xl ding of this temple, beholde at thys tyme I bring forth a nosegay for to adourne i.Peter.i. and garnishe the Temple with all, hauing in it. v. floures, yea and those not such Iob.v. as wyl wither away at the heate of the Sōne but rather such as the beauty wher-Iacob.i. of wil neuer decay, nor be obscured with the fearce asperite of any tempeste. The firste floure is called, vnfayned Humilite. The seconde, pure innocency. The thirde, Faythful obedience. The fourth, Redy assistence. The fift, Christen Charite. These be such floures, as whosoeuer smelleth well vnto them, and replenisheth his senses with the odoriferous sauoures of them, surely he shal right sone perceaue, that there can no floures be gathered, that shal make more vnto the adournemente of gods tēple, than these afore said. For of the first he shal smel the right knowledge of himselfe, which after the censure of al learned men is the beginning of all wisdome, and learne to be humble, meke, and lowely, without the whiche howe can any man fortunately aspire and come vnto any progresse or furtheraunce in vertues? Of the seconde, he shal sauoure how he ought to behaue himself vnto God, that he may walke innocently, as it becommeth hym. Of the thirde he shal learne true obedyence towarde his Prince. Of the fourth, he shal smel, what his duetye is towarde hys Christen brother. Of the fift, how al these thinges ought to be doe. Can any thing be founde more precious for the garnishing of gods Temple, than this nosegay which bringeth to al the faithful such delectable, swete, mellifluous

The knowledge of a mās self is ỹ beginnynge of wisdome.

and

and comfortable sauoures. Whoso smelleth on this Nosegay, shall neither offende himselfe, nor God, nor the kinges grace, nor yet his neighboure, but shall woorke al thinges according to the wil and pleasure both of God & man. Verely I would wish it not oncly to be borne in the handes or bosoms of all Christen men but also to be printed and fast roted in their hartes, so might they be sure to lyue in this world a quiet godly lyfe, and after their departure to enioye that glory, whiche is immortal. God graunt it may come to passe. This my Nosegay gathered of me in the space of few daies at such hours, as I could conueniently sufferate, and steale away from thinstitution and teaching of my Scholiers, I now offer and dedicate to your right worshipful mastership, as a testimonye and memoriall of my right hartye good wil toward you, most instantly desyring you to accepte it with suche good minde, as you are alwaies accustomed of your naturall humanity and gentlenes to receiue the giftes and presentes of them which desyre frendly and wish well vnto you. The gift is little I confesse, and vnworthy your bounteous liberality shewed toward me at all times. No meruaile. For what should an hearbe bring forth but Floures, pleasaunt for the time, but sone perishing. Yet yours Basyl at this time hath brought forth to you such Floures, as heauen and earth shall soner perishe, than the leaste leafe of them shall so muche as once wither away or lose the beauty therof. Wherfore I do not doubte, but that this my little gift shalbe acceptable vnto you, if not for the price of it, yet for the long continuaunce of the same, and so much the more because at this time, you are partlye occupied in thadourning and garnishing of that your new garden with most swete Hearbes and pleasante Flowers. So that the hearbes of that your garden, and the Flowers of your Basill put together, will vndoubtedly make goodly and swete sauors, thone for the body, thother both for body & soule, which thing that Lord myghte graunte, from whome descendeth euerye good and perfect gift.

God preserue your good mastership long in health, with the right worshipfull and vertuous Gentle woman your wife and al your family.

So be it.

The Nosegay.

Philemon, Eusebius, Theophyle, and Christopher talke together.

¶ Philemon.

THere wanteth not at this presente time, which not onlye them selues are but little studious, vigilante and laborous for the prosperous propagacion and setting forth of diuine litterature and godly knowledge, wherby the faithful are inserted, planted and engrafted in our Lord and Sauiour Christ Jesus, but they also vituperate and discommende the serious and painefull endeuours of other, which withall main labour to dilate and enlarge the kingdom of God, and the glory thereof, yea that not wout great daunger of theyr health, as I may adde nothyng hereto. With what spirit such persons be inflated and puffed vp, I will not here define. But certes they very muche aberre, dissente and are estraunged from my sentence, iudgement and perswasion. For I desire and wish with all my hart, that all men liuinge were in the bowels of Christ, and that the word of Christ might opulently, ritchly and abundantly dwel in them with al wisdom and knowledge, be they Turkes, Jewes, Sarazens, or any other, seing that ther is one Lord of al, sufficiently rich for so many as cal on him in spyte and verity. We reade Moses desired so greatlye the healthe and saluation euen of the grosse Idolaters the Jewes, that he estemed his own wealth and fauour of no price without theyr health and prosperity, yea he wished to be blotted out of the boke of life, if ỳ people of Israel were not also saued with him. O feruent charity and burning loue. Howe many waies sought our most gentle sauiour Christe also to bringe his ennemies to repentaunce? Would not he haue gathered them together, as a hen doth her chickens, and yet they wold not? Did not he deplore and lament euen with profuse & most large teares theyr obstinate blindnesse and blinde obstinacy, whan he tofore saw the perils imminent & that wer ready to fal vpon them? Did not he pray for them, euen whan they had hanged him on the crosse? Did not he suffer his most blessed body to be broken, and his most precious blud to be shed for their redemption, if they wold conuert & amend, yea & at the last geue his own life for their saluation? O loue incõparable. O charity without mesure. What nede I reherse S. Paul, which so intierly thirsted the helth of his kinsmen the Israelites, that for their saluation he wished not only to be secluded & banished but also vtterly accursed from Christe. He rather desyred hym self to be depriued of eternal saluation, than that so many shuld be cõiect and cast into euerlasting damnation. O true Apostle. O spectacle most worthy to be loked on of al Prelates, Bishops and Curates.

Col.iii.

Rom.x.
Ihon.iiii.

Exo.xxxii

Math.xxiii.
Luke.xiii.
Luke.xix.

Math. xxvii.
Luke.xxiii

Rom.ix.

per

Here se we, how feruent our desire shuld be toward the sauing healthe of our Christen brothers. Verely we ought not only to seke al meanes possible for to bring them vnto consummate, absolute and perfect knowledge of Christes most wholesome doctrine, but also euen to geue oure liues to bring them vnto Christ, as S. Jhon saithe: By this we haue knowen loue, because he hath geuen his life for vs, and we are bound again to geue our liues for the brothers. Therfore neighbors according to the commaundement of that most noble man, which said, labour vntill I come, for the right harty zeale that I beare toward your soules, I thincke it my bonnden duety, so long as we dwel together to talke with you of the word of life, which is able to saue your souls. i. Ihon. iii. Luke. xix. ii. Pet. i.

The Banket.

Ye knowe that at Christmasse laste paste, I made you a Bancket, wherin I proponed & set before you iiii. dishes. The first contained, into what great misery we were caste by Adam. The second, howe we were freely saued by the mercy of God the father thorow Jesus Christ. In your third dish, I declared how we might obtain & come by thys vnmeasurable bounty & great goodnes of God. In the fourth I shewed you, what is your duetye, after we haue receiued these inestimable benefites of God the father thorow Christ Jesus, verely to put of our old conuersation, to become new men, to be plenteous in good workes to die vnto sinne, to liue vnto righteousnesse, & daily more and more to ware grand and auncient in Christ, that at the laste we maye attaine & come vnto the very perfection of Christianity These things ye haue not forgotten, I am sure neighbours. Colos. iii. Ephe. v. Rom. vi.

Eusc. God forbid brother Philemon, that we should be negligent in these thinges that pertaine vnto the helth of our soules. So might we worthely seme to be moste ennemies of oure owne saluation.

The potacion.

Phil. I reioyse very much at it. Moreouer since ỳ time, ye knowe that not many wekes paste I made you a Potacion for Lent, wherin I set before you many godly thinges most worthy to be knowne concerning that time of Lent. Of Penance and the partes therof I talked much with you, I taught you also how ye should fast according to the wil of God. I also opened vnto you the misteries and significations of certaine Ceremonies vsed in the Temples for the time of Lent. Laste of all I declared vnto you, howe ye shoulde prepare your selues worthelye to receue at the time of Easter the moste blessed Sacrament of Christes body and bloud. All these thinges haue I taught you, yea and that not in vaine, as youre daily frutes do manifestlye shewe. For ye seme vnto me dailye more and more to expresse manners worthy your professyon, so that I perceiue the worde of God is not sente to you in vayne, but that it bryngeth forthe muche frute in you vnto the glorye of God, the comforte of the faithfull and the saluation of your owne soules. If all men vnto theyr vttermooste possibilitye woulde likewise endeuoure them selues to bryng forthe frutes accordyng to theyr knowledge, verely it should be an occasion that the Gospell of Christ shoulde excite and store vp meruailous loues, so that Esay. lv

it

it should haue in short space mo frendes & fewer enemies, yea and they that study to haue Christes doctrin both truely known & earnestly followed, should also no more be blasphemed, railed vppon, and ill spoken of, but rather animated and encouraged to procede in their moste godly and vertuous enterprises. Now neighbours seinge that hitherto ye haue bene no forgetfull hearers, but obsequious followers and diligent doers of the thinges taught you, I thought it not vnfitting to call you once again vnto me, and according to the time of the yeare to geue you a Nosegay full of most redolent and odoriferous floures, whiche may both expell all pernicious and hurtfull sauours, and also conserue and kepe your health both of body and minde. Theo. Nothinge can be geuen to vs more grate, acceptable and pleasaunt, than this your gifte nowe promised, neither can any thing at this present beautify vs on such sort. Chri. No verely, this is without doubt. Phil. I shall be the gladder to imparte it to you. But neighbors knowe this one thinge, that euen as your Banket and Potacion were not made of corruptible meate, but of such as continueth and abideth vnto eternall life, so likewise thou your Nosegay shall not be made of such Herbes, as the floures whereof will wither away and dry vp with the heat of the sonne but puissantly abide for euer and euer so valeaunte, that no heate, no tempest, no troublous weather, shall maye be able at any time to darken or blemish the natiue beauty therof. For oute of the diuine Scriptures shall your Nosegay be selected, and it shall containe in it fiue Flowers. But nowe will I declare vnto you, what the names of the Flowers are, and of what vertue, efficacy, strength and power they be. Eusc. I pray you let vs heare. Phil. Your fyrst Flower, is called, Vnfained humility and it is good to expell all arrogancye, Pryde, hawtinesse and elacion of minde. It is of all vertues easelye the Base and foundamente, and withoute the whiche none consisteth in theyr Germaine and naturall place. Your seconde Flower shall be Pure Innocency, beinge profitable to make you for to behaue your selues deuoutly & vertuously towarde God, worckinge that thinge that shall be acceptable and thanckefull in his sight, that ye may walk innocently, before him al the dayes of your life. Your thirde floure is called Faithfull Obedience, and shall adde and breath vnto you such redolent and swete odour that ye shall therby receiue strength and knowledge to do your duety vnto oure moste victorious and most vertuous Prince with al the submission and lowlines of hart. Your fourth flour is named Ready assistence, and it availeth very much to teach you, howe ye oughte to behaue your selues toward your christen brothers, that that affect maye be in you, that was in Christ Jesus. Your fift Flower, which is the last, is called Christen Charitie, and it is of so great strengthe and vertue, that withoute it all the other be not muche approued nor allowed before God. For it is the perfecte fulfilling of the lawe, and the ende of the precepte, as the Apostle wryteth. Of these fiue Flowers shall youre Nosegaye be made, which

A Nosegay.

Ihon. vi

The names of the flours contained in the Nosegay and the vertue of them.

Luke. i.

Phil. ii.

Rom. xiii. i. Tim. i.

which I desire you, that ye wil not disdain ioyfully to accept and frendly receiue at my hand, as the gift of him, which most intierly wysheth well vnto you. The. We wer more thã twise ingrate, if we would not thankfully, yea and with embracing armes receiue that, which is conducible and profitable to so manye necessarye causes, and matters of graue importans. Chri. Who hath euer had so precious a Nosegay, as this shall be, which shal teach vs to be humble, lowly, gentle, meke, and replete with all submission, whiche also shall aspire and brethe vnto vs such sauors, as wherby we may learne to do our dueties both toward God, our Kinge, and our Christen brothers, whiche thinge is the verye whole summe of all Christianity. Who so euer shall haue this Nosegay continually in his hand, and smell well of it, he maye be sure to be preserued from al pestiferous aires, so that he shal neither offend God, nor his prince, nor yet his neighbor, but worcke all thinges accordinge to Gods most holy pleasure. Phil. Well, I pray you be diligent. For nowe I entend to gather euery floure of your Nosegay in order, and to deliuer them vnto you. Euse. I pray you let it so be.

¶ The fyrst Floure, called vnfained Humility.

¶ Philemon.

YOur fyrst floure is plucked out of the fyrst Epistle of Saint Peter, and it is this Haue Humilitie and lowlinesse of minde engrafted in you. For God resisteth the proude, but to the humble he geueth grace. 1. Peter. v

Theo. This is a Godly swete floure, & garnisheth the life of a Christen man very much. Phil. The holye Apostle S. Peter in this place exhorteth al christen men vnto humilitye and lowlines of minde. And this is your flour that I cal, Vnfained humility, euen that lowlines which procedeth from a pure mind without any hipocrisye or doublenes. And in geuing vs exhortation to enbrase humility, he also abstterreth & fraieth vs from al arrogancy, pride, and elacio of mind, which is the bedspring of al euel, & he sheweth the cause why we ought to enbrace Humility, & reiect pride. For God, saith he, resisteth the proud, but to the humble he geueth grace. I shal make this more euidente anone by examples & histories of the holy scriptures. Chri. But I pray you before you procede in this matter declare vnto vs, what Humility is. Phil. Humility, after the mind of S. Bernard, is a vertue, wherby euery one brought into ỹ knowledge of him self, wareth vile and lothsome to him selfe. Euse. He ỹ on this wise is humble, cannot norish any pryde in his hart. Phil. Ye say truth. The. I meruaile than how it commeth to passe, that so much pride raigneth now a daies among vs. Phil. Verely because the people are not brought into ỹ true knowledge of thẽ selues. If they wer, they wold not stãd so much in their owen cõceat as they do, but rather be hũble, lowly, gentle, & meke toward al men, euen the most simple & inferiour. But inasmuch as this knowledge wanteth, therefore are they inflated Pride is the bedspring of all euil.

What humility is. De grad. Humilit.

Why so much pride raigneth nowe a daies.

Esa. xiiii.

flated and puffed vp with pride like vnto Lucifer, which so exalted himself, that he wold haue bene like vnto the most high God? The man of honoure is proude of his promotion, the riche man of his ritches, the strong man of his strength, the learned man of his learning, the beautiful of their beauty. &c. This commeth to passe, because they know not what they are of them selues, and that all that they haue is the gift of God, as S. Paule & James testify. Chri. I pray you declare to vs, by what meanes we may obtain this celestial gift of humility. Phil. That ye may haue the more courage to desire this most precious vertue, and to practise it in your liuing, I wil first declare to you the excellency of it, & shew what great profit ensueth of it, and afterwarde declare to you by what meanes ye may come by it. Euse. Let it be so. Phil. The scripture sheweth that when Adam and Eue had transgressed the commandement of God in Paradise through the subtill perswasion of Sathan, and perceiued them selues naked, they ran away from the face of God and hid them selues that they might not be sene. Euse. We remember this well. Phil. Behold now the humility of God, conioyned with immeasurable mercy. He being God and such a Lord, as at the presence of whome all thinges, both in heauen, earthe and hell tremble, shake and do reuerence, humbly and lowly came and soughte them vp, saying, where art thou Adam? And not onlye this, but whan they were ashamed of their nakednesse, he made them garmentes of skinnes, and put them on them to couer their filthinesse. Must not Humilitie now be a vertue of wonderfull excellency, seyng that God him self did fyrst of all practise it? Who dare boste him selfe to be the sonne of this celestiall father, and yet not endued with Humility? God might haue suffred them to haue perished, or els taken vengaunce on them streightwaies according to their desertes, but he woulde not, but rather gentlelye and lowly sought them vp, apparelled them, and by this meanes preserued them. O example worthy to be followed of all the faithfull.

Gene. iii.

Behold what synne dothe.

The goodnesse of God toward mã.

Note well.

Moreouer what Humilitie and lowlinesse was there also in his derely beloued sonne our Lord and Sauiour Jesus Christ? who is able to expresse his humilitye, lowlinesse and mekenesse? It is not without a cause said of him, learne of me, for I am meke, and lowly in hart. For what doth his whole life shew but humility? was he not borne of a poore maide, euen that blessed virgine Marye? Did he not suffer his moste precious body to be wrapped in vile and simple cloutes? Did he disdaine to be borne in a stable, and to lie in a maunger amonge brute beastes? was not he subiect and obediente to Joseph and Marye his mother? was not he circumcised and Baptised for oure sake? Was not he so poore, that he had not where to reast his head? Did not he kepe company with Publicans, sinners and harlottes, that he might bring them to grace? whome other so greatlye did abhorre? Did not he touche the Lepers, whome other woulde scarselye vouchsafe once to loke vppon? Did not he frequent and vse the company of all diseased, that he might heale

Math. xi.
Esay. ix
Math. i.
Luke. iii.
Esay. i.
Luke. ii.
Math. viii.
Luke. ix.
Math. ix.
Marke. ii.
Luke. v.
Math. viii.
Marke. i.
Luke. v.
Math. iiii.
Math. ix.

heal them? Did not he go, whether so euer he was desired? Did not he graunt the peticions of the faithfull? Did not he come ridinge mekely into Jerusalem vpon an Asse without any pomp or pride? Did not he wash his Disciples fete? Did not he being in the shape of God, and equall with God make him selfe of no reputation, and toke vppon him the shape of a seruaunte, became like another man, and was founde in his apparel as a man? Did not he so humble him selfe, that he becam obedient vnto the death, euen the death of the Crosse? Did not he suffer his most spiteful enemies to ten and teare his most blessed body so cruelly, so vnmercifullye, so withoute all Pity, that they also did shed the most precious bloud of his hart? O vnspeakeable Humility. O lowlynes rather to be wondred at, than able of any man to be followed. Nether wanteth this Humility in him at this present. Is he not euē now also content, although glorified, & receiued into the most blessed throne of his celestiall father, to become our Intercessour, mediatour and aduocate? At the day of iudgemente also is not he contente to come and fetch vnto glory both the bodies and souls of so many as in this world haue vnfainedly beleued in him, and studiously wroughte his diuine will? Chri. All these thinges are true that ye haue spoken. Phil. Wer it not than a thing of much absurdity, and very vnfitting for vs, whyche profesle this our Lord Christ to be most alienated and estraunged from that vertue, which he in his quotidiane and dayly conuersation moste principally exercised? The. Vies verely. For S. John sayeth, he that sayeth, that he abideth in Chryst, ought to walke, euen as he hath walked. Eusc. Trueth it is, and Christ himselfe sayeth, I haue geuen you an example, that as I haue done to you, so ye lykewyse shoulde doe. Phi. Right wel neighboures. Loke ye do nowe therfore accordyng to your knowledge Furthermore what Humilite was this in the holy goste, to come down so manifestly vpō the Apostles of Chryst at the feast of Pētecheost: to repleniſh them wt al giftes of grace and to enspire into them the knowledge of so many tonges? was not thys a wōderfull token of Humilite? Doeth not ẏ moſt holy spirite, euē at this day vouchsafe also to dwel in the hartes of the faythful, as S. Paule witnesseth. Do not ye know, sayeth he, ẏ ye are the Tēple of God, & the spirite of God dwelleth in you? Agayn do ye not know ẏ your mēbers are the Tēple of the holy goste, whyche is in you, whom ye haue of God, & ye are not of your selues? Seyng than ẏ this vertue Humilite was first vsed & practised of God, & so stil remaineth, how cā it otherwise thā be a thing of great excellency? Eusc. It is trueth. God graūt vs to remember these thynges that we maye not onely profesle God by mouth, but also liuely expresse him in our actes and daily cōuersatiō. Phi Wel as cōcerning ẏ vertue and strēgth of this your floure, called, Vnfained humilite, it shal appere euidētly vnto you by declaring what great profyt ensueth therof. Chri. Thys thyng is very necessary to be knowen. Let vs therfore heare it, I pray you. Phi. Humilite maketh vs to be humble and lowly both in Marke. v.

Math. xv.
Math. xxi.
Marke. xi.
Luke. xix.
Iohn. xiii.
philip. ii.
Math. xxvii.
Marke. xv.
Marke. xv.
Luke. xxiii.
Iohn. xviii.
Rom. viii.
Heb. vii.
i. Timo. ii.
i. Iohn. ii.
Iohn. vi.
Math. xxv.
Actes. i.
i. Tes. iiii.
i. Iohn. ii.
Iohn. xiii.
Actes. ii.
i. Cor. iii.
ii. Cor. vi.

The vertue and strēgth of humilite.

hart and body. It expelleth the foule vice of pryde, & causeth that ꝑ laudia, that is to say, the loue of our selues or the standing in our owne conceite, reigneth not in vs. It maketh vs to abstayne from dissolute laughing. It causeth ꝑ we speake nothyng vnaduisedly. It prouoketh vs to graunt that we are more vile than any other, and vnworthy & vnprofitable vnto any good thynge. It maketh vs litle to esteme our selues, and al our enterprises, and highly to auaūce and set forth other.
It maketh vs not to haue any delectacion to fulfill our owne wyll. It geueth vs an occasion to feare God, and to endeuour our selues to do that, which he requireth of vs. It causeth vs to be obedient to our su-periours, and to geue them all reuerence and honor. It maketh vs pa-cientlye to sustayne all iniuries and wronges, that are done vnto vs. It engraffeth in vs all kynde of vertues. So that it may ryght wel be nāmed, the mother and nurse of all goodnes and honeste. Moreouer hu-milite bringeth the grace and fauor of God to vs, as ye heard before i. Peter. v. S. Peter, which sayeth, God resisteth the proude, but to the humble he geueth grace. It causeth that God hath a respect vnto vs, as he sayeth Esay. lxvi. by the Prophete, vnto whom shal I loke, but to the humble and broken in spirite, and vnto him that feareth my wordes? It maketh ꝑ God Psal. ci. heareth our prayers, as the Psalmograph sayeth, God doeth beholde the Eccle. xxxv. supplications of the humble, and he hath not despised their prayers. Also the wyse man, the prayer of hym that humbleth hymselfe, shall pearce Luke. i. the cloudes. It causeth vs to be exalted, as the most blessed virgin sin-geth. He hath put downe the mighty from their seate, and exalted the Luke. xiiii. humble. And Christe sayeth: euery one that exalteth hymselfe, shall be
i. Peter. v. made lowe. And he that humbleth hymselfe, shalbe exalted. S. Peter Math. xviii. so sayeth, humble your selues before God, that he maye exalte you. To Marke. x. be shorte, it bringeth vs vnto the kyngdome of heauen. For Christ say-Luke. viii. eth: Excepte ye turne and become as litle childzen ye shal not enter into the kyngdome of heauen. Who so euer therfore shal humble himself as this litil childe, he is greatest in the kyngdom of heauen. Chri. This vndoubtedly is an excellent vertue, and a floure of much strength, and bringeth to them that haue it, many goodly pleasures and godly commodities. Phil. Agayne marke I pray you, what made the oblacyon of Gene. iiii. Abell to be so acceptable in the syghte of God, but Humilite? Agayne, what was the cause, that the Sacrifice of Caim was abhorred of God but his arrogant and proude harte, stuffed full of rancoure and malice Gene. vii. towarde hys neighboure? What was the occasyon that Nohe with
i. peter. ii. his wife we other were saued from drowning, but that they were humble in hart and feared God? Agayne, what was the cause, that all the whole Gene. xii. xv. worlde besydes them were drowned, but their pryde and voluptuous xvii. xviii manner of lyuing? what prouoked God so oft to walke wyth Abraham xxii. but hys humilite and lowlynesse of mynde? What moued God to take Gene. ix. Lot and certayne other for hys sake from that most greuous and ter-
ii. peter. ii. ryble plage, that fell on Sodome and Gomorre, but ꝑ Humilite of hym conioyned with a reuerent feare towarde God? Agayne, what caused God to take vengeaunce on the Sodomites and to consume thē with fier and brymstone from heauen, but onely their pryde conpled wyth al kynde of volupteous, beastlyke, yea vnnaturall pleasure? What preserued Abraham from sleayng hys son Isaac, but hys humble and obedyent hart, ready to accomplish the wyl of God in al things? What made Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, with al the holy Patriarches to be so gentilly dealt with al and fauoured both of God and man, but theyr Humilite? What was the cause ẏ Dauid was made of a Shepeheard a kyng, but Humilite. Againe, what abiected Saul from his kyngdōe, empire and dominion, but his arrogant and proude hart, conioyned wt disobedience towarde the cōmaundement of God? What caused kinge Asa, Josaphat, Ezechias, Josias to worke that whiche was good in ẏ sight of God, but their humilitie, because they preferred the wil of god before their owne carnal iudgementes? Agayne, what was ẏ cause that many kinges, as Roboam, Jeroboam, Abia, Nadab, Achab Ochozias Achas, Manasses, Amon, Joiachim, Sedechias, Nabuchodonosor. &c did ẏ which was euil before God, but their puffed vp hartes & proude mindes, casting away al feare of God from their eies? What exalted ẏ most glorious virgin Mary so high, ẏ she became the mother of Christ, and was alone founde worthy to beare the son of God, but her humilite, as she herselfe wytnesseth: My soule magnifieth the Lord, saieth she. And my spirite, hath reioyced in God my Sauioure. For he hath loked vpon the Humilite of hys handemaide, beholde, because of thys all generations shal cal me blessed. Againe, what did cast downe Lucifer frō heauen into hell, from ioy into payne, but pryde? What prouoked Christ to chose poore fyther men and the vile people of thys worlde to set forth the glory of hys father, but their humilite? Howe came it to passe, that those simple men, yea and euen the foles of the worlde wer repiete with godly knowledge, and the proude Pharises the galaunt Bysshops, the huffe nosed priestes, the lusty lawers, the sawsy Scribes, wyth all the glisteryng sort of Hipocrites, which lined at that tyme, could not attaine vnto this science of the diuine misteryes, whan not withstanding they chalenged to themselues alone the knowledge of gods lawe, and the true vnderstanding of the same? was not their pryde and arrogancye the cause of this their blindnes? What is the cause in these oure dayes, ẏ the proude papisticall Romanistes can not perceiue the verite of gods worde, and here in Englande and such other lyke places euen the very poore and base sort of people are godly learned and espye the trueth of goddes wyll? Is not pryde cause of the one, and Humilite occasyon of the other? As I maye returne vnto the holy Scriptures and make an ende, what was the cause, that the Publicane went home more iustified than the Pharyse, but that the one was humble, and the other proude? If we marke diligentlye, we shall easelye perceyue that all good thynges haue euer come to passe throughe Humylitie, and that

Gene. xxii.
i. Reg. xvi.
i. Reg. xv.
iii. Reg. xv.
iii. Reg. xxii.
iiii. Reg. xviii xix. xx.
iiii. Reg. xxi.
Eccle. xlix.
iii. Reg. xii.
iii. Reg. xv.
iii. Reg. xvi.
iiii. Reg. i.
iiii. Reg. xvi.
iiii. Reg. xxi.
Dani. iiii.
Luke. i.
Esay. xiiii.
Math. iiii.
Iacob. ii.
Math. xi.
Luke. x.
Esay. xxix.
Abdon. i.
Esay. xxxiii.
i. Cor. i.
Marke well
Luke. xviii.

pryde hath alway ben the original begynnyng of al wickednes & mischefe, Euse. Verely this is easy to perceiue. Phil. The excellency and ver-
Ser. de super. tue of this flour is so greate, that it causeth S. Austen to crye oute on this maner, O holy & worshypful Humilite, thou madest the sonne of God to come downe into the wombe of holy Marye the virgin. Thou madest hym to be inuolued & wrapped in vile cloutes, that he myght clothe vs wyth the ornaments of vertues. Thou didst circumcyse him in the flesh that he should circumcyse vs in the mynde. Thou dyddest scourge hym corporally, that he might delyuer vs from the scourge of synne. Thou dydst crowne hym wyth thornes, that he should crowne vs with his eternall Roses. Thou madest hym to be sycke which was the Phisicion of all men, healynge all thinges with his worde alone, that he myght heale them that are syck. Humilitie, sayth Saynt Ber-
De con. lib. v nard, is the stedfast foundacion of vertues, which if he be omitted and let passe, the congregacion and gatheryng together of vertues, is none
Ep. ad sorer. other thing, than a verye ruine or decay of them. For it debelleth and baleantly ouercommeth the enemy of al grace I mean pryde, which
Lib. xvii. Moral. is the begynninge of all synne. S. Gregory sayth also, that Humilitie is the beginning of vertues in vs, & that they which know not Humi-Ibidem. lity, that she is the mother of vertues, lose the vse and profit of their labor. Againe he saith, he that gathereth together vertues without humility, may wel be compared to him, that bringeth dust into the wynd. Thus haue I declared vnto you the excellency & great vertue of your fyrst flour, and what commodities ensue of it. Chri. If these thinges here taught were knowen vnto all men, it would vndoubtedly encourage them to reiect Pryde & enbrace Humility. Phil. Alas dere neyghbors, wherfore or wherof should we be proude? Of oure wisdom or ri-
iii. Reg. x. iii. Reg. xi ches? Who among mortall men was euer able to compare with Solomon either in wisdome or ritches. Yet for all that vnto what poynt came he? Did not he fall vnto all kinde of dissolute and voluptuous liuing? Did he not forsake the God of Israell, and fel vnto Idolatry? It Ieremy. xi is not without a cause saide. Let not the ryche man glory in his riches, nor the wise man in his wisdom. For what are ritchesse and wisdome, if they be not godly & iustly vsed, but only instrumentes of Tyranny and vnrighteousnes? The wise man is indued with wit for this purpose, that with his wisedome he should helpe the simple and plaine people, which want the perfect experience of thinges, or els that haue no capacitye to attaine vnto the knowledge of suche trauailes, as are expedient for them, and not to deceiue them, to craft with them, to pol and pill them, and to make hauoke of them. The ritch man also hath ritchesse geuen vnto him vnto this end, that he should the more frankly norysh the pouerty, and distribute them to the indigēt, and not that he should hourd them vp in corners, glory in them, boaste and crake of them, and thincke him selfe better than any other, because he excelleth in the aboundaunce of worldlye goodes. Bothe riches and wisedome

Of rytchesse and wisdom Note.

Marke.

encreate

encrease dānaciō to ẏ possessours of thē, if they be not vsed, as God hath cōmaūded, ẏ is, vnto ẏ profit of our neighbor. What cause haue we thā for to be proude of thē? If we vse thē wel, we do but our duety, if we do otherwise, ẏ greater is our dānaciō. Again, may we be proude of oure holines & vertuous liuing? Who was more holy thē Dauid? yet for all his holines cōmitted he both maūslaughter & whordom. Christ wylleth vs to recount our selues vnprofitable seruauntes, when we haue done al ẏ euer we can. Should we reioyse of worldly honor, & be proud of ẏ? who may be cōpared to king Nabuchodonosor, whose glorye and renowne retched vp euē vnto Heauen for ẏ fame of it? was not he deiected and cast down so low, ẏ he being expulsed from his empire, became a brute beast, & did eate grasse vō the beastes of the felde? Reade ẏ history. May we be proude of martial affaires, as of stronge Castelles sure holdes, mightie Bulwarkes, great Gunnes, sharpe Speares, swyft arrowes, two edged swoordes, innumerable thousandes of valeāt Souldiours? How vnapt these thinges are to haue any perfect affiāce or trust repoled in thē, whoso readeth ẏ Historyes of ẏ holy Scripture, shal easely perceiue. Let this one History of ẏ proude Tirāt Holofernes suffice for this preſēt, which cōquering al ẏ world, was at the last most miserably slain of a womā, & al his men put to flyght. A king shal not be saued sayeth Dauid, by his own great host, neither shal a giāt be holpē in the abolidaunce of hys own strēgth. A horse is but a deceauable thinge to saue a mā, it is not the power of hys strength, ẏ cā deliuer him. Beholde the eyes of the Lord are vpon them ẏ feare hym, & put their trust in hys mercy. Verely except the lord bilde the house, he laboureth in vain that bildeth it. Except the Lord kepe the citie he watcheth in vain ẏ kepeth it. What shal we say of the fauor of great mē? May we glory, boast, and be proude of ẏ? Reade the History of Amō, which was so hyē in his kings fauor, ẏ he might do, what he list, kil, saue, exalte, depresse, lift vp, plucke down, & as we say cōmonly, binde beares, & yet was not he shortly after cast out of fauor on such sort ẏ he was immediately hanged on the same gallowes, which he had newly prepared for another? May sumptuous mansions and delicate fare cause vs to be proude? Na verely. For what other thing is costly bildinge, than a greate heape of stones gathered together, pleasaunt for the tyme, but shortelye returnynge agayne vnto dust? As for the most delicious meates that cā be gotten, after they be once chawed and digested, what is more vile, more stinking more vnsauerye, lesse pleasaunte to the eyes, and more odious to the nose? what shall I speake of gorgious apparell and goodly beautye? whereof so many nowe a dayes very vaynely and no lesse folishly boste and glory? Is any thyng in them, wherfore we may list vp our bristles and auaunce our selues beefore other, euen the most vile and deformed? I praye you what other thyng is gaye and gorgious raymente than a very instrument of pryde, as a certayne learned man sayeth. They were geuen vs of God to couer our filthy nakednesse, and we a-

Of holynes and vertuous liuing.
ii. Reg. xi.
Luke. xvii.
Of worldly honor.
Dani. iiii.
Of martiall affaires.
Iudith. xiii.
Psal. xxxii.
Psal. cxxvi.
Of ẏ fauor of great mē.
Hester. vii.
Omnium rerū vicissitudo est
Of sumptuous mansyons, and delicate fare.
Of gorgious apparel and goodly beauty.
Lodouicus viues.

buse them vnto pleasure & volupteousnes. O prepostorous iudgement. O extreme blindnes. Glory not in thine apparell at any time, saith the wise man. As for the vanity and beautye, what neade I make many wordes? It is more brittle than glasse more transitory than the floure, more inconstante than the winde, more vaine then the smoke, & more flittinge awaye then the time, to conclude, it is as the Poetes call it, Fragile bonum, that is, a fraile good thing, so that it is not without a cause sayde of Salomon, fauoure is deceitful, & beauty is a vain thing. How doth one little feuer, make the faireſt woman of the worlde, the fowlest and most vnpleasaunt in aspect? And to say the truth, is beauty any other thing, than as Lodouicus Viues saithe, as little thin skin wel coloured. If the inward partes saith he, coulde be sene, how great filthines would there appeare, euen in the most beautifull person. Nether is the faireſt body in the worlde any other thing, than a donge hill couered with a clothe of white and purple coloure. For this cause the wise men of the Grekes were wont to cal a fair and beautiful woman Hyperiphainon cacon, that is, a pleasaunt or glistering euyl. What shal I say vnto the Nobility and gentle bloud, as they call it? May this be an occasion of exalting our selues? Kinge Dauid saithe: what profit is there in my bloude, seinge I go downe vnto corruption? And the wise man saith, whye art thou proude. O thou earthe and ashes? we are all earth & ashes. We shal return vnto corruption, and be so consumed as concerning our bodies as though we had neuer ben. The Prophet also saith, all flesh is grasse, and all his glory is like a floure of the felde. O Lorde God, what cause haue we nowe to be proude of anye thinge in this worlde, seing that all thinges are so vaine and transitory, nothing durable & perpetuall? Certes if we consider wel the giftes, wherewith God hath indued vs, whatsoeuer they be, pertaininge either to the bodye or to the soule, we shall easelye finde that we haue no cause to be proud of them, but rather the more humble, taking euer thought, how we may spend well the Talent committed vnto vs, leaste we be cast with that vnprofitable seruaunt of the Gospell into vtter darckenesse, where wepinge and gnashinge of tethe shall be. The more that we excell other in giftes, the more daungerous is our state, and the more diligence ought we to geue for the right bestowing of them. To whom much is geuen, much shalbe required of him. Euse. O the vanity of this worlde. O the blind iudgements of the people, which so muche glory in vain frail & transitory thinges. Theo. It is not without a cause saide S. Jhon, loue not the worlde, nor those thinges ỹ are in the worlde. If any mã loueth the worlde, the loue of the father is not in him. For al that is in the worlde, as the concupiscense of the flesh, and the luste of the eyes, & the pride of the life, is not of the father, but it is of the worlde. And the worlde passeth away, and the concupiscence therof. But he that doth the will of God, abideth for euermore. Chri. Now according to your promise, let vs hear I pray you, how we may come by this vertue humility, that

Eccl. xi.

Marke well.

Lib. ii. de arte amandi.

Prouer. xxxi.

In Intr. ad Sa.

Menander.

Of nobility and Gentell blo ud.

Psal. xxix.

Eccle. x.

Gene. iii.

Esay. lx.

Iacob. i.

Of the gifts of God.

Math. xxv.

i. Iohn. ii.

that we may enioye the commodities thereof ensuyng, and eschew the inconueniences that ryse of the contrary. Phil. I wyll do it, and that in few wordes. Fyrst that ye may vnfainedly haue Humilitie engraffed in your breastes, it is expediēt that we cōsider, what ye are of your selues. As touching your body, ye ar men. Now what other thyng is man cōcernyng hys body, but only as S. Bernard sayth, a stinkyng sperme or seede, a sacke of dunge, and the meat of wormes. Consider this depelye with your selues, and it shall cause you to delyght but lytyll in your body, be it neuer so strong, valeaunt, fayre, goodly, pleasaunt in aspect, prosere and taull. It is, sayth S. Bernard, nothing but a stinckyng sperm or seed, a sacke of dong, and the meat of wormes. Weat meane we thā to be sumptuous in the adourning and garnishing of the body? God to couer our nakednes at the beginnyng gaue vs cotes of lether. S. Iohn Baptist also accordyng to the fyrst appoyntment of God, went clad in a Camels skynne with a gyrdle of lether about hys loynes, But lether & cloth both can not suffice vs at thys tyme, be it neuer so fyne and costyous, except we ad therto all kindes of sylkes and veluettes. But what do I speake of these thynges? Golde, Syluer, Pearle, Precious stones Ouches and what not is now a daies worne euen of inferiour persōs, when the poore members of Christ haue neyther wherwith they maye cloth themselues, nor yet confort theyr hungry and thyrstye bodyes. O lamentable case. And what shall I say of the manifold and straung fashions of the garmentes, that are vsed now a dayes? I thinke Satan studieth not so much to inuent new fashyons to bryng christen men into his snare, as the Taylours now adaies are compelled to excogitate, inuent and ymagine diuersities of fashyons for apparel that they may satisfy the folysh desyre of certain light braynes and wyld Otes, which are all togither geuen to new fanglenes. O most vayne vanitie. Some tyme we follow the fashion of the Frenche men. Another tyme we wil haue a trick of the Spaniardes. Shortly after that begynneth to wax nought, we must therfore now haue the Italyon fashyon. Within few dayes after we are werye of all the fashyons that are vsed in Christēdome, we wyl therfore now and God wyll, practyse the manner of goyng amonge the Turkes and Saracennes, would God that with the Turkes apparell, we were not also ryght Turkes and Infydelsin our lyfe, conuersacion and manners. O that England woulde once learn to be ashamed of this vanitie, and remēber this saying of the Apostle, hauyng meate and drynke, and wher with we maye be couered let vs bee contented. But surely thys Hethenysh and vayne garnishynge of oure body engraffeth hygh Pryde in vs, wherby it cōmeth to passe, that Humilitie is clene exiled and put to flyght. That ye may not be accombred with this Pestilence, remember the vilenes of your body, marke what fruytes it bryngeth forth, consyder the state of it, ponder from whence it came, whyther it shall, and what shall become of it. If ye do this, it shal moue you not to glory, nor to be proud of any external thing, but gladly to em-

How humility maye be obtained.

Of the body Lib. de Medi.

What man is. Gene. iii. Math. iii Marke. i.

Against vain & sumptuus apparell.

Marke well.

Noua platem

i. Timo. vi

Note thys counsel.

to embrase Humilite & lowlines of minde. Secondly cõsider also what
Of the soule Rom. v. Ephe. ii. Iohn. iii. Gene. vi. ii. Cor. iii. ye are of your selues concerning your inward mã, I meane your soule.
Hath not that through Adam, before it is regenerate by Christ, lost the fauor of God? Is it not a fyre brande of hell, bonde to eternall damnacion, the childe of wrath, all carnall, breathing wickednes, ymagining mischief, bent vnto euil, and not able once for to think a good thought?
Thirdly, after ye be renewed by the most blessed Sacrament of Bap-Of syn after Baptysme. tisme and the holy Gost, remember how sone ye loose agayne those be-nefytes through your own syn and wyckednes, which before ye freely obtained by Christ. This shal also moue you to cast away al pride and to be humble, lowely and meke, in the sight of God, euer lamẽting your misery, & fleing continually vnto God wyth feruente prayers for grace, mercy, fauor and remission of your synnes, least ye be damned for your iniquite accordyng to your desertes. It shal also not a litel profyt, to remember the paynes of hell, which are prepared for them that are proud Of ỹ paines of hell. and disobedient to the wyll of God. Fourthly if at any tyme the dely of vayne glory shal crepe into your bosome for the excellency of vertues Of vertues & qualities. and qualities wherwyth ye are endewed, call streighte vnto your re-membraunce thys saying of the Apostle, what hast thou that thou hast
i. Cor. iiii. not taken? If thou hast taken it, why doest thou reioise, as though thou hadde st not taken it? and thys shall plucke downe your combe, as they vse to say. For who is so madde, except he be lyke vnto the Crow of Æsope, to bost himselfe of other mens fethers? The giftes that we haue, be they neuer so excellente, are not ours but gods. He maye take them awaye agayne whan it pleaseth hym. Therefore oughte we not to be proude of them, but vse them vnto that ende, for the whiche they were geuen vs, euer remembryng that if we vse them wel, there is a reward layed vp for vs in heauen, if we do not, we shal receaue the greater damnation. So that we haue no cause to be proude of them, but rather the more humble, and lowly in hart. Finally in all youre woorkes, seeme they neuer so good and perfecte, yet thinke you, that they are not done with so much purite and clennes of hart as they ought, and therfore ye must humbly graunt your imperfection, and desyre God to fulfill that which lacketh in you for hys Sonne Iesus Chrystes sake. If on thys wyse ye behaue your selues neighboures in all your woorkes, ye must nedes despise pryde and embrase humilite: Yea if on thys manner ye iudge of your selues, as I haue here taught you, ye shal without doubt be made vnfainedly humble, meke & lowly. But without thys knowledge of your selues, knowe that ye can do none otherwyse, but stand in your own cõceate, brag of your qualities, glory in your actes, be proude of your giftes, and euer vnthankefull in the sight of God. S. Bernarde In Cant. Ser. xii. vii. sayeth, I knowe that no man is saued without the knowledge of hymself, wherof doubtles Humilite the mother of health springeth, and the feare of the Lorde. For as the one is the begynnynge of wysedome, so is the other of health. Eusebius. I praye God we maye so knowe

our

our selues, that we may deserue to haue this most excellent vertue engrafted in our brestes. Phil. Neyghbours one word wyth you, & than an end of this your fyrst Flour. Remember that your Floure is called vnfained Humility, because ye may not outwardly pretend Humility, and inwardly be inflated with Pharisaicall arrogancy, and puffed vp after the manner of the proud Hipocrites, and supercilious Pharises, whom Christ & his Apostles rebuke so oft in ỳ holy scriptures for theyr fained holines. Be no painted sepulchres, outwardly fair, and inwardly full of rotten bones, and al filthinesse. For many, as Saint Jerome saithe, follow the shadowe of Humilitye, but fewe the truthe. Let all glosing words be taken away, let all fayning gestures cease. Pacience sheweth a mã to be truely humble. Let your humility therfore not only be expressed with gesture and voyce, but also let it procede from the pure affect of the hart. So may ye be sure to haue God gratious and fauorable vnto you, and euer to prosper in all your honest trauailes & godly affaires. Hytherto haue I spoken sufficiently of your first Flour called Vnfained Humility, and I haue ben the longer about it, because I wold be glad to expel the poyson of Pryde out of your hartes which raigneth almost vniuersally beyond al measure at this day, and to engraffe in you this goodly herb, which is so swete and wholesome, that without it no medicine can rightly be ministred. This being digested, al other are the more easy to receiue. The. Neighbor Philemon, thinck not, but that your wordes are reposed euen in the lowest parts of our hartes, and we trust that ye haue not sowen this sede of Gods worde in any stony ground, but in such good earth, as shal bring forth, some an hundreth fold, some sixty fold, and some thirty folde. Phil. It dothe me good to hear this, and to know your ready wil vnto all goodnes and vertue. For in dede neighbors we had neuer more nede to worke wel, and to do good dedes, than at this time. The Christen religion begineth vtterly to decay. Alas we speak much of Christ, but many liue no part of Christe. Vice stil raigneth, vertue hathe no place. Well, I will geue you your second Flour. Chri. I pray you let vs haue it.

Without Humility, nothyng cõmeth wel to passe.

Mat. xxiii.

Ep. xxvii.

Math. xiii. Marke. iiii. Luke. viii

This tyme hathe great nede of good workes.

¶ The second Floure, named Pure Innocency.

¶ Philemon.

BEhold here is the second Flour of your Nosegay. I am the almighty God. Walke before me and be perfect. And I wil make my couenaunt betwene me and the, and wil multiply the beyond all measure. Chri. Was not this the saying of God the father vnto Abraham? Phil. Yes verely, & pertaineth now vnto vs no lesse than it did at that time vnto him. For what so euer thinges are written, are written for our learning. We shal receiue much pleasure of this your Flour, if ye mark the vertue of it wel. First ye shall note that God calleth him self thalmighty God, wherby we may easily discerne him from those Gods, yea rather

Gen. xvii

Rom. xv.

Psa. lxxxxv.

ther Idols and diuels, whom the Heathen dyd worship and call vpon. For our God is omnipotent, that is to say, almighty, plenteous in power, aboundaunt, omnisufficient, ful of al good, nedy of nothyng. The iiii. Reg. xix. gods of the Gentiles are of no power, puissaunce and strength, ful of al Baruc. vi. vnbecilite, weakenes and misery. Our God made al thyngs of nothyng Psal. cxiiii. by the power of hys worde. The gods of the Heathē make not, but they Iohn. iiii. are made of other and are none other thyng than wood, stones, stinking golde, or wicked spirites. Oure God is able to helpe so many as call on hym in spirite and trueth. The gods of the Gentiles are not able for to helpe themselues, neyther do they heare any man, that call on them, as
iii. Reg. xviii we maye perceaue by the priestes of Baal. Oure God lasteth for euer Psal. ci. and euer euen worldes wythout ende. The gods of the heathen perish and are more vayne than the smoke. Thus se ye, what a God we haue.

Note here wel of God. None eyther in heauen, earth or hel is able to compare wyth thys our God. He alone is good, merciful, gentle, pacient, long suffering, almighty, ryghteous, omnisufficient, plenteous of power, & ful of al goodnes. In hym all thynges abounde, nothyng wanteth. He is the omnipotent protectoure and valeaunt defender for al them, that repose their confiaunce & trust in hym. Who therefore wil not haue a pleasure to serue thys God? Who is so mad to forsake this God, and to folow any other? Who beyng godly minded wil not sek the glory of this God euen from the very hart? Who hauing but a carnel of Chrysten salt in his breast, wyl not hange wholy on thys God, as alone altogether sufficient for the faythful abundantly in all thynges whereof they haue nede, eyther pertaining to the soule or to the body? Cursed be that mā, that putteth Ieremy. xvii. hys trust in man, and that taketh flesh for hys arme, and he, whose hart departeth from the Lord. For he shalbe like the Heath, that groweth in the wildernes. As for the good thyng that is for to come, he shal not se it, but dwel in a dry place of the wildernes, euen in a salte and vnoccupied land. O but blessed is the man that putteth hys trust in the Lord, and whose hope the Lord is hymself. For he shalbe as a tree that is set by the waters syde, which spreadeth out the roote vnto moysture, whom the heate cannot hurte when it commeth, but hys leaues are psal. i. grene and in the tyme of drowte shal he not be careful, neyther shall he cease at any tyme to bryng foorth hys fruite. Secondely ye shall note that after God hath described hymselfe to be almightie, that is, passing all other in power, it is so great, infinite, and vnmeasurable, he requireth the duety of so many as wyll serue hym, as they oughte. Walke

Our duty to warde God. before me, sayeth he, and be perfecte. Lo here is your floure Pure Innocency. He that obserueth thys precepte of God, cannot displease, offende or offende, but worke pure innocencye before God. Walke before me, sayeth he, and be perfecte. The. What meaneth God by that I pray you

What it is to walke before God. Phil. To walke beefore God is to serue hym according to hys worde so purely and innocentlye, as thoughe God hymselfe were euer present before our eyes. Christ. Thys is a harde thynge. Philemon. The rule of Christ is swete, the burden is light, neither are hys preceptes heauy. Math.xi.

For where the spirite of the Lord is, there is liberte. And if the son hath i.Iohn.v.
made you free, thā are ye truly free. And if ye be endewed with strēgth Rom.viii.
from aboue, than is nothyng harde, but all thynges easy e throughe the Iohn.viii.
spirite, that worketh in you. Theo. I pray you declare vnto vs, how we may walke purely and innocently before God. Phil. To walke beefore God is on such sort to institute our lyfe, as he hath appointed in his holy Scripture, and not as carnal reason imagineth, or good zeale without knowledge deuiseth contrary to the prescripte of gods word, as we Rom.x.
haue sene here to fore in our monstruous Monkes, which laboryng to establish their own ryghteousnes, wer not made obediēt to the iustice of God. That ye may walke before God, certayne thinges are to be obserued, first that ye haue a sure, constant, stedfast, true and liuisshe fayth, Of Fayth.
to beleue that, whiche the holy Scriptures teache of God, and of hys workes. Ye heard ẏ God is omnipotent, almightie, plēteous in power, aboundant, omnisufficient, ful of al good: nedy of nothyng. Thys must Psal.xv.
ye beleue vndoubtedly, if ye wil walke before God. Ye heard also, ẏ as God is able, so wil he helpe so many as cal on him in spirite and trueth Iohn.iiii.
This also must ye beleue wout any hesitacio or douting. For wout this fayth no mā cā please God, nor come vnto him aright. For this fayth is Heb.xi.
the foundacion & grounde of the Chrystē religiō. This fayth maketh a Iohn.xii.
Christen mā. This fayth maketh vs the sones of lyghte. This fayth prouoketh and calleth vnto God. This Faith trusteth not in her own righ i.Iohn.iiii.
teousnes and good workes, but on the promyses of God. This faith ma keth vs to be borne of God. Thys fayth mitigateth the wrath of God.
Thys fayth obtayneth al good thynges of God, as it is wrytte, he that Iohn.i.
beleueth on hym hath euerlastyng lyfe. Beleue in the Lorde, sayeth the Iohn.iii.
Scripture, and ye shal be safe, and wythout any daunger. Agayn, Eue- Ioel.ii.
ry one that calleth on the name of the Lord, shalbe safe. For ther is but Actes.ii.
one Lord of al, sufficiently ritch for so many as cal on him. Thys fayth Rom.x.
maketh vs the sonnes of God, as the Apostle sayeth, al ye are the sones of God, because ye haue beleued in Chryst Jesus. Agayne so many as re Gala.iii.
ceaue hym, he gaue them power to be made the sonnes of God, in as Rom.vi.
much as they beleued in hys name. Thys fayth marieth vs to God, as Iohn.i.
he himselfe testifieth, I wyl mary thee vnto me in fayth, and thou shalt Oze.ii.
knowe that I am the Lorde. Thys fayth purifyeth our hartes. Thys Actes.xiii.
fayth ouercommeth Satan. Thys fayth vanquisheth the world. This fayth maketh vs the Temples of the liuing God. Thys fayth wyll not i.peter.v.
suffer vs to be cōfounded. This faith bringeth to vs ẏ mercy of God in i.Iohn.v.
all our aduersite. Thys fayth is the fulfyllyng of gods cōmaundemēts i.Cor.iii.
Thys fayth maketh vs the enheritoures of the earth, & possessoures of Esay.xxviii.
gods holy mountayne. Thys fayth maketh vs to vnderstād ẏ trueth. Rom.x.
This faith causeth ẏ hell gates cānot preuaile against vs. This faith iu- Esay.lvii.
stifieth vs. This faith bryngeth all good thynges vnto vs. Thys fayth Math.xvi.
Rom.v.
Gala.ii.

as

as S. Austen sayeth, is the beginning of mans health, without thys De fide ad petrum. no man can reache or come vnto the nombet of the sõnes of God: with Li. De. Caim. & Abel. out thys al the labor of man is frustrate and voyde. This Fayth, as S.
Ambrose sayeth, is the rote of all vertues, and that thou bildest on this foundacion, that alone profyteth vnto the rewarde of thy worke fruit Lib. de virgi. and vertue. This fayth, saieth he, is richer than all treasures, stronger then al corporal power, and more healthful than all Phisicions. Thys In mat. xxv. fayth, as Chrisostome sayeth, is a lampe. For as a lampe lighteneth the
In illud sim. house, so doeth fayth the soule. Thys fayth of the Catholyke religion, is Credo in deũ. the light of the soule, the dore of life the foundaciõ of euerlasting health.
Thus see ye, what an excellent treasure thys Chrystẽ fayth is, wythout the which by no meanes ye can walke worthely before the Lorde our God. Moreouer thys your fayth muste be conioyned with a reuerent Of feare. feare toward God. For the feare of the Lord, sayeth the wyse man, is Prou. i. the beginning of wysedome, and expelleth syn. Without this feare no Eccle. i. man can purely walke before God. For he that feareth God truely, he Pro. ix. reth also to displease hym, yea he seketh al meanes possible to accomplish Psal. xiii. the wyl of God, as the Psalmograph sayeth, blessed is that man, that Psal. cxii. feareth the Lord, for al hys delight and pleasure shalbe in his commaũ demẽtes. Unto thys feare of God doth Dauid exhorte vs, saying, feare Psal. xxxiiii. ye the Lord al ye that are hys seruauntes. For they shal neuer wante Mala. i. feare hym. The son honoreth the father, and the seruaunt hys Lorde. I I be your father, where is my honoure? And if I be your Lord, where What feare we ought to haue toward God. is my feare, sayeth the Lord of Hostes? But thys feare ought not to be a seruyle and bonde feare, procedyng from an vnwyllyng harte, but a Of loue. reuerẽt and gentle feare flowing out of loue. Therfore wyth this your fayth and feare, must ye also haue a sincere and pure loue toward God combyned, so that ye shall both truely beleue in God, reuerently feare Deut. x. hym, and vnfaynedly loue hym. And thys is it, that Moyses wryteth.
And now O Israel, sayeth he, what doeth the Lord thy God require of thee, but that thou shouldest feare the Lord thy God, and walke in hys waues, and loue hym, and serue the Lorde thy God in al thy harte and in al thy soule? Now haue ye heard partely what it is to walke before We must expresse our fayth, feare and loue toward God by externall good workes God. Eusc. I pray you, what remayneth there behynde? Phi. After that ye haue conceaued in your hartes thys fayth, feare and loue toward God through the operacyon of the holy gost, so that ye haue entred the pathway of our Lord God, now doeth conuenyent tyme require, that ye walke not onely secretly but also openly before God, that is, that ye Math. v. do not onely inwardely in your hartes beleue in God, feare and loue God, but also that ye outwardly shew forth thys your fayth, feare and loue buryed within you by externall workes, that men seing your godly What it is to walke before God. conuersacion, may then glorify your father, which is in heauen. For this is to walke before God, euẽ to beleue in God, to feare God, to loue God, and to leade an innocent lyfe according to hys holy word. Wyth out thys innocency and purite of lyfe, I see not what all fayth, feare & loue

loue profit. Folow your Lord God, saieth Moses, feare him & kepe hys commaundementes, and heare his voice, ye shal serue him & cleaue vnto him. The Prophet Miche also sayeth, I will shew thee, O mā, what is good, and what ẏ Lord requireth of thee, euē to do iudgemente & to loue mercy, & studiously to walke with thy God. Here see you, ẏ if ye will walke before God, ye must do good dedes, leade a pure & innocent life, study to accomplish gods will, and in al pointes labor to fashion youre maners after the rule of gods worde. Fare wel they that bost so muche of fayth, and yet are wycked in al their workes. They professe to know God, as the Apostle sayeth but with their dedes they deny hym, seeyng they are abhominable, disobedient & vnapte to all good workes. Such bosters of fayth do not only slaunder the true and Christē faith, which worketh by Charite, but also they deceaue them selues seyng they hope freely and only to be iustified by ẏ fayth, which is barē, vnfruitfull and void of al good workes. Let thē crake so much as they list of their faith and loue to warde God, yet are they wicked gospellers. For the loue of God, sayeth S. Gregory, is neuer ydle. For it worketh great thinges, if it be the loue of God in dede, but if it ceaseth to worke, thā it is no loue. Chrisostome also sayeth. The sonnes of God are not content to sit idle, but the spirite prouoketh them to take some greate and commendable worke in hande. Verely as impossible as it is for a good tre to be without good fruite, whan the tyme of the yeare commeth, so impossible is it for true fayth to be without good & Christen workes. And as the spirite of God can none other wyse but do those thynges, ẏ are pleasant before God, so in like maner a faythful man, which is the son of God, cannot cease from worckyng the wyl of God. Let these rude raylig readers of the gospel therfore be once ashamed of their fayth and spirite, wherein so greatly they crake, seeyng they are altogether vnfruitfull & voyd without al good workes. If any man be in Chryst, he is a newe creature. He that abideth in me, and I in hym saieth Christ, bringeth forth much fruite. And he that beleueth in me, as the Scripture sayeth, floudes of liuish water shal flowe oute of hys bely. Euery good tree bryngeth forth good fruite. He that hath not a iust and feruēt desyre to worke ẏ will of God, and to fashion hys lyfe in al partyes accordyng to the holy law of God, vndoubtedly he hath not the Christē fayth, neyther pertaineth he vnto Chryst, though he babieth neuer so much of fayth, of god, of Christ and of al the diuine misteryes. For the kingdom of God is not in worde but in power. Not euery one that sayeth vnto me, Lorde, Lorde sayeth Chryst, shal enter into the kyngdome of heauen, but he that doeth the will of my father, which is in heauē. Many shall say vnto me at ẏ daye, Lord, Lord, haue not we prophecyed in thy name, and caste out deuils by thy name, & wrought miracles by thy name? But thā shall I say vnto them I know you not. Depart from me ye workes of iniquitie. He that hath my commaundementes and kepeth them, he it is that loueth me. If any man loueth me, he wyl kepe my worde, and my father wyll Agaynst the vain bosters of fayth.

Note here.

Gregory.

Chrisostom

Note this similitude.

ii. Cor. v.
Iohn. xv.
Esay. xii.
Iohn. vii.
Math. vii.
Luke. vi.

i. Cor. iiii.
Math. vii.
Luke. vi.
Luke. xiii.

Psal. vi.
Luke. vi.
Iohn. xiiii.

loue him, and we will come vnto hym, and dwell wyth hym. But he loueth me not, kepeth not my wordes. God hath not shewed to vs hys manifolde kindnes, that we shuld liue dissolutely and wythout al good order (for so were we vnworthy any kyndnes at al) but that we should earnestly and with all diligence employ our selues to worke hys wyll,
i. Iohn. ii. to satisfie so much as lyeth in our power hys godly mind, and to walke
Rom. viii. in all our conuersacion and liuing, as his dearely beloued sonne walked. If he did not spare hys onely begotten sonne, but gaue hym for vs Iohn. iii. all euen vnto the death, howe vnkinde creatures myghte we rightfully be recounted, if we should not study wyth harty myndes to accomplishe his holy preceptes? Are they worthy to be called children, which neglecte their fathers wyll and so greately dissente from theyr fathers maners? Our celestiall father is holy, and shall we hys children be vn-Children ought to folow the maners of their father. holy? Our celestiall father is good, godly, mercyfull, pacyente, and all Leui. ix. spirite, and shall we hys chyldren be euill, wycked, rigorous, impacyente, i. Thes. iiii. and all flesshe? Be ye holy, sayeth he, for I am holy. Certes God hath not called vs vnto vnclennes, but vnto sanctificacion. Nether hath he deliuered vs from Satan and hys army, that we should lyue wickedly, but practyse pure innocencye and true godlynes in all oure lyfe, as Luke. i. zacharye the Priest father to S. John Baptyst sayeth: He hath performed the othe, which he sware to oure father Abraham, for to geue vs that we deliuered oute of the handes of oure enemyes, myghte serue hym without feare all the daies of our life in suche holynes and ryghteousnes as are acceptable before hym. Thus see ye that if we wyl walke be-Titus. iii. fore God, we may not onely beleue in God, feare and loue God, but also leade a pure and innocente lyfe, be plenteous in good workes, and altogether studious of true godlynes. Chri. But I pray you, why doth Why the Scripture vseth thys word walke the Scripture vse thys terme, VValke, rather than any other? Phil. It is not without a cause: Ye know we, he ỹ standeth still, moueth nothing forwarde nor hasteth not vnto the ende of hys iourneye. But he ỹ walketh is euer going, and drawyth alway nerer and nerer vnto his iourneyes ende. In consideracion whereof, the holy Scripture vseth the Psal. lxxxiiii. worde, VValke, to putte vs in remembraunce, that if we haue begon
Rom. ii. well in our profession, we should not there cease and stande styll, but go forth from vertue to vertue, from fayth to fayth, vntyll at the laste we Math. xxiiii. attayne vnto the perfection of pure innocencye. For he that continueth vnto ende, sayeth Chryste shall be saued. Agayne, be faythfull vnto Apoca. ii. death, and I shall geue thee the crowne of lyfe. Thys worde we rede Iohn. xii. in dyuers places of the holy Scriptures. Chryste sayeth, walke while Ephe. v. ye haue lighte, that the darkenes doeth not ouer whelme you. For he that walketh in darkenesse, knoweth not whyther he goeth. S. Paul Coloss. iiii. also sayeth, walke as the chyldren of lyghte, prouynge what is acceptable to the Lorde. Agayne, looke that ye walke circumspectlye, not as vnwyse, but as wyse, redemynge the tyme, for the dayes are
i. Iohn. ii. euill. Hytherto pertayneth that sayinge of Sayncte John, he that saieth

sayeth that he dwelleth in Chryst ought to walke euen as he hath walked. These places wt al other suche lyke declare to vs ẏ we oughte so to walke in our profession by encreasyng daily in vertues, ẏ at the last we maybe perfect, & as S. Paule sayeth, make euery mā perfect in Christ Jesus. And this is it, ẏ foloweth in ẏ latter end of ẏ sentēce. And be perfecte. For we ought so to walke, that is, encrease in al godlynes, vertue and honeste, that we might be perfecte, as Chryst sayeth. Be ye perfect as your heauenly father is perfecte. Also S. Paule, reioyse and be perfect. It is one degre of vertue to loue my neighboure, but it is an higher degree to loue mine enemy, but the most excellent degre aboue all, is so to loue our very enemyes, that we can be contented not onely to doe them good, but also euen to geue our lyues to win them vnto Chryste. It is a point of mercy to helpe my poore neighboure wyth my superfluous goods, but it is a poynt of perfection to sel al that euer I haue, and to geue it to the poore, as Chryst sayed to the rytche man. If ẏ wilte be perfecte, go and sel al that thou hast, and geue it to the poore, and thou shalt haue treasure in Heauen, and come on thy way and folow me. It is a point of godlynes to beare an honeste harte towarde the worde of God, yet it is much more, opēly to confesse it boldly before men, but the very perfect poynt of godlynes is, not only to loue & confesse it, but also manly to abyde by it, euen vnto ẏ very death, if nede so requireth. Now therfore euen vnto ẏ most & greatest perfection in al things ought we to contende and labor, ẏ we may walke before God, & be perfecte. Euse. I thynke there be but fewe, that attayne and come vnto thys perfection. Phil. Thys your floure is in dede to the carnal man of a bitter and vnpleasaunt sauor, but to the spiritual & truly regenerate, it smelleth swete r than any rose. The. God graunt, that we may once be aunciente in Chryst. Phi Labor and God wyl helpe. Enter in at the streyghte gate. For wyde is the gate, and broade is the way, that leadeth vnto destruction, and many there be, which go in therat. But streight is the gate, & narow is the way, which leadeth vnto lyfe, and fewe there be, ẏ fynde it. If ye wyl lyue and reygne in glory wyth Chryst, ye must suffer wyth Chryst, ye must take the Crosse of Chryst and folowe hym. Ye must cast away all the vayne pleasures and pompes of the world, the coucupiscēces and lustes of the flesshe ye muste mortifye. Satan and al hys subtyle suggestions ye must manfully resyst. Ye must dye vnto synne, and lyue vnto ryghteousnes. For Chryst dyd not enter into glory, before he had suffered, and thynke ye the gates of heauē to be opened for you, if ye liue in this world in ioy, pleasure, and after the flesh? Na verely ye maye be sure. For the Apostle sayeth, if ye liue after ẏ flesh, ye shal dye. But if ye mortify the dedes of the body in the spirite ye shall liue. And thys is it, ẏ remayneth of your floure. And I wyl make my couenaunte betwene me and thee, and wyl multiply thee beyonde all measure. God cōmaunding Abraham to walke before hym and to be perfect, addeth thys promyse, forespayed, and hath vndoubtedly accomplyshed it. Let vs also walke

Colloss. i.
Gene. xvii.
Math. v.
ii. Cor. xiii.
Degres of perfection.
Math. xix.
Luke. xii.
Marke. x.
Mdrke. viii.
Luke. xii.
i. Cor. ii.
Math. vii.
Luke. xiii.
ii. Timo. ii.
Math. x. xvi.
Luke. xiiii.
i. Iohn. ii.
Gala. v.
i. Peter. v.
Iacob. iiii.
Luke. xxiiii.
Rom. viii.
Gene. xvii.

before God and be perfecte, and that promyse also shalbe fulfylled in vs. God wyll multiply vs beyond all measure both in this worlde, and in
Mat. xxix. Luke. xviii. the worlde to come, as Christ sayth, Ther is no man that hath forsaken house, or father and mother, or brothers, or wyfe, or children for the kyngdom of heaue̅, but they shall receaue moch more in thys tyme, and in world to come euerlastyng lyfe. Chri. GOD graunte vs so to
A brefe reherſal of this floure. walke, that we maye be fou̅de worthy this eternal lyfe. Phi. wel neighbours seynge that God is almyghty, plenteous in power, aboundant, omnisufficient, ful of all good, nedy of nothynge, liberall, gentle, mercifull, redy to helpe at euery houre, and wholly be̅te to beatifye and make welthye so many as call on hym in spirite and verite whome wouldst not delyght to do seruyse vnto such a Lord, & to walke before him and Iohn, iiii. to be perfecte, seynge that for oure seruyse doynge he wyl encrease and multiplye vs, that is to saye, gyue vs in thys worlde abundance of all thynges necessary for this our lyfe, & in the worlde to come euerlastyng glorye? Euse. This is a swete floure, that ye haue nowe gyu̅ vs. Theo. I beseche God, that we maye smel wel of it Chri. Yea and that the fauour maye longe continue in vs. Phil. To that I say Amen. For if this
An exhortation vnto true fayth & good workes co̅e to passe, ye maye be sure to haue the fauour bothe of God and man, whiche of all treasures is the greatest, And of this shall ye not fayle, if ye labour to walke before God and be perfect, which I cal, Pure Innocency. He that is pure fro̅ synne, and innocēt or harmeles in his co̅uersatio̅, he muste nedes fynde grace and fauour in the eyes both of god and of all men. Therfore dere brothers cleaue stedfastlye to this one beyng God almyghty by true faythe, as yonlye Author of all good thynges, feare him reuerently as a beneficiall Lorde, loue hym tenderlye as a gentle Father, and so walke accordynge to his moost diuine pleasure in clennes of lyfe and pure innocency without any faynynge, dissimulacion or Hypocrisye, that ye maye in this worlde be gouerned of hym in al your Actes thorow his moost holy spirite, & in the worlde to come enioye the glory eternall. Euse. Am̄e good Lord Phil. Your duties learned towarde your selues & god, I wil nowe declare how ye ought to behaue your selues to ward our moost Christen & excelente kynge, and all other rulers that are sent of hym. And this shall be the thyrde floure of your Nosegay. Theo. Neuer in better tyme. It cōmeth wel in place. Let vs se it, I praye you.

¶ The thyrde floure called Fayth-full Obedience.

Philemon.

Rom. xiii. Sapi. vi. YE remember, I am sure ỹ name of your thyrde floure. Theo. Ye named it, Faythfull Obedie̅ce. Phi. wel remēbred. Hold here it is.
Let euery soule be obedie̅t to the powers that bere rule. For there is no power but of God. The powers that be, are ordeined of God. Therfore who so euer resistethe the power, resistethe the ordinaunce of God. And theithat resist, shall gette to them selues damdacion. &c.

Pow

howe doeth the aspecte of this flour please your eies? Chri. It is not only pleasaũte to the eye, but it also gyueth a goodly odoriferous & cõfortable sauour to so many as smelon it with purged noses. For it sheweth howe we ought to behaue our selues bothe towarde our moost redoubted kynge, & all other rulers, which are sẽt of hym vnto ỳ prayse of thẽ that do well, but vnto the punishement of them that do euell. i. peter. ii. They therfore ỳ are faythfull subiectes must nedes reioyse in this flour vnfaynedly. Phil. Wel sayd. Although neigbours I do not doubt, but that in your conscience, ye are assuredly perswaded, that the christen magistrates and hyghe powers do reygne, rule, & haue dominion, euery one in theyr kynge dome, not of theyr owne tyrannye cruel violence and extorte power, but of the authorite of Gods worde, and the iuste appoyntment of the hygh celestial kyng for the great consolacion and cõforte of his people, and for the innumerable cõmodities of the christen publique weale, which of theyr no lesse vertuous than ryghteous regiment & gouernaunce do ensue, yet for asmuch as in these our dayes there haue rysen vp wicked & vngodly spirites which deny the office of the magistrates & hygh powers to be the ordinãce of God, and affirme ỳ it can by no meanes stonde with the Gospell of Christe: I wyll fyrst declare vnto you & proue by ỳ holy scriptures, that the hygh powers ar ordained of GOD, and that theyr office agre and in all poynces consent with the moost holy worde of God, yea and that it is so necessary that without this regimẽt and gouernaunce of the hyghe powers no publique weale can remayne in safe estate, no frendshyppe can bee mayntayned, no fayth can be regarded, no order cã be kepte, no propriete of goodes can be saued, no vertu can reigne, no tranquilite cã consist, nor any goodnes continue, but all must nedes growe out of order, and, as they saye, go to hauocke, vnto the great disquietnes and vtter destruccion of so many as dwell in suche wyld, rustical, brutall & beastlyke realme, wher no ciuilite of publique order in mundayne thynges is obserued. This once done, I wil declare, what your duty is toward oure moost soueraygne Lorde the kyng, and all the other rulers that gouerne vnder his dominion, that ye maye lyue in thys moost florysshynge Realme lyke true and fayth full subiectes with obedient hertes and that not onlye for feare but for cõsciẽce sake, that by this meanes ye maye both acquyre & get to your selues quietnes & rest, leadynge an honeste and peasable lyfe without ony disturbance, and also be an exãple to other, that they wt lyke obedience maye be subiecte & serue our moost christen Prince accordyng to the wyll of God.

To shewe that the authorite of ỳ magistrates & common officers is the ordinaũce of God, wherof maye I rather take a begynnynge, than of the publique weale of the Israelites? whan God by his greate puissaũce & stretched oute power had delyuered the people of Israel oute of theyr miserable seruitude, wherwith they were greuously oppressed of the cruel and lyonlyke Tyraunt Pharao, dyd he not appoynte Moy- Exod. xiii.

The Anabaptistes.

The cõtẽtes of this floure.

Marke wel.

les to be theyr ruler gyde captayne & gouernour, that he hauynge the preeminence & rule ouer thē, should sake cōduite thē, rule & gouerne thē after the wyll of God? Would he haue done thys, if it had ben a thynge vniust, vnmete and vnlawfull? Woulde he not rather haue suffered his people to run astray as masterles houndes and as shepe destitute of a shepeharde or herdman without any order? Dyd not Jetro also, a man of great vertue, and replete with the holy gost, whan he saw Moses alone take all the paynes in hearynge the causes of the Jsraelites from morning vnto euen, say to hym these wordes: Loke out among all thy people such as be wyse men, and that feare God, and such as are true, & hate couetousnes. Make these rulers ouer thē, some ouer thousandes, some ouer hundredes, ouer fyftye, and ouer ten, that they may alwaye iudge the people. Moses so did, and God approued his acte. Here se we other magistrates and rulers appointed also to serue in the publyque weale beside the head officer, which they also beyng lawfully chosen and set in office, are approued before God. After moses were not Josue Othoniel, Aioth, Sangar, Delbora, Gedeon, Abimelech, Thola, Jair Jepte, Samson, and at the last Samuel, Judges and rulers ouer the Jsraelites: were not all these approued to be the iust and lawfull ministers of God? Did not Moses also before hys death shewe to the people of Jsrael, ỳ afterwarde God should geue them a kyng of the nomber of their brothers, whiche shoulde be their ruler as all nacions throughout all the world? Do we not here learne that all Nacions in that tyme had kynges, and that kynges are appoynted and chosen by the election of God? Thys is sufficient for any faythfull harte to proue, establyshe, and corroborate the authorite of kynges & other ciuile magistrates. But let vs harken more to the Scripture. Whan Samuel ware olde and could no more iudge the people for hys age, he cōmended that office to hys sonnes Joel and Abia, which answered nothyng to the godly disposicions of their father, neyther ordered the publique weale aryght, but lyued dissolutely, volupteously and wyckedly, receyuyng gyftes, and peruertyng iudgement, whych thyng caused the Elders and auncyent of the people to assemble, and come vnto Samuel, that he myghte appoint them a kyng to rule ouer them as all nacions had. And did not Samuel shortely after at the appoyntmēt of God anoint Saul kyng ouer Jsrael? And from ỳ tyme in a maner vntyll the comming of Chryst were there not kynges amonge the Jsraelites of their own nacion according to the Prophecy of Jacob? and at Chrystes comming dyd not kyng Herode although a straunge reigne among ỳ Jewes? Do not al these hystoryes manifestly proue and approue the office of kynges and other magistrates to be the ordinaūce of God? Euen Those thynges are clearer than the light. Phi. J wil now rehearse vnto you certayne manifest sentēces and open textes of ỳ holy Scripture which shal euidently establishe ỳ authorite of ỳ high powers, that Sathan hymselfe shall not bee able to preuayle agaynste it, muche lesse hys impes, Exo. xviii.

Deu. xxviii.

i. Re. viii.

i. Reg. x.

Gene. xlix.

impes, which now of late are sprong oute of his diabolicall syde. Chri. I pray you let vs heare them. Phil. Salomon speakynge in the person of God, sayeth on this manner through me kynges reygne, throughe me Princes make iust lawes. Throughe me Lordes beate rule, and al Iudges of the earth execute iudgement. Agayne the wyse man sayth, Heare O ye kynges & vnderstand, gyue eare ye that rule the multitudes. For the power is gyuen you of the Lorde, & the strength from the moost hygh god. Are not these wordes playne ynoughe, to shewe that the power, whiche the ciuile magistrates & head Officers haue is of God: as that noble kyng Iosaphat sayde to thē, whome he appoynted iudges of the lande in all the cities of Iuda. Take hede, sayth he, what ye do. For ye execute not the iudgement of man, but of the Lord, and he is with you in iudgement. Therfore lette the feare of the Lorde be wt you, and do al thyngs diligently. For with the Lord our God there is no vnryghteousnes, nor respecte of persones, nor desyre of gyftes. God him selfe also sayth by the mouth of Dauid, ye are Gods, ye are al ỹ sonnes of ỹ moost hyghest. Dothe not god here playnly saye, that ỹ magistrates ar gods, that is, such as beare the offices of GOD, as to mayntayne peace, iustice and good order, to punysh synne & to defende the innocentes. If they be the officers of God, & exercyse his offyce, so that he approueth & alloweth their state and manner of lyuinge, howe can any man righteously cōdemne & reiecte theyr authorite & power? Curled be they, that knowledge not frō the very hert the hygh powers to be ordeined of God, and that ther fore they ought to be obeyed & had in perpetual reuerence & honoure. Chri. Thei graunt that in the olde lawe it was ỹ ordinaunce of God to haue ciuile magistrates, as Iudges, kynges and other rulers, but nowe, saye they, in the newe Testament it is not lawfull to haue any preeminēce or superiorite For christ sayth, be not ye called mayster. For ye haue but one master euē Christe. All ye are brothers. Agayne, ỹ kynges of the Hethen haue dominiō on them, and they that beare rule ouer them, are called gracious Lordes. But ye shal not be so. But the greatest among you, shal be as the yongest, and the chiefest as a seruaunt, Lo saye they, here is all dominion and temporall power forbydden amonge Christen people, and equalitie of power proponed & set forthe to all men.

pro. viii.

Sap. vi.

ii. para. xix.

psal. lxxxii.

Why ỹ magistrates are called gods in the Scripture.

Mat. xxiii.

Luke. xxii.

The obiections of the Anabaptists

And that we shoulde doubte nothynge hereof, we haue, saye they a manifeste exāple of Christe the teacher of al verite, whiche, whan the people would haue made him king, fled awaye from them, & by no meanes would enioy ỹ offyce, although beynge the very Messias and true annoynted kynge of ỹ Lord Moze ouer he sayde to Pylate, my kynge dome is not of this worde. Phil. O blynde ignorancye, and ignorante blindnes. With what eyes do those Owles loke on ỹ holy scripture? wt what spirite dothe that generaciō of vipers searche and iudge ỹ moste sacred word of God? With how fylthy & vnwasshed feete do those swinysh and beastlike parsonnes enter into the swete and pleasaunt fountaynes

Iohn. vi.

Iohn. xviii.

The confutation.

taines of the moste pure Scriptures: O Lorde God, what dareth not blind Baiarde attempte and take in hande? Christ came not into this worlde to reigne, but to serue, not to be a temporal, but spirituall kynge, not to rule with the swearde, but wt the breath of his mouth, not to execute iudgemente on other, but to be iudged himselfe, not to liue as an earthly Prynce, but as a gostly minister of gods worde, not to slea but to be slayne. Therfore was it conuenient, that he should fulfyll bys fathers wil, for the which he came downe, and that once done to ascende and go vp againe vnto the glory of his father. Whiche all these thynges he did: liuing al the tyme that he was in this worlde humbly & meekely shewyng euer obedience, reuerence & honor to ỳ magistrates although Heathen, euen vnto the very death. And as he came to serue and not to be serued, to obey and not to be obeyed, so taught he his disciples when they began to contende of superiorite, to be humble, lowly, meke, gentle, obediente, and not to go about any temporal primacye, whiche onely pertayneth to the ciuile magistrates, but to be contente with their office, which was to preache gods worde, to open ỳ misteryes of Christes kyngdome, to reproue the worlde of syn and vnfaythfulnes, to fight with the swearde of gods worde, to vse not carnal but spirituall armoure, to bryng agayne such as wer gone astray. To be short, wholly to be bent to enlarge the kingdõe of God, and ỳ glory of Christes gospel. This destroyeth not, but rather magnifieth the authorite of the highe powers, seyng Chryst willed thẽ not to take vpon thẽ the office of tẽporal regiment contrary to equite, but onely to be as seruauntes & dispensatours of ỳ misteries of God. And come of a good felowship, did Christ at any time shewe himselfe disobedient to the publique magistrates and their officers? Did not he confesse ỳ the power, whyche Pilate ỳ Judge had ouer him, was geuen him from aboue? Note that wel, I pray you, and beare it away. Did not he also pay tribute to Cesar, and wylled other to do so lykewyse? Did not ỳ Apostles also shewe themselues obedient to the high powers in al poyntes, yea and taught other men so to do? There is no power, sayeth S. Paule but of God. The powers that be are ordeyned of God. Therfore whoso resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinaunce of God And they that resist, get to themselues damnacion. S. Peter also cõmaundeth vs to honor the kyng & to be subiect to him as supreme head, and to the other rulers ỳ are sent of hym. For this is ỳ wil of the Lord, sayeth he. Are not al these authorities alleged out of the new Testament? Haue we not here both manifest textes & also euident examples to approue the office and state of the high powers, so that we nowe of no lesse authorite, than euer it was before, but rather greater and stronger, seeynge it is nowe also confirmed and established by Christe and hys Apostles? Let the aduersaryes of thys ordynaunce of God learne to be ashamed, confesse their disobedyence, become subiect and geue reuerence and honoure to al head officers as to the ministers of God, euen from the greatest to the least.

Christes kyngdome.

The office of Chrystes Apostles.

i. Cor. iiii.

Iohn. xix.

Math. xxii.
Marke. xii.
Luke. xx.

Rom. xiii.

i. peter. ii.

The new testament also approue the authorite of the Magistrates.

fu

for so is the wyll of God, sayth the scripture. Theo. It wyll be obiected of these order destroyers: we wonlde gladly heare by the scripture, if any christen man, that had receaued the fayth of Christ, dyd euer beare rule and exercyse temporall dominion ouer his Brothers. Phi. what is this? what do I heare? May not a christē man execute that office, wherby vertue is mayntayned and vice exiled? Is he not more fitte to be a ruler that beleuethe in the true God, feareth him, seketh his glory, embraseth vertue, hateth vice, loueth his neyghbour, tendereth the common wealth, and seketh in al poyntes to be a father amonge his subiectes, than suche one as beleueth in Idoles, feareth them, seketh theyr glory, despyseth the alone true God, hatethe vertue, embraceth vice, oppresselethe his neyghbour, tearethe the common wealth in peses, and she weth hinselke in all thinges a cruel Tyraunt among his subiectes? What furious Erinnys hath inuaded and troubled ẏ brayns of these vnreasonable creatures to resist the publique Magistrates and to condemne theyr authoritie, which they haue receaued of God? But let these honest men, & GOD wil, tell me, was not Abraham, Joseph, Judas, Moses, Josue, Gedeō, Samuel, Dauid, Ezechias, Josaphat, Josias, wt many other Christen & faythfull men? Yet dyd they execute the office of Magistrates & were hygh powers in dede allowed before God, worckynge that, which was good in his syghte? Euse. They were faythfull, saye they, we graūt, but not christē. Phi. O monstures as though it were one thynge to be faythfull, and another to be christē. Differēce is there none betwene them & vs, but this only ẏ they beleued in Christe to come, and we beleue that Christe is come & hathe fulfylled the prophecies of the holy men ghostly enspired. All, sayth S. Paule (he speketh of the fathers of the olde Testament) dyd eate al one spirituall meate, that is to saye wt vs, & all dyd drynche the very same drinke of the spiritual rocke, which accompanied them, & Christ was ẏ rocke. It is a good cōsequence therfore, that it is all one chyrche bothe of them that beleued thā in Christ & of them, whiche are now, whiche chyrch is gathered together in one & the very same spirite, so ẏ they be a like faithful & christē, hauing one faith, one professiō, one religion, one God, one Lord, one sauioure, & one hope. But I wil come to ẏ new Testamēt. was not Nichodemus, Joseph, & ẏ noble mā which was chāberlayne & of great authorite wt Cādace ẏ quene of ẏ lāde of ẏ Moriās which was baptized of Philip, & receaued into Christes flocke, christē faythfull mē? Yet wer they magistrates, was not Cornelius which Actes. viii. called Peter vnto him, & was baptized of him, a christē mā? Yet dyd he vse publique offices. was not Sergius Paulus, Erastus, wt dyuers other christē mē? And yet officers in ẏ cōmō welth? Ch. Al these thiges are true. Phi. Wel thā let vs cōclude if it wer lawful at ẏ time for a christē mā to beare rule in ẏ cōmō wele how is it now becōe vnlawful, Is any mā more fyt to reigne & rule amōg christē mē, thā he which is of ẏ same professiō, fayth & religiō? Is it cōueniēt for ẏ wicked & vnfaythful

to haue

to haue dominion ouer the ryghteous and Chrysten, rather than they whych desyre nothyng more thā ỳ glory of God, and the health of their Christen brothers? O extreme blindnes. Iỳ should come to passe, that would not wish rather to be an vnfaythfull painim thā a faithful Christian? Beholde to what poynt these wycked order breakers brynge the Christē religion, while they wyl seme to fyght most chefely for the glo-ous furtherasice of it? O foryshe Hipocrites. who perceiueth not thy subtilite? who smelleth not their craft? who espieth not their falsehode whyle they go aboute to syn wout punishment, to haue all thynges in common, to lyue of the sweate of other mens browes, to liue freely in all kynde of beastlyke pleasure, to defyle other mens wyues, maydens daughters and seruauntes. &c. beholde to what poynt these grosse galpellers, these shameleſſe Schismatykes, these brutall bely gods, bryng the publique weale of Chrystendome. God mought once rote such pe-stilences out of the earth, that we may accordyng to our duty wyth submission of mynde, and faythfull obedyence, honor and magnify the publique Magistrates. Thus haue I neighboures, grossely but faythefully, rudely but truely proued to you by the infallible verite of godes worde, that the high powers are ordained of God, and that their office pleaseth God, and is agreable in al pointes wyth the holy Scriptures both of the olde and newe Testament. Now accordyng to my promise wyl I in three wordes, as they say, declare how necessary the offyce of the publique magistrates is for the ryghte institucion and prosperous preseruacion of the common weale. Euse. I pray you let vs heare. Phi.
The offyce of the high powers euidently declareth, what innumerable commodities and pleasures the Chrysten publique weale receaueth by them. Moses, whā he appointed certayn rulers ouer the Israelites, comaunded them that they should iudge ryghteously, and that they shuld not be partiall in their iudgements, but heare al indifferently, not ha-myng nor preferryng the man of power and nobilite before the poore base person, nor yet feare the person of any man, for it is the iudgement of God, sayeth he, Agayne, that they should receaue no giftes (for gyftes do blynd the eyes of the wise, and deprsaue the causes of the ryghteous) but alway pursewe and folow that, which is according to iustice, and euer wyth them the boke of the lawe of the Lorde, readeit all ỳ dayes of their lyfe, that they maye learne to feare the Lorde their God, and to kepe all the wordes of hys lawe, and ordynaunces thereof, that they may do them. The Prophete Jeremy also commaundeth kynges and other rulers to minister righteousnes, to deliuer the oppressed from violent power, to kepe equite, not to greue nor oppresse the straunger, the fatherlesse nor the wydowe, nor yet to shed innocente bloud. Here ye see in fewe wordes, howe necessarye the offyce of the publique ma-gystrates is for the ryghte institucion and prosperousse preseruacion of the common weale. Nowe expedyente is it, thynke you, in matters of controuersye, that all thynges be iudged and reconcyled accordyng

Deute. i.

Deute. xvii.

Ier. xxi. xxii.
Esay. i.
Zacha. viii.

How necessary ỳ office of the ciuyle Magistrates is.

to equite and iuſtice? Howe neceſſarye is it, that the poore oppreſſed be deliuered from the violent bloud ſoupers? Howe conueniente is it, that the ſtraunger, widowe and fatherles be holpen and prouided for? Howe profitable is it, ỹ vnitie, concorde, loue benevolẽce, frendſhip, amite bee mayntained? and debate, diſcorde, ſtryfe, malevolẽce, ire, wrath, contẽcion, hatred, emnite be exiled? Howe neceſſary is it, that vertue reigneth and vice be baniſhed? Howe ſemely is it, that an order be kept, and confuſyon driuen out of the publique weale? By ỹ godly office & authorite of the high powers al theſe good thynges are brought to paſſe, and without that, what can there remayne in any publique weale in ſafe eſtate and comely order? As Salomon ſayeth, where there is no gouernour, there the people muſt nedes decay. But wheras are many that cõ gene counceil, there is wealth, as Chryſoſtome ſaieth. If thou takeſt awaye the iudiciall ſeates and the offices of the lawe, ſo haſte thou vtterly deſtroyed all the order of our lyfe. And as if thou ſeperateſt and pluckeſte away from the ſhip the maiſter and ſtere mã of it, thou haſte drowned the ſhip, and as if thou leadeſt away the captayne from the army, thou haſt made the Souldiours to be ouercome of their enemyes. So lykewiſe if thou takeſt away the rulers out of the cities, we ſhal leade a life more vnreaſonable than the very brute beaſtes, euer snatchyng one at another, ſo that the man of the greater power ſhall ſubdue the poorer, and the bolder ſhall ouercome the meker ſpirited. They therefore that go about to take away the publique magiſtrates, maye iuſtely ſeme to be the moſt extreme peſtilences of the common weale, and to deſtroye that, which is no leſſe profitable for our preſeruacion, ſafegarde & helth than the ſon, fyre, or water is, or what ſoeuer can be reherſed moſt neceſſary for this our nedy lyfe. For by them is publique innocency, honeſte behauour, godly learnyng, vertuous knowledge, ſincere erudicion, neceſſary artes, frutfull occupacions, mayntayned. By them we lyue in tranquilite and peace. By them we enioy our owne poſſeſſiõs without any diſturbaunce. By them we are preſerued from all iniuries & cruell oppreſſions. By them our Realmes are defended from ỹ inuaſiõ of cruell Tyrauntes. By them the glory of God flouriſheth. By them the Goſpell of Chryſte triumpheth, and al ſectes and hereſies are extirped and blacked vp by the rotes. To conclude, by them God worketh his moſt diuine pleaſure in his electe and faythful people, and all good thynges chaunſe vnto vs. For their iudging place is the throne of God. Their mouth and ſentence is the organ and inſtrumente of goddes trueth. They are the vicars of God. They are the liuily Image of God. They are the miniſters of God for oure wealth. They repreſente the perſon of God. They exercyſe the iudgemente of the Lorde. They are the ſauers of the countrye. They are the paſtoures of the people. They are the maintayners of peace. They are the rulers of iuſtice, and patrones of all true innocencye. They therefore, whiche will not approue, commende and allowe the imperye, rule and dominion of the publyque magiſtrates, Prouer. xi.

Hom. vi. ad Po. de eoquod vtilis ſit principum terror.

Beholde what cõmodites we receaue by the high power.

magistrates and head officers, may worthely be iudged twyse trāsgressours, and to muche estraunged from all kynde of humanite. Thus haue ye heard in few wordes, how necessary the hygh powers are for the ryght constitucion and godly administracion of the publique weale. Then se now ryght wel, that without theyr regimēt and gouernaunce, nothyng that is godly and vertuous can stande, but all wycked thynges must nedes spryng vp and aryse in those Realmes, where the publique Magistrates want. Phil. Trueth it is, that ye say. Wel, now for the full and perfect accomplyshment of my promyse heretofore made, I will declare consequently vnto you, what your duety is towarde the hygh powers, I meane, our most soueraygne Lorde the kyng and all the other rulers, that gouerne vnder hys most noble empyre and dominō. Christ I pray you hartely let it so be. Phi. Ye remember wel, I am sure, that your floure, which I gaue you last, is thys. Let euery soule be obedient

Rom. xiii.

to the powers, that beare rule &c. Euse. We remember it well. Phi. Then is Faythfull obedience required of you towarde the hygh powers and rulers of the cōmō weale. For as it is their office to rule, so is it our duety to obey, and that not faynedly but wyth sincerite of conscyence and purenes of mynde wythout any dissimulacion or Hipocrisy. For there is no power but of God. The powers that be are ordayned of God. Therfore whosoeuer resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinaunce of God. And they that resist, shal get to themselues damnacion. But I praye you marke what your floure sayeth. Let euery soule be obedient to the powers that beare rule. Note that it is sayd. Let euery soule be obedyent. Here is ment that no parson, be he spirituall or temporal, as they vse to cal them, is exempted from obedyence towarde the hygh powers. All are vnder subiection. All owe obedience, feare, honoure and trybute to the rulers of the common weale. None is free from this subiection. For euery soule is here taken after the Hebrewe phrase for al men, and for so many, as are reasonable creatures, borne and appointed to lyue vnder a lawe. So that the Scripture here commaundeth al men both spirituall and temporal, both godly and vngodly, both wycked and ryghteous, both perfect and imperfect, to obey the magistrates and al suche ordinaunces and lawes as are made of them for the glory of God, and the commodite of the publique weale, or els they accumulate and heape vp to themselues

Of faythfull obedience.

☞ Rom. xiii.

No parsō is excepted frō obedience vnto the powers.

De cor. Do. ad boni. ca. vi.

great damnacion, as Saluste sayeth, whosoeuer wyll not obeye the lawes of the temporal gouernoures, which are made for the establishment of gods trueth, he getteth great damnacyon. The. Are the spirituall persons bounde to be obedient also to the hygh powers by the lawe of God? Phi. Yea verely, there is not one Bishop nor preist within the Realme of Englande, which oweth not so much obedience to the lowest ges graces maieste, as the moste inferioure subiecte and vile temporall man doeth. Neyther doeth thys name spirituall, Archbishop, Patriarke, Cardinal, Bishop, Archedeacon, Suffragane, Preest, Deconne. &c. deliuer them from subiection and obedience, no more thā this worde, Tour,

The spiritualte also must obeye.

oure, Shomaker, Draper, Marchaunte, Inne keper, water tankerde earer. Dawber, Cobler. &c. doeth. Let euery soule, sayeth ỳ Scripture e obedient to the powers that beare rule. Here is none excepted, no not hat Romishe Pope, which chalengeth so great authorite ouer al per-ons in the world, that he is not ashamed to suffer kynges and Empeours to kisse and licke his pocky fete. O shameles Antichrist. Theophi acte vpon the aforesayd place of Paule writeth on this maner: Herehe eacheth al men, sayeth he, that whither he be Priest or monke, or Apole, they shoulde be obedient to the Princes and high powers. Where s any exceptiō now, I pray you? Where ar the priuileges, immunites, edoms, and libertyes now become, which the Butcher of Rome was ont to geue so bounteously to hys dere spirituall children, that they ight syn without punishment, be fre from paying tribute, exēpt from l temporall iurisdiction, be Lordes and kynges with in themselues, ange and draw at their own pleasure, and do what soeuer their beast ke lustes coueted? How wel folowed they thys doctryne of the holye ost? Of what spirite, wer they named spirituall, which so manyfestlye ghte wyth the spirite of God? With what forhead durst they be bolde o call them selues the successours of the Apostles, seyng that contrary o the teachyng and practyse of all true Apostles, they were disobediēt o the high powers, robbed them of their authorite, led them captyue & ade them to serue their voluptuous & beastlyke pleasures. Euse. Vn-oubtedly there hath been great abusyon in the clergy concernyng the mporal rulers Phi. It cannot be denied but thankes be to our Lord od, which hath in these our dayes brought it to passe by the reuelacin of his diuine verite, that our most Christen kyng, wyth certayne o-er Princes, hath very triumphantlye gotten agayne and recouered eir authorite geuen them of God, wherof so many yeres they hauebn stly be depriued by the furious tyrannye of that moste cruel Romishe yshop and his bloudy whelpes. The. The holy Scripture, I am sure ughte them no such disobedience. Ph. No verely. It rather teacheth em obedyence, as ye heard before. For it is wrytten. The kynge beath rule ouer all, and he hath dominion ouer them, so that whatsoeuer e sayeth to them, they do it. Was not Aaron the hygh Pryest obedient o Moses, whō God appointed ruler ouer hys people, and dyd whateuer he commaunded hym? was not the High Pryest Achimelech & l the other Pryestes obedyent to kyng Saul, and called themselues s seruauntes, and hym theyr Lord, not once resisting the furye of the nge, but rather chosyng to suffer death pacyently vnder so greate a aunte, than once to resyste hym disobedientlye? What nede I speake Dauid, Salomon, Ezechias, Josaphat, Josias, Alexander, Demeius, Antiochus. &c. whiche euer had the Bishops, Pryestes, Leuites, d other spirituall ministers in subiectyon wythoute any resystence?
owe canne oure spiritualte than be free from obedyence and subiet-on? Chri. Ye saye trueth. But all these historyes hitherto alleged,

O abhominacion.

Theophi-lacte.

iii. Esdr. iiii.

Exo. xxxii.

i. Reg. xxii.

ii. para. viii.
ii. para. xix.
ii. para. xxix.
xxx. xxxi.

i. Mach. x. xiiii. vii. The Anabaptistes.

you haue borowed of the olde Testamente. We would be glad to heare thys thyng proued by the authorite of the newe Testamente. For these haue been, neyther yet want, which thinke it a matter of absurdite and a thyng very vnfitting, that temporal rulers should reigne ouer the spiritualte. Phi. O disobedient hartes. Dyd not Mary ỳ mother of Christ and Joseph obey the commaundement of Augustus the Emperour, when the whole world should be tared and went into their Cite[es] leem? Dyd not Chryst hymselfe teache obedience towarde the high powers? Did not he paye tribute? was not he contente to dye vnder

Luke. ii.

Math. xvii. Math. xxii. Marke. xiiii. Luke. xxii. Iohn. xviii. Actes. xxiii. xxv.

temporal rulers, and confesse that their power was geuen them from aboue? Dyd not the Apostles so in lyke maner both teache and do? Did not Paul willingly euer obey ỳ publique magistrates Festus & Felix

Dani. ix. Esay. xi. ii. Tes. ii.

&c. Did not al the Bishops and ministers of gods word so lykewyse and teache in the primatiue Churche, vntyl that wycked man the sonne of perdicion came, which exalted hymselfe aboue all that is called God, in so much that he sitteth in the Temple of God, bostyng hymselfe that God? But the Lord shal slay hym wyth the breath of hys mouth, and shal put hym to flyght wyth the clerenes of hys commyng Let it come to passe, O Lord, yea and that shortely. Furthermore was not this the commaundement of Chryst: Pay that to the Emperoure that is due to the Emperoure? what is due to the Emperoure, that is, to the temporal, gouernoure, but obedience, feare, honour, tribute. &c. Howe that any man be excepted from the obedience of the temporal power, be he called spirituall or other wyse? Let euery soule, sayeth S. Paule, as I heard before, be obedient to the powers that beare rule. Agayne he eth, warne thẽ that they submit themselues vnto Rynces and to the higher authorite, to obeye the Officers. S. Peter also sayeth, submyt

Math. xxii.

Rom. xiii.

Titus. ii.

i. Peter. ii.

your selues to al maner of ordinãce of mã for the Lordes sake, whether it be vnto the kyng as vnto the chefe head, or vnto rulers, as vnto them that are sente of hym for the punishment of euil doers, but for the prayse of them that do wel. For so is the wyll of God. Are not all these authorites selected out of the newe Testament sufficient to declare what obedience all kynd of people owe to the higher powers? Euse. Yes in good fayth, and that no man from thys true & faythfull obedience is exempted. Phi. Very well sayed. So here do ye now learne what is one poynt

What oure duty is towarde the high powers of your duty towarde our most redoubted kyng, & other head officers. Chri. This is truely and faythfully with al humilite and submission mynde to be obedyente vnto them, and gladly to execute, perfourme and do, that which they commaunde and require of vs. Phi. Than doo ye perceyue ryght wel, that as it is the office of the publique magistrates for to rule, so is it your duety to obeye. Theo. We perceiue ỳ right well and that we maye by no me anes resiste the high powers, in asmuch as they are ordeyned of God. For whosoeuer resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinaunce of God. And theythat resyste, shall gette to themselues damnacyon. Phile. It is wel sayed.

Rom. xiii.

But I wyl now go forth to declare vnto you, what your duty is more towarde the high powers. Chri. I pray you let it so be. Phil. It is not onely required of vs by the worde of God, that we should be obedient to the head rulers, but also that we feare them. For S. Paul among al other thynges, which we of very duty owe to the hygher powers, rehearseth feare. So that it is our duty also to feare, lest we attempt any thyng, that should derogate their pryncelyke authorite, or in any point displease them. For the rulers ar not feare, sayeth he, to them ỳ do well, but to them that do euill. Wilte thou not feare the power? Do that is good, and thou shalt receiue prayse of it. For he is the minister of God vnto thy wealth. But if thou doest that which is euell than feare. For he beareth not the swearde in vaine. He is the minister of God, a taker of vengeaunce to punish hym that doeth euil. Wherfore ye must nedes obey, not only for punishment but also for conscyence sake. And thys is it that Salomon sayeth: The kyng ought to be feared as the rorynge of a Lyon. Whoso prouoketh hym vnto anger, offendeth agaynste hys own soule. Agayne he sayeth, my sonne feare thou the Lord and ỳ king Beholde how he ioyneth the feare of God and of the kyng together because we should walke euer wyth a reuerēt feare toward hym, alway beyng afearde eyther to thynke, breath, speake or do, that should be contrary to the kynges graces pleasure. How greuously they haue be punished that walked as sedicious persons wont any godly feare towarde the publique Magistrates, the Hystoryes of Dathan and Abyron, of Zambry and Baasa shewe manyfestly. Neyther haue we wanted experyence of thys thyng now a dayes. For what, I pray you, hath euer been muttered or secretly conspired agaynst the kynges graces maiesti at any tyme eyther among men of nobilite, or yet of the baser sort, that hath not come to lyght, and wrought destruction to ỳ Authors therof? This is vndoubtedly the prouision of God. God defedeth his ministers as a good master doeth his seruauntes. God wayteth vpon the kinges graces health. He defendeth hym from hys enemyes. He kepeth al hys bones, as the Psalmograph sayeth, that not one of them shalbe broken. He hath nombred the heares of hys head, so that not one of them shall perysh wythout the good wyll of our heauenly father. He hath wyth out doubt hytherto, and shal continually preserue hys moste graciousse maiestie from all the craftye conspiracions and subtyle assaultes of all hys enemyes, so ỳ they shall neuer preuayle against hym, but his grace shalbe preserued in safe estate, and haue perpetually ỳ triūphant victory ouer al hys enemyes vnto ỳ great glory of God, the fruitefull promocion of Chrystes gospell, and the prosperous tranquilite & welth of al vs hys most louing subiectes. For as it is impossible to hynder or let the course of the Sōne or Moone, so is it impossible for them to escape, whiche imagyne or worke any violence or treason agaynste hys grace. Certes ther is no euasion nor way to escape, as ỳ wyse mā saieth. For God alwaye preserueth hys mynisters, and wyll not suffer them

Of feare.

Rom. xiii.

Pro. xx.

Pro. xxiiii.

Marke well

Num. vi. iii. Reg. xvi. Experience of our tyme.

God watcheth vpon hys ministers, that no euil chaunce vnto them. Psal. xxxiii. Math. x. Luke. xii.

Note this similitude.

Eccle. vii.

to escape vnpunished, that contemne disobey, or labor to destroy his ordinaunce. Would God therfore that al men would remember this saying of the preacher: Wishe the kyng no euil in thy thought, and speake no hurt of the ryche in thy priuy chamber. For a birde of the ayre shall betray thy voyce, and with her fethers shal she bewraye thy woordes. There is nothyng hyd, that shall not come to light, neither is there any secrete, that shal not come to reuelacion. Eccl. x. Matth. x. Luke. xii.

Euse. If they would set before the eyes of their minde this most godly and wyse sentence, than should they neuer offende, but euer feare once to thinke any thyng that should be preiudicial to the kynges graces honor. Phi. We say trueth. Prouyde therfore that ye your selues remember it wel, and euer set before your eyes this feare, and that not constraynte, seruile, bonde or churlishe, but reuerent, gentle, obsequious, willing, yea and euē such a louing feare, as a deare sonne hath towarde his most hartely beloued father, so that ye would feare to offende though there were no lawe nor punishment at all, euen for the loue that ye beare towarde vertue, true innocency and purite of lyfe. If ye haue thys feare, ye shall easly haue the true obedience and all other thynges, which most of al become faythful and louing subiectes. And without this feare knowe that ye can none otherwise but precipitate and throwe headlong your selues into all kynde of mischefe, parell, daunger and destruction. What feare we ought to haue toward the high powers.

Chri. God mought engraue in our hartes this reuerent feare towarde our most excellente Prince, that we by no meanes may offende hym neyther in thought, word nor dede. Of honor.

The. Amen, good Lord I beseche the.

Ph. Moreouer besides thys obedience and feare, we owe also to the high powers, honoure, as S. Paul wytnesseth in the aforesayed texte. And S. Peter sayeth, honour all men, loue the brotherhead, feare God, honoure the kyng. Here are we also commaunded to honoure the kynge. Rom. xiii. 1. pet. ii.

Euse. What meaneth the Scripture by that, I praye you?

Phil. To honor the kyng, is not only to pretende & shewe an outwarde humilite and humble obeysaunce toward hym, as by putting of our cap to hym, reuerētly to speake to him, to knele vnto hym, to graunt hym freely and willingly what soeuer he requireth of vs, but also wyth hart and mynde to wish wel vnto hym, to desire all good and prosperous thynges vnto hym, to pray for him, to desire long life vnto him, to pray that god may rule and gouerne al his councels, enterpryses and affayres, to watch diligently that no harme, disturbance or incommodite chaunse vnto hym, and in all our actes eyther publique or priuate, open or secrete, to seke the honor of hym, as of our most soueraygne Lorde. This honor shewed Dauid to king Saul, which knowing Saul to be his vtter enemy, and one that sought his lyfe, would not with standing so much as once hurt hym, nor yet suffer any other to do it, although he had sufficient opportunite & accasion fyue ners times to haue slayne him, if he had bene so minded. The Lord forbyd, sayth he, that I should laye mynhand on hym. Agen, kyl him not. For who, sayth he, shall laye handes on the Lordes annoynted, and be not gyltye? The Lorde lyuethe, he dyeth not, excepte the Lorde smite him, or that his day be come to dye, or els go to battayle, & there perish. ii. Reg. i.

What it is to honor the kyng. 1. Reg. xxvi.

He also afterwarde commaunded ỹ younge manne to be slayne, which came & tolde him, that he had kylled kynge Saul, thynckynge by thys menes to haue picked a gret thãke or obtained some benefitial reward at Dauids hand. Here was true honor. For it is not lawfull for any man beyng a subiecte to aryse agaynst hys Prynce, and to auenge hys owen quarell, be he neuer so much a Tiraunte, or iustayneth he at hys hande neuer so greate iniuries and wronges, but patientlye to suffer all thynges, yea rather death, than he shoulde once resyste, leauing the vengeaunce vnto hym, which sayeth, vengeaunce is myne, and I wyl reward. For he that resisteth the ordinaunce of God, getteth to hym- Deu. xxxii. Rom. xii. Hebru. x. Rom. xiii.
selfe damnation. And they that dishonoure the hyghpowers, shall fall into ignobilite, and prouie a miserable ende. Chri. They therfore dishonoure greatly the magistrates, whiche excite and styre vp sedicious, make commotions, and trouble the tranquilite of the common weale, wishinge that there were no temporall gouernoure ouer them, but that they myghte licentiously doe what so them lusteth. Phi. Suche sekers of carnal and beastlyke liberte hitherto haue, & stil shall receaue a rewarde worthy their laboure. But learne you (most deare brothers) vtterly to deny and forsake the pestiferous and wycked maners of such sedicious Scismatikes and disobedient Rebelles, and study vnfainedly to geue that true obedience feare and honor to our most chrysten and bouteous Prynce, that ỹ Scripture requireth of vs as I haue taught you before, and to so many also as are appointed of hym to rule vnder hys graces dominion. So shal ye both please God, & also leade a good and quiet lyfe in thys world. Eusc. God forbyd that the contrary should be founde in vs. Phi. Now remayneth the fourth thyng to be declared vnto you, which all we subiectes from the hyghest to the lowest owe to our most excellent king. The. What is that I pray you? Phi. Verely, tribute. For this cause also, saith S. Paul, must ye pay tribute. For they ar gods ministers. Geue therfore to euery man his duty, tribute to whom tribute belõgeth, custome to whõ custome is due, feare to whõ feare belongeth, honor to whõ honor pertayneth. Ch. I pray you, what meane ye by thys worde, tribute? Phi. By tribute I vnderstande all paimẽtes that are due to ỹ ciuile magistrates, as tenthes, fiftenes, rentes, talkes, subsidies, customes. &c. Al these ar we bound by gods commaundemẽt to paye without any tumulte or grudgyng, and that not wythouta cause. For seeing that the high powers take so greate paynes for to defende vs and to kepe all that we haue in safegarde agaynste the violẽce of our enemyes, agayn, to mayntayne vertue & to expulse vice, whiche thyng cannot be brought to passe wout prudent, wyse and learned gouernours, it is expedient that we, which receaue these commodities of them, do minister agayne vnto them freely, aboundantly, & liberally, what soeuer they require of vs for ỹ preseruation of the publique weale

Deu. xxxii. Rom. xii. Hebru. x. Rom. xiii.

Of tribute.

Rom. xiiii.

What is ment by this word tribute

Note why we ought to pay tribute.

and maintenaunce of their dignite. Neither can we deny them thys ex cept we wil transgresse gods precept and fal into the daunger of dam nation, and shewe that we bee moste extreme enemies to oure selues.
For Christ willing to geue vs an example of this thing, payed tribut himselfe and commaunded other so to doe, saying: Pay that which is Matth. xvii. Matth. xxii. due to Cesar vnto Cesar, vnderstandinge by the name of Cesar euery magistrate and temporall power generally.

And that the kinges grace maye lawfully withoute any scruple or grudge of conscience take such charges of vs as I rehearse before, and that we ought not once to mutter agaynst hys graces pleasure & wyl in thys behalfe, it is manifest by these wordes, whiche God spake vnto
i. Reg. viii. Samuel: This shalbe ỳ lawe or right of the kyng, sayeth he, ỳ shal reign ouer you. Your sonnes shal he take for his charets and for horsemen to run before his Charets, and to be rulers and Captaynes, to be plowe men to til his lande, and to be repers in his harueste, & to make his wea pones, and such thyngs as belong to hys Charets. As for youre daugh ters, he shal take thē to be Apoticaries Cokes & Bakers. Your best lan and vineyardes, & oyle gardens shal he take, & geue vnto hys seruauntes.
Of your sedes also and vineyardes shal he take the tithes, and geue vn to his Chāberlaines & seruauntes. And your seruauntes & your maides and your best yong mē, and your Asses shal he take, and do his busines with al. Of your flockes shal he take the tythes, & ye shalbe hys seruaun Are not these wordes manifeste and playne inoughe to declare what right, title, and power by the word of God, our most excellente Prince hath to chalenge and require of vs such costes & charges, as he sustey neth for ỳ commō weale, and that al that euer we haue, is at hys com maundement, and ỳ we ought by no meanes to resist or saye hym nay.

Chri. They are more clere than the Sōne, and more opē thā the lyght.

An obiectiō. The. Yet haue I heard some say, that we are made free by Christ, and ought to serue no man, nor to be charged wt payments to any person,

The answer but all thynges oughte to be common amonge Christen men. Phi. To answere vnto euery part of thys your sentence requireth many wordes and asketh much tyme. But to be short, knowe that who so euer main Our liberte is spiritual & not carnall. tayneth that kinde of doctryne, dissenteth much from the Christen re ligion, corrupteth the word of God, soweth false teachyng, hūteth a car
Our wisdōe by Christ is spirituall. nall libertie, and desireth to lyue in all kynde of synne wythout punish ment. Trueth it is, that we ar made free by Christ, but this our liberte Rom. x. Gala. iii. is spiritual and not temporall. By Christ we are deliuered from the dam
i. Cor. xv. Ose. xiii. nation of the lawe, but not from the obseruaunce of it. By Christ we are
Heb. ii. made free frō the power of Satan, syn, death, desperacion and hel, but Actes. x. not from the power of the ciuile magistrates. By Christe haue we re John. viii. ceaued our manumission and fredome from the condēnatiō of all these Gala. v. thynges, into the which we were cast by the syn of our fyrst father Adā.
i. Peter. ii. So that by Christ we ar spiritually made free, if we abide in his word, as we rede in ỳ gospel of John & in diuers other places of ỳ holy scrip tures

ture. But this spiritual liberte maketh vs not free from our obedience & dutye towarde ỳ tempozal powe, to whome we owe both oure seiues and al ỳ euer we haue, as ye heard befoze. Foz this were a thing of to much absurdite & contrary to all good ozder, & the teachyng both of Chriſte & of his Apoſtles. Yea so should God be the Authoz of confuſion & not of ozder, of diſſenſion and not of concozde. S. Auſten sayth, if any man thyncketh, that because he is a chriſten mā, he ought to pay no cuſtome oz tribute, noz shewe any honour to the hygh powers, he falleth into a great errore, & is very muche deceaued. S. Ambroſe also sayth, yf the tempozall gouernoure asketh tribute, we deny it not, lette the landes of the Chyrche paye tribute. If the rulare deſireth the landes, he hath powe to chalenge thē, let him therfoze take thē, yf he wyl, I gyue them not to the Emperour but nether do I deny them. Agayn he sayth, it is a great & speciall document oz poynt of teachyng, wherby chriſten men are taught to be ſubiecte to the higher powers, bycauſe that no man ſhould thyncke that ỳ conſtitutiō oz ordinaſice of an erthly kyng ought to be loſoned oz broken. Foz yf the ſonne of God payde Tribute, of what greate authozite arte thou, which thinkeſt ỳ thou oughteſt not to pay? Theophilacte also sayth, that we cozpozally obey hym, that hath powe on our bodies, whyther he be kyng oz Tyraunt, it byndzethe vs nothynge, that we ſhoulde ſpiritually well pleaſe the God of ſpirites. Foz Chriſt sayethe, paye vnto the Emperour, ỳ whiche is the Emperours, & pay vnto God that, whiche is gods. Marke that he sayth not, gyue, but paye. It is, sayethe he, dette. Paye therfoze thy dette. Thy Pzynce kepethe the frō thyne enemies, & he cauſeth the that ỳ ſyueſte in quiet. Thou therfoze foz theſe thinges owest tributs to him.

Thus se you proued both by the holy Scripture & the auncient doctoꝛs, ỳ they, which profeſſe Chriſte, are not so made free, but that they are bounde to be ſubiecte & obediēt to the high powers in al godly and decent matters. Agayn, that al things ought not to be commō among them, oz that they be exempted from ſuch cozpozal charges, as ỳ rulers require of thē, but that they ought to pay tribute, cuſtome, taſke, ſubſidye, oz any thynge els, that is required of them by the tempozal gouernours, ſeyng chefely it maketh ſo greatly vnto theyr owne auaūce nēt, profit & cōmodite. They therfoze, ỳ denye theſe thinges oz grudge to paye them, whan time requireth & occaſion is gyuen, verely they are farre from true Chriſten men, and ſhal foz theyr diſobediēte receaue damnacion, excepte they repent and amende. Euſe. God forbyd, but ỳ euery man ſhould paye with a wyllynge harte, what ſo euer is required of hym foz the mayntaynaunce and conſeruacion of the publique weale. Theo. Certes we were vnwoꝛthy to lyue vnder the dominiō of ſo puiſſaunte a Gouernoure, yf we ſhould not in all poyntes ſatiſfy euē vnto the vttermooſt his godly and reaſonable requeſtes, ſeyng we haue & ſtyll dayly do receaue innumerable commodities & pleaſures at his graces hāde. Phil. The charges whiche the kynges graces maieſte

In lib. ad Rom. propoſ. lxxii.

Contra auxentium. xi. Queſt. i. Canon, ſi tributum.

Ibidem. Cā magnō.

Math. xvii. In Lucam. cap. xx.

Math. xxii.

Mark well.

The charges, whyche the kynges grace sustayneth for ỳ common wealle.

sustayneth dayly for the welth of al vs his subiectes, are infinite, & far exceade ỳ vnexperte capacite of ỳ rude simple people, as we may se bo fore oure eyes, & learne by the constant fame & common reporte of all men (as I may leaue of to speake of ỳ byldyng of many Castels, Blocke houses, strong holdes, Bulwarkes, fortresses. &c. & of men appoynted vnto the defence of the same, wythe all thynges pertaynyng ther vnto, agayne of the common Scholes & the teachers of thē, of sendyng forth Preachers into euery parte of hys Realme, of procurynge learned magistrates, of gyuynge exhibicion to many vertuous & lerned men, & a thousande thynges mo, which his mooste gracious maiesty dothe for ỳ wealth of vs, & for the conseruaciō of this his mooste florysshynge Realme) therfore ought we to suppeditate and minister agayne vnto him abundantly what so euer his grace requireth of vs at any tyme, or els we greuously offende God, & walke not accordinge to the order of Christe, but are manifest trāsgressours of Gods mooste holy wyll, which commaūdeth vs & all that we haue to be subiecte to ỳ kynges graces pleasure. Chri. This is trueth, & nothyng more true. Ph. I beleue verely, ỳ what soeuer the subiectes haue, ar the goodes of such a righteous and godly Prynce, as we haue now reynynge amonge vs. Yea if the hyghe powers were very Tyrauntes, and altogyther vnmerciful, yet myght we deny them no thyng at al of our goodes if they required thē of vs, but delyuer them vp into theyr hands freely, to be vsed as it shal please them, beynge perswaded that it is for our synnes, that God suffereth such Tyrauntes to reygne ouer vs & therfore oughte they to be obeyed in all thynges, that fyght not with the worde of God, nor obscure the diuine glorye, thoughe they seme to be neuer so ful of tiranny & vnmercifulnes. But seing we haue such a prince as loueth his faythful subiectes noleſſe, than a gentle father doth his natural sonne, cherisheth them noleſſe, than a nourse doth her chylde, preserueth them without daunger noleſſe than a trusty sheppard seaketh to kepe his shepe from the deuenynge teth of the wolfe, and vtterly gyueth hym selfe altogyther vnto vs and vnto our commodite and profyt, what shoulde be the cause, that we myght deny any thynge to this our Emperour so mercyful, so gentle, so bounteous, so prudent, so wyse, and so circumspecte in all thynges, that pertayne vnto our commodite and wealth. To muche beastly lyke are they, that cōsider not the bounte of so excellēte a Prynce.

Note.

Iob. xxxiiii.
Pro. xxviii.

Esa. iii.
Act. iiii. v.

Eccle. x.

Wo be vnto ỳ Realme, whose kyng is but a chyld & whose Princes are eatelye at theyr Banckettes. Thus neyghbours haue I declared vnto you accordynge to my promyse your duty toward our most excellent king: & such as he appoynteth to be gouernours vnder him. Loke therfore that ye be obediente vnto them, feare them, honour them, & paye what so euer is required of you. For vnto all these thynges ye are bound by the holy Scripture, which yf ye do, the blessyng of God is vpon is vpon you: If ye do not, the curse and vengeaunce of God wil fal on you, so that your ende shall be miserable bothe before God and man. Euse. What soeuer ye haue hitherto taught vs, we wyll labour to the vttermooste of our power to fulfyl it in our quotidiane and dayly conuersacion, that we maye walke blameless both before God and oure Kynge. Phil. Nowe doeth conueniente order require, than I bringe forth your fourth floure to you, seing that hitherto ye that learned your dutye bothe towarde your selfe, GOD, and our Kynge. Theo. I pray you let vs se it.

¶ The fourth floure called Redi assistence.

Philemon.

BEholde here it is. Let euery man looke not for his owne profit, but for the profit of other. Phil.ii. Nowe doeth the sauour of this floure please you? Euse. How so euer it pleaseth me, I thynke verely the ayer & breath of this flour is so strong, ỹ few at this present tyme can abyde ỹ sauour of it. Phi. Why so? It is the saying of Saynt Paule to the Philippians, Euse. I knowe that well, but ye should rather haue rehearsed this sayeng in ỹ same Epistle. All seke theyr owne auauntage, and not that, which is Jesus Christes. For this flour do men now a dayes beare chefely in theyr bosome, as we may se by dayly experiẽce, Theyr noses are stopped, and they haue lost one of theyr fyue wittes, whan any such floure is offred them for to smell vpon, as ye haue nowe gyuen vs. They haue rooted other herbes in theyr hertes, vpon whome they smell dayly, euen suche as these are. Eccl.x. Pecuniæ obediunt omuia. Cato.lib.i. Bonus est odor lucri ex re qualibet, Semper tibi proximus esto. Menander. Tantum fidei quantum pecunie. Iuuenalis. Nummi virum faciunt. Virtus post nummos. Miser est, qui nummos non habet.

Quisquis habet nummos, secura nauiget aura
Fortunamque suo temperet arbitrio.

That is to saye, al thinges are obediente to monye. The sauoure of lucre is good, howe so euer a man come by it. Be euer nearest and most frende to thy selfe. A man shall euen be so much trusted, as he hath monye. Monye maketh the man. Fyrste monye, and afterwarde vertue. He is a wretche that hath no monye. Who soeuer hath monye, maye go where he lyste, and do what so euer he wyll at hys owne pleasure.

The sauoure of these floures, hath so infected the senses of many nowe a dayes, that they can by no meanes smell on thys floure, which we haue nowe geuen vs. Philemon. It is the more pitie. Notwithstanding neighboures be not be infected with lyke pestiferous contagyon. Remember your profession, and folowe not the common fashyon, leaste ye fal into dãnacion, & lose the fauour of God. Smel wel on this floure Phil.ii. Redy assistẽce. Let euery mã loke not for his owne profit, but for ỹ pro-

fyt

fyt of other. For seynge ye haue hytherto learned your dutye both toward your selfe, God, & our kynge, ye must now learne also your office & duty toward youre neyghboure. For God hath also gyuen vs a commaundement to loue our neighbour. Thou shalt loue thy neighbour as thy selfe, sayth the scripture. That thou wylte not a nother shoulde do to the, do thou not the same to him. And this cõmaundement haue we of God, that he, which loueth God, should also loue his neighbour. For he ỹ loueth not his brother, whome he seethe, God whome he hathe not sene, howe can he loue?

Leuit. xix. Math. xxii. Rom. xiii.

Iacob. i. i. Ioan. iiii.

That ye myghte natiuely & vnfaynedlye on this sorte loue youre neyghbour, I haue selected this sẽtẽce of S. Paule to put you in remembrãce of your duty. Let euery manloke not for his owvn profyt, but for the profit of other. Chri. It is a very hard sayẽg, & folowed but of few, iniquite doth so abound, & the loue of many abateth and wareth cold. The. Me thyncke, S. Paule would here haue no mã prouyde for hym selfe, but for other. And this is contrary to his owne sayeng, where he sayth, If any mã doth not prouyde for thẽ that do pertayne vnto him he hath forsaken the faythe, and is worse thã an Infidell. Phi. God forbyd that any contrariete should be founde in the wordes of so noble & worthy Apostle. In your floure he doth not forbyde you, but that ye may with good conscience prouide for your selfe & for yours. But to admonysh mẽ of thys so streyghtly as of the other, it was not nedeful nor expediẽt. For we are naturally bẽt to seke our owne profyt, yea & that many tymes to the greathinderaunce & vtter decay of our neyghbour, neyther nede we a spur to pricke vs forwarde in this behalfe. Which thynge, S. Paule replete with goddes spirite consyderynge, exhorteth men rather to seke for theyr neighbours profyt, than for theyr owne, meanynge that they shoulde not be so bent to seke theyr owne auantage, that they should vtterly neglecte the profyt of theyr christen brother. For ỹ very same mynd ought to be in vs that was in Christ Iesu, whiche beynge in the shape of God, thought it not robbery to be equall with God, but made hym selfe of no reputatiõ, & toke vpõ hym ỹ shape of a seruaunt, became like a nother man, & was founde in his apparell as a man. He humbled hym selfe, & became obediẽt vnto the death, yea the death of ỹ Crosse. Here is youre floure, Redy assistẽce. Here is an ensaple that ye should be redy to assist & helpe your neyghbour at al tymes. Howe dyd our moost blessed Sauiour Christe vtterly neglecte & cast a waye, as I may so speke, his owne glory, honour and worshyp, to bring our health, consorte & saluacion? This redy assistence & helpe ought also to be in vs, if we pertayne vnto Christ. For we oughte to haue a care for our neighbour, that Christ had for vs, or elles we walke not in cordynge to Charite. This redy assistence also se we in that Samaritane of the Gospell, which seinge a certayne man spoyled, robbed, grieuously wounded and halfe deade, had pytye on hym, came vnto him, bounde vp his woundes, powred in oyle & wyne, & layẽge hym on his

Mat. xxiiii.

i. Tim. v.

Phil. ii.

Mark well.

Phil. ii.

Luc. x.

and made prouision for hym. Here is a nother godlye example of redy assistence. Here is a myrroure for all men to looke in. Here is a payre of spectacles for to shewe euery man, what his duetye is towarde his neyghbour. Euseb. As how I pray you for an example? Phi. Certes as this Samaritane dyd. To be bent at all tymes to healpe so manye as hath nede of our helpe, & to procure no lesse the helthe & furtherance of other, than of our selues. As for an example. Art þ a Judge, a Justice of peace, a Cõstable, a Baliffe, or any other cõmõ officer: so haste þ the lawe in thy hande. Matters of contrauersye are brought before the. Looke therfore, that thou iudgeste all thynges accordynge to equite. Be not partiall. Fauoure not one parte more than another. Shewe indifferency. Do as ryght require. Gyue no wronge sentence, neyther for feare nor loue of any parsonne. Practise none iniquite: Condemne not the innocent for lucres sake. Be not corrupt with gyftes. Eate not the poore mã, neyther deuour thou his substaũce, but helpe to sustayne hym in his ryght agaynst the violence of the wicked Tyrantes and cruel oppressours accordyng to thy office. If thou doste this, than haste thou this flour, Redy assistence. about the, & doste to thy neyghboure, as þ arte boũd by the cõmaundemẽt of God. If thou doste not this, that is, iudge contrary to equite, suffer the poore to be oppressed for fauoure or lucres sake, or els bycause thou beareste a cruell harte and spytefull stomacke agaynst the party, so getteste þ the great displeasure of God, & hepeste vp to thy selfe euerlastinge damnacion.

what ours duty is toward our neyghbours

The duty of a iudge, Justice of peace &c.

The office of a Bysshop preest or spiritual minister.

Art thou a Bysshop, preest or spirituall minister of Goddes worde? looke than well to thy office. Remẽber that it is thy dutye reuerently to minister þ mooste blyssed Sacramentes of Chrystes Churche, and to preach the worde of God to þ flocke vpõ whome the holy Ghoste hath made the ouerseare, to gouerne the congregaciõ of God, whome he purchased with his bloude. Remember that it is sayed vnto the, Pasce, Pasce, Pasce, fede, fede, fede. Fede therfore thy Parysshe with good exãple of vertuous lyuinge. Fede them wt the pure Euãgelion & true Gospell of Chryst. Fede thẽ also wt corporall foode through the mayntenaũce of hospitalite. Teache them to forsake all Idolatry & superstition, & only to cleane to the true & lyuing God, the alone and omnisufficiẽt sauiour. Teache them to honoure & call on the name of theyr Lorde God in all theyr aduersities and troubles. Teach them faythfull obediẽce toward theyr superiours. Teache thẽ to loue theyr wyues as theyr owne flesh, & to bringe vp theyr chyldren & familye in the feare & nourtoure of the Lorde. Teach them to labour for theyr liuing, & not to take away any mans goodes vniustly. Teache thẽ to testify the truethe, & to beare no false witnes. Teache them to be no manslears, but to loue al men with a pure harte. Teache them to lyue of theyr owne, & not to coupt that which pertayne to other mẽ. Teach them to walke streyght in the pathwayes of the Lorde al the dayes of theyr lyfe, lest the fearce plages and cruel vengeaunce of god fall both vpon the and them. Crye, ceale not.

Act.xx. Ioan.xxi.

Esay.lviii.

Shewe

Shewe to the people theyr synnes, offenses, & wickednesses. Cõmaũd the wycked to forsake hys iniquyte. Exhorte the rytche man vnto the glad & redy distribucion of his goodes to ỳ poore people. Fede ỳ flocke of chryst, so muche as lyethe in thy power. Be an example of the faythfull in word, in cõuersacion, in loue in spirite, in fayth, in purite & clennes of lyfe. Giue attendaunce to thy selfe & to doctrine, continewe in these. Reproue them that synne opẽly before all men, that ỳ other may be afeard. Kepe thy selfe pure, clene & honest. Suffer afflictiõ & trouble as a good soudiour of Jesus Chryst. Study to shewe thy selfe acceptable to God, a workemã that nedeth not to be ashamed, deuydynge iustly the worde of trueth. Flye the lustes of yougthe, followe righteousnes, fayth charite peace with them that cal on the Lorde wyth a pure harte. Reproue the ennemyes of trueth fearsely, that they maye be whole in faythe. Speake thou those thinges, ỳ become wholesom doctrine, but aboue all thynges be an exãple to other of good workes. Be not absent from thy benefice. Liue not dissolutely at the vniuersite & els wher. Be not that Shepparde and Idol, that forsaketh his flocke, but gyue them meate in due tyme. Suffer not ỳ wolfe to deuour Christes shepe, whome he bought wythe no lesse pryce, thã wythe his owne moste precious bloud. Defẽd the glorye of GOD, and not thyne owne dignite. Striue for the helth of thy flocke, & not for thy rytches & possessions. The synful of thy flocke, exhorte vnto faythfull repentaunce. The desperate prouoke thou vnto ỳ trust of Gods mercy. The weake make ỳ stronge. The diseased looke thou heale. The bloudye wounded looke thou cure. The broken looke thou make whole. The imperfect loke thou make perfecte. The strong in Christ, loke thou make auncient. To conclude if thou be a true Bishop, a faithfull ouerseer, a diligent Curate, a trusty shepheard, rather geue thy life, and spend al the bloude in thy body, than that one of ỳ least of Christes flocke should perysh through thy faute. So mayst thou be sure, whan that Prynce of shepparddes shall appeare to receyue the vncorruptible crown of glory. If thou dost not these thynges, which hytherto I haue rehearsed, than looke thou for none other, but wyth that vnprofitable seruaunt to be cast into vtter darkenes, where weppynge & gnasshynge of teth shalbe.

i. Tim. vi.
i. pet. v.
i. Tim. iiii.
i. Tim. v.
ii. Tim. ii.
i. Tim. vi.
Zacha. xi.
Ioan. x.
i. pet. v.
Matth. xxv.

The duty of a rytch man.

Arte thou a ritch man? So hath God set the in a perillous state, except thou be ware. To auoyd therfore all daũger, loke that with thy possessions & rytches, thou helpeste thẽ that haue nede. For vnto this ende hath God indewed the wt ỳ goods of this world. Be not proud for thy rytches sake, nor putte not thy truste in vncertayne rytches, but in the lyuynge God. Be rytche in good workes. Be redy to ministre vnto ỳ necessite of other, ỳ waute. For God loueth a cherfull gyuer. Breake thy bread to the hongrye, & lead in the nedy & poore wayfaring into thy house. Whã thou seest a naked man, couer hym and thou shalt not despyse thy flesh. Geue to euery one that asketh, & from hym, that wyll borowe, turne not awaye thy face, but lende hym thy monye, &

Eccl. xxxv.
ii. Cor. ix.
Esa. lviii.
Luke. vi.
psal. xiiii.
Esa. v.

& that without any vsurye. Joyne not house to house, nor land to land Couyte not to reygne alone in a towne. Suffer other men to lyue by the, yea & that of theyr owne. Helpe them to make prouision for theyr fa mily, ỳ they may kepe the better hospitalite & be the more able to helpe the comfortles. Let not oute thy landes & houses on such price, that the fermers shall neuer be able to pay the, or els to do no good vpon them.
So let them hire thy fermes, that they maye not be empouerysshed, as they are now a dayes for the mooste parte, but rather enryched, ỳ they maye be the more able vertuously to bryng vp theyr chyldren in good artes & godly sciẽces, to helpe theyr poore neyghbours, to kepe hospita-lite, & to beare the charges of the cõmon weale for theyr portion, whan tyme requireth. For this shal make a florysshynge & wealthy Realme, abundãt in al thynges. Thus shalt thou also greatlye please God, & he gayne for this thy bountyous liberalite shewed towarde thy neyghboures, wyll open his hande, bleſſe the & all that pertayne vnto the, fa- Deu.xxviii.
youre the, and make the to be plenteous in all thynges. So that what so euer thou goest about, shall prosper & come vnto a fortunate & good Titus.i.
ende. Neyther shalte thou nede to doubte of these thynges. For God Psal.cxliiii.
hath so promised, which can not lye, but is faythful in all his wordes, If thou doste contrary hereunto, & abuſest the ritches, which god hath put into thy hande, & of whome he hath only made the his steward, so that thou art vnmercyful & hydest vp thy treasure, & knowest not for whome, & wylte by no meanes bestow them, as God hath appoynted the, than be thou certen and sure, that lyke an vnmercifull theſe and cruell bloudye Bocher, thou shalte be hãged in hell. The fyre, wher vn- Esa.lxvi.
thou shalt be tormented, shal neuer be quenched. The worme, that shal gnawe thy conscience, shall neuer dye. The paynes shal be infinite, neither shalte thou at any tyme be releued of them, but with that vnmerciful rytche glotton in the Gospel of Luke, lye cryinge and waylyng in Luc.xvi.
perpetual tormẽtes worldes with out end. Therfore beware betymes & saye not but that thou arte warned. To be shorte, consider with thy selfe in what state & condicion God hath set the, & vse that euer vnto ỳ glory of God and the profyt of thy neyghboure. For knowe that what so euer God hath gyuẽ the, he hath gyuen it the for the profytte of thy neyghbeur also. Hath God gyuen the strength? than muſt thou helpe the weakenes of thy brother. Arte thou wyſe, and eloquent? So muſte thou make good, that whiche wanteth of them in thy neyghbour. Art thou ryche? So muſte thou cõforte the nedy. Arte thou learned? So muſt thou instructe and teache the ignorant. Arte thou a rulare? So muſt thou be fauourable to thẽ of the inferioure sorte. Arte thou a mã of nobilite? So muſte thou not despyſe hym of ignobilite. Hast thou creditours and detters? So muſte thou not draw thẽ cruelly streyght wayes into the lawe, but fauoure them, entreate them gentyly, and gyue thẽ respyte, vntyll they maye paye the conueniẽtly without damger or losse of theyr substaũce. Haſte thou receaued any talente or gyfte at all of God: Use that same to the profyt of thy neyghbour, & so shalt thou well please God. To make an ende, be ẏ verye same to thy neyghbour, that God is to the. Consyder what kyndnes God sheweth to the, & shewe thou the very same agayne to thy Christē brother. And wyth yeare me: Be euen a nother Christe to thy neyghboure.

A good lesō

Thus much dere brothers, haue I spoken concernynge thys your floure, Redy assistence. of the which ye maye easely learne to knowe youre duty toward your neyghbour, & howe ye ought to behaue yourselues in all poyntes toward hym accordynge to ẏ wyll of God. Thus vndoubtedly neighbour Philemō ye haue gyuen vs many godlye lessōs. I beseech God, we may so walke in our conuersacion & in all our actes to warde our neyghboure, that we maye in al thynges folowe and practyse this your mooste godly doctrine, and be redy at al tymes both in thought, worde & dede redely to assist & helpe oure neyghbowres, no lesse thā we desire ẏ god should assist, help & succour vs, whā we haue nede. P. It is very godly spokē. God gyue you grace no lesse to do with worke. Nowe remayneth your laste floure to be gyuen to you. Christ woulde very gladlye see it. Eusеb. The verye same also do I desyre.

¶ The fyfte floure called Christen Charite.

Philemon.

Behold ẏ excellency of Charite

i. Ioan. iii.

A Charite it is euen here redy. Take it I pray you. Let vs not loue in worde nor tonge, but in work and truth. The. This floure may be called Christē Charite in dede aright. Phi. It is not without cause, ẏ I haue gyuē you this floure. For ẏ sauour of all your aforesaid floures profiteth without this but lytle. This floure is the very same in your Nosegay that a precious stone, a costlous pearle, a goodly ouche is to a ryng or any other Jewel. With out this floure all ẏ other lose wyther a waye, & come to noughte. But so longe as the beauty of this your flour lasteth, so longe cā not your Nosegaye decaye & perish. Cā any thynge be good & godly, where loue & Charite wanteth?

What loue we ought to haue amonge vs.

i. Thess. iii.
i. Cor xiii.

Rom. xiii.
i. Tim. i.

bycause ye shoulde knowe, ẏ I meane none vnfayned loue, I haue named your floure, Christen Charite. For our Charite & loue ought not to be carnall, fleshly, beastlyke, worldy, fayned, vncleane & flyttynge, but spiritual, ghostly, christē, heauēly, true, pure, & abydyng for euermore. And this is ẏ Christē Charite, wherof your floure speketh, Let vs not loue in worde nor tōge, but in work & trueth. Without this Charite S. Paule affirmethe in his Epistle to ẏ Corinthiās, ẏ no worke, seme it neuer so good & godly, profyteth anye thynge at all. Rede ẏ chapter whan ye come home. Certes this Charite & christen loue must nedes be an excellent thynge seynge it is the ende of the cōmaundement, & the fulfyllynge of all the law, seyng also that Christ in his last sermō, which he made to his Disciples a litle before his passyon exorteth vs with so ny wordes vnto it. S. Iho̅ sereth not so greatlye to aduaūce and commende Charite, ꝑ he affirmeth God to be Charite, sayng, God is Charite, & he that abydeth in Charite, abydeth in God, & God in hym. Vnto thys true and Christen Charite. S. Peter also mouethe vs on thys manner: Before all thynges, saythe he, haue feruēt charite among you. For Charite couereth ꝑ multitude of synnes. And S. Paule sayth he, aboue al thinges haue Charite, which is the bonde of perfection. For he ꝑ hath this christē Charite can none otherwyse but loue God wythe all his, art, mynde, strength, power & soule. He can none otherwyse but forsake the worlde, the dyuell & the flesh, & cleue to God alone as a true & faythfull wyfe doth to her husbond. He wyl by no meanes swere by the name of his lord god, but reuerēce honour, worshyp & prayse it. He wyl not breake the Sabboth day, but sanctify it accordyng to ꝑ worde of God. Agayne, he that loueth his neyghbor sincerely, wyl by no meanes hurte hym, nor worke any euel agaynst hym. He wyl not disobeye his superiours. He wyl commyt no manslaughter, whoredome, theste, nor beare any false wytnes nor yet court that, which shoulde be hynde raūce to his neyghbour, but he wyl gladly & with a free spirite do vnto the vttermooste of his power, what so euer ꝑ Scripture requireth of hym, as Christ sayth, yf any man loueth me, he wyl kepe my word, and my father shall loue hym & we wyl come to hym & dwel with hym. He that loueth not me, kepeth not my wordes. He that hath my Comunaū dementes & kepeth thē, he it is that loueth me, & he that loueth me, shal be loued of my father, & I wyl loue hym and shewe my selfe vnto him. How dothe this youre floure please you. Euse. I neuer smelled a sweeter & more pleasaunt odoure in my lyfe. Theo. I praye you rehearse it once agayne. Phi. Let vs not loue in word nor tōge, but in worke and trueth. Theo. Is not this the sayenge of S. John in his Epistle? Phi. Yes verelye Theo. Me thynketh that he gyueth here a cōmaundemente ꝑ we shoulde not loue in worde nor tōge but in worke & trueth. Phil. Ye saye trueth. Theo. It is not lawefull thā for vs to expresse ꝑ loue ꝑ we beare in oure hartes towardes oure neyghboure by manifest, open & euidēt wordes, as to speake gentylly, to cōmon frendely, & to wysh wel with louynge wordes to all men. Phil. S. John in this place forbydeth no more gentle speache & louynge communicacion, thā S. Paule in your other flour dyd forbyd to make prouision for you and yours. But his mynd is this, they which wyl crake & boste by outwarde wordes, that they loue God & theyr neyghbour, and yet shewe it not in workes and truethe, they are lyers, & haue not in thē the christē Charite, which the Scripture cōmendeth so greatly in euery place. Such are lyke thē, of whome S. Paule speaketh on this māner, they saye they knowe God, but ẅ theyr dedes they denye it planely, seynge they are abhominable, disobediēt & mynded vnto no good workes. He that hath the substance of the world, sayth S. John, & seeth his brother haue nede, & is moued with no compassiō towardes him, howe doth the loue of God abide in Ioan. xiiii. xv. xvi. i. Ioan. iiii.

i. Pet. iiii. Rom. xii. Col. iii.

what ꝑ loue of god doth.

what ꝑ loue of our neighbour doth.

Ioan. xiiii.

i. Ioan. iii.

Phil. ii.

Titus. i.

i. Ioan. iii.

hym? As though he should say, albe it a mā craketh neuer so much ꝑ he Mark well. loueth God, yet yf he fulfylleth not that, which God cōmaundeth him, dare suche one boste that he louethe God? A man loueth so much as he worketh. If he worketh no thynge, nother doth he loue anything. For Gregorye as S. Gregory sayth in a certayne homely, the loue of GOD is neuer
i. Cor. xiii. idle. For it worketh great thinges, yf it be loue, but if it seaseth to worke, than is it no loue in dede. Loue, sayth S. Paule is patient & curteous. Loue enuieth not, loue dothe not frowardely, Loue is not puffed vp, dealeth not dishonestly, seaketh not her owne. Loue is not prouoked to anger, thynketh not euell, reioyse the not of iniquite, but reioyseth in the trueth, suffereth al thinges, beleuethe all thynges, hopeth all thynges, abydethe all thynges. What a poynt is this of loue, to say Note this well. that I loue God, & yet run a whorehuntynge after straunge Goddes?
Agayne what a poynte of loue is this to saye, that I honour ꝑ name of God, and yet blaspheme it withe mooste shamefull & abominable othes? What loue is this toward my neyghbour to saye ꝑ I loue him & yet wyll do no thynge for hym, whā I se him in necessite? Is this loue? Verylye moughte suche loue. Agaynste these wicked Hypocrites and i. Ioan. iii. open dissembliers dothe S. John in this place thonder, whan he sayth let vs not loue in worde nor tonge, but in worke & trueth. There were in the tyme of the Apostles manye false Christians, whiche by wordes pretended muche loue both towardes God and theyr neyghbour, and yet dyd they expresse & shewe none at al by theyr out ward dedes. Such haue we nowe a dayes also among vs, which stykkely affyrme that they loue God & his worde, yet do theyr workes proue the contrarye. The scripture reiecteth that loue which is fayned, and is not in spirite and trueth, that is to say, fyrst engraffed in the harte, & after warde declared by manifeste & euidēt workes, worthy such a loue. Therfore neighbours, yf ye wyll smell aryght and to your confort of this your flaunt Christen Charite, prouide ꝑ youre loue be not fayned. Let it not only be in worde and tonge, but also in worke and trueth. Fyrst as concernynge youre loue towarde God, it shall appeare in nothyng more manifestly, thā yf you laboure wyth all mayne in al youre workes to set Of loue toward God. the glory of God, the honour of his mooste blyssed name & the promocion of his holy worde. Agayne as towchynge your neyghbour your loue
Of loue toward oure neyghbour. shall not be fayned towardes hym, yf ye helpe hym in all such thynges as he hath nede of, as for an example. If ye perceyue hym ignorant in ꝑ lawe of God, teach hym Goddes worde, bryng hym vnto Christ, teache hym where of whō and by what meanes he shall obtayne helth & saluacion? Declare to hym what ꝑ true & christē faythe is? & of what Psal. xli. great strength, vertue efficacy and power it is. Exhorte hym vnto the true good workes, which god approueth by his worde, & leueth not vnrewarded. Charge hym to flye vnto ꝑ name of God as vnto a strong Bulwarke in all his aduersite and trouble. Furthermore if ye perceyue that he is gyuen altogether to wickednes and wyl not gladlye hear any gnye wholesome admonicion, yette ceasle not to praye for him as Abra ham dyd for the fylthy Sodomites and Moses for the disobedient Je wes. Yea though he be your extreme enemy and seaketh your lyfe, yet wysh wel vnto hym, praye for him, and desyre God to forgyue him, as Christ and Steuen dyd. Agayne yf ye perceyue that he is poore & hath nede of your helpe, fayle not to succoure his miserye and to helpe hym in his nede euen to the vttermoost of youre power, to make an ende, yf ye perceyue that youre neyghboure hath nede of any thyng that ye are able to do for hym, I charge you in Goddes behalfe, that ye with al expedicion, helpe and comforte him. If ye do this, thā do ye smel aright on this your flour, Christē Charite, & shal receyue rewardes abundant for your good dedes. But if ye do it not, know that though ye boste neuer so muche in word and tōg of your loue towardes god & your neyghbour, yet shal ye go to ỳ dyuel headlōg lyke abhominable Hypocrites & myc-ked dissēblers, & shal receaue greater damnaciō than they which neuer knewe truelye no parte of God, seing your loue is only in worde and tong, but not in spirite and trueth. Eusc. As concernynge ourr loue to-warde God, we wyll employe al our industrye and laboure to haue ỳ loue toward hym, which Peter had whan he sayde vnto Christ, Lorde thou knowest that I loue ỳ, & as towchynge our neyghbour we wyll labour no lesse hartely to loue him, than Jonathas dyd Dauid, which as the Scripture sayth, loued him as his owne lyfe. Phile. These are goodly exēples vndoubtedly neighbours. Loke therfore that ye folow them. If ye bryng out of your loue suche dedes, as Peter dyd thā may ye be bolde to say, that ye loue God vnfaynedly. Agayne, yf ye shew by youre outwarde workes suche loue towarde your neyghbour, as Jona thas dyd to Dauid thā nede ye not feare to saye, ỳ ye loue youre neighbour in worke & truethe, & so are ye perfecte and true christen men, and maye be certayne after the departure oute of this transitorye lyfe, yf ye so continue vnto the ende, for to receaue the crowne of life, which the Lorde hathe promised to them that loue hym, as S. James sayth.

Here is nowe your Nosegay perfecte. Fyrst I haue gyuē you all your fyue floures, as I promised you at your fyrst cōmynge Chri. Nowe thāke you right hertēly for this Nosegay. Eus. I thynke such a Nosegay was neuer gyuen before of anye man to his frende, as you haue nowe gyuē vs The. I beseche GOD gyue vs grace so to smell on this Nosegaye, that the sauoure of it maye euer abyde in vs, and neuer departe nor go awaye from our hartes. So maye we be sure neyther at anye tyme to offende our selues, God, our kyng, nor our neyghbour, but leade suche a lyfe, as wherwith bothe God and man shall be well pleased. Phi. All this that ye haue hytherto spoken is true. For I haue taughte you no-thynge of myne owne brayne & fantasye, but onlye the pure worde of God, & the sentences & myndes of ỳ holye & catholyke Doctors. Therfore I pray you hertely good neyghbours be as diligēt to obserue and kepe these floures as I haue ben studious to gather them togyther for Gen.xvii. Exo.xxxii.

Luc.xxiii. Actor.vii.

Note.

Ioan.xxii.

ii. Reg.xviii.

Iacob.i.

you, so shall I bothe thyncke my labour well bestowed & ye also of all pleasures shall do me the greatest. Well I wyll nowe rehearse to you in fewe wordes, what youre whole Nosegaye contayneth in many.

A breefe rehersal of the Nosegaye.

Your fyrst floure is called vnfayned Humilite. Hereof haue ye learned ỹ true knowledge of your selues, & that ye ought not to be proud of any thynge, but embrasynge Humilite and lowlynes of mynde alwayes confesse that what so euer ye haue, be it neuer so good & precious, it is the gyfte of God cõmynge downe from ỹ father of lyghtes, and that therfore ye oughte studiously to laboure aboue all thynges that it be bestowed accordynge to the wyll of God, that is, vnto the glory of God ỹ profytte of your neyghboure, & the saluacion of your owne soules.

Luc. i.

Your second flouris called, Pure Innocency. Of this ye haue lerned your duty toward God, and howe ye ought to walke before hym accordynge to his worde and be perfecte. Of your thyrd floure, which is Faythfull obedience. Ye haue learned your duty toward our moost puissaunt & excellent kynge, & all those ciuile magistrates & heade officers, whiche are appoynted to rule & gouerne the matters of the publique weale vnder his graces maieste. Ye learned also, that by the worde of GOD ye owe to them obedience, feare, honoure and tribute.

Youre fourth floure, called, Redy assistence, taught you your dutye to warde your neyghboure, & howe ye ought to serue hym accordynge to the rule of the Gospell, seekynge no lesse his profyt than your owne.

Your fyfte & last floure, called, Christen Charite, declared to you that without this true, christen & pure loue, all youre other floures profit but lytle, neyther can any worke beinge done of a malicious harte, and out of Charite please God. Agayne ye hearde, that youre loue bothe towarde God & your neyghbour was declared to be vnfayned, yf ye dyd expresse it outwardly in suche workes as are prescribed of God in the holy Scriptures. This is the whole summe of your Nosegaye.

Nowe deare brothers, I beseche you by the great mercies of God, ỹ ye wyll by no meanes suffer ỹ smell, odoure & sauour of these herbes to fall oute of your breastes, but that you alwaye beare this youre Nosegaye about vỽ you, & smel on it at all tymes wout ceasyng. For these are those floures, whiche shall preserue you from all pestiferous and contagious ayres, from all perelles and daungers, from all mischaũces and euell fortunes. They also shall enspire and breath into you such comfortable odoures and swete sauoures, that ye shall by no meanes be so infected, that ye maye eyther offende your selues, God, the kyng, or your Neyghbour, but what so euer ye worke, shal be acceptable bothe to God and man. What wyll ye haue more? Thus muche haue I done nowe for you neyghbours, and am redy at al tymes to do, what soeuer lyethe in my power, whan occasion shal be gyuen, desyryng you fauourably to accepte this my good wyll towarde you, as one, which wysheth no lesse well to you thã to him selfe, tendereth your health no lesse than his owne, seketh the your true knoweledge in Christe Jesus euen as his as his owne. To conclude, which is ready at all times both to geue himselfe and all that he hath, so that ye may be in the most glorious bowels of our Sauioure Christe, and therin continue vntill the day of his triumphant appearing: which thing (most deare brothers) that it maye come to passe, I will not cease neither night nor day to powre out my prayers to our Lorde God, that he may be present alway with you by the assistence of the holy goste in all your godly enterprises, which thing also I most hartely desire you, that ye will likewise do for me. Euse. To geue you condigne and worthy thankes, for your manifolde gentlenes towarde vs, we are not able. But this dare I promyse you in ỹ name of vs all, that what soeuer shal lie in oure powers to doe for you at any tyme, we will be glad with all our hartes to do it. And to the vttermoste of our strengthes we wyll laboute to practyse and fulfil that in workes, whiche ye haue taught vs in wordes. Phi. So doyng neighboures, my good will shal not onely continue styl, as it is towarde you, but also encrease daily more and more. Well, now before your departure, I wyl desire you to take the paynes to drynke with me after thys our longe talke and large communicacyon, that ye may go home agayne from me beeyng fed both spiritually and corporally. Theo. We thanke you neighbour Philemon. Chri. Praised be God for this our godly & pleasaunt. Nosegay. Euse. Amen. For he alone is worthy all the honoure and prayse.

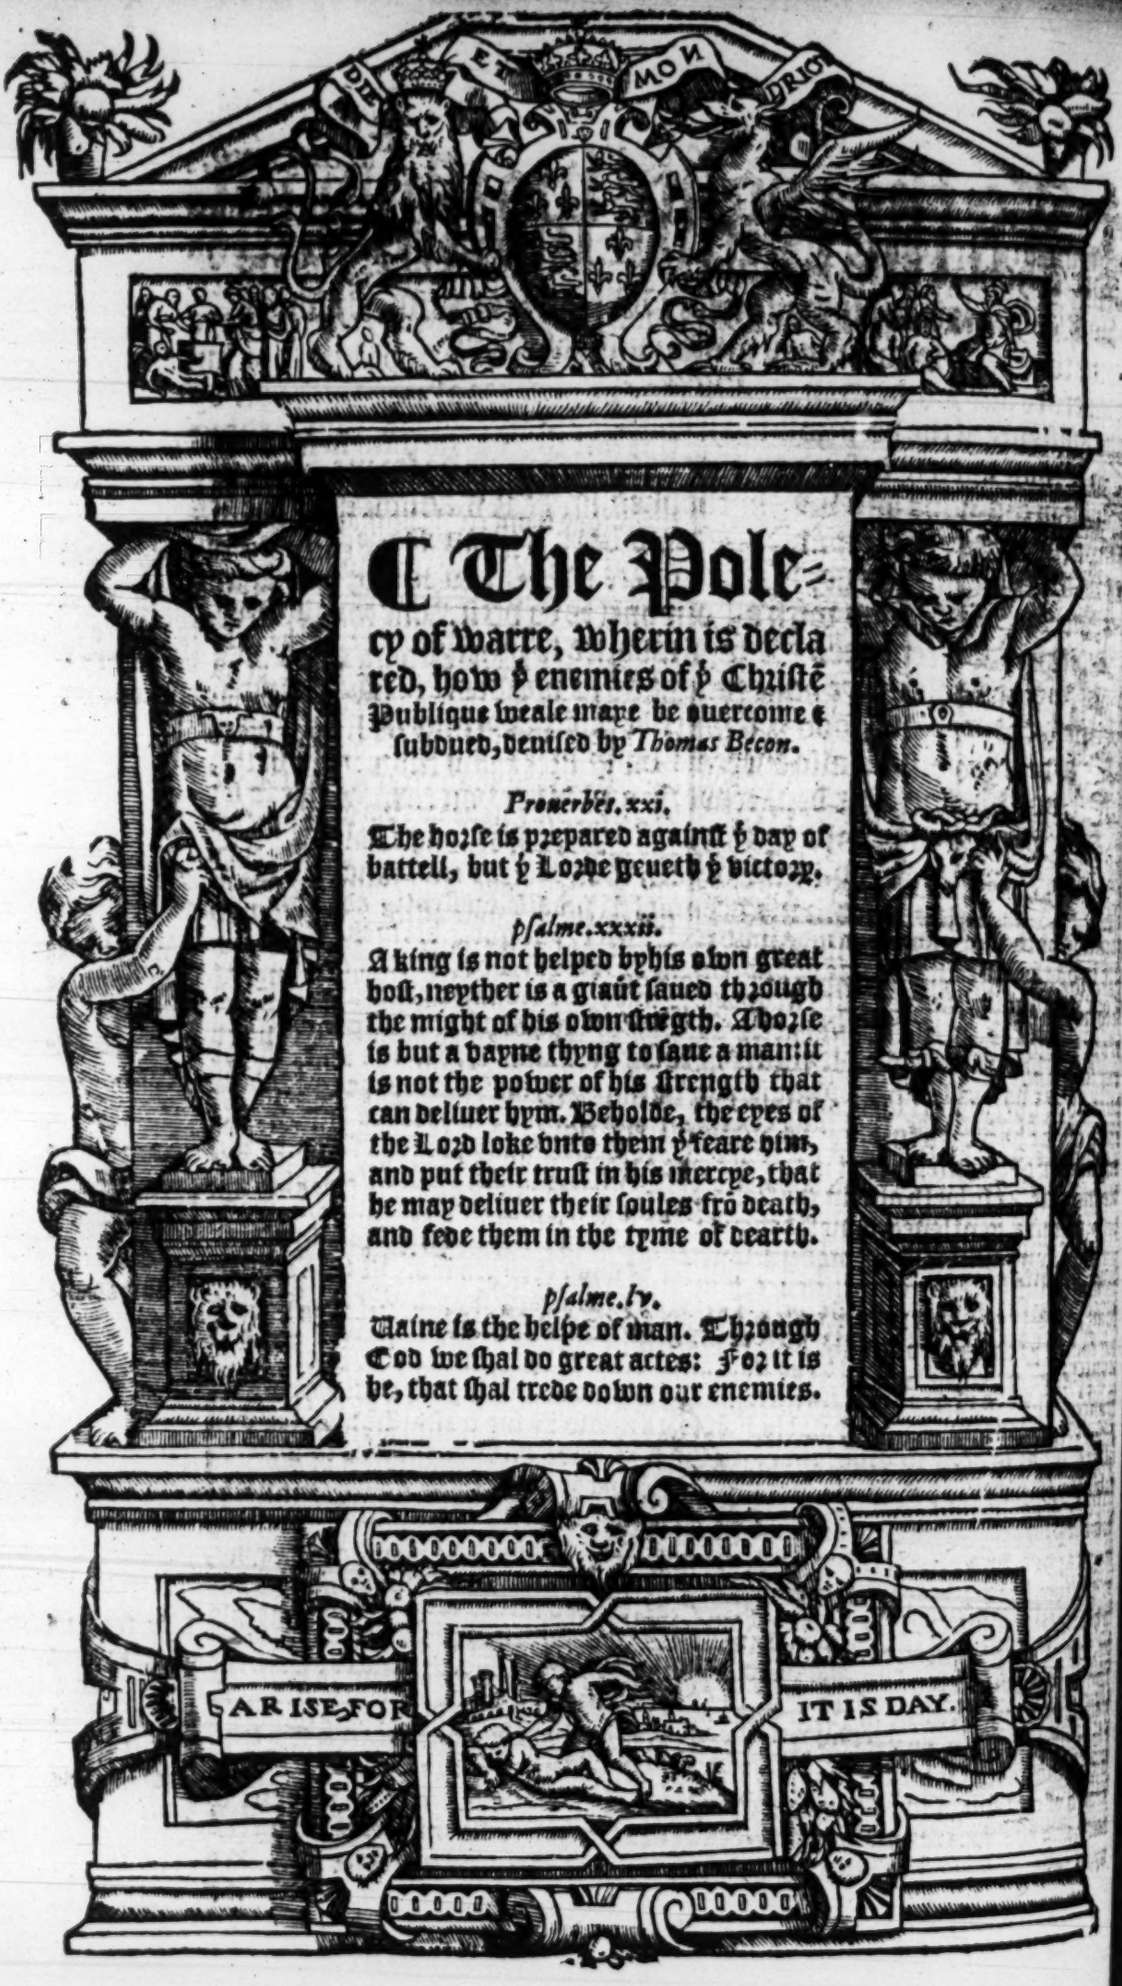
¶ Geue the glory to God alone.

BRITISH MUSEUM



¶ The Polecy of warre, wherin is declared, how ỳ enemies of ỳ Christẽ Publique weale maye be ouercome & subdued, deuised by Thomas Becon.

Proverbes. xxi.

The horse is prepared against ỳ day of battell, but ỳ Lorde geueth ỳ victory.

psalme. xxxii.

A king is not helped by his own great host, neyther is a giaũt saued through the might of his own strength. A horse is but a vayne thyng to saue a man: it is not the power of his strength that can deliuer hym. Beholde, the eyes of the Lord loke vnto them ỳ feare him, and put their trust in his mercye, that he may deliuer their soules frõ death, and fede them in the tyme of dearth.

psalme. lv.

Vaine is the helpe of man. Through God we shal do great actes: For it is he, that shal trede down our enemies.

To the ryghte worshypfull

Sir Thomas Wiet knighte, Thomas Becon wisheth longe lyfe, continuall health, and prosperous felicite.

I Thinke there is no man so farre & straunged from ciuile humanite, which knoweth not, howe muche euery one of vs is endetted to his native countreye. For al be it the duty that we ow to our parentes, kinsfolke, frendes. &c. be gret euen by the very law and instinct of nature, yet the det, wherwith we are obliged and bounde to our country, semeth to be greater and of much more valor, than we may at any tyme be able to set our selues franke and free from it. Our parentes only geue vs this grosse, rude and mortall body. Our countrey doeth not onely receaue and ioyfully sustentate it, but also opulently adourne and garnishe both that and the minde with most goodly and godly vertues. It engraffeth in vs the true knowledge of our selues, the feare of God, the loue of God and of our neighbour, the true faith in gods promises, the vnfained obedience toward our superioures. It tilleth our hartes with the plough of painful diligence. It eradicateth al vnfrutefull wedes. It eleccteth all vnprofitable clods, and maketh the earth of our hartes so fine, pure, pregnant and fertyle, that it is readye to receaue any maner of good sede, that may be sowne therupon, and to produce innumerable encrease. It soweth also in the fielde of our brestes many precious sedes, as modesty, grauite, gentlenes, honest behauor, affabilitie, comite, liberalite, frugalite, patience, long sufferaunce, moderation, temperaunce, obedience, fortitude, magnanimite, iustice, equite, continence, humilite, erudicion, prudence, learning, wisdome, probite of maners, with an whole see of good thynges mo. All thys doeth our country for vs through the diligēt exercise of wise and sage teachers. So that it may appeare right wel, men be not much only much endetted to their natyue country, but also allured vnto the loue and desire of the same euen by a certayne inspiracion both of God and nature. For how glad is an English man beeyng in Fraunce, Germany, or Italy or els where, to know by the trāsmission of mutuall letters, what is done in Englande, in what case the publique weale consisteth, howe it prospereth, how gods worde is set forwarde, after what maner vertue is mayntayned, and vice detested. &c. Agayne, is not the Frenche man, Germayne, or Italion, beeing here in Englande very desirous to know likewise, what is doē in his native country? We reade of some, which, whan they were in straunge places, where they wanted no kinde of pleasures, desired rather to be at home in their own native country, and to eate beanes and drosse with hogges, than to be in the most florysshing Realme in the world, and to sit at the tables of Kinges, Princes & such other terrene potestates, & to abound al maner of delicious meates. To whō is it vnknowen, ỹ whā a certayn noble mā called Leo Byzantius, was grenously accused of certayn of the Citie, where he was inhabited, & like to be in daunger of death, and therfore councelled of diuers of hys frendes to fly into some straūg cōtry, he came boldely into the assēbly, which cōsulted about his matter, & said, O ye my

How great ly we are bounde to our country.

Our countri is to be more regarded then our parentes.

What great commodites we receiue of our countrey.

The feruent affectiō that some haue had to their country.

Leo Byzantius.

my Citizenſes, I am counſelled to fly but certes I had rather be ſlaine of you, and ſo to dye among you, than once to make my ſelfe captiue to any ſtraunge country. O baleaunte and couragious hart. O noble and princelike ſtomacke. O hertofore louer of hys natiue countrey. He choſed rather to be ſlaine although vnrighteouſly of his countremen, and ſo to dye among them, than he would once departe out of his natiue contre.

Sertorius. The victorious Champion Sertorius alſo, beyng in the warres or els where, was wont to ſay, that he had rather be at home in his own countrey, and to be the moſt baſe and vile Citizen of Rome, than beyng abſent to be Emperour of al the world, ſo ſwete a thing is it for a man to be in his owne natiue countrey. Thus ſee we how euery nation is led euen of nature with ſuch an vnſpeakable louing affection toward his countrey, as neuer dieth, except peraduenture any be of that R.P. peſtiferous and poiſoned nature, whereof one is, whiche beeing an Engliſhe man borne, daunceth nowe like a Traytoure in a Carnalles wede at Rome, and as a ſhameles monſture abaſheth not to write. Roma eſt mihi patria. The loue of our countrey, muſt nedes be great, ſeing that the graue, prudente, ſage, and wiſe gouernoures of the publique weale heretofore in all their actes ſoughte nothinge ſo much as the proſperite and wealth therof. What goodly ſwete ſentences did they inſtille into the breſtes of their ponglynges euen from the cradels, to encourage them vnto the loue of their countrey? As theſe are: Pugna pro patria. Mortem oppete pro patria. Dulce & decorum eſt pro patria mori. Fight for thy countreye. Dye for thy countrey. It is a ſwete and ſemely thyng to dy for thy cõtrey. And as they taught other to do this, ſo did they ſhewe goodly and vertuous examples moſt worthy imitation of their poſterite. For no kinde of perell did they refuſe for the ſafeguard of their countrey. No ritches, no ſubſtance, no poſſeſſions, no not their own lyues did they ſpare for to profyt their countrey. And thys may we ſe done in the hyſtories not onely of the baſer ſorte but alſo of moſt victorious Emperours, puiſſaunt Princes, and noble Conſuls. Codrus. Kyng Codrus aſcertained by the infallible oracle of Apollo, that his countrey men the Athenians could by no meanes enioy the victory of their enemyes, except he hymſelfe were ſlayne in the battayle, came forth into the fielde among the other warrioures with a luſty and baleaunte chere, fighting with his aduerſaryes couragiouſly. But in as much as it was not only known to the Athenians, but alſo to the contrary parte what aunſwer was geuen Codrus of Apollo, therfore the enemyes gaue a commaundement that no man ſhould hurt the body of kyng Codrus. Which whan he perceyued, he conueied himſelfe out of the army, put of his princelyke armoures, clad hymſelfe lyke a common Souldioure, and returned ſhortely into the hoſt wher both manfully and willingly he dyed, and by thys meanes ſaued his countrey. O moſt excellent Prince, how thy immortalite. O worthy ſpectacle for al rulers to beholde. A lyke thyng we Publius Decius. read of that noble Conſull Publius Decius, which whan he ſaw hys army greatly diſcomforted and almoſt ſlayne, ſpored vp his horſe ſharpely, and with a baleful courage braſt into the mids of hys enemyes army, where after that he had ſlayne many, and by hys baleaunce encouraged of new the hartes of hys Souldioures, he being greuouſly wounded dyed at that inſtante, for the health of hys countrey. So that notwythſtanding by his woundes, bloud and death the Romans gatte the victory, wherof before they did ſo much diſpaire.

Virtias. A certaince woman alſo among the Lacedemonians, called Virtias, whan ſhe heard that Acrotatus her doughters ſõne was greuouſly wounded in the warres, yea and dead therof, anſwered with a luſty hart and ſayd, whan he went forth why to the enemyes, was it any other lyke, but that he ſhoulde dye, or els ſlaye them? It is more mery to heare that he is dead, as it was worthy hym, and the title of his progenitoures, than to liue all his life like a daſtarde, and ſhewe no point of baleaunce. O hart more courageous, thã the feminine ſexe requireth. Graũde ma-

mation

thers are wonte for the moste parte to loue their neuewes and childzen moze tenderly than the very mothers. Yet this grandame Cirtias lamented nothing the death of her neuew, but entierly reioised that he died so valeauntlye in the warres. Another woman of Lacedemony, after that she had sent forth fiue of her sõnes vnto batalle, stode before the suburbes of the cittie, waiting what should be the ende of the battel. In the meane season came a certaine mã and shewed her that all her sonnes were slaine. To whom she saied, I did not demaunde this of thee, O thou sluggish slaue, but in what case the contrey standeth. Whã he had aunswered, that the country had gotten the victory, she saied, oh than very well, I am glad that my sonnes are thus dead. This noble woman did set more by the safegarde of her contry, than by her priuate affecte towarde her childzen.

A womã of Lacedemoni

Damatria also an woman of that nacion, slewe her owne sonne at his returne from the battel, because he behaued himselfe like a cowarde in the warres, & dyd not fight manfully for the wealth of his country. This semeth to smelbarbarike immanite, and to be to muche cruell, notwithstanding it is a goodly example to shewe that all mothers should desire nothing so much in their childzen as to haue them euermoze bent to serue the publique affaires of their contry, euẽ to the very death.

Damatria.

The Emperoure Otho Siluius was determined at a certaine time, I knowe not for what cause, to geue ouer the regiment of his Empire. Many came vnto him, and desired him very instantly, that he would not leaue of his imperial dignitie, and so forsake the common weale, and the valeaunt companye of noble warryours that he had besides other. Among all one being but a Souldioure taken at aduenture, perceauing that the Emperoure persisted in his determinaciõ toke out his sweard and saied, O emperoure knowe thou, that we all are franckly encouraged thus to do for thee. And streight waies he killed himselfe. O lyke hart, and francke couragious stomacke. Whom would it not animate to geue his life for the health of his contrey, seing so many goodly examples truely described and liuishely set forth in histories before his face? So much brutal is he that is not moued with these moste memorable antique monumentes.

Otho Siluius.

But if I should go forth to rehearse all the Histories, which declare how greatly the feruent pitie, the godly affection, and the reuerende loue towarde the country hath been euer esteemed in times past of all gentle and naturall harts, I should compile a worke much longer that the Iliades of the Greke Poet Homere, yea I should not onely farre excede the limites of an Epistle, but also onerate & ouercharge the reader. But to make fewe wordes, euen the very same godly affection owe we at thys daye to this our native country Englande, that men of olde tyme haue shewed vnto ther country, excepte we be estraunged from all naturall humanite. And what soeuer our Auncetoures haue done in tymes paste, vnto the verye same are we bounde now likewise. So that whosoeuer detrecteth and refuseth to do for his country, what soeuer lieth in his power, is an vnnaturall brannch, and a corrupte sede, vnworthy to enioy any fruite or commodite therof, as I maye add nothing here vnto.

We are no lesse bounde to our country now thã our auncetors were in tymes past.

But all men haue not all gyftes, neyther can euery man profite his countreye alike. Yet ought the studious endeuours and diligent emploimentes of all men, tende vnto this, that the commodite of the publique weale and the health of the country should be sought aboue all thinges. The ritch man with hys ryches, the strong man with his strength, the wise with his wisedome, the politike with hys pollecy, the eloquente with his eloquence, the learned with his learnyng the artificer with his science, the ploughe man with his tillinge, and so euery man in his degree according to his knowledge ought to serue his coũtry. For vnto this doeth the lawe both of God and nature bynde vs, the which to resist is extreme impiety and plaine wickednes. But if any nation be estranged from the vnnatural affection toward their coũtrye, certes I think Englãd, I meane thinhabitants therof, may iustly contende wt any contry for the alienaciõ of this vice. It doeth me good yea it maketh me seriously to reioice euẽ at ỹ very hart, to se how glad my coũtry

The harty affection of English mẽ toward ther country.

men

men ar to serue the commodities of this our country England. What soeuer our most excellent Prynce, or any in hys name commaundeth, it is with all reuerence feare and louing expedicion accõplyshed. No man grutcheth, no man [illegible], no man thynketh the precept vnrighteous, nor the burdẽ heauy, so feruent a [illegible] do they beare vnto their country. Al with one consent employ their endeuours to satisfy euen vnto the vttermost of their power the imperial precept of the kynges most roial maiestie. This hath gods worde wrought in them, so mightie & fruitful is that swearde of the spirite. Thankes be to God for it. The Lorde of heuen might graunt, that it may long prosper, yea and florish in this Realme of England. So may we be sure neuer to be without his diuine blessing. Lord let it so come to passe. Ephe. v.

The gentlemen of Kent

It wil not easly be beleued, after that the kynges graces letters were delyuered now of late to certayne Gentil men in this Coũtry of Kent for the preparacion of certayne men apte for the warres, how expeditly hys graces pleasure was complished in euery condition. The Gentil men (al other businesses laied aside) immediatly prouided their tofore appoynted nomber of men, arraying them with excellent martiall armoures so that nothyng wanted, but all thynges set at such a poynt that they receiuing premoniciõ of very litle tyme, were ready at all houres to bring forth their men apte and ready for the warres. Agayne the men, which were prepared to go vnto the warres, it is almost incredible to see and perceaue what alacrite & quickenes of spirite was in them. They semed to be so desirous to defende their countrey, that they in a maner neglected their domestical trauayles, their priuate businesses, not much estemed their dere wiues and swete chylder, no nor yet their own liues, so that they myght in any point do good to the publique weale of England. When I saw thys valeaunt Courage in thẽ, and perceyued their vnfayned affection and loue towarde their countrey, Lord God, with how great admiracion and stupore was I affected and stryken? My ioy was surely greater than I can expresse, to see thys faythfull obedience in them towarde the kynges maiestie, thys feruent loue towarde their countrey, thys harty affecte towarde the common weale of Englande. And I doubte not, but that lyke obeysaunce and reuerence was also founde in other places of this Realme. These thynges thus done, I began to thynke with my selfe on this maner, Lorde God, vnder howe vnfortunate star was I borne, that am endewed neyther with wyt, pollecy, valeaunce, strength, wysedome, ritches, or any other thyng, wherwyth I may do good to my country, as other men do. The bayne of my wit is barren, my polecy is grosse, my valeaunce is nothing, my strength is litle, my wisedome is base, my riches are not worth a Gally halfe peny besydes a fewe bokes and a litle slender apparell. Alas what shal I do? Shal I shewe my selfe in no point thankefull to my countreye? shall other men ieoparde both their lyues and goods for the safegarde of the publique weale, and I in the meane season do nothyng? Shal I be founde an vnnaturall brother and a corrupte sede? It shameth me to lyue, and I may ryght well recount myselfe most miserable, seyng I am cast into such vnfortunate state, that I am able by no meanes to do that for my countrey in acte, which my mynde coueteth in wyll. At the last I remembred the poore wydow of the Gospel, whiche although she was not able to cast into the treasury so much as the ritche men did, yet offered two mynutes and were accepted for her good wil. I called also vnto remembraunce, how gentilly kyng Artaxerxes, with diuers other were wont to receaue base, symple, homely and common gyftes of their subiectes, and to geue them rewards worthy a Prynce of their good wil. When I considered these thyngs wyth my selfe it encouraged me to do some what (although that somewhat maye ryghte well be accounted some litle nothyng) that I may shewe my selfe not altogether vnworthy the beneficence of my countrey. And for as much as I haue been trayned vp from my cradles in the courte of Lady Mnemosyne and her daughters, and exercysed in the wrastlyng place of Apollo (although I may iustely seme to haue been there but a bayne gaser and vole spectatoure) I thoughte it not vndecente accordyng to my profession of letters to bryng forth some literall lucubracion wherby beeyng [illegible] greatly gently red and followed of my countrymen, should not be altogether vnfruitfull to our common country. I haue therfore in this tumulte and noise of warres compiled a certaine litle Treatise, entitled, The Pollecy of warre, not vnworthy ỹ reading chefely at thys time. In it I haue declared in how pitefull case the Christen publique weale consisteth almost vniuersally. I haue shewed also what is ỹ cause of these cruell warres, that reigne now almost throughout the whole worlde, and by what meanes they may be ceased. I haue furthermore opened after what maner we may get the victory of our enemies. Againe I haue shewed howe ỹ Souldiours ought to behaue themselues both whan they go to the warres, and whan they are in them, that God may be on their side. Moreouer I haue declared, how they that tary at home, ought also to behaue themselues, lest that for their iniquite and vnrighteous behauiour God forsake our army. Finally I haue here opened how Christen men shal returne from the warres after they haue gotten the victory, and on what maner they shal behaue themselues, that their country may enioy peace and tranquilite euer after. Al these thinges haue I done in this litle treatise folowing, according, as I trust, to the rayne of the holy scripture. And as gladly as I haue compiled this short worke, so gladly would I haue doe any other thing for the safegarde of my country, if it had lyghen in my power. Verely lette al men beleue me, if my ritches and wisdome had been equall with Salomons, if my polecy and strength had bene like with Sampsons, I would no lesse hartely haue employed them al for the wealth of my countrey, than I haue bestowed my laboure in settyng forth thys litle treatise. But whan I may not do the one, let it suffice that I do the other. The Poet sayeth, In magnis voluisse sat est. Neither is he altogether ingrate and vnkinde, which for hys puissaunce mainly contendeth to shew himselfe thankefull and kynde agayne, although his acte at all tymes doeth not greatly answere his good wil. Notwithstanding I trust, if thys my worke be diligently read, marked and followed, it shal not onely declare my honest and natural hart toward my country, but also teach men a more godly fashiō in ỹ warres, than hath been hitherto vsed of many. I pray God, it may bryng forth no les frut than I haue entended. But thys my labor what soeuer it be I offer to your right worshipful maistership, both because ye ar one whō God aboue many other hath endewed with most goodly qualities, worthy the renowne of worshyp, and apte for the godly administracion of the publique weale no lesse in the perfect knowelege of the diuersite of Languages, than in the actyuitie of martial affayres, and also for as muche as ye haue euer hytherto earnestly embraced not only the studies of humaine letters, but also the graue exercises of diuine litterature, trusting that ye wil accept this my litle gift with that benevolence, which al men commende and prayse in you. If I shal may obtayne thys, it shall not only not repent me of my labour employed in thys behalfe, but also encourage me hereafter to attempte some other enterprises of no lesse weighty and graue importaunce, & dedicate them also vnto your name. In the meane season God the author of al goodnes and the mygthy shield of them, ỹ repose their affiaunce in hym, myght vouchsafe to preserue your good maistership in continuall worshyp, & dayly encrease the same more and more vnto the glory of hys name, the conseruacio of the publique weale, the contentacion of your good mynde, and the comforte and ioy of so many as vn faynedly loue you. Amen.

The good mynde and feruẽt affection of the author towarde hys countrey.

Luke. xxi.

King Artaxerxes.

The contentes of thys boke.

¶ The Policy of warre.

I thinke there is no man, that hath the Chryſte faith liuelyng in hys harte, and loketh for another worlde after thys lyfe much more bleſſed, well thy and quiete then thys is, but that beleueth aſſuredly that the end of this moſt miſerable and wretched worlde with all the vayne pompe and pompous vaunte therof is at hande, at the leaſt not farre of, as the holy Scriptures teſtifye in many places. For if we ſearch ꝑ diuine volumes diligently, and ponder what tokens ſhall immediatly go before the day of iudgemente, we ſhall haue a iuſt occaſyon to thynke and vndoubtedly to be perſwaded, that the vayne glory of thys ſynnefull worlde, yea ꝑ worlde it ſelfe is at the latter age, and ready as they ſay to be buryed & wrapped vp in the floud of Lethe. Among al the other tokens & ſignes of the daye of iudgemente, whiche are to many for to rehearſe at this preſent, doeth not our moſt mercyfull ſauioure Jeſus Chryſt in the gospell of Mathewe declare, that we ſhall heare of wonderfull battelles, and that nacion ſhal ryſe agaynſt nacion, and kyngdom agaynſt kingdome, and that there ſhalbe peſtilences, honger and earthquakes in al places, agayne that the faythfull preachers of Goddes worde and the true Chryſten men ſhalbe greuouſlye afflicted punished, troubled, hated of all nacyons, yea and cruelly ſlayne for his names ſake? As I may leaue of to ſpeake of the extreme peſtilences, of the feruente honger, and terrible earthquakes, where with diuers landes nowe of late haue been greuouſlye troubled, and yet are not free from them, as I may alſo ſpeake nothyng of the tyrannicall perſecution, the vngentle handlynge, the cruell emprysonmente the bocherlyke slaying both by the ſwearde, water, hempe, famine, ſecrete murther. &c. of the true Preachers of Goddes worde and of the other faythfull Chryſtians, which haue boldely and gladly offered themſelues vnto the verye death for the glorye of GOD and the name of hys Sonne Jeſus Chryſt for a wytneſſe agaynſte the poppyſhe kyngdome and all theyr wycked doctryne: what battels and cruell warres reygne nowe almoſte in euerye place throughoute the worlde? Howe many forren Princes doe inuade nowe a dayes one anothers Realme? what ambycyon

Math. xxiiiii.

The miſerable ſtate of this worlde.

occupieth

decupleth the hartes of temporall rulers, which moueth them both with swerde and fire vnmercifully to destroy the iust and vnryghte possessions of other, that they alone as gods may reigne in this worlde. Is there not that Prince reconut himselfe most happy, which in all kinde of violence against all equite and iustice can most dilate and enlarge his Empire and dominion? Thus is the Christen publique weale rent and wasted, & miserably defloured. Thus is all good order chaled & swept out of the boundes of Christendom. Thus is the study both of diuine and humain letters vtterly neglected & set nought by. Thus is iustice & all kynde of humanite exiled, and in their stede is entred vnpunished robbery, cruell theft, insatiable spoiling of other mens goods, and an whole sea of barbarous and beastlike maners. To cõclude, thus is it come to passe, & we haue scarsely so muche as a slep of true godlynes left amõg vs, into such miserable case are we fallen in these perilous & latter dayes, according to the prophecye of Christ. Who lamenteth not to here these thynges? whose hart doeth not trẽble and shake eftsones as the quakynge Ilande of Aetna, to remember this great calamite & greuous misery of the Christen publique weale? What man is so farre estranged frõ al naturall humanite and tender compassion, & wilfully not rather to be oute of this wretched world, than to beholde so doloꝛous sightes and pitifull spectacles? O the vnspeakable wretchednes of this world. O the infinite cares and innumerable troubles of this poꝛe lyfe. O the madnes of mortal men, which cõsider not these thinges, but like brute beastes goe foꝛth to folowe their sensual appetites and beastlyke pleasures. Certes the state of this worlde requireth not delicious fare, but cõtinual fasting, not gorgious apparel, but weryng of sackecloth, not annointing with swete bames, but sprinkelyng with ashes, not resting in soft fether beds, but lyinge vpon the hard grounde, not laughing, but mourning, not iesting but lamẽtyng, not scoffing but wailing, not wanton wordes, but feruent prayers, not playing at the dise and cardes, but cõtinuall meditacion in the lawe of our Lord God, not heaping vp together of worldly possessions, but the glad distribucion of thẽ to the poꝛe members of Christ, & we maye be ritche in the liuing God, and haue al our trust and confidẽce in hym. Woo be to them that laugh at these thinges. Woo be to them that seke not vnto the vttermost of their power to redꝛesse the piteful enoꝛmites of the Christẽ publique weale. Woo be to thẽ that say, peace, peace, al is wel, al is wel, and consider not that a finall destruccio is at hande, if we correcte not our sinful maners shoꝛtly, & amẽde our wicked lyues. Clense your hãds O ye synners, sayeth S. James, & pourge your hartes O ye wauering minded. Suffer afflictions, soꝛow ye & wepe. Let your laughter be turned into mourning. Go to now ye ryche men, wepe & howle on youre wretchednes that shal come vpon you. Be priestes & ministers of the Lorde mourne, wepe, lamẽt, and cease not to cry both day & night vnto god on this maner: Be fauourable, O Lord, be fauourable to thy people. Lette not thyne herytage be broughte to confusyon, least the Heathen be lordes

Warre, mother of all euils.

Park well.

Iacob.iiii.

Ioel.ii.

Psal.lxxviiii.

Psal. lxxiiii. therof, wherfore should they say among the Heathen, where is now their God. For surely surely we had neuer more occasion to make our mones & bewayle our wretched liuinge, & to pray to God for a redresse of these intolerable enormities, wher with we are greuously oppressed, as we haue at this present day. As I may speake nothyng of England, (whom I most humbly beseche God graciously to preserue in prosperous estate, and alway to geue her a glorious and triumphat victorye ouer her enemies) how are other forren kyngdomes miserably vexed with continuall warres? How are the goods of the faythfull spoyled among them? This also ought to moue any true Englishe harte to haue pitie and compassion vpon the Chrysten brothers, dwell they neuer so far from vs, seeing that we be knit together in one faith, initiated with the same misteryes, professe one God and one kynde of religion, hope to be saued by one meanes, that is to say, by the moste precious bloode of Gala. vi. our Sauior Jesus Christe, &c. Whyle we haue tyme, sayeth S. Paule let vs worke good towarde al men, but chefely towarde them, that be of the houshold of fayth. As I may speake nothing of the dissencions among Chrysten Princes (which is a thyng more dolorous than can be sufficiently lamented) whose hart doeth it not make to fainte, yea plainly to blede for to consider how greuously and vnder al mercy & pitie The Turkes crudelite of Christ in many places be most cruelly inuaded, handled, led captiue, miserably intreated, emprisonned, slayn, murthered, and all their goods spoiled, brent & taken away of ỳ most spiteful and Nerolike Tyraunt the great Turke, ỳ mortall enemy of Chrystes religion that destroyer of the Chrysten fayth, that peruerter of all good order, ỳ aduersary of al godlines and pure innocency? To whom is it vnknowē how lyke an insaciable ambicious Tiraūt he goeth forth daily more & more to enlarge his Ethnish kyngdome, to set forth the glorye of his Mahumet, to defame the honor of our Lord the alone and true god, to obscure the vertue of hys word, to hinder the promocion of Chrystes Gospell, yea and vtterly to extinguishe and quenche the fayth of Christ, that the glory may be geuen to hys Mahumet alone, and that his furious tyranny may reygne vniuersally thoro we out al ỳ world & make meune lyke bruyte beastes to do after his plesure in al thinges vnto the vtter dishonour of God, & the damnacīō of so many as leane to his moost diuelysh cōmaundementes? Hath not his feare & furious tyranny gone thorow out al Asia, Grece, Illiria & Thracia, vnto diuers other Regions? Hath he not there both destroyed theyr churches and shewed suche crudelite amonge thē as was neuer heard? What shal I speake of Hungarye, sometyme a flory kynge & noble Realme, but now moste miserably assayled, inuaded, yea and in many places therof piteouly oppressed both by swearde and fyre of this moost cruel enemy of Christes religiō? I passe ouer many other Empyres & kyngdōs, whiche also haue tasted of his furious tyrāny & lyklyke crudelite And who is able to expresse either by tonge or penne how miserable a lyfe the Christiās lyue vnder the dominion

Note.

tion of this Turkishe Tiraunte? Alas is it possible, that he shoulde be a frende and merciful ruler to men of the Christē religion, seing that he is an enemy to vs both in name, dede, law, profession, kynde of religiō, maners, ordinaunces? &c Surely surely Christen men with him are in worse case, thā brute beastes are wt vs. Doeth not he writing to ꝑ king of Polonia, threate in his letters, ꝑ he wyl yoke hys fat preestes in the plough, & make thē to til his land? If he handleth them on thys wyse, whom we haue in so high estimation for ꝑ ministring of the holy misteries, what is than to be thoughte of the baser sorte of the Christians O Lord be merciful to vs, I am sure he wil scasely thinke them worthy to take the breath of the ayre. Who seeth not nowe, how miserable ꝑ state of the Christians is vnder thys most cruel Tyraunt, whiche not withstandyng hath exalted and encreased his myght aboue all Christē Monarchies or Empires? And it is to be feared, seing he hath suche prosperous successe and triūphant victorys agaynst the Christians, that no nation shalbe able to resist and withstande hys tyranny, excepte there be some godly remedy founde shortely. For al thynges prospere so well with hym, that no man nedeth to doubte, but that he is the scourge of God to punishe vs for our wycked and abhominable liuing, which wout al shame is at this day vsed among vs.

Thus see we in what state the Chrysten publique weale standeth, yea rather lyeth, and is troden vnder fote. Let vs now beholde, what the occasyon of it is, & by what meanes it may be repayred and broughte a gayne vnto the pristine beauty and olde glory, that we hauing the victory of all our enemies may with one accorde syng perpetuall prayses to the name of our Lord God. Amen. What the occasion of all these cruel warres is, wherwith we are so miserably oppressed, it may easlye be perceiued by Histories of the holy scriptures. For verely so oft as I ponder this matter wt my selfe, me thinke I see more clerely thā the Sōne, that as the only occasyon of gods blessing is, the true worshippynge of hym & the folowyng of hys worde, so likewise the alone occasiō of hys cursyng, that is to say, of hys plages, whether it be by sweard, pestilēce or honger (for by these three wayes God is wont to punish the wickednes of hys people) is Idolatry, straunge worshipping of God, despising of his worde, killing of the true preachers, and wycked liuing. Do not the diuine Histories shewe euidently, that so long as the people of Israel obeyed God, serued hym accordyng to hys worde, harkened to his preachers, walked in his wayes led a pure & innocent lyfe, they enioyed al kinde of felicite and pleasure, and euer gat the ouerhand of their enemies? How did the publique weale of Israel florysshe vnder that moste noble Captayne and victorious Prynce Josue? what kyngdome dyd they inuade and not subdue? what dyd they take in hande, & broughte not vnto fortunate successe and prosperous ende? Howe came thys to passe, by their owon pollecy, wyt and strength? Na verely. For they dispayred of their owne strengthes and sayed, we are not able to go vp

The cause of warres.

Note well.

agaynst the people, for they ar strōger than we. They ar mē of a great stature, yea we are like grashoppers in cōparisō of them? It was God Num. xiii. xiiii. that dyd fyght for them. God slewe theyr enemies. God gaue them the victory, and brought them into the possession of that lande. Feare not ỳ people of that lande, sayd Iosue, for they are but breade for vs. Theyr shylde is departed from them, and the Lorde is wythe vs, feare them not therfore. The Lorde youre God. he shall expell and cast them out before you, and ye shall cōquere theyr landes, as the Lorde youre God hathe sayde to you. One of you shall chase a thousād, for the Lord your God he fyghteth for you. But howe came it to passe, that they prospered on thys wyse, and had God so on theyr syde, that nothyng was able to preuaiye agaynste them? Verely because they dyd abyde sted-Iosue. xxiii. fast in the lawe of the Lorde. They ranne not an whorehuntyng after straunge Goddes. They dyd stycke fast vnto the Lorde theyr God.
They hardened to his faythfull prechers. They worshipped and ser-ued him not after theyr owne fansy, but according to the prescripte of his holy worde. They sought hys glory in all thynges, and wrought accordyng to hys holy wyll. So came it to passe, that they were made blyssed and fortunate of God. Agayne in the boke of Judges and of kynges, do we not se in them that so long as the Israelites walked ac-cordyng to Gods worde, they prospered and florysshed aboue all nacī-ons, and whan they fell vnto Idolatry & wycked lyuynge, ỳ god stye-red vp some Tyrāt, which oppressed thē wt cruel battell, shedding their bloud, & spoylyng all ỳ they had? Nether dyd God cease thus to punysh thē, vntil they fel to repētāce, knowledged theyr fautes, amēded theyr iiii. Re. xxiii. ii. Pa. xxxvi. wicked lyuing, & became faythfull to ỳ Lord. Moreouer what was ỳ occasiō ỳ God at ỳ last suffered the Israelites to be led awaye captiue in to Babylon of the kynge of Caldey, the yong mē to be slayne wt sword in the holy Tēple, yea nether yonge man nor mayden to be spared, neyther olde mā, neither yet so muche as hym ỳ stouped for age, al ỳ vessels of ỳ house of God both great & smal & the tresures therof, & ỳ treasures of the kyng & of his Lordes to be caryed to Babylon euery whytte, ỳ house of God to be burnt, ỳ wauelles of Ierusalē to be brokē downe, & all the places therof to be burnte wythe fyre and all the goodly stuffe therof. Now what was ỳ occasion, I say that all thynges wente thus to wrack wtout mercy? For loth ỳ scripture sayth, theyr kynge Sedechias first of al dyd ỳ, which displeased ỳ Lord. He hibled not himselfe before Jeremias ỳ Prophet at the mouth of the Lord, but was stiffenecked & hard harted to turne vnto ỳ Lorde God of Israel. All ỳ rulers also of ỳ prestes wyth the people trespassed apace after all abhominations of ỳ Hethen, & polluted the house of the Lorde, which he had halowed in Jerusalem. And the Lorde God of theyr fathers sent to thē by his mes-sangers, sendyng them betymes, for he had cōpassiō on his people & on his dwellyng place. But they mocked the messangers of God and despised theyr wordes, and misused his Prophetes, vntyll the wrath of the Lorde

Lord so arose agaynst his people, that it was past remedy. Here see we agayne that the occasion of thys miserable captiuite, which the Jewes sustayned, was because they receaued not the Prophetes, harkened not to gods worde, but followed their owen fantasyes, wroughte that which was good in their owen sight, and liued after their owen sensuall and beastlyke appetytes. What shal I speake of the final destruction of the Jewes at Hierusalem after Chrystes ascension? what was ỳ cause of that theyr greuous misery and vnoutspeakable calamite? Was it not because they crucified the sonne of God, despised dis doctryne, slew his Apostles, walked after their owne traditions, followed their olde wycked forfathers, liued all in pleasure, regardyng nothyng the threatnynges of God. &c. Howe chaunced it, that the mightie Monarchyes or Empyres of the Assyryans and Grekes, whiche florysshed not onelye wyth all kynde of temporall ryches, but also wyth moste excellent and learned wyttes, are nowe so miserably oppress of the Turkes tyrãny? Was not their disobedience to gods worde cause therof, and their wicked liuinge more lasciuious and wanton, than that effeminate kynge Sardanapalus? How came it to passe, that the Rhodes euen in oure tyme is subdued of the aforesaied Tyraunte, turned from Chryste vnto Mahumet, from the Chrysten religion vnto the Turkyshe profession? was not superstition Idolatrye, Hipocrisye, fayned holynesse, colored chastite, that is to say, fylthy whordome, stinking fornication. &c. cause thereof? If we ronne throughout al the histories both holy & prophane where is entreated of warres, we shal fynde that the cõtempt of gods worde and wycked liuing are the onely occasyons, that suche bloudye battels and cruell warres haue at any tyme been stryred vp. For God is a righteous Lorde, and a long season prouoketh he vnto repentaunce. If there followeth none amendemente, than stryreth he vp one Tyraut or other to take vengeaunce on vs, to shed oure bloud, to oppresse vs with sweard, to kil our wiues sonnes and daughters, to consume wyth fyre al that euer we haue, to make our kingdomes desolate, and at the last vtterly to rote vs out of thys world, that his name throughe oure abhominable liuing may no more be blasphemed, rayled vpon and euil spoken of. If ye wil be obedient and heare me, sayeth God by hys Prophete, ye shall eate the good fruites of the earth. If that ye wil not, but prouoke me to anger, surely the sweard shall deuoure you, for ỳ mouth of the Lorde hath spoken it. Agayn, my people is led captine, & brought into bondage, because they haue no knowledge. And theyr noble men haue dyed for honger, and theyr armye haue perysshed for thirste. They haue caste awaye the lawe of the Lorde of hostes, sayeth the Prophet, and haue blasphemed the worde of the holy one of Israell. And therfore is the wrath of the Lorde kyndled agaynste hys people, and he shaketh hys hande at them, yea he shall smyte so, that the hylles shall tremble. And theyr harkases shall lye in the open stretes lyke myre. &c. Also in an other place, thou shalte be desolate, beecause thou haste

The Assirians and Grekes.

The rhodes

Behold and marke.

Esay.i.

Esay.vi.

Esay.xvii.

for gotten God thy sauiour, & haste not remembred thy stronge helpe. Therfore shalte thou plante a fayre plante, & graffe a straūge braūche, but in the day of haruest, thou walt reape an heape of sorowes & miseries. Agayn these people are obstinate, they prouoke me vnto anger, they are lyenge chyldren, and euen suche chyldren, þ wyl not heare þ lawe of God. They saye to them that se, se nothyng, and to the southsayers, tell of nothynge for to come, if it be eyther good or honest, but speke pleasaunt thynges vnto vs, and preach vs false thynges. Tread oute of the waye, go oute of the path, turne awaye the holy one of Israel from vs. Therfore thus saythe the holy one of Israel, for as moche as ye haue cast awaye this worde, and haue confortēd your selues wyth power and nymblenes, and put youre cōfidence therin, therfore shall ye haue this mischefe agayn for your destrucciō & fall, lyke as an hyghe wall, þ falleth because of some ryfte or blast, whose breakyng cometh sodenly. And your destrucciō shall be lyke as an earthē potte, which breaketh no man to wchynge it, but breaketh so sore, that a man shall not fynde a sheuer of it to fetche fyre in, or to take water with all out of the pytte.

Esaie. xxx.

Die nobis placentia.

Esaie. xlii.

For the Lord God euē þ holy one of Israel hath promised thus. And in another place, who suffred Jacob to be troden vnder foote and Israel to be spoyled? was it not þ Lord hym selfe agaynste whō we haue synned? We had no delyghte to walke in his wayes, neyther were we obedīet to his lawes. Therfore hath he poured vpon vs his wrathful displesure & straūge battel, which maketh vs haue to do on euery syde yet wyl we not vnderstand. He burneth vs vp, yet synketh it not into our hartes. The prophet Jeremy also sayth, what mā is so wyse to vnderstād this? or to wh̄ome maye þ worde of the Lordes mouth be spoken, þ he maye shewe, wherfore the land is perysshed so, & burnte lyke a wyldernes, so þ no man goeth thorowe? Yea þ Lorde hymselfe sayde: Because they haue forsaken my lawe, þ I gaue thē, & haue not herde my voice nor yet walked therafter, but folowed þ wickednes of their owne hartes, & ronne after straung gods, as their fathers taught thē. Therfore thus sayth the Lord of hoostes the God of Israel: Beholde I wyl fede this people wythe wormwode, & gyue thē gall to drynche. I wyl scatter them also among the Hethē, whome neyther they nor their fathers haue knowē. And I wyl send a sweard among them to perfecute them, & neuer leaue vntyll I bryng them to nought. Item, yf ye wyll not obey me, saythe the Lorde, to walke in my lawes, whiche I haue gyuen you, and to heare the wordes of my seruaūtes the Prophettes whome I sent to you risyng vp tymely, and styl sēdyng: If ye wyll not folowe them, I saye than wyll I do vnto this house, as I dyd vnto Silo, and wyll make this cytie to be abhorred of al the people of the earth.

Ierē. xxxi.

Ierē. xxvi.

The despysynge of godes worde, & wycked syuynge cause all these plages.

Thus se we not only by histories but also by manifest textes of holy scripture, that the despisynge of Gods worde and the dissolute maner of lyuynge is the occasion of all the greuous and fearce plages that God poureth vpō vs. And we nede not doubt, but these very same syn ges are euen at this daye the fountayne and head spring of all the minishmentes that God lay vpon vs. For euen as it was with the proude & olde Jewes, euen so is it now in the worlde. They hated Gods word eth, euē so do they now. They persecuted ȳ Prophetes & true preachers of Gods verite, euē so do they nowe. They maintayned the wicked tradicions of theyr forefathers, euen so do they now. They fostered theyr owne imaginacios aboue Goddes worde, euen so do they nowe. They preferred theyr owne actes, lawes, decrees, constitucions, &c. aboue ȳ ordinaunces of God, euē so do they nowe. They couldenot abyde theyr wycked liuynge to be reproued, no more cā they do now. They hated the lyght of Goddes worde, and loued to walke in darkenes, euē so do they now. They liued in al kynde of wycked abhominacion euē so do they now. Theyr mē of law for lucres sake mayntened false matters contrary to equite, euen so do they nowe. Theyr officers of the comon weale dyd not behaue them selues vprightly in matters of controuersy, but polde & pyld all ȳ they might come by, euē so do they now. Theyr prestes were all gyuen to couetousnes euen from the lyghest to the west, yea they were blynd & as dome dogges not able to barke, euen so are they now. They abused ȳ name of God by vnlawfull othes, euen so do they nowe. They were dishonoures of ȳ ciuile magistrates, euen so are they now. They were disobediēt to theyr parentes and superiours, euen so are they nowe. They were manslears & thyrsted innocēt blode euē so do theyr now. They wer abhominable whoremōgers, synking fornicatours, and vncleane adulteres, euē so are they now. They lyed chose rather to liue in abhominable whorehuntyng, thā in the state of christen wedlocke, which is honorable among all men, and the bed vn- Hebre.xiii.

defiled, euen so do they nowe. They were theues and vniust vsurpers of other mēs goodes, euē so are they now. They coueted theyr neygh-bours goodes, wyfe, seruaunt, hand mayde, &c, euen so do they now. Al kynde of synne raygned among thē vnpunyshed, euen so dothe it now.
The threatenynges of Goddes law were laughed to scorne amōg thē, euen so are they now. What so euer synne raygned than, that same floysheth & tryumpheth nowe. What shall we than say, but as the cōmō prouerbe is, lyke fauite, lyke punyshmēt? If God that ryghteous Lord ii. Pet. ii.
dyd not spare the olde worlde in the tyme of Noahe but drowned it: If he agayne fauoured not ȳ filthy Sodomites and vncleane Gomorians, but consumed them with fyre and brymestone from heauen, what terrible iudgement and greuous plages shall we than looke for, seyng we nowe in the same hauen, stycke in the same myer, and commyt the very same abhominacions. O England, England myn owne native coun- Of Englād trey, for whose wealth and prosperite I do not only shed oute prayers, but also salte teares continually to the Lorde our God and am redy at euery hour wyllyngly to sustayne any burdem, that can be layd on my shoulders for thy safegarde: Would God, would God thou wast not partaker of those greuous enormities and wicked sinnes, which I

A competicō son betwene ȳ olde worlde and ours.

haue

haue nowe reherſed. Wouldē God thou dyddeſt not abuſe the moſt Exo.xxi. pꝛecious benefites, wherewith thou arte endewed from aboue before all other nacions. Wouldē God thou dyddeſt regard ꝓ pleſures that God hath done the by reſtoꝛynge vnto thee the light of his holy woꝛd, and ſendinge the ſo noble and vertuous a Pꝛynce to mayntayne the ſame.
Would God thou waſt not lyke to ꝓ olde diſobediēt and murmuring
Iewes, which had pleaſure rather to be in Egypt wyth ꝓ grey fleſh Gene.xix. pottes, thā in ꝓ ſeruyce of God wyth ꝓ celeſtial meate Manna. Would God ꝓ myghteſt not iuſtly be reſſēbled to Lothes wyfe, whiche alſo ſhe was delyuered frō ꝓ fylthy Sodomites, had a delyght to looke bake agē vnto thē. Would God ꝓ name of ꝓmooſt higheſt were not ſo dyſhonoured by thy ſhamefull & abhominable othes, wherwith thou doeſt infect. Wolde God thou waſt not diſobedient, but faythfull & true in all poyntes to thy ſuperiours. Would God thou waſt not polluted wyth foꝛnicacion, adultry, whoꝛedome, inceſt, and al other vnclēnes. Would God ꝓ waſt not an vniuſt taker awaye of other mēs goodes. Would God thou dyddeſt not thyrſte after the ſheddynge of innocent blode.
Would God, ꝓ waſt not redy to beare falſe witnes agaynſt thy neighbours. Would God thy men of law were not eaters of gyltes, & oppꝛeſ-ſours of the poꝛe people foꝛ lucres ſake. Would God thy paſtours & ſpiritual ſheppardes were not ſo giuen to pleaſure, ambicion, pryde, a-uetouſnes delicate fare, goꝛgious apparell, idlenes, &c, ꝓ they haue no mynde to fede Chriſtes flocke wt the ſyncer woꝛd of God. Yea would Math.xxiii. god they were not callers backe & vtter deſpiſers of ꝓ ſame, neither en-tryng into ꝓ kyngdome of heauen thē ſelues, noꝛ yet ſufferyng other that would to enter. To be ſhoꝛte, would God ꝓ waſt not a manifeſt trangreſſour and opē offēdour of gods mooſt holy law that thou myghteſt be ſure frow the vengeaunce and plages of God, ꝓ are lyke to fall vpon
the. If thou doſte not ſhoꝛtly repent and amend thy ſynneſull lyuyng.
O England, England, God calleth the vnto repētaūce diuers wayes God calleth Engla ̄d vnto repentāce diuers way-
es. as by his woꝛde, by the pꝛeachynge of the ſame, by ſendyng the ſuche vertuous, merciſull, fatheꝛlyke and puyſſaunt a Pꝛynce, by endewyng the whith other innumerable benefites. If ꝓ regardeſt not this gra-nes of God, ſurely Englande great woyll be thy dānaciō, greuous wil be thy plages, intollerable woyll be thy ponyſhmentes, to moche lamētable woyll be thy finall deſtruccion. O England with wepyng teares Luk.xix. I ſaye vnto the, as Chriſt ſayde vnto Hieruſalē: If thou dyddeſt knowe euē at this thy tyme, thoſe thynges whiche belong vnto thy peace. Many thou wouldeſt be moꝛe diligent to looke after them. Foꝛ eaſyer and moꝛe tollerable ſhall it be foꝛ Sodome & Gomoꝛre, foꝛ Tyrus & Sydon at the daye of iudgement than foꝛ the, excepte thou repenteſt and em-braceſt with metyng armes, as they ſaye, ꝓ goodnes & great mercy of GOD which is nowe pꝛoferred the. Of theſe thynges aloꝛ ſayde it is euident that thoccaſion of all theſe cruell warres & other plages, wherwith we are ſo miſerably oppꝛeſſed, is ꝓ deſpiſyng of Gods woꝛd, and the wicked and dissolute manner of lyuynge, that is vsed amõge them that profesſe Christ by mouthe, but loue Mahumet in dede.

Nowe lette vs consyder agayne, by what meanes ỹ christen publique weale may be repared & broughte agayne vnto ỹ pristine beauty & olde glorye, that we hauing ỹ victory of al our enemies maye with one accorde syng perpetual prayses to ỹ name of our Lord God. Amen.

Of gettyng the victorye ouer oure enemies.

To obtayne the victorye of oure enemies, what thyng is to be done? Shall we prepare vs innumerable thousandes of stronge and valeaunt warriours? shall we make vs strong Castels, myghty Bulwarkes, inuincible fortresses, gorgious charettes fearsgunnes, well eaſing bowes, swyft arrowes, sharpe speres, great poleaxes, courageous horses, wyth other thynges innumerable, that pertayne vnto martiall affaires? How weake and vnable the ese thynges are to get the victory of our enemies, the holy scriptures shewe in diuers places. Howe puyſſaunt was Holofernes and incomparable in martiall affaires; what wanted he that shuld healpe any thynge at all to get the victory? what may be named, that he fayled concernyng the pollecy of warre? what Prynce in the worlde thoughte hymselfe of sufficient puiſſaunce and strong ynough to enter battell wyth hym? he had such affiaunce in his martiall armours that he thoughte, he myghte lyghe vpon his one syde, and gette the victory, But howe lytle all his valeaunce and strength profyted hym, the scriptures shewe euidently, which teache ỹ by one woman he was not only destroyed, but also all his army put to slyghte. So lytle do all the pollecies and feates of mẽs braynes auayle where the healpe of God wantethe. What shall I speake of that arrogant and proude tyraunte Sennacherib, which gloried so much in his martiall valeaunce & strong power in matters of warre, that he despyed & blaſphemed the lyuynge God, thynkyng hymselfe able ynough to subdu and ouercome so many, as he should warre wyth al, though God hymselfe toke parte agaynſte hym? But to what poynte came all hys proud crakes? What dyd al his martiall armours & weapons of warre profytte hym? Dyd not God in one nyghte send his Aungell, and slewe of that tyrauntes company a great sorte of thousandes, in so much that that arrogant kynge of the Assyrians returned backe wyth shame ynough, & shortely after was slayne euen of his owne sonnes?

Holofernes.

Iudith. xiii. xiiii.

Sennacherib.

iiii. Re. xviii. i. Par. xxix.

Esaie. xxxvi.

Let these two Hiſtories suffice to shewe howe lytle affiaũce is to be reposed in humayne strengthes & martiall affaires. Verely except the Lord bylde ỹ house, he laboureth in vayn ỹ byldeth it. Except ỹ Lorde kepeth ỹ citie, he watcheth in vayne that kepeth it. A kyng shall not be saued, sayethe Dauid, by his owne great hoost, neyther shall a gyaunt be holpen in tho abundaunce of his strẽgth. A horse is but a deceauable thyng to saue a man, it is not ỹ power of his strẽgth that can delyuer hym. Beholde the eyes of the Lorde are vpon them that feare hym, and on them trust in his mercye, that he maye delyuer theyr soules from death, & norysh them in the tyme of honger. Salomon also sayethe. The horse

Psal. cxxvi.

Psal. xxxii.

Prouer. xii.

horse is prepared agaynste the daye of battell, but the Lorde giueth the victory. The Psalmograph sayth agayn, some put theyr trust in charets and some in horses, but we wyll call vpon the name of oure God. They are brought downe & fallen, but we are risen and stande ryght vp lyke men. Here se we that all the pollecies of warre, that ỳ wyttes of men can inuent, are but vayne, & of thẽ selues notable in any poynte to get the victory. What shal we than say? Are ỳ armours of warre to be neglected? Are ỳ pollecies for obtaynynge of victory to be despised? Is no prouision to be made for the conseruacion of ỳ Christen publique weale, but let all thynges ronne at hauocke, as careles swyne, chaunse what chaunse wyll? God forbyd. we may not attempt God by any meanes. A Prynce shall imagine these thinges that are worthy a Prynce, sayth the Prophet Esaye, & he shall stande ouer his captaynes. Euery Prynce therfore ought with all diligence & pollecy to prouyde all thynges that should conserue & kepe his Realme in safe estate, and for from the daunger of suche as woulde inuade theyr dominiõ, and euery subiecte ought not only to be contented frely & wyllyngly to rẽder vp his goodes to his kyng and Prince for the prosperous mayntenaunce of his kyngdom, wherin he is inhabited, but also with a glad hart to bestow his very lyfe for the safegard of the same, which thynge the very Gentiles neuer disdayned to do, but recounted them selues than moost happy, whan they myghte moost of al both bestow theyr goodes and theyr lyfe also for ỳ helth of theyr native countrey, as we read in diuers histories. And in this poynte, I meane for al thynges that should conserue and kepe this Realme of Englande safe and free from the inuasion and daũger of our enemies, what kyngedome in ỳ world is to be cõpared vnto this Englysh Empyre? Howe hath oure moost puyssaunte and redoubted kynge forteresled this hys moost florysshyng Monarchye, Empyre & kyngdome wyth all thynges that any man can inuent for the prosperous conseruation of a cõmõ weale? Neuer was there Prynce, that toke lyke paynes for the safegard of his dominalte. Neuer was there father, that so greatly watched for ỳ healthe of his sonne, as he doth for ours. To moche ingrate, vngẽtle & vnthãckefull is he, that doth not recognise and knowledge the vnmeasurable kyndenes of this moost excellent Prynce. If this title Pater Pãtriæ might lawfully at any time be ascribed vnto any tempozall rulare, certes to our moste victorious Prynce it is moost of all due & conuenient. For he is a very ryght & true father to this our countrey of Englande, as his moste godly actes and bountyous entrepzises do manifestly shew euery day more and more. We read that Augustus ỳ Emperour, whẽ he had both garnished very pleasantly and fortressed very strõgely the Citie of Rome, so ỳ so moche as lay in hys power he had made it safe & sure agaynst al assaultes and inuasiõs of ennemies for many yeares after his time, was wonte to reioyce of his acte to say, Romã lateritiam accepi marmoreã, relinquo. That is to say, I toke Rome made of tyles, but I leaue it of marble How much Psal. xix.

Whither armoures of warre are to be neglected

Esaie. xxxii. The dutye of Prynces in martiall affaires.

The dutye of subiectes in tyme of warres.

Englãd fortressed thorow the liberal and wise prouision of our kynge.

Augustus Cesar.

moze iustly maye oure mooſt bounteous kyng saye: I toke Englande made of tyles, but I leaue it of marble. If any Realme therfoze may re ioyse & repose theyr affiaunce in martial armours & al kynd of fozteres ses, ꝑ make vnto ꝑ safe pzeseruaciō ther of, surely we Englyſh mē haue most iust occasiō to gyue God thankes foz thē, seyng ꝑ we aboue all o ther nacions vnto our great consolacion and the vtter consternacion of our enemies are mooſt opulently enryched with them thozowe the godly pzouision and diuine pollecye of oure mooſt redoubted kynge. But what, shall we sye vnto them, as vnto an holy Anchoze and in uincible Bulwarke, whan ꝑ featre tumulte and cruel noyse of warres begynneth to ryse vp amonge vs and repose oure whole affiaunce in them? God fozbyd. Foz as weapōs apte foz warre are not to be neglec ted, and as all kynde of pollecies, that maye conserue ꝑ publique weale, are to be pzoued, so is not the trust of a chzisten man to be put in them, as though our safegarde oz delyuerauuce dyd depende on them. Foz the scripture sayth. A kyng shall not be saued by his owne great hooſt, nether shall a gyaunt he holpen in ꝑ abundaunces of his owne strēgth. &c. Notwithstandynge we must pzepare all thinges, and with a iusty and valeaunt courage go vnto the warres euen as though there were no hope of victory, but of oure owne strength only, yet must all our whole affiaunce be reposed in the myghtye strength of our Lozd God, and loke foz the victozy at his hand only, nothing doutyng but that he woyll fyght foz vs, and gyue vs the ouerhand of our enemies, if we en ter battell foz a iust and godly cause. Foz it is god only, ꝑ gyueth ouer theyr enemies into the handes of his people. It is God that fyghteth. we and all that euer we bzyng, are but instrumētes and means, wher by God subdueth oure aduersaires vnto vs, euen as bzead and meate are but meanes only, wherby God fedeth vs. It is God that is the vic tozious and triumphant champion, as Salomon sayethe, The hoꝛse is pzepared agaynst the day of battel, but the Lozde gyueth the victozye. Note that he sayethe, the Lozde gyueth the victozy.

Howe came it to passe that ꝑ Israelites gat the vpper hande of theyr enemies so ofte? By theyr owne valeastice? Na verely, but by ꝑ strengthe of Gods power. The Lozd thy God sayth Moses, shall go before the. He shall put awaye all these nacions in thy syghte, and ꝑ shalte possesse them. Go to it therfoze manfully, & take a good harte vnto you. Feare ye not, noz be not once adzad at the syght of thē, foz ꝑ Lozde thy God, he is thy captayne & gyde, & he woyll not leaue noz foxsake the Agē, how came it to passe, ꝑ one chased a thousand, and two put ten thousande to flyght, but that theyr God solde thē & the Lozde snarled them. Foz oure God is not as theyr GOD. Also in another place, Happy arte thou, O Israel, who is lyke vnto the? A people that arte saued by the Lozd. He is thy shylde & helper, he is the sweard of thy glozy. And thyne enemies shal hyde thēselues fro thē & thou shalte walke vpon theyr hygh hylles.

Note of mas tial armou res.

Pſal.xxxii.

Parke wel.

Prouer.xxi.

Deut.xxxi.

Deut.xxxii.

Deut. xxxiii.

How chaunsed it, that the noble captayne Josua had so many victo- Ioſue.x.

tious cõquestes ouer hys enemies: What sayth ỳ scripture. The Lo God of Jsrael dyd fyghte for hym. But let vs heare what God sayd Iosue.i. to hym, Aryse and go ouer this Jordane, thou and all the people the into the land, which J shall giue to the childzen of Jsrael. Ev Iosue.xi. ces that ỳ soles of your feete shal tread vpõ, wyl J giue you. Agayn not afrayd of thẽ, for to morowe about this time wyl J deliuer all enemies slayne in the sight of Jsrael, and thou shalte hough theyr Iudicum.i. ses, & burne theyr charettes wyth fyre.

Moreouer after the death of Josua, the thyldren of Jsrael aske
Lorde, who should go vp fyrst vnto ỳ Cananites to fight agaynst
The Lorde aunswered, Juda shall go vp, beholde J haue delivered lande into his handes: Marke that it is sayd. ỳ Lorde delyuered ỳ Iudic.iii. into his handes. So that it is God that gyueth the victory. who vi.vii.viii. the victory of theyr enemies vnto the Jsraelites, whã Othoniel, xi.xv. Sangar, Debora, Barach, Gedeb, Jepte, Samson. &c. reygned Lorde only, as it appeareth by the histories. How wõderfull is Gedeon. ry of Gedeõ, as J may let passe ỳ other & no lesse manifest & euden shew, ỳ God alone gyueth the victory & not the strẽgth and polecy any man, be it neuer so valeaũt and subtile. The Madianites Madianites. came to fyghte agaynst Gedeõ and his company, had in theyr arm hondred & fyue and thyrty thousãd valeaũt men, which laye along valey lyke gresshoppers in multitude & theyr camels were witho ber, euen as the sande by ỳ seaside. Gedeon bryngeth only with cõpany of two & thyrty thousande, and yet of these God commaũd hym to put away all excepte thre hõdred. His wordes wer these: people that are wyth the, are to many for me to gyue the Madia into theyr hãdes, lest Jsrael make theyr boast vnto my dishonour, saye, our owne hand hath saued vs. And whan there were of Ged company xxii. M. departed, so that there abode wt hym only ten th sande, God sayde once agayne vnto hym, the people are yet to many.
The conclusion was, that all went theyr waye besydes thre hondr by them only thorowe his myghty power dyd God gyue the M anites into Gedeons hãdes, so ỳ of them that were slayne of the M anites, were an hondred and twenty thousand men that drewe des, O wonderfull victory. O the mighty & stretched out hand o Deut.xxxiii. O the valeaunce of this our Lorde God, which is almyghty and ha puyssaunce to defende and saue his seruauntes. Here se we this to Asa. true ỳ one shall chase away a thousand, & that two shall put ten th ii.Par.xiiii. sand to fyghte. Hereto pertayneth the sayeng of kyng Asa, which ed to God on this mãner. O Lorde it is all one with the, whither th helpest in few or in many. Helpe vs o Lorde our God. For we hau oure whole affiaũce and trust in the and in thy name be come ag this multitude. Thou arte ỳ Lorde oure God, let no man therfore p uayle agaynst the. And accordynge to hys prayer God gaue hym ỳ tory and made the blacke Moores to flye and so were destroyed.

fu

Furthermore who gaue Iosaphat the victory ouer the Moabites and Ammonites, but God alone? Dyd not he in his prayer speake on thys manner vnto God? In vs, oh Lord there is not so great strength, ỹ we maye be able to resist this great cõpany, that commethe agaynste vs. But whan we knowe not what to do, than haue we none other refuge nor succour, but only to lyft vp our eyes to the. God therfore streyghtwayes stored vp Jaziel the sonne of Zacharias, whiche sayd, Herken al Juda, & ye that dwell in Jerusalẽ, & thou kyng Iosaphat also, thus saythe the Lorde vnto you. Be not a feard nor faynte harted by the reason of this great multitude. For the warre is not yours, but Gods. It shall not be you that shall fyght, only steppe ye forth boldly, and stande to it lyke men, and ye shal se the helpe of ỹ Lorde vpon you. O ye of Juda & Jerusalem feare ye not, nor let not your hartes fayle you To morow ye shal go forth agaynst them, & the Lorde shall be wyth you. The kyng hym selfe also sayd whan they went forth vnto battell, Beleue in the Lorde your God, and so shall ye be without al ieopardy. Beleue his Prophetes, & al thynges shall be prosperous vnto you. And accordyng to all these thynges aforsayde came it to passe, so ỹ Iosaphat & his cõpany returned home with a glorious victory, thorowe ỹ mayne & puysaunt power of God. Not withstandynge when Iosaphat afterwarde ioyned frendshyp wythe Ochozias kyng of Israel, which was a wicked doer, and coupled hym selfe with hym to make shyppes to go into Tharsis for golde, and semed by this means both to haue his mynde estraunged from God, and hys affiaũce reposed in mortal amite, God deceaued him of his purpose, brought hys enterprises vnto none effecte, so that hys shyppes were broken on suche sorte, that they were not able to go vnto Tharsis. What shall I speake of the noble and triumphante victories, whiche God gaue to Ezechias, Judith, Esdras, Judas Machabeus, Jonathas, Symon. &c.

Iosaphat.

The prayer of Iosaphat.

ii. Para. xx.

Thus se we that it is God ỹ fighteth for his people, subduethe theyr enemies, and giueth them the victory, & that bythout his ayde, helpe & socour, all is but vayne & frustrate, what so euer man inuenteth of hys owne carnal brayne, seme it neuer so politike and wyse. Cursed be he, sayth Jeremy, ỹ maketh flesh his arme, & whose harte departeth from the Lorde. But blyssed is that man that trusteth in the Lorde, & whose hope the Lorde hym selfe is. For he shall be as tree that is planted by the water syde, whiche spreadethe oute the roote vnto moysteries, so that he neadethe not to feare whan the heate commethe, and hys leaues shall be grene. &c. Wo be vnto them, sayth the Prophet Esaye, that go downe into Egypt for helpe and trust in horses, & confort them selues in charettes because they be many, and in horse mẽ, because they be mighty and strong, and haue not put theyr confidẽce and trust in the holy one of Israel. Agayne, what presumpciõ is this that ỹ trustest vnto? Or by what counsel or strength doste thou determyne to go to warre? vp on whome doste ỹ trust, seynge ỹ rasteſt thy selfe of frõ me? Lo, thou

Ierem. xvii.

Psal. i.

Esa. xxxi.

Esa. xxxvi.

Esa.xxxiii. putteſt thy truſt in a broke ſtaffe of rede, I meane Egipt, which he that leaneth vpō, it goeth into his hande & ſhutteth hym thorow. The Lo is our captayne, ỹ Lorde is our law gyuer, the Lorde is our kynge, he it is that ſhal ſaue vs. For he gyueth ſtrengthe to ỹ wery one, & powe

Eſaye.xl. vnto the faynt. Chyldren are wery & faynte, & the ſtrongeſt men fall lyke weakelynges, but they ỹ truſte in ỹ Lorde, ſhall be endewed with ſtrengthe. They ſhall haue wynges lyke Aegles, they ſhall renne & not faull, they ſhall walke & not be wery Feare not, ſaythe God, for I am

Eſaye.xli. the. Turne not once backe for I am thy God. I haue made the ſtrō I haue holpen the, & the right hand of my ryghteous one hath tak Behold all they ſhall be confounded & aſhamed, that fyght agaynſt Yea they ſhalbe, as though they were not, & the men ſhall peryſh, that

Eſaye.xlv. once ſpeake agaynſt the. &c. I wyl go before the, & bryng down ỹ pryde & arrogāt of the earthe. The braſē dores wyl I breake & burſt the yron barres. And I wyll gyue the, ỹ hyd treaſures, & the thynge whiche ſecretly kepte, that thou mayſt know that I am ỹ Lorde. The righ

Pſal.xxxvi. teous ſhall peryſh at one clappe, as Dauid ſayth, & the remnaunte of the vngodly ſhal vtterly be deſtroyed, but the health of the ryghteous is of the Lord, & he is theyr defēder in the tyme of trouble. The Lorde ſhal healpe them & delyuer them, he ſhal ſet them free from the wyck

Pſal.xxxi. yea he ſhal ſaue thē in dede, becauſe they haue putte theyr truſt in hym. Agayn, the Lord is my lyghte & my health, whome then ſhall I feare The Lord is ỹ defender of my lyfe, for whome than ſhall I be afrayd whā the wycked came vnto me for to eate my fleſh, they that wrought me any wo, & were myne enemies, ſtōbled & fel, ſo that now although an hooſt of mē were layd agaynſte me, yet ſhal not my hart be afrayd And though there roſe vp warre agaynſt me, yet wyll I put my truſt

Pſal.cx. in hym. God hymſelfe alſo ſayth by the Pſalmographe, for aſmoche as he hath truſted in me, I wyl deliuer hym, yea I wyl defēd hym, for he hath knowē my name. He cryed vnto me, & I wyl ſauourably heare hym. I am wyth hym in tribulaciō I wyll delyuer hym & glorify hym. I wyll replenyſhe hym withe longe lyfe, and at the laſt I wyll ſhew hym my ſauyng health. All the ſcriptures heretofore reherſed declare euidently that God alone is the myghtye helper, and that he only is he whiche gyueth the victory of theyr enemies to his people, that is, to ſo many as beleue and truſt in hym, and that withoute hym all humayne induſtry, labour wyt, conueyaunce, pollecy. &c. are of nons effecte, yea rather hurteth than profytteh, hyndereth then furdereth, deſtroyeth than ſauethe. Bleſſed is that lande, whiche hath God theyr mercyfull Lorde and puyſſaunt defender. For they ſhall proſper in all thinges and what ſoeuer they ſhall take in hande, ſhall vndoubtedly come to good effecte, neyther ſhall any man be he neuer of ſo great hablenes myghte, ſtrength, puiſſaunce and power, be able to do them any hurte

Rom.viii. If GOD be on oure ſyde, who is able to preuayle agaynſte vs, ſaith the holye Apoſtle S. Paule ſayeth? But it wyll be demaunded yet

aduentur

aduenture, how God maye be made so mercyfull, that he wyll gyue vs ꝑ victory of our enemies. I aunswere by oure vnfayned conuersion frō wickednes vnto true godlynes. We heard before that al ꝑ plages that God casteth vpon vs, whyther they be battel, honger, pestilence or any other, chaunse vnto vs for our synfull & abhominable lyuyng, wher wᵗ God is so greatly prouoked vnto anger: Agayne, that he wyl not ceasé thus to plage vs, if he loueth vs, vntyl we earnestly repēt & studiously amende our lyfe. If he seeth, ꝑ none amendoment wyll followe his correction, yet wyll he go forth styl to punyshe vs, & neuer ceasé vntyll he hath rooted vs & our memory oute of the earth, because his holy name may be no more blasphemed among the Hethen thorow our wycked-nes and abomination. Your mysdedes sayth Esay, haue seperated you frō your God, & your synnes haue hyddē his face from you, ꝑ he should not heare you. For your hādes are defyled wyth bloud & your fyngers with vnrigtheousnes. Your lyppes speake leasynges, & your tonge set teth out wickednes. No man regardeth ryghteousnes, no mā iudgeth truely. Euery man hopeth in vayne thynges, & imaginethe deceate, cō ceaueth werynes & bryngeth forthe euel. They brede cockatrice egges, & weaue the spyders webbe, who so euer eateth of theyr egges dyeth, but if one treadeth vpō them, there cōmeth out a serpēt. Theyr webbe maketh no cloth, nether can they couer thē wyth theyr labours. Theyr dedes are ꝑ dedes of wickednes, & the worke of robbery is in theyr hādes. Theyr feete runne vnto euell, & they make haste to shed innocent bloude. Theyr councels are wycked councelles, harme & destrucciō are in theyr wayes, but ꝑ way of peace they know not. &c. And a lytle after, our offēses are many before ꝑ, O Lord, & our synnes testify against vs, yea we must nedes confesse that we offende, and knowledge ꝑ we do amysse, namely trangresse & dissemble agaynst the Lorde, and fault, awaye from our God, vsyng pryuyptuous & traytorous imaginacions, & castyng false matters in our hartes. For equite is gone abyde, and ryghteousnes stondethe a farre of. Trueth is fallen downe in ꝑ strete, & that thyng that is playne & open, maye not be shewed. Yea truethe is layde in prison, & he that refrayneth hym selfe from euel, must be spoyled. When the Lorde sawe this, it displeased hym sore, ꝑ there was no where any equite. He saw also ꝑ there was no man, whiche had pi-tie therof, or was greued at it. And he belde hym vp by hys owne power, & cleued to his owne ryghteousnes. He put righteousnes on him for a brest plate & set ꝑ helmet of helth vpō his head. He put on wrath in stede of clothyng, & toke gelosy about him in stede of a cloke, lyke as whā a man goeth forth wrothfully to recōpence his enemies, & to be re uenged of hys aduersaries, namely ꝑ he myght recompens & reward ꝑ hādes, wherthorow ꝑ name of the Lord myght be feared from ꝑ rising of ꝑsonne to the goyng downe of the sonne. For he shal come as a violent water streame, whiche the wynd of the Lorde hath moued.

By what means God maye gyue vs the victory.

Esaye. lix.

The Prophet describeth the māner of this worlde.

Ephe. vi. i. Thess. v.

Hytherto haue I rehearsed the wordes of the Prophet Esay, wher-of we learne, ẏ our wickednes is ẏ cause of Gods wrathe toward vs, not withstādyng if we cease from our iniquite, God wyl surely forget vs, turne awaye his wratheful displeasure, pardōne our synful iniquite, forgyue our wycked lyuyng, wype awaye our vncleānes, and be our myghty shielde & defēder agaīst al our euemies, as he sayth in another place, youre hādes are ful of bloud. Notwithstādyng wash you, make ye clene, put awaye your euell thoughtes out of my syght, cease to do euil, learne to do wel, seke iudgemēt, helpe ẏ poore oppressed, defende ẏ fatherles, defend ẏ wydow & come on your waye, & reproue me, sayth ẏ Lord. If your synnes be as red as scarlet, yet shal they be made as whyte as snow. And if they were like purple, yet shal they be like white woll. Yea yf ye wyl be cōtēted & heare me, ye shal eate ẏ good fruytes of ẏ earth. If ye wyl not but prouoke me vnto wrath, ye shal be deuoured with ẏ swerd, for thus hath ẏ Lorde promysed with hys owne mouth. It is cōmonly sayd, sayth God by ẏ Prophet Hieremy, if a man putteth away his wyfe, & she goeth from hym, and marryeth another husbonde, shal he resorte any more vnto her? Is not ẏ woman than defyled & vncleane? But as for the thou hast played the harlot wt many louers, yet turne agayn to me, sayth the Lord, and I wyll receaue the. Thou shrynckynge Israel turne agayne, sayth the Lorde, and I wyl not turne awaye my face frō you, for I am mercifull, sayth the Lorde, & I wyl not be angry for euermore. Thus se we ẏ though God doth plage vs for oure wyckednes, yet if we repent & amende our synfull lyuynge, he wyll haue mercy vpō vs, & turne awaye his anger from vs. For the Lordes hāde is not so shortened, that it can not healpe, neither is his eare so stopped, that it maye not heare. To obtayne therfore his fauour, that he maye fyght for vs, & get vs the victory ouer our aduersaries, the only & moost nexte waye is to redresse our noughty mānes, to walke in the pathwayes of his holy commaundementes & to do, which he wylleth vs to do. So may we be sure thorow his diuine sufferaunce to subdue all our enemies, as he hymselfe testifieth, sayeng: If ye walke in my commaūdementes, and kepe my preceptes, ye shal pursue your enemies, & they shall fal before you. Fyue of you shall chase an hondred straūgers, and an hondred of you shall put to flyght ten thousande. But if ye wyll not heare me, but despyse all my commaundementes, I wyll set my face against you, & ye shall fall before your enemies, & ye shalbe subdued to them that hate you, yea ye shall flye, whan no man pursueth after you. For if we enter battell with our aduersaires, & yet be polluted wyth synne, surely, God wyll nether fyght for vs, nor yet with vs. God is not the captayne of wicked & noughtye people. He fighteth not for thē ẏ embrace iniquite, but for suche as seake after true godlynes, pure innocēcy, & loue to walke in his moost holy commaundementes. To suche as are trāsgressours of his holy word, & yet dare presume to enter battell, & to loke for helpe at his hād, he sayth, se ẏ ye go not vp & that ye fyght not, for I am not among you, lest ye be plaged before your Esaye.i.

Iere.iii.

Esaye.lix.

Leuiti.xxvi.

Nume.xiiii.
Deut.i.

pour enemyes. If such fight, it shall chaunse vnto them, as it dyd vnto ỳ Israelites, which whā they had greuously offended God and disobeyd hym would contrary to the commaundement of God take vpon thē to fyght agaīst ỳ Ammonites, but for theyr disobediēce, notwithstāding theyr myghty valeaūce & politeyke wisdome in martial affaires, they were chased away, slain, hewed, and greuously slayne. So shall it chaunse to the wycked and vngodly.

Iosue had a manifest promyse made to hym of God, that he should subdue the Cananites, and enioy theyr land peaceably, and that therefore he neded not to feār for to fight againſt thē, yet notwithstāding iosue at one time the feld, & his men were slain and put to flight for the sinne of one man, which contrary to the commaundement of God had taken of the excommunicate thinges. For the offence of hym alone coulde not the children of Israel stande before their enemies, for asmuche as God was not with them. If the syn of one mā deserued so great vengeaūce that for his offence onely many were slaine and put to flight, what shal we than say vnto that army, whiche is replete with al kind of sinne, as whoredome, fornicacion, adultry, theft, tyranny, shedding of innocente bloud, sweryng, glotony, dronkenship. &c. How is it possible for them to prosper? How can God be among them, to fighte for them, and to geue thē the victory? If we wil subdue our enemyes, we must seke al meneg possible to haue God on our syde. We maye not onely prouide, that we scoure of the rust of our harnes that it be cleane, but that we also putte out of our brestes the rusty and filthy synnes, that haue cankred oure soules so long, and so become pure and cleane. For what is the cause ỳ our battels do but litle prosper many tymes, but only that we be synful and God is angry vnto vs? Could ỳ Herolyke tyraunt the greate Turke haue subdued so much of Christendome, if we had lyued accordynge to our profession? Na verely, our synnes haue gotten hym so many victoryes. Our wickednes hath made vs captiue and thraull to hys tyrāny. Let vs loke what sin reigneth among vs, and let vs vtterly wipe that out, so shal we prosper against the violence of our enemies.

Iosue vii.

A good lesō

It was not wout a cause, that God, after Acam the sonne of Carmi, of whom I spake before, had trāsgressed his holy precept by takyng of the excōmunicate goods, cōmaunded Iosue, ỳ he shuld sanctify the people, and bid them sanctify thē selues before they went any more to battell & kil him, which had so transgressed agaynst the Lord. For whan ỳ was done, they prospered triūphantli euer after in al their warres, and God gaue their enemies into their handes, and they enioyed the lande in peasable possession. Although this sāctifying of the Israelites did consist in external ceremonies, as in washing, purging & clensyng thē from the filthines of both their bodyes and garmentes, & in abstaining from the cōpany of their wiues, yet shadoweth it to vs also our maner of sācrifyig, which is spiritual. It requireth of vs ỳ we shuld purge our selues of al iniquite, wash away ỳ filthines of our harts, & put frō vs al carnal

How we ought to sanctify our selues.

" concupiſcences and fleſhly luſtes, ſo that we may be cleane both in body
" and ſoule, & be founde worthy to haue God our captayne. They ſhall " ſanctify themſelues, are fit to go vnto the war of the Lord. God gaue a Deu. xxiii. " commaundement to the Iſraelites and ſaid, whan thou goeſt out with " the hoſt agaynſt thyne enemyes, kepe thee from all wyckednes, for the " Lord is among you. If there be any man that is vncleane by the reaſon " of vnclennes, that chaunſeth hym by nyght, let hym go out of the hoſt,
" and not come in agayne vntil he haue waſhed hymſelfe with water be" fore the euen: and than whan the ſonne is downe, let hym come into the " hoſt agayne. Thou ſhalt haue a place wythout the hoſt whither thou " ſhalt reſort to, and thou ſhalt haue a ſharpe poynt at the end of thy wea" pon, and whan thou wylt eaſe thy ſelf, dygge therwyth and turne and " couer that, which is departed from thee. For the Lord thy God walk-" keth in thine hoſt to ryd thee, and to ſet thyne enemyes beefore thee.
" Let thyne hoſt therfore be pure, that he ſe no vncleane thyng amōg you " and turne from you. Here God commaundeth that the hoſt ſhuld kepe Note well. themſelues free from al wyckednes. The cauſe is this. For the Lord is among you, ſaieth he. God is pure, therfore muſt that hoſt be pure, that commeth to battel in hys name. God is without all ſyn therfore muſt hys warryours deteſt nothyng more than ſynfull wyckedneſſe. God lo-ueth the workes of darkenes, therfore muſt hys Souldiours abhorre the workes of darkneſſe, and haue a pleaſure to walke as the chyldren of lyght. Agayne, he declareth how pure and free from all vnclennes the hoſt ought to be, ſeeing he would haue them ſo cleane & honeſte in thoſe thynges that chaunſe naturallye. If God cānot abyde the pollucyon whiche chaunſe in the night tyme, how much leſſe can he awaye with whordome and adultry? If God will haue ſuch purite ſhewed in thoſe which corporall neceſſite compelleth vs to do, is it to be thought that he will admit any thing, ỹ is done contrary to hys commaundement, as theft, tyranny, ſwearyng, dronkeſhip, glotony quarellyng &c? God walketh in the hoſt of hys ſeruaunts, therfore ought they to be pure and holy from al vncleānes, leaſt God turneth from thē, and ſo altogether go to hauocke. But alas it chaunceth contrary vnto vs now a dayes. For whē they ỹ profeſſe Chryſte, ſhoulde go vnto the warres, they prepare themſelues after a more wycked maner, than ỹ Heathen do. For ỹ Heathen How the Heathen pre pare them- ſelues vnto battell. come ſoberly together, conſulte ſagely of thynges ỹ ſhal moſt auaunce the proſperous ſtate of ỹ publique weale, ſet al thynges in a goodly ſtay in their Realme, appoint certayn wiſe and prudēt rulers to gouerne their landes in the meane ſeaſō, exhort ſo many as tary at home to liue well, and vnto all inſtance and harty meanes to pray vnto the Gods for them, that they may haue fortunate ſucceſſe in their warres & returne home agayn as noble cōquerours wyth victorious triumph. This done they prepare themſelues ſoberly and prudently vnto the warres, euer hauing reſpect to an honeſt and innocēt manner of liuing, that they ỹ gods in no meanes may be diſpleaſed with thē, & diligently callyng on ỹ name of their gods both day & night for helpe & strēgth against their enemies Thus go they vnto ỳ battell, as men ready to geue their lyues for the helth & safegard of their cōtrey, being desirous of nothing but only to defend their Empyre, and to enlarge the boundes and lymites therof.

How Christen men prepare themselues vnto the warres, it is more open than it nede here to bee expressed. As I maye speake nothyng of such as go with an euel wil vnto the battel, what a nomber goeth ther only to picke, steale, robbe, and that they may come home agayne well laden wyth spoyles and robberyes: How lytle respect haue they vnto the conseruacion and defence of their natiue country, so that their purses may be wel enfarsed, laden and stuffed: what dising, carding, and al kinde of volupteous riot is vsed among them: what drynkyng, gulyng, quaffyng & superfluous banketing do they vse: what manacing, brawlyng, chydyng, and fyghtyng is heard and sene daily among the: what whoredome is there committed among them: what mayde escapeth vndefloured? What wife departeth vnpolluted, as I may ad no thyng here vnto? what abhominable swearyng is vsed amonge them? How is God rent and torne among them by vnlawfull othes? How desirous are they to shed bloud, and to make hauocke of al together? The capacite of wolues, the violence of Lyons, the fearsenes of tigres, is no thyng in comparyson of their furious and cruel tyrāny, and yet do many of them this, not for the safegarde of their countrey (for so myghte it seme the more tollerable) but for to satisfy their bocherlyke affectes, to boast another day, of how many men they haue bene the death, and to bryng home ỳ mo prayes, ỳ they may liue the fatter euer after for those spoyles and stollen goods.

How christē men prepare them selues vnto battel.

The wickednes of Soudiours in ỳ warres.

As concernyng the inuocacion and callyng on the name of God, it is so farre oute of remembraunce, ỳ many of them do not so much as once thynke or dreame of it. How is it possible, that these warres should prosper, where there is no regarde of God, no respect to honeste, no desire of mutual concorde, no endeuour employed to make God merceful vnto vs? Surely these warryours had nede to sanctify themselues, or els they be not defenders but destroyers of the common weale, for ỳ safegarde wherof they wyl seme to fyght. For be their valeaunce & myghte neuer so strong, yet can they not prosper, if God blesse not their labours as we heard before. It is therfore expedient, that they which shall prepare themselues vnto battell, and offer their liues for ỳ wealth of their countree, sanctyfy themselues, I meane, expurge and put away all vnclennes, and wycked behauoure both of body and mynde, & so appointe themselues in euery condicion, as though the tyme were come, ỳ euen now they should depart out of thys worlde, and render an accomptes of their life here spent. They may not go vnto the warres, as Tyrants whose hartes imagyne myschyefe, whose mouthes breath manslaughter, whose wordes boste Lyonlyke crudelite, whose handes desire to be embrued wyth bloude, whose feete are swyfte to runne vnto euyll,

How ỳ soudiors ought to prepare themselues vnto battel.

whose

whose dedes bryng to passe final destruction, but as charitable persons whiche (if the loue of their countrye did not prouoke them vnto it, for whose wealth euen by the commaundement of God and the law of nature they are bounde to geue their lyues) would by no meanes breake the bondes of Chrysten amite with no man, but rather suffer muche iniury, than they would be once at displeasure wyth any man. But in as much as they are fyrst prouoked yea and that vnworthely, seyng also it is no priuate iniury, but a comunon wrong to inuade any Realme, and to disturbe the inhabitauntes thereof, therefore they come nowe in the name of God vnto battel, not for their owen cause, but for the conseruacion of the publique weale, that they enioying peace and tranquilite for euer after, may the more freely prayse God, and lyue accordynge to his most holy worde. Moreouer all the tyme of the warres it shalbe necessary, that they kepe themselues so pure as they can, & by no meanes haue any felowshyp with the vnfruteful workes of darkenes, but apply themselues vnto the frutes of the spirite that they may remayne in the fauoure of God, and haue hym their mighty captayne.

Clennes of lyfe.

Readyng of the holy Scriptures.

Let them that can reade whan they haue conuenient leasure, reade the holy Scriptures, chefely such historyes as declare the omnipotency and almighty power of God, which he hath shewed to hys seruauntes in tymes past by geuing them the victory ouer their enemies, and let them conceaue a sure fayth in their hartes therof, and nothyng doubte, but that he wyl be ỳ same puissaunt Lord to them, if they walke accordyng to his word, that he in times past was to the other. For he is yet a Lord of ỳ same puissaunce and strength. Let them that cannot reade, harken to them ỳ do reade, and geue vndoubted and earnest fayth therevnto. It woulde helpe muche vnto true godlynes for to haue faythfull preachers also amonge the souldioures in the tyme of warres, whiche myght declare vnto thē the feare of God, exhort thē vnto vertue, move them vnto the true confydence in gods helpe, encourage thē manfully to fyght, when tyme requireth, and shewe thē how honest and godly a thyng it is to ieoparde their life for the welth of their country, which of all deathes the very Ethnyckes recounted most glorious, & of hyghest renowne. It is also very necessary, ỳ the souldiour geue themselues wholy to feruent prayer, and desier the helpe of God with most humble supplicacions, ỳ he wil be their mighty shielde and defence, but chefely when the tyme cōmeth, that they must enter battell with their enemies. Let them than with one minde cal vpon God, desyre hys helpe, and praye that for hys mercyes sake he wyl strengthen them, yea fyghte for them, be their captayne, and geue them the victory of their aduersaryes, that they returnyng home agayne lyke valeaunt conquerours, maye geue perpetuall prayses to hys moste blessed and holy name. Thys done, let them go fyghte valeauntely, hauyng theyr whole affiaunte reposed in God alone, and in his mightye helpe. Yet let them so fyghte, as though the victory dyd onely depende of their owne strengthes wittes and policies

Preachers among the Souldiours

Feruente prayer.

&

leeyes. Let them not dispayre, but take a good hart vnto them, beeyng perfectely perswaded that God is on theyr syde, and wyll surely helpe them. But if they should dye, seyng that theyr cause is lawfull, iust and ryghteous, seyng also they fyght not for their owne priuate commodite, but for the wealth of an whole Realme, let thē not doubte, but that their death is precious in the syght of God, & therfore they may be sure for thys mortall lyfe to receaue a lyfe of immortalitie full of eternall ioy and glory. Therfore let them not once feare, but step vnto it with a lusty and valeaunt courage, come theyr lyfe, or come their death. Thus much haue I spoken concernyng the Souldiours and them that shall fyght for the safegarde of the country, that they may know how to behaue themselues that God maye be on their syde, and returne home agayne with a glorious and triumphāt victory. Nowe it remayneth to shewe howe they shall behaue themselues that remayneth and tary at home, least the valeaunce and godly behauoure of the Souldiours do not profyt so muche, as oure wycked and dissolute maner of liuinge should hynder and hurte. For howe can God be in our armye & fyghte for vs, if we be wycked and vngodly? If we therfore will haue prosperous successe in our warres, we must fyrst so lay asyde all vngodlinesse, that there may appeare nothing in vs, wherby God may be displeased. For God wil only fight for them, that are pure, cleane, faythfull, charytable, modest, merciful, benigne, honest, louers of their cōtrey, haters of discorde, sekers of peace, mainteners of amite. &c. The other he refuseth, and knowledgeth them not for hys people, neyther will he fyghte for them. We must therfore repent vs of our olde wicked maners, take vpon vs a new lyfe, if we wyl haue God on our syde in the battell. Let euery man consider his faulte, wherin he knoweth himselfe giltie, and quickely put it away from hym. Let no man be quicke sighted in other mens faultes, and stonne blynde in his own. Let al men seke how they may best please God.

Psal. lxv.

How they ought to behaue themselues that tary at home.

For whom god fighteth

For the strongest Bulwarke and most inuincible fortresse that can be made for the safegard of the cōtrey, is to lyue wel. If any domage chaunceth to the countrey, oure wyckednes is cause therof. And as I may speake my mynd frely, certes it doeth muche greue me, to beholde the iniquite of the world, and to see howe vertue is set asyde, I had almost sayed, set at nought. What shal I speake of the familiare communication and dayly talke, that is vsed among the Chrystyans: what other thyng do we heare in them than cursynges, bannynges, backebytynges, blasphemies, euell reportes, wantō wordes, ydle tales, vnclene communication. &c. Of their thoughtes God shal iudge, but theyr dedes are so manifest, that euery man may easly iudge the tre by the fruit and the Lyon by hys pawes. Howe lytle do many ciuile magystrates regarde the publique affayres of the comminalte, so that theyr purses maye bee enryched, and they lyue in all wealth and pleasure? howe lytle doe many lawers tender the pytyfull complaint and righteous

Familiare cōmunicatiō

Ciuile magistrates.

Lawers.

teous cause of the poore oppressed? How like gaping wolues doe many of them inhiate and gape after wycked mammon, so ỹ whosoeuer bringeth most mony, is most allowed, and hath the law most on hys syde, in what soeuer case the matter standeth, be it righte or wronge? How long also do they suffer the cause committed vnto them to hange in the lawe, before any iugdement can be geuen, or fynall determination had and all to poll and pill the poore men, and vtterly to empouerysshe the, so that through their deceatful crafte and couetous mynde, the symple people are beggered, their wiues and children brought vnto extreme misery, and set in such case, that they are neuer after able to helpe themselues nor their neighboures, nor yet to profit ỹ publique weale of their country. O gapyng wolfes. O rampyng Lyons. O insaciable dogges

Marchantes

O craftye foxes. What crafte, deceate, subtilite, and falshode vse marchauntes in bying and sellyng? How reioyse they, whan they haue begyled their Christen brother? What a sport haue they, to deceaue a symple hob and playne felowe of the countrey? How fayre do they speake to hys face, and loute hym behynde hys backe? How false and sleyghye wares do they vtter for true and good? The other men of all occupa-

Men of occupacion.

ons vse lyke crafte and subtilite. Fewe walke vpryghtly. All geue their mynde to couetousnesse. No man studieth to serue the publique weale wyth their science, as they are bounde to do. All seke their owne profit and not that whiche is Jesus Chrystes. Where is the Chrysten charite become, which seketh not her owne? Let no man seke hys owne, sayth S. Paule, but the profyt of other.

Philip. ii.

1. Cor. xiii.

Gentel men

How do many Gentell men not onely get into their handes other mens landes and tenementes, that they may lyue like Lordes alone in a towne, and yet keping slender houses and hongry hospitalite, but also after suche sort let out theyr landes to other, yea and that for so high a pryce, as they were neuer wont to be in tymes past, insomuche that they which hyre them, are vtterly beggered and redacte to extreme pouerte? By thys meanes is the galante pompe and lasciuious pleasures of Gentyll men mayntened, but the poore fermers are greatly empouerysshed, hospitalite is decayed, releuyng of the poore people is vtterly layed aside, the common wealth is miserably oppressed, penury, scarcenes and dearth of all thinges is brought into the Realme. Fewe are able to helpe theyr Prynce, whan nede requireth. No man is able to bryng forth hys chylde vnto learnyng, whereby it is come to passe, that fatte blynde ignorancy, and rude Chaos of barbarous and rusticall manners reygne now in the world vniuersally. These thynges desyre a reformation. God graunt it may come to passe shortely. What shall I speake of ouretayne rytche and gredy cormorauntes, those locustes and caterpyllers of the common weale, which, whan they haue plenty of grayne and aboundaunce therof reigne among ỹ people, are greately greued therat, and do not only not sel their own corne to mayntayne the commodite of ỹ poore but also bie other mens grayne, & horde it vp, vntil they haue made a great dearth, and than, ſcarſenes of corne beyng in euery place, bying they forth theyr grayne & ſel it vnto the vttet empouerſhment & extreme vndoynge of the poore comminalte. O cruell murtheres and vn merciſull bloudſoupers. The wyſe man ſayth, the bread of the nedy is the lyfe of the poore, he that defraudeth hym of it is a manſleare. Sa- lomon alſo ſayth, who ſo hoordeth vp his corne, ſhall be curſed amō- ge the people, but bleſſynge ſhall lyghten vpon theyr heades, that ſel it. How can theſe deuouring caterpyllers than eſcape the vengeaunce of God, that hangeth ouer theyr heades, ſeynge they eſteme more theyr owne priuate lythly lucre thā the welth of ſo great a multitude? God mought once quenche theyr outrageous inſatiable thyrſt of couetouſ- nes, and gyue them grace to vſe his giftes vnto theyr profyt of the Chri- ſten people. As touchyng the common byers and ſellers and bargain makers, what falſe ſweryng, crafty iuglyng and deceatſull gyle do they vſe amonge them, that they maye begyle theyr chriſten brothers? How lytle is this commaundement of S. Paule obſerued amōg thē? Let no man go to farre and defraud his brother in bargainyng, for the Lorde is a benger of all ſuche thynges. Doth not he thynke hym ſel- ſe mooſt wyſe, that can mooſt deceaſe his neyghbour? Here is a won- derfull charite and harty neyghbourhoode.

Horders vp of grayne.

The cōmon byeres and ſellers.

i. Theſſ. iiii.

As I may come to the groſſer ſynnes what whoredom reygneth ther nowe a dayes? How lytle is honorable wedlocke eſtemed? How many wyncke, I wyll not ſay, laughe at the abhominable vncleanes, which not a fewe commytte at this tyme? Who careth though it be knowē, that he hath lyghen wythe an whore all nyght and ſo defyled hymſelfe, men haue ſo rubbed theyr forheades nowa dayes, and become paſt all ſhame, ſo lytle ponyſhment alſo is there appoynted for this fyl- thy abominacion? I would whoredome were not growne vp into ſuch boldnes, that it dare compare wyth holy matrimonye for pleaſaunt & eaſy lyuyng. I would ſtynckyng fornication were not ſo had in price, yt were preferred aboue honorable wedlocke. I would there were not, which, whā they haue wrought wickednes, glorye, reioyſe, and boaſte of it vnto the euell example of other. What ſhall I ſpeake of falſe wyt- nes bearers, which for a lytle mony or for hatred borne to warde ỳ par- tē, are redy ſtreyght wayes to gyue falſe euidence, yea & to beſwore alſo that it is true, whan nothynge is more falſe? So that by theyr vn- iuſt and falſe wytnes bearynge, the innocent is wrōgefully condēned, & the wycked hathe the vppermooſt hande. Thorowe ſuch is muche in nocēt bloud alſo oftentymes ſhed. O pitefull caſe. O lamētable chaūſe. Would God al falſe witnes bearers were handled accordyng to the cō- maundemēt of God, Deutronomy, the xix. Salomō ſayth, A falſe wit- nes ſhal not eſcaye vnponyſhed, and he that ſpeaketh lyes, ſhal peryſhe.

The wyckedhathe the vppermooſt hande.

Pro. ii.

False wytnes bearers.

Proner. xix.

I let paſſe manſlaughter, theſte, glotony, ſurfetyng, dronckeſhyp, dy- cyng, carding, quareling, with an whole ſee of euels mo, which as this daye reygne in the worlde. Do not all these thynges prouoke God to anger, and make hym displeased wyth vs? Howe can God be on our army, and make the warres to prosper, seynge that they for whom we batte I is, are wicked and replete wyth all sytine and abhominacion? this our iniquitie must be redressed, if we wyl haue God merciful vnto vs, & blysse our endeuours in martiall affaires.

Malorum mare.

Spirituall vices.

But as I may leaue of to speake of grosse and corporall vices, and turne my communicacion vnto spirituall matters, what shall I say vnto the Idolatry, superstition, false worshyppynge of God, trust in ceremonies, trust in poppish pardons, gaddyng on pylgrymage, gyldyng of ymages, settyng vp of candelles, &c, whiche reygne yet in many places of the worlde? what a sorte of ydle monstruous sectes are there yet norysshed in many Realmes vnder the pretexte of holynes, which do nothyng but lyke gredy cormorauntes deuour the poore labours of other mennes handes? Moreouer howe slacke almost vniuersally are the curates and spirituall sheppardes to do theyr office? Howe negligent are they to fede christes flocke wyth the sincere gods word? How lytle do they esteme the soules of theyr parysheners (for whose saluacion oure Lorde Jesus Christe disdayned not to shed hys blysfed body broke & his precious bloud shed), so that they may deuoure the fat of the shepe, and gorgiously be clad with theyr wolle? Howe many of them dayly hunte, hawke, fyshe, and what not, after spirituall promocions, and whan they haue them, neglecte theyr office, absent from theyr benefices, commit theyr cure to suche vnlearned ministres, as canne stasely iudge bet wene A and B? what a nombre also of them come vnto theyr benefices, non per ostiū sed aliūde, yt is to say, not by the doore Christ, nor for any mynde or loue yt they haue to the glory of God, and the saluacon of christen mennes soules, but for the desire of fylthy lucre, for an esay lyuyng, for to be called master Parsonne, Vicare, M. Curate, M. Chaplē, &c? Howe lytyl liberalite do they shewe to theyr parysheners? Howe longe is theyr hande in receauyng, & howe in gyuynge? Howe wicked & abhominable is theyr lyuing? Howe vnferuent & litle feruent are theyr prayers? How rare & seldome are theyr studies in the holy scriptures, wherin they are bounde to be occupyed both day and nyght? Are these fytte prestes to stonde betwene the people & god to pacifye his wrath? Are these fyt prestes to make intercession for the synnes of the people? Are these fyt prestes to whom the flocke of our Lorde Jesus Christe should be commyted? Our Lord be merciful vnto vs. Undoubtedly there is greate scarsenes of sheppardes, whan it is come to this poynte that wolues muste haue the cure and charge of the shepe. I feare moche that if this great absurdite be not redressed shortly, yt flocke of Christ shall be miserably spoyled, rēt, torne and deuoured. God sēde vs once suche sheppardes, as maye fede his flocke wyth godly doctrine and vertuous lyuynge. Agayne, to whom is it vnknowen, Idolatry.

Monstruous sectes.

Spirituall sheppardes.

Act. xx.

Ioan. x.

Psal. l.

what dissension reygneth among ꝑ Spiritualte & Temporalte, as they are called, now a dayes in many places? Seldome doth the one temporalte wel of ꝑ other. The laye man hateth the preste, the preste agayne hateth not in charite. The laye mā thynketh all ꝑ euer the preste hath, is to moche, seyng he taketh so lytle payne in settyng forth Gods word and in doynge hys duty. The preste agayn thynketh all to lytyll, though he maye dispende hondreds yearely, and do nought for it. Seyng this commaundemēt of GOD by his holy Apostle neuer be looked vpō is earnestly put in executiō? Qui nō laborat, non manducet. He ꝑ labou-reth not, aughte not for to eate. Certes vntyl ꝑ prestes be more seriously bent to loue God and his worde, to preache the Gospell of Christe, & to lyue accordyng to theyr office, they shall neuer be esteemed nor regarded among the people, but hated, contēned, and detested. Let the prestes re-member the sayenge of God the father by his Prophet, & take hede be-tymes: Seynge therfore thou haste refused knowlege, I wyl refuse ꝑ, so ꝑ thou shalt no more be my preest. Agayne by the Prophet Malachy, The lippes of a prest shal kepe knowledge, and at his mouth shal men require ꝑ lawe, for he is a messāger of the Lorde of hoostes. But as for you, O ye prestes, ye at gone clene out of the way, and haue caused ma-nyto be offended at the lawe. Ye haue broken the couenaunt of Leuy, sayth the Lord of hoostes. Therfore haue I made you to be despysed, & to be of no reputaciō among al the people, because ye haue not kept my wayes, but bene partiall in the law. Here may all men se why prestes are so lytle regarded at thys day, verely because they hate knowledge kepe not ꝑ wayes of our Lord God, nor endeuoure them selues to fede Christes flocke wyth gods moost blyssed worde. If they wyl therefore be had again in price & reuerēt estimaciō, as it is conuenyēt, let thē cast away theyr olde maners, shyne as the lyght of the worlde, sauour as salte of ꝑ earth, loue God and his word, preach Christes Gospel pure-ly, meditate in the law of the Lord both day and nyght, dissuade no mā from readyng the holy scriptures, exhorte all men vnto pure innocen-cy, and achysten state of lyuynge, & aboue all thynges be the very same vnto the people in dede, that they professe in worde. So shall they re-couer theyr olde dignite, and be had in hon our of all men. Yea so shall the lay men haue them in reuerence as true spirituall fathers, gyue thē double honoure, minister vnto them abundauns of all thynges, rece-ue them as an Aungel of God, yea as Christ Jesus himselfe, and be re-dy at all tymes euen to dygge out theyr eyes to do them pleasure, as Saynct Paule wryteth. Fur thermore nowe that the lyght of Gods word is come abroad among diuers nacions, how vnthanckefully is it receued? Howe many wynke and speare theyr eyes, because they wyll not se it? Howe many are obstinately blynde? What a nomber is there, that had rather walke styl in ꝑ darkenes of mens tradicions, thā in ꝑ glorious light of gods trueth? Yea I wolde there wer not, ꝑ perse-

Dissencion betwene the spiritualte & tempozalte.

ii. Thess. iii.

Oze. iiii.

Mala. iii.

Why prestes are so lytle regarded nowe a dayes.

Math. v.

Psal. i.

i. Tim. v.

Gala. v.

Despisers of Gods word.

Ioan.iii. ente this open berite of Gods woꝛd theyꝛ conſcience bearyng wyt that they do euell, and cõdemnyng them foꝛ ſo doyng. This is the demnacion, ſayth Chriſt, that lyght is come into the woꝛld, and haue loued darckenes rather than lyght. Foꝛ theyꝛ woꝛkes were Euery one that doth euell, hateth the lyght, nether cometh he lyght, becauſe his woꝛkes ſhoulde not be reꝛproued. But he that lieth the trueth, cometh vnto the lyght, that his woꝛkes may cepued, that they are done by God. Another ſoꝛte of people

Holdeꝛs backe from the trueth of gods woꝛde. whyche receaue Gods woꝛde at the fyꝛſte entraunce very ioyfully make muche of it, ſhewyng them ſelues ſo feruent, that they wyll to be ready foꝛ to gyue theyꝛ lyues foꝛ it. But full ſoone is they loue colde. Foꝛ whã they ſe that ẏ woꝛde of God fyghteth ſo manfully ly wyth theyꝛ wycked lyuynge, and condemneth theyꝛ ambicion couetouſnes, effeminate mãneꝛs, &c. thã are they weꝛy of it, caſte it awaye, being lothe ẏ any man ſhoulde meddle wythe do they contẽne the celeſtial Manna, & chooſe rather to be fed greaſy fleſhe pottes of Egipte. Than fall they agayn vnto blyndnes, ſo ẏ this cõmon ſaying may wel be verefyed of thẽ: The is turned to his vomet agayne, and the ſowe that was waſhed, to wallowyng in the myꝛe. Better had it bene foꝛ them not to haue Proner.xii. ii. Pet.ii. wen the waye of ryghteouſnes, thã after they haue knowe it, to from ẏ holy cõmaũdement gyuẽ to them. There be yet another ſoꝛte of Goſpellers. people, which deſyꝛe to be called goſpellers & earneſt fauoueꝛs of des woꝛde, pꝛomiſyng many thynges foꝛ the gloꝛye therof, and Titum.i. theyꝛ conuerſacion are they no leſſe wycked, than the other be feſſe that they knowe God, but wyth theyꝛ dedes they deny hym abhominable and diſobedient, and vnto all good woꝛkes diſcom Roma.ii. dable. Thoꝛowe theyꝛ iniquite the name of God is not gloꝛified, blaſphemed and euell ſpoken of amonge the Hethen. Suche Math.xxi. compared to that ſonne, whiche pꝛomyſed hys father, that he woꝛke in his vyneyeaꝛde, and yet dyd not. But what do I? If I go foꝛth to declare the abhominable wickednes that raygne in ẏ woꝛlde vniuerſally, I ſhoulde neuer make an ende, though I Pſal.xiii. an hondꝛed tonges and an hõdꝛed mouthes, as the Poet ſayth.
fallen out of the ryght way, they are all togither become vnpro ther is none ẏ doth good, no not one. Where ſuch a wycked home, though the Gouldiours be neuer ſo good and vertuous, can God fyght foꝛ thẽ? If God had pleaſure in wyckednes, if God Pſal.v. loue thẽ ẏ woꝛke iniquite, I wolde than thynche in dede, ẏ God be in oure armye, and fyght foꝛ vs. But ſeyng that he hateth all that woꝛke iniquitie, & deſtroyeth them that ſpeake lyes, & abhoꝛreth ſuche as be deceatfull and deſyꝛous of bloudſhedynge, we maye right well, that excepte we amende oure wycked maners, and vs of our ſynfull lyuyng, we ſhal neuer obtayne the victoꝛye

enemi

enemyes at the hand of God, without whose helpe what can preuayle? If we do, surely it is geuen vs for the greater plage and destruction, þ shall fall vpon vs hereafter, as many thynges are dyuersytymes geuen & graunted to the wycked for their greater damnation. Therefore if we will go the ryght way to worke, and haue our Soudiours to prosyere in the warres, let so many as tary at home repent them of their wicked liuing, be sory for their offenses bewayle their misery, and take a newe lyfe vpon them. Bryng forth frutes sayth the Baptist, worthy of repentaunce. For euery tree that bryngeth not forth good fruite, shal be cutte downe, and caste into the fyer. Let the ciuile Magistrates procure aboue all thynges the wealth of the poore cominalte. Let the lawers do all thynges vprygotly, and not the deuoure the poore oppressed. Let þ marchauntes seke to lyue truely by their occuppynge, and not to bee to great gayners. Let them knowe that a Chrysten man maye not onely serue hys owen, but also his neighbours necessite. Let the Gentill men be as fathers to the poore people, þ dwel in the cõtreye by them, & so let out their landes, þ men may be able to lyue therby, to mayntayn hospitalite, to set forth their children to learninge, and to helpe to beare the charges of the common weale whan tyme requireth. Let them that be ryche men, and haue plenty of coyne, not hoord it vp, but gladly sel it to other, that the nedy maye haue wherof to lyue. Let such as be common biers and sellers and bargayne makers deale iustlye wyth their Chrysten brothers, and by no meanes deceaue them. Let them that haue hytherto been adulterers or vncleane persons forsake their wycked liuing and learne to possesse euery man hys owen vessell in holynes and honor. Let them that haue been false wytnesses in tymes past, testify þ trueth euer after thys. Let them that haue vsed manslaughter, theft, glotony, fornycatyon, dronckelnes, dising, cardynge, quarelyng or any other vice, vtterly forsake it, and be come newe men. Let the Idolaters leaue their Idolatry, and learne to put theyr trust in þ liuing and true God alone. Let them that be spirituall ministers and Curates, take hede vnto themselues and to all the flocke, wherof the holy goost hath made them ouerseers to rule the congregacion of God, which he hath purchased wt hys bloud. Let them be diligent to preach gods worde to their parysheners euer settyng before their eyes thys commaundement of Chryst, pasce, pasce, pasce, fede, fede, fede. S. Paule also sayeth, preache the worde, be feruent, be it in season or out of season. Improue, rebuke, exhorte wyth all long sufferyng and doctryne. If they bee not able to preache themselues, let them get them coadiutors and felowe helpers, or els cannot they stande before God wyth honeste and cleare consciences. Woo be vnto me, sayeth S. Paule, if I preach not the Gospel. Agayn, Chryst sent not me only to baptise, þ is to say, to minister the sacramentes, but also to preach the gospel. Let them also leade a godly lyfe correspondent to their teachyng. Let them be glad distributors of their goodes to their Parish men.

How they ought to behaue themselues that tari at home Math. iii.

Magistrates Lawers. Marchãtes.

Gentil men

Ritch men.

Byers and sellers.

Adulterers. i. Thes. iiii.

False witnesses.

Wicked persons.

Idolaters.

Spirituall ministers.

Actes. xx. Iohn. xxi. ii. Tim. iiii.

i. Cor. ix. i. Cor. i.

The lay mē. poore patryshners. So shall it come to passe, that they shall be beter and welbeloued both of God and man. Lette the laye men by no meanes hate the prestes, nor the prestes the laye men, but beyng of one mynde, loue one another feruently. Let the lay man reuerence the preste as his father, let the preste agayne receaue and ioyfully take vnto hym the lay man, as hys sonne. By this means shall muche godly mutuall loue encrease of both parties. Let thē that haue hytherto spared theyr eyes at the lyght of Gods word, open theyr eies, cast awaye theyr blyndenesse, be glad to receaue the light of Christes moost blyssed gospell, beyng surelye persuaded, ỳ otherwyse they can not be the chyldrē of saluacion. Let them that in tymes past receaued Goddes worde, and dyd caste it awaye afterwarde, laye hande on it once agayn, as Peter dyd, and be so earnest followers of it, that they neuermore slyde awaye. Let all that wyll be counted Gospellers and seriouse mayntayners of Goddes trueth prouide, that theyr lyuynge maye aunswere to theyr lowe, and that they maye be the very same in worke and truethe, that they professe in worde & tonge. So shal they adde moche glorye to the Gospell of Christ, and cause it the more feruently to be embraced of all men.

Holyders backe from the truth of gods worde.

Gospellers.

Let euerimā amende one. If euery manne of euery degre, wyll on this wyse redresse hymselfe, his lyfe and conuersacion, and become a newe man bothe in worde and dede, howe can any tyraunt, be he Jewe, Turke, Saracem, or any other, ouercome vs? God is on oure syde, who can be agaynste vs? God fyghtethe for vs, who can than preuayle? The battell is Gods, how can it than be lost? Nowe after that we haue chaunged our olde maners and put on a newe lyfe, we must fall in hand with the other parte of the spirite, chefely prayer and callynge on the name of God. For through prayer we rede in the diuine Histories, that many haue preuayled agaynste theyr enemies, and gotten the victory. The wyse man sayth, the name of ỳ Lord is the most myghtye & strong Bulwarke vnto ỳ doth ỳ ryghteous mā flye & is holpen. Call vpō me, sayth God in ỳ daye of thy trouble, & I wyll delyuer ỳ & thou shalte honour me. The scripture also sayethe, who so euer calleth on the name of the Lorde, shalbe safe. Vnto this name of oure Lorde God let vs flye with continuall and feruent prayers. Let vs lamēt & bewayle our cause to his diuine maiesty. Lette vs desyre hym to be our captayne and valeaunt defender in oure warres. And ỳ we maye be the more frāckely encouraged to go vnto God for helpe, let vs set before our eyes ỳ histories of the holy scriptures, whiche shew how greatly ỳ true & christen prayer hath holpē ỳ people of god in times past, to get ỳ victory ouer theyr enemies.

Prō. xviii. Psal. xlix. Joel. ii. Act. ii. Roma. x.

Moses. Exo. xvii. Moses was assuredly bothe a very good and valeaunt captayne of Israelites, and procured nothynge more than ther helth and saluacion, yet notwithstandynge whan Ameleth came to fyght agaynste Israel, he wēt not forthe strayght wayes wyth them vnto battell, but toke hym Aharō and Hur, and went vp into the toppe of an hyll and there prayed prayed, appointing Josua to be captaine of the Israelites in his steade. He doubted not, but that he should do more good beeyng absente wyth his prayers, than he should do beyng present with the martial aryiours as it came to passe. For whan Josua and his company began to fyghte against Amelech, who fought best, I pray you? By whose valeaūce was the victory gotten? By the Souldiours that were present in the battell or rather by Moses, which was absent from it? Let vs heare what the Scripture saieth: Whan Moses lifted vp his handes, Israel did ouercome, but if he did let hys handes down neuer so litil, than had Amelech the better. Therfore whan Moses handes were wery, Aharon & Hur toke a stone and put it vnder hym, and he sat down theron. And Aharō and Hur steyed vp hys handes, the one on the one syde, the other on the other side. And it came to passe, that his handes were steady vntyll the sonne was downe, So that Josua chased away Amelech and his people with the edge of the sweard. Josua also that most victorious captayn through prayer did not only ouercome his enemies in the battell, but also caused the Sonne and Moone to abide and stand stil wythout any remouing for the space of an whole daye, vntil he was reuenged of hys enemies. Whan the Philistines came to fyghte against the Israelites the childzen of Israell were greatly afrayed of them in asmuche y they came to Samuell and saied, Ceale not to cry vnto the Lorde our God for vs, that he may saue vs out of the handes of the Philistines. Samuel toke a yonge lambe, and offered it altogether for a burnte offeryng vnto the Lord, and cried vnto the Lord for Israel. And the Lord heard him. And it came to passe, that whan Samuel offered the burnte offering vnto the Lorde, the Philistines began to fyghte agaynst Israell, but the Lorde thondered a great thonder that same day vpon the Philistines, and turmoyled them that they wer slayne of the childzen of Israel, & so brought vnder, y they came no more into the coastes of Israell.

Josua. Iosua. x.

Samuel.

i. Reg. vii.

Agayne by prayer kyng Asa ouercame Zarache the Morian wyth all hys army.

Asa.

By prayer also his sonne Josaphat valeauntly subdued the Moabites and Ammonites.

ii. para. xiiii. Iosaphat. ii. para. xx.

Item Ezechias that most holy Prynce through prayer ouercame y proude tyraunte Sennacherib with all his host.

Ezechias. iiii. Reg. xx.

Did not the moste vertuous woman Judith by prayer ouercome Holofernes and his army? By prayer Judas Machabeus gat the victory ouer his enemyes. But in two battels when he shoulde fyghte wyth Antiochus and prayed not, he fled away. And when he dyd fight with Bacchides and Alcimus, he was slaine because he dyd not praye as before. By prayer Jonathas, when all had forsaken hym, excepte a fewe, obtained the victory.

Iudi. xii. Iudas Machabeus. i. mac. iiii. xx. Ionathas. i. Macha. ii.

Of these fewe histories it is euident and manifest how greatly y true and Christen prayer, y procedeth from a faythfull & repentaunte harte, profyteth in the tyme of warres to obtayne the victory of our enemies vnto prayer therfore as vnto an holy anchore must so many as ca ry at home dyr incessaūtly, desyryng god for his sōne Jesus sake to haue pitie on vs, to strengthē our armye, to be our captayne, to fyght for vs, to dicōfyte our enemyes, & to gyue vs the victory. But these our prayers maye not be colde, laye, & only proceedyng from the lyppes, but feruent, earnest, & rysynge of the very effecte of the harte. For to mumble with our lyppes, to bleate with our thōges, to sore with our thotes, to shake our heades, to lyfte vp our hādes. &c. profyteth nothyng at all, sr. tepte the prayer cōmeth frō a faythfull & repentaunt harte, as we may perceaue by diuers places of ỳ scripture, & as I haue abundantly proued in my Pathwaye vnto prayer. This people honour me with their lyppes sayth Christ, but their hart is farre from me. Verely they worship me in vayne. Let vs looke wel vpon our owne waye, sayth the Prophet Hieremy, & remember our selues, and turne agayne vnto the Lorde. Let vs lyfte vp our hartes vnto oure hādes vnto ỳ Lord that is in heaue. Therfore let our prayers be feruent & harty, ỳ God may se, that there is amendment in vs, and that we thyrst the glory of his name, & the healthy of our countrey. And although it be necessary to pray at all tymes, yet at that tyme chefely let vs hartely call vnto God, whā oure Soudiours shal fyght. All ỳ tyme by no means let vs cease from prayer, but incessauntly crye vpon God, & neuer leaue vntyll he hath gyuen vs the victory, whiche thynge vndoubtedly he wyll do, if he perceaue that we call feruentely vnto hym. For the Lorde is full gentle & good sayth the Prophet, to them that seke hym.

Searche the Pathwaye vnto prayer. Esa. xxix. Math. xv. Lament. iii.

Watchwell.

Lament. iii.

Publique prayers.

But as cōcernyng ỳ publique prayers, it were expediēte, ỳ before any such thynges were done, there were sermons made to the congregatiō in the whiche they should be exhorted & admonyshed to repent, to beleue, & to take a newe lyfe vpon them lest they pray in vayne and God detest their supplications. For wt out repentaunce, fayth, and renouacion of lyfe, prayers bothe publique and pryuate are nothing acceptable in ỳ syght of god. To al such as pray so, God the father by Salomō speaketh on this māner? Seynge that I haue called & ye refused it, I haue stretched out my hand, and no man regarded it, but al my cōsels haue ye despised, & set my corrections at nought. Therfore shall I also laugh in youre destruccion, & mocke you, whan the thynge that ye feare cometh vpō you, euen whan ỳ thyng ỳ ye be afrayde of, falleth in sodeynly lyke a storme, & your misery lyke a tempest, yea whan trouble & heuines commeth vpon you, Than shall they caul vpon me, but I wyl not heare, they shal seake me earelye, but they shall not fynde me, And that because they hate kno weledge, & receaued not the fear of the Lord, but abhorred my councell, and despised my correccion. Also by the Prophet Esaye, whan ye shall stretche oute youre handes, I wyll turne awaye myne eyes from you, and whan ye shall be styll babblynge of your Sermons.

Prouer. i.

Esay. i.

ers, I will not heare you. Therfore when we entende to praye, let us bring with vs repentaunce, fayth, and amendement of lyfe, so may we be sure to be heard. The Sermon once done, let them fall earnestly vn to prayer, and desier God with one mynde to be mercyfull vnto the countrey, as I taught yu before.

After the prayers let every man quietly returne home euer beayng in his mynde the safegarde of his countrey with a continuall elevacio of his hart vnto God for the wealth of the same. And let thē so behaue themselues, that God may be pleased with thē. And as they haue promised God to become newe men so let them walke in a newe lyfe, eue-ry man doing his office accordyng to his vocacion and calling. For if af ter our prayers and the promyse of amendment of lyfe, we returne agai vnto our olde wickednes, what other thyng do we, than prouoke God vnto anger, mocke hym, and seke the very destruction of our countrey.
Let vs therfore be the very same in dede, y we haue promysed in wordes.
So shall it come to passe assuredly, that God shal be in our army, fighte for vs, strengthen our Souldiours, chase away our enemyes, and geue vs the victory, so that neyther Turke, Jewe, Saracen, nor any other Tyraunte shall may be able at any tyme to preuayle against vs. When we haue once gotten the victory ouer our enemyes, so that now y time requireth, that our Souldiours shall come home agayne, it must be pro uided that their returne be godly, meke, sober and thankfull vnto our Lord God for the victory which he hath geuen vs. And when they bee once come home, let the people gather together, and the preacher make a solemne sermon vnto them, declaryng how greatly we are bounde to God for hys triumphant victory that he hath geuen vs, and exhortyng them to be thankeful agayne to God for hys inestimable kindnes. The Sermon once done, let al the people both men, women, and children wt voyce voices sing hartye prayses to our lord God, confessing that by his omnipotent power alone, it is come to passe, that we haue gotten the victory, as that noble man Pytho returnyng from the warres sayd to the Athenians, when they marueled greatly at hys prosperous chaūce and praysed hym because he had slayne kyng Cotys: There is no thank wyth ye, to be geuen vnto me, but vnto God alone, who beyng the Au thor, thys acte is very nobly done. As for me, I dyd none other thyng but put my helpyng hande and diligence vnto it. God alone gaue the victory, to hym therfore be al the thanke, prayse, honoure and glory.

We reade also in diuerse places of the holye Scripture, that after GOD had geuen the victory to hys people ouer their enemyes, they brast out streyght wayes into prayses, and gaue God hartye thankes, as we reade of the chyldren of Israell at their delyueraunce oute of Egypte, whyche when they sawe their enemye kynge Pharao wyth all hys armye drowned in the sea, and themselues preserued, what good lyf songes, laudes and prayses, dyd they syng to their Lorde God?

After what sort the soul diers shall returne home after they haue gotten the victory.

A Sermon after the vic tory with thankes and prayses. Pytho.

Exod. xv.

Howe

Iudic. v.

Iudith, xvi.

How we shal behaue our selues, that we may enioy peace euer after.

Learned Curates.

Wyse and godly scole-masters.

Fathers and mother. Masters & Mastresses.

Purite of lyfe.

Iohn, xv.

How did Debora and Barath after the victorye ꝑayse God, because Sisara and his company were slayne and they grantly kept safe? When that Holofernes was slayne, and hys army put to flyght, what a goodly song did Judith syng to the Lord? How ioyfully came all the people together vnto Jerusalem for to gene ꝑayse and thankes vnto their Lord God, and to offer their burnte sacrifices and promysed offerynges? After the example of these deuout and holy persons ought we also, when we haue gotten the victory, to gene God thankes, and to offer the Sacrifice of ꝑayse vnto hym. So shal we shew our selues not vnworthy hys beneficence, yea so shal we prouoke God to continue a gentle and fauourable Lord vnto vs, when he shall perceyue that we be thankefull, and do not forget hys inestimable benefites, whyche he dayly sheweth vnto vs. Now remayneth the last part of this our worke which is to declare, after what sort we shal behaue our selues, when we haue gotten the victory of our enemies, that we maye enioy peace and tranquilite for euer after. We heard before ꝑ the cause, why God plageth vs either w warres, pestilence or honger, as Idolatry, false worshipping of God, the despising of Chystes gospel, wicked liuing, effeminate maners &c. Now if we wil be free from these plages, and lyue in rest and quiet, we must cease to commit such greuous sinnes agaynste God, and seke both to serue hym accordynge to hys worde, and also to leade a pure and innocente lyfe. By thys meanes shall God blesse our countrey wyth peace, encrease it with thabundance of all thynges, and make it to flowrishe aboue all other nations. That this thing maye the more aptely be brought to passe, it is conuenient that the ciuile magistrates and head rulers of euery countrey prouyde that there be learned curates, which may teach the people the true worde of God, ꝑ they may know how to worshyp hym accordyng to the holy Scriptures. It shall profit also not a litle vnto true godlynes to haue modest, learned, graue and godly Scholemasters in euery countrey, ꝑ maye bringe vp youth not onely in ꝑ knowledge of humayne letters and ciuile maners but also in the feare of the Lord, ꝑ they may learne euen from their cradels, as they say, to know God, to vnderstande hys worde, to honoure hym aryght, and to walke in his holy pathwayes. Thys thynge also ought all fathers and mothers, masters and mastresses do in their houses, ꝑ such as be vnder thē maye know and serue God aryght. By this meanes shall all Idolatrye and false worshyppyng of God shortly decay and vanish away, and the true seruise of God only remayne amōg vs. Now as concernyng purite of lyfe, this shal easly folow of the true knowledge of God. For he that is engraffed in God, is a mēber of God hath gods spirite in hym, which exciteth & moueth him vnto all goodnes, as Christe sayeth, I am the vine, and ye are the braunches. He that dwelleth in me, and I in hym, he bryngeth forth muche fruite. The fruites that we bryng forth must be for euery man to lyue accordyng to hys his vocacion and callynge. Let them that be temporall rulers procure peace in theyr Realmes aboue al thynges, vse their offyce iustlye, seeke not onely to be feared but also to be loued, shewe themselues merciful gydes and tender captaynes of the people, and so behaue themselues in al thynges, that they may be the very Image of God. By this meanes shall theyr kyngdomes well prosper and long continue. Let thē agayn that be subiectes shewe al reuerent submission to their heades and rulers, beyng alway obedient euen from the very hart without any eyther pryuy dissimulacion or open resistaunce. Temporall rulers. Subiectes

Let them that be bishoppes and other spirituall ministers lay alyde all tyranny, and hawtines of minde and walke with al gentle softnes and tender compassion towarde the shepe of Christ committed to their cure and charge. Let them be as most louing fathers to Chrystes flock, and if any of the shepe chaunse to runne astray and to go out of the way let them not therfore vngentilly entreate the shepe, but as it is ỹ offyce of a good shepehearde, by fayre meanes call it home agayne vnto the folde and loue it newe agayne. Let them remember the historye of the lost shepe, and consider how tenderly the head shepparde oure mayster Chryst fetched it home agayn euen vpon hys shoulders. The seruaunt of the Lord may not fight, sayeth S. Paule, but be peaceable and gētle towarde al men, ready to teache, sufferyng the euil worthy mekenes, enformyng them that resist, if that at any tyme God may geue them repētaunce to know the trueth. Let them that be paryshners and lay people reuerence the Bishops and other spirituall ministers, geuing them no lesse honor, than the childe geueth the father, remembryng that they be the aungels of God, the messengers of Chryst, the light of the world the salt of the earth, the dispēsatours of the misteries of God, the feders of their soules, the comfortoures of the weake, the Phisicions of ỹ sicke, the vpholders of the whole, the exhorters vnto vertue, the frayers away from vice. &c. which watch cōtinually for the healthy of their soules Let al other persons publique or priuate so lyue, that there be no dissencyon among thē, nor grudge one towarde an other, euer settyng before their eyes thys saying of the Psalmographe, seke after peace, and maintayne the same. Neyther shal it be vnfittinge to haue in memorye thys verse of the Poet. Bishops. Luke.xv. ii. Tim. ii. Lay people. Mala. ii. i. Cor. i. Matth. v. i. Cor. iiii. Iohn. xxi. Heb. xiii. Persons of euery degree. Psal. xxxiii.

Candida pax Homines, trux decet ira feras.

If any discorde chaunse to arise at any tyme among vs, lette it not long remayne, but let al meanes possible be sought, ỹ frendly concord & vnfayned amite may euermore reygne among vs. Let vs charytablye heare and monyshe one another. Let vs reporte well one of another. Let vs enterprete al thynges vnto the best. To conclude, let Chrysten charite so beare rule among vs, that we may be all of one mynde, euen as we be all one body, and haue one head, which is Chryst. Quidius. Lib. iii. de arte amandi. Godly admonicions.

If we wyll on this maner geue diligence, that we may bee at peace both with God and man, we may be sure not only to eschewe all the Col. i.

assaultes

assaultes of our enemyes, and to be free from those plages, wher with the disobedient be turmoyled through the mighty hande of God, but al sote enioy perpetual tranquilite, peate rest, quietnes, and to haue oure Realmes abounde with all kynde of commodities that pertayne vnto the prosperous conseruacion of a publique weale. And if it shuld chaun se at any tyme, y any forrē Prynce ether Christē or Hethen shuld be mo ued of some euell spirite to assayle oure contry, God wyll so watche the borders & costes of our Realmes that no Tyraunte shoulde preuayle, nor once be able to twytche agaynst vs: So mightie a Bulwarke and strong castell is the hande of God for them that worshyp hym accordig to hys worde, put their trust in him, cal vpō his most blessed name, and leade a pure and innocent lyfe.

The conclusion of thys boke.

Wherefore I exhorte al Christen men, chefely my countreye men of Englande (for whose wealth and prosperyte I haue compyled thys lytle treatise, beyng moued vnto it through the loue ỳ I beare toward my countrey) that they wyll from hence forth (al superstition laied aside) feare, loue, honour and worship God accordyng to his word and leade a lyfe so pure and innocent, that they may be knowē by their conuersacyon to pertayne to Chryst. So shal it assuredly come to passe, that God shall not onely geue vs in thys worlde a gloryous victory ouer al our enemies both corporal and spirituall, but also after this lyfe bryng vs vnto that celestial countreye where all ioye, peace, pleasure and felicite is. Amen.

¶ Geue the glory to God alone.

11 JU 62

Dauids Harpe ful of most delectable armony, newely stringed and set in tune by Thomas Becon.

Psalme. 97.

O prayse the Lord vpon the Harpe, and sing to the harpe with a Psalme of thankes geuing With Trompettes also and Shawmes, oh shew your selues ioyful before ỹ Lord ỹ kyng.

The principall contentes of this booke.

i. Of Fayth. Of the confession of fayth, and of good workes.
ii. Of the crosse, persecutiō and trouble for the truethes sake.
iii. Of the vanite, falsehode and vnrighteousnes of man.
iiii. Of the benefites & great gyftes of God.
v. Of bearyng the crosse, and callyng on the name of the Lorde.
vi. Of vowes to be payed, & what they are.
vii. Of the death of Sainctes, and how precious it is in the syght of God.
viii. Of the Churche of Christ, and the Synagoge of Antichrist.
ix. Of the free deliueraunce from the bondes of Satan through Christ.
x. Of the Maceme of prayse.

To the ryghte worshypfull

Sir George Broke, Lord Cobham, Thomas Becon wisheth long lyfe, continuall healthy and prosperous felicite.

The excellency of the Psalme, which hereafter shalbe expounded.

ALthough in the whole Psalmody of Dauid, there cannot bee founde one Psalme, which is not able to replenisshe the spirituall & true Christen man with such and so greate ioye, as is ineffable & cã by no meanes be expressed, yet in my iudgemente and opinion this Psalme, which I haue now from all the other selected to declare, being in nomber Cxix. after the common Latin translaciõ, far excelleth and chalẽgeth the preeminẽce, as I may so speake. For verely so oft as I rede it me thynke I am in a ioiful and delectable Paradise, where all kynde of pleasures do abounde, and so ofte as I tast of it, it semeth vnto me like a golde floud, which floweth forth with most goodly and pleasaunt streames, to conclude thys Psalme, so oft as I heare the words of it, beteth & replenisheth mine eares with such swete and delectable armony, as none may iustely be compared vnto it so that nether. Mercurius, Apollo, nor his sonne Orpheus, nor yet any other, whom the auncient Poetes do so greatly commende & exalte with incomparable encomies and prayses in their most eloquent lucubracions and ornate monumentes, are able to compare with this our Minstrel Dauid, beyng not onely an excellent Musicion, but also a puissaunt kyng and a diuine Prophet, although they shame not to wryte that with their musicall instrumentes they were able (their melody beeyng of so great efficacy, vertue, strength, might and power) to make the great Okes to shake their toppes, to cause whole flockes of shepe, goates, oren. &c. to folow the daunsyng pleasauntly, to moue mountaynes, to make the swifte streames of the runnyng flouds to stande stil, yea, and to fetch out soules euen out of hell. For all these thinges doeth this our minstrel Dauid also much more truly than they fain of their olde Musicions. What other thyng, I pray you, dreamed they by the shaking of the great and hard Okes toppes, but onely to shew, that the word of God is of so great strength, that the Princes and rulers, yea euen the mightie Tirãts of the world can none otherwyse then shake, tremble, bow and do reuerence vnto it, and graunte that it is the almightye word of truth, life, health and saluacion, wherto they must nedes obey and submit themselues, seeing that againste it they can neuer preuayle nether by act, councel, wisedome, assembly, synode, congregacion, or any other humayne policy, as Salomon testifieth, there is no wisedome, there is no forcast, there is no counsaile, that can preuayle against the Lord, or els that whatsoeuer they go in hande withal, shal come to nought and shall not prospere, yea that they themselues also shalbe destroyed, as Christ sayeth: Who so falleth on thys stone, shalbe broken on peces, and loke vpon whom it falleth, it shall grynde him to pouder. Agayn, what ment they by the folowing and daunsyng of the shepe, gotes, ores. &c. but only to declare, that at the preaching of gods word all people reioyse and are merye, as we maye see in the most blessed virgin Mary, which replete with the great ioy of this word, song on this maner: My soule magnifieth the Lord, and my spirit hath reioysed in God my sauiour. &c. Elizabeth also Dauid excelleth all musicions.

The fantasies of the old Poetes concernyng their musicions.

What the shaking of the Okes toppes signifye.

Prou. xxi.
Esay. viii.

Math. xxi.

What the dauncyng of the beestes signifie.

Luke. i.

BRITISH MUSEUM

so wife to the most vertuous preest zacharias and mother to the holy mā. S. Iohn Baptist, said vnto Mary her Cosin, whan she came and had saluted her: Beholde when I heard the voice of thy salutation, the babe did skip in my wombe for ioy. The Angels also said to the Shepards: Behold I shew to you great ioy. For there is borne to you this day a Sauior, which is Christ the Lord in the Citie of Dauid. What can make vs soner to be merry, to daunce, to skip and to leape for ioye, than to heare that by Christ the alone Sauior of the world we are deliuered from our spirituall enemy Pharao the diuel, and that by hym we are made safe from synne death, hel, desperacion. &c. to whom through the sin of our father Adam, we al are made seruile, captiue bond and thraull, and that we are nowe replenished with life, ioy, pleasure, felicite, wealth, reste, peace, tranquilite quietnes of conscience, and al kynde of gladnes. Moreouer what is signified by ỳ mouing of mountaines but the conuersion of men of power from infidelite vnto fayth, from ydolatry vnto the true worshipping of God, from superstition vnto godly religion, from the dedes of the flesshe vnto the fruites of the spirit, from affiaūce reposed in their owne carnal and politike workes, vnto the trust in the true & liuing God. Furthermore what other thing did they figure and shadow by the standing stil of ỳ swift flouds but only the great admiracion, merueling, stupoure and wondering of the Gentiles, whan they heard a newe kind of religion taught them, as we may see in the Actes of the Apostles? To be short, as touching the fetching of soules out of hell, what other thyng ment they, then that by the preaching of Christes Gospell, the very dead in sin shal reuiue and be made aliue agayne, as Dauid sayth, the lawe of the Lord is pure, it turneth soules. The witnes of the Lord is faithful, & geueth wisedome vnto babes. The statutes of the Lord are right and reioyse the harte, ỳ commaundemēt of the Lord is pure and geueth light to the eies. Christ also saith I am the resurrection and lyfe, he ỳ beleueth in me, although he be dead, yet shall he liue, and euery one ỳ liueth & beleueth in me, shal neuer die. Is not the gospell of Christ called the word of lyfe in diuers places of the holy Scripture, because it quickeneth and geueth lyfe to them, that before wer dead and lay buryed in ỳ stinking donghill of sin? Thus se we, that whatsoeuer the old Poetes haue written in times past concerning ỳ excellency of the musike of their Minstrels, it is altogether nothing els than a very type, figure, cloud and shadow of thys our Minstrel Dauid, which doeth the very same thing in dede, which they fayned in words. So that al the glory and prayse of true Musike ought of ryght only to redowne vnto our most excellent Musicion Dauid. And although he sheweth hymselfe a very perfect Musicion and connyng Minstrell in al his other songes and Psalmes, yet me thinke in this our Psalme he far excelleth and almost ouercommeth himselfe, his harpe soundeth so pleasauntly and hys song is so ful of most sweete and delectable armony. Neither doeth he entreate of vayne, childish, light and trifling things but of serious, graue, earnest and weightie matters. For he singeth of faith, of the confession of his fayth, of good workes, of the crosse, trouble and affliction, of the vanite and noughtines of man, of the benefites of God, of the inuocacion and calling on the name of the Lord, of the vowes to be performed vnto the Lord before his people, of the death of Saincts, and how precious it is in the sighte of God, of the fre deliueraunce from Satan, syn, death, hel, desperacyon. &c. through Christ, of the Sacrifice of prayse, and, as I may at the last make an ende, of the right institucion of a Christen mans lyfe in thys world. What song may be compared vnto thys our song? What Harpe maketh so goodly & pleasaunt melody, as this Harpe of Dauid doth? Let al minstrels geue place to this our Minstrell. Let al Harpes & other musical instrumentes be silent and hold their peace, whan Dauids harpe entreth and commeth in place. Let al songes be banished, whan Dauids Psalmes be song. For whatsoeuer Dauid singeth, it is excellent and incomparable. He with his songes exciteth, prouoketh and enflameth the mynds of the faythfull and diligent hearers vnto the loue and desyre not of transitory but of heauenly thynges. He comforteth the comfortles. He exhorteth the synner vnto amendement of lyfe.

Luke.ii.

A Christen mans ioye, & what it is.

Oze.xiii. i.Cor.xv. Heb.ii. i.Iohn.v.

What the mouing of the mountaynes signifye.

What the standing stil of the swifte flouds signifye.

What the fetching of soules out of hell meane.

Psal.xviii. Iohn.xi. Phi.ii.

Note how many godly and goodly thynges are entreated of in this. Psal.

Beholde what Dauell doth.

lyfteth vp the delperate vnto the hope of gods mercy. He corroborateth and ma keth strong the weake. He healeth the diseased. He rayseth vp the dead vnto life.
He maketh the sad merry. He exhilarateth and reioyseth the mercely disposed. To conclude, he is a Pynstrel fit for al kind of persons, so that they be bent vnto god lynes. Ah would God that al Pinstrels in the worlde, yea & al sort of persons both old and yong, would once leaue their lasciuious, wanton and vncleane balades, & syng such godly and vertuous songes, as Dauid teacheth the, whereby they might be allured and called away from syn and exited and stirred vp vnto vertue and goodnes. For it is not vncomly for Christen men to syng Christen songes, yea & that in al places, so that it be done reuerently, and without any iesting, scoffinge railing, or reproch of other persons. Moreouer who can deny that there is muche and great vertue in Dauids Harpe, seyng that the sounde thereof dyd chase and driue away the vncleane and wicked spirite out of king Saul, wherwith at other tymes he was miserably afflicted and troubled? Agayne must not Dauids songes be of great excellency, seyng that the sonne of God came down from the glorious throne of hys heauenly father to accomplishe and fulfyll them? Doth not Paul also say, be ye fylled with the spirit, speakyng among your selues in Psalmes, Him nes, and spirituall songes, singing and making melody in your hartes to ỹ Lord euer geuing thankes for al thinges in the name of our Lord Iesu Christe? Ceres the Psalmody of Dauid may wel be called the Treasure house of the holy Scripture. For it conteyneth whatsoeuer is necessarye for a Christen man to knowe.
There is nothyng in the law, nothing in the Prophetes, nothyng in the preching of Christ and of his Apostles, that thys noble Pinstrel, kyng and Prophete hath not decantate and syng with most goodly and manifest wordes. He syngeth all the workes and wonderous miracles of God from the begynnyng of the worlde, vntyl the redemcion of mankynd by Christ. He syngeth Christes incarnation, preaching working of miracles, passion, death, resurrection ascencion, glory, the blessyng of al nacions, the conuersion of the Gentiles with all other misteryes that pertayne to our health. He syngeth the iudgement and merry of God. He syngeth the punicion of vice and auauncement of vertue. He syngeth the vanite and vnsta-blenesse of mens strengthes without the helpe of God. To be shorte, he syngeth what soeuer is expedient for a Christen mans knowledge. So that euen this one booke alone of Dauids songes had been sufficient truely to instructe a man in the rightwesnes of God but that the goodnes of God would, that our fragilite, wea-nes and ignorancye shoulde be holpen with mo Scriptures. O the wonderful and meruelous strength of Dauids Harpe. O the great and exceadyng vertue of Da-uids songes. Happy is that man that delighteth and hath a pleasure in them for he shal neuer be vexed with an euil spirit. He shal alway abhorre vice and embrase vertue. He shal neuer be sad, but euer reioice with a godly and spiritual mirth.
Would God ỹ al mē of honor wold norish such Pynstrels in their houses, as Da-uid is, and ỹ myght syng vnto thē bothe at dyner & supper, yea & at al other times these most swete & delectable songes of Dauid so shold both they and al their fami ly be disposed to lyue more vertuously, thā many be now a daies, and be prouoked to leaue their pompeous, galant, wicked, venereal, fleshly, beastlyke and vncleane maner of liuing. Would god also ỹ al fathers and mothers, al masters & maistres wold bryng vp their childrē & seruātes in the singing of these most Godly songes.
Again, wold god ỹ al Scholemasters & teachers of youth, wold in stede of Virgile, Ouide, Horas, Catullus, Tibullus, Propertius, &c. teach these verses of Dauid. For so shold they not only obtain eloquēce, but also diuine erudicion, godly knowlege, spiritual wisedō, & encrese in al kind of vertue, vnto the great glory of God, ỹ sal-uacio of their own soules, ỹ right institucio of their own life, ỹ great ioye of their parentes, the good report of their teachers, and to the hie commodite of ỹ Christen publyque weale. God graunte that it maye once thus come to passe. But I will returne vnto oure Psalme, whiche I haue entituled in the forhead of my booke, Dauids Harpe. Some man wyll meruayle peraduenture why I call thys Psalme Dauids Harpe, rather than any other. The reason is thys. There are

The greate vertue of Dauids Harpe.

1. Reg. xvi.

The excellēcy of Dauids songes.

Luke. xxiiii.

Ephe. v.

The Psalmody of Dauid is the treasure house of the holy Scriptures.

A good lesson for all mē of honours.

Behold and followe.

contained in this Psalme, besides other, x. special things, most worthy to be entre ted of. The first is faith. The second confession of faith, whereby are understande al good workes. The iii. persecution. The. iiii. the battle of man. The. v. the bene fites of God. The. vi. bearing of the Crosse, the invocation & calling on the name of the Lord. The. vii. dewes to be performed vnto the Lord before al hys people.
The. viii. the death of saints, and how precious it is in the sight of God. The. ix.
fre deliveraunce from the bonds of Satan through Christ. The. x. the sacrifice of prayse. These ten are equal in nomber with the strynges of Dauids Harpe, whiche also were x. as it appeareth by his own wordes where he sayeth, prayse the Lorde with Harpe, and with a Psaltry of x. stringes sing ye vnto hym. Again, O God
I will sing to thee a new song, yea with a psaltry of x. stringes will I make melody to thee. What kind of musical instrument this psaltry was, which the Grekes cal Nablon of the Hebrew word Nebal, it is vncertain to the wryters. But & it was an instrument of x. stringes, much like vnto an Harpe, it is enidēt ynough. Wher of it came to passe that it is now cōmonly called Dauids Harpe. But for as muche as it is no matter of weighty importaunce, and only signifieth the true & spiritu al gladnes of the mind, wher with a Christen mā is replenished of the spirit, I will omit and let it passe, and after the common vsage call it Dauids Harpe, yea and so entitle this our Psalme, desyring al men diligently to marke not the name of Da uids Harpe, but the swete sounde and delectable melody that it maketh yea and the godly and comfortable song, that he syngeth vnto it. So shal they acquire and get to themselues much spiritual ioy, great knowledge, godly wisedome, and bee very much edified in the doctrine of Christes religion. Nowe for as much as I am not only credibly enformed of other, but also perfectly perswaded that your right honorable Lordeship delighteth in nothing so greatly as in the holye Scripture, which is the word of lyfe, the light of the world, the onely treasure of Christiante nes is aboundantlye able to saue the soules of so many as heare it, beleue it, and worke therafter: I thought it not vnsytting, nor vnworthy your honour to dedi cate this my laboure to your name trusting that by this meanes many other shal be allured to the hearyng of Dauids armony, and be so enflamed with the feruent love and perpetual desyre thereof, that they shal wishe like paynes to be taken in the declaracion of the other Psalmes, that they myght be rad with the more fruit.
And would God that this my laboure might excite stire vp and moue other that far excel me in al kind of diuine knowledge, and that can handle the Scryptures more learnedly than I, to trauayle in the buslines of gods worde, & so to set forth the sincere intellection and the right vnderstandyng therof, that the vayle might be taken away from the eyes of all men, and the true light shine vniuersally with out any impediment or let. There is much harueste, but fewe workemen. Wher fore let vs pray vnto the Lord of the harueste, to sende out labourers into his vnkye. But me thynke, I see your Lordshyp very desirous to heare some of Da uids melody. I make an ende desyring you most intierly, fauourably to accept this my litle gift, if not for my sake, yet for the loue ye ye haue euer borne vnto Dauid, beyng not only an excellent Musicion & cunning Minstrel, but also a puissaunt king and diuine Prophet. God, whose holy word you most feruently loue, and most earnestly practise in your dai ly conuersation, mought vouchsauf to preserue your right honorable Lordship and that vertuous Lady youre wyfe, with all your most swete chyldren and fa milye in perpetual health and pros perouse felicite.
Amen.

Why this Psalme is cal led Dauids Harpe.

Psal. xxxiii. Psal. cxliii.

Philip. ii. Iohn. viii. Psal. xviii. Iacob. i.

Set hand to it, O ye that be learned.

i. Cor. iiii. Math. ix. Luke. x.

Da. iiii.

¶ Dauids Harpe,

The hundred and fiftene Psalme, called in Latin, Credidi propter, with a fruitefull exposition and godly declaracion of the same.

¶ The first verse.

I beleued, and therfore haue I spoken, but I was very sore troubled.

This first verse containeth three stringes of Dauids Harpe, which are these, fayth, confession of the fayth, wherby are vnderstande al good workes, and persecution. These three therfore will I touche, thyough the helpe of gods spirit, set in tune by right order.

¶ The first string.

Faith is the first string of Dauids Harpe, and the foundacion of the Christen religion. Rom. xiiii.

Heb. xi.

I Beleued. Our first yea and base stryng is fayth, and that not without an vgēt cause. For here se we, that as the base part is the grounde of the whole song, so is fayth the foundacion of al the Christen religion. And as without the base, the song is imperfect, & nothing worth, so the wyse without fayth all the workes that we do, ar vnpossible, glister they neuer so pleasauntly before the eies of carnall men, and what soeuer we singe after that sort, is cleane out of tune, as S. Paule sayeth, what soeuer is not grouded on fayth, is playne sinne. Therefore sayeth he in another place, it is not possible to please God without faith. For he that commeth vnto God, must beleue that God is, and that he is a rewarder to them that seeke hym.

Thre thigs to be noted.

In these aforesayd textes of S. Paule thre things ar to be noted. One is ỳ he saieth, al ỳ is not grounded on fayth, is sin. Wherof we learne, ỳ fayth is the foundaciō of al goodnes, ỳ mother and nourse of all good workes. Another is, ỳ without fayth it is not possible to please god. The third ỳ who soeuer cōmeth vnto God, must beleue ỳ God is, and ỳ he is a rewarder to thē that seke him. These thinges shew manifestly how cō ning & excellent Musicion our Mynstrel Dauid is, which fyrst setteth his base stryng in tune, before he medleth with any of ỳ other. He fol-

Antichrist turneth the rotes of trees vpwarde.

weth not the maner of Antechryst, which turneth the rotes of trees vpward, nether is he lyke to thē, which begin first to bilde in the top of the house, & afterward laieth ỳ foundaciō, or ỳ wold haue ỳ frutes good, be fore there be any goodnes in ỳ tre, but he doth al thyngs orderly. For he being enspired wt ỳ holy gost & doing al thyngs by ỳ instinct therof, begi neth orderly of fayth, seig ỳ what soeuer is not grouded on faith, is sin,

Rom. xiiii. Heb. xi.

seing also ỳ wout faith no mā cā please god, be he neuer so glistering an

Hypocrite

hypocrit before ẏ world, & put be on neuer so glorious a viser of godlyke holynes. Fayth must nedes be ẏ base stringe & foundacion of the Christē religion, seyng that infidelite & vnfaythfulnes is thē destruccion and vtter decay therof. For so long as fayth remayneth, so long doth the Christen religion continew & prosper well, but let fayth be exiled, and vnfaythfulnes once inuade the hartes of Christen men, then goeth all to hauoke, as we may se in ourefyrst parentes Adam and Eua, which so long as they beleued the word of God & walked therafter, prospered and liued right wel, but whan they once gaue ouer ẏ, & fel into incredulite, beleuyng the wordes of ẏ crafty serpent, rather then the gentle admonicions of so bounteous a Lord, they became subiect, bōd & thrall to all kynd of misery and wretchednes, so that through theyr vnfaythfulnes cōioyned wt lyke disobedience, not they them selues only fell into captiuite, but also all theyr posterite. Nowe to be made free from this thrauldom, and to recouer the libertie, which before we lost through disobedient vnfaythfulnes, ẏ next and most redy way is to beleue, as Dauid teacheth here, or els by no menes can we come vnto God, nor yet please hym. For he ẏ cōmeth to god sayth S. Paule, must beleue. So ẏ if we wyl come agayn to God, we must beleue. But what shal we beleue? certes not only ẏ god is which thyng the dyuels also do, but that he is a rewarder & beneficial father to thē that seke hym, as the Apostle teacheth. For although we wer dead through sinne, & walked after the fashon of this world, euē as mē altogyther vngodly and wholye estranged from all goodnes, yet hath God, which is ryche in mercy, for his great charite, wherwith he loued vs, quickened and made vs alyue agayn, yea and that through Christ, in whom he hath shewed the exceadyng abundance & ryches of hys grace, for whose sake also he is well pleased with man, so that he spared not his owne sonne, but gaue hym euen vnto the very death for our sake, that by that one oblacion of his most blyssed body, an omnisufficient and perpetuall sacrifice for euer to endure all alone sufficient, should be offred for them that are sanctified. These thynges to be true the holy scriptures shew euidently Therfore yf we wyll be of God, and come vnto hym, we must not only beleue that God is, but that al these thinges are true, and shal vndoubted ly chaunce vnto vs, as God hath promised. For the true and christē fayth cleaueth fast to the word of God only, & doubteth nothyng therof, as S. Paule sayth, fayth commeth by hearyng, and hearyng by the word of God. Now as we ware lost before by beleuyng Satanas deceatful promises: so the only way to be saued is to beleue the swete comfortable and infallible promises of God, which he hath made to vs so plētously in the most precious bloud of his derely beloued son our Lord and saviour Jesu Christ. For this fayth maketh vs of the chyldren of the dyuel, ẏ sonnes of God, as S. John testifieth, So many as receaued hym, he gaue thē power to be made ẏ sonnes of God, in as much as they beleued on his name. Also S. Paule, ye are all ẏ sonnes of God, bycause

Parke wel.

Gene. iii.

Rom. v.

Rom. x.

Iacob. ii.
Matt. v.

Ephe. ii.

Matth. iii. xvii
Marc. i. xi.
ii. Pet. i.
Ioan. iii.
Rom. viii.
Heb. viii. x.
Psal. cxi.

Ioan. i.

Gala. iii.

ye haue beleued in Chriſt Jeſu. Now yf by fayth we be the ſonnes of God, thā are we alſo heyres. Yea verely we are the heyres of god, and fellow heyres with Chriſt. Agayn by fayth, are we maried vnto god, as god himſelf witneſſeth by his Prophet ſaying. I wyl mary the vnto me in fayth. By fayth alſo are we iuſtified and made ryghteous, as S. Paule ſaith, we beyng iuſtified by faith haue peace with god through our Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Thus ſe we what an excellent treſure this true and chriſten fayth is, and how we by that all good thynges chaunſe vnto vs, and without that, all that euer we do, muſt nedes come to nought, and worke to vs dannacion. But ſeyng that I haue ſpoken muche of fayth in all my workes almoſt, which I haue hytherto ſet forth, I wyll now make eaſe to ſpeake any more of it at this preſent, and go forth with the reſidue of Dauids Harpe, only addyng this one thyng, that the fayth, which the ſcripture ſo hyghly auaunceth, is no dead and vnfrute full fayth, but lyuyly and myghty in operacion, beyng alway bent and ſeakyng an occaſion to do good, and whan tyme commeth, is no leſs ready to bryng forth good workes, than a woman byg wt chyld is redy to bryng forth her chylde, whan her tyme of delyuerance is once come, as it ſo lowerth.

Romā. viii. Gala. iiii. Oze. ii. Roma. v.

Roma. xiiii. Searche the Chriſt mas Bancket in ỳ thyrd dyſh, the Pathewaye vnto Prayer in ỳ vi. Chap. and ỳ Noſegaye in the Seconde floure. &c.

The ſeconde ſtrynge.

And therfore haue I ſpoken.

Faith bryngeth forth good Workes.

WE heard before ỳ fayth is ỳ foundacō of the Chriſtē religion, ỳ mother & nource of al godly workes. Which thing to be true, our Mynſtrel proueth here. For after he hath made mencion of fayth, he ſyngeth alſo of Good workes. I beleued, ſayth he, and therfore haue I ſpoken. Here ſe we that the true and chriſten fayth worketh euer by charite, which extendeth both vnto god and our neyghbour. What was ỳ cauſe that Dauid did ſpeke? Verely his faith. I beleued, ſayth he, and therfore haue I ſpoke. Fayth goth before, and workes follow. For fyrſt he beleued al thinges to be true, which god promiſed hym in ỳ holy ſcriptures or otherwyſe, as by ỳ mouth of his holy Prophetes, and therof afterward enſewed a very earneſt and feruēt loue toward god, which made hym to loue god again, & to ſpeake thoſe thinges, whereby the glory of God was ſet forth, & the health of his neyghbour ſought, & ỳ by this meanes he ſhewed himſelfe perfectely faithfull both before god and man. And this is it, that S. Paule wryteth, Gala. v. Fayth is the cauſe of all goodnes, Roma. v. Marke wel. It is beleued with the hart vnto ryghteouſnes, but with the mouth is confeſſion made vnto helth. A chriſten man ſetting before the eyes of his mynd the immeſurable goodnes of God toward vs through his ſonne Chriſt, & applyng earneſt fayth therunto, can none otherwiſe but loue God again, & leaue all meanes poſſible to pleaſe him, to worke his wyl & to do that which he requireth of him. He is redy at al tymes to bryng forth good workes after the exāple of Dauid, as to ſpeke the miſteries of God, to ſet forth ỳ glory of God, to publyſh his moſt holy word, to bryng all men to the true knowledge of God and euen to engraffe them in the body of Chriſt.

of Christ. All these thinges worketh þ quicke & lyuyly fayth in him through the spirit of God. For fayth will not suffer him to be idle, but although through fayth he be deliuered out of captiuite, made þ sonne of god iustified alredy in the sight of God, before he bryngeth forth any outward good workes, yet doth thys true and christen fayth kyndle such a loue in his hart toward god & the fulfyllyng of his commaundementes, that he hath a perpetuall desyre in his mynde to worke that which is good, & whē occasiō is geuen, he falleth streyt wayes to worcking, not his owne fantasy, but þ wyll of God. So that now he doth not only beleue in God, and loue God in his herte, but also bryng forth those workes, which God hath appoynted hym, as Dauid sayth, I beleued, and therfore haue I spoke? As though he should say, for as muche as I am fully perswaded of þ bounte & goodnes of God toward me, & beleue that all thynges are true, and shall come to passe vndoubtedly accordyng to his promyse, I can none other wyse do but work, & speak those thyngs that pertayn vnto his glory, do what so euer shuld make vnto the magnifieng of his most blyssed name, and the edifieng of my neyghbour, though an hundred deathes were imminent & hangyng on my head for so doyng. Euery tree is known, sayth Christ, by his fruyt. For there is no good tree, that bryngeth forth euel fruyt, nether is ther any euell tree, that bryngeth forth good fruyt. A good man bryngeth forth good fruyt out of the good treasure of his hert, and an euell man out of the euell treasure of his hert bryng forth euell thynges. For of the abundance of the hart, the mouth speaketh.

Behold the nature of true & christen fayth.

Math.xii. Luke.vi.

We read in the Actes of the Apostles, that whē Peter & John were commaunded of the Bysshops & prestes, þ they should speak no more to any man, nor teache in the name of Jesus christ, they answerd boldly and sayd, whyther it be ryghteous in the syght of god to hear you rather than god, iudge ye. For we can none other wyse do but speke those thynges, that we haue sene or heard. Marke that they say, we can do none other wyse but speak. How chaūced it that Peter (as I may speke nothyng of John) was nowe bold to speake, and confesse the name of Christ without fear before the hed prestes & magistrates of þ Temple whiche not many monethes past, was not only afeard to confesse him before a pore mayde, but also forswore Christ, denyed hym vtterly and sayd playnly he neuer knewe the man? How cōmeth it to passe, that Peter is now become another mā? Before he had no commaundemēt of the Bysshops to speake no more of Christ, and yet he vtterly denyed hym, & now whan he is cōmaunded to hold his peace, he wyl not, but answereth boldly, we cā none other wyse do but speake those thinges, that we haue sene and heard. How cōmeth this to passe? Verely of the great efficacy, vertue, strēgth, and power of his fayth, which God had geuen hym by his holy spirit. His fayth was nowe so stedfast on God & his loue so feruent, that the grates of hell could not preuayl agaynst hym, nor dryue hym frō doyng those thynges, that should make vnto þ glory

Act.iiii.

Math.xxvi. Mar.xiiii. Luke.xxii. Ioan.xviii.

Act.iiii.

Math.xvi.

glory of god, and the health of his neyghbour as we may perceiue by ꝯ Hystory. For notwithstandyng the commaundemēt of the Bysshoppes, he went forth and preached in the name of Christ, & conuerted many vnto the christen fayth, & when the head prestes sayd vnto hym & vnto ꝯ other Apostles, dyd not we streightly commaund you, that ye should not teach in this name? And behold ye haue fylled Jerusalē ful of your Act. v. doctrine, & ye wyll bryng the bloud of this man vpon vs. Peter and the Gene. xxvi. other Apostels aunswered & sayd: We must obey God rather then mē.
Exo. xv. After ward also when they were whypped, & so sent away, receauyng
Deu. xi. xxx. a cōmaundemēt, that they should no more speake in ꝯ name of Jesus, Actum. v. they went away from the syght of the councel, reioycyng and beyng glad, that they were counted worthy to suffer rebuke for the name of Christ. And for al ꝯ cōmaundement of ꝯ Bysshops they ceased not dayly both in ꝯ temple & in euery house to teach and to shew Jesus Christ.

Note. Here se we both by our Minstrel Dauid, & ꝯ apostles of Christ, how myghty in power the true & christē fayth is & that it is neuer without ꝯ cōsent of doyng good workes, and whā occasiō is offered, it worketh in dede, yea and that those workes, which are commannded of God.

An admonicyon for Fayth. Let euery man nowe consither his own fayth, and take hede he be not deceaued. Many in these our dayes glory much of the name of fayth, and contēde maynly, that we are iustified only & frely by fayth, yea and that without workes. Let no man deceaue him self. Fayth, I confesse, is an excellent treasure, and the gyft of God, wythout the which no man can be saued, nor obtayn any part of Christs merites.
but yet for all that, if it be not accompanyed with a continual purpose Iacob. ii. of doinge good workes, yea and also bryng them forth, whan occasion is gyuen, surely it is but a vayn and dead fayth, as S. James wytnes teth yea to say the trueth, it is no fayth in dede, at the least no true, li-Galla. v. uisly and christen fayth, which is mighty in operacion and worketh by charite. Wese manifest fruytes follow the fayth of Dauid and the Apostles. Let vs also bryng forth good workes, and so may we be sure, that we haue in vs the true and christen fayth, which is so precious a Nulare. thyng in the syght of God. Art thou a magistrate and gouernour of ꝯ common weale? If thou wylt shewe thy self to haue true fayth in god, bryng forth good workes, and such as become thy office and callyng.
Exercyse iustice. Do no wrong. Be mercifull. Spoyl not the poore, mā.
Helpe the confortles. Punysh vice, mayntayn vertue. So shalt thou be assured to haue the true & christen fayth in the.

Bysshop or Priste. Arte thou a Bysshop or Priste? preach the word of God purely. Set forth the glory of God aboue all thynges. Seake the saluacion of Christes flock. Be an example to thy parishners of honest and godly conuer Father or Mother. sacion. Exhort vnto vertue. Fray away from vice. If ꝯ dost this, than Master or Maistres. nedest thou not doubt of thy fayth.

Art thou a father or mother master or maistres? Bryng than vp thy family in the nourtour of the Lord, & so art ꝯ truely faythfull.

Art

Art thou a maryed man? Loke thou cleaue only to thy wyfe, loue her as thyne owne flesh, & as christ loued the Congregacion. So shall thy fayth appear to be vnfayned. Art thou a maried woman? Be obedient to thyne owne husband, and seake aboue all thynges to please hym, and so shalt thou shew thy selfe to be truely faythfull.

Maryed man.

Maryed woman.

Art thou a subiecte or seruaunt? Obey than wyth a glad and humble hert thy superiours, rulers and masters. So shalt thou be found not vnfaythful. To be short in what so euer state God hath set the, lyue accordyng therunto, and in thy office and callyng seake euermore the glory of God, and the healthy of thy neyghbour. If thou dost this, than shalt thou shew thy selfe to be no vayn man, but faithfull and true in thy profession. But if thou dost the contrary, crake thou neuer so muche of thy fayth, yet doth it profyt thee nothing at all but rather encreseth thy damnacio, seyng ỳ art an Hipocrit & dissembleth before God and man. Certes if thou hast the true fayth in the, thou shalt be so enflamed wt the loue of God, and disposed vnto all goodnes that thou wylt not fear to say wt S. Paule, who shall separate vs from the loue of God? shal trouble do it? or anguysh? or persecucion? or hunger? or nakednes? or perrel? or sword? as it is wrytten, for thy sake are we kylled all the day long, yea we are counted as shepe appoynted to be slayn. Neuertheles in all these thynges we ouercome farre for his sake that loued vs. For I am sure, ỳ nether deth nor life, nether Angell, nor rule, nether power, nother thynges present, nether thinges to come, nether heighnor loweth, nor any other creature shal be able to separate vs frō the loue of God, which is in Christe Jesu our Lord. Agayn he sayth, I am not only redy to be bound, but also to dy for the name of the Lord Jesus. So mighty a thyng is faith, that it nether feareth manacing wordes, cruel threates, sharpe lokes, emprisoning, fetters, cheines, fagots, fyre, nor what so euer tyranny all the tyrauntes of the world can inuent, it maketh the parson, whose hert it occupieth, to be so enflamed and set on fyre wt the loue of God, and the desyre of doyng his wyll. Wylt thou heare me? If thou beleue aright in God and workest accordyng to thy fayth, confessyng Christ & his word boldely and vnfaynedly before the world, thou mayst be sure to fynd lytle fauour at the handes of carnal & worldly men, as thou shalt easly perceaue by that which followeth.

Subiecte or seruaunte.

A general admonicion for al estates.

Beholde what ỳ true fayth worketh in Christen man.

Roma. viii.

Psal. xliii.

Act. xxi.

persecutio followeth confession of Gods worde.

The thyrde stynge.

But I was very sore troubled.

After that our Mynstrel hath made mencion of fayth & of spekyng ỳ word of God (wherby are to be vnderstand all good workes ỳ procede and come forth out of fyath he now singeth of the Crosse, and sheweth that he was very sore troubled, greuosly thretened, vncharitably blasphemed, euell reported, maliciously persecuted, cruelly handled, and suffered al kyndes of tormentes for vttering & declaring the word of God. I beleued, sayth he and therfore haue I spokē, but I was very very sore troubled. Here se we ỹ as good workes follow fayth, so doth persecution follow the confession of Gods word. For this cause doth.

1. Cor. i. S. Paule call the gospell of Christ, the word of the Crosse, bycause it bryngeth persecution, trouble, blasphemes, slaunders, euell reportes, emprisonment, honger, thirst, cold, nakednes, pouerte, losse of frendes, yea and at the last very death oftentimes to so many as cleaue vnto it Note. valeauntly. Christes word and the Crosse are compagnions inseparable. As the shadow followeth the body, so doth the Crosse follow the word of Christ. And as fyre & heat can not be separated, so can not the Gospel of Christ & the crosse be plucked asunder. Let vs call to remembraunce so many as from the fyrst age of the world fauoured god and his word, & how many shal we fid ỹ escaped wout the crosse one way or other? As I may leaue of to speke of all the other old and auncient Patriarches, & at this tyme only take ryghteous Abell for an example, whiche of all men shewed ỹ first example of pure innocency and of a thankefull hert toward God for his benefites, was not he shortly Gene. iiii. slayn of his bloudy brother cruell Cain, yea and that only bycause his
i. Ioan. iii. owne workes were nought, and hys brothers good, as ỹ scripture testifieth? As fyre & water put togyther fight, stryue & are euer at debate, tyl one hath swallowed vp another, deuoured one another, ouercome
The good & the euell. can neuer agree. one another: so lykewyse so long as good & euell dwel togyther in this world, there shall be a perpetuall discension betwene them. The euell Note this well. wyll euer hate the good, & neuer be at rest tyl the innocent be had out of the way, not that the good doth any displeasures vnto the euyl, but Ioan. xiiii. that the euyll can not away with the good, no more thē the rauening wolfe can away with the pore harmeles shepe, or the hongry hauke w
the simple doue, as Christ sayth, The Prince of this world commeth, Exo. xvi. & yet hath he nothyng agaynst me. Howe lytell fauour also dyd Mo-
and. xvii. ses and Aaron fynd among the disobedient Jewes after they brought Math. v. them out of captiuite from the land of Egipte? were not they many ty-Luke. xiii. mes in daunger of theyr lyues for all theyr labour and payn that they iiii. Esd. i. toke for theyr health and saluacion? How ware the Prophets handled, Math. xxiii. which preached in the name of the Lord? were not sōe stoned to deth?
Heb. xi. Sōe slayn w̄ swerd? Some sawne in peces? As I may passe ouer ma-
ii. Pa. xxiiii. ny holy mē, Jacob, Joseph, Dauid Helias, Ananias, Azarias, Misael, ii. Mac. vii. Tobias, Eleazarus, the mother among the Machabees, & her seuen
Exo. xii. sonnes, wyth other innumerable, whych ether suffered death, or els Ioan. i. great trouble & persecucion for the glory of God: Howe was Christ ỹ
i. Petre. ii. lambe of God wout spot which dyd neuer no syn, in whose mouth there Esay. liii. was neuer any gyle & deceat found, handled in this world? How was
i. Ioan. iii. he rayled vpon so sone as he began to speake & preach the word of his
ii. Cor. v. celestiall father? was he not called a glotton? A wyne bybber? A frend Math. xi. to Publicans, harlots and synners? A deceyuer of the people? A mad Luke. vii. person? A Samaritā? A breaker of the Sabboth day? A Heretyke? A Ioan. viii. x. destroyer of the Temple? An enemy to our mother the holy chyrch? A Mat. xvii. Tray-
Marke. xv.
Luke. xxii.

Traytoure? A forbydder to pay tribute vnto Cesar? And such a one as woulde marre altogyther, yf he were suffred long? Was he not reported to worke his miracles and to cast out diuels by the helpe of Beelzebub prince of the diuels? Was not his doctrine counted new learnyng? What dyd he at any tyme, although neuer so good and godly, ꝑ the world dyd not discommend and condemne? Dyd not theyr malice at the last grow vnto such fury, that they neuer ceased, vntyll they had put hym vnto deth, yea and that the most spitefull death, that could be inuented, euen the death of the crosse, hangyng hym betweene two theues, as the principal malefactour & chefe captayn of all wickednes? Agayn how were the Apostles of Christ entreated? Verely euen as their maister was before thē. How oft were they slaūdered, laid watch for, threatened, beaten, whypped scourged, put in prison, cast out of cities, stoned, and dragged out of the townes for dead? How many also of them were slayn? Some with stones, some wᵗ sword, some otherwyse? How were both they & their doctrine blasphemed & euyll spoken of? Were not they reported & accused before the magistrates, princes & rulers, that they were such pestiferous fellowes, as troubled the commonweale, yea al the world, made insurrections, raysed vp seditions, gathered togyther vnlawful assemblies, wrought cōtrary to the decrees of Cesar, makyng another kyng euen Christ? Were not they called bayne babblers? Tydynges beares of newe dyuels? Sowers of straūge & newe doctrine? It is therfore no newe thyng for the preachers of Godes word & the earnest louers of ꝑ holye Scripture to be thus rayled vpon, slaundered, euyll spokē of, persecuted, & put to death euen for the glory of God & shewyng of ꝑ trueth. What nede I rehearse the innumerable cōpanies of ꝑ holy martyres, which syns the Apostles tyme for ꝑ testimony & witnes of Gods word haue suffred great persecucion, and at the last cruell death? Read ꝑ Hystories, who ꝑ lysteth, & he shal sone perceaue, that persecucio hath euer followed the true preachyng of godes word, & that ꝑ chyrche of Christ hath thā most florysshed in all kynd of vertue, and the christen fayth bene most strong, whā there was most extreme persecucion. For the bloud of the holye martyrs is the water, wherwith ꝑ gospell of Christ is watered & made to grow. So that persecucion hyndreth not the glory of the gospell, as the Heretykes Traytes iudge, but furdereth it greatly. And where most persecutiō is, there doth Gods word most of al florysh. Nothyng hyndreth ꝑ fayth of Christ so much, as carnall securite and fleshly quietnes. For where al thinges are accordyng to the appetite and desyre of the flesh, ther raign beastlike maners, there is no care of God, no inuocacion of the Lordes name, no study of diuine religion, no meditacion in the holy scriptures, no regard of the poore people, no desyre of innocent lyfe. But whā persecucion once commeth for the word of God, than is God called vpon with most harty and feruent prayers, than are the holy scriptures searched, than do mē study for the amendment of lyfe, than do they ye haue beleued in Christ Iesu. Now yͤ sayth we be the sonnes of God, thus are we also heyres. Yea hereby we are the heyres of god, and fellow heyres with Christ. Agayne by sayth, are we maried vnto god, as god himself witnesseth by his Prophet saying. I will mary the vnto me in sayth. By sayth also are we iustified and made ryghteous, as S. Paule sayth, we beyng iustified by sayth haue peace with god through our Lord Iesus Christ. Thus se we what an excellent treasure this true and christen sayth is, and howe by that all good thynges chaunse vnto vs, and without that, all that euer we do, must nedes come to nought, and worke to vs damnacion. But seyng that I haue spoken muche of sayth in all my workes almost, which I haue hytherto set forth, I will nowe cease to speake any more of it at this present, and go forth with the residue of Dauids Harpe, only addyng this one thyng, that the sayth, which the scripture so hyghly auaunceth, is no dead and vnfruitfull sayth, but lyuyng and myghty in operacion, beyng alway bent and seakyng an occasion to do good, and whan tyme commeth, is no lesse ready to bryng forth good workes, than a woman byg wͤ chyld is redy to bryng forth her chylde, whan her tyme of delyueraūce is once come, as it followeth.

Romā. viii. Gala. iiii. Oze. ii. Roma. v.

Roma. xiiii. Searche the Christmas Bancket in yͤ thyrd dyssh, the Pathewaye vnto Prayer in yͤ xvi. Chap. and yͤ Mistegaye in the Seconde floure. etc.

The seconde strynge.

And therfore haue I spoken.

VVe heard before yͤ sayth is yͤ foundacīo of the Christē religion, yͤ mother & nourse of al godly workes. Which thing to be true, our Wynnsel proueth here. For after he hath made mencion of sayth, he syngeth also of good workes. I beleued, sayth he, and therfore haue I spoken. Here se we that the true and christen sayth worketh euer by charite, which extendeth both vnto god and our neyghbour. What was yͤ cause that Dauid did speke? Verely his faith. I beleued, sayth he, and therfore haue I spokē. Fayth goth before, and workes follow. For fyrst he beleued al thinges to be true, which god promised hym in yͤ holy scriptures or otherwyse, as by yͤ mouth of his holy Prophetes, and therof afterward ensewed a very earnest and feruēt loue toward god, which made hym to loue god again, & to speake those thinges, whereby the glory of God was set forth, & the health of his neyghbour sought, & yͤ by this meanes he shewed himself perfectely faithfull both before god and man. And this is it, that S. Paule wryteth, It is beleued with the hart vnto ryghteousnes, but with the mouth is confession made vnto helth. A christen man setting before the eyes of his mynd the immutable goodnes of God toward vs through his sonne Christ, & gyuyng earnest sayth therunto, can none otherwise but loue God again & seake all meanes possible to please him, to worke his wyll & to do that which he requireth of him. He is redy at al tymes to bryng forth good workes after the exāple of Dauid, as to speke the misteries of God, to set forth yͤ glory of God, to publysh his most holy word, to bryng all men to the true knowledge of God and euen to engraffe them in the body of Christ.

Faith bryngeth forth good workes.

Gala. v.

Fayth is the cause of all goodnes.

Roma. v. Speke incl.

of Christ. All these thynges [illegible] quicke & lyuyly fayth in him through the spirit of God. For [illegible] will not suffre him to be idle, but al though through fayth he be [illegible] of captiuite, made ꝑ sonne of god iustified alredy in the sight of [illegible] before he bryngeth forth any outward good workes, yet doth thys true and christen fayth kyndle such a loue in his hart toward god & the fulfyllyng of his commaundēmentes, that he hath a perpetuall delyre in his mynde to worke that which is good, & whē occasiō is geuen, he falleth streyt wayes to wor-kyng, not his owne fantasy, but ꝑ wyll of God. So that now he doth not only beleue in God, and lone God in his herte, but also bryng forth those workes, which God hath appoynted hym, as Dauid sayth, I be-leued, and therfore haue I spokē. As though he should say, for as muche as I am fully perswaded of ꝑ bounte & goodnes of God toward me, & beleue that all thynges are true, and shall come to passe vndoubtedly according to his promyse, I can none otherwyse do but worke, & speak those thynges that pertayn vnto his glory, do what so euer shulde make vnto the magnifieng of his most blyssed name, and the edifieng of my neyghbour, though an hundred deathes were imminent & hangyng on my head for so doyng. Euery tree is knowen, sayth Christ, by his fruyt. For there is no good tree, that bryngeth forth euel fruyt, nether is ther any euell tree, that bryngeth forth good fruyt. A good man bryn-geth forth good fruyt out of the good treasure of his hert, and an euell man out of the euell treasure of his hert bryng forth euell thynges. For of the abundance of the hart, the mouth speaketh.

We read in the Actes of the Apostles, that whē Peter & John were commaunded of the Bysshops & prestes, ꝑ they should speak no more to any man, nor teache in the name of Jesus christ, they answerd bold ly and sayd, whyther it be ryghteous in the syght of god to hear you ra ther than god, iudge ye. For we can none other wyse do but speke those thinges, that we haue sene or heard. Marke that they say, we can do none other wyse but speak. How chaūced it that Peter (as I may speke nothyng of John) was nowe bold to speake, and confesse the name of Christ without fear before the hed prestes & magistrates of ꝑ Temple whome not many monethes past, was not only afeard to confesse him before a pore mayde, but also forswore Christ, denyed hym vtterly and sayd playnly he neuer knewe the man? How cōmeth it to passe, that Peter is now become another mā? Before he had no commaundemēt of the Bysshops to speake no more of Christ, and yet he vtterly denyed hym, & now whan he is cōmaunded to hold his peace, he wyl not, but answereth boldly, we cā none other wyse do but speake those thinges, that we haue sene and heard. How cōmeth this to passe? Verely of the great efficacy, vertue, strēgth, and power of his fayth, which God had geuen hym by his holy spirit. His fayth was nowe so stedfast on God & his loue so feruent, that the grates of hell could not preuayl agaynst hym, nor dryue hym frō doyng those thynges, that should make vnto ꝑ glory

Behold the nature of true & christen fayth.

Matb. xiij. Luke. vi.

Act. iiij.

Matb. xxvj. Mar. xiiij. Luke. xxij. Ioan. xviij.

Act. iiij.

Matb. xvij.

glory of god, and the health of his people, as we may perceue by ꝑ Hiſtory. For notwithſtandyng the commaundemẽt of the Byſhoppes, he went forth and preached in the name of Chriſt, & conuerted many vnto the chriſten fayth, & when the head prieſtes ſayd vnto hym & vnto ꝑ other Apoſtles, dyd not we ſtreightly commaund you, that ye ſhould not teach in this name? And behold ye haue fylled Jeruſalẽ ful of your doctrine, & ye wyll bryng the bloud of this man vpon vs. Peter and the other Apoſtels aunſwered & ſaid: We muſt obey God rather then mẽ.
Afterward alſo when they were whypped, & ſo ſent away, reteauyng a cõmaundemẽt, that they ſhould no more ſpeake in ꝑ name of Jeſus, they went away from the ſyght of the counſel, reioycyng and beyng glad, that they were counted worthy to ſuffer rebuke for the name of Chriſt. And for al ꝑ cõmaundement of ꝑ Byſſhops they ceaſed not day-ly both in ꝑ temple & in euery houſe to teach and to ſhew Jeſus Chriſt.

Act.v.
Gene.xxvi.
Exo.xv.
Deu.xi.xxx.
Actum.v.

Note.

Here ſe we both by our Minſtrel Dauid, & ꝑ apoſtles of Chriſt, how myghty in power the true & chriſtẽ fayth is & that it is neuer without ꝑ cõſent of doyng good workes, and whã occaſiõ is offered, it worketh in dede, yea and that thoſe workes, which are commaunded of God.

An admoniſcyon for Fayth.

Let euery man nowe conſither his own fayth, and take hede he be not deceaned. Many in theſe our dayes glory much of the name of fayth, and contẽde maynly, that we are iuſtified only & frely by fayth, yea and that without workes. Let no man deceaue hym ſelf. Fayth, I confeſſe, is an excellent treaſure, and the gyft of God, wythout the which no man can be ſaued, nor obtayn any part of Chriſts merites.
but yet for all that, if it be not accompanyed with a continual purpoſe of doinge good workes, yea and alſo bryng them forth, whan occaſion is gyuen, ſurely it is but a vayn and dead fayth, as S. James wythſtandeth yea to ſay the trueth, it is no fayth in dede, at the leaſt no true, liuely and chriſten fayth, which is mighty in operacion and worketh by charite. We ſe manifeſt fruytes follow the fayth of Dauid and the Apoſtles. Let vs alſo bring forth good workes, and ſo may we be ſure, that we haue in vs the true and chriſten fayth, which is ſo precious a thyng in the ſyght of God. Art thou a magiſtrate and gouernour of ꝑ common weale? If thou wylt ſhewe thy ſelf to haue true fayth in god, bryng forth good workes, and ſuch as become thy office and callyng.
Exercyſe iuſtice. Do no wrong. Be mercifull. Spoyl not the poore mã.
Helpe the confortles. Ponyſh vice, mayntayn vertue. So ſhalt thou be aſſured to haue the true & chriſten fayth in the.

Iacob.ii.

Galla.v.

Nulare.

Arte thou a Byſſhop or Paſtor? preach the word of God purely. Set forth the glory of God aboue all thynges. Feade thy ſaluacion of Chriſtes flock. Be an example to thy parifhners of honeſt and godly conuerſacion. Exhort vnto vertue. Fray away from vice. If ꝑ doſt this, than nedeſt thou not doubt of thy fayth.

Byſſhop or Paſtor.

Father or Mother.
Maſter or Maſtres.

Art thou a father or mother maſter or maſtres? Bryng than vp thy family in the nourture of the Lord, & ſo art ꝑ truely faythfull.

Art

Art thou a maryed man? Loke thou cleaue only to thy wyfe, loue her as thyne owne flesh, & as christ loued the Congregacion. So shall thy fayth appear to be vnfayned. Art thou a maried woman? Be obedient to thyne owne husband, and seake aboue all thynges to please hym, and so shalt thou shew thy selfe to be truely faythfull. Maryed man. Maryed woman.

Arte thou a subiecte or seruaunt? Obey than wyth a glad and humble hert thy superiours, rulers and masters. So shalt thou be found not vnfaythful. To be short in what so euer state God hath set the, lyue accordyng therunto, and in thy office and callyng seake euermore the glory of God, and the health of thy neyghbour. If thou dost this, than shalt thou shew thy selfe to be no vayn man, but faithfull and true in thy profession. But if thou dost the contrary, crake thou neuer so muche of thy fayth, yet doth it profyt thee nothing at all but rather encreseth thy damnacio, seyng ỳ art an Hipocrit & dissembleth before God and man. Certes if thou hast the true fayth in the, thou shalt be so enflamed wt the loue of God, and disposed vnto all goodnes that thou wylt not fear to say wt S. Paule, who shall separate vs from the loue of God? shal trouble do it? or anguysh? or persecucion? or hunger? or nakednes? or perrel? or sword? as it is wrytten, for thy sake are we kylled all the day long, yea we are counted as shepe appoynted to be slayn. Neuertheles in all these thynges we ouercome farre for his sake that loued vs. For I am sure, ỳ nether deth nor life, nether Angell, nor rule, nether power, nother thynges present, nether thinges to come, nether heighnor loweth, nor any other creature shal be able to separate vs frō the loue of God, which is in Christe Iesu our Lord. Agayn he sayth, I am not only redy to be bound, but also to dy for the name of the Lord Iesus. So mighty a thyng is faith, that it nether feareth manacing wordes, cruel threates, sharpe lokes, emprisoning, fetters, cheines, fagots, fyre, nor what so euer tyranny all the tyrauntes of the world can inuent, it maketh the parson, whose hert it occupieth, to be so enflamed and set on fyre wt the loue of God, and the desyre of doyng his wyll. Wylt thou heare me? If thou beleue aright in God and worke est according to thy fayth, confessyng Christ & his word boldely and vnfaynedly before the world, thou mayst be sure to fynd lytle fauour at the handes of carnal & worldly men, as thou shalt easly perceaue by that which followeth.

A general admonicion for al estates. Subiecte or seruaunte. Beholde what ỳ true fayth worke thia Christen man. Roma. viii. Psal. xliii. Act. xxi. Persecutio followeth confession of Gods worde.

¶ The thyrde strynge.

But I was very sore troubled.

After that our Mynstrel hath made mencion of fayth & of spekyng ỳ word of God (wherby are to be vnderstand all good workes ỳ procede and come forth out of fyath he now singeth of the Crosse, and sheweth that he was very sore troubled, greuosly thretened, vncharitably blasphemed, euell reported, maliciously persecuted, cruelly handled, and suffered al kyndes of tormentes for vttering & declaring the word of God. I beleued, sayth he and therfore haue I spoke, but I was very very sore troubled. Here se we ỹ as good workes follow fayth, so doth persecution follow the confession of Gods word. For this cause doth.

1. Cor. i. S. Paule call the gospell of Christ, the word of the Crosse, bycause it bryngeth persecution, trouble, blasphemies, slaunders, euell reportes, emprisonment, honger, thirst, cold, nakednes, pouerte, losse of frendes, yea and at the last very death oftentimes to so many as cleaue vnto it Note. valeauntly. Christes word and the Crosse are compagnions inseparable. As the shadow followeth the body, so doth the Crosse follow the word of Christ. And as fyre & heat can not be separated, so can not the Gospel of Christ & the crosse be plucked asunder. Let vs call to remembraunce so many as from the fyrst age of the world fauoured god and his word, & how many shal we fid ỹ escaped wout the crosse one way or other? As I may leaue of to speke of all the other old and auncient Patriarches, & at this tyme only take ryghteous Abell for an example, whiche of all men shewed ỹ first example of pure innocency and of a thankefull hert toward God for his benefites, was not he shortly Gene. iiii. slayn of his bloudy brother cruell Cain, yea and that only bycause his
i. Ioan. iii. owne workes were nought, and hys brothers good, as ỹ scripture testifieth? As fyre & water put togyther fight, stryue & are euer at debate,
The good & the euell. can neuer agree. tyl one hath swallowed vp another, deuoured one another, ouercome one another: so lykewyse so long as good & euell dwel togyther in this Note thys well. world, there shall be a perpetuall discension betwene them. The euell wyll euer hate the good, & neuer be at rest tyl the innocent be had out of the way, not that the good doth any displeasures vnto the euyl, but that the euyll can not away with the good, no more thē the rauening Ioan. xiiii. wolfe can away with the pore harmeles shepe, or the hongry hauke wt
the simple doue, as Christ sayth, The Prince of this world commeth, & yet hath he nothyng agaynst me. Howe lytell fauour also dyd Mo-
Exo. xvi. and. xvii. ses and Aaron fynd among the disobedient Jewes after they brought Math. v. them out of captiuite from the land of Egipte? were not they many ty-Luke. xiii. iiii. Esd. i. mes in daunger of theyr lyues for all theyr labour and payn that they Math. xxiii. toke for theyr health and saluacion? How ware the Prophets handled, Heb. xi. which preached in the name of the Lord? were not sōe stoned to deth?
ii. Pa. xxiiii. ii. Mac. vii. Sōe slayn wt swerd? Some sawne in peces? As I may passe ouer ma-
Exo. xii. ny holy mē, Jacob, Joseph, Dauid Helias, Ananias, Azarias, Misael, Ioan. i. Tobias, Eleazarus, the mother among the Machabees, & her seuen
i. Petre. ii. sonnes, wyth other innumerable, whych ether suffered death, or els Esay. liii. great trouble & persecucion for the glory of God: Howe was Christ ỹ
i. Ioan. iii. lambe of God wout spot which dyd neuer no syn, in whose mouth there ii. Cor. v. was neuer any gyle & deceat found, handled in this world? How was Math. xi. he rayled vpon so sone as he began to speake & preach the word of his Luke. vii. celestiall father? was he not called a glotton? A wyne bybber? A frend Ioan. viii. x. to Publicans, harlots and synners? A deceyuer of the people? A mad Mat. xvii. person? A Samaritā? A breaker of the Sabboth day? A Heretyke? A Marke. xv. destroyer of the Temple? An enemy to our mother the holy chyrch? A Luke. xxii.

Tray-

Traytoure? A forbydder to pay tribute vnto Cesar? And such a one as woulde marre altogyther, yf he were suffred long? Was he not reported to worke his miracles and to cast out diuels by the helpe of Beelzebub prince of the diuels? Was not his doctrine counted new learnyng? What dyd he at any tyme, although neuer so good and godly, ỳ the world dyd not discommend and condemne? Dyd not theyr malice at the last grow vnto such fury, that they neuer ceased, vntyll they had put hym vnto deth, yea and that the most spitefull death, that could be inuented, euen the death of the crosse, hangyng hym betwene two theues, as the principal malefactour & chefe captayn of all wickednes? Agayn how were the Apostles of Christ entreated? Verely euen as theyr maister was before thē. How oft were they slaūdered, laid watch for, thretened, beaten, whypped scourged, put in prison, cast out of cities, stoned, and dragged out of the townes for dead? How many also of them were slayn? Some with stones, some w̄ sword, some otherwyse? How were both they & theyr doctrine blasphemed & euyll spoken of? Were not they reported & accused before the magistrates, princes & rulers, that they were such pestiferous fellowes, as troubled the commonweale, yea al the world, made insurrections, raysed vp sedicions, gathered togyther vnlawful assemblies, wrought cōtrary to the decrees of Cesar, makyng another kyng euen Christ? Were not they called vayne babblers? Tydynges beares of newe dyuels? Sowers of straūg & newe doctrine? It is therfore no newe thyng for the preachers of Goddes word & the earnest louers of ỳ holye Scripture to be thus rayled vpon, slaundered, euyll spokē of, persecuted, & put to death euen for the glory of God & shewyng of ỳ trueth What nede I rehearse the innumerable cōpanies of ỳ holy martyres, which syns the Apostles tyme for ỳ testimony & witnes of Gods word haue suffred great persecucion, and at the last cruell death? Read ỳ Hystories, who ỳ lysteth, & he shal sone perceaue, that persecucio hath euer followed the true preachyng of goddes word, & that ỳ chyrche of Christ hath thā most flowrished in all kind of vertue, and the christen fayth bene most strong, whā there was most extreme persecucion. For the bloud of the holye martyrs is the water, wherwith ỳ gospell of Christ is watered & made to grow. So that persecucion hyndreth not the glory of the gospell, as the Aerolyke Tyraūtes iudge, but furdereth it greatly And where most persecutiō is, there doth Gods word most of al flowrish. Nothyng hyndreth ỳ fayth of Christ so much, as carnall securite and fleshly quietnes. For where al thinges are accordyng to the appetite and desyre of the flesh, ther raign beastlike maners, there is no care of God, no inuocacion of the Lordes name, no study of diuine religion, no meditacion in the holy scriptures, no regard of the pore people, no desyre of innocent lyfe. But whā persecucion once commeth for the word of God, than is God called vpon with most harty and feruent prayers, than are the holy scriptures searched, than do mē study for the amendment of lyfe, than do they

Luc.xxiii. Ioan.ii.

Math.xii. Marc.i.

Phil.ii.

Act.iiii. v.xiii.xiiii. Act.xii. Act.vii.

Act.xvi.

Act.xvii.

Martyrs.

Persecution maketh. Gods word & the chyrch of Christ to flowrishe.

Beholde,

ſeke ẏ accompliſhement of Gods moſt holy wyl, than are they altogether deſyrous of celeſtial thynges, and vtterly contẽne & ſet at nought
We ought to reioyſe in the tyme of perſecution. what ſo euer pleſeth the eies of carnall men in this worlde. Therfore whan perſecucion commeth for righteouſnes ſake, let vs not deſpayre, but make our ſelues conformable to the wyll of God, reioyce and be merry. Let vs ſet before our eies the examples of Chriſt and of all his chyrch, euen from the begynnyng of the worlde, Abel, Abraham, Iſaac, Iacob, the people of Iſrael in Egipt, Dauid, Iohas, the Prophets and Roma. viii. apoſtles. We muſt, ſayth S. Paule be made lyke vnto the ymage of ẏ ſonne of God. If our elder brother Chriſt poſſeſſed not the eternall en-heretaunce, but by the Croſſe, ſhall we that are of a meaner ſort thinke Act. xiiii. to enioy it after a more eaſy ſort? To whom is this ſayng vnknowen?
By many tribulacions we muſt enter into the kyngdom of God. Chriſt bare the croſſe, but he bare it not away fro hym, but left it here behynd Luke. xiiii. hym to be borne of vs all, yf we wyll be hys Diſciples, as he ſayth, yf any man cometh vnto me, and hateth not his father and mother, wyfe, Math. x. chyldren and ſyſters, yea and hys owne lyfe, he can not be my diſciple.
Luke. vi. And who ſo euer beareth not hys croſſe and commeth after me, he can Ioan. xiiii. xv. not be my diſciple. The diſciple is not aboue ẏ maſter, nor the ſeruaunt aboue his Lord. It is inough that the diſciple be lyke his maſter, and the ſeruaunt lyke his Lord. If they haue called the father of the houſehold Beelzebub, how much more ſhall they ſo call them, that be of his houſhold? If the worlde hate you, ye knowe that it hated me before you.
Becauſe ye are not of ẏ worlde, but I haue choſen you out of ẏ worlde.
therfore doth the worlde hate you. Remember the word that I ſay vnto you, The ſeruaunt is not greater then his Lord. If they haue perſecu-ted me, they ſhall alſo perſecute you. If they haue kept my word, they ſhall alſo kepe yours. But all theſe thyngs ſhall they do to you for my names ſake, becauſe they haue not knowen hym, that hath ſent me. Ve-Ioan. xvi. rely verely I ſaye vnto you, ye ſhall wepe and lament, but the worlde ſhall reioyce. Ye ſhall be ſad, but your ſadnes ſhalbe turned into ioye.
In the worlde ye ſhall haue affliccion and trouble, but be on a good cõ-Math. v. fort, for I haue ouercome the worlde. Bleſſed are they that ſuffer perſe-cucion for righteouſnes ſake, for vnto them belongeth the kyngdome of heauen. Bleſſed are ye, when mẽ ſhall reuile you and perſecute you, & ſpeake euery euell word agaynſt you, lyeng, for my ſake. Reioyce and
1. Pet. iiii. be mery, for great is your reward in heauen. S. Peter alſo ſayth, Der-ly beloued meruayl not, whã ye be proued by fyre, which thyng is done to try you, as though ſome ſtraung and newe thyng chaũced vnto you, but rather reioyſe in that ye are partakers of the paſſions and troubles of Chriſt, that whan his glory ſhall appeare, ye may alſo be mery and reioyſe. If ye be reuyled for the name of Chriſt, bleſſed are ye, for the ii. Tim. ii. ſpirit, which is the ſpirit of glory and of God, reſteth vpon you. Herepertayneth the ſayeng of S. Paule, this is a true ſayeng, if we be dead with hym, we ſhall lyue with hym alſo. If we ſuffer together

we

we shal also reygne with him. If we deny him, he also shal deny vs. If we be vnfaythful, yet abydeth he faythful, he can not deny hym self.

Of all these scriptures it is euident, that it is no sorowfull, but ioyfull thyng to suffer persecucion for ryghteousnes sake, for the glory of God, and the promocion of his most blyssed worde. Nether it is a token of gods wrath, but rather of his singulare benevolēce and hygh good wyll to ward them, which are troubled for his sake. For yf they be happy, to whom it is gyuen to beleue in Christ, how much more happy and fortunate are they, to whom it is not only gyuen to beleue in hym, but also to suffer for him. S. Paule reioyced greatly in the Philippians because it was gyuen them, not only to beleue in Christ, but also to suffer for his sake. For hereby are they assured to be Christes disciples, and are abundantly certified that God loueth them, careth for them, & hath prepared for them a glorious and celestiall mansion. Rede the xii. chapter to the Heb. for thy comfort. Therfore as Dauid teacheth vs here, let vs fyrst beleue stedfastly in God, & afterward confesse that openly before ý world, which we beleue in our hartes, remēbryng these wordes of Christ, who so euer shall confesse me before men, I wyll confesse hym also before my father, which is in heauen. But who so euer shall deny me before men, I shall deny him also before my father, which is in heauen. And if it be the wyl of our heauenly father, that we be persecuted, troubled, & greuously vexed for ý confessiō of his trueth, let vs not therfore fear to confesse the Lord Christ, but as good souldiours of Iesus Christ, valeauntly suffer afflictiō, yea very deth, yf ý glory of God so requireth, being assuredly perswaded, that by this meanes not only God shal be greatly glorified, & his holy gospel largely promoted, but also ý we for thys short trouble shal receaue perpetual rest, for this corrupteble life, immortal glory, for the vayn pleasures of thys world, eternal felicite & euerlastyng ioye worldes with out ende. Amen.

Persecucion is a token of gods loue toward vs.

Phil. i.

Matth. x. Mar. viii. Luke. ix. And. xii.

ii. Tim. ii.

But lette vs hear what Dauid spake, ý he was so sore troubled.

The seconde verse.

I sayde beynge as it ware in a traunce euery man is a liar.

The fourth string.

What the occasion was ý Dauid was so sore troubled.

NO meruayl in dede though our Mynstrell Dauid sayth, that he was sore troubled for speakyng. For he syngeth a very homely songe lytle pleasaunt and swete to the eares of beastlyke, carnall and fleshely men. Who can abide to be called a liar, yea and that wout any reuerence taken? yet he shameth not to speak vniuersally, & to say that euery man is a lyer, without excepcion. Surely me thyncke that Dauid wanteth here ý chefe poynt of a Mynstrell & of a syngyng man, which is to lye & flatter, or at the least to fashion his song according vn to the audience, and vo his singing to please so many as heare hym. Is Dauid nowe become a man of so lytle experience, that he thinketh the holy Pharisees, the wise Scribes, the learned Bysshoppes, the deuout Prestes, the godly rulars of ỳ temple. &c. could be contended to be called liars, which would be noted throughout all the worlde to be ỳ principal teachers of al verite & trueth, & alone to haue ỳ key of knowledge Undoubtedly Dauid kept shepe to longe for to be a Mynstrell to such delycate & softe religious parsons. But Dauid was a good playne, simple, & homely man brought vp in ỳ countre, & endewed wt that spirite, wherwith S. Paule was, whã he sayd, If I dyd please mẽ, I should not be the seruaunt of Christ. For euẽ as John Baptist, whan he saw many of ỳ Pharises & Saduces cõmyng vnto his baptisme, called thẽ the generatiõ of vipers for al theyr glysteryng hypocrysy & fayned holynes, & as Christ called ỳ Scribes & Pharises blynd gydes, strayning out a gnat but swalowing vp a camel, paynted sepulchres, outwardly in appearaunce righteous before mẽ, but inwardly ful of hypocrisy & iniquite. & as S. Paule called Ananias ỳ hygh preest a paynted wall, bycause more lyke a bocher than a Bysshop, he cõmaunded them that stode about hym to smyte Paule on the mouth contrary to all equite & iustice, whan he should haue pourged hymself before the councell of the Articles layd agaynst hym, euen so Dauid can none otherwyse but cal him that is a liar, a lyar in dede. He can not bear fyre in one hand and water in the other. He can not play placebo. He is none of those, that say all is well, when altogyther is starke nought. He is no dissembler, his hart and tong goeth togither. He is as playn as a pack staffe. For as the trueth is, so speaketh he hauyng respect nether to the parson nor to the tyme. He seaketh the glory of God, & not to satisfy the vayn fantasy of man. He had rather suffer great rebuke, much trouble, extreme persecucion, yea very death, than that Gods glory should in any part be obscured through his fayning flattery. God send vs fewer gnathos & mo Dauids. But let vs retourne to oure songe.

The chefe poynte of a Mynstrel & of a syngyng man is to lye & flatter.

Gala. i. Math. iii. Luke. iii.

Math. xxiii.

Act. xxiii.

AMEN. good Lorde.

I sayde beyng as it were in a traunse, sayth he, euery man is a lyer: Before Dauid confesseth that euery man is a lyer, it is to be noted ỳ he sayth, he was in a trauns, that is to say, in a dampe, a stupour, abashement, and soden pytuacion of sence or fealyng, as whan a man is so rapt into another kind or state that he forgetteth himself or semeth to be in another worlde, as they vse to say. For all this doth the greke word Ecstasis sound. A lyke thyng we read of S. Paule in the. ii. Epistle to the Corinthians. It is necessary in dede, that Dauid should be in this Ecstasy and traunce that is, that he shoulde be trasformed into an another man, renewed by the holy ghost, illumined wt diuine knowledge, lyfted vp to ỳ cõtemplacion of heuẽly thinges, & haue his mind wholy rapt & plucked frõ carnalite vnto spirituall & ghostly matters, or els could he neuer haue cõfessed this infalible truthe, ỳ euery man is a lier. For a natural mã doth not perceaue those thyngs ỳ pertayn vnto ỳ spirit of God. For they are folyshnes vnto hym, nether can he vnderstand them, bycause they be spiritually iudged. How can a man speak good thyn-

ii. Cor. xii.

What Dauids trauns signifye.

i. Cor. ii. Math. xii.

thynges, whan he hym ſelf is euill? Can bleſſyng & curſyng come both out of one mouth? Doth a fountayn ſede forth at one place ſwete water and bytter alſo? Can a fygge tree bear Olyue berys, ether a vyne bear figes? Of the aboundaunce of the hart, the mouth ſpeaketh. He that is of the earth, is earthly, and ſpeaketh of the earth, but he whom god hath ſent, ſpeaketh the wordes of God. Euery man ſpeaketh, as he is; The chyldren of trueth, ſpeak truth, and the ſones of a lying ſeed ſpeke lyes and falſhod. Now is Dauid no more ſuch a man, as of nature is a lyar, but he is regenerate, and borne a newe of the holy ghoſt, and is no more to þ falſe & lying ſeed, which decayeth accordyng to the nature, ingeny & properte of Satã, which is a lyar, & the father of al lying, and therfore confeſſeth he now another tale, than he would haue done before his regeneracion & new byrth. He would before haue glorified in hymſelf, in his fleſh, in his blond, in his ſtrẽgth, wiſdom, polecy, ritches, holynes, good workes, and all thatcuer he dyd, (for that is the nature of al fleſh) and haue fought manfully agaynſt them that condemne the hypocriſy, fayned holynes, iniquite & vnrighteouſnes of the fleſh but now beyng nourtered in the diſcipline of Gods trueth he freely confeſſeth euery man of his owne nature to be nothyng but a lyer which thynge S. Paule alſo affirmeth in his Epiſtle to the Romans.

Luk. vi.
Iacob. iii.
Ioan. iii.
Ioan. viii.
The nature of fleſh.
Roma. iii.

Herof may we learn what we are of our ſelues, how blynd and vnapt of our own nature to aſpire, breath, or come to any point of true godlynes and godly truth w out the inſpiracion of Gods ſpirit. It is not wythout a cauſe ſayd of God, My ſpirit ſhall not dwell for euer in man, for he is fleſh. If we be left vnto our ſelues, than are we nothyng but lyars, that is to ſay beaſtlyke, wicked, folyſh, vngodly, thynkyng all abhominacion, breathyng all noughtynes, ſpeakyng all wickednes, doyng all miſchief, and euẽ ſuche without fayntyng as we were leaft of our fyrſt father Adam after the trangreſſion of Goddes precept, that is to ſay, naked, voyd of all goodnes, replete with all euyll. Therfore before we can ſauour aright any godlynes, and worke that which is acceptable in the ſyght of God, and healthfull to oure ſoules, we muſt be in this traunce, into the which Dauid was caft, we muſt be tranſformed into another nature, and lyfted vp vnto the contemplacion of diuine and celeſtiall thynges. But this cã not come to paſſe of our owne ſtrengthes, whiche are lyars of our ſelues, and not able to thynke a good thought, but by the helpe of gods ſpirite, which worketh in vs both the wyll & the dede. For Chriſt ſayth, no mã can come vnto me, except my father drawe th hym, & I ſhall reyſe hym vp at the laſt day. It is written in the Prophets. All ſhall be taught of God. Euery one therfore þ hath heard of the father, & hath learned, cõmeth vnto me. Agayn, without me ye can done nothyng. Whan Peter confeſſed Chriſt to be the ſonne of the lyuyng God, he ſayd vnto hym: Bleſſed art thou Simon the ſonne of Jonas, for fleſh and blond hath not opened that vnto thee, but my father which is in heauen.

Note.
Gene. vi.
Gene. iii.
Searche the Newes out of heauen.
Pſal. cxv.
Rom. iii.
ii. Cor. iii
Phil. ii.
Ioan. vi.
Eſay. liiii.
Iere. xxxi.
Ioan. xv.
Math. xvi.

Here se we that flesh & bloud, ẏ is, all that euer we haue of our selues, & of our forfather synfull Adã, can not attayn vnto the intelligence of the diuine misteries, and vnderstandyng of Gods trueth, except we be drawne of the father by his holy spirit. Now that we may therfore come vnto this true knowlege of God, & of his truth, let vs pray with that spouse. Draw me after ẏ so shal we ron in ẏ swete sauour of thine ointmẽtes. So shal we be sure not only to become new mẽ, but also vnto a free & willing hart graunt vnto Dauid that euery man is a lyer.

Ioan. vi.

Cant. i.

How we euery man is a liare.

Euery man is a lyer sayth he. This is to be vnderstand before he be regenerate and borne anew by the second byrth, not in Adam, but in Christ. For so many as haue put of the olde man Adam, and put on the new man Christ so many are no more mẽ if we haue respect vnto theyr spirituall regeneracion, but Gods, as ẏ holy scripture saith ye are gods and all of you are the sonnes of the most hyghest. But all that haue not on the Lord Jesus Christ remayn styll lyars, and all that euer they do or speake wout Christ and his most holy word, is nothyng but a very ly. and mere fãsy, a mad dotage, semeth it neuer so true in the iudgemẽt of carnall reason. And this false and lyeng corrupcion commeth not of God (for God is not the Author of sinne, nor one that wyl any vnrighteousnes, nether tempteth he any man vnto euyl, as S. James sayth) but of Satan the mortall enemy of mankynd, which lying full craftily vnto Eue, and so wyng this seed in her, and she in Adam, and Adam in all hys posterite, brought vs into this damnable and false lying state, so that by nature, as S. Paul sayth, we are all borne the sonnes of wrath, and all that euer we do of our selues wout the spirit of God, is lying, false, wicked, vnfaythfull, and detestable before God, as Christ testifieth, That which is borne of flesh, is flesh. Also S. Paule, All that is not grounded on fayth, is synne. Of this false and lying seed was Cain, which slewe his brother. Abel with innumerable mo of the olde Testament, euen so many as attempted any thyng at all contrary to Gods most holy wyll, as banyshyng Gods word, sheddyng innocent bloud, kyllyng the true Prophets of God, settyng vp straung worshypp pyngs of newe Idols, proclamyng other gods, than the one and alone God of Israel. &c. In the new testament also ther were many liars, as Bishoppes, head prestes, prestes, masters of the Tẽple, Lawers Scribes, Pharises, Saduces with an innumerable company of Jewes. which all resisted Christ, condemned his preachyng, obscured the glory of his miracles, hyndred the honour of God, belied the verite of Gods word, slaundered the gospell, blasphemed Christ and his Apostles, neuer ceasyng vntyl they, had brought both him and his vnto theyr final, destruccion as they thought. After thẽ dyd ther aryse a great swarme of pestilente lyars, as Heretykes, Schismatykes, and false Christians. Of this nomber was Ebion, Marcion, and Cherinthus, which denyed Christ to be God from euerlastyng against whom S. John dyd write his Gospell, Catarus and Nouatus, which affirmed, that they which dyd

Psal. lxxxi. Ioan. x.

Psal. vi Iacob. i. Gene. iii.

Ephe. ii. Ioan. iii.

Rom. xiiii. Gene. iiii.

Lyars of ẏ old Testament.

Lyars of ẏ new Test.

Lyars after the apostles tyme.

did fal after Baptisme ought not to be receaued agayn, nether cā they obtaine remission of their sinnes: Eutiches, which denyed Chryst to be both God and man: Montanus Marcion, and Manicheus which cōdemned both mariages and meates, as thynges vnpure: Arrius, Pelagius, Artemon, Sabellius, Paulus Samosetanus, with other innumerable, which did sow much diuision in ỹ chirch of Chryst, & brought in many pestilent and detestable hereses. All these were lyers, beecause they were without the spirit of God, and inuented sectes and opinions of their owne braynes without the authorite of gods worde, so easye a thyng is it for men to erre, to deceaue and to bee deceaued, whan they leane not to the holy Scriptures, but to their owne iudgementes and fantasyes. And wouldе God that all lying were onely founde in them, whom I haue rehearsed hytherto, than wer it wel wt Chrystes chirhe. But who ỹ euer liued, Chryst alone except, hath not shewed hymself in some poynt to be a man, that is to say, a lyer? Peter confessed Chryst to be the sonne of the lyuing God, and therfore was he called blessed, and promysed that agaynste that confession of hys fayth, hell gates shoulde not preuail, yet when he afterward denyed Chryst and forsware hym, he shewed hymselfe to be a man, that is, a very lyer, so feble and of no strength are we, if we be not endewed wyth valeaunce, myght and power from aboue. I here freely confesse, that next vnto the holy Scryptures, I owe the chiefe and principal honor to ỹ worthynges of the Catholyke Doctors, ts whō I cleaue as vnto an holy Anker, whō I folowe as greate lyghtes to shewe me how I may walke in the way of trueth, whō I reuerence as my most faythful teachers, yet dare I not approue and allowe them in all thynges, becauſe in some poyntes they haue shewed themselues men, and haue manifestly erred agaynst the open trueth of gods word, as it is not vnknowen to them, that be dylygently exercised in the readyng of their workes. And for an example I wyll here rehearse. ii. or iii. not to their reproch, but to admonishe all men, what we are of our selues and that no man should be sworne and wholly addict to the doctryne and teachyng of any man, be he neuer so holy and learned, except it agreeth with the holy Scriptures.

Math. xvi.

Math. xxvi.

The mindē of ỹ author concernyng ỹ Doctours

The Doctors also are lyers in some poyntes.

Dyigen was vndoubted a famous Doctor, and dyd wryte very excellently of diuers matters concernyng the purite of Chrystē religion, yet shewed he hymselfe to be a man and very lyar, whan he fained that the paynes of the diuels and of the damned should cease in tyme to come, & that they should be saued. Tertullyan was a man of great learnyng, & dyd wryte many thynges very godly, yet dyd he erre, when he condēned the seconde maryages in a Chrystē man. He maketh hys argumēt on thys maner. Thou mayest not mary the wyfe of thy brother beeyng dead. He that marieth a widowe left of a Chrysten man, maryeth the wyfe of hys brother beyng dead. Ergo he doth not well. Thys and certayne other thinges he wryteth not very godly, shewyng himselfe to be a very man, that is to say a lyar.

Dyigen.

Tertullian.

Cypriane. Cypriane was an excellent clarke, and dyed for the fayth of Chryst leauing many godly workes behynde hym, yet dyd the auncyent fathers of Christes chirche condemne thys his opinion, that they, whiche were baptised of Heretykes, ought to be baptised agayn. I passe ouer manye other ecclesiasticall wryters, whiche wante not their errours, neither haue they in all poyntes so circumspectly written, but that their faultes may easly be perceaued of them, that haue whole, true, good and pure iudgements in the holy Scripture. For they haue declared themselues Marke. not in fewe thynges to be men and liars, therfore are they to be beleued no further, than the word of God mayntayneth. That whiche they haue wrytten well, let vs receaue and geue God thankes for it, confes-syng that it came to passe by the instinct of his most holy spirit, and not by theyr owne polecye, wyt, reason, eloquence and learnyng. But that wherin they haue erred, let vs charitably enterpret, take it into the best part, and couer theyr faultes, consytheryng that they were men, and both myght and dyd erre, as S. Austen with other dyd both confesse, The protes-tacion of the Author con-cernyng hys workes. graunte and wryte of themselues. And thys I defyre all men that be godly learned, and walke after the order of charite to vnderstande also of all my workes, which I haue hytherto wrytten, or shal here after, if the wyl of God so be, and to beleue them no further than ẏ holy Scripture testifye that they be true. For I am a man and a lyar of my selfe, Rom. iii. and therefore may I erre so well as many learned and auncient Doctors haue done before me. Let God alone be true, and euery mã a lyar.
Let the spirite of charite and not of contenciõ reygne among vs. If we erre, let vs charitably monish one another, beare one with an other, instruct one another, and not streyght wayes furiously condemne what soeuer at the first blush lyketh not our carnal iudgementes, no nor yet at euery litle fault be ready to cast the ignorant offenders into pryson chaynes, stockes and fyre. If any man doth not offende wyth his tong Iacob. iii. sayeth S. James he is a perfect man. Let vs folow the long sufferãce of God, which patiently abydeth our amendment. If God had taken a Actes. viii. way Paule out of thys lyfe, whan so tyraunt lyke he persecuted ẏ chirch of Chryst, Paule had neuer be made of a wolfe a lambe, of a persecutor an Apostle, of a blasphemer a true preacher, of an Heretyke hetcher, a faythfull Euangelyst. They that are strong ought to beare the weake-
Rom. xv. nes of them that be infirme and weake and not to stande in their owne Gala. vi. conceates. They ought so to order themselues, that they shoulde please their neighboure vnto hys wealth and edyfying. For Chryste pleased not hymselfe. wherfore we ought to receaue one another, euẽ as Christ hath receaued vs vnto the glory of God, and to bear one anothers burden, seing that we be all members of one body, & haue one head, which is Jesus Chryst.

Besydes these afore sayed, the vngodly Bishop of Rome and all hys Lyers of our tyme. wicked kingdom are liars, and al their decrees, actes, lawes, cõstituci ons, counsels, &c. ẏ fyght wyth gods word, are lyes, and very mad fan-tasyes

tatyes, by no meanes to be beleued of any faythfull hart. Agayne al hypocrites, Arryans, Libertines, Free wyll men, Anabaptistes, & all authors of false sectes, are lyars. To conclude, so many as dissent frō God and hys most blessed word, are lyers, whether it be in doctrin, teachyng liuing, maners, conuersacion or otherwyse. Thus see we what we are of our selues, euen very lyers, and into what great captiuite we be throwen through Adam, and that we cannot by our own strengthes be deliuered from thys bondage, but only by the spirit of hym, which sayeth, If the sonne maketh you free, than are ye free in dede. For wher the spirit of the Lord is, there is liberte. Therfore that we may haue that vneyon and annoyntyng in vs, I meane the holy gost, that may teach vs all trueth, we must wyth continuall prayers resort vnto our heauenly father, which vndoubtedly wil geue a good spirite, to so many as aske it of hym. For he is a beneficiall Lord sufficiently ryche for so manye as call on hym in spirite, and trueth, as it followeth.

Iohn. viii.
ii. Cor. iii.
Iohn. xiiii. and. xvi.
i. Iohn. ii.
Luke. xi.
Math. xvii.
Rom. x.
Iohn. iiii.

¶ The thirde verse.

What shall I geue agayne vnto the Lorde for all those thynges, that he hath geuen me.

The fifte string.

After that oure Mynstrel Dauid hath diligently pondered wyth hymselfe, what he is of his owen nature, euen a very lyer, and one that is replete with all synne and iniquite, thinkinge, breathyng, speakyng and doyng all that euer is nought and vnthankful in ỹ sight of God, and whan on the other syde he hath agayn considred how that God of his mere mercy, fre bountie and vnspeakable goodnes hath deliuered him from al these greuous enormities without his merites or desertes, he beginneth now to delight no more in carnal and transitory thinges, but in spiritual and heauenly thinges, and waieth, ponderyth & considereth how he may shew him selfe thanckfull againe vnto God for the innumerable benefites, which he hath receiued at the hand of god. What shal I geue agayne, saieth he, vnto the Lord for al those thynges, that he hath geuen me? O kynde and thankefull hart, farre estraunged from all ingratitude and vnthankfulnes. He knoweth full wel, that to recompence and make God amendes for the kindnes ỹ he hath shewed vnto hym, it lyeth not in hys power, notwithstandyng he desireth very greatly to do somwhat, wherby he may shew his thankeful hart againe toward God. For he confesseth that all that euer he hath beyng good, he receyued it of God, as S. Paule sayeth: What haste thou, that thou hast not receyued? If thou hast receaued it, why doest thou reioyce as though thou hadst not receaued it. S. James also sayeth: Euery good

i. Cor. iiii.
Iacob. i.

and

We oughte muche to set before oure eyes the benefites of God.

Gene.i.

Gene.ii.

Gene.iii.

Iob.iiii.
ii.Petr.ii.

Psal.viii.
Heb.ii.

and perfecte gifte is from aboue, comming downe from the Father of lightes. On this maner ought we to ponder with our selues the inestimable benefites and greate giftes of God towarde vs. Fyrste that he made vs not like to brute beastes, but lyke vnto hys owne ymage, neither did he place vs in hell, or in some other dolorous & sorowfull place, but in ioyfull Paradyse, where all kynd of pleasures dyd abounde. He endewed vs with wit, reason, discrecion, prudence, wisedome, knowledge and with all other thinges, that should moue vs vnto godlynesse and vertue, setting vs at our own libertie to do whatsoeuer we would onely he gaue vs a commaundement to abstayn from the tree of lyfe, and tolde vs lyke a mercyfull father before, that whan soeuer we dyd tast of that, we should dye the death. Notwithstanding this his moste gentle premonicion through the subtilte of Satan, we brake his most godly precept, and threw our selues into the death, wherof he tolde vs before, so that now of all earthly creatures we were become most miserable. Yet beholde agayne the great goodnes of God towarde vs. Whan he had worthely deserued to be dāned for euermore, he did not, as he handled the Aungels, streyghte wayes caste vs into hell fyre, but mercifully sent vs into this world, that we myght here repent, deplore, lament, and bewayle our synnefull and abhominable offence, that by this meanes through the diuine prouidence we might afterward be restored to our old innocency and be saued. Nether sente he vs hither as into a salt, barrē, and desolate place, or wyld forest, but rather into such a kyngdom, as floryssheth with al kindes of ritches, treasures, pleasures and most goodly possessions, so that we can desyre nothyng, but that we haue it here ready at hande. He hath garnished the earth wt grene grasse, swete herbes and most pleasaunt floures. He hath geuen vs all kyndes of grain to sow in the earth for our sustenaunce. He sendeth vs rayn and temperate heat in conuenient tyme for the fortunate encrese therof. He hath plāted vs trees, and garnished thē in the tyme of ẏ yere wyth most goodly grene leaues and fruites to serue our necessary busynesses, for diuers causes. And as he hath replenished the earth wyth all kindes of beastes: so hath he stuffed the sea and other waters wt innumerable sortes of fyshes. And of all these thinges wyth many other mo hath he made vs Lordes, rulers, gouernoures, owners. Nether doeth his kindnes here cease concernyng temporall thynges. For he hath also set ouer vs as a most beautifull rofe and goodly seyling, the firmament or ayre, which in the day tyme sheweth vs lyght throughe the clerenes therof, wherin for our great consolacion and comfort, he hath also set a goodly great lyght, which we call the sonne, by the vertue and operacion wherof, ẏ earth bryngeth forth her fruites in due seasō, yelding thē to vs both rype, apt and mete for our vse, whan conuenient tyme requireth. For the nighte tyme agayne, because we shoulde not be dismayde through the great darkenes, wher with the earth is thā ouerwhelmed seeyng it is a tyme appointed not to laboure but vnto reste, not vnto trouble,

trouble, but vnto quietnes, not vnto watchyng, but vnto slepyng, God hathmost gorgiously garnished the firmamente with a goodly greate lyght, called the moone, and with innumerable starres mo for oure great ioy, pleasure and comfort, so that no garden, be it neuer so pleasantly garnished & stuffed full of herbes moste amiable in aspect, may be cōpared vnto it. And al these thinges hath God wrought and done not for hys own sake, but for ours, not for hys own wealth and felicite, but for our profyt and commodite. Hytherto haue I spoken of his temporal gyftes, which though they seme to be much precious, as they ar in dede yet are they nothyng to be compared vnto those that folowe. For loke how much the spirite excelleth the body: so much do these gyftes excell the other beyng incomparable, and not able by any meanes to be recōpensed of any creature nether in heauen nor in earth.

First what an exceading gentlenes of God was thys, whā we wer worthely condemned for our offence, and had no hope of health, to promyse vs streyght wayes, because we should not despayre, that hys onely begotten son the highest treasure that he had, should come downe from his ryght hand, be conceaued by the holy goste, take very flesshe and be borne of the most pure virgin Mary, yea and that without the sede of any man, reconcyle vs to his fauour, make an attonement for vs, purchase grace, mercy, and remission of our synnes, offer hys most blessed bodye a swete smelling sacrifice for our iniquite, suffer his most preciousbloud to be shed for the purgacion and clensyng of our synnes, and become a perfect and full satisfaccion for al the synnes of his people, ỳ is, of so many as repente, beleue in hym, & leade a godly and innocente lyfe. Thys promysed God the father oftentymes, and accordyng to his promyse at hys tyme, predefined & to fore appointed he moste faythfully performed it vnto the perpetual ioy and comfort of al true Chrystians. But in the meane se also how great sees of kindnes did he open vnto vs? After ỳ he had set vs in thys world, how dyd he prosper vs in all thyngs, that we went about? How dyd he gene vs the victorye of our enemyes? Howe wonderfully did he deliuer vs from our cruell enemye Pharao? Howe naturlously preserued he vs whē he made the red see to gene place vnto vs? How fauourably dealt he to vs, when he gaue vs meate frō heauen and water out of ỳ hard rocke? What a land dyd he gene vs flowyng to milke and hony? And because we should liue an honest and godlylyfe before hym, dyd not he geue vs his most holy lawe, yea and that not only in tables of stone, but also wrytten in oure hartes by the holy goste? What goodly ceremonies also receaued we of him, which wer mi steries, figures, types, cloudes and shadowes of good thynges to come euen of Chryste, of hys most holy passion, glorious resurrection: &c. All these thynges were great consolacion to the true, spirituall, and Chrystē men, in almuch as they preached Chryst vnto them, whiche accordyng vnto their fayth wholly fyred on the promyse of GOD, came at the time appoynted into thys myserable worlde, toke flesshe of the moste glorious

Gene.iii.
Esayi.vii.
Math.i.
Luke.i.
Colloſ.i.
Ephe.i.
Esay.liii.
Ephe.v.
i. Iohn.i.
Math.i.

Exo.xiiii.

Ex.xvi. xvii

Exod.xx.
Hiere.xxxi.

glorious virgin Mary, became like to vs in all thinges, sin alone except preached vnto vs the wil of his heauenly father, wrought miracles, suffered and dyed for our synnes, and on the thyrde day rose againe for our iustificacion. Certain daies after he ascended into Heauen, where he now sytteth on the ryght hand of God the father almightie, being ther not ydle, for he incessauntly prayeth for vs, beyng our mediatoure and aduocate, apeasyng dayly the fathers wrath and purchasyng for vs all good thynges. And at the latter day, he shal come agayn to iudge both the quicke and the dead, both the faythful and vnfaythful, both ỳ shepe and the goates, and than shal he take vs both body and soule ennuyed together with hym into eternall glory, where we shall remayne wyth him for euermore. If any man desyreth to know more of the benefytes of God, and of his vnmeasurable kyndnes towarde vs, let hym resorte vnto the Pathway of prayer, and read, where I entreat of thanks geuing from the xlii. Chap. vnto the. xlix. and there shal he se thys matter entreated of at large. If we did consider on thys wise the inestimable benefites of God towarde vs, vndoubtedly we woulde leaue oure vnthankefulnes, & saye with Dauid, what shal I geue agayn vnto the lord for all those thynges, that he hath geuen me? But let vs see what oure Minstrell entendeth to geue agayne vnto God, that we maye folowe hym and do so likewyse.

Marke. xvi.
Luke. xxiiii.
Actes. i.
Heb. ix.
i. Tim. ii
i. Iohn. ii.
Math. xxv.
i. Cor. xv.
i. Thes. iiii.

Searche the Pathway vnto prayer

¶ The fourth verse.

I wil take the cup of health, and cal vpon the name of the Lord.

The sixte string.

HEre Dauid expresseth two thynges, that he entendeth to doo. One is to take the cup of health. The other to call on the name of the Lord. These are two thynges, wherein God very mucke delighteth. Fyrst he sayeth, he wyl take the cup of health, wherby is vnderstande affliccion, trouble, persecucion, mortificacion of olde Adam, killing of carnal affectes, slaying of fleshly lustes, bearyng of the Crosse and at the last death, as it appeareth by the wordes of Chryste to the sonnes of zebedeus: Can ye drynke (sayth he) of the cup ỳ I shal drinke? Also to his father. Let this cup depart from me, wherby he vnderstandeth his passion and death. To recompense partely the kyndnes of god Dauid sayeth, that he will mortifye the ragyng lustes of hys own flesh, that syghte agaynste the spirit, and neuer leaue vntill he hath made the body subiecte to the soule, that in all pointes it may be obediente to the lawe and wyll of God. For this is an high and acceptable sacrifice to God as Dauid wytnesseth in another place, A sacrifice to god is a troubled spirit, a contryte and humble hart God wyl not despise. S. Paule also sayeth, I beseche you brothers by the tender mercyes of God, that you

What the cup of helth signifyeth.

Math. xx.
Math. xxvi.

Psal. l.

Rom. xii.

yougiue your bodies a sacrifice, ẏ is quick, holy and acceptable to God, which is your resonable seruyng of God. And God hymself sayth by ẏ Prophet, vnto whome shall I lobe, but vnto the humble & broken in spirit, & vnto him ẏ feareth my wordes? Agayn he confesseth here that he wyl not only mortify his carnal lustes, that he may be truely spirituall, but he wyll also pacientlỹ suffer, whatsoeuer crosse, that is, trouble, persecucion and affliccion God layeth vpon hym, yea though it be very death. His hart is nowe so enflamed w̄ the loue of God for the benefites that he hath shewed vnto hym, that he reckeneth not only all that he hath, but also his vere lyfe to vile & of to small a price to gyue agayn for the glory of God, that he may at the least in some part shewe hymself thankfull vnto so bounteous and gentle a Lord, as S. Paule sayth, The holy Gost wytnesseth & sayth, that bōdes & troubles abyde me in euery citie. But I care not for it, nether is my life dere vnto me, so that I may fynish my course with ioy, & the office that I haue receaued of the Lord Jesu to testify ẏ gospel of the grace of God. For I am not only redy to be bound, but also to dye for ẏ name of the Lord Jesu.

Esaye. lxvi.

Act. xx. And. xxi.

It is not without a cause, that he calleth affliccion, trouble, or persecucion, the cup of helth or saluacion, for it bringeth in dede helth & saluaciō to a true Christen man. And though the crosse be bitter to ẏ flesh yet is it swete and healthfull to the spirit. And the more ẏ body be depressed & made low, ẏ more is ẏ spirit exalted & made hygh, as S. Paule saith, Though our outward mā be broke, yet ẏ inward is renewed dai by day. Agayn, we are not detters to ẏ flesh, ẏ we should lyue after the flesh. For yf ye lyue after the flesh, ye shal dye. But yf ye mortifi ẏ dedes of ẏ body in ẏ spirit, ye shal lyue. For they ẏ are lead with ẏ spirit of god, are the sonnes of God. Therfore sayth Christ. If any man wyll come after me, let hym deny & forsak him self, & take his crosse dayly & follow me. For by many tribulacions must we enter into ẏ kyngdome of god. And al that wyll lyue godly in Christ Jesu, must suffer persecucion. It was necessary, sayth the scripture, that Christ should fyrst suffer, and so tyse agayn, and enter into glory. But for asmuch as it is an hard thing for a mā of his owne strēgth pacientlỹ to bear the Crosse, and to suffer rebuke, slaunder, ignominy, blasphemy, euel reportes, emprysonment losse of goodes, yea & perchasse very death for Gods trueth and ẏ glory of his word, seyng that though the spirit be redy, yet the flesh is weake, therfore Dauid sayth, He wyll call on the name of the Lorde. Wherfore? Verely for strength, that he may be able to bear the crosse ẏ is layd vpō his back, ẏ he swarue not whan persecucion commeth, and so slaunder ẏ trueth, which so boldly he profesled before. For without ẏ assistence of Gods spirit no man is able to abyde in the tyme of persecucion semeth he neuer so valeaunt a souldiour at other tymes, as we may se in the Apostles of Christ, which before theyr master was in any daunger, promised that they would neuer forsake hym, but sticke vnto hym euen vnto the very dethyet, whan they came to ẏ bront, wel was

Why affliction is called the cup of health.

ii. Cor. iiii. Roma. viii.

Luke. ix. Act. xiiii.

ii. Tim. iii. Luke. xxiiii. Heb. x.

Math. xxvi. Marc. xiiii.

Math. xxvi. Marc. xiii. Luke. xxii. Ioan. xiii.

he that could ronne away fastest, in so much that he, which before craked most, & shewed himself boldest of al the other, I mean Peter, dyd not only fle away from hys master, but also shamefully denyed hym vnto a poore mayde, & sware ỹ he neuer knewe hym, so impotēt, weak, frayle, & ful of al imbecilite is man, if he be left vnto hymself, & not en-dewed with strength from aboue. Therfore our Mynstrell Dauid, kyng & Prophet, not trakyng of his owne strengthes, nor boastyng of hys owne frewyll without the healp of Gods spirit, sayth that he wyll cal on the name of ỹ Lord for strength & valeaunce, ỹ he may manfully abyde in the tyme of persecucion, confesse the truth of Gods word, and publysh his glory before al men, yea though a thousand deathes should follow. It is very profitable for afflict & troubled cōsciences to caull on Pro. xviii. the name of the Lord. For as Salomon sayth, the name of the Lord is a myghty towre, & very strong Bulwark, vnto that doth the rygh-Psal. xxxix. teous man fly, & he shall be exalted & synd succour. Blessed is that man which putteth his trust in the name of the Lord, & regardeth not vani Psal. xlix. ties & false ymaginations. Cal on me, sayth God, in the day of thy trou ble, and I wyl delyuer the, and thou shalt honour me.

Thus se we pattely how Dauid goth about to shewe himself thāke full agayn vnto God for the inestimable benefites, that he hath gyuen hym. He wyll mortify hys carnall affectes, & pacientlỹ suffer what so e-uer crosse, pet secuciō, trouble or afflictiō be layd vpon hys backfor gods truthes sake. And that he may be the more able to do these thynges, he wyll caull on the name of the Lord. All these be very acceptable thyn ges in the syght of God. And God thynketh his benefites well bestowed, where suth gyftes be gyuen agayn vnto hym, procedyng from a gentle and thankfull hart. Nowe we beyng no lesse bound vnto God for his gentlenes than Dauid was, ought to shewe our selues no lesse thankfull agayn to hym, then Dauid dyd, or els are we muth vn Roma. vi. worthy this inestimable benefitence of God. We ought therfore to pu-Colos. iii. tyfyd that no synne reygne in this our mortal body, but that we mortyfy
i. Cor. vi. our eartgly members, whordome, fornication, vnclennes, wātonnes, euell concupiscence and couetousnes, which is the worshyppyng of Idols, for the which the wrath of God is wont to come vpon the chyl dren of vnbeleue. All wrath, indignacion, malyce, cursed speakyng, fyl-Colos. iii. thy communicacion, lying &c, ought we to lay aside, & put vpon vs ten-
Epe. ii. der mercy, gentylnes, honest behauour, mekenes, softenes, goodnes, Rom. vi. charite, peace, ioy, fayth, temperaunce, with all the other fruytes of the Ephe. iiii. spirit. For they that are of Christ, haue crucified the flesh, with ỹ lustes Galat. v. and concupiscēces therof, yea they are dead to the world, and theyr lyfe Colos. iii. is hyd wyth Christ in God. Moreouer we must be contented to take the cup of helth at the Lordes hand, and pacientlỹ suffer what soeuer crosse he laythe vppon vs, yea and prayse hym in the myddes of oure trouble, recountinge oure selues so muche the more blessed, seynge that it is gouen vnto vs not onlye to beleue in hym, but also to suffer for the glory

glory of his name, beyng throughly perſwaded, that yf we ſuffer wyth Chriſt, we ſhall reygne wyth hym. For many are the troubles of the ryghteous in this worlde, but from them all ſhall the Lord delyuer the, yf none otherwyſe, yet at the leaſt by death, which is the next way vnto the very true lyfe. And becauſe it is hard for the fleſh to away with the croſſe (which ſeketh glory, wealth, eaſe, ryches, honour, and not ignominy, ſeaſenes diſquietnes, pouertie, ſhame & oppꝛobry) therfoꝛe muſt we flye with feruent and continuall prayers vnto God and vnto his moſt holy name that we may haue ſtrength ſent vs from aboue, to do theſe thynges aforſayd that by no meanes we be found ingrate, vnthankefull and vnworthy the great and vnmeaſurable kyndneſſe, which God hath ſhewed vnto vs. So ſhall God not only not take away his gifres from vs, but alſo encreaſe them dayly moꝛe and moꝛe, as the Scripture ſayth, To euery one that hath, it ſhall be gyuē, and he ſhall haue abundance. But who ſo hath not, from hym ſhall be taken away, euen that he hath alſo. But let vs heare moꝛe of our Mynſtrelles ſong.

Phil.i. Act.v. Pſal.xxxiii. ii.Tim.ii. Pſal.xxxiii.

Math.xiii. Marke.iiii. Luke.viii.

¶ The fyft verſe.

I wyl pay my vowes vnto the Lord before al his people.

The ſeuenth ſtring.

Dauid goeth forth to declare what he wyll render vnto God for all thoſe thynges that he hath gyuen hym. Before he ſayd, that he would take the cup of helth, and cauill vpon the name of the Lord. Now he addeth, that he wyll alſo pay his vowes vnto the Lord, yea and that before all his people. But what vowes are theſe? Verely not vnfaythfull & folyſh vowes, which diſpleaſe god, as the ſcripture ſaith, but the earneſt promiſes ỹ be made vnto God for to fulfyl his moſt holy Commaundemēts. Theſe vowes wyl he pay. Theſe promiſes wyl he performe. For they make vnto ỹ glory of god, ỹ edifieng of his Church, & the health of his owne ſoul. Therfore wyll he ſtyck to them, euen vnto ỹ very death.

What the vowes are ỹ Dauid wyl fulfyl and performe. Eccle.v.

God gyueth a commaūdement & ſayth. Hear Iſrael, thy God is the one and alone God. Thou ſhalt haue no ſtraung Gods in my ſyght. Thou ſhalt make the no grauen Image. &c.

Exo.xx. Deut.v.

Dauid beyng one of the true Iſraelites hath made a vow to kepe theſe moſt holy preceptes. And as he hath made this vow, ſo wyl he labor for to performe it. For it is not vnfaythfull nor folyſh, but agreable to ỹ ſcripture, nether doth it prouoke the keper of it vnto much inconuenience and abſurdite, but rather vnto great vertu & holynes. So that he is fully bēt to performe his vowe. Let the vnfaythfull Idolatres wor-

The fyrſt and ſecond commaūdement.

shyp what Idoll or false God they lyst. Dauid wyll surely cleaue to this one and alone true God. For in his hart shall none lyt but thys one God alone, nether wyl he aduyt so moche as the shadow of any other to be ioyned with hym, and to haue felowshyp with his God. This his God alone wyll he worshyp, honour & serue. This his God alone wyll he bow & do reuerence vnto. This his God alone wyll he loue with all his hart, mynd, soule, & with all hys powers. This his God alone wyll he magnify & prayse for euer & euer. And bicause he may not vnce be moued by any vayn spectacle, and seduced from the honour, worshyp and seruice of this god vnto any image seruice & Idolatry, he hath made a sure bowe & faythfull promise, that he wyll make no grauen Image, Idoll, or mawmet, but he wyl only cleaue to this his one & alone god, & serue hym not in external ceremonies, but in spirit and truth. For confounded be all they, & shame lyghten on them, sayth he, that worshyp grauen ymages, & glory in theyr mawmettes and Idols.

Deut. vi.
Math. iiii.
Luke. iiii.

Ioan. iiii.

Psal. cxvi.

The thyrde cõmaundement.

Agayn God commaundeth, sayeng. Thou shalt not take the name of thy Lord God in vayn. Dauid hath made a solemne bowe and earnest promyse, that he wyll kepe thys most blyssed Commaundement of god also. He wyll not abuse the name of hys Lord God by no meanes. He wyll swear by nothyng that euer God made, nether by heauen nor by earth, nor any other oth. His communication shall be, yea, yea, na, na. In his aduersite wyl he flye vnto ỳ name alone of his Lord god, as vnto a strong Castel & myghty Bulwarke, & caull on that for healpe and refuge. And in his prosperite he wyl not forget the name of hys Lord God, but celebrate, magnify, cõmẽd & prayse it, yea & lyft it vp w perpetuall encomies, laudes & prayses. Moreouer god sayth, thou shalt sanctify the sabboth daye. This hath Dauid also bowed to obserue and kepe. He wyl not therfore spend the sabboth day in ryotyng, banketyng, playeng, dauncyng, syngyng & suche other vayne pastimes, but in the meditacion of Gods lawe, in readyng the holy scripture, in hearyng godly sermons, in lyftyng vp his harte vnto god w feruent prayers, in gyuyng thanckes to that Lord for his benefites. &c. He wyl also expulse all synne out of his bield, & be at peace with God.

Math. v.
Iacob. v.
Pro. xviii.

The fourth cõmaundement.

The fyfte commaũdement.

Furthermore god commaundeth sayeng, Honour thy father and mother. Here again hath Dauid made a bowe to fulfyl this precepte also, so that he wyll gyue honour, reuerence, & worshyp to so many as this lawe requireth, yea his inferiours wyll he not dishonour.

The fyrte cõmaundement.
Math. v.

God gyueth a commaundement and sayth. Thou shalt not slay. Dauid hath earnestly bowed to kepe this. So that he wyll shed no innocent bloud, hurt no man, seake no mans death, but fauour and loue all men, yea euen his very enemyes. God sayth. Thou shalt commyt none adultry. Solẽmnly hath Dauid bowed to obserue this most godly precept. So that he wyll be no vnclene fornicatour, nor fylthy adulterer, but to auoyd all vnclennes he wyll couple hymself wyth an honest wyfe, and faythfull yokefellowe in holy wedlocke, which is ho-

The seuenth cõmaundement.
i. Cor. vii.
Phil. iiii.
Heb. xiii.

norable

norable amõg al mẽ, & bed vndefyled, to her alone wyll he cleaue, and for her sake refuse all other women, be they neuer so beautifull, fayre, proper, minion, tall, eloquent, rytch, worshypfull, honorable, noble, &c. louyng her as his owne flesh, yea euen as Christ loued the congregacion. Moreouer God commaunded, sayeng, Thou shalt do no theft. As for this precept, Dauid hath earnestly vowed to kepe it vnto the vttermost. So that he wyll not only not steal, but also bountevously giue to so many as haue nede of his help. Math. xix. Ephe. v. Colos. iii. The eight cõmaundement.

And where as God sayth, thou shalt speake no false wytnes agaynst thy neyghbour: Dauid hath vowed and made a faithful promyse, that he wyll rather, as charite requiteth, couer the multitude of synnes, forgyue them that offend hym, and seake to profyt all men no lesse then hym self. Finally where God sayth, thou shalt not couyt thy neyghbours wyfe, nor house, nor feld. &c. Dauid is fully as this poĩt, not once to couyt any part of his neyghbours goodes, but rather to helpe hym forward & to do for hym, what soeuer lieth in his power. These be the commaundementes of God, and these hath he vowed to kepe. These vowes therfore wyll he paye vnto the Lord, yea and that before all his people, that men seyng the lyght of his good workes, may glorify his father, which is in heauen. The ninthe cõmaundement. Prouer. x. i. Pet. iiii. Math. vi. and. xviii. Mar. xi The tenth commaundement. Math. v.

And for as muche as Dauid is a kyng, and hath vowed vnto God to do the office of a true kyng, which is to mayntayn vertue and to expulse vice, he wyll not only prouide that he hym self kepe these cõmaundemẽtes, but that all his subiectes also kepe them euen from the hyest to ỹ lowest. He wyll do his diligẽce that there shal no God be worshypped in his kyngdome among hys people, but the one and alone true God of Israel. Hym only shall they honour, worshyp, prayse, serue and loue. Nether shal any grauẽ image be suffred to be made in his realme for to obscure and blot the glory of this almighty god. On the name of this God alone shall all hys people caull, and flye vnto in theyr aduersite, prayse and commend it for euer and euer, nether shall any of them be so bold as once to swere vniustly by it. The Sabboth day shall all his subiectes sanctify. They shall not spend it vaynely and ydelly, but vertuously and godly, in readyng the holy scriptures, in hearyng Gods word synceryly preched, in prayeng feruẽtly vnto god, and in such other godly meditacions. Theyr superiours shall they honour also with all humilite, submission and obedience. They shall kyll no man, but defend euery man in his ryght, loue al men, wysh well vnto them, do for thẽ what so euer they are able. As for fornicacion, adultry, whordome or any other vnclennes, they shall cõmyt none, but euery man shall freely be suffered to haue hys owne wyfe, and euery woman her owne husbonde, & so godly lyue togither in chast & pure matrimony. The office of a kyng, Would god ỹ al kynges & rulars would do thus. Cor. vii.

And as for stealing, bearyng of false wytnes, or couetyng of theyr neyghbours goodes, Dauid lyke a true kyng hath vowed & promised so to order & rule his subiectes that none of thẽ all shall fall into those bites & enormities. If they do, & wyl not amende: Dauid beareth not ẏ sweard in vayn, he wyll surely punyſh the trasgressours. For Dauid hath made a vowe and he is earnestly bente to kepe it, ẏ both he & hys people shall vnfaynedly obserue the most holy commaundementes of God. Oh that all kinges, Princes, Dukes, & rulers would folow thys most holy and vertuous kyng, & streyghtly loke vnto the obseruaunce and true keppynge of these vowes. For these are the vowes that are accepted before God. These are the vowes that cast no mans soule in to the daunger or euerlastyng damnacion, but rather healpeth forward vnto the enheritaunce of lyfe eternal. These are no poppyſh, mõkyſh superstitious and pharisaicall vowes, inuented of ẏ ydle braynes of men, but pure godly, wholesome & christen vowes which so many as hope to be saued, ought streyghtly to obserue & kepe, yea to performe them vnto the vttermost of theyr power. Thus se we what ẏ vowes ar that Dauid wyll pay vnto ẏ Lord before all his people, for his benefytes, euen the fulfyllyng of Gods commaundementes, and doyng hys office, as it becommeth a true kyng. So lykewise must we do, and pay our vowes, also to ẏ Lord that is to saye, kepe his holy commaundementes, forsake the world, the dyuel & the flesh with all theyr pompes & pleasures, as we professed at our baptisme, and euery man lyue accordyng to this vocacion & callyng, as for an example.

Rulars.
Rom. xiii.
i. Pet. ii.
Exo. xxiii.
Deut. i.

Let them that bear office, authorite, rule and power in the commõ weale, punyſh the euel, mayntayn the good, accept no parson in iudgement, alowe no false accusacion, shed no innocent bloud, hear the small so well as the great, set forth gods glory, promote hys holy word, and in all thynges seake the profyt of the common weale.

Subiectes.
Rom. xiii.
i. pet. ii.
Tit. ii.
Byshoppes & Prestes.
Act. xx.
i. pet. v.
i. Tim. iiii.
ii. Tim. iiii.

Let the subiectes be faythfull, true and obedient to theyr Princes and hygher powers. Let the Byshops and Prestes that be called vn to the office of preachyng, take hede to theyr selues, and to all the flocke, in the which the holy Goſt hath appoynted them ouerseers to fede the congregacion of God. Let them fede Christes flocke so muche as lyeth in theyr power, and take the ouersyght of them, not as though they were compelled, but wyllyngly, not for the desyre of fylthy lucre, but of a good mynd, not as Lordes ouer the Pharyshes, but to be an example vnto the flocke. Let them cast away vngodly and olde wyues fables, and be vnto them that beleue an example in the word, in conuersacion, in loue, in spirit, in fayth, in purenes. Let them gyue attendaunce vnto readyng, to exhortacion, to doctrine. Let them study to shew them selues to God laudable, which nede not to be ashamed.

Husbondes.
i. Pet. iii.
Wyues.
i. Cor. xi.
Ephe. v.
Coloſ. iii.
i. Tim. ii.

Let the husbondes loue theyr wyues, as theyr owne bodyes, and be not bytter, churlyſh or vnkynd vnto them, but gyue honour vnto them as vnto the weaker vesselles, and as vnto them that are fellow heyres wyth them of the grace of lyfe. Lykewyse let the wyues be in subiection to theyr husbõdes, as vnto the Lord in all thynges, and so behaue themselues as it becommeth women of an honest and godly conuersacion.

facion. Let them aray themselues in comely apparel with shamefastnes and discrete behauour, not with brayded heere, or gold, or pearl, or costely aray, but with such as it becommeth women that professe godlynes through good workes. Let the inward man of the hart be uncorrupt, with a meke and quiet spirit, which before god is much set by. For after this maner in the old tyme, dyd the holy women, whiche trusted in God, tier themselues, and wer obedient to their husbandes: euen as Sara obeyed Abraham and called hym Lorde, whose daughters the wynes are, so long as they do well, not beyng afrayed for any trouble Let fathers not rate their childzen, leaste they be of a desperate mynde but bryng them vp in the nourtoure and informacyon of the Lord. Let the childzen also obey their parentes in all thynges, for that is wel pleasyng vnto the Lord. Let maisters do vnto their seruauntes that which is iust and equall puttyng away threatnynges, and knowe that they also haue a maister in heauen, with whom there is no respect of persõs. Let the seruauntes agayn be obedient vnto their bodely maisters in al things with fear and tremblyng in singlenes of hart as vnto Chryste, not with seruice only in the eie syght as men pleasers, but as ỳ seruauntes of Chryst, doyng the will of God from the hart wyth good will. Let them thinke, that they serue the Lord and not mẽ, and let them be sure, that whatsoeuer good a man doeth, he shall receaue it agayne of the Lorde, whether he be bonde or free. To conclude, let euery one amonge vs do our dutye, and lyue accordyng to the vocacion, wherevnto God hath called vs. So shal it come to passe, that we shall not walke vnworthy the kyndnes of God. So shall we truly pay our vowes vnto ỳ Lord. So shall we faythfully performe that, which we heretofore promysed in baptisme. So shall we dayly more and more encrease in the loue of God, and taste more plenteously of hys bounteous gyftes. But it is to be noted, that Dauid sayeth, Before all his people. This is none other thyng, but that which Chryst commaundeth in the gospell of Mathew, saying. Let your light so shine before men, that they may se your good workes, & glorify your father, which is in heauen. A Chrysten man is the lyght of the world. Therfore ought he in al his actes to shine with the light of godly conuersacion before al men, that other by his true godlynes may be moued to folow hys good works, and praise the heauenly father, which worketh so mightely in his childzen, vnto hys exceadyng great glory, and the vtter confusyon of Satan. Bee ye blameles, sayeth S Paule, and such as no man can complayn of you pure and the childzẽ of God worthout rebuke in the mids of the croked and peruerse nacion, among whom see that ye shyne as great lyghtes in the world, holding fast the word of lyfe. This ought a Chrystẽ man to do, & in al pointes to fashion his life accordyng to ỳ wil of God, & not to dissent one iote or title frõ the word of god in al his actes for no mãs pleasure, no though it should cost hym hys lyfe. For certayne and sure

Gene. xvi.

Fathers. Childzen.

Maisters.

Actes. xx. Rom. ii.

Seruauntes Colloss. iii.

Ephe. vi.

Titus. ii. i. pete. ii.

Math. v.

philip. ii.

may he be, that is a true and faithful Christen man, that if he confesseth Christ aright, and liue in all pointes according to the ordinaūce of God reiecting and casting away the damnable maners of the worldlynges he shal surely be hated, railed vpon, euil spoken of, blaspheмed, persecuted, prisoned, and at the last suffer death at the tyrauntes hands, except God preserue hym, as we may see throughout al the holy Scriptures.

Math.x. Luke.vi. Iohn.xiii. xv

For the seruaunt is not aboue the master. If they called the father of ỹ houshold Beelzebub, how muche more shal they call them so, that be of his houshold? If Christen men wer of the world, the world would loue that, which is his. But in as much as Chryst hath chosen them frō the world, therfore the world hateth them. What is than to be sayd? Verely whether we lyue or dye, we are the Lordes, and precious is ỹ death of Sayntes in the syght of the Lord, as it foloweth.

Rom.xii.

¶ The eyght stryng.

Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of hys Saynctes.

THis song of our Minstrel Dauid must nedes be very pleasant and delectable to the hearers, seyng that he singeth al things in such a godly & goodly order, & setteth euery thing in hys right place. For after that he hath made mencion of paying hys vowes vnto ỹ Lord, which is to do al thyngs according to the cōmaundement of God, and not after the fansy of carnal reason, nor the iudgement of the wyse worldlynges, wherof is like to ensew, as we haue heard before, much trouble, yea very death (for ỹ world cannot abyde to be rebuked nor to haue hys pompe, pryde, pleasures, glory, honor, hipocrisy, superstition, fayned holynes, pharisaicall iustice, glistering righteousnes, dotyng inuenciō, fleshly imaginacions, good ententes. &c. to be reproued yea and condemned by the worde of God) he now declareth what a dere and precious thynge the death of Sayntes, ỹ is to say, of the faythful is in the syght of ỹ Lord be it recōted before ỹ world of neuer so great ignominy, despite, reproch & shame And this doth he to encourage mē to pay their vowes vnto the Lorde, that is to say, to be earnest in ỹ word of God, to seke the promociō of his glory and to walke innocētly before ỹ eies of his diuine maiesty, though al ỹ world, yea very hel should be wod and ryse vp against vs. Precious sayeth he, in the sight of the Lorde is the death of his Sainctes.

The wicked in this worlde haue all thynges more at ther pleasure thā the true Christians.

It is to be noted, that he calleth not the death of the wycked, precious in the syght of the Lord, but the death of Sayncte, yea and that not popyshe but Gods Saynctes. Precious, sayth he, in the sight of the lord is the death of his Sainctes. As for the wycked, so longe as they lyue in thys world, they lyue more at their hartes ease, & haue all things more plenteously at their own pleasure concernyng tēporall matters, than the true Chriſten men and faythfull Saynctes of God hyme, in ſo much that as we read in diuers places of the holy Scripture, the godly haue bytymes complaīn vnto God of the proſperous eſtate of the vngodly, and ſome almoſt to accuſe God of vnrighteouſnes, ſeeing the enimyes of God proſper ſo wel, and haue good luck in al thynges, & they ſtraight which moſt vnfeinedly fauour gods word and ſeke his glory, are troubled & vexably oppreſſed, ſlaundered, perſecuted, emptyed, and readye to be ſlain at al houres. For as the Pſalmograph ſaith: The vngodly lyeth in the couerhand, and the poze is vexed. The ſinner is praiſed in folowyng the luſtes of hys hart, and the wycked is bleſſed and made much of. My fete wer almoſt gone, ſayeth Dauid, my treadynges had nygh ſlypped.

For I was ſore greaued at the wicked, beholdyng the vngodly in ſuch proſpe-rite. For they are in no perel of death, but ſtand faſt, lyke a palace. They come in no miſfortune lyke other folke, neyther are they plagued like other men. And this is the cauſe (ſayth he) they are ſo puffed vp with pryde, and ouerwhelmed with cruelte and vnrighteouſnes. Their eyes ſtode out for fatnes, they do euen what they lyſt. Corrupt are they and ſpeake yll, their hyngyes malicyouſly, proude and preſumptuous are their wordes. They ſtretche forth their mouth vnto heauen, and their tong goeth thꝛough ꝑ worlde.
Therfore fal the people vnto them, and there ſhal ſucke they no ſmal aduantage. Tuſh, ſay they, how ſhal God perceaue it? Is there any knowledge in the moſt higheſt? Lo theſe are the vngodly, theſe proſper in ꝑ worlde.
Theſe haue ryches in poſſeſſion. Theſe haue comen that grow vp as yonge plantes. Theſe haue minion & trym daughters, gatherynges rounde about euen lyke vnto a goodlyous temple. Theſe haue their garners ful and plenteous with al maner of thyng. Theſe haue ſheepe that bryng forth thouſandes and hondꝛethouſandes in their paſtures & fyeldes.
Theſe haue fat oxen, that are ſtrong to labour. To be ſhort, theſe haue no miſchaunce, no decay nor trouble, no noyſe, no complayning in theyr ſtreetes that ſhould greue them. Jeremy alſo ſayeth, O Lorde thou arte more ryghteous, than that I ſhould diſpute wyth thee, neuertheles let me talke wyth thee in thynges reaſonable. How happeneth it, that the waye of the vngodly is ſo proſperous, and that it goeth ſo well wyth them, which wythout any ſhame offend and lyue in wickednes? Thou planteſt them, they take rote, they growe, and bryng forth fruite. They boaſt much of thee, yet doeſt thou not puniſhe them. Thus ſee we howe the vngodly lyke fat beaſtes wallow and tomble themſelues in al kinde of pleaſures, neyther wante they any thyng in this worlde, yea theyr hartes can deſyre, yea they haue more proſperite, than they can away wyth. Al yet are the godly and Saynctes of the Lorde oppreſſed wyth all miſerye, leadyng a lyfe in great calamite and wretchednes, more than any creatures in the worlde. But yet beholde the ende of the wycked. For ſodenily they do conſume, peryſhe and come to nought.
The Pſalmograph ſayeth: ꝑ death of the wycked ſinners is very euyll.
Agayn. The vnrighteous man ſhal receaue his plages & punyſhmentes whan

Pſal.xiiii. Rom.iii.

Pſal.lxxiii.

Pſal.cxliiii.

Iere.xii.

Luke.xii.

Pſal.xxxiiii.

whan he dyeth. But let vs beholde these thynges as in a pure myrrour by redyng longe ertayne Hystoryes. How triumphed the wycked kynge Pharao vpon the Israelites gods people? Howe litle regarded he the sermons spoken, and the miracles wrought by the seruauntes of God Moyses and Aaron through the diuine spirit? How continued he to persecute the people of God euen vnto the very houre of hys death? But beholde the ende, whan he was moste puffed vp in his pryde, and moste bent to do mischief, how did God trap hym in hys owne wilines, and euen brought that vpō his own heed, that he entended to bryng vpon other? Dyd not God meruaylously drowne him with al his wicked army, and preserue hys people by that meanes? But what was that temporall death in comparyson to the death eternal, and ỳ moste grieuous and intollerable paynes that he now suffreth in hel fyre wout mercye? Agayn, how did Sennacherib the proude kyng of the Assirians blaspheme not only agaynst the good kyng Ezechias, but also the liuing God, yea and blaspheamed him saying, as that moste cruell and lionlyke tyraunt the great Turke doth now a dayes, that he wold vtterly subdue both hym and hys company, yea and that their God shoulde be no more able to delyuer them, than a broken staffe of rede? He leaned much to hys own poletyke wyt and martiall valeaunce, thinking that in as much as heretofore he had subdued all kyngdoms, whiche he inuaded he also should haue ouercome the people of God. But God, whyche is the liuing and almightie God able in a twynckling of an eye to make frustrate and vayn all the fleshly ymaginations of the worldly tyraunts, yea and to bryng to nought all their power, sente hys Aungell the very same nyght, that all the mischiefe was entended agaynst his people, whyche smote in the host of the Assirians an Cl[illegible] men. So that Sennacherib brake vp and departed and was shortly after slayn with swearde of hys owne sonnes. An ende worthy suche a proude and blasphemous Tiraunt. But what is this vnto the infernal paines, that he endeles, which he now remedyles suffreth? What proude crakes also did that arrogant Tyraunt Holofernes make against the people of Israell, thinking that there was no kyngdome so inuincible, strong and fortressed, but that he with his martial puissaunce and feates of warre was able easily to ouercome? So that he toke no thoughte, lyued all in pleasure, lyke a careles swyne, geuing him selfe to al kynde of beastlyke pleasures. But howe valeauntly euen by an woman God dyd ouercome hym, and put all hys army to flyght, the Hystory maketh mencō. What shal I speake of the two Herodes, whereof the one in the wyds of his fury when he was most whot and fyry in seking the death of Christ and for hys sake sleying innumerable infantes, miserably dyed, bryngyng nothing lesse than hys cruell and bloudy purpose to effect, so valeaunt & mighty is our Lord God to extinguishe and quench the tiranny of these bloudsowpers, whā it is hys most godly pleasure, & to preserue those, whō he wil haue kept free from their crudelite & furious madnes

The

Exo. viii. &c. & xiiii.

iiii. Reg. viii. and, ix. ii. Par, xxxii. Eccle. xlviii. Esay. xxxvi. and, xxxvii.

iiii. Reg. xix. ii. Para. xxxii

Iudith. xiii.

Math. ii.

The other Herode euen in the mids of hys pompe, honor and glory, being clad in his kingly apparell, and set Luciferlyke on his iudgemēt seat, after that he had most Tyrauntelike persecuted certain of Christs churche, yea and slain with sweard James the brother of John, was smote of the Aungell of the Lord, because he gaue not ỳ glory to God. So that he was eaten vp of wormes. Acted. xii. But what nede I rehearse so many Hystories out of the diuine letters, seeing that this one, which I shal now recite, may seme aboundantly to satisfy for to shew, how precious in the sight of the Lord the death of his Saincres is, seme they yt lyue in this world neuer so miserable, wretched, pitifull, poore, nedy, beggerly, and full of all trouble, sorow, dolour and calamite: again, how vile and detestable the death of ỳ wycked is in the Lords sight, be they in lyfe here neuer so pompous, galant, easy, voluptuous, ioyful, quiet, easies and popelyke. S. Luke in hys gospel declareth, howe there was a certayne rych man, which was apparelled wyth purple and cotte ipe lynnen, and fared delicyously euery day. Luke. xvi. In these wordes the Euaungelyst shewerh manifestly how thys rych man lyued all in pleasure, and had all thynges according to his hartes desyre. But behold the end, he was cruel, merciles and vnpitefull to the poore. Therfore when he dyed, the Scripture sayth, that he was caried down into hell, where he was tormented with such greuous flames of fyre, and intollerable burninges, that he desired Abraham to sende down Lazarus vnto hym, ỳ he myght dyp the typ of his finger in the water, and coole his tonge, for he was greuously tormented in that flame. But Abraham sayd, remember sonne, that thou hast receaued thy pleasures in thy lyfe, and contrary wyse Lazarus receaued paynes and troubles. Therfore is he nowe comforted, and thou art tormented. As for the poore man, his life was so wretched, beggerly and miserable, that no man would scasely vouchsafe once to cast their eie and to lobe toward hym, he was such an abiect, so vile, so rent, so torne, so Lazarlike and ful of greuous sores. Only the dogs licked his sores. But behold the end. This poore man dyed, and was caryed of the Angels into Abrahams bosome. This Hystory declareth plainly, how precious the death of the Saints, that is, of the faithful, is in the sight of the Lord, appear their lyfe neuer so miserable before the deinty worldlynges: again, howe vile and detestable the death of ỳ wycked is in gods sight, haue they spent their like in neuer so much ioy, pleasure and felicitie, and wer they recounted before the world neuer so blessed, happy and fortunate, and brought to ỳ grounde wt neuer so great pompe and solemnite. And here see we ỳ to be true, whiche is wrytten Wo be to you rich men, which haue your consolacion. Luke. vi. Wo bee to you that are fylled, for ye shall honger. Amos. vi. Wo be to you that laugh nowe for ye shall lament and wepe. Wo be to you, whan all men shall prayse you, for accordynge to these thynges dyd theyr fathers to the false Prophetes. But blessed are ye that honger nowe, for ye shall be fylled. Math. v. Blessed are ye that wepe nowe, for ye shall laughe. Parkes wel. The deintie worldlynges linges receaue payne after thys life, but the faithfull in the Lord, which be oppressed with misery and troubled for gods trueth, shal receaue ioy and glory. So that as Dauid sayeth, Precious in the sight of the Lorde is the death of his Sainctes. Hereto agreth the saying of S. John in hys Apoc.xiiii. reuelacion. Blessed are the dead, which dye in the Lorde. The dead of Saynctes must nedes be precious in the syghte of the Lorde, and they which dye in the Lord must nedes be blessed, seyng that both the glory of God is set forth by their death, and the Sainctes themselues set in a Sap.iii. perpetual ioy and euerlasting quietnes without any more care or trou-Deu.xxxiii. ble. For after that they haue offered vp this their lyfe vnto GOD, the soules of the righteous are streyght wayes in the hande of God, and the payn of death shal not touch them. In the sight of the vnwyse they ap-Sap.v. peare to dye, and their ende is taken for very destruction. The ways of Heb.xi. the ryghteous is iudged to be vtter destruction, but they ar in rest. And Rom.viii. though they suffer payn before men, yet is their hope ful of immortali-ii.Cor.v. tie. They are punished but in fewe thynges, neuertheles in many thin-i.Pet.i. ges shal they be wel rewarded. For God proueth them, and findeth the mete for hymselfe, yea as golde in the fornace doeth he try them, and receaueth them as a burnt offeryng, and whan the tyme commeth, they shalbe loked vpon. The righteous shall shine as the sparkes, that runne Math.xiii. through the rede bush. They shall iudge the nacions, and haue domini.Cor.xv. on ouer the people, and their Lord shal reygne for euer. They that put Math.xix. their trust in hym, shal vnderstande the trueth, and such as be faythfull

i.Cor.vi. wyll agree vnto hym in loue, for his chosen shal haue gyftes and peace.
But the vngodly shalbe punished accordyng to their owen imaginacion, for they haue despised the ryghteous, and forsaken the Lord.

Moreouer the ryghteous shall stande in great stedfastnes agaynst such Sapi.v. as haue dealt extremely with them, and taken away their labours.
Math.ix. When they see it, they shalbe vexed with horrible feare, and shal wonder at the hastines of their sodden healthy gronynge for very disease of mynd and shal say within themselues, hauing inward sorow and mour-nyng for very anguishe of mynde: These are they, whom we some time Sap.iii. had in derision, and iested vpon. We foles thought their liues very mad nes, and their ende to be without honor. But lo, how they are counted among the children of God, and their portion is among the Saincts.
Therfore haue we erred from the way of trueth. The lyght of righte-ousnes hath not shyned vnto vs, and the sonne of vnderstandyng rose not vpon vs, we haue wery ed our selues in the way of wyckednes and destruction. Tedious wayes haue we gone, but as for the way of the Iacob.v. Lord we haue not knowen it. What good hath our pryde done vnto ii.Para.xxxi. vs, or what profyt hath the pompe of rytches brought vs? All these thyngs Sap.ii. are passed away as a shadow. &c. These and suche other wordes, shal they that haue synned speake in hell. But the ryghteous shall lyue for Psal.xxxix. euermore. Their rewarde also is with the Lorde, and their remembraunce with the highest. Therfore shal they receaue a glorious kyngdome,

dome, and a beautyfull crowne of ỹ Lordes hand. For ỹ his ryght hãde shall he couer them, & with his owne arme shall he defende them. &c.

Thus se we how dere & precious in the syght of the Lorde the death of his Sayntes is. S. Paule hauyng experience of this thing, when he was yet alyue, sayd on this manner: I desyre to be dissolued and losoned oute of this mortal bodye, and to be with Chryst. Also kynge Dauid: woo is me that I tary in thys worlde so longe. phil.i. Psal.cxix.

Therfore howe so euer the wycked worldlynges recount the death of the Sayntes, whyther it chaunceth to them by famyn, hõger, swerde water, fyre, halter or any other wyse, vndoubtedly it is precious in the syght of the Lord, appeare it before the world of neuer so great ignominy, reproche, infamy, shame, and rebuke. Happi therfore is he, that dyeth thys death, how so euer it chaunseth vnto hym. Blessed is ỹ crosse, which bryngeth this glory. But let vs se how it cõmeth to passe, that ỹ deth of Sayntes is so precious in ỹ syght of the Lorde. It followeth.

The syxte verse.

O Lord I am thy seruant yea thy seruaunt in dede & the son of thy handmayde: thou hast broken my bondes.

The nynth string.

BEcause no man, be he neuer so holy, good & perfecte, should thynke that through hys owne holynes, goodnes & perfection, he hath deserued that his deathe shoulde be dere, precious, & of great valour in the Lordes syght, or els because that he had suffred many great tormentes for the glorye of God, yea & perchaunse very death, & so by that meanes recounte hymself worthy by hys owne desertes of the lyfe eternall: oure Mynstrell Dauid in this verse of his songe, not vnto the derogacion of ỹ sayntes honour, whiche are not to be defrauded of their prayse, but vnto the promocion and settynge forth of Gods glory, syngeth here, howe it commeth to passe, that the death of Sainctes, that is, of the faythfull, is so precious in the syght of the Lord. The cause is thys, saith he, because God hath broken theyr bondes. For what is mã, that he maye appeare righteous in the syght of God, before whom a chyld of one day olde is not pure, nor the starres in the Element, nor yet the Aungelles in heauen. There is no man good, but God alone. All our ryghteousnesses are as a clothe polluted wyth menstrue. Who is able to say, my hart is pure and I am cleane without synne? The most righteous man in the world maye pray on thys manner wyth Dauid, Lorde enter not into iudgement with thy seruaunte, for none that lyueth, shal be found ryghteous in thy syght. Is it any maruayle, when of our selues we are not able to thynke a good thoughte, moche lesse to worke any good dede by our owne power, before we be regenerate, borne a newe, and made other men by Christes Spirite. Iob.xiii. Math.xix. Esa.lxiiii. prouer.xx. 1.Ioan.i. psal.ciiii. ii.Corxiii. Ioan.iii. Rom.viii.

And as touchyng the affliccion and trouble, that we suffer in thys

worlde, seme it to the flesh neuer so greate, paynefull and intollerable, yet can it not be compared to ỳ glory, that shalbe shewed to vs as S. Paule sayth. Notwithstandynge yf we suffer with Christ, we shall also reygne with Christ, yea & be glorysied with hym, not that we of our selues haue deserued so great glorye, but because God hath so promised which can not lye, but is faythfull in al his wordes, & leaueth no good dede vnrewarded, that is done in Christ, yea and that for hys prompte sake, through his vnmesurable mercye poured forth plenteously in the most precious bloud of Christ Jesu. Now seyng that not we onlye but also al ỳ euer we do of oure selues is vnpure & vnclene in the syght of god, vntyl both we & al our dedes be purified by the diuin spirit, therfore before we canne bryng forth any thyng that maye be approued & accepted before God, we must be delyuered from that most miserable captiuite, wherunto we were caste of Satan through the synne of Adam. Our bondes must be broken, we must be set at liberte from the power of Satan, syn, death, hel. &c. This thyng once done, than what so euer we do in Christ and in oure newe regeneracion, must nedes be allowed before God, & receaued as an acceptable Sacrifice. Yea whyther we lyue or dye, both our lyfe & our death is ryght dere and precious in ỳ syght of the Lord. But let vs returne vnto our songe.

Rom. viii.
i. Cor. xii.
ii. Tim. ii.
Heb. iiii.
Tit. i.
Psal. cxliii.
Math. x.
i. Pet. i.
Ioan. iii.
Rom. xiiii.

Gen. iii.
Rom. v. vi. vii. viii.
Mark wel.

The goodnes of God toward vs.

Although it be true, & nothyng more true, ỳ God of hys owne mere mercy & fre goodnes & vndeserued benignite saued vs whan we were so vtterly loste, that by no meanes we could seke any parte of our owne saluacion, nor recouer by our owne strength & power any thyng at all that we before had lost in Adam, so that both oure creacion, election, redemcion, saluacion, iustificacion, & glorificacion commeth only of hym through hys most entierly beloued sonne, our Lord & Sauiour Jesus Christe: Yet do these hys benefites only belonge vnto thē, that are hys faythfull seruauntes, & the sonnes of his handemayd, as Dauid sayth here: O Lord because I am thy seruaunte, yea thy seruaunt in dede, and the sonne of thy handmayde, thou hast broken my bondes. Mese here that Dauid confesseth, that God brake hys bondes, but he addeth also, that he therfore is hys seruaunt, yea hys vnfayned seruaunte & ỳ sonne of his handmayd. Wherby we mate easly learne that the merciful benefites of God the father, which lyghe poured out in Christes bloude, pertayne not vnto all persons vniuersallye, but onely vnto those, that are hys seruauntes, yea and that not fayned, but true, harty, louyng and faythfull, & the sonnes of hys hande mayd. God hath performed ỳ othe, sayth ỳ good preste zacharye father to S. John baptist, which he swar vnto Abrahā our father, to gyue vs, that we beyng without feare and delyuered frō the power of our enemies, should serue hym in holynes & ryghteousnesse before hym all the dayes of our lyfe. We are delyuered sayth thys good preste, from the power of our enemies not ỳ we should lyue wickedly and vngodly, but that we should serue oure Lord God, not in our owne fleshy ymaginacions and blynde good ententes, but in

Note to whom the benefytes of God in Christ belōg

Luke. i.
Gene. xxii.

holynes

holynes & righteousnes, yea & that not a daye or two, but all the dayes of our lyfe. God hath not called vs, sayeth S. Paule, vnto vnclennes, but vnto sanctification. God hath blessed you, sayth the scripture, by hys sonne Jesus, that euery one of you shoulde turne from his wicked nes. God hath broken our bondes, that we shoulde be hys faythfull seruauntes & the sonnes of his hande mayd, as Dauid sayth. Now what is it to be the seruaunt of God? Euen truely to do those thynges that we be commaunded of God. In consideracion wherof S. Paule & the other Apostles in al theyr Epistles cal them selues the seruaūtes of God, bycause vnto the vttermost of theyr power they euer fulfylled those thinges that were enioyned thē of god. For it becommeth a seruaūt to fulfyll his masters cōmaundemēte, & not to worke after his owne fansy, so maye he be bolde to appere in his masters syghte, whan so euer he be called, & to aske that which hys master hath promised him. In lyke mā ner yf we wyll be counted & so proued the seruauntes of God vnfaynedly, we must earnestly consider euery mā accordyng to hys callyng, what God hath commaunded vs in hys holy lawe, and that we must labour vnto the vttermost of our power for to fulfyl, or els we are no true seruauntes of God. For by no meanes may we leaue the wyll of God vnfulfylled, & practise thynges of our owne imaginacīō. If any man loueth me, saith Christ, he wyl kepe my word & my father shal loue hym, & we wyl come vnto hym and dwell with hym. He that hath my commaūdemētes & kepeth them, he it is that loueth me. For not euery one that sayth vnto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kyngdom of heuen, but he that doth the wyll of my father, which is in heauen.

What it is to be the seruaunte of God.

Ioan. viiii. xiiii. xv.

Math. vii.

But it is to be noted, that Dauid doth not only name hymself the seruaunt of God, but he doubleth it & sayth, yea the seruaunt of God in dede. As though he should say, god hath done moch for me, he hath broken my bondes, he hath deliuered me oute of captiuite, & set me agayn at liberte, therfore wyll I be his seruaunt, yea & that not faynedly, but hys seruaunt in dede, doyng what so euer he commaundeth me, yea though it should coste me my lyfe. So it becometh vs not only to professe our selues to be the seruauntes of God and christē men by mouth, but also to expresse it in very dede, seyng that not the hearers but the doers of the law shall be iustified before God.

Math. vii. Roma. viii. Iacob. i.

O Lord God be mercyfull to vs, how many be ther nowe a dayes, that cauill themselues the seruaūtes of God and gospellers, and yet are nothyng lesse in theyr dedes? They crake moch of fayth, but they bryng not forth the fruytes of fayth. They talke moch of the gospell, but they lyue no part of the gospel. They read the holy scriptures, but they fashiō theyr lyues nothyng therafter. They cal Christ theyr sauiour, yet walk they nothyng worthy hys kyndenes. They thynke them selues the sonnes of lyght, but they exercise the workes of darknes. Oh that they were Goddes seruauntes in dede, feruent gospellers, earnest practisers of fayth, true followers of the holy Scriptures, to conclude,

Agaynst the grosse Gospellers and vayne talkers of the scripture.

both louers and lyuers of Christes gospell, that wel were it with Chri stes church. But alas theyr lyuyng is so dissolute, & theyr manners so Tit.i. wycked and vngodly, that we may well say, as S. Paule writeth
They professe þ they know God, but they denye hym wyth theyr actes, beyng they are abominable, disobedient & vnapte to al good workes.

Moreouer Dauid calleth hymself here not only the true and faythfull seruaunt of God, but also the sonne of Gods handmayd. Who is Who is the handmayd of God. this handmayd of God? Verely the vniuersall congregacion of Christ, which from the begynnyng of the world hath serued God and beleeued in hym, whose sonne euery one is, þ beleeueth in God. For he is begotte of God, the sonne of god by fayth to that congregacion, whose member he is made, & that congregacion by preachyng begetteth hym to God, that beleeueth the word of god. So that as the congregacion is a mo-
Gala.iiii. ther by begetyng and wynnyng other to the fayth, so is he þ beleeueth, & is begotten vnto the fayth, the sonne of the congregacion, as S. Paule wryteth to the Galathians, My lytle chyldren, of whom I trauayll in i.Cor.iiii. byrth agayn, or vnto whom I am agayn wyth chylde, vntyll Christe be fashyoned in you. Also to the Corinthians, although ye haue many ma i.Tim.i. sters in Christ, yet haue ye not many fathers. For I begat you in Christ Jesu by the gospell. He also writyng to Timothe, calleth hym hys na-Esa.xlix. Aud.liiii. tural sonne in þ fayth. Agayn, Syon signifyeng þ Church of Christ, sayth by þ Prophet, who hath begotte me these? Also in another place the desolate hath no chyldren, than þ maryed wyfe.

Thus se we, that we must both be the true seruauntes of God, and also the sonnes of the handmayd of god, Christes church, yf we wyl en ioye the benefites, that ly bent out in Christ. And verely it is not wyth out a cause required of vs, not only that we shoulde be the faythfull seruauntes of God, but also the sonnes of hys handemayd. For many in tymes past, nether want ther at thys day, haue bosted valeauntly that they were the seruauntes of God, yea & would seme of a feruent zele to dye for the glory of god, yet in asmuch as they wer not the sonnes also of godis handmayd, they wer not the seruauntes of God in dede but dissemblers and Hypocrites. Of thys sorte wer all the olde Heretikes, Schismatikes, and false Christians in tymes past, which sowed dissension in Christes church, & deuided them selues from the holy catholike church, which is the fellowshyp of sayntes, by teachyng straunge doctrine, and mayntenyng erroneous opinions contrary to the doctrine of the holy scripture, & the theachyng of the true godly fathers. Of thys Math.xiii. Marc.iiii. Tit.iii. Heb.xiii. sorte also at this tyme are the Anabaptistes, Arrians, Free wyl men & other Phanatical & fraunty Spirites which haue bayn vilios inuited of theyr owne braynes, so we cockel among the good wheat in the Lor-des felde, bryng in straunge sectes, inuente newe opinions, make dissen-cion in Christes church, allure men from the olde & true christen fayth, corrupte the scriptures, teach doctrine contrary to the playne of goddes word, trouble the common weale of Christendom, &c. All these in as much

much as they haue deuided & cutte of them selues from the chyrch of Chryst, which is the hand mayd of god, pertayne not vnto god, neither haue they any parte of gods mercy, though they bost & crake never so much, that they be the seruauntes of God, yea though they gyue their bodies to be plucked asunder with wylde horses for ỳ glory of god. For vt out the chyrch of Chryst, ther is no healthy nor saluacion, but altogyther death & damnation. But I wolde haue men wyse in knowyng thys chyrch of Chryste, lest they erre & mayntayn an whore in stead of a spouse, an vnchaste harlotte for a true wyfe, a fylthye strompette for a faythfull pokefellow, a dysobedient Synagoge for a chrysten congregacion. We haue in tymes past taken the Bysshop of Rome, & hys payntyd carnall Idolles, I would haue sayd, hys sayncted Cardinales, Patriarches, Legates, Archbyshops, Byshops, Preestes, Monckes, Freyars, Chanons, Heremites, Anachorites, and other of the spirituaute, as they call them, only to be the chyrch & haue thought that by no meanes we myght departe from them and theyr doctrine, excepte we wolde be dāned, in what so euer case they stode, wether they on Goddes syde, or contrary, taught they accordyng to Gods worde or otherwise. For once to hylde against them, was counted to cut the cote of Chryst that had neuer a seme, to subuert and ouple downe the chayre of Peter and Paul the chef Apostles, to defyle, to tear & to tread vnder fote the authoute of the chyrch Chrystes spouse, yea & to make shorte tale to cault oute of hel the heresies that wer buried and layd to slepe.

By thys meanes haue they thele many hundred yeares not only seduced the symple and vnlerned people, but also falsely vsurped ỳ names of the Chyrch, callyng them selues the mother holy church, beyng so rather in name than in very dede. If they were faythfull and dyd continewe in the doctrine of the holy Scripture so were they of the membres of thys chyrch of Chryst, yf contrary wyse, than pertayned they not vnto thys holy catholyke chyrch, but were corrupt and rotten members, beyng nothyng lesse then partakers of thys helth and saluacion, that is in this most pure and vndefyled chyrch.

Thys chyrch of Chryst, whom Dauid calleth here, the handmayd of the Lord is ỳ vniuersall congregacion of the faythfull, which w a sure & vndoubted fayth beleue in Chryste, acknoweledge hym to be theyr heade, confesse hym to be the sonne of the lyuyng God, graunt vnfaynedly that he came in ỳ flesh, heare the voice of theyr Shepperd, cleaue only to hys word flye ỳ voyces of straūgers, stycke vnto hym as to theyr alone treasure, & looke for al good thynges at hys hande only.

Vnto thys church pertayne so many as from the begynnyng of the world vntyll thys tyme haue vnfaynedly beleued in Chryste or shal beleue vnto the very ende of ỳ world. Agaynst thys chyrch the gates of hell shall not preuayle, seyng it is bylt on the rocke Chryst. For Chryst hymself hath promised, that he wyll be with it by hys holy spirit euen vnto the very consummacion and end of the world.

Make.

And admonicion for the true & fals chyrch.

Errours about the Chyrch.

Abominacion. Ioan.xv. Apoc.xxi.

What the Chyrch is, Ioan.iii. vi. Colos.i. Math.xvi. i. Ioan.iiii. Ioan.x.

Mat.xvi.xxi. Esa.xxviii. Dan.ii. i. Cor.x. Mat.xxviii.

Wherefore Christ loued this church so well, that he gaue himself for it Ephe.v. Galat. Tit.iii. i.Pet.iii. to sanctify it, & cleansed it in the fountayne of water, by ꝓ word, to make it vnto himself a glorious congregation hauyng no spot or wrynkle, nor any such thyng, but that it should be holy & without blame. This church is the spouse of Christ, and matrone of heauen, the house of God, Apoc.xxi. i.Tim.iii. Heb.xii. which is the congregation of the lyuyng God, the pyller & ground of trueth. This is it that is the mount Syon, the Cyte of the lyuyng god, the celestiall Hierusalem, the company of innumerable aungelles, & the Apoc.xxi. cõgregatiõ of ꝑ fyrst begotten, which are wrytten in heauẽ. This church is ꝑ holy cittie ꝑ new Jerusalẽ, which came down frõ god out of heauẽ Cant.i.ii. iii.iiii. Ioan.xiiii. xv.xvi. Math.xxviii. Ioan.x. prepared as a bryde garnyshed for her husband. This church is ꝑ loue, ꝑ derelyng, ꝑ doue, ꝑ fayrest among all women without spotte or defoymte, of whom we rede in the Balades of Salomõ. This church can neuer erre, seyng that it is euer gouerned with the spirit of Christ seyng also that it cleaueth only to the word of God, neyther doth it heare ꝑ voyce of any straunger, but only heareand follow the voyce of her Shepperd, which is Christ. To know therfore this church of Christ from the Synagoge of Antichriste it is very easye. For the Church of A comparison betwene ꝑ Church of Christ, & the Synagoge of antichrist Christ learneth with a sure fayth to Christ alone the sonne of the lyuyng God, as an omnisufficient sauiour. The Synagoge of Antichrist although it confesseth Christ after a certayne maner, yet it seketh salua-cion also at the handes of other. The church of Christ followeth only the word of God, and accordyng to that worketh in all thynges. The Synagoge of Antichrist followeth the voyces of straungers, deuyseth newe decrees, constitucions, lawes ordinaunces &c. and vnto them it sticketh mainly. The church of Christ practiseth those workes, that are commaunded in the holy Scripture. The Synagoge of Antichrist worketh thynges of her owne ymaginacion, not prescribed in the law of God. The church of Christ seketh aboue all thynges the glory of god, & the health of her neyghbour. The Synagoge of Antichrist seketh her owne pompe, honour, glory & prayse. The church of Christ is redy at al tymes to suffer persecucion for Goddes truethes sake. The Synagoge of Antichrist hateth ꝑ crosse, seketh to lyue all in pleasure, to persecute so many as loue God and hys word. The church of Christ seaketh euer after heauenly thynges. The Synagoge of Antichrist hunteth after temporal promocions, worldly honours, fleshy dignities, easy lyuinges, carnall pleasures, galant pastimes, sumptuous fare, gorgious apparrel &c. The church of Christ spendeth the goodes vpon the poore members of Christe. The Synagoge of Antichrist bestoweth her goodes after her owne fansye, & not after the commaundement of God. To conclude. The church of Christ is altogyther godly & celestiall. The syna-goge of antichrist is altogither wicked & earthly. Hereby do we learne Why the church is called an bande mayde, which is the true church, & which is ꝑ false, which is ꝑ church of Christ and which is the Synagoge of Antichrist.

But it is not to be gone ouer w a lyght fote, as they vse to say, that

Dauid

Dauid calleth this chirch of Chryst the handemayd of God, neither is it without a cause. For as a true, fayethfull and diligent handmaid haue her eyes alwayes fixed vpon her maistres for to marke and see, what shalbe her pleasure to commaunde her to doe, that she may do it with al redines and spede, euen so becommeth it them of Chrystes chirche diligently to wayte vpon their Lord God, and to marke what his most godly wyll, pleasure and commaundemente is that they shoulde doe. And thys shal they assuredly know by searchyng the holy Scriptures. And as it becommeth not an honest handmayde to leaue the commaundement of her maistres vndone, and to busy herself about such thynges, as she herselfe thynketh belte to be done of her owne brayne, euen so doth it not become them that professe themselues members of Chrystes chirche to leaue the commaundementes of God vndone, and to fall in hande with doyng thinges of their owne fansye and ymagination. For they that do so, shewe themselues no handemaydes, but maistresses, neither are they obediente subiectes vnto GOD, but rather take vpon them to bee arrogante superiours, and presumpteous checkemates. Let them therefore that will be of Chrystes chirche learne to be handemaydes and no maistresses, to be obediente subiectes, and not arrogant superiours and presumpteous checkemates, lest, whyle they folowe their owne fantasyes and meanes they fall from the chirche of Chryst vnto Antichrists Synagoge, as we may see in the Papystes, Anabaptistes, Arrians &c. Moreouer we reade that this chirch is not onely called the handmayd of the Lord, but also the spouse of Chryst, yea, & that not vnworthyly. For as a good, honest, & fayethfull wyfe is obediente to her husband in al thyngs, loueth hym purely, cleaueth vnto hym only, hath no pleasure to ron after other men, delighted her selfe wyth her husbandes company alone, is glad to please him alway, seeketh the accomplishment of hys wyll, and by no meanes wil attempte any thyng that should be displeasaunt to hym: So likewise this chirch, whiche is the spouse of Chryst, is obedient to her husband Chryst in al thyngs, loueth hym wyth an earnest, pure and vnfayned loue, cleueth to hym only, hath no pleasure to ron after other men, wherby she maye be entysed from the loue of her husband delighteth only in him and in hys word, seketh the accomplishment of his wyll, and sheweth her self in all points conformable to his most diuine will, being loth that any thyng shoulde be committed on her behalfe, that should be displeasaunt to hym in any point. Let them therfore now take hede, that recount themselues to be of this chirche, and wyll be called the spouse of Chryst, that they cleaue only to theyr husband Chryst and his worde, heare hym alone, folowe hys voyce, delyght only in his most holy law, seke the accomplishmente of his diuine wyll, and by no meanes admit nor heare the voyce of any straunger. For as ỳ woman is an whore, though she beareth ỳ name of an honest wife neuer so much, ỳ is not cõtẽted wt her own husbande, but folowerth other mẽ, cõneth a whorehũtyng after straũg louers, ca-

Psal.cxxiii. Marke wel.

Esay.viii. Psal.cxviii. Luke.cxvi.

The true chirche is the spouse of Chryst.

Cant.iiii. ii.Cor.xi. Apoc.xxi.

Marke wel.

Iohn.viii.a.

flyng

sting away the sincere and true lone, that she ought to bear toward her husband. So like wise, if they as call themselues the church and spouse of Christ, forsake their husband Christ, be not contented with him and his word alone, but folow straunge doctrynes, and ron a whorehunting after new law makers, which teach thyngs contrary to the will of this bridegroome, yea or els they themselues make lawes, decrees, actes, constitucions &c. that fight with the voyce of thys heauenly shepeherde, Bridegroome and husbande Christ Iesu, surely, surely let them beleue me, they ar not the spouse of Christ, but filthy whores, vnclene harlots stinking strompets, abhominable adultresses, and sinfull Gothippes, though they were neuer so many triple crownes, carnall hattes, glistryng myters, forked cappes. &c. vpon their heades, and haue neuer so many pillers, pollaxes, crosses, crosser staues, and syluer rodds borne before them. For the spouse of Christ onely heareth the voyce of her husbande, foloweth that, cleaueth to that, and by no meanes tourneth a whorehuntyng after straunge louers. neither careth she for their boystous wordes, and flatteryng promyses, seeyng she knoweth full wel, that no man can shewe thyngs more necessary & profitable vnto her health and saluacion, than her husband hath already done. Therfore recommetteth it she a very vayne and mad thyng to forsake thys her true & alone husband Iesus Christ, and to folow straungers. I am gelous ouer you sayth. S. Paule, with a godly zeloshy. For I haue maryed you to one man, to bryng a chast virgin vnto Christ.

Heb. xiii.

Iohn. x.
Cant. iiii.

ii. Cor. xi.

This much haue I spoken by the way concernyng the chirche, that al men may know the chirch of Christ, which is the handmayd of God, and the spouse of Christ, hauing nother spot nor wrincle, but altogether glorious, pure and vndefyled, from the Synagoge of Antichrist, and be no more deceaued with outward apperaunce, glysteryng vsars, and payuted clokes, lest they go forth to worshyp, reuerence and haue in honor certayn deceatful shadowes for the selfe trueth, as we haue done tymes past. God make vs al the seruauntes of the Lordes handemayd and graunt that we may so abide in the olde catholyke faith and true doctryne of Christes chirche, that we may be blessed, and haue our bondes broken, as it folowth. O Lorde because I am thy seruaunt, yea thy seruaunt in dede, sayeth Dauid, and the sonne of thy handmayd, thou hast broken my bondes. What bondes are these, that God hath broken, and made vs free from them through Christ, setting vs again at libertye? Verely the bondes of Sathan, sinne, deathe, hell, desperation, and the curse of the lawe. Fyrste as concernyng Satan, euery man knoweth, howe we were in captiuite and bondage to hym by the synne of our fyrste father Adam, which through hys disobedience dyd cast vs into the bondes of that infernall Prynce, made vs captiue and thral, so that by our owne strength, power, wit, policy, and free wyll we coulde neuer haue set our selues agayn at libertie. But God of hys tender mercy and free goodnesse, whan we had cast our selues into thys bondage,

Search the Newes oute of heauen.

The bondes

Satan.
Gene. iii.
Rom. v.
Ephe. ii.

promised

promised vs deliueraunce, when he spake these words vnto ỳ serpente I will set emnite betwene thee and an woman, betwene her seede and thy sede. That selfe sede shal treade downe thy head. And so many as beleued them, were at that very instant deliuered frō the bondes of Satan. For what other thyng is it to treade downe ỳ head of the serpent, than to vanquish and subdue him, to make his power frustrate and of no strength, yea & to let those agayn at libertie, which before were hys bonde prisoners. Now although this promyse wer not strayght waies fulfilled, yet stode it in effect with the faythfull, and they so sone as they beleued, wer deliuered out of captiuitie, set at libertie again, and made the sones of God, through the fayth ỳ they had in gods promyse, which he made vnto them in his derely beloued son Christ Jesu. But when Christ was once come, and had fulfilled this promyse of hys celestiall father, than was Satans power vtterly annihilated and made of no strength. His bondes wer brokē, wherwith so miserably he did detayn and hold vs, as S. John testifieth. The sonne of God dyd appeare for this purpose, euen to dissolue, loose and breake the works of ỳ diuel. So that now Satā hath no more power ouer vs, except willingly we cast our selues agayn into hys bondes, as S. James sayth, resist the diuell, and he shal flye frō you. For although he goeth about like a rorying lyō, seeking whom he may deuour, yet cannot he deuour, no nor yet so much as once bite or touch any faithfull mā, except he will of a set purpose cast hymselfe into that Dragons rauening teth to be rent and torne, sithē of God hath set vs at suche libertie, and geuen vs our manumission so frely and plenteously.

Gene. iii. What it is to treade down the head of the serpent. Marke well Iohn. i. Gala. iii. Mat. iii. xvii Mark. xix. Luke. iii. ix.

i. Iohn. iii.

Iacob. iiii. i. pete. v.

Now seing that Satan, which is our most vtter enemy, is so vanquished and subdued, and we vtterly deliuered frō his captiuitie, ỳ our bondes are broken, wherwith he had vs bounde, is it to be thoughte ỳ synn, death, hell, desperacion, and the curse of the lawe can worke vs any euil, or that their power is so great, that they are able to make vs styll captyue and bond prysoners. As touchyng synne, to whō is it vnknowen, that as the power of Satan is vanquished by Christe, so in lyke maner is synne throughe hym put to flyghte. He is that lambe of God, which taketh away the syn of the world. He is that Sauioure, which sauyth hys people from their synnes. He is, yea he is that Lord in dede, which putteth away our iniquities, yea and that for hys own sake, and wyl remembet them no more. He came into the world to saue synners. He beyng wythout all synne offered hymselfe vpon the altare of the crosse, a swete smellyng Sacrifyce to God the father for vs, and made a sufficient satisfaction for al our synnes. Through hys name al ỳ Prophetes bear witnes, ỳ so many as beleue in hym, shal receaue remission of their sines. For ther is no helth in any other, nether is ther any other name geuē vnto mē, whereby they might be saued, but onely ỳ name of Jesus Christ. He is ỳ Bishop, which in one oblacion yea and ỳ once for al, hath made thē perfect for euermore ỳ are sactified. To be short, ỳ blond synne.

Iohn. i. Math. i. Esay. xliii. i. Tim. i. ii. Cor. v. i. Pet. iii. Ephe. v. Esay. liii. i. Iohn. iii. Actes. x. Actes. iiii. Heb. vii. viii ix. x. i. Iohn. i.

of

of Jesus Christ gods sonne maketh vs cleane from all synne. Thus see we that by Christe, by Christes death, passion and blond, the bondes of synne are broken, and we set agayne at liberte.

Death, hell, desperacion.

As for death, hel, and desperacion what can they do? Ar not they also quercome? Let vs heare what the Scripture saith. Owte of the power of death, saith the Lord, wil I deliuer them, and from death wyll I redeme them. O death I wil be thy death. O hel I wil swalow thee vp. S. Paule also saith, Death is swalowed vp into victory. Where is thy styng O death? where is thy victory O hell? The styng of death is sinne, and the power of synne is the law. But thanks be to God which hath geuen vs the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ Again, By death hath Christ put him to flyght, that had Lordship ouer death, that is to say, the diuel, that he might deliuer them, whiche through ỹ feare of death, wer al their life tyme in daunger of bondage. O swete and cõfortable sayings. O the alone true and Christen pleasures.

Oze. xiii.
i. Cor. xv.
i. Iohn. v.
Heb. ii.

The lawe.

As touchyng our last enemy, which is the curse of the lawe, are not we also made free from that by Christe? What sayeth the Scripture? Christ hath redemed vs from the curse of the law, whyle he was made accursed for our sake. Again, Christ is the perfect fulfilling of the law to iustificacion for euery one that beleueth. Also in another place, be it knowen vnto you, ye men and brethren that through thys man Christe, is preached to you the forgeuenes of synnes, and from al the things, wher by ye could not be iustified by the lawe of Moses, throughe him euery one that beleueth is iustified. Thus see we, that our bondes are broken through Christ, and we also set at liberte from the daunger of all oure enemies, so that now there is no condemnacion for them that are engrafted in Christ Jesu, which walke not after the flesshe, but after the spirit. For the law of the spirit of lyfe through Christ Jesus hath made them free from the law of synne & death. Who wyll now lay anything to the charge of gods chosen? It is God that iustifieth, who can than condemne? Herof commeth it to passe, that after we be once deliuered from the power of our enemyes, haue our bondes broken, and set at lyberte through Christ and Christes passion, death and blond, by whom Satan is vanquished, sin put to flight, death ouercome, hel swalowed vp, desperacio driuen out of place, ỹ curse of the law vtterly take away yea the law fulfilled, & heauen gates open for the faythfull, all that euer we do in Christ, is acceptable in the sight of God, taken to good worth and much made of, not for the dignite of the worke it self, but because it is salted with the dignitie, holines, righteousnes, purite, and innocency of Christ, in whose name whatsoeuer is done, smelleth swetely before God, so that both the thoughtes, words, dedes, lyfe and death of the Saintes, that is, of the faithful, yea and al that euer we do, is precious in the sight of the Lord, as we heard before. For sure we are ỹ al thigs work to the best for them that loue God, whiche are called of purpose. For those whom he knewe before, hath he ordeyned also before, that

Rom. viii.
Iohn. viii.
Gala. iiii.
Hebru. vii.
Rom. viii.
Luke. i.
pſal. cxv.
i. Iohn. iii.
Math. i.
Oze. xiii.
i. Cor. xv.
Rom. x.

A good lesso

i. Cor. x.
Colloſ. iii.

Rom. viii.

thyr

they should be like fashioned vnto the shape of hys sonne, that he might be the first begotten among many brethren. As for those, whō he hath ordayned before, them hath he called also, and whō he hath called, thē hath he made ryghteous, and whom he hath made ryghteous, thēhath he glorifyed also. What shall we say than vnto these thynges? If God be on our side, who can be agaynst vs? But let vs see, what is to be rēdred, and geuen agayn vnto God for these his inestimable benefytes towarde vs miserable synners?

¶ The seuenth verse.

I wyll offer to thee, the Sacrifice of prayse, and on the name of the Lord wil I cal.

¶ The tenth stryng.

OUr minstrell Dauid goeth forth to be lyke hymselfe, that is to say, to shew that he is one of a very gentle and thankful nature, ready at al times vnto the vttermost of hys power to recompence and make amendes for any point of kindnes ỹ is shewed to hym, as we may se here. For after that he hath song of the singulare and incomparable benefytes of God, which are shewed not onely to hym, but also to all mankynd, I meane so many, as are the faithful people of God, beleue in him, and lyue according to his diuine wil, and hath considered how greatly both he and al ỹ faith full are blessed of God through them in Christ Iesu, he now taketh an occasyon to ponder with himselfe how he may shewe hymselfe thankfull agayn to God, as he dyd before in the fourth and fyft verse of thys hys song. For he desyreth nothyng to be more estraunged from his maners, than ingratitude and vnthankfulnes. He thinketh it no point of humanite to leaue the beneficēce and gentle liberalite of a mortal mā vnrecompensed, to neglect therfore and nothing to regarde the inestimable goodnes and the infinite benefytes of God, he recounteth it an act highly to be detested and abhorred of any Chrysten hart. To shewe hymselfe therfore thankfull to God for hys benignite, he is nowe full bent. But what wyl he geue God agayn? what amends wil he make hym? In what thynges wyll he shewe hym selfe thankfull agayn vnto the Lord? wyl he geue hym mountaynes of gold? wyl he bryng hym heapes of precious stones? wyl he fetch hym frankensence, and other swete sauours out of Araby? wil he offer vnto him fat oxē, lustye haylers, wel liking shepe. &c. Na verely, for he knoweth ful wel, ỹ god reiecteth al these thynges in many places of ỹ holy scripture, neither hath he a ny nede of Dauids goods, which hath both heuē & erth at his own pleasure,

Dauid is lyke hymselfe

Ephe. i.

Esay. i. Iere. vii psal. xxiii. xlix. Agge. ii. i. Cor. x. Math. xxv.

ture, and all that is contayned in them. Dauid knoweth full wel, that his goods wer geuen him of God that he should helpe his poore neyghbours wyth them. What will he geue God than? Verely the sacrifyce of prayse and of thankes geuyng. For this is that thyng, which God desyreth so greatly, as he himself testifyeth. The sacrifice of praise, saith he, shal honor me. Agayn, offer to God the sacrifice of prayse. What soeuer ye do, sayeth S. Paule, in word and dede, do all thynges in the name of the Lord Jesu, geuing thākes to God and the father by him. Again, be thankfull. Also in another place, Geue thankes alway for al thinges in the name of our Lord Jesu Chryst to God and the father. To the Hebrewes also he wryteth on this maner. By hym, he meneth Chryste, do we offer the Sacrifice of prayse alway to God, that is to say, the fruite of the lyps, that geue glory to hys name. Thus see we howe acceptable a thing to God, the sacrifice of prayse is. But what is it to offer the Sacrifice of prayse vnto God? Verely to confesse and vnfaynedly to graunte that whatsoeuer is nought, commeth of oure selues, agayne that all that euer good is, commeth of GOD onely as he sayeth by the Prophete, O Israell thy destruction commeth of thy selfe, but thy health and saluacion commeth onely of me. For this is the greatest prayse that we can geue to God, for to knowledge hym alone the author and geuer of all goodnesse, and that all our ryghteousnesse, wysdome, holinesse, sanctificacion, redemcion, vertue, deuocion, and all that euer good is, commeth of hym alone, and not of oure selues. This is that sacrifice wherwith God is highly delyghted. This is that oblacion, that geueth so goodly an odoure before God. This is that offring that maketh God wel pleased with him, that doeth offer it, in as much as by the oblacion herof he confesseth himself to be able to do nothing, that of the own dignite and ryghteousnes therof, may seme worthy to be accepted in the syght of God, and therfore geueth he al the glory, honoure, laude, prayse and magnificence to God alone, as the Prophete sayeth O Lord all glory be vnto thee, and to vs shame and confusion. The Saynctes themselues also pray on this maner Not to vs, O Lord not to vs, but to thy name geue all the glory for thy merry and truthes sake. God hymself also sayeth, I am the Lorde, this is my name, I wil geue my glory to no other, nor my prayse to grauen Images. For God hymself wil not geue away hys glory and prayse to other, certes we do hym than much iniury, if we steale it from hym, and geue it to ony other creature ether in heauen or in earth. If we depely consider in our selues at all tymes the great kyndnes of God toward vs, we shall vndoubtedly be moued to syng perpetuall prayses to hys moste blessed name, and continually to offer the Sacrifice of thankes geuyng vnto hym. But in as much as I haue entreated aboundauntly of thankes geuyng, and of the sacrifice of prayse in my Pathwaye vnto prayer, I wil now cease to speake any more of it at thys tyme. Reade from the [illegible] vnto the .lv. Chapter.

The sacrifice of praise. Psal. xlix.

Colloss. iii.

Ephe. v.

Hebr. xv.

What it is to offer the sacrifice of prayse.

Oze. xiii.

1. Cor. iiii. Iacob. i.

Baruc. i.

Psal. cxii.

Esay. xlii.

As towchyng the inuocacion of the Lords name, wherof Dauid agayn maketh mencion in thys place, I haue spoken sufficiētly of it in the fourth verse of this Psalme. Thou mayst therfore (most gētle Reader) yf ẏ wylt, resort thyther for thys matter. I am loth to be tedious vnto the. I wil go forth and make an ende, although ẏ which followeth, may also seme abundantly to be entreated of heretofore.

The eyght verse.

I wyl pay my vowes vnto ẏ Lord in the syght of al his people in ẏ courtes of ẏ Lords house yea euē in the myds of thee O Jerusalem.

DAuid is euer one man. He had rather syng one song a thousand tymes, than he would once attempt any thyng without the authorite of gods word. He is at this poynt, ẏ he wyl do nothyng, except Gods word beareth hym in it. He wyll not cleaue to his owne good intentes, mynds and zeles. He wyl worshyp God accordyng to his word. He setteth before his eyes this commaundement: That I commaund the, do that only to the Lord, nether put thou any thing to it, nor yet pluck ought therfrom. Agayn, I commaund the to do ẏ, which is pleasaunt in the syght of ẏ Lord thy God. Also in another place. Ye shall not do euery one of you, that which ye your self think right & good. He can make no shyft to be diuers in the worshippyng of God. He can inuent no new & straung honorynges of god, as the olde Phareses dyd in tymes past, and the Papistes & Moncks haue done sins that tyme, but all in vayn, as the Scriptures testify. He kepeth hym self wythin ẏ bonds of gods word, and as he sayd before that he would pay his vowes, that is to say, do those thynges that he had promysed to his Lord God, kepe hys Commaundementes, follow and accomplysh hys most godly wyll in all poyntes vnto the vttermost of his power, and do the office of a true kyng, seke Gods glory, promote his holy word, tenderly loue his subiects, mayntayn vertue, and suppres vice: euen so doth he now agayn. So that Dauid knoweth not howe to recōpense in any part the goodnes of God, but only by kepyng hys most holy commaundementes, & in gyuyng hym harty and continuall thanckes, which he also promyseth to do in thys verse. But seyng that I haue entreated of the whole matter, that thys verse contayneth, in the fyft verse and seuenth stryng heretofore, I wyll speke no more of it at this present, but only note this one thyng ẏ our Mynstrell sayth. He wyll pay his vowes in the courts of the Lords house, and in the myds of Ierusalem. By the courtes of the Lords house, & by Jerusalem is none other thyng signifyed, than the Dauid is euer one man.

Deut. xii. xiiii.

Esaye. xxix. Math. xv. Marc. vii.

The office of a true kyng.

What is signifyed by the courtes of ỳ Lordes hous, and by Ierusalem.
i. Cor. iii. vi. ii. Cor. vi. iiii. Re. xxiii. ii. pa. xxxiiii.

thirch of Christ, I meane the congregacio of Sayntes, that is to say, of ỳ faythful, in whom God dwelleth by his holy Spirit, as S. Paule sayth. The Temple of God is holy, which ye are. His meanyng is this, loke wher so euer the people of god is most gathered together, euē ther in the thyckest of them wyl he set forth the glory of God, as we read of the good kyng Iosias. He wyll seake all meanes possible, that all thyngs in his Realme shalbe ordered accordyng to ỳ law of God, and that no vice shal reygne among his people, nether Idolatry, nor swearyng, nor disobedience, nor whordom, nor manslaughter, nor stealing, nor bearyng false wytnes, nor any other vice, that is prohibited by the holy scripture. And that thys thyng may the more fortunately come to passe, Dauid hymselfe in as much as he is kyng and excelleth all other in dignite, wyll also far excel and passe all hys subiectes in vertue and godlynes. He wyll be vnto them an example and spectacle of al goodnes, He wyll lyke vnto a great lyght shyne before hys people in godly conuersacion. The boke of the lawe of the Lord shall neuer depart frō hym. He wyll read and mediate in it daye & nyght. He wyl not stoupe to the corrupt iudgementes of other, nor be led wt the dotyng fantys of those pestilent flatterers, Truth wyll we, but he hymselfe wyl loke vpō the scriptures of God wyth all diligence, and euermore cauill vnto god for the assistence of his most holy spirit, that that swete confortour may both assist and confort hym in all his godly and vertuous entrepyses, & also lead hym into all truth, and knowledge of Gods most holy wyl. To make an ende, come ther lyfe, or come ther death, Dauid is fully determined to stycke by Gods word, & to seke his glory aboue all thynges yea and that not in corners and secret places, but openly, that al ỳ world may euidently se that Dauid is an earnest setter forth and an vnfayned promotours of Gods glory, and by that meanes be occasioned also wyth Dauid to honour, worshyp, magnify, laud, and prayse God with one mind and voyce for euermore, as Christ sayth. Let your lyght so shyne before men, ỳ they maye se your good workes, & glorify your father, which is in heauen, to whom wyth his onlye begotten sonne our Lord & omnisufficient sauiour Jesus Christ, & the holy Gost ỳ most swete confortour, be all honour, prayse & glory for euer and euer. Amen.

Phil. ii. Math. v. Iosue. i. Psal. i. Mark wel. Ioan. xiiii. xv

Math. x Marc. iiii. Luke. viii.

Math. v.

Gyue the glory to God alone.

Virescit vulnere virtus.

Ye

A deuout and godly prayer for al degrees and estates, made vpon the.C.vi. Psalme, right necessary to be sayd of euery Christen man in thys our tyme.

BOunteous Lord and most mercifull father, for asmuch as we know right well and are perfectly perswaded, that without fayth it is not possible for vs to please the nor yet to worke any thing that may be pleasunt in thy diuine sigth (for what soeuer is not of fayth is synne) we most hubly beseech the to engraffe in our hartes by the inspiracion of the holy Gost, that true, christē, lyuyly and worksyng fayth, which iustifieth and maketh vs thy sonnes, which also worketh by charite, mortifieth carnall affectes, renueth the lyfe, encreaseth vertues, garnysheth the conuersacion wyth al kynd of godly worksyng, & bryngeth ioye, quietnes and peace to our consciences. Heb.xi. Roma.xiiii. Gala.iii. Rom.v. Gala.v. Ioan.i. Roma.vi. Gala.iii. Abac.ii. Math.v.

Graunt also most swete father, that this fayth may be strong in vs that though thy holy spirit it may worke in vs such boldenes as it did in the Apostles, that we may freely and without any clokyng publysh, declare and set forth thy most godly wyll in the syght of all men vnto the great glory and magnificence of thy most holy & blyssed name, not once beyng afeard of the manacyng wordes, cruel threatnynges, extreme persecucions, vniust emprisonmentes, and most rigorous deathes, wher with the tyrauntes of this world oppresse thy true disciples and earnest seakers of thy glory, but maynely & valeantly cōfesse thy word, publish thy trueth, preach thy name before all people, cometh their lyfe, or commeth there death. For thou alone, o Lord, art true, & thy word is ꝑfite trueth, as for man and all hys thoughtes, wordes & dedes, what other thyng are they, yf we haue a respect vnto theyr owne nature, but only vayn, false, vniust, lying & vtterly estraunged from all trueth and goodnes? All that euer nought is cometh not of the, but of our selues. For thou art the God that abhorrest al iniquite, but all that euer good is, cometh of the alone, for thou art ꝑ author of all goodnes. Our creacion, redempcion, iustificacion, glorificacion, and al that euer we haue that is good and godly, cometh only frō thy mercifull throne of grace, euen of thyne owne merry, fre goodnes, grand bounty, and vnspeakable liberalite yea and that without ani desertes on our behalfe. O most gentyll father, what shall we gyue thee agayn for all these thynges ꝑ thou hast gyuen vs? What are we able to thynck, speak or do, that may in any part recompense this thyne vnmesurable kyndenes? Thou hast no nede of our goodes Our sacrifices, burnt offrynges and oblacions, hast thou no delyght nor pleasure in, nether is thy glory set forth by the kyllyng of brute beastes, & shedyng the blud of calues, gotes, oxen, &c. What shal we than do? How shall we shew our selues agayn thankful to the and myndful of these thyne inestimable benefites? Verely by tasting the cup of health at thy hād, and by callyng on thy name, which Roma.xiiii. Gala.iii. Rom.v. Gala.v. Ioan.i. Roma.vi. Gala.iii. Abac.ii. Math.v. Rom.v. Act.iiii.v. Math.x. Luke.xii. Psal.cxliiii. Iohn.iii.viii. Psal.cxv. Rom.iii. Gene.vi.viii. Iohn.iii. Ephe.ii. Oze.xiiii. psal.v. Iacob.i. i.Cor.iiii. Rom.viii. Esay.xliii. psal.cxvi. psal.xv. Esaye.i. Hiere.vi. Amos.v. psal.xlix.l.

art kyng of all kynges and Lord of all Lordes. Graunt therfore that we gladly and euē with a good hart may paciently beare, what so euer crosse thou layst vpon our backe. Graunt that we may mortify our carnall affects, slay oure beastlyke lustes and ragyng concupiscences, which stryue agaynst the spirit, yea and walke, so much as is possible, wholl in the spirite, and haue neuermore to do with the vnfruteful workes of darknes, but rather reproue them. For these are those sacrifices, that gyue the swete sauour before the, that are acceptable in thy syght, & that make the beneficial, gentle and mercyful to suche as offer them. But in as muche as of oure selues we are not able to thynke a good thought, nor to do any thyng ẏ is prayse worthy in thy syght, so feble are our naturall strengthes, so impotent and weake are we become through ẏ fragilite of our fyrst father Adam: Graunt that we may at euery moment of an hour cal vpon thy most blessed name for helpe and assistence. For thy name is a strong Bulwarck for as many as thy vnto ẏ, nether can he be ouercome that putteth his trust in it, but must needes be safe. Vnto thys thy most glorious name therfore will we at all houres resort, ẏ we through ẏ puyssaunce therof, beyng valeauntly armed may vs lusti courage fight against our enemies, yea & get ẏ victory ouer thē, so ẏ they shall be able neuermore to preuayle against vs.

Apoc.v. Roma.xii. Gala.v. i.Pet.ii. Roma.xiii. Ephe.v.

ii.Cor.iii. Iohn.iii. Ephe.ii. Rom.v. Pro.xviii. Ioel.ii. Act.ii. Rom.x.

Furthermore seyng ẏ thy honour & dishonour also after a certayn maner dependeth of our wicked or godly manners (for if we lyue wel, thy very aduersaires shall be compelled to glorify the, if our lyfe be wycked and vngodly, so shalt thou be dishonored among the Gentiles and euel spoke of through our sinful lyuyng) seyng also that at our baptisme we haue forsaken the world, the dyuell and the flesh with all their pōpes & vanities, and haue consecrated and wholy gyuen our selues to ẏ, beyng inserted and engrafted through fayth in the mystical body of thy welbeloued sonne our bounteous Lord and omnisufficient Sauiour Jesus Christ, seyng also that whan we wer baptised in thy name, we dyd solemly professe and make vowes no more to lyue after olde Adā, but to mortify our carnal affectes, to exercise diligently all the offices of true godlines, & earnestly to kepe thy most holy lawes and ordinances. Graunt (most mercifull father) ẏ all mens dreames, fantasies and imaginacions layd alyde, which fyght w thy word beyng ẏ eternal verite, we may seriously and vnfaynedly kepe these our vowes which we made vnto ẏ at our baptisme, that is to say, through thy grace and ẏ renouacion of the holy Goost obserue and kepe thy most holy lawes, haue our meditacion in them both day & nyght, beleue in the thalone & true God, loue the w all our harte, soule mynde, power, strength, &c. honour thy most blessed name, flye vnto it in all our aduersite, prayse it in our prosperite, sanctify ẏ Sabboth day, honour our superiours, slay no mā, commyt none adultry, fornicacion, incest, &c. steall nothyng, beare no falle wytnes, nor coupt any thyng that pertayne to oure neyghbours, but all the whole dayes of our lyfe lyue before the in holynes & rygh-

Mat.iii.xviii Mar.i.ix. Luke.iii.ix. ii.Pet.i. Math.xxviii. i.Cor.vi. Ephe.v. Heb.xii. i.Pet.ii. Coloss.iii. Psal.i. Deut.vi. Luke.x. Exo.xx.

Luke.i.

ousnes,

ourines, yea and that before all thy people, ỳ they seyng our good wor-kes, which not we but thou workest in vs, maye glorify ỳ our celestial father. But for almuch as ỳ world loueth that which is hys, & hateth that that pertayneth not vnto him and as Caim hated Abel, and Esau Jacob, & that for none other cause, but that the workes of ỳ one wer good, and the others euel, euen so the wycked people of thys wretched world can not abyde nor awaye vỳ them that loue thy world, embrace the Gospel of thy welbeloued sonne, leade to liue according to thy most holy & blyssed law, but hate them, blaspheme them, persecute them, pre son them, & at the last slaye them vỳ most cruell tormentes and bytter death: Graunt. O good God & gentle father, that we maye so earnestly be addicte and gyuen to ỳ perfourmyng of these our aforsayd vowes, I meane ỳ fulfyllyng of thy holy preceptes, ỳ we receauing strength frō aboue & conforted vỳ the presence of thy holy spirite, maye nether feare ỳ hatred, blasphemy, detraction, backebityng, euel reportes, persecucīō, emprisonment, nor al the tyrannye, that ỳ wicked worldlynges & bea-stlyde bely Gods can inuent agaynst vs, but valeauntly persist & continew in ỳ confession of thy trueth, euen vnto ỳ very death, beyng perfectly perswaded, ỳ the death of so many as dye for ỳ glory of thy name and the mayntenaunce of thy holy word, is precious in thy syght, be it recounted before the vngodly neuer so vile and ful of ignominy. Yea blyssed are they that dye in the O Lord, for they are at rest from theyr labours. Theyr soules are in thy hand, and they are no more greued with any payne, but are at peace for euermore.

Moreouer O most bounteous Lord, for almuch as we are thy seruaunts and the sonnes of thy hand mayd, and thou haste brokē al our bondes, wherwyth before we wer miserably detayned and oppressed of our enemy Satā for the transgression of thy holy commaundemēt, brought to passe by our fyrst father Adam, in whome we al synned and were ryghteously condēned, so that now we haue receaued our manu-mission and fredom of the through thy most derely beloued sonne our Lord and sauiour Jesus Christe, which hath made vs safe from al syn-ne, pacifyd thy wrath, payd our ransome by his most precious bloud, and openned heauen gates for vs, we most intierly beseech the to gyue vs grace, ỳ by no meanes we walke vnworthy thy kyndenes, but continually offer ỳ sacrifice of prayse vnto the, magnify thy most glorious name, & frely confesse that al that euer we haue beyng good and godly descendeth from the father of light, & that thou therfore arte worthy al honour, glory, laud, prayse and magnificence.

Finally graunt. O most mercifull and gentle father, that so many as professe the and thy trueth, maye earnestly paye theyr vowes fulfyl thy holy lawes, and lyue accordyng to theyr vocation & calyng. Graūt that all temporall rulers maye iustly vse the sweard, ponysh the euell, mayntayne the good, accept no parson in iudgement, allow no false accusation, shed no innocent bloud, heare the small so well as the great,

Esa. xxvii.
Matth. v.
Ioan. xv.
Gen. iiii.
i. Iohn. iii.
Gen. xxvi.
Abdi. i.
Matth. x.
Ioan. xvi.
Psal. cxvi.
Apoc. xiiii.
Sap. iii.
Psal. lxxvii.
Ephe. iiii.
Gen. iii.
Rom. v.
Rom. vi.
Matth. i.
Colos. ii.
Ephe. i.
i. Iohn. i.
Psal. xlix.
Iacob. i.
Apoc. iiii. vi.
Rom. xiii.
i. pet. ii.
Exo. xxiii.
Deut. i.

set forth thy glory, promote thy holy word, and in al thynges seake the Rom.xiii. profyt of the common weale. Graunt that the subiectes may be faythi.Pet.ii. full, true and obedient to theyr Kynges and hygher powers. Graunt Tit.iii. that the byshoppes and prestes may take hede to theyr selues and to al Act.xx. the flocke, vpon the whych the holy Gost hath appoynted them oueri.Cor.xi. seers to fede thy congregacion. Graunt that the husbondes may loue Ephe.v. theyr wyues, as Christ loued the congregacion. Graunt that ỹ wyues Colos.iii. agayn may be in subiection to theyr owne husbondes, as vnto ỹ Lord Ephe.vi. in al thynges. Graunt that fathers may bryng vp theyr chyldren after i.Timo.ii. thyne informacion and nourtour. Graunt that the chyldren agayn Tit.ii. may obey theyr parentes in all thynges. Graunt that masters may do i.Pet.ii,iii. to theyr seruauntes that, whych is iust and equall. Graunt ỹ the seruauntes again may be obedient to theyr bodely masters in al thynges Philip.ii. as vnto Christ. To conclude, graunt that euery one of vs that professe thy glorious name, may so lyue and behaue hymself both in thought, word and dede, that nothyng may procede & come from them, ỹ should Math.v. displease thy diuine & most excellent maieste. Graunt also (most benigne & tẽder father) ỹ oure light may so shyne before mẽ, ỹ they seyng our good workes, may glorify ỹ our hea-uenly father, wyth thy welbeloued sonne Jesus Christ our Sauiour, and ỹ holy Ghost ỹ swete comfortour, to whom be all honour & glory for euermore.
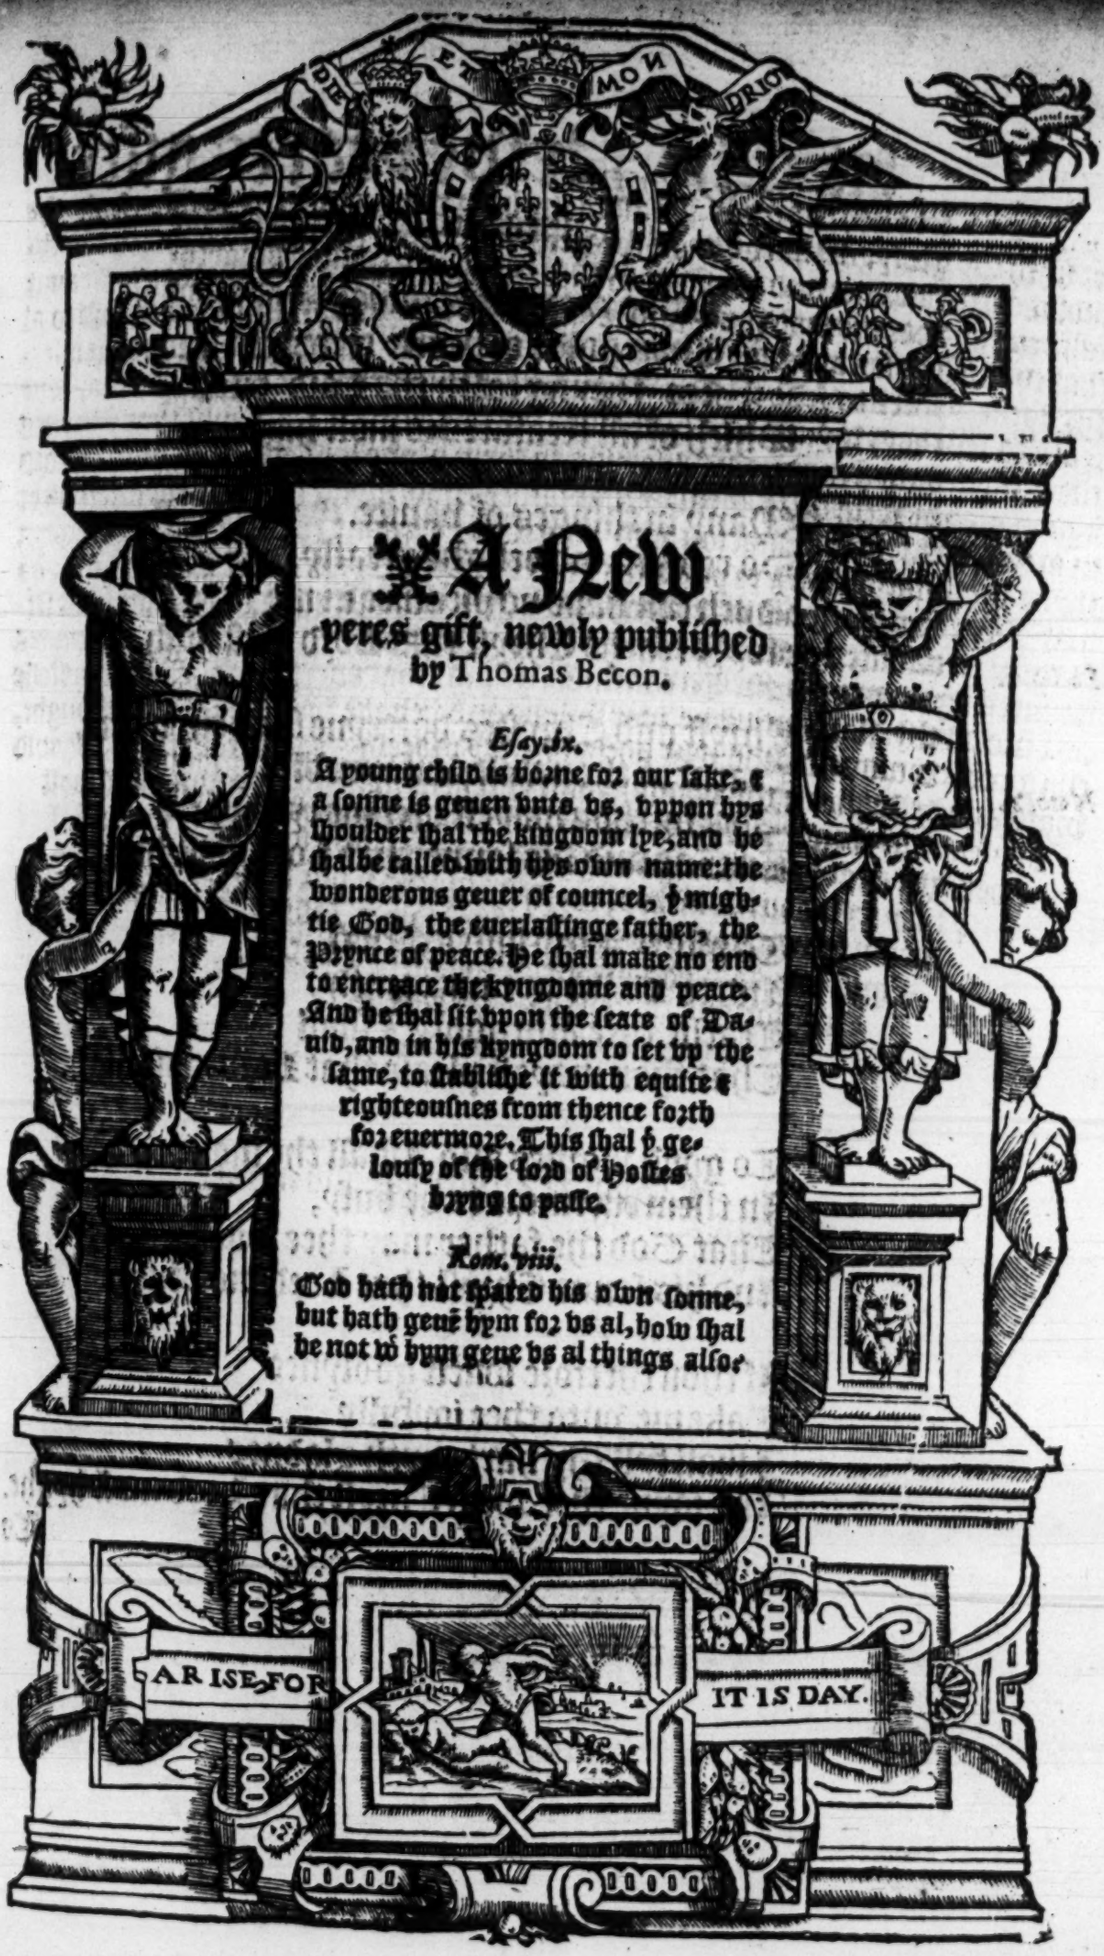
Amen.

ℭ Gyue the glory to God alone.

11 JU 62



A New

yeres gift, newly published by Thomas Becon.

Esay. ix.

A young child is borne for our sake, & a sonne is geuen vnto vs, vppon hys shoulder shal the kingdom lye, and he shalbe called with hys own name: the wonderous geuer of councel, ỳ mightie God, the euerlastinge father, the prynce of peace. He shal make no end to encrease the kyngdome and peace. And he shal sit vpon the seate of Dauid, and in his kyngdom to set vp the same, to stablishe it with equite & righteousnes from thence forth for euermore. This shal ỳ gelousy of the lord of hostes bring to passe.

Rom. viii.

God hath not spared his own sonne, but hath geuē hym for vs al, how shal he not w̄ hym geue vs al things also.

ℜ The Newe yeares gifte speaketh.

A Newe yeares gift more precious
Than golde or pearle certes am I,
For I bryng forth the Lord Jesus
Which of all treasures is most high.

Many in thinges of vanite.
Do reioyce and delight greatly,
Such can haue no pleasure in me
For I teache Chryst that Lord most high.

Chryst and Chrystes doctryne shalt thou here.
Learne, if thou wilt, vnfaynedly,
Wherby thou mayest become ryght dere
To God and his sonne, that Lord most high.

To mortifie thy lustes carnal
And to walke aye innocently, Teache thee also godly I shall
That thou mayest please that Lord most high.

To good workes also I shall the moue
In them euermore to be busy,
That God the father may thee loue
And his sonne Chryst that Lord most high.

If thou therfore louest godlynes
Take me vnto thee ioyfully
I shall fyll thy hart wyth gladnes
And ioyne thee with Chryst that Lord most hyghe.

To

To the ryght worshypfull

Master Thomas Roydon Esquier and Justice of peace;
Thomas Becon wysheth long lyfe, continuall health and prosperous felicite.

I Can none otherwise but highly prayse the honest fashyons, commendable vsages, and frendely customes, that our auncetours and elders haue vsed heretofore vnto the good and great example of their posterite for the mayntenaunce of al humanite and gentilnes. Among manye other, who wil not recount the custome of geuing newe yeres giftes to be so commendable and praise worthy, ye be maye seme to bee vtterlye estraunged from all ciuilite, that doth not obserue it vnto the vttermost of his power. For what other thyng do we mene by geuing mutual giftes in the beginning of a new yere, than that we desire, that al good, lucky, prosperous and fortunate thynges may chaunce that yere vnto euery one of vs, and that one willeth, wisheth and desireth wel to another, is redy to do good one to another, and to helpe whatsoeuer lieth in his power? This vndoubtedly was the meaning of them, that first wer the inuentours of this honest and frendly custome, and to this ende hath it been obserued, kept and maintayned hitherto. When I considered this but lately and iudged the custome to be both good and godly, and nothyng more mete for the preseruation and tocciliacion of amite: I thought that for asmuch as I was not able accordyng to my will to geue such newe yeres gyftes, as commonly be sent frō one to another, yet I would prepare sumthyng, wherby I might shew my self to wish wel vnto al men, and to beare an honest and frendly hart to my countrey men of England. I haue therfore prouided a new yeres gyft, not of corruptyble golde or siluer, but of the most sacred Scriptures, which, as Dauid sayeth, are much more worthy to be desyred then golde or precious stone, and are sweter then the hony and hony combe. In this my new yeres gift I haue opened many goodly and godly thynges. Among all other, I haue declared, what a precious treasure Christ is vnto vs, which was geuen vs of God the father for our new yeres gift, and how many benefites we haue receiued by him. I haue also described the whole lyfe of a Christen mā, shewing what we must do, if we wil enioy so great benefites. Agayne, I haue exhorted men to mortify their carnall affectes and worldly lustes, and shewed them how they must walke both toward themselues, their neighbor and God, if they wyl haue the fruition of the celestial enheritance. To conclude, as I haue shewed that al saluacyon cōmeth by Christ, so haue I proued that Christ is no sauior but to them ỹ repēt, beleue, leade a vertuous life, and be plenteous in doing good workes. These thigs with diuers other not to be despised shalbe founde in thys my new yeres gift, so ỹ I doubt not, but that it shalbe no les profitable for the soule, than other worldly gyfts shalbe for the body. This my labor employed herein after myne so greuous and troublous sicknesses, I dedicate and sende to your ryght worshipful mayster-shyp for a new yeres gyft, desyryng you to accept it with no lesse good mynd, than it is offered to your gentilnes. If I shal may perceaue, that this my litle gyfte is acceptable vnto you, it shal not only not repent me, but also cause me very muche to reioyce of my trauayle in this behalfe. God the Author of euery yeare moughte vouchsafe to graunt that this newe yeare with many other may euer begin vnto you with good fortune, proceede with better, ende with that which is best, and al way be fortunate vnto you so long as they last, so that ye may alway enioy continual health and prosperous felicite accordyng to the will of God, to whom be all honor and glory. Amen.

psal. xviii.

Esay. iiii.

The

¶ The Newe yeares gyfte,

¶ Philemon, the geuer of the Newe yeares gift, Theophile, Euſebius, and Chriſtopher, hys frendes.

¶ Philemon.

Chriſt our Lord and maſter doth not without a cauſe compare and reſemble the cares, ryches, & pleaſures of thys lyfe to thornes in his moſt holy goſpel. For as thornes pricketh the fleſh, and ſuffer him not to be in quiet, that is greued & hurte with them, ſo like wiſe the cares, rytches, & pleaſures of this worlde will not ſuffer by any meanes that man to enioy tranquilite reſt and peace that is turmoiled with them. Happye is he, ỹ appointeth hymſelfe ſuch a ſynde of liuing, that he may be free from theſe great waues and rockes wherwith the lyfe of mortal men is ſo miſerably aſſayled, & ſo oft put in daunger. The ritches and pleaſures of this worlde ſeme to the fleſh to be thinges of much pleaſaunce and great delectacion, but they be nothing els than entiſing and flatterying mooremaydes, which ſinging ſonges pleaſaunt to the eare, bring deſtruccion to ſom ny as be hearers of thē. Bleſſed is he therfore, which after the counſel Vliſſes, can ſtop his eares with ware, and ſo paſſe by, beeyng nothyng moued with their vaine and flatteryng entiſementes. For as S. Paul ſayeth: They that haue a pleaſure to ware rytche, fall into temptacyon and ſnares, and into many folyſh and noyſome luſtes, whiche dyowne men into deſtruction and damnacion. For couetouſnes is the rote of all e uil, which while ſome luſted after, they erred from the fayth and entangled themſelues wyth many ſorowes. Hereto pertaineth the ſaying of S. John. Loue not the worlde, nor thoſe thynges that are in ỹ worlde If any man loueth the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym. For al that is in the worlde (as the luſt of the fleſhe, and the concupiſcence of ỹ eyes, and the pryde of the lyfe) is not of the father, but of the worlde, and the worlde paſſeth away, and the luſt therof. But he that fulfylleth the wyll of God, abydeth for euer. I haue not ſpoken theſe thynges wythout a cauſe. I thanke my Lord God of hys gyft, I haue bene from my yongth ſtudious of the holy Scripture, and very glad, whā I might eyther reade it my ſelfe, and common of it with my neighboures or els heare other preach and talke of it, ỹ I might be edifyed therby, reſumyng that daye but a litle fortunate vnto me, that was tranſacted and paſſed ouer wythout ſome repaſte of gods worde, ſeeyng that man lyueth not wyth bread alone, but wyth euery worde that commeth out of the mouth of God. But lo, no man in this worlde is ſo happi, that he can haue hys minde ſatiſfyed in al poyntes. For I delyryng nothing more Matth. xiii. Marke. iiii. Luke. viii.

i. Time. vi.

i. Iohn. ii.

Pſal. lxxxix. i. Cor. vii. Eſay. xl. Iohn. vi.

Deu. viii. Matth. iiii. Marke. i. Luke. iiii. Nemo exomni parte beatus.

more than to be in quiet, that I might freely geue my mynd to the study of the holy Scriptures, and sometyme common of them with my neighbours, haue been so turmoyled and vexed with the cares & troubles of this world for the space of sixe or seuen monethes, ỳ I haue had no leasure almost once to thinke of the holy Scripture. O Lord what is it to liue in this wretched world? any other thing than dayly more & more to be plucked away and estraunged from thee, and to heape syn vpon syn, and prouoke thine anger more feruẽtly against vs? But now seing it hath pleased God partely to deliuer me out of ỳ troublous waues of this ocean, and to bryng me into an hauen of some quietnes, I entend to repare vnto mine old studies, and to participate them wt my neyghbours, as I was wont to do heretofore. For I feare muche least that dissolucion & slackenes may also be founde in them, ỳ these certayn monethes hath not wanted in me, so prone and redy are we to fal from goodnes vnto lewdnes, if we haue not the spur of gods grace to pricke vs forwarde. Since I gaue them a nosegay, I neuer spake vnto them but good euen and good morow, Therfore haue I now sent for thẽ by my seruaunt to come vnto me, that I may impart and geue them some spirituall treasure for their new yeres gift this holy time of Christmas.
I trust they wil not tary long what do I say, tary long? We thynke
I heare their voices euen now at the doore. It are they. Neighboures euen with one word, welcome vnto you all. Theo. Brother Philemon right hartely we thanke you. Phile. Wil it please you to take the payn, for to come wt me into my parloure? Euse. We folowe you gladly. Phi.
Neyghboures yet once agayne welcome. I pray you take euery man a chayre and sit down quietly. For I entende to talke wt you. Ch. We are all set, speake what it shal please you. Phi. Neyghboures & brothers it is not vnknowen vnto you, how desirous I haue been euer since oure fyrst acquayntaunce to seke no lesse your soules health than mine own Eus. We are not ignoraunt of this brother Philemon, & we al geue you right harty thankes for it. Phi. I haue done nothyng but my duty, and I confesse my selfe to be an vnprofitable seruaunt. Notwythstandyng neighbours this greueth me very much, that I haue ben so negligent these certayne monethes in doing my duty toward you. The. No dutye brother Philemon. It commeth of your mere goodnes, whatsoeuer ye do toward vs. But it is not vnknowen vnto vs, how greatly ye haue ben disquieted wt diuers businesses for a great space. Phi. Ye say trueth but now heare the cause of my sending for you. Twelue monethes passed, if ye do remember neighbours at thys tyme of the yere I made you a Christmas banket, which, as I haue since perceaued, ye haue ryghte wel digested, The Lent ensewyng, I called you al to a Potaciõ, wher at I trust ye tasted of ỳ wyne, which maketh the spirit mery. The May folowyng at mine instance ful gently ye resorted vnto myne house, and accordyng to ỳ season of the yere, I gaue you a nosegay. All these were not for the body, but for the soule, yea rather both for body and soule.

what it is to lyue in this world.

Luke. xvii.

Euse.

Euſe. We remember all theſe thinges well, nether haue we forgotten, what you taught vs in them. Phil. It maketh me greatly to reioyce for to heare theſe thyngs of you. For now I perceiue ful wel, that ye are no forgetful hearers, but diligent fulfillers of ſuch thinges, as are taughte you, and therfore are ye bleſſed in your acte. Wel neighbours, my loue towarde you is nothyng abated. I deſyre your furtheraunce in the knowledge of gods worde euen now, ſo muche as I haue done hereto fore. In conſideracion wherof, I entende at this preſent to geue you a newe yeares gyft. Theo. Can any thyng be more welcome to vs than ſuch a gyft, comming from ſo dere a frende, and ſo in tyme and place? It is now a newe yeare, and men vſe cuſtomably to geue gyftes one to another, wherby they declare their good wyl and wiſh that al good and proſperous thyngs may chaunſe to their frendes all the whole yere long. Therefore in geuing vs thys gifte, we do not only acknowledge your accuſtomed gentilnes towarde vs, but alſo confeſſe our ſelues to be more endetted towarde you, than we may at any tyme be able to recompence your kindnes. Chri. Neighbour Philemon, the daye paſſeth away, let vs therfore I pray you, ſe our Newe yeares gift. For there is nothing that can offer it ſelfe more welcome to theſe oure eies. Euſe. Trueth is this, and nothyng more true. Phil. Your Newe yeares gifte is read in the chirche on Chriſtmas day in the morning for the Epiſtle and it is wrytten of S. Paule in the ſeconde Chapter of his Epiſtle to Biſhop Titus. Theo. I pray you let vs heare it. Phi. Behold take your new yeares gift. The gift of God that bryngeth ſaluacion vnto all men, hath appeared, and teacheth vs, that we ſhould deny vngodlines & worldly luſtes and that we ſhould lyue ſoberly, ryghteouſly, and godly in thys preſent world, lokyng for that bleſſed hope and appearyng of the glory of the great God, and of our Sauioure Ieſus Chryſt, which gaue himſelf for vs to redeme vs from all vnryghteouſnes, and to pourge vs to be a peculiare people vnto hym ſelfe, and euen ſuch, as ſhould be earneſt folowers of good workes. How like ye your Newe yeares gyft? Chri. It is ſuche one as ouercommeth al prayſe. Would God that ſuch New yeares giftes were geuen throughe oute all the worlde. Than were it well with Chriſtendome. For this Newe yeares gift far excelleth all the treaſures in the world, ſeme they neuer ſo precious. Phi. Now marke well, for in this your Newe yeares gift lighe mo treaſures hid, than you are ware of. Therfore wil I declare it vnto you and note ſuch things in it, as I ſhal thinke moſt fit for your profit and edification. Euſe. Let it ſo be, I pray you hartely. Phil. The beginning is this. The gyft of God that bringeth ſaluacion vnto al men, hath appeared. Chr. So far as I remember wheras you ſay, the gyft of God, the cõmon tranſlacions haue, ỹ grace of God. Phi. I knowe that right wel But I thought it better for oure purpoſe ſo to turne it, as I haue done. Nether in ſo doyng do I differ any thyng at al from the trueth. For the Greke word Charis, doth not only ſounde grace or fauoure, but alſo a gift, yea and that ſuch a gift, as is frely gyuen wythout any deſertes. Theo. Who is this gyfte, I pray you? Phil. Uerely Chriſt. Chriſt is our newe yeates gyfte. Chriſt is gyuē vs of God ỳ father. Chriſt is ỳ gyfte, of whom the Prophet ſpeketh on this maner: A yonge chyld is borne for our ſake, and a ſonne is gyuen vnto vs. Alſo S. Paul, God hath not ſpared his owne ſon, but hath gyuen hym for vs al, how is it thā poſſible, but that he muſt gyue vs al thynges wt hym? Euſe. Is Chriſt frely gyuen vnto vs? Phil. Yea verely neyghbour Euſebius, Neuer was ther any thing ſo frely gyuen vnto you, as Chriſt is. Theo. The goodnes thā of God the father appeareth here toward vs great and vnmeſurable. Phil. It muſte nedes be great & vnmeſurable, ſeing ỳ he loued vs, whā we wer ſinners. Beholde, ſaith S. John, what a loue ỳ father hath gyuē vnto vs, ỳ we ſhould be called ỳ ſonnes of God. And ỳ ye may wel know that Chriſt is ỳ fre gyfte of God, gyuen vs wythoute any deſertes, caul, I praye you, to remēbrance ỳ faul of Adam, in whom al we haue ſinned, & deſerued lyke damnacion. What had he done to pacify ỳ wrath of God & to recouer hys fauour, whē God made hym this moſt confortable promyſe. I wyll ſette emnite betwene the and an woman, betwene thy ſeed and hyr ſeed. And that ſelfe ſeed ſhal tread downe thi head? Chri. For ſo the I thynke very lytle. Phil. Ye myght haue ſayd, nothyng at all ryght well, excepte ye thynke this ſome what, whan he had once offended, to put his head in a buſh, & not to knowledg his fault, nor once to dare to come in ſyght. Euſe. Ye ſaye trueth. Phi. What had Abrahā deſerued, whā god made hym this promyſe of Chriſt, ſayēg. In thy ſeed al naciōs of the earth ſhal be bleſſed? Uerely nothyng at al, only he beleued ỳ promiſe of God, & it was reckened vnto him for righteouſnes. Ye choſed vs, ſaith S. Paule, in Chriſt before the foundacions of ỳ worlde were layd, ỳ we ſhould be holy and faultles before him. Agayn, we wer by nature, ỳ chyldren of wrath, euen as other wer. But God, which is ritche in mercy, for hys great loue wherwith he loued vs, euen thē, whē we wer dead through ſinne, quicke ned vs with Chriſt (for by grace are ye ſauld) & hath rayſed vs vp with him in heauenly thynges, through Chriſt Jeſus, that in tymes to come he myght ſhew ỳ excedyng ritches of his grace in kindnes toward vs in Chriſt Jeſu. For by grace are ye ſaued through faith & that not of your ſelues. For it is ỳ gyfte of god, & cōmeth not of workes, leaſt any man ſhould boaſt himſelfe. Also in another place, after ỳ the goodneſſe & loue ỳ God our ſauiour hath toward men, did appeare, not of ỳ workes of righteouſnes, which we haue done, but accordyng to his mercy hath he ſaued vs by ỳ fountayne of ỳ newe byrth, & renewyng of ỳ holy Ghoſt, which he ſhed on vs abundantly through Jeſus Chriſt our ſauiour, ỳ we beyng made righteous by his grace, ſhulde be heyres of eternal lyfe according to hoope. This is a ſayeng not to be doubted of. Chriſt himſelf alſo ſaith, God loued ỳ world ſo intierly, ỳ he gaue his only begotten ſonne, ỳ euery one ỳ beleueth in him, ſhulde not perylhe, but haue euerlaſtyng lyfe. For God ſent not his ſonne into the worlde, to condēne ꝑ worlde, but ꝑ the worlde should be saued by hym.

Luke. 1.

Charis what it ſignifieth.

Eſa. ix. Rom. viii. Rom. v. i. Ioan. iii. Gen. iii. Gen. xxii. Gen. iii. Gen. xv. Rom. iiii. Gala. iii. Iaco. ii. Ephe. i. Ephe. ii. Tit. iiii. Ioan. iii. Ephe. v. Act. xv. ephe. ii. Ioan. iii. Rom. v.

Of these scriptures heretofore rehearsed, it is euident, that Christ is frely gyuen vnto vs of God ꝑ father yea & that without oure merites or deserues. For whan we were vtterly damned, & knewe not howe to recouer any parte of our helpe. God the father of his own gracious goodnes gaue vs his sonne Christ to be our sauiour. So ꝑ as ꝑ beginnyng of your Newe yeares gyfte is, Christ is vnfaynedly the gyfte of God, frely gyuen vs for our great cōfort & saluacion Chri. It cā not be expressed howe much we are bound to God the father for this his gyft seyng that he gaue vs not an Aungell or any other celestiall creature, but hys only begotten sonne, euen the highest and most precious treasure that he hadde. Phile. We wyll say so whan ye haue once heard what a treasure this your gyft is vnto you, and howe many pleasures and commodities ye receaue by him. Euse. I pray you let vs hear. Phi. It followeth. That bryngeth saluacion vnto all men. Beholde, youre newe yeares gyft, that God the father hath gyuen you, bryngeth saluacion vnto all men. It is no idle & vnprofitable gyft, but cōmodious and necessary. For it worketh vs health & saluacion.

The gyftes of the worlde bring many times perdicion. destruccion & damnacion, but this gift of God bringeth lyfe, health, ioye, pleasure, saluacion & an whole sea of good thynges. It bryngeth saluacion, sayth the scripture. Note this worde bryngeth. As though it should be sayd, whether was no hope of health, but al thynges yoked in ꝑ bond of desperacion, syn bare rule, & Satan triūphed ouer mankynd as his bond captiue, than came ꝑ gyft of God, whych droue synne out of place, vanquished Satan, destroied ꝑ powers of hel, brought saluacion to mā which loked only for damnacion, yea & that frely, and without any deserues, euen of mere grace & pure mercy. O ꝑ inestimable excellency of thys gift, which both willingly & frely bringeth saluaciō to mankynd. Howe can it otherwyse be? Is not ꝑ name of thys our gyft, Iesus, gyuen hym of God the father, & published by hys Aungell and Embassadour Gabriel? And what other thing, I pray you, soūdeth Iesus, than a sauiour? Thys our gyft Christ, is a sauiour. For he sauyth hys people from theyr synnes. Fear ye not, sayth the aungell. For beholde, I shewe vnto you a great ioye, which shall chaūse to all people. For this day is borne vnto you a sauiour, which is Christ ꝑ Lord in the cytye of Dauyd. Thus se we, that Christ is a sauiour. Therfore may he ryght well bryng saluacion, and saue so many as beleue in hym. Theo. Is there no saluacion to be loked for, but only at the hād of Christ? Phi. No verely, ye heard, ꝑ the gift of God, which is Christ bringeth saluaciō. It is Christes office alone to saue, & besydes him is ther no sauiour neither in heauen nor in earth. Who so euer seaketh saluacion at ꝑ hād of any other, but at Christes alone, he doth not only deceaue himself, but also robbe christ of his office, depriue him of his glory, blaspheme his blessed name, tread vnder foote his most precious bloud, & vtterly maketh of none effecte ꝑ whole

What Iesus signifieth.

Math. i.

Luke. ii

Al saluacion must be loked for of Christ.

Marke wel.

misterye

misterye of Christes incarnacion. Eusc. It were pity that any mā shuld be of this mind. Phi. You say trueth. Notwithstanding there haue bene, that haue sought health at other besydes Christ, would God there wer none at this day. S. Paule feareth not to saye, if righteousnes cometh by ỳ law, thā dyed Christ in vayn. Agayn, ye are gone quyte frō Christ so many of you as wyl be made righteous by the law, and are fallen from grace. Chri. Let vs hear it proued by ỳ scriptures, that ther is no saluacion, but by this gifte of God Christ alone. Phile. The matter is more euident, than it needeth any probacion to ỳ faythful, & as for thē ỳ are obstinatly blynd, al ỳ scriptures in the world can profit nothyng at al. Notwithstondyng to satysfy your godly desyre, of many, I wyll reherse a fewe, yea and those, ỳ shal seme most fyt for ỳ purpose. Theo. I pray you let it so be. Phi. Whense shal I take my begynnyng, but of the Prophet Esaye, whom Christ our sauiour had so ofte in his mouth? By him Christ speaketh on this maner, I am, I am the Lord, & there is no sauiour besides me. Agayn in that same chapter, I am, I am he, which putteth away thyne iniquities, yea & that for myne owne sake, & wyl remember thē no more. Put me in remembraunce, & let vs be iudged together. Tell me if thou haste any thyng, whereby thou mayest be iustified Thy first father synned and thy Prophets haue trespassed against me. Also in another place, Am not I the Lord? Is there any other god besides me? A righteous God, and such one as saueth, there is none but I alone, Tourne vnto me, and ye shal be safe, o al ye coastes of ỳ earth, for I am God, and there is none other. Once again by ỳ same Prophet he sayth, I alone haue troden downe the wyne presse, and there was none at al that dyd healpe me. Are not al these scriptures plain inough to declare that Christ is the sauiour & that there is no saluacion, but by hym only? There is no sauiour besydes me. I alone put away thyne iniquities, yea and that for myne owne sake, and wyll remember thy synnes no more. A righteous God, and suche one as saueth, ther is none but I alone I alone haue troden down the wyne presse. What can be sayd more? He ỳ wil not be perswaded wt these words, & graunt ỳ al our saluacion cōmeth by Christ alone, he is a very antichrist. Did not god ỳ father say, ỳ the seed of the woman should tred downe the heade of the serpent, ỳ is to say, destroy Satās power, delyuer ỳ faythful out of captiuite, set them agayn at liberte, purchase remission of theyr synnes, obtayne the holy Ghost for them, make them fellow heyres with him of eternall glory? Who is this seed of ỳ woman? Is it not Jesus Christe the gyfte of God? Jesus Christ therfore alone is the sauyour, & he is that gyft of God ỳ bryngeth saluacion vnto al men. For in hym are all nacions blysled, as God ỳ father layd to Abrahā. But let vs come vnto ỳ new Testamēt. We heard before ỳ Christ is called Jesus, ỳ is to say, a sauiour, & that he saueth his people frō theyr sinnes. Wherof we may easely gather, that they which wyll be saued from their sinnes by any other, but by him alone, are none of his people. Christe is that wel beloued sone.

Gala. ii
Gala. v.

Christ alone saueth.
Esa. xliii.

Esa. xlii.

Esa. lxiii.

Gen. iii.
what it is to treade downe the heade of the serpent.

Gen. xxii.
Math. i.
Mat. iii. xviii
Marc. i. ix.
Luke. iii. ix.
ii. Pet. i.

for whose sake God ẏ father is well pleased & at one with man. Ergo for Christes sake & for none others doth God pardon, loue and fauour vs. Christ toke vpon him our syckenesses, & bare away our diseases. Ergo he it is ẏ healeth, saueth, and maketh whole. Christ cryeth, come vnto me al ye that labour & are ladē, and I shall refresh you Ergo Christ easeth, refresheth & comforteth the comforteles. Christ the sonne of man came to seke & saue that, which was lost. Ergo what so euer is lost & saued agayn, is saued by Christ. Christ is that true lyght, which lyghteneth euery man, ẏ commeth into thys world. Ergo they that are not lyghtened by Christ, remayne styl in darkenes Christ gaue to so many as receaued hym, power to be made ẏ sonnes of God because they beleued in his name. Ergo they that receue not him to be theyr sauiour, & beleue that theyr synnes are only put awaye by his name, are not the sonnes of God. Christ is that lambe of God, ẏ taketh away the synne of the world. Ergo there is none other sacrifyce for synne, but Christ alone. No man goeth vp into heauen, but he that came downe from heauen, ẏ sonne of man, which is in heauen. Ergo so many as go vp into heuen, go vp onely by Christ. He ẏ beleueth in the sonne, hath euerlastyng lyfe. But he ẏ beleueth not in the sonne, shall not se lyfe, but the wrath of God abydeth vpō him. Ergo they alone shall be saued, which w a stronge fayth beleue Christ to be theyr Sauiour. Euery one, sayth Christ, that drynketh of the water, that I gyue hym, shall neuermore thyrst. Ergo Christ is a sufficient sauiour for so many as repent and beleue. Christ is that lyuyng bread, which came downe from heauen, yf any man eateth of that bread, he shal lyue for euermore. Ergo he that tasteth Christ aryght, nedeth none other sauiour to gyue hym euerlastyng lyfe. Christ is ẏ good shepeherde, which gyueth hys lyfe for hys shepe. Ergo so many as ar saued, ar saued bs Christes death. Christ is the resurrection & lyfe. Ergo by hym we ryse out of syn, & obtayne lyfe eternal. Christ is ẏ waye, trueth and lyfe. No man commeth to the father but by hym. Ergo by christ alone we ascende & go vp vnto ẏ presence of ẏ father. Without christ we cā do nothing. Ergo wout him we can not be saued. Christ is ẏ vine. He ẏ abydeth in him, bryngeth forthe muche frute. Ergo he ẏ casteth away christ, & seketh any other sauyour, is ẏ tre, which bringeth forth no frute, & therfore shal he be hewē down & cast into ẏ fyre. Christ died for our sinnes & rose again for our iustificacīō. Ergo by christes deth ar we deliuered frō our sinnes, & by his resurrectiō iustified & made righteous. We beig iustified by faith haue peace toward god through our Lord Iesus christ. Ergo christ it is which maketh ẏ attonemēt betwene god ẏ father & vs. By ẏ synne of Adā alone came dānacīō on al mē, euē so bi ẏ rightousnes of christ alone came ẏ iustificacīō of life vpō al mē. Ergo as we wer dāned bi ẏ sin of Adā alone, so ar we saued, iustified & preserued vnto euelasting life by ẏ righteousnes of christ alone. Euerlasting life is the gift of god through christ Iesus our Lord. Ergo so many as obtayne euerlastyng lyfe cometh vnto it by

Math. viii
Esa. liii.
Math. xi.
Luke. xix.
Ioan. i.
Ioan. iii.
Ioan. iiii.
Ioan. vi.
Ioan. x.
Ioan. xi
Ioan. xiiii.
Ioan. xv.
Math. iii.
Rom. iiii.
Rom. v.
Rom. vi.

it by the fre gyft of god, yea and that for our Lord Jesus Christes sake. i. Cor. i.
Christ is appoynted of god to be our wysdom righteousnes, sanctifica- i. Cor. vi.
cion & redēcion. Ergo by Christ are we made wyse, righteous, holy, & the chyldren of redēcion. We are washed, we are sāctifyed, yea we are made ryghteous through name of ỳ Lord Jesus and the spirit of our God. Ergo by christes name & the spirit of God ar we made, pure, holy & righteous. Christ which knew no synne, became syn for our sake, ỳ is ii. Cor. v.
to say, a sacrifice for our synnes. Ergo those synnes ỳ ar putte away, ar putte away by ỳ sacrifyce of christ. Christ whan he was ritche, became ii. Cor. viii.
poore for our sake, that by his pouertie he should make vs rich. Ergo so many as be made ritche, are enryched by christ. If ryghteousnes cōeth Gala. ii.
by ỳ law, than dyed christ in vayne. Ergo they ỳ are mad eryghteous:
are made righteous by the death of Christ. And who so euer seketh to be iustified by any other meanes than by the deth of Christ, be goeth about to make christes deth of none effect, & so is he a playne Antichrist.
By christ we haue redempcion, & by hys bloud remission of synnes. Er- Ephe. i. go by christ is our raunsome payd, and by his bloud ar our synnes for-gyuen vs. Christ is our peace. Ergo by hym haue we tranquilite, quiet- Ephe. ii.
nes & rest in our cōsciences. By christ haue we free entrannce vnto the father. Ergo so many as come vnto ỳ father, come by Christ. Christ is ephe. ii. iii.
gone vp on high, & hath led away captiuite captiue, & hath gyuen gyf- ephe. iiii.
tes vnto men. Ergo he it is that gyueth remyssion of synnes. Christ lo- Psal. lxviii.
ued vs, and gaue hymself for vs to God an offeryng & swete smellyng sacrifyce. Ergo for this swete & odoriferous sacrifice of Christ, God the ephe. v.
father pardoneth our sinnes. Christ is the head of the body of the cōgre gacion. Ergo he it is, ỳ saueth his membres. It hath pleased the father, that in christ al fulnes shuld dwel, & that by him all thynges should be Colos. i.
reconcyled vnto hymself, whyther they be thynges vpon earth or in heauen, ỳ through the bloud of his crosse, he myght make peace euen through his owne self. Ergo al they ỳ ar reconcyled & set at one wt God ỳ father, haue obtayned this by ỳ bloud of Christ. This is a true sayig, i. Timo. i.
& by al means worthy ỳ we should embrace it, ỳ Christ Jesus came in i. Timo. ii.
to ỳ world to saue synners. Ergo Christe it is, ỳ saueth synners. Ther is one God & one attonement maker betwene god & men euen ỳ man Christ Jesus, whych gaue him self a raunsome for all men. Ergo as there is but one God, so is there but one attonement maker, & thys is Jesus Christ, by whom alone we ar redemed. We ar sanctified by the Heb. x.
oblaciō of ỳ bodye of Jesus Christ, done once for al. Wyth one oblaciō hath christ made them perfecte for euermore that ar sanctifyed. Ergo so many as ar made holy, haue obtayned ỳ holynes only by ỳ sacrifyce of christ, which he once for al offered on ỳ Altare of the crosse, so cōsūmate & perfect ỳ there remayneth none other sacrifyce for syn. We ar not re- i. Pet. i. demed from our vayne conuersacion (which we receaued through the tradicion of ỳ fathers) with corruptible syluer & golde, but with ỳ precious bloud of Christ, as of an innocent and vndefyled lābe. Ergo by Chriſtes bloud are we redemed from all vayne thinges wherin before we wer entangled. The bloud of Jeſus chriſt maketh vs clene from al ſyn. Ergo by chriſtes bloud are we made cleane & puryfied from al our ſynnes. If any man ſynneth, we haue an aduocate vnto the father, Jeſus Chriſte ꝑ righteous one, & he it is, that obtaineth mercy for oure ſinnes not for our ſinnes only, but alſo for al ꝑ worldes. Ergo ſo of tas we ſin, by our aduocate Chriſt are our ſynnes put awaye. There is ſaluacion in none other but in Chriſt. Nether is there any other name gyuen vnto men vnder heuen, wherin they muſt be ſaued, but only ꝑ name of chriſt Jeſus. Ergo whoſoeuer is ſaued, receaueth his ſaluaciō onely by that name of chriſt our Lord. As I may tary no lōger about this matter, al ꝑ Prophets, ſaith ſ. Peter, beare witnes of chriſt, ꝑ through his name, e uery one ꝑ beleueth in hym, ſhal receaue ꝑ remiſſion of ſynnes. If al the Prophets beare witnes of this thing, who dare be bold once to opē his mouth to ſpeake agaynſt it, except he be at defyaūce & opē warre with god & his ſōne Jeſus Chriſt our Lord & ſauiour. But wt ſuch I loue not to meddle. God blyſſe me from them. Do ye not perceaue now ꝑ thys gyfte of God the father, which he hath frely gyuē you, I meane chriſt is thalone ſauiour, and that ther is no helth, ſaluacion, conforte, and re miſſion of ſynnes to be looked for, but onely at his hāde? Euſe. We wer to much blynd, yf we dyd not perceaue it ye haue made ꝑ matter ſo opē vō playne & euidēt ſcriptures. Chri. O Lord, what blyndnes was ther in ꝑ world, whan some dyd put ꝑ hope of theyr ſaluacion in ſtockes and ſtones, & olde totten bones, in gaddyng of pylgrymage, in gyldyng of Images in ſaynctes reliques, & hallowed ſtickes & poppyſh pardons, in other mennes workes, in fanſyes inuented of men. &c. Yea there haue not wanted which ſought ſaluacion in a Graye fryers cowle, truſtyng aſſuredly, ꝑ yf they wer buryed in ꝑ, they could by no means be dāned. Phi. All theſe wer greatly deceaued. But that ye may know, that there can be no ſauiour, but this gyfte of God Chriſt alone, marke a few wordes, ꝑ I ſhal now ſaye vnto you. Fyrſt he ꝑ ſhal be a ſauiour, & ſaue men from theyr ſynnes, muſt be withoute al ſynne hym ſelf. Secondly he muſt be both God & man. Thyrdly he muſt by his innocētcy deliuer vs from ꝑ curſſe of the law, yea and fulfyl the law for vs, that ꝑ aduerſary may laye nothyng agaynſt vs. Fourthly he muſt by hys puyſſaūce & power, banquyſh & ſubdue al the power of Satan. Fyftly he muſt ſlaye death, ꝑ it may haue nomore power ouer the faythful. Sixtly, it muſt be in his power to gyue vnto his people the holi Ghoſt to gouern & kepe thē in a rycht trade of lyuyng. To cōclude he muſt be ſuche one, ꝑ whā they that beleue in him, do offende & prouoke the heauēly father vnto anger, he maye at all tymes be both redy & able to make an attonement betwene God and the offenders. If ye can fynde any ſuche, as I haue here deſcribed, beſydes Chriſt, wel, I wyl thā alſo graūt ꝑ he is a ſauiour. Untyl ꝑ tyme wyl I ſay with al the Prophets, Apoſtles and our Doctor Paule, that this gyfte of God chriſt Jeſus is thalone ſauiour,

1. Ioan. 2.
1 Ioan. ii.

Act. iiii.

Act. x.

Reaſon declaryng that Chriſt alone is oure ſauiour.

our, bryngeth health, and ẏ there is no saluacion to be gotten, but only thrugh hym. Theo. Thys thyng is now more manifest, then it may be doubted of, or called into question. Phil. It saloweth in your newyeres gift. To al men. Note that he sayeth not, to the wycked and damned spirites, which shal neuer recouer their health and saluation, whatsoeuer the Origenistes tryfle in this behalfe, but to al men, yea and ẏ those only, which repent, beleue, and leade a good lyfe. For to wycked men and vngodly persons is Chryst no Sauiour, except they repent beleue and amende. It is not to be passed ouer lightly, ẏ the Scriptures speaketh generally and vniuersally wythout any excepcion. To al men: Chryste bryngeth saluacio to al mē. These wordes proue manifestly, ẏ as Chryst is a Sauiour, so are al mē synners, and agayn, ẏ ther is no mā but that receaueth saluacion of Chryst, if he be saued. Wher are they now ẏ will iustify them selues, and set their merites and good dedes to other? The Scripture sayeth, we be al synners. There is no difference, sayeth S. Paule. Al haue sinned and want the glory of God. What is thys, sayth S. Austen, and want the glory of God, but the grace of God the father by Jesus Chryst, which is the glory of God the father? And what meaneth this, they want or haue nede, saith he? but ẏ no mā of himselfe, because he is borne carnally, is able to recouer the lyfe lost, no thoughe he bryngeth the workes of merytes, except he be spiritually borne a newe by our Lord Jesus Chryst, which came of the vndetted mercy of the father, and of his own, and of the holy goost to saue and seke ẏ which was lost. What was lost? Vnreasonable beastes? Hath god also care for orē Verely mankynde was lost thrugh sin, in consideracio wherof Chryst beyng without spot euen of hys own free wyll geuing hymselfe to the death and rysing agayne, hath redemed man from sin and death euen by the largenes of free grace. These are the wordes of S. Austē, which shewe euidently what we are of our selues, & what by Chryst. But let vs heare mo Scriptures. Euery man is a lyar, God alone is true. The Scripture hath concluded all thynges vnder sin, ẏ the promyse by the fayth of Jesus Chryst should be geuen to the faythful. God hath cōprehended al men vnder incredulite and vn faythfulnes ẏ he might haue mercy on all men. Here see we ẏ al men wer founde synners & vnfaythfull, and that they are saued only by the great mercyes of God. All our righteousnesses are as a cloth polluted wt mēstrue. We wer conceaued and borne in sin. The imaginacions & thoughtes of mans hart aryone vnto euil euen frō hys yonge age. There is no mā innocent before god, there is no man but ẏ synneth. There is not a righteousse man on the earth ẏ doth good, and synneth not. Euery one is an hipocrite & wicked and the mouthes of them all haue spoken foltishnes. Al we haue erred & gone astray lyke shepe, euery one hath followed hys owne fansye. The hart of man is wycked and inscrutable. No man is pure from synne, no the starres are not clene in his sight, how much more is man filthy and vnclene, which is nothing but corrupcio and a very worme in compa-

To whom Chryst is a Sauiour.

As Chryst is a Sauiour so are all mē synners.

Rom. iii.
Hipo. Lib. iii.

Luke. xix.

i. cor. ix.

psal. cxv.
Rom. iii.
Gala. iii.
Rom. xi.

Esay. liiii.
esay. i.
Gene. viii.
exo. xxxiiii.
iii. Reg. viii.
eccle. vii.

esay. ix.

psal. liii.
Iere. xvii.

rſion of God? Who is able to ſay, my hart is cleane, and I am pure frō Iob.xxv. ſyn? No man is good but God alone. We ar al vnprofitable ſeruātes.
Prouer.xx. The Lord loked down from heauen vpon the childzen of men, to ſee if Math.xix. there were any one, that had vnderſtandyng or ſought after God. But Marke.x. al are ſwarued and clene gone out of the way, they are become altoge
Luke.xvii. ther vnprofitable, there is none that doth good, no not one. They ar cor Pſal.xiii.liii. rupt, and become abhominable in their ſtudies: Their throte is lyke a Pſal.v. wide mouthed graue, they worke deceate with their tonges, the poyſō Pſal.cxxxix. of adders is vnder their lyppes. Their mouth is ful of curſing and bit Pſal.ix. ternes, their fete are ſwift to ſhed bloud. Deſtruccion and wermes are Prouer.i. in their wayes, the waye of peace haue they not knowen. There is no Eſay.lix. feare of God before their eies. How like ye theſe Scriptures? Do they Pſal.xxxv. not paynt out man in his natiue coloures? what haue we of our ſelues ii.Cor.iii. to reioyſe and boſt of? Chri. We may perceiue now ryght well, that we be al wretched and miſerable ſynners. The. If God had not geuen vs his ſonne Chryſt to be our Sauiour, we had ben in a dammable caſe.
Euſe. We were ſo pocky and ful of diſeaſes, that if Chryſt had not been our Phiſicion to heale our woundes with his moſt precious woundes we had cōtinued ſtil diſeaſed for euermore. Phi. I am glad ye haue learned ỳ al mē are ſynners, and ỳ therfore they haue nede of Chryſt the gift of God, which bringeth ſaluacion to al men. For thys is the firſt poynt to know Chryſt aryght. Nether can any man to much deiecte and caſt down himſelfe. For the more man humbleth hymſelfe, the more doth he exalt the gloryous maieſte of god. But ỳ ye may be without doubte in thys matter, I wyl rehearſe certayn vnto you, oute of both the Teſta mentes, which ſhal declare that we be all ſynners. Adam, as ye know, Gene.iii. tranſgreſſed the commaundement of God in Paradiſe, and by his trā Gene.ix. greſſion made vs al bonde to eternall damnacion. Nohe fell into the Gen.xix. ſyn of dronkennes. Lot was not only dronken, but alſo laye wyth hys Gene.xx. own doughters, and ſo committed the greuous ſyn of inceſt. Abraham exo.ii. denied his wyfe. Moſes committed manſlaughter. Dauid committed ii.Reg.xi. both manſlaughter and whoredome. Salomō was an Idolater. Ma and.xii. thew was a tolegatherer. The Apoſtles did ſtriue among them, who iii.Reg.xi. ſhould be higheſt and of greateſt aucthorite. Mary Magdalene was a Math.ix. greuous ſynner. Peter denyed and forſoke Chryſt thryſe. Paule perſe Math.xx. cuted ỳ congregacion of Chryſt. What ſhould I make many wordes?
Luke.vii. So many as euer wer clad wt this fleſh (Jeſus Chryſte alone excepte, Iohn.xviii. which was both God and man and conceaued and borne without the Actes.ix. ſede of man, by the operaciō of the holy goſt of the moſt bleſſed and vn defyled virgin Mary) wer ſynners, & ſo many as ar in the ſame at this day, or ſhalbe vnto ỳ worldes end, are and ſhalbe ſinners, ſaued only by the fre mercy of God through Jeſus Chryſte. We all offende in many Iacob.iii. things, ſayth S. James. Here ar none excepted. If we ſaye, ſayeth S. i.Iohn.i. John, ỳ we haue no ſyn, we deceaue our ſelues, and ỳ trueth is not in vs. Here S. John, which was ſo holy, vertuous & dearly beloued of god nombreth

nombreth hymselfe among synners neither is he asshamed so to do, that al glory may be geuen to God, and the prayse of our saluacion to Jesus Chryst our Lord and Sauiour. Ch. If al be sinners without exceptiō, what is than to be said of the most glorious and blessed virgin Mary Is she also to be reckened in the nomber of synners? Ph. I answer wyth S. Austen, whan so euer there is disputacion of syn, al must nedes confesse themselues synners, except the holy virgine Mary, of whom for ỹ honor of the Lord, I wyl haue no question at all whan we entreate of syn. For we know that there was geuen to her more grace than to any other creature for to ouercome syn on euery part, for as much as she deserued to conceaue and bryng forth hym, whom it is euidente to haue had no syn. Therfore this virgin except, if we could gather al ỹ saynctes both men and women, whan they liued here, and demaūde of thē, whyther they wer wythout syn: what do we thinke that they would answere, as this Pelagian sayeth, or as John the Apostle affyrmeth? Verely were they excellency of holynes neuer so great in thys body, yf they myght be asked thys thyng, they would surely crye wyth one voyce, if we should say, that we haue no syn, we deceaue our selues & the trueth is not in vs. Hyther to haue I rehearsed the wordes of S. Austē, which as they except the most blessed virgin Mary from the spot of syn, so do they proue al other without exception to be synners. Yet thys dare I boldly affyrme and say, that this most holy pure and glorious virgyne disdained not to confesse Chryst to be also her Lord and Sauiour. Her wordes are these: My soule magnifieth the Lorde, and my spirite hath reioysed in God my Sauiour. Beholde she bosteth not her good dedes she craketh not of her merites, she swelleth not with her own dignitie, but humbly grauntyng herselfe to be ỹ handemayd of the Lord, ready to do his most godly pleasure and wil in al thinges, she confesseth God to be her Sauiour and not her selfe, nor her own good dedes. If so holy and pure a virgine, which was replenished wyth all grace, vertue & goodnes, dyd not bost of her own dignite, worthynes, merytes, dedes and good workes, but cleaued to God alone and sought for saluacyon at his hande, how wycked and godles are they, which seke health at any other, sauing at this gift of God Jesus Chryst, which bryngeth saluacion to al men? Euse. This is godly spoken. Doeth Chryste therefore bryng saluacion to al men? Phil. To al men that repent, beleue, and labour to lede a good life, wer they neuer so greuous synners before. For Chryst came not to cal the righteous, that is, suche as wyl iustify themselues by their own good dedes and merytes, but synners vnto repentaunce. He commaunded his Apostles after his resurrection to preach repentaunce and remission of sinnes in his name vnto all nacions. For he is ỹ Sauior, ỹ wil haue al mē to be saued and to come vnto ỹ knowledge of the trueth. In the old law he was only knowen and preached to be ỹ Sauior of ỹ Jewes (for god was knowē but in Jewry, & in Israel was his name great He shewed his worde to Jacob, his ryghteousnes

Lib. de natu. et gratia. cap. xxxvi.

i. Ioan. i.

Luke. i.

Math. ix.

Luke. xxiiii. i. Timo. ii.

Psal. lxxv.

pſal. cxlvii. oulnes and iudgementes to Iſrael He did not ſo to euery nacio, nether did he open vnto them his ordinances) but now he is a Sauiour to all kind of people. Chryſte before hys death, ſaied to his diſciples, whan he Math. x. ſent them forth to preach. Go not among the Gentiles nor Samaritanes, but go rather to the loſt ſhepe of the houſe of Iſrael, but after hys Math. xxviii Marke. xvi. reſurrection he ſayd: Go throughout al the world and preache the goſpel to euery creature. For ther is now no difference betwene the Iew Roma. x. and the Gentile. For one is Lord of all, ryche ynough for ſo many as Ioel. ii. cal on him. For euery one that calleth on the name of the Lorde, ſhalbe Actum. ii. ſaued. And thys is it that the Prophet ſayeth, the people that walked in Eſay. ix. darknes, ſaw a great lyghte, and to them whiche ſat in the region and Math. iiii. ſhadow of death, light is ſprong & ryſen vnto the This is great conſolacion & comfort for vs, ý this gift of God, Chryſt, bryngeth ſaluacion to all men ſo wel Gentile as Iewe, or els had we, which were Gentyles, ben damned for euer & euer. The. Bleſſed be God for the ritches of hys grace, wher with he hath freely called, iuſtified, ſaued and glorifyed vs Rom. viii. through Ieſus Chryſt our Lord. Wel neighbours, ſeyng ý Chryſte is a Sauiour and bryngeth ſaluacion to al men, ſo endeuour your ſelues, ý ye may be founde worthy to be of ý nomber, which ſhal receaue ſaluacion and be ſaued. Repent ye of your old wicked liuing. Beleue to haue remiſſio of al your ſynnes through the name of Chryſte. Haue no more to do w the world, the diuel & the fleſh, but euer more garniſh your life and conuerſacion w the frutes of the ſpirit. that ye may be fit velſels in to who God may powre hys grace. Chri. I beſech God geue vs grace to do this. Phi. Now marke, what this gift of God hath done. It hath appeared. The gyft of God, ſayeth the Scripture, that bryngeth ſaluacio vnto all men, hath appeared. Chriſt hath appeared, ſaith your new yeres gift. In the old law he appeared by figures, tipes, cloudes, & ſhadowes as by Manna, the Rocke, the Paſchall lambe, the braſen ſerpente &c. which al prefigured Chryſt, and by them dyd he appeare to the faithful which beleued and loked for hys comming, but now he hath appeared perſonally, euen in his own fleſhe. He that hath been ſo long loked for, is now come very God and very man. He hath appeared, he hath been ſene and heard. He hath preached. He hath wrought miracles. He hath ſuffred and dyed for vs. He is ryſen agayn, and aſcended vp into heaue, where he ſitteth now on the right hand of God his father. All this was not fantaſtically done but truely & vnfainedly. He appeared very man in the fleſh, which he receaued of the bleſſed virgin Mary, hauinge hys godhed conioyned with his humanite, ſo that he was, and is, very god and very man. Euſe. There want not now a dayes, as I haue heard, which plainly deny, that Chriſt toke any fleſh of the virgin Mary, and as for that body that he had, he brought down wyth him from heauen. Phi. Thys is no newe hereſye, although it be lately renewed by the wycked and pernicious ſecte of the vngodly Anabaptyſtes, but ſprong vp among the olde Heretykes, ſhortely after the aſcencion of Chryſte.

Of thē that deny the humanite of Chryſt.

Would

woulde God I had ſufficient tyme and conueniente leaſure to vtter my mind fully concerning thys matter But forasmuch as I knowe & am perfectly perſwaded that none of you are addict nether to thys, nor anyother opinion that they mayntayn and holde contrarye to the rule of the catholyke fayth, and the determinacion of Chryſtes churche, I wyl not laboure much in the confutacion of thys their damnable hereſye, but onely rehearſe certayne Scriptures vnto you, that ye maye in fewe wordes perceaue how greatly they ſwarue from ỳ verite of gods word. Fyrſt I wyll rehearſe vnto you the wordes of God the father ſpoken to the ſerpent ſhortely after the fall of man. I wil ſet emnite betwene thee and an woman, betwene thy ſede and her ſede. And that ſelfe ſede ſhall tread down thy head. Thys ſede to be Chryſte no man doubteth, that is faythful. Marke nowe that he calleth Chryſte the ſede of a woman, he meaneth the moſt glorious virgine Mary. If Chryſt be the ſede of this woman Marye, than dyd he take hys fleſhe and humanite of her. So doth it than folow ryght well, that they erre, which affirme ỳ Chryſte brought hys body with him frō heauen, and toke no fleſhe of this moſt bleſſed and vndefyled virgine. For how can he be named to bee the ſede of a woman, if he had no part of her? Can a woman truely ſaye, thys is mine own and naturall ſonne, whan ſhe neuer brought hym forth? To Abraham alſo God the father ſayed: In thy ſede al nacions of the earth ſhalbe bleſſed. Thys ſede is Chryſt, as S. Paule declareth to the Galathians, which beyng borne of the virgine Mary, came of the ſede of Abraham. Now if Chriſt had taken no fleſh of Mary, how could he haue come of the ſede of Abraham. The Prophete Eſay alſo ſayeth. Beholde a mayden ſhal conceaue and bryng forth a ſonne, and hys name ſhalbe called Emanuel. Are not theſe wordes playn ynough? Could this glorious virgine both haue conceaued and brought forth Chryſt, and yet Chryſt haue taken no part of her? Thys had ben a meruaylous cōception, and a wonderful byrth, ſeyng ỳ al the Scriptures fyght agaynſt it. But let vs come to the new Teſtament. S. John in his goſpel ſayth: The word meaning Chryſt, became fleſhe, and dwelt among vs. As though he ſhold ſay. The word, which is the ſonne of God and ỳ ſecond perſon in Trynite, toke fleſh of the virgine Mary and became by ỳ meanes very mā for our ſake, and liued here among vs on the earth, and wrought ſuche thynges as was the wyl of hys heauenly father. Marke that he ſayth, the worde became fleſhe, that is, the ſonne of God became very man. How came thys to paſſe, that he was not onely God, but alſo very mā? Verely in aſmuche as he toke fleſhe of that moſt pure virgyne Marye, through the wonderfull operacion of the holy goſt. S. Paule alſo ſaith Chryſt was begotten of the ſede of Dauid after the fleſhe. Here S. Paul confeſſeth that Chryſt had fleſhe, and was very man, and that he tooke this fleſhe of the ſede of Dauid, which was Mary the moſt pure virgin. Theſe wordes are open inoughe for them that wyl ſee. I lyke thynge

Gene. xxii.

Gala. iii.

eſay. vii. Math. i. Luke. i.

Iohn. i.

Rom. i.

he

ii. Tim. ii. he writeth to Timothe, Remember that Iesus Christ is risen agayne frō death, of the sede of Dauid. Beholde howe he stil maketh mention of the sede of Dauid, because he would haue vs earnestly imprint the humanite of Christ in our hertes, which he receaued of the virgin Mary. For he did afore see in the spirit, ỹ ther should aryse certayn false Prophetes which should labor to wrest out of our hartes thys necessarye article Gala. iiii. of Christes humanite. To the Galathians also he writeth on this maner, whan the tyme was fulfilled, God sent his sonne borne of a woman, or rather as the Greke word. Genomenon soundeth, begotten or made. Christ by the wonderful and supernatural operacion of the holy goste, was begotten and made man of the virgin Mary, yea and that without the sede of any man. He only receaued his flesshe and māhed of Mary, which God so worckyng by his holy spirit was so pure, clene and undefyled, that there was no spot of vnclennes in her at al. And as Christ was begotten of God the father gods own son and verye God from everlasting, yea and that without the company of any woman, so was he begotten, conceaued, made, and borne verye man of the moste pure
Luke. i. virgin Mary without the sede of any man, the holy goste dyd so come vpon her, and the power of the hiest ouershadowed her. And as Christ receaued his godhead onely of God the father, so receaued he hys manhead onely of the virgin Mary his mother. Wherof we may conclude, that as Christ is very God of God the father wout any mother, so is he very man of Mary his mother without any father. Therfore may hys godhead be as iustly denyed, as his manhead and flesshe takyng of the blessed virgine Mary. But Christ abydeth very God and very man, what soeuer the wycked Heretykes bable in this behalfe. I wil reherse Heb. iiii. another text of S. Paule to the Hebrues and make an end of this matter. He was tempted and made lyke to vs in all thynges, syn alone except. If he wer like vnto vs in al things, sin alone except, than foloweth that he had a body of flesshe as we haue, and that ther was no difference but that his most blessed body was without all syn, and our bodyes are synfull. For he was borne wrapped in cloutes, layed in a maunger, he, circumcised, embraced in armes, grewe, was made strong in the spirit, profited in wisedome and age, hongred, thyrsted, wepte, was wery, reioysed, was moued with wrath and indignacion, sorowed, was hevy, sad, and at the last suffered the most spiteful death of the crosse. Are not these very signes & manifest tokens of man? Could he haue done these thynges, if he had had ether a fantastical body, or els a body frō heauē? Na verely, for what fantastical or heauenly thyng hongreth, thirsteth, wepeth slepeth, reioiseth &c. Which al Christ did. A litle before hys passion was he not in suche an agonye, that hys sweat was lyke drops of Luke. xxii. bloud tryckeling down to ỹ grounde? Did he not so greatly feare death that he desired his father to withdraw the cup of his passion from him? Are not al these euident tokens of a very man, seyng his flesh so greatly feared death? Seyng than that he was very man, whense had he this body,

body, but of the moſt holy virgine Mary, though the meruelous ope-racion of Gods ſpirit? Confounded therfore be Manicheus, which deni the humanite of Chriſt. Confounded be Valentius which affirmed þ Chriſt brought hys body with hym from heauen, & toke no fleſh of the virgine Mari. Confounded be the Anabaptiſtes, & ſo many as holde & maynteyne this wycked doctrine contrary to Gods trueth. For God was shewed in þ fleſh, iuſtifyed in the ſpirit, ſene of Angels, preched vnto þ Gentils, beleued on in þ earth, and receaued vp into glory.

Thus ſe you neyghbours, that Chriſt the gyfte of God, which bryn-geth ſaluacion to all men, hath appered, yea & that in the fleſh, whych he receaued of the moſt vyrgyn and pure virgine Mary. He appered, ſayth S. Iohn, þ he myght take away our ſynnes, & yet was there no ſynne in hym. Agayn, for thys cauſe appered þ ſonne of God, that he myght looſen the workes of the dyuell. But of all theyſe thynges ye haue heard aboundantly before, therfore wyll I go forth wyth your newe yeares gyfte. It followeth. And teacheth vs, that we ſhulde deny " vngodlynes and worldely luſtes. We hearde before, that chryſt beyng " borne of the virgine Mary, brought health and ſaluacion to all men " both Iewe and Gentile. Here agayn S. Paule teacheth, what plea- " ſure he hath done vs more. He hath not only brought ſaluacion to vs, and by that meanes deliuered vs out of the miſerable ſtate, wher vn we wer deteyned before, but he hath alſo taught vs what we ſhulde do, that though our owne faulte we loſe not agayn the dignite which we haue gotten through the fre mercy of God. And in this behalfe alſo are we much bound to thys our gifte. For what doth it profyt to haue a treaſure gyuen vs, and to loſe it agayn freyght wayes? Are we not much bold to them, which both gyue vs treaſures, and ſhewe vs alſo, howe we may ſafely kepe them to our great pleaſure and comforte?
Howe much than ar we endetted to our ſauyour Chriſt, wheych hath not only gyuen vs the treaſure of ſaluacion which of all treaſures is moſt excellent, but alſo taughte vs, how we ſhall behaue our ſelues, that we loſe it not hereafter. But let vs hear, what he hath taught vs.
Euſe. I pray you ſpeake on, for we deſyre greatly to heare it. Phile. Hys doctrine is thys. That we ſhulde deny vngodlynes and wordely luſtes.
we heare here none vnwritten verites, nor the fantys of men, nor yet " olde wyues fables and ſuch thynges as edify not, but thoſe thynges " that haue ben taught of Moſes and the Prophets many yeres before hys comyng, as we may ſe in the holy ſcryptures, therfore may they not be reiecte & caſt awaye. The olde Ethnyckes harkened not more to the Oracles and anſwers of Apollo, than we ought to harke & giue eare to the doctrine of this gyfte of God, Chriſt our ſauiour. For he is that Prophet, which God promiſed that he would rayſe vp, & put hys wordes into hys mouth, ſo þ who ſo euer wyl not heare him God wyl be reuenged of hym. He is a maiſter ſent from God. He hath the wordes of euerlaſtyng lyfe. He is the lyght of the world. Who ſo euer followeth

i. Tim. iii.
Ioan. i.
Luke. ii.
Ephe. iii.
Phil. iii.
i. Ioan. iii.
Deut. xviii
Ioan. iii.
Ioan. vi.
Ioan. viii.
ix. xii.

Iohan. xiiii. Titum. i. Pſal. xiiii. Math. xvii. Marke. ix. Luke. ix. ii. Pet. ii. Eſay. lxi. Luke. iiii. Iob. x. Ioan. viii. Eſay. xlviii.

hym, walketh not in darkenes, but ſhal haue the lyght of lyfe. He is the waye, trueth, and lyfe. He is ꝓ God that can not lye. He is faythfull in al hys woꝛdes, and holye in all hys woꝛkes. We ar cõmaunded of god the father to heare him. The ſpirit of God is vpon hym, he is ſent to preach mery tydynges to the pooꝛe, that he might heale the broken in harte, preach delyueraunce to pryſoners, and ſyghte to the blynd. He is that good ſhepered, whoſe voyce hys ſhepe heare: And euery one that is of the trueth, heareth his voyce. He is that Lord God, which techeth vs profitable thinges, and gouerneth vs in the waꝛ, wherin we ought to walke. Seyng than that he is a Lord of ſuche and ſo great authoꝛite, excellency & puyſſaunce, ſeyng alſo he teacheth nothyng but trueth, agayn ſeyng he hath done ſo much foꝛ vs, and tendereth nothyng moꝛe than our health and ſaluacion, we wer not only to much ingrate and vnkynd towarde hym, but alſo very enemies vnto our ſelues, yf we ſhould not wyth all diligence apply our ſelues both to heare hym, and alſo to follow & accomplyſh ſuche thynges as he teacheth vs. Let vs therfoꝛe hear, what he willeth vs to do. And teacheth vs that we ſhould

" denye vngodlyneſſe and worldely luſtes. Where as our Engliſh tranſ-
" lacion hath, teacheth, the Greke, woꝛld is Paideuouſa. Chri. What ſignifyeth ꝓ I pray you? Phil. It ſignifyeth not only to teache, but to inſtructe, enfoꝛme, faſhõ, & teache, as ſcholemaſters ar wonte to do theyr chyldꝛẽ, whom they found & reteaued rude, groſſe, ignoꝛaunt, & wyth" oute al good knowledge both of learnyng & manners. Euen ſuche did Chriſt is our Schole maſter.

our ſcholemaſter & teacher Chriſt fynde vs, al groſſe, al rude, all barbaroꝰs, al blynde, al ignoꝛant, al vnlearned, al vnmãnered and clene out of faſhon. Howe coulde it otherwyſe be? We wer darkeneſſe. We walked in ꝓ vanite of our mynde, blynded in our vnderſtandyng, beyng ſtraũgers from ꝓ lyfe, which is in God thꝛough the ignoꝛaunce ꝓ was in vs, and the blyndenes of our hartes ſo that we gaue ouer our ſelues vnto wantonnes, to woꝛke all manner of vnclennes withe gredynes.

Ephe. v. Ephe. iiii.

ii. Cor. iii. Eſaye. vi. Ioan. xii. Coloſ. i.

Foꝛ Satan the God of thys woꝛld, had blynded our myndes, that we ſhould not beleue, leſt the lyghte of the gloꝛious goſpel of Chriſt, which is the Image of God, ſhould ſhyne vnto vs. But yet foꝛ all this our rudenes, ignoꝛaunce & blyndnes, Chriſt that heauenly Doctoꝛ doth not diſdayne vs. He is contented to reteaue vs into hys ſchole, & to become our ſcholemaſter, ſo ꝓ we wyll leaue our woꝛkednes and be contented to be reformed. Oh what a gentle poynt is this of our ſauiour Jeſus chriſt not to diſdayne vs foꝛ al our rudenes & ignoꝛance, but ioyfully to accepte vs, yf we wyl follow ꝓ trade of his ſchole. The cõmon ſayeng is, an honeſt maſter loueth to haue honeſt ſeruãtes. Now who is moꝛe honeſt, pure godly innocẽt & fauteleſſe, thã this maſter Chriſt? It behoueth thẽ his ſeruaũtes to practiſe & follow ſo nigh as they can, his maners. Therfoꝛe the firſt leſſõ that his ſchollers learne in his ſchole, is to denye vngodlynes & woꝛldly luſtes. They that entende not to do thys, they are not fyt ſcholers foꝛ ſuch a ſcholemaſter, thoughe they braggge neuer ſo much so much of hys name, and call them selues Christians. For not euery one that saith vnto me, Lord, Lord, sayth Christ, shal enter into ỳ kingdome of heauen, but he ỳ doth the wyll of my father, which is in heaue. Math. vii.

And I pray you marke, howe pretely and handsomly the Scripture speaketh. That we should deny vngodlynes and worldely lustes. As though it should saye, although in tymes paste we haue both followed and mayntened vngodlynes, ydolatry, false worshyppynges of God, superstition, cõfidence in our owne selues and workes, and haue lyued after the lustes of the world and the flesh, yet now for asmuch as we are come into a newe schole, & haue a nother schole master & techer, which teacheth hys scholers nothyng but vertue, godlynes, and all that euer is contrary to vice, it becometh vs to deny, forsake, yea & vtterly to forsweare all vngodlynes and worldly lustes, and what so euer is cõtrary to the teachyng of this our newe scholemaster, and neuer to haue to do wt them here after but studiously and wyth al application of minde to follow the doctrine of thys our techer. The. What is it to deny vngodlynes? Phi. To deny vngodlines is vtterly to forsake & to cast away all thynges, that should obscure, deface, or in any poynte hynder ỳ honour ād glory of God. For who so euer wyl be Christes scholer, he must fyrst seke ỳ glory of God aboue all thynges, as it is writen. Thou shalt worshyp the Lord thy God, & him only shalt thou serue, Euse. which are they that hynder the glory of God? Phi. Aske ye which neighbour Eusebius, whan the world is altogither set on wickednes, as S. John. saith. They loue the glory of menne, more than the glory of God, as Christ sayth. Al seake theyr owin, and not that, which is Jesus Christes, saith S. Paule. What a sorte of Idolaters are there in the world, whych steale the honour from God & gyue it to creatures? What a nomber are fallen from Christ, some puttyng theyr trust in poppish pardons, some in ỳ merites of other, some in theyr owne workes, some in the obseruaūces of mens tradicios &c? What a company also is there, ỳ loue worldly thynges, more then God? How doth the couetous man embrase and loue hys ryches, so that it is not wt out a cause sayd of Christ, It is more easy for a cable rope to go through the eye of a nedle, thā for a ryche man to enter into the kyndom of God? How doth the glotonne make of his belly, and enfarse it wyth all kynde of deynties? Howe doth the prowde parsonne garnysh hymselfe and delight in precious ornamentes? Howe doth the trefull man set aside all charite and feare of God, & seake to be reuenged? Again, what a swarme of wycked parsons are ther, which dishonour the name of our God by vnlawfull and abhominable othes? What thyng in earth do they leaue vnsworne by? Yea what parte of ỳ most glorious body of our sauiour Jesus Christ, wherby we receaue redemption and saluacion, do they leaue vntowched wyth theyr to much detestable othes? Why do not these wretches call this precepte of God to theyr remembrāce, Thou shalt not take ỳ name of the Lord thy God in vayne. For ỳ Lord wyl not holde him gyltles, ỳ

Phil. ii.

Deut. vi. Math. iiii. i. Ioan. ỳ. Ioan. xii.

Exo. xx. Deut. vi.

what it is to deny vngodlynes.

tabeth hys name in vayne. The wyse man also sayth, A man that vseth Eccle. xxiii. much swearyng, shalbe fylled with wyckednes, and the plage, ꝑ is, the vengeaunce of God shall not go away from hys house. Furthermore what a flocke is there, that hateth Gods word, & so many as laboure to promote and set it forth, callyng them Heretykes, and felowes of the newe learnyng? How lytle pleasure haue these swynysh worldlynges & volupteous bely gods ether to read ꝑ scriptures them selues or to hear other? Yea I would there wer not, which nether wyll read the most holy Bible them selues, nor yet suffer wyth a gladde mynde other to read Agaynst al such doth Christ thõder in ꝑ gospel, sayeng. Wo be to Mat. xxiii. Luke. xi. you Scribes and Pharises hyppocrites, which haue taken awaie the keye of knowledge, & spearred the kyngdom of heauen before men. Ye your selues do not enter, nor yet suffer them that come to enter. Do not al these, think you, as I may let passe many other, greatly dishonour God & obscure his glory? These ar no fytte scholers for Christes schole, excepte they repẽt & amend. Therfore, as I sayd vnto you before, who so euer wyll be Christes scholler, he must fyrste seake the glory of God aboue al thynges. He must loue god aboue al thynges ether in heuẽ or in earth, beleue hym to be hys alone sauiour, and aske and loke for all good thynges of him alone. He must honour hys name, and seake ꝑ glo ry therof in al thynges that he doth. Yea for the glory of this his God, he must be contẽted not only to bestowe hys goods, but hys very lyfe Psal. i. also, if the honour of God so requireth. He must loue the word of god, as the alone tresure of his soule, study in it daye and nyghte, talke of it with other, exhorte his christen brothers vnto the readyng of it, reioyse whã he se men haue a plesure in it, and encourage them so to cõtinew, and to follow that, which thei read. They that do this, denye vngodly nes, & vnfaynedly seake the honour and glory of God. Chri. I beseech god, ꝑ we al may haue grace thus to do. Phi. For asmuch as we walke not only before God but also before men, therfore doth your new yeres gyfte, I meane Christ your scholemaster not only teache you to deny vngodlines, but also worldely lustes. The. What meaneth he by ꝑ? Phi.
Euen the very same that S. Paule doth wrytyng to the Collossians.
What it is to denye worldly lustes. Mortify, sayth he, your members, which are on the yearth, fornication vncleanes, vnnaturall lust, euell cõcupiscence, and couetousnes, which is worshyppyng of Idols, for which thynges ꝑ wrath of God cõmeth Colos. iii. on the childrẽ of vnbelefe. In which ye walked once, when ye lyued in thẽ. But nowe putte ye also awai frõ you al thinges, wrath, fearcenes, malicyousnes, cursed speakyng, fylthy talke out of your mouthes. Ly not one to another after ꝑ ye haue putte of the olde man with his wor-kes, and put on the new, which is renewed in knowledge after ꝑ image of hym that made him. Of these wordes may ye learne, what it is to deny worldly lustes. Nerely to mortify al carnal affectes, which strine agaynst the spirite. For the flesh lusteth contrary to the spirite, and the spirite contrary to ꝑ flesh. But they that pertayne vnto Christ, haue crueffyed

cifyed the flesh with the affectes and lustes therof. If ye lyue after the flesh ye shal dye. But if ye mortify the dedes of the body in ỳ spirite, ye shal lyue. For who so euer are led wyth the spirit of God, they ar ỳ sonnes of God. Here may ye se what purenes both of body & mind god requireth of vs, seing we may not so much as once norysh a worldely and carnal lust in our hartes. How much lesse than, is it lawful for vs to accomplysh them in dede, and to bryng thē forth in externall acte? Hereto pertayneth ỳ commaundement. Thou shalt not couyt or lust. Our scholemaster also in the Sermō ỳ he made in ỳ mountayne, sayth, who so euer loketh on another mannes wyfe, lustyng after her, hath comitted adultry alredy in hys hart. It is not wt out a cause ỳ Christ techeth vs to deny worldly & fleshly lustes. For if the hart be not refrayned frō euell concupiscences, & kept cleane, it is not possible, that we can either speake or do any thyng at all that should be good or godly. For of the abundaunce of the herte, the mouth speaketh. A good man out of ỳ good treasure of hys harte, bryngeth forth that is good. And an euell man out of the euel tresure of hys harte, bryngeth forth that is euell. Euery tree is knowne by her fruyte. Therfore must we aboue all thinges watche that no euell lust crepe into our hartes ether through the entysemēt of the flesh, or the flatteryng of ỳ world or yet the craftye suggestiō of Satan. Be sober, sayth S. Peter and watche. For your aduersary the dyuell goeth about lyke a rorrng lyon, seakyng whom he may deuoure. If the harte be once corrupte wyth worldely lustes, than goeth al to hauocke, as S. James sayth: After ỳ lust hath conceaued, she bryngeth forth synne, and synne whan it is fynyshed, bryngeth forth death.

Gala. v.
Rom. viii.
Matth. v.
Math. vii.
And. xii.
Luke. vii.
i. Pet. v.
Iacob. i.

Blyssed is that man, that can kepe hys harte fre from worldly lustes & vnlawfull desyres. For he is a fytte scholler to be in Christes schole, yea it is an euident token that he hath learned wyth Christ alredy, & hath well prosyted in godly knoweledge. And that you may do this, set euer before the eyes of youre mynde thys sayeng of S. John: Loue not the world, nor those thynges that are in the world. If any man loueth the worlde, the loue of the father is not in hym. For al that is in the world, as the concupiscence of the flesh, and the lust of the eyes, and the pryde of the lyfe, is not of ỳ father, but it is of the world. And ỳ world passeth away, & the lust therof. But he that doth the wyll of God, abydeth for euermore. Eusc. Is it not lawfull for vs to couyte & desyre such thinges of the world, as are necessary for our lyuyng? Phil. To desyre to haue meat, dryncke & clothe, wythout ỳ which ye canne not liue in ỳ world, it is lawfull. Salomon and Jacob prayed for them vnto God. Christ also in the Pater noster taught vs to pray on this manner: Giue vs this daye our daily bread. S. Paule also sayth, If any man doth not prouide for his houshold, he hath denyed ỳ fayth, and is worse than an infydel. Therfore it is lawful both to desire & to pray, & to make prouisiō for thē, so that it be done in fayth & of a syngle hart. For al the creatures of god are good, as the scripture sayth God beheld al thinges that he had

i. Ioan. ii.
Gene. xxviii.
Prouer. xxx.
Math. vi.
i. Tim. v.
Gene. i.
Titus. i.

made, and they wer very good. All thinges are pure to them ꝑ are pure.
1. Tim. iiii. Nothynge is to be cast away, that is receaued wyth thankes geuing.
To desyre these thynges, I say, yea and to haue the vse and possession of thē, ye ar not forbydden, but to lust & desyre worldly ryches wyth a couetous & insatiable mynde, that ye may ioyne house to house, lōde to lande & ferme to ferme, to desyre to be reuenged, when al vengeāce per-Deut. xxxii. tayneth to God, as he sayth, vengeance is myne, and I wyl reward, Rom. xii. to lust after another mannes wyfe, mayde or seruaūt, to desyre and lust after deynty meates, that the flesh may be the more prone and redy to Psal. cxv. synne, this to do ye are forbydden. & yf ye do it, ye are cursed of God, as ꝑ Psalmographe sayth, cursed be they that turne awaye from thy com-Iacob. i. maundementes. Thus perceue ye, I trust what is ment by ꝑ denieng of worldly lustes. Theo. We perceaue it right wel, Phi. Seeing ye do so neyghboures, loke ye be no forgetful herers, but diligent accōplysheres of suche thynges, as ye know, lest your knowledge turne to your greater damnacion. Mortify your carnal affectes & worldly lustes. Suffer none of them to crepe into your hartes. Cal to God for helpe wythout ceacyng, that ye may be able through hys grace to suppresse all euell affectes, concupiscences, lustes and desyres. Kepe your harte so pure, ꝑ nothing may come frō you but purenes, vertue, & godly innocency. Remember, that so many as are baptised in Christ Jesus, are baptised in-Roma. vi. to hys death. They are buryed togither wt him by baptisme into death that as Christ was reysed vp from death, through the glory of ꝑ father, Coloss. iii. so they lyke wyse should walke in a newe lyfe. If ye be rysen agayn wt Christ, seake for those thynges that are aboue, wher Christ is sitting on the ryght hande of God. Prouyde for those thynges that are aboue, & not vpon the earth. For ye are dead, and your lyfe is hyd wyth Christ in God. If ye do these thynges, and follow the teaching of your schole-master Christ, so that ye denye vngodlynes and worldly lustes, thā shall ye shew your selues to haue ben good studentes in the schole of Christ, & ye shall take forth a new lesson, which here followeth. Chri. what is " that? Philemon. Euen thys. And that we shoulde lyue soberly ryghte-
" ously and godly in this present world. Euse. Thys is a godly lesso. Phil.
" Labour therfore ꝑ more diligētly to remember it. Before ye herd, how " ye must forsake syn, now ye are taught to practyse vertu & godlynes.
For it is not ynough to cease frō doyng euell, excepte we also do good, Psal xxxiii. as ꝑ Psalmograph sayth, Departe frō euel, & do good. Also ꝑ Prophet.
Esaye. i. cease to do euel, lerne to do good. Therfore as before we wer taught to decline frō euel, so ar we here monished to do good & to embrace vertu.
And in this our lesso, which I now last rehersed, we ar taught how to behaue our selues both toward our selues, our neighbours & god in this Note. The discripsion of a christen mans lyfe. worlde. We must lyue soberly toward our selues, rigteously toward our neighbors, & godly toward God. Here is ꝑ hole life of a christē mā, paynted, described, & set forth in few wordes. To lyue so, ꝑ we nether offende our selues, our neyghbors, nor God, is not thys ꝑ whole summe of the christen

Chriſten religion? what is the duty of a Chriſten man more to do? Chr. what is it to liue ſoberly? Phi. The Greke word Sophronos ſoūdeth on ſuch maner, that to liue ſoberly, ſhould ſeme to be, ſo purely, diſcretely, modeſtly, temperatly and ſagely to inſtitute our lyfe, that our cōſcience ſhould neuer accuſe vs of any euil, but teſtify with vs, that we lyue and do all things godly. He that thus liueth, liueth ſoberly. For ther is a certain ſobriete ſo wel in the mind as in the body. There is alſo a certayn dronkennes ſo wel in the mind as in the body. Like wiſe as the body is recounted ſober and in ſafe eſtate ſo long as it is not diſtemperate with the ſuperfluite of meates and drynkes: ſo in like maner ſo longe as the minde is not troubled with vicious affectes but remayne in her natiue purite, it is recounted ſober. So that we are here taught, not onely to liue ſoberly, modeſtly and temperately cōcerning the body, but alſo the mind. For a Chriſten mā muſt haue a ſpecial reſpect to ỹ mind, whiche beyng dronken wyth vices, what doth the ſobriete of the body profyte? If I kepe my body ſober, and in neuer ſo good tēperaunce, & my minde be dronken with wrath, yre, cōtencion, deſyre of vengeaunce, wyckedom vncleane thoughtes, and ſuch other carnal affectes and worldlye luſtes, what doth it profit? Therfore as the body is to be kept from dronkennes: ſo muſt the mind be frō vices. Than ſhal we be truly ſober, & lyue wel toward our ſelues. But for almuch as this tyme of Chriſtmas mē vniuerſally are moſt of al geuen to banketting, volupteous eatyng and drynkyng, ſo that the Chryſten ſobriete and moderate temperaunce is forgotten wyth many, and glotony and dronkenſhip beare chiefe rule, therfore I deſire you brothers by the tender mercyes of God, ỹ ye lyue ſoberly, and beware of ſurfettyng and dronkeſhyp. Vſe a ſober and temperate dyet. Ouercharge not your ſtomackes wyth to muche eatynge and drynking. Let other glory in their Chriſtmaſſe bankets, made for the bely, haue you your whole reioyſing, pleaſure, and delight in ỹ meat which periſheth not, but abydeth into euerlaſtyng lyfe. Make no prouiſion for the fleſhe to fulfil the luſtes therof. Be not dronken with wyne, wherin is exceſſe. Caſt away the workes of darknes, and put on the armoures of lyght. Walke honeſtly as in the day light, not in banketting and dronkennes, not in chamburyng and wantonnes, nor yet in ſtrife, and enuying, but put ye on the Lord Jeſus Chriſt. Remember that we lyue not to eate, but eate to lyue. And nature is contented wyth a lytle. What ſoeuer is ſuperfluous, is ſynneful and damnable. Remēber that Adam and Heua dyd fall through glotony. Remember ỹ Nohe whan he was dronken, was vncouered in hys Tente, and laye wyth his priuities bare. Remember that Lot beyng dronken commytted inceſte wyth his owen daughters. Remember that whan the children of Iſraell had ſat down to eate and drynke, they fell ſtreyght wayes vnto Idolatry, & worſhypped the golden calfe. Remember that Ammon the brother of Abſolon was ſlayne at a banket, whan he was dronke. Remember that Holoferne beyng dronke, was ſlayne of an woman. Remember

What it is to liue ſoberly.

Luke. xxi. Godly admonicions agaynſt ſurfetyng and dronkennes Iohn. vi. Rom. xiii. Ephe. v. Rom. xiiii.

Gene. iii.

Gene. ix. Gene. xix. exo. xxxii. 1. cor. x. iii. Reg. xiii. Iudith. xiii.

that at a banket, it was graunted, that S. Iohn Baptist shoulde loose Matth.xiiii. his head, and yet no cause why, but a litle enui, and because he would tel the king trueth, wherwith the flatterers ẏ wer about him could not a-Luke.xvi. way. Remember ẏ the ryche gloton, which fared deintely euery daye, was buryed and throwen down into hel. Remember ẏ the occasion of Gene.xviii. the wickednes of Sodome was pryde, fulnes of meate aboundance Ezec.xvi. and ydlenes. All these be terryble historyes agaynst glotony & dronke-shyp. Again, what diseases come therof? How many sorowes & troubles Pro.xxiii. do they bryng to mans body? Let vs heare what Salomō saith, wher is woe? wher is sorow? where is stryfe? where is brawling? wher are woundes wout a cause? Where be red eyes? Euen among those, that be uer at ẏ wyne, & seke out where ẏ best is. Therefore kepe no companye with wine bibbers & riotous eaters of flesh, for such as be dronkardes & ryotous shal come to pouerte. Iesus the sonne of Sirach also saith: Be Eccle. xxxvii. not gredy in euery eating, and be not to hasty vpon all meates. For excesse of meate bryngeth sickenes, and glotony commeth at ẏ last to an vnmeasurable heate. Through glotony haue many perished, but he that dieteth himselfe temperately, prolongeth his lyfe. Therfore good neighbours, ẏ we may eschewe al these great perels let vs cast away al glotony and dronkennes, lyue soberly, practise moderate temperaūce, and so embrace Chrysten sobriete, ẏ we may be sober both in body and mind
So shal we be ẏ more able to do our duty toward our neighbours. Th Trueth it is. For he ẏ cannot order hymselfe wel toward himselfe, shall euil do his duty toward his neighbour. I pray God geue vs grace first to loke vpon oure selues, as we ought to do, and afterwarde to behaue our selues toward our neighboures, as it becommeth vs. Ph. Thys is a godly desyre. We are taught of Christ our scholemaster not only to liue soberly, which concerneth our selues but also ryghteously, which to we-cheth our neighboures. Euse. What is it to liue ryghteously? Phil. To do What it is to lyue righteously. to euery man as we ar bound by the commaundement of God. For the office of ryghteousnes is, to geue euery one his owne. This our lesō, ẏ we should liue ryghteously, cōprehendeth al the second table of the ten exod.xx. commaundementes. For iustice and ryghteousnes requireth, that we Deut.v. honor our father and mother, reuerence them, and do for them, whatso Math.xix. euer lyeth in our power. It requireth of vs ẏ we also haue in hono Marke.x. al tēporal magistrates and so many as be our superiours. It requireth agayne, that we geue to the ministers of gods worde double honour, that is to say, both an harty external reuerence, and also al thyngs that are necessary for their liuing, that their most godly exercyses maye not Rom.xiii. be letted. It requireth that we slay no man, no doe no man no harme, i.pet.ii. but walke charytably towarde al men, speake and report wel of al mē, i.Timo.v. helpe, comfort and succour thē, yea though they be our extreme enemies and seke our death. For the commaundement of our scholemaysters is Math.v. thys: Loue your enemyes, pray for them that curse you, doe good to thē that hate you. &c. It requireth, that we commytte none adultrye but .cor.vii. that euery man haue hys owne wyfe, and euery woman her own husbande.

bande. It requireth that we do no theaft, nor ſteale any thing from our neighbour, nor brybe away his goods vniuſtly, nor deceue hym in bargayning, but helpe him, mayntain him, ſuccour him, and do for him vnto the vttermoſt of our power, that he may want no good thyng. It requireth that we heare no falſe wytnes agaynſte oure neighbours, nor obſcure his good name, nor yet do any thing at al, that may turne hym to diſpleaſure, but both thynke and ſpeake of hym gentilly, frendly and charytably, enterpretyng al thynges vnto the beſt, and couerynge hys faultes, where there is hope of amendemēt. It requireth of vs, ẏ we do not couit our neighbours houſe, wyfe, ſeruaunte, handmayde, nor any thyng that is his, but that we wiſh wel vnto hym and to all ẏ he hath, beyng contented with that ẏ God hath geuen vs, be it litle or much. To be ſhorte, to lyue righteouſlye, is to doe vnto other, as we woulde they ſhould do vnto vs. He ẏ doth theſe things aforeſaid, liueth righteouſly, and behaueth himſelfe toward his neighboure, as he is bounde by the commaundement of God. Chri. Now haue we learned our duty both towarde our ſelues, and our neighbours. Let it now be declared vnto vs, I pray you, how we ought to behaue our ſelues toward God. Phi. Chryſt our Scolemaſter teacheth vs not only to liue ſoberly and righteouſly, but alſo godly. The. What is it to lyue godly? Phil. To lyue godly, is to beleue ẏ ther is but one true and liuing God, to cleaue vnto him as the foundacion of al goodnes, to looke for al health and ſaluacion at his hand, to loue hym w the whole mind, hart, power and ſoule, to call vpon his moſt bleſſed name, to praiſe him in al kynde of fortune, to ſeke his glory aboue al things, and to ſerue him accordyng to hys worde. Euſe. Bleſſed is that mā, to whō it is geuen thus godly to lyue. Phile. Neighbours now haue ye learned the whole trade of Chryſtes ſchole, and what he teacheth. Hys doctryne is this, ẏ ye ſhould deny vngodlynes and worldly concupiſcences, and ẏ ye ſhold liue ſoberly, ryghteouſly and godly. Loke therfore ẏ ye folow this teaching and practyſe it in your dayly conuerſacion, ẏ ye may be founde no forgetful hearers, but feruent doers of ſuch thynges as ye haue heard & learned. Deny vngodlines, & forſake al ẏ euer is contrary to gods honor, prayſe, worſhip and glory. Mortify your carnall affectes and worldly luſtes. Become newe men in your liuing. Away with the workes of darkenes, and on with the frutes of the ſpirite. Put on the armoures of lyght, and caſt away the workes of darkenes. Be no longer darkenes, but light in the Lord. Shine in the world as great lightes. Glorifye God in your body, & in your ſpirite, which are gods. Let your lyght ſo ſhine before men, that they may ſee your good workes, and glorify your father, whiche is in heauen. Lyue ſoberly, modeſtly, temperatly diſcretely & ſagely toward your ſelues. Do nothing, wherof your conſcience may ether condemne or accuſe you. Lyue ryghteouſly toward your neighbor. Do none other wiſe vnto him, than ye would, he ſhould do vnto you. Lyue godly towarde God. Seke his glory in al thinges, & worſhip hym accordynge

i. Theſ. iiii.

Pro. x.
i. Peter. iiii.

Math. viii.
Luke. vi.

What it is to lyue godlye.

colo. iiii.

Rom. xiii.
Ephe. v.
philip. iii.
i. cor. vi.
Math. v.

to his worde, and not after your blynd fantsye, and fleshly ymagination. Thus doyng, ye shal shew your selues scholers not altogether vnworthy such a scholemaster. But ye must note that al these things must be done in this present worlde, as your newe yeres gift hath. For this is the Esay. xlix. ii. cor. vi. time of grace, fauour, comfort & remission of sinnes, as God saith by the Prophet, I haue heard the in a time accepted, and in the daye of saluacion haue I socoured thee. Beholde now is that wel accepted tyme, beholde now is that day of saluacio. Seke the Lorde while he may be found.

Esay. lii. In this worlde ther is tyme of mercy fauour and grace. Here is it lawful to lamēt our synnes. Here may we vndoubtedly beleue, trust & obtayne remission of our synnes. After thys lyfe there remayneth nothyng contra. Demet Tractū primo but ether euerlasting pain or eternal glory, as S. Cipryan saieth: wo han we go once oute of thys worlde, there is no more place of repentaunce, there is no more satisfactio to be made. For lyfe is here ether lost or gotten, here is prouision made for eternall health with the worshippyng of God and ẏ frute of fayth. Let no man discorage him selfe because of the multitude of his sinnes, or by the reason that he hath bene so long a sinner, thinkyng that by this meanes he shall obtayne healthe the lesse. For so long as we are in this worlde, there is no repentaunce to late. Ther is a way to obtayne fauoure, and they that seke and vnderstande the trueth, shal sone come by it. Therfore in this worlde must we denye vngodlynes and worldly lustes. In this worlde must we liue soberly righteously and godly. So doyng, we may wt a good and free conscyence do " that which foloweth. Chri. I pray you let vs heare, what it is. Phi. Lo

" king for that blessed hope and appearing of the glory of the great God, and
" of our Sauioure Iesus Christ. A good seruaunt nedeth not to feare hys
" masters comming. For in his absence he hath been faythfull and diligent to do ẏ thyng, which hys master wylled him to do. Therfore may he lawfully euen wt ioy and gladnes loke for his masters returne. So likewise a Chrysten mā, ẏ walketh in ẏ way of ẏ Lorde, & doth ẏ, which he is appointed by the law of God, & leueth aboue al thyngs the accomplyshment of his masters wil, may wt a free, glad and merye conscyence loke for the commyng of Chryst at the day of iudgement, which shalbe terryble to the wycked, but comfortable to the faythfull. And verelye so many as hope to be saued at that great day, oughte so to behaue themselues in thys worlde, ẏ they may wt ioy at al tymes loke for it. And they ought to be so much the more diligent, seing the time is vncertayn when it shalbe. Of that day and tyme, sayeth Chryst, knoweth no man, no not the Angels, which ar in heaue, nether the sone hymselfe, saue only ẏ father. Take hede, watch, and pray, for ye knowe not when that tyme is.

Actes. i. Math. xxiiii. xxv. Luke, xii. xix. As a man, which is gone into a straunge countrey, & hath left his house and geuen authorite to his seruauntes, and to euery man hys worke, and cōmaunded ẏ porter to watch. Watch therfore, for ye knowe not, whan the maister of the house wil come, whether at euen, or at mydnighte, whether at the corke crowinge, or in the dawninge, leaste if he come sodenly he should finde you sleping And that I say to you I says to all, watche. It is to be noted, that the Scripture calleth that a blessed hope, wherwyth we hope and loke for the glorious comyng of our Lord and Sauiour Jesus Chryst vnto the iudgemente. And not with out a cause. For although a Chrysten man be neuer so greatly vexed in this worlde, yet whan he casteth the eyes of hys fayth vpon that daye, & hopeth that Chryst shal come and geue hym eternall glorye accordyng vnto hys fayth, this maketh hym blessed, ioyful, quiet and mery, and contented wyth a glad hart, paciently and thankefully to beare, what soeuer crosse God layeth on hys backe. We are saued through hope, sayeth S. Paule, Derely beloued, sayeth S. John, we are nowe the sonnes of God, and it hath not yet appeared what we shalbe. But we know yt if he once appeare, we shalbe like vnto him, for we shal see hym, as he is. And euery one that hath this hope in hym purifyeth hymselfe, euen as he is pure. The hope of Saintes is ful of immortalite, sayeth the wyse man. It folowth. And the appearing of the glory of the great God, and of our Sauiour Iesus Chryst. At Christes comming into this worlde, he came altogether poorely. He was borne of a poore maid in a stable, wrapt in simple cloutes, and laied in a maunger amõg brute beastes. He was brought vp homely, liued hardely, not hauing wher once to rest his hed All the time of his life he was of such ignominy among the Bishoppes, Priestes, hed rulers, Scribes, Pharises and Saduces, that at the last they put him vnto the most spiteful death of the crosse, as a pestiferous malefactoure, a deceauer of the people, a teacher of new learnynge, an enemy to our mother the holy chirch. &c. But whan he shall appeare agayne and come vnto the iudgement, his appearing shal bee glorious, his comming shalbe royall, victorious & triumphant. He shal not come humbly and simply, as a base person, but like a great and almighty god lyke a Lorde full of all puyssaunce, mighte and power, terryble to the wicked, and amiable to the faythfull. He shall come in his glory, and all the holy Aungels wyth him, than shall he sit vpon the seate of hys glory and there shalbe gathered before hym all nacions. He shal shewe hymself to be a great God, and such one as none is able to be compared vnto hym. It shall wel be knowne at that tyme that he was and is the true sonne of GOD and that very true Messias, which was promysed of God by the Prophetes, what soeuer the wycked Jewes saye vnto the contrary. Than shall it be manifest to all men, that the gods of the Gentyles are diuels, and that there is no other God, but this oure God alone. Than shall they that are the aduersaryes of his trueth, and enemyes of hys most holy gospell knowe how greatly they haue erred blaspheamed the diuine verite, persecuted his faithful seruauntes, maintayned pernycyous doctryne, yea than shall they receaue a rewarde worthy theyr wyckednesse and tyrannye. He shall shewe himselfe suche a great God, that it shall lyghe in hys power to geue to the faythfull euerlastynge lyfe, and to the wycked eternall damnation. Oh greate

Rom. viii.
i. Iohn. iii.
Sapi. iii.
Philip. ii.
Mat. xxvii.
Luke. xxii.
Marke. xiiii.
Iohn. xviii.
Math. xxv.
psal. cxv.
Esa. i. iii. & v.
Math. xxv.

is the

Pſal.cxliiii. is the Lord and worthy very much to be prayſed, and there is no ende of hys greatnes, ſayeth the Pſalmographe. Nedes muſt our Lord God be great, ſeing he repleniſheth both heauen and earth with the maieſte of his glory. No place is there any whete, but that his power reacheth vnto it. Heauen is my ſeate, and earth is my foteſtole, what houſe will ye bilde for me, ſayeth the Lord? for what place is it that I ſhold reſt in? Hath not my hand made al theſe things? But it is to be noted, that Chriſt is not only called a great God, but alſo a Sauiour, yea and that our ſaui-eſay.lxvi. Actei.vii.

our. So that at the day of iudgement he ſhal not only appeare a great and mighty God to all men, but alſo a bounteous and merciful Sauiour to the faythful, as S. Paul witneſſeth, our cõuerſacion is in heuen philip.iii. ſayeth he, from whenſe we alſo loke for a Sauiour, euen the Lord Ieſus Chryſt, which ſhal chaunge our vile bodyes, that they may be faſhi-colloſ.i. oned like vnto his glorious body accordyng vnto the working, whereby he is able to ſubdue al thinges vnto hymſelfe. Agayne, when Chriſt which is our lyfe, ſhal ſhewe himſelfe, than ſhal ye alſo appere with him in glory. Thys great God is Chryſt our Sauiour, and not Mary, Peter, Iames, Michael, Fraſices, Dominike, Auſtē, or any other. He ſhall both ſaue and lede his people with him into eternall glorye. For as he ſhal ſay to the wycked, Depart and go away from me ye curſed into-

Math.xxv. uerlaſtyng fyre, which is prepared for the diuel and his aungels, ſo ſhall he ſay to his faythful people: Come ye bleſſed childzen of my father, inherite the kingdome, which was prepared for you from the beginning of the world. O ſwete ſaying more ful of ioy and comfort than it can be expreſſed. Chri. Lord I beſeche thee for thy great mercyes ſo to aſſyſte vs with thy holy ſpirite, that we may ſo walke before the in this life accordyng to thy moſt holy worde, that we may be founde in the nombre at that day of thy bleſſed childzen, to whom thou of thy free grace ſhalte geue that moſte glorious inheritaunce. Phi. Youre deſire is godly. We ſhall heare more of your newe yeares gyft, for it begynneth to draw vs to an end. Euſe. I pray you, let vs heare. Phi. VVhich gaue himſelfe for vs to redeme vs from al vnrighteouſnes. That there can be no Sauiour for vs but Chryſt alone, theſe wordes proue manifeſtly, for almoſte in none other but he only gaue himſelfe for vs to redeme vs from all vnryghteouſnes. Was Paule crucified for vs? Or wer we baptiſed in the i.cor.i. name of Paule? What Saint at any tyme thoughte hymſelfe ſo pure, immaculate and wout al ſpot of syn, y he durſt preſume to die for vs, & to auouch his death to be an oblacion & ſacryfice for our ſinnes to God the father, except peraduenture we wil admit for good paiment thoſe ſuch like blaſphemies which wer wōt ful ſolemly to be ſong in the temples vnto the great ignominy of the glorious name of God, & the diſhonour of Chryſtes moſt precious bloude. Ieſu bone per Thome merita, noſtra nobis dimitte debita. Et atrina morte nos ſuſcita. Agai, Ieſu bone per Thome uulnera, que nos ligant, relaxa ſcelera. Itē, Thome cedunt et parent omnia, Peſtes, morbi, mors, et demonia, Ignis, aer, tellus et maria.

Thomas

Thomas mundū repleuit gloria. Mundat lepra conſperſos maculis, ſoluit mortis ligatos vinculis. I let paſſe many mo which ar very eſaye to be ſearched & founde oute. What ar if theſe be not, blaſphemes? what obſcure ꝓ pryce of Chriſtes death, if theſe wycked ſētēces do not? Ah Lord, what blyndenes occupyed ꝓ world, whā ſuche wycked doctrine crept in & was receaued into ꝓ chyrch, & made in a manner of equal authorite wyth the holy ſcripture? Oh Satan, great is thy craft, vnſearchea-ble is the ſuttelty of thy wicked imaginacions. Chri. Here are ſome of vs, whych vnderſtand not the Latin tonge, Englyſh therfore ꝓ afore-ſayd ſentences. Phil. I wyl do it in order. O good Jeſu, forgiue vs our dettes through the merites of Thomas. And reyſe vs vp from the thre folde death. O good Jeſu, releaſe vs of our ſynnes, which bynde vs, through Thomas woundes. Al thynges gyue place & obeye Thomas, Peſtilētes, diſeſes, death & dyuels, Fyre, ayre, earth & theſees. Thomas fylled the world ful of glory. He maketh clene lepers. He loſoneth them that are bounde, from the bondes of death. How ſaye ye to thys geare? Is it not good ſtuffe? Euſe. Let God be but a lytle merciful vnto me, yf I haue ether heard or read more peſtilēt & abhominable blaſphemies, thā theſe are. Is this any other, thā as Lucifer ſayd, I wyl clyme vp in to heuen, & make my ſeat aboue the ſtarres of God, I wyll ſytte vpō ꝓ glorious mōūt toward the North. I wyl clime vp aboue the clowdes, and wyll be lyke the hygheſte of al? Is not this the office of God to for-gyue vs our dettes for the merites of Chriſt? Doth it not pertayne vn-to God to reyſe vs vp from death? Are not our ſinnes only releaſed for Chriſtes woūdes ſake? Is not al power giuē vnto Chriſt both in heuē and in earth? Are not all thinges in the hande of God, to do with them what ſo euer hys moſt godly pleſure ſhall be? Is it not God alone that loſoneth the ſynfull from the bondes of death? Howe than can theſe thynges be iuſtly aſcribed to a mortal creature begotten, conceaued & borne in ſyn, yea & as ſome iudge of him, a Traytour both to God and his Prynce? Is a ſynner fyt to pay a ſynners raūſome? Is a Traytour a conuenient perſon to make meās for another Traytour vnto a kyng whom both of them haue offended? What pryncē can awaye with the ſyght of them? Phi. Ye ſay trueth. It therfore foloweth wel that nether Thomas, Fraūces, Dominicke, Auſtē, nor any other creature nether in heuen nor in earth, wer they neuer ſo holy, and ſuffered they neuer ſo greate paynes, could be our ſauiour, but chriſt alone that pure and im-maculate lābe of God, which gaue himſelfe for vs, as your new yeares gyfte ſayth, to redeme vs from all vnrighteouſnes. Marcke that he ſayth. VVhych gaue hym ſelfe for vs. Theſe wordes expreſſe ꝓ vnſpeake-ble kyndenes of Chriſt towarde vs, ſeyng that whan we had deſerued no ſuche gentylnes, he was contented to come downe from the glorye of his father, and to become man for our ſake, yea & to gyue hymſelf vn-to the death to reconcyle vs vnto God the father, and to make an at-tonemēt betwene him & vs. He gaue him ſelfe for vs. He ſuffered death

Eſaye. xiiii.

Math. xviii.

The gentil-nes of chriſt toward vs.

wyllyngly. It was not ỳ violence of the Iewes, that drewe him vnto his passion, but hys owne volũtary wyl. The feruent & brẽnyng loue, that he had in hys brest toward mankynd caused hym to take ỳ death vpon hym, and to suffer those most cruel paynes. So that he dydde all thynges wyllyngly, as the Prophet sayth. He was offred, because it was his pleasure and he dyd not once opẽ his mouthe. Esa. liii.

Christ hymselfe also sayth. Therfore doth my father loue me, because I put my lyfe from me, that I myght take it agayn. No man taketh it from me, but I put it away of my selfe. I haue power to put it from me, and haue power to take it agayn. Ioan. x.

Thus se we ỳ Christ wythoute any cõpulsion suffered death for our sake. He gaue him selfe and no Aungell, nor any other creature nether in heauen nor in earth, for vs, for vs, I saye men, although neuer so greuous synners, if we repent, beleue & amende. O most precious & incõparable gyfte. There is one god, sayth S. Paule, and one attonement maker of God and mẽ, euen the man Christ Iesus, whych gaue hymselfe a raũsome for al men. i. Tim. ii.

Christ gaue hymselfe for vs, wherfore? To redeme vs from all vnrighteousnes, Theo. What is it to redeme vs? Phil. To redeme vs is to bye vs agayn, whã we are loste, to pay our raunsome, to satisfy for our syn, to delyuer vs oute of captiuite, to bryng vs hom agayn to our true owner, to restore vs to our old liberty, to set vs again in that fauour, wherin we wer with God the father, before we offended. What it is to redeme vs.

All this hath Christ, and none other, done for vs, by hys most precious bloud. The sheddyng of hys bloud, was the perfecte and wholly sufficient raunsome for all our synnes, as S. Iohn sayth: The bloud of Iesus Christ maketh vs clene from all synne. By hys owne bloud, sayth S. Paule, entred Christ once for all into ỳ holy place, and found euerlastyng redemcion. Agayn, we are made holy by ỳ oblacion of the body of Iesus christ done once for all. Item, by christ haue we redẽcion, & by hys bloud remissiõ & forgyuenes of our synnes. By ỳ bloud of Christes crosse are all thinges pacifyed & set at a staye, ỳ ether be in earth or in heauen. i. Ioan. i. Heb. ix. Heb. x. Coloss. i.

Chri. Hath Christ by hys bloud redemed vs frõ al vnryghteousnes? Phi. Yea verely. Chri. Let me aske you one questiõ, what do ye vnderstãd by vnrighteousnes? Phi. Vnrighteousnes is here taken for synne, & for al that we offende God wh. From all thys hath Christ redemed vs, Chri. I haue herd some saye ỳ Christ only redemed vs from original synne, & that as for all other synnes we must make amẽdes & satisfy for them our selues by our own workes & merites. Phi. This is not farre frõ theyr opinion, whych holde ỳ there is no remission of those synnes, that be committed after baptisme. But as ỳ is an heresy, so is this no godly doctrine. Of ỳ remyssion of synne after baptisme we talked the last Lent abundantly in our Potaciõ, therfore leauyng that, I wyll shewe & proue now vnto you that Christ hath redemed vs from al vnrighteousnes, as your new yeres gyfte sayth, and that by his bloud we are delyuered not onely from original synne, but also actual, veniall, mortall, cal thẽ by what name ye wyll, so that they

What vnrighteousnes signifyeth

Of original synne.

Searche the Potacion for Lent.

which offende, repent, beleue & take a newe lyfe vpō them. Only ꝑ ſinne agaynſt the holy Ghoſt, which hath deſperacion & obſtinate malyce to her compagnions, is irremiſſible & neuer forgyuen, for aſmuch as it excludeth repentance, fayth & amendement of lyfe, as Chriſt witneſſeth, Euerye ſinne & blaſphemy ſhall be forgyuen men, but the blaſphemy agaynſt the holy Ghoſt ſhal not be forgyuē vnto men. And who ſo euer ſhal ſpeke a worde agaynſt ꝑ ſonne of man it ſhal be forgiuen hym. But he ꝑ ſpeaketh agaynſt ꝑ holy Ghoſt, it ſhal not be forgiuen hym, nether in this worlde, nor in ꝑ worlde to come. Agayn. All ſinnes ſhal be forgyuē to mennes chyldren, & blaſphemies, wherwyth ſo euer they blaſpheme. But he ꝑ blaſphemeth the holy Ghoſt, ſhal neuer haue forgyuenes, but is gylty to euerlaſtyng damnacion. Thys is ꝑ ſynne, which S. John calleth the ſynne vnto death, for the which he would that no mā ſhould praye. Of theſe wordes it is euident that all ſynnes ſhal be forgyuen men if they repent, beleue & amend, beſydes the ſynne agaynſt the holy ghoſt. But nowe let vs ſe by what meanes theſe ſynnes are forgyuen, whyther for our dedes & merites, or for Chriſtes bloudes ſake, & ſo ſhal we eaſely perceaue, whyther Chriſt by hys death hath delyuered vs only from originall ſynne, or rather from al other vniuerſally. Euſe. Thys is it ꝑ we would gladly heare. Phil. By ꝑ Prophet Eſaye, Chriſt ſpeaketh on this manner, I am he, I am he, which put away thyne vnrighteouſnelles yea and ꝑ for myne owne ſake, & I wyl remēber thy ſynnes no more. Marke that he ſayth, vnrighteouſneſſes & ſinnes in ꝑ plurall nōber, becauſe no man ſhould pike a cauillacion & ſay, ꝑ Chriſt only putteth away one offēce, which is ꝑ original ſynne. S. Paule in our newe yeares gyfte ſayth, Chriſt gaue hym ſelfe to redeme vs from al vnrighteouſnes. And by the Prophet Chriſt ſayth, ꝑ he putteth away our vnryghteouſneſſes and ſynnes. Is it not al one? Do they not tel both one tale? So ſe we that it is no newe doctrine to ſay, that Chriſt putteth awaye allour ſynnes both original, actuall, veniall, mortall. &c. They that affirme the contrary derogate not a lytle the vertue & glory of chriſtes death, and are very they, whom S. Paule calleth, the enemies of ꝑ croſſe of Chriſt, whoſe ende damnacion is, whoſe God theyr belly is. &c. Theſe ar thoſe falſe Prophets & lyeng techers, which, as Peter prophecied, ſhuld come, & priuyly bryng in dānable ſectes, denyeng ꝑ Lord which bought them. Are not they very enemies of Chriſtes croſſe, and do not they vtterly deny Chriſt, which teache, ꝑ Chriſt by hys paſhyon, bloud and death did only put away but one ſynne? And that for thoſe, whych we commyt after baptiſme, we our ſelues muſt ſatiſfy & make amēdes, ſo ꝑ for them there is no remiſſion and forgiueneſs to be aſked of God ꝑ father for Jeſus Chriſtis ſake? What any other thyng is thys thā to make our ſelues equal with Chriſt, yea to exalt our ſelues aboue Chriſt, & to holde that our good dedes & merites be of greater prycē & more value, than the death & bloud of chriſt? For this doctrine I graūt tracheth that Chriſt is a ſauiour, but yet that he ſaueth only from ori-

Matth. xii.

Marc. iii.

1. Ioan. v.

Eſaye. xliii.

Phil. iii.

ii. Pet. ii.

Mark ix.

ginall synne, which we receaued of our fyrst father Adam, so ꝑ by hym we are delyuered but from one syn. Ytterheth agayn, that we our selues are sauiours, for asmuch as we saue our selues through our good dedes and merites, from all those synnes, which we commit after baptisme. Now lette vs se, whyther Christ be the better sauiour or we our selues, & whyther there is more saluacion in ꝑ death of Christ, or in our good workes. Christ by his death saueth only from one synne, which is original. We saue our selues from many and innumerable synnes (for seuen tymes in a daye synneth the righteous) which we commyt after baptisme. Ergo we are better sauiours than Christ, & there is more vertue of saluacio̅ in our workes, thā in the bloud and death of Christ. So that Christ is but a quarter sauiour and we make vp ꝑ whole. O pernicious & dyuelyshe doctrine. Who hath euer opened his mouth to speake blasphemies agaynst the most highest, if they do it not, which maintayne this wycked & damnable doctrine? But let vs heare mo scriptures. Esay the Prophet sayth, vnfaynedly he, that is to saye Christ, hath taken vpon hym our sycknesses, & borne our sorowes. Agayn, he was wounded for our wyckednesses, and broken for our mischeuous and vngratious actes. Behold how vniuersally the scripture speaketh, our sycknesses, sorowes, wyckednesses, myscheuous and vngracious actes. Are al these but one synne: If they be many, ergo Christ delyuered vs from many. If he delyuered vs frō many, ergo not from original synne alone. To what poynte are ꝑ authors of thys wycked doctrine becōe now? wyth what eyes do these Owles & blynd Andabates loke vpon the holy scriptures? w what spirite do they searche the misteries of God? Let vs heare what the Psalmograph sayth: Prayse the lorde O my soule, and all that is wythin me, prayse hys holy name. Prayse ꝑ Lord O my soule, and forget not al his benefites. Which forgyueth all thy synnes, and healeth al thyne infirmites. Which saueth thy lyfe frō destrucciō, & crowneth the in mercy and louing kyndnes. Dauid here bosteth not him selfe of his good dedes, nether cleueth he vnto them as the Authors of his saluaciō, but he falleth vnto the prayse of the Lord & magnifieth hym for his benefites confessing ꝑ what so euer he hathe, beyng ether good or godly, cōmeth of God and not of hym selfe, & therfore is he worthy al praise, honour & glory. He ackno wlegeth that god forgyueth hym al hys sinnes, & healeth al his infirmities. Where is any exception here I pray you? God for gyueth all, what remayneth than behynde to be forgyuen? Is original synne only now forgyuē through Christ? Moreouer he sayth, ꝑ God saueth his lyfe from destruccion, and crowneth him in mercy & louyng kyndnes. Are not these words playn ynough? He grauunteth ꝑ god preserueth him from dānacion, agayn ꝑ God crowneth him ꝑ is to say, giueth him eternal glory euē of his own free mercy & tēder goodnes. What woulde we haue more? God forgyueth vs all our synnes, healeth al our infirmities, saueth our lyfe from destruccion, crowneth vs in mercye & louyng kyndenes, what can he do more Esaye. liii.

Mat. viii.
i. Pet. ii.

Psal. ciii.

do more to shew himselfe a sauiour, and that there is none that saueth from synnes, be they originall, actuall, veniall or mortall, but he alone? The. He is twyse vnkynd to God & his sonne Christ, that can not brooke these thynges. Phi. We saye trueth, but let vs come vnto ỳ new Testa- Math.i.
ment whan Gabriel came vnto the most blyssed virgine Mary, & shewed her, that she should cõceaue through the operaciõ of ỳ holy Ghost, and bring forth Christ ỳ true Messias, and annoynted kynge, whych was so longe loked for, amonge all other thynges he sayd to Joseph, after that Mary was perceaued to be with chyld & he mynded to go frõ her priuely: Joseph the sõne of Dauid, feare not to take mary thy wife vnto the, for that which is cõceaued in her, commeth of the holy Ghost. & she shall bryng for the a sonne, and thou shalte call hys name Jesus. For he shall saue his people from theyr synnes. Here are two notable thynges to be marked. One is, that christ is called Jesus whych, as ye heard before, is by interpretacion, a sauiour. Another is ỳ it is he ỳ saueth his people frõ theyr synnes. Hys name declareth hym manifestly to be a sauiour. And because no man shoulde thynke, ỳ Christ is called a sauiour only, bicause he saueth vs from ỳ daunger of the originall sin, therfore the Aungell speaketh here in the plurell nomber, & sayth, that he shall saue hys people from theyr synnes, and not frõ theyr synne originall alone. If Christ saueth vs frõ synnes, ergo he saueth vs from mo synnes than one. S. John Baptiste also poyntyng Christ wyth hys Ioan.i.
fynger, sayd, Beholde that lambe of God, whych taketh away ỳ synne of the worlde Chri. Thys texte among other haue I hearde rehearsed for ỳ establyshment of this opiuion, ỳ christ redemed vs only from originall syn. Phi. There is no texte that maketh more against it. But we wyl ponder euery worde of this sentence. Fyrst S. John sayth, Beholde, wherby he declareth ỳ he wyl shewe a new, straũg & wonderful thing. was not this a thyng both straũge and to be wõdered at, to se one in so vile fashõ, so beggerly apparelled, so of no substance, hauyng so slẽder a garde to wayte vpon hym, and so lytle worshyp, honour and reuerẽce shewed vnto hym, to be ỳ sauiour of ỳ world, & very hũn, that shulde reygne ouer all nacions and kyngedoms? This was a straunge thing to the grosse Jewes & fyne Pharisees, which thought that he shoulde come into the worlde wt great põpe & glory, subduyng other naciõs to them by martiall armoures, & euen by strong hãde and myghty power whan not withstandyng the scripture sayth, Tell ye the doughter of Syõ, beholde thy kynge cometh vnto the, meke & sytting on an asse. &c Zach.ix.
Therfore I thynke S. John might saye vnto them, Beholde, twise, or Math.xxi.
they would harken vnto hym once in such a case, or at the leest beleue hym. But let vs se, what S. John entendeth to shew vs. Beholde, sayth he, that lambe of God. By these wordes, that lambe of God, he setteth forth very much ỳ dignite of Christ, & sheweth that there is a speciall respecte to be had vnto hym, & that we ought to cast our eies vpon him as our alone sauiour, & vpon none other. For he is that lambe of God, Exo.xxi.

which was prefigured by the Paſcal lambe, vv whoſe bloud they ꝑ are
i. Pet. i. Ephe. v. ſprynkeled, are ſafe & vvout al ieoperdy of ſleyng. The other lambe was taken out of the flock, but thys lambe is the lambe of God, gyuen vs of
i. Cor. i. god to be a ſacrifyce for our ſynnes, to be our wiſdom, righteouſnes, ſanctificacion & redemption. It followeth, which taketh away the ſyn of the worlde. Chriſt is that lambe of God, whych taketh away ꝑ ſynne
i. Iohn. i. of the worlde. The bloud of Chriſt maketh vs clene from all ſynne. By the offeryng vp of the bodye of Jeſus Chriſt done once for all, are we Heb. x. ſanctifyed & made holy. But note, ꝑ S. John ſayth, which taketh away.
He vſeth here the preſente tence, and not the preter nor yet the future, which declareth that the vertue of Chriſtes death abydeth euery one, and that it is of aſmuche ſtrēgth now, as euer it was, and that by it our ſynnes are dayly forgyuen, no leſſe than they wer at the verye hour of hys death, whā our raūſome was payd. For his bloud cryeth Gen. iiii. not for vengeaunce, as the bloud of Abell, but for grace, mercy, fauour, and ꝑ dignite of it is ſo great, that it is neuer ſayd naye, but obtayneth what ſo euer it aſketh, ſo that, as S. John ſayth, Chriſt that pure & imma culate lambe of God doth ſtyl dayly & continually take awaye: what?
verely the ſynne of ꝑ world. Now if Chriſt taketh awaye ſynne dayely & continually, ſo foloweth it well, ꝑ he taketh awaye mo ſynnes than ꝑ originall ſynne. Chri. They that alleadge thys ſentence for theyr pur-What is mente by thys worde ſynne. poſe, ſtycke verye much to thys, that S. John nameth the ſynne of the worlde, and not ſinnes, ſo that he ſemeth to ſpeke of one ſyn only, which ſaye they, is originall ſyn. And thus do they cōclude that Chriſt taketh awaye only the ſynne originall. Phi. A wyſe concluſion & a prayty. They cōclude, before they haue made their argumēt aryghte. That S. John ſayth, ſynne, hyndereth nothyng our purpoſe, if it be truely vnderſtād.
For by thys word, ſynne, doth S John vnderſtand the whole lompe of ſynne, that is in the worlde, whyther it be that, which we cōmitted in Adam, or elles thoſe, which after our baptiſme through the ragyng carnall affectes, that are in vs, we cōmyt in thoughte, worde or dede.
All thys whole lompe of ſynne, ꝑ is to ſaye, all that euer is contayned vnder this worde, ſynne, or yet pertaineth vnto ſynne, doth Chriſt that lambe of God at all tymes take awaye. What authorite of ꝑ ſcripture can by recited more opē & euidēt agayn thē? Chri. We ſaye trueth. But let vs heare mo ſcriptures, ꝑ we mai be throughli ſatiſfied in this point Phi. When Chriſt hangyng vpon ꝑ croſſe had payd a ſufficiēt raūſome for our ſynnes by the ſheddyng of his moſt precious bloud, he commended hys ſpirite into the handes of his heauenly father, and bowynge Ioan. xix. downe hys head, ſayd, Tetelestai, that is to ſaye, euery thyng is nowe conſūmate, perfecte & fully finiſhed. The ſacrifyce for ſynne is offered, & a plentefull raunſome is payde, ſo ꝑ nowe al ſacrifyces, al oblaciōs for ſynne ceaſe. This one ſacrifyce, thys one oblacion, which I haue made vpon the altare of the croſſe, fynyſheth & maketh perfecte all thynges, ſo that there remayneth after thys none other ſacrifice for any kynd of ſynne.

syn. Hereto agreeth the saying of S. Paule, Christ our Bishop abideth for euer, and hath an euerlasting Priesthode, so ỳ he is able to saue euen at the ful, them that come vnto God by hym, euer liuing, that he maye make intercession for vs. Agayn Chryst by his owen bloud entered into the holy place once for al, and founde euerlastyng redemcion. Item, vo one oblacion hath Chryst made them consummate and perfecte for euermore, ỳ are sanctified. Thus see we, that al thyngs are throughly finyshed, made cõsummate and perfect by Chryst, so ỳ ther is no more sacrifice for sin left behind to put awaye sin, but if we will haue remission of our wickednesses, we must run with the fete of our mind to that sacrifice, which Chryst offered once for al vpon the altare of the crosse, that he might put sin to flight for euermore. Now if Christ had put away only original syn by hys death, than had he not made al thinges perfecte. For he had left mo synnes vnforgeuen, than wer forgeuen by his death. How great and infinite is the nomber of those synnes, which we commit after baptisme in comparyson of thys one original syn? Thys were but a slender consummacion and makyng perfect, so to leaue vs in mo synnes, than we wer founde. But Chryst saueth at the full. He maketh them perfect for euermore, that are sanctified. The vertue of Chrystes sacrifice is so great and of so much dignite before God the father, that it lasteth euer in ful strength to put away syn, yea and that not onely before, but also after baptisme. Euse. Let vs heare, what S. Paul sayth to this matter. Phi. Paule as a good and faythful seruant doth agre w his master, ye may be sure. Not wstanding I wil geue you a tast of his doctryne concernyng this matter. The. Let it so be, I pray you. To the Romaynes he sayth on thys maner: God setteth forth his loue toward vs, in that Chryst dyed for vs whan we wer yet synners. Muche more than shal we be saued from wrath by hym, seeing we are nowe made ryghteous through hys bloud. For if we were reconciled vnto God by the death of his son, whan we wer yet enemyes, much more shal we be saued by him now that we are reconciled. Here S. Paul proueth, that as we ar reconciled to God the father by the death of hys sonne Christ so are we also by hym saued from al wrath and displeasure that should fal vpon vs. Ar not these words playn inough? At baptisme we ar purged through Chrystes bloud from original syn and al other, ỳ we haue committed before, so that we are reconcyled to God, and recounted for ryghteous. Now by christ also are we preserued from the wrath of god which we deserue through the wickednes, which we do after baptisme Hereof than may we gather that christ is not only a Sauiour vnto vs before, but also after baptysme. So may we conclude, that by chrystes death we are not onely redemed from originall syn, but also from al other, by what soeuer names they be called. Agayne he sayeth, it is not with the gift as wyth the synne. For if through the synne of one, many be dead, yet much more plenteously came the grace and gift of God vpõ many by the fauour that belonged vnto one man Jesus chryst.

Rom. v.

And the gift is not onely ouer one sin, as death came through one syn, of one that synned. For the iudgement came of one syn vnto condemnacion, but the gift, to iustifie from many synnes. Do not these wordes euidently shewe, that by Christ we are iustified and made ryghteous from many sinnes? If from many synnes, than not from one synne alone. Agayn to ỳ Corinthians, first of al I deliuered vnto you, ỳ which I also receaued, how that Christ dyed for our synnes, according to the Scriptures. Marke that. S. Paule saith, for oure synnes, and not for our sin, wherewith we al offended in Adam. To ỳ Collossians also he wryteth on this maner: By Christ we haue redemcion & by hys bloud remission of synnes. Note, by Christes bloud we haue remission of sinnes, not onely original, but also actual, mortal, venial. &c. and not by the workes, which we do after baptisme as though it laye in oure power to fulfil the law, to satisfye ỳ wil of God, to appease the diuine wrath, & to obtayne euerlasting lyfe. For all these things chaūse vnto vs by Christ and are obtayned for vs by Christes death, and not by any workes or merytes of man, as S. Paule sayeth, if righteousnes commeth by the law, than dyed Christ in vain. Agayn, we know ỳ man is not iustified by ỳ workes of ỳ law, but by the fayth of Jesus Christ, and we beleue in Christ Jesu, ỳ we myght be iustifyed by the fayth of Christ, and not by the workes of ỳ law because ỳ no man shalbe iustified by the workes of the law. Item, ye are gone quite from Christ, as many of you as wyll be made ryghteous by the law, yea ye are fallen frō grace. Againe in another place, they not knowing the ryghteousnes of God, and labouring to establish their own righteousnes, wer not obedient to the righteousnes of God. For Christ is the perfeccion of the lawe vnto iustificacion for euery one that beleueth. Once agayne, if saluacion cōmeth of grace, thā is it not of workes, els wer grace, no grace. But if it come of workes than is grace nothyng. Al these sentences teach vs, that we are deliuered from al our synnes by Christ and his ryghteonsnes, and not by our own workes and deseruinges. Moreouer S. Paule sayeth, whan ye wer dead through synnes, and the vncircumcision of the flesh, God quickened you wt Christ, and forgaue vs al our synnes and put out the hād writing, that was agaynst vs contayned in the law wrytten, and that hath he taken out of the way, and fastened it to the crosse, and hath spoiled rule & power, and hath made a shewe of them openly, and triumphed ouer them in hys owne person. God hath forgeuen vs all oure synnes, through Christ, sayeth S. Paule here. Wher is any exceptiō? If ther be mo synnes, than the originall syn as there are, them also hath God the father forgeuen vs through Jesus Christ our Lord. To the Hebrues agayn he wryteth, Christ in hys own person purged our sinnes, and is set on the ryght haude of the maiestie on high From oure synnes hath Christ made vs cleane, and not from one syn onely, Christ was offred once for al to take away the synnes of many. Al shal not be saued, for all do not beleue, but many shalbe saued, & they haue not only original sinne, but

i. cor. xv.
Esay. liii.
Rom. v.
Colo. i.
Gala. ii.
Gala. v.
Rom. x.
Rom. xi.
colos. ii.
Rom. v.
Ephe. ii.
Gene. iii.
Luke. xi.
Iohn. xii.
Hebru. i.
Hebru. ix.

ne, but also al their other synnes taken away by Christ. Agayne, euery Priest is redy daily ministring, and oftentimes offreth one maner of offerynges, which can neuer take away syn. But this man Christ, when he had offred for synnes one sacrifice, which is of value for euer, sat hym down on the right hand of God, and frō henceforth tarieth til his foes be made his fotestole. For wt one offring hath he made perfect for euermore, thē that ar sanctified. S. Paule here compareth Christ the euerlasting Bishop and Priest, wt the Priestes of the old lawe. He sheweth that they offred sacrifices daily, and yet could they neuer put away sin by them. No meruaile for they wer only shadowes of good thynges to come. But this our hed Priest Christ hath offered but one sacrifice, not for the original sin only, but for synnes sayeth he, and yet is it of so great vertue and strength, that it is of value for euer, the power of it neuer decayeth it abideth in ful strēgth, so long as any syn remayneth, so that it nedeth not often times to be offred, as the sacrifices of the old lawe wer. For wyth thys one sacrifice, which was the oblacion of his body, hath he made them for euer so perfect, that ar sanctified, that they nede none other sacrifice to make thē holy and acceptable in the syght of God. All that haue had their sinnes forgeuen them frō the beginning of ỹ world vntil this day, or shal haue vnto the end of the world, haue had, and shal haue all their sinnes forgeuen them through this one sacrifice of Jesus Christ. And that ye may know this to be true, consider this one thing that I shal now say vnto you. Who was more faythful than Abraham more derely beloued with God than Dauid, more holy thā John Baptiste? Yet could nether they, nor none other enter into heauen, vntyll Christ had suffred his passion, and offred his body a swete smellyng sacrifice for vs vnto God the father. Thus haue I opened vnto you the mynd of S. Paule concernyng thys matter. Eusc. His sayinges proue manifestly, that we are redemed by Christ not only from original syn, but also from al other. Phi. You say truth. Wel ye shal heare nowe the mindes of the other Apostles. S. Peter sayth, Christ hys own self bare our synnes in his body on the tre, that we beeing delinered frō synnes, shuld liue vnto righteousnes. Note how Peter agreeth in euery point wyth his felow Paule. He stiffely affirmeth that Christ his own selfe, and none other, bare our sinnes in his body, and not our original syn alone. By his stripes we wer made so whole, that there remayned not so much as a scar of al our sores, botches and woundes. S. John also saieth, the bloud of Jesus Christ maketh vs throughly clene, yea and that from al syn. Can any thyng be spoken more generally? If the bloud of Jesus Christ maketh vs clene from al syn, what remaineth therbehind I pray you? So followeth it that both the syn original, actuall, mortal, venial, and what not, is washed away by Christes bloud. Agayn, if we confesse our synnes, God is faithfull and righteous to forgeue vs oure sinnes, and to make vs cleane from all wickednesse. This one texte alone of Sayncte John is able to subuerte, ouertople and throwe

Hebrn. x.

Psal. cix.

Ephe. v.

i. Pete. ii. Esay. liii.

i. Iohn. i.

downe

down al the bilding, shores and props, wherewith these sleightie daubers vpholde their enterpryses. If we confesse our sinnes, sayeth he. If ☞ which we: if we that professe the Christen religion, and yet throughout fragilite and weakenes of nature haue offended God after our bapti-me contrary to our vow and promise made thereat, if we, I say after we haue fallen, confesse our synnes, God is faythfull and ryghteouse, what to do? to forgeue vs our sinnes. Note, our synnes, and to make vs cleane from al vnrighteousnes: What syn is it than, I pray you from which he doth not make vs cleane? This sentence must nedes be vnder-
i. Iohn. i. stande of them, which offende after Baptisme. Nowe sayeth S. Iohn although we syn after baptisme, yet let vs not dispayre, but rather repent, bewayle our sinful liuing detest our wicked maners, turne vnto God, and confesse our synnes vnto hym. If we do this, doubte we not but that God, which is faythful in performing his promise (he hath promised them ẏ come vnto hym wt a faythfull and repentaũt heart, remis sion of their synnes) and righteous in forgeuing the penitent & sorowe-full synner, and in condemning the wycked, which continue in hys vn godlynes without any confession of his fault and amendemente of lyfe, wil forgeue vs our synnes, yea and make vs clene frõ all vnryghteousnes. These words proue manifestly, that God forgeueth our sinnes after baptisme, if we repent, confesse, and amende. Wherof cometh thys:
of the merytes of our workes, or rather of the free grace and mere mer cy of God, purchased for vs by Iesus Chryst, for whose sake the wrath of God the father is pacifyed, & he is wel pleased and fully contented wt man: Merely for Chrystes sake doth God shewe to vs this exceadynge and great mercy in forgeuing vs our synnes, whensoeuer we call vnto him, wt a contrite and sorowfull hart, as S. Iohn proueth by ẏ words
i. Ioon. ii. that folow: My litle childzen, I write these thinges vnto you, that ye shoulde not syn. And if any man syn, we haue an aduocate with the father Iesus Chryst that ryghteous one. And he is that sacryfice, whiche apeaseth gods wrath and satisfyeth (so soundeth the Greke worde) Hi-lasmos) for our synnes, not for our synnes onely, but also for al ẏ worlds As though he should say: My litle childzen, I haue declared vnto you that although we syn after baptisme contrary to our profession, yet ẏ ther is grace, fauour, mercy, and forgeuenes of synnes layed vp for vs in store, if that we repent, confesse our faultes, and entende vnfaynedly to amende our liues. I haue not done this to engraffe in you a vayne hope, and to encourage you to haue the more pleasure and to remayne, in your old wickednes, but I write these thinges vnto you, ẏ ye should not syn. I haue set forth the kyndnes of God toward you, ẏ ye shoulde endeuour your selues to liue worthely of it. But for almuch as ther lyueth no man in this world, which synneth not, and seeyng we cannot walke so purely, but ẏ at sometyme we must nedes fal, therfore becaule ye should not dispaire, but be assuredly perswaded, that ther remaineth health for you with the Lorde God: I certifie you, that we haue one which is our aduocate with the father, which pleateth our matter bee-fore

fore the throne of the diuine maieste which is ready to helpe vs, which ceaseth not making intercession for vs, vntil he be hearde, and thys is; not such one, as hath also offended, but Jesus Chryst that ryghteouse one, which is godly, innocent, vndefyled, pure, clene, faultes, immaculate, and so without al spot of vice, that euē for his own dignite, worthines and innocency, he is worthy to obtain whatsoeuer he asketh. And I say moreouer vnto you, that not our own works, nor the merites of other, but that righteous one Chryst, is that very sacrifice, which apeaseth gods wrath whō we haue prouoked vnto anger with the synnes, which we do commit after baptisme, and satisfyeth for our sinnes. Yea he maketh not only a sufficiēt and plēteous amēdes for oure sinnes, but also for al the whole worldes, I meane so many as repent thē of their wicked liuing, cōfesse there faultes, beleue, desire forgeuenes, and labor to leade a newe life. What wil we haue more? Doeth not S. John declare here euidētly that our synnes, whan soeuer they be committed or done ar forgeuē vs of God through Jesus Chryst, which is our aduocat and that sacrifice, which apeseth God the fathers wrath, and plenteously satisfieth for our synnes? So doth it thā manifestly appere, ẏ Chryste hath not only redemed vs and satisfyed to God the father for originall syn, but also for al other. i. Iohn. ii. But let vs yet heare more, what he sayeth. I wryte vnto you litle childrē, that your sinnes ar forgeuē for his names sake. Ergo our synnes, and not one syn alone, ar forgeuen vs, not for our own works and merytes, but for Chrystes name, that is to say, for the dignite, worthines, excellency, merytes and deseruinges of Chryste. Agayn, In this thing appeared the loue of God toward vs, that he sent hys only begotten son into the world that we should lyue through him In this is loue, not that we loued God, but that he loued vs, and sente his sonne to be a sacrifyce both to appease his wrath and to satysfye for our sinnes. i. Iohn. iiii. What do I? Paper, ynke pen, and time shal first want vnto me, than I shal may be able to reherse al the testimonies, wherwyth it is euidently proued, that Chryst hath not only by hys most blessed and precious bloud redemed vs from originall syn, as some wyckedly dreme but also from al other, by what soeuer name they be called, the sinne of the holy gost excepted, and that whan soeuer we repent, beleue and amend God the father forgeueth vs also those synnes, which we cōmyt after baptisme, not for our own dedes, works and merytes, whiche be more vnpure, than they may be able to stand in the sight of God, which is a consuming fyre, a Jelous God, greate in strength, iudgemente and ryghteousnes, and wyth whom there is none innocente, but for the swete smellyng sacrifice, which Jesus Chryst his welbeloued sonne offered for our synnes vpon the altare of the crosse onee for al, whose vertue and strength abideth so perfect for euermore, ẏ by it the synnes of so many as wyth a truly faythfull and repentaunt hart come vnto God, are forgeuen, forgotten, and neuermore remembred. And thus see you, that Chryst is a perfecte Sauioure, which, as your new yeares gyfte sayth, Deu. iiii. Hebru. xiii. Iob. xxxvii. exo. xxxiiii. Ephe. v. Hebru. ix. x.

sayeth, hath by hys blood redemed vs from al vnrighteousnes, that is to say, from al syn both original, actuall, mortal, venial &c. yea and that not onely before but also after baptisme. So that as S. Peter sayeth, Actes. iiii. there is saluacion in none other, but onely in Christ Jesus. Neyther is there any other name geuen to men vnder heauen, wherin we must be saued. Chri. We haue now heard it euidently proued by the holy scriptures, that we through Christ are deliuered from al syn, both original, actual, mortal, venial &c. So that al the whole glorye of our saluacion is to be geuen and ascrybed vnto God alone, as he sayeth by the Pro-
Ose. xiii. phet, O Israell thy destruccion commeth of thy selfe, but thy health and saluacion commeth only of me. Thys thyng maketh all saintes and the Psal. cxiiii. truly faithful to say, Not to vs, O Lord, not to vs, but to thy name geue the glory for thy mercy and truethes sake. Phi. Wel, thus haue ye heard grossely and rudely, but yet faythfully & truly vttered of me, what the holy Scriptures do determine concerning the remission of synnes by Christ, and that by him we are not only deliuered from original synne, as some wickedly dreame but also from all other, by whatsoeuer name they be called. Now because ye shall not thynke that I wrest the scriptures, whom al men ought to handle reuerently and incorruptli, I wil
Li. ii. ca. viii. rehearse a saying or two vnto you of the Doctors. Hisichius sayth: Not one sin only, but many are forgeuen vs through the Sacrifice of Christ which is the only begotten son of God. If not one syn onely, but many are forgeuen vs through the sacrifice of Christ, it foloweth than that by Christes death we are not only redemed from original sin, but also frō
In Rom. v. al other. Hereto agreeth the saying of S. Ambrose. The grace of God through Christ hath iustified men not from one syn alone, but from many, by geuing them remission of sinnes. Not from one syn onely, sayeth S. Ambrose, hath God of his grace through Christ iustified, and made vs ryghteous, but from many, by geuing vs remission of synnes. Now gather who iust. The words ar playn ynough. But I wyl rehearse S.
Ad hilarium. Ep. lxxxix. Austen, one of the best among the auncient Doctors, and most faithful expositour of the holy Scriptures. S. Austen wryting agaynst the Pelagians & Manicheys, hath on thys maner. What is this to say, of one faulte vnto condemnacion, but that fault wherwyth Adam offended? And what is it to say, from many faultes to iustificacion, but that the grace of Christ hath not only losoned that fault, wherwith infantes be bounde, whiche had their beginning of that one man, but also manye faultes, whiche after that men come to age, they adde and put vnto it through their euil maners. Here sayeth S. Austen playnly, that ꝑ grace of Christ hath not onely losoned, deliuered and made vs free from original sin, wherwyth we al offended in Adam, but also frō al other, which we afterward commit, as we grow in age. I could rehearse many mo authorites both of thys Doctor and other, which maynly fortifye thys matter, but because I wil not be tedious vnto you, I lette them passe, trusting that with these aforesayd ye are fully satisfied. The. Yea bere-

ly neighbour

ly neyghbour Philemō, or elles our hartes wer more then twise stony.
Phil. Al though this vngodly doctrine be raised vp now agayn in thys our tyme of the Anabaptistes, yet hath it had al wayes fautoures and mainteners long before our dayes, in somuch as we rede, ỳ a certen mā called Peter Abelharde was counted for an Heretyke & compelled of S. Bernarde to recant in the councel of Senō, because he taught thys & suche lyke thynges. If hys doctrine had bene godly and agreable to ỳ holy scriptures, he had neuer ben so hādeled: Alas good neighbours, what are we of our selues, ỳ we dare so depresse & trust downe ỳ death of Christ, and so exalte our selues that he by hys passion sauyng vs frō one synne, we shuld presume to saue our selues by our owne workes & merites from many? Thys is a presumption to moche to be detested.
Thys is a stondyng in our owne cōceate more Luciferyke thā it may be suffered of any christen harte. To the Lord our God, sayth the Prophet, be righteousnes, but to vs and to our fathers, confusiō of face. As towchyng the righteusnes, which is in the law, no man could once rebuke me, sayth S. Paul. But those thynges, whych wer vauntage vnto me, I counted losse for Christes sake. Yea moreouer I thynche all thynges but losse for the excellēcie of the knowledge of Christ Jesu my Lord, for whom I haue counted all thynges losse, and do iudge them but dounge, that I myghte winne Christ, & be foūd in him, not hauing myne owen ryghteousenesse, which cometh of the law, but that, whych is by the fayth of Christ, namely the ryghteousnes, whych cometh of god in fayth, to know hym & the vertue of his resurrecciō and ỳ felowshyp of his passiō. How cleueth S. Paule vnto Christ? How reiecteth & casteth he awaye his owne ryghteousnes, whych he had by the outewarde keppynge of the law, that he myght through fayth be made righteous in Christ? How lytle esteemeth he his owne goodnes, so ỳ he may know the vertue of Christes resurrecion, and the felowshyp of his passion? Al Paules declaracion & pleasure is in Christ & in christes death, as he sayth in another place, God forbyd, that I shulde reioyse in any thynge, but in the crosse, that is to saye, the death & passion of our Lord Jesus Christ. If so noble and worthy Apostle had all his delyght in Christ, & in christes merites, so that for christes sake and to wynne the ryghteousnesse of Christe, he esteemed hys own ryghteousnes so vile as ỳ dūge, what shall we wretches than saye? Shall we lyfte vp our brystles & open our mouthe to speake blasphemies against ỳ most hyghest? Shall we so trust to our workes, ỳ we shal seake more saluaciō in thē, than in the Lord christ? All our ryghteousnesses, sayth the Prophet are as a cloth polluted w menstrue. All sorte of vs haue erred as shepe euery man hath followed hys own trade. Euery one is an Hypocrite a dissembler and wycked. No man is able to saye, my harte is clene, I am pure from syn. There is not a ryghteous man on earth, that doth good and synneth not. All haue synned, & want the glory of God. Seing we are all in this case, how dare any man auouche himselfe to be so pure, &

Baruch. iii.
Phil. iii.
Act. ix.
Gala. i.
Gala. vi.
Esa. xxxiiii.
Esa. liii.
Esaye. ix
prouer. xx.
Eccle. vii.
Rom. iii.

hys workes to be so good & perfect ẏ by thē he is able to satisfy for hys synnes committed after baptisme? Euse. Ye saye trueth. Why thynche ẏ whole menne, which are of this opinion, knowe neither God nor thē selues aright. Phil. Trueth it is. For if they dyd know, ẏ as god is good, righteous, holy perfecte, fautles & with out al spotte of synne, so they of thē selues ar euel, vnrighteous, imperfecte, synfull, and hedged rounde about wyth the fylthynes of synne, & if any goodnes they haue, it commeth of God, & therfore haue they nothyng, wherof they may reioyse, for it is Gods, and not theyrs, they woulde not stande so much in theyr owne conceate, nor crake so much of theyr purite and clennes. If ẏ starres be not pure in the sight of god, and the Fungels be not clene and fauteles before hym, how thā dare a wretched mortal creature, which synneth dayly and heapeth wyckednes vpon wyckednes so auaunce himselfe, that he dare presume to stande tyght vp, & with an open face before God, which is a consumyng fire and hateth so many as worcke wyckednesse, and to take vpō hym to satisfy for his synnes by his own righteousnes? If they would assaye to go down into thē selues, & could searche the botome of theyr hart, which is wycked & unscrutable, they shulde there fynd such hepes lōpes & dōge hylles of sinne, ẏ they would be redye to dispayre & to vndo thē selues, so farre is it of, ẏ they would iustify them selues, or take vpon thē to be theyr own sauiours by theyr dedes workes, & merites. The consyderacion of the diuine maiesie and ẏ true knowledge of hym selfe made Dauid to praye on this manner, O Lord enter not into iudgement wt thy seruaunt, for no man ẏ liueth shalbe iustifyed in thy syght. Agayn, O Lorde, yf thou shuldest marke our wyckednesses, O Lord who wer able to abide it? But ther is mercy wyth the. Lette Israel therfore trust in the Lord. For wyth ẏ Lord there is mercy and plenteous redemcion. And he shall redeme Israel from all hys synnes. Chri. God gyue vs grace to haue the true knowledge of God, and of our selues. So shal we vnfaynedly ascribe & gyue vnto God al the glory and prayse of our creaciō, vocation, iustificaciō, redemption, saluaciō, glorificaciō, and what so euer goodnes we haue more, and frely confesse that we are saued of the great and vndeserued grace of God thorough Jesus Christ our Lord & sauiour. Phi. I beseech God, it may so come to passe. Thus haue I accomplyshed your desyre neyghbours in prouynge by ẏ scriptures and the auncient Doctors, ẏ christ by hys death hath not only redemed, delyuered and set vs free frō originall synne, but also from all other, and that the synnes, wherch we commit after baptisme, be not forgyuen of God the father for the dignite and worthines of any workes which we do, but for the excellency of ẏ sacrifyce, which Christ once for al offered vpō the Altare of the crosse, the vertue & strengthe wherof abideth in so ful power, that it is able to saue so many as repent, beleue, and labour to lead a good and innocētlyse for euermore. Neyther haue I spoken theyse thynges to discourage any man from doyng good workes, but for to set forth christ to be a perfe

Hie. xvii.

Psal. cxliii.

psal. cxxx.

fecte

fecte sauiour agaynst the wycked doctrine of the Anabaptistes, which nowe begyn to crepe in amonge vs vnto the great dishonour of God, ꝥ extreme blasphemy of Christes most precious bloud, ꝥ noysome perturbacion of ꝥ holy catholyke chyrch. And as I may knytte vp al this matter in fewe wordes, know good brothers, that in Adā all we wer damned, so that through his wickednes we wer begotten, conceyued ꝥ borne in synne, yea ꝥ by nature the very sonnes of wrathe. Now to be delyuered from thys miserable state wherinto we wer caste by Adā, we of our owne wytte, polecy, wisdom holynes, righteousnes, &c. could inuent no meanes, but so stil remayned in the daunger of euerlastyng dānacion. Therfore God moued to pitte towarde mankynd, euē of his owne free mercy ꝥ goodnes wtoute any of our desertes, sent downe his only begotten sonne Jesus Christ in to thys vale of misery, whych for our sake toke flesh of the most holy ꝥ pure virgin Mary, through ꝥ operacion of the holy ghost, became man ꝥ at the time tofore appoynted, he offered voluntaryly his most blyssed body an acceptable ꝥ swete smelling Sacrifice to God ꝥ father, which was ꝥ is of so great vertue and power, that by it alone all our synnes are putte awaye, not only that which we committed in Adam, but those also, whych we our selues in processe of tyme do perpetrate ꝥ cōmit. Now so many of vs as ar baptised in the name of the father, of ꝥ sonne, ꝥ of the holy Ghost, and haue taken vpon vs a newe lyfe forsakyng ꝥ world, the deuil ꝥ the flesh wt all theyr pōpes ꝥ workes, haue at ꝥ very tyme of Baptisme al their sinnes forgyuen them, and ar so clerely redemed, deliuered and made free from all vnrighteousnes, be they yonge or olde, as though they had neuer cōmitted any of them at all. And this is it that S. Paule sayth, Christ loued the congregacion, ꝥ gaue himselfe for it, to sanctifye it, and clensed it in ꝥ fountayne of water through the worde, to make it vnto himselfe a glorious congregacion wythoute spot or wrincle, or any suche thyng, but that it shulde be holy and without blame. Now we if whan they be once baptised and growne vp in age, they through eyther fragilite or ignorancy do again offende ꝥ breake the law of God cōtrarye to theyr profession and vow made at baptisme, than haue they an holy anchore to flye vnto, whych is repentaunce, so that if they truly repent, be sorry for the fautes committed, bewayle theyr synfull lyuynge, mortifye theyr carnall affectes, slay theyr worldly lustes, banysh theyr dyuelysh concupiscences, confesse theyr wyckednes, flye vnto the mercy of god, beleue to haue forgiuenes and take a newe lyfe vpon them: God the father wyll surely forgyue them theyr synnes, be they neuer so great or many, yea and that for the dignitite of that one sacrifyce whych hys onely begotten sonne offered once for all vpon the altare of the crosse. So that if repentaunce ꝥ amendement of lyfe come, chrystes sacrifyce serueth to put away sinnes for euer ꝥ euer. But as the bloud of christ is sufficiēt to pacify ꝥ father, although one man had cōmitted so many offences, as al the worlde hath done or shal do vnto ꝥ very ende of ꝥ world, ☞

Eph. ii.

Eph. v.

so lyke wyse is ther no saluacio layd vp for him in store, which wyll not repent nor cease to synne, although christ shuld suffer an hondred thousande tymes. For christ is a sauiour to penitent synners, and not to the wicked & vngodly. And as there is no damnation to them, that are ingrafted in christ Jesu, whych walke not after ỳ flesh, but after ỳ spirite; so is there no helth nor saluation to them, that liue after ỳ flesh, though they bable neuer so much of christ, of christes passion, bloud & death, of the remission of sinnes, of the mercy of God, of the gospel, of ỳ wordes of God, & of euerlastyng lyfe. God hath not called vs, ỳ we shuld be vncleane, but holy and vertuous. God sayth S. Peter, sent his sonne to be a beneficial sauiour vnto you, that euery one of you shuld turne fro his wyckednesse. But of thys we will speake more hereafter. Therfore brothers, whan so euer ye perceaue ỳ ye offend God in any thyng, dispayre not, flye vnto repentaunce, be sory for your synfull lyuynge, bewayle your wycked maners, thyrst after strength to do the wyll of God, confesse your synnes from the very harte, call for grace, desyre mercy, and praye vnto God that he wyll forgyue you your faultes, and he wyll vndoubtedly remit and forgyue you al the faultes, synnes and trespasses, that ye euer cõmitted agaynst hym for the lone that he beareth towarde his sõne our Lord & sauiour Jesus christ, which, as your newe yeres gyfte sayth, hathe redemed vs from all vnrighteousnes, ỳ is to say, both from originall synne and all other. Euse. Brother Philemon we shall neuer be able to recompense thys your kyndenes, which so gẽtily at our request hath declared this matter vnto vs concernyng the remission of synnes through christ. I beseche God giue vs all grace, so to institute and order our lyfe, that we may be found in the nombre of them whose synnes are put away by this most holy sacrifice of christes blyssed bodye, whose wyckednesses are washed awaye by christes most precious bloude. Chri. Amen. For than shall we be sure not only to be delyuered from al our synnes, but also to enioie euerlastyng lyfe, whych is ỳ gifte of God through Jesus Christ our Lord. Phi. See wil gentyly with your newe yeares gyfte and make an ende. It follow-eth. And to pourge vs a peculier people vnto hym selfe. Christ gaue not him selfe only vnto death for to redeme vs frõ all vnrighteousnesse, but also to pourge vs a peculiare people to himself. For as he hath redemed vs by his death so hath he pourged, purified & made vs clene by his bloud, as S. John sayth, ỳ bloud of Jesus christ maketh vs cleane frõ al synne. For what entent hath he thus pourged & made vs clene? Verely ỳ we shuld be a peculiare people vnto him selfe. Chri. What is mẽte by ỳ I praye you? Phi. To be ỳ peculiare people of God, is to be chosen out of the compant of the vnfaithful and wicked people, and to be cõsecrated, dedicated, & wholly gyuen to serue God, to seake his glory, to magnify his most blyssed name, and to do al thynges according to his word, as the Jewes in tymes past wer chosen awaye from the Gentiles to be the people of God, to serue hym, and to walke in hys holy ordinaunces.

Rom. viii.

i. Thes. iiii.

Act. iii.

Rom. vi.

i. Ioan. i.

What it is to be the peculiare people of God.

Ye

Ye are a chosen generacion, sayth Peter, a royall prestehode, an holy nacion, and a peculiare people, that ye should shew forth the vertues of hym, ꝑ called you oute of darkenes into his maruelous lyght, whych in times past wer not a people, yet are nowe the people of God, which wer not vnder mercy, but now haue obtayned mercy. Of these wordes may we lerne vnto what end Christ hath redemed & purifyed vs by hys bloud. Verely ꝑ we should be a peculiare people to hym selfe. Thā ar we here taught, ꝑ we may nomore from henseforth serue the Prynce of darkenes, be conuersant in his court, wer any lenger hys cognisaūs, fulfyll any more hys pleasure and will, but wholly gyue our selues to serue God, which is ꝑ Prince of lyght yea & ꝑ true lyght it selfe, whych lyghteneth euery man ꝑ cometh into this world. What nacion wyllingly serueth a straunge Prince? what faythfull and honest seruaunte forsaketh a gentle & louyng master, & commeth vnto a Tyraunt? How vnsemely than wer it for vs, which before wer in so miserable a case and delyuered from it only by the goodnes & fre harte of our Lord and master Jesus Christ, to forsake him, & to cōne backe agayn vnto ꝑ powers & rulers of darknesse? we are now lyght in the Lorde, shall we become darkenes agayn? we are now the sonnes of God, shall we become the childrē of wrath again? we ar now the beautiful spouse of Jesus christ shall we be made the harlot of Satan agayn? we are nowe nomore Ghestes & straungers, but Cytysenses of the saynctes, and of the houshold of God, shal we become Captiues & bonde seruitours to Satans courte agayn? we are now by christ made prestes and kynges, shal we faull from thys dignite. and becom vilions and abiectes agayn? we are now ꝑ peculiare people of God, sāctifyed vnto his vse, and vnto ꝑ worshynge of those thynges ꝑ make vnto his glory, shal we neglecte our dignite, worshyp and honoure, as I maye so speake, fall awaye agayn frō our Master and so behaue our selues, ꝑ this prouerbe may worthely be obiected and layde agaynst vs. The dogge is returned vnto hys vomitte, and the sow after she hath washed herselfe is gone agayn vnto hyr olde wallowyng in the myer? Therfore seyng that Christ by hys bloude hath purifyed, and pourged vs a peculiare people vnto himselfe let vs manfully fyghte vnder the standarde of our Captayne agaynst Satan the Prynce of darckenes, let vs seake the glory of our master, let vs obserue suche preceptes as he hath commaunded, let vs reuerence, feare honour, worshyp & loue hym aboue al thinges, let vs not suffer hys most precious blod to be shed in vayne, let vs so behaue our selues, that it may euidently appere, that we be no vnkynd nor vnthāckfull personnes but euermore walke wor thy thys kindnes & tender cōpassion. This thing shall come to passe, if we be suche, as the ende of your. Newyeres gyfte payneth. Euse. What is ꝑ. Phi. Euē such as be earnest folowers of good workes. If we wyll shewe our selues to pertayne vnto Christe, to be hys people, to be wholy addycte vnto hym, we must be earnest folowers of good workes we may no lēger loytour nor play

i. Pet. ii.

Ioan. i.

Ephe. v.
Ioan. i.
Epe. ii.
Apoc. xxi.
Ephe. ii.

Act. i. v.
i. Pete. ii.
Titus. ii.

prouer. xxvi.
ii. Pet. ii.

Of good workes.

the sole lubbers, we must worke earnestly, and as the Kentysh men say, a good. For Christ hath redemed vs from all vnrighteousnes, not that we shuld continewe styll in our olde wyckednes and vngodly conuersacion, but ỳ we shuld be hys peculiare people chosen out to serue hym and to worke his most godly pleasure, agayn that we shuld be earnest followers of good workes. And here is answer to be made to them, whych saye. If Christ hath redemed me frō all vnrighteousnes, made me clene by hys bloud from al my synnes, purchased freely by hys death for me eternall lyfe and made a perpetuall agremente betwene God ỳ father and me, what nede I to worke? what can my workes profyte what shall my laboures auayle me? Christ hath done ynoughe for me, Christ is my sufficient Sauiour. Christ hath made all thynges so perfect, that nothyng cā be added ther vnto. Therfore let vs be mery and take no thought. O fylthye swyne and careles dogges. Because Christ hath don that for thē, whych they could not do for them selues, behold how wyllyngly they caste them selues in to hell fyre, who treadeth the bloud of Christ vnder hys fote, if these bellygods do it not? who deliseth ỳ price of Christes death, & the glory of his resurrection, if these fylthy swyne heades do it not? who dishonoureth Gods most holy worde, yf these Epicures do it not? But let these swyll bellyes wel know, that thei haue no part of Christe, of Christes paschiō bloud & death, nor yet of none of all hys merites so longe as they continew in thys ther wycked & so much detestable purpose, crake they neuer so much of Christe, of christes bloud, of fayth, of the gospell, of the christen liberty &c. They shall go to the Deuell hedlonge whout any mercy for al Christ, Christes bloud, fayth, Gospel, Christen lybertye, and what soeuer they cā alledge more, yf they haue tyme & conuenient leasure to do good workes, & yet wyll not. who was euer saued wythout good workes, hauyng opportunite to worke? Be obiect and laye agaynst me the theefe. Very theuilshly done. For what leasure had he to worke? Nether do I know whyther ỳ way of health was euer preched vnto him, or not, although he was not vtterly voyde of good workes. For he beyng at the poynte of death, bewayled his wretchednes, amented hys synneful maners, confessed hys wyckednes, repented hym of hys abhominable lyuyng, turned to Christ, knowledged him to be ỳ sonne of God, & the sauiour of the world, and desyred hym to remembre hym, whan he came into hys kyngdom. If this man had had leasure, vndoutedly he wold haue shewed forth hys repentaunce & faith by doyng external good workes. Therfore ỳ exāple of yi helpeth nothig your sluggish & dissolute maner of liuig, which haue both red & hard Christ many times preched to you, & yet ar ye neuer ỳ better. Only ye perswade your selfe well of christes Christes merites, but al i vain. For he is no sauiour to thole sinners, which liue whout al feare of god, but to such as repēt, beleue & labour earnestly, to brigforth good workes, frō ỳ nōber of ỳ which ye seme to be so far, thā ỳ west is frō ỳ East. Christ hath redemed vs, saith the scripture, that

Anobiection

The answere.

Note.

Of the theefe Luke. xxiii.

To whom Christe is a sauiour.

that we should be his people, and earnest folowers of good workes, we must be his people & earnest folowers of good workes, or els haue we no redemcion by Christ, as S. John Chrisostome witnesseth. Neyther baptisme, layeth he, nor forgeuenes of synnes, nor knowledge, nor ỹ cõmunio of the sacramentes, nor the holy table, nor the fruicion of the body, nor the pertakyng of the bloud, nor any of these thinges shal maye be able to profit vs, except we haue a lyfe, which is right, very pure, yea & free from al syn. What wil these idle lubbers say to these wordes of the golden mouthed Doctor? Where are al their proude crakes become of Christ, his bloud and merites? Al these profit nothing at al without a good lyfe. Chr. It standeth Christẽ men in hand therfore to be earnest folowers of good workes. Phil. Ye say trueth, chefely if they entend to be saued. But let vs heare the scriptures. When God promised Abrahã that he would blesse them that did blesse hym, and curse them that did curse him, and that in his sede al nacions of the earth should be blessed and that he would multiply his sede as the starres of the firmamente, and make him a father of many nacions, and that he would be his defender and his sufficient great reward: He made a couenaunte wyth him, because he would haue him shewe gentlenes agayne, and sayed, I am the God omnipotent, walke before me, and be perfect. As thogh he should say: I am the God almightie, omnisufficiente, all good, all holy, al ryghteous, al wise, al liberal, al plenteous, al merciful, and haue nede of nothing, but frely geueth to al men al thynges, whatsoeuer are necessary ether for the body or for the soule, and so replenished wt al thynges, that I am able and sufficient in al poyntes to satisfy the lawful desires of al creatures, yea I haue all thynges so in my power, that no thyng that good is, can be geuen to any man, but of me alone, and what soeuer I am or haue, it is for the profit of the, and of thy posterite. Alone lye walke before me, and be perfect, take me alone for thy omnisufficient Saulour, flie vnto no other, as thogh ther wer in me acertain insufficiency, but cleaue to me alone wt al thy hart, attempt nothing but that is pleasaunt in my syght, order thy lyfe in al pointes accordinge to my holy wil, let thy conuersacion be innocent, blameles, pure, honest, right and al good, and so wyl I be thine almightie God, thy puissaunt defender, and thy sufficient great reward. This couenaunte hath God made not only with Abrahã, but also wt al hys posteryte, that is, so manye as are faythful. Now if we be of the sede of Abrahã (I speake of the spiritual, and not of the carnal generacion) than doth God require of vs also, that we walke before hym and be perfect that we stedfastly cleaue vnto hym by strong fayth, as the onely and sole Author of all goodnesse, & so institute our lyfe, that we may breath nothyng but purite, innocency holynes and integrete, all the tyme of our lyfe in thys worlde. Thus doyng, God wyl be our God, yea our almighty God, our strong defender, and our sufficient great reward, no lesse than he was Abrahams. Therfore as Abrahã walked before God, so let vs do. By this meanes

Titus. ii.

In die. Apost. Nolo vos ignarare.

Ge. xv. xvii.

Gene. xvii.

Mm.iiii. shal

shall God be no lesse beneficiall to vs, than he was to Abraham. Iohn. viii. If ye wer the sonnes of Abraham, sayth Christ, ye woulde do the workes of Abraham. Euse. Of al these matters and howe we ought to waike before God and be perfect, ye taughte vs ful godly in ỳ Nosegaye, which ye gaue vs. Chri. It was our seconde floure, called, Pure innocency. Searche the Nosegay in the seconde floure. Phi. I remember it wel, and I am glad, ye haue not forgot it. I wyll therfore hast vnto the other Scriptures. Whã S. John Baptist saw many of the Pharises and Saduces comming vnto his Baptisme, he said vnto them. O ye generation of vipers, who hath shewed you that ye should flye from the wrath to come? Bryng forth therfore frutes worthy of repentaunce, and be not of thys mind to say wythin your selues, Abraham is our father. Mat. iii. Luke. ii. For I say vnto you, that God is able to bringe it to passe, that of these stones there may rise vp children to Abraham. The hoke is now laied at the rote of the tre. Therefore euery tree, that bringeth forth not good frute, shalbe hewen down and cast into the fier. The. This is a terrible saying for al them, that are not earneste followers of good workes. Phi. Certes as it profited the Pharyses and Saduces with the other Iewes nothyng at al to boste themselues of Abraham, excepte they did the workes of Abraham, so lykewyse it auaunteth vs nothing at al to take of God, of Christs bloud, passion, merytes, sayth. &c. if we do not good workes This sentence abideth alway true, Euery tree, that bryngeth forth not good frute, shalbe hewen down and cast into the fyre. psal. i. Iere. xvii. If we be not lyke vnto those trees, which ar plãted by the ryuers syde and bryng forth their frute in due season, surelye we shalbe hewen vp and cast into hel fyer. For how dare we loke for any kindnes at the hand of God, and do nothing that he commaundeth? Dauid saith, I being as a fruteful olyue tre in the house of god, haue trusted in ỳ mercy of god for euermore, Dauid confesseth here that he trusted in the mercy of god, but he addeth that he was in the house of god that is to say ỳ cõgregaciõ of Christ, as a fruteful Olyue tre, whiche, as Plyny writeth, is neuer wout grene leues & frute. psal. li. Euse. You taught vs this also in ỳ Notaciõ for Lẽt, declaryng to vs what the Processyon on Palme sonday signifieth, wt all ỳ ceremonies pertayning therunto. Lib. xv. Searche the Notacion for Lent. Phil. So se ye thã, that if we wil be holpen by the mercy of God, we must be as fruteful Olyue tres, and bryng forth plenty of good workes, and neuer cease from doyng them, or els our hope and trust is but vayne. Mat. vii. Christ saith, not euery one that sayth vnto me, Lord, Lord, shal enter into the kingdom of heauen, but he that doth the wil of my father, which is in heauen. For many shal say vnto me at that day, Lord, Lorde, haue not we prophecyed in thy name, and cast out diuels by thy name, and wrought many miracles through thy name? But than shall I say vnto them, I know you not Depart frõ me ye workers of iniquite. psal. vi. Here ar we taught, that to professe God by our mouth, to call vpon hys name to talke of Christ, of fayth, of the gospel, and of all the diuine misteryes, yea to worke miracles and to cast out diuels by the power of Christes name, name, that auaile nothing at the day of iudgement, except we leade a good lyfe in thys worlde, and worke the good pleasure of God. For the kyngdome of God is not in word, but in power, sayeth S. Paule. He that hath my commaundementes, sayeth Christ, and kepeth them, he it is that loueth me. If any man loueth me, he will kepe my wordes, and my father shall loue him, and we will come vnto him, and dwell with him.

He that loueth not me, kepeth not my wordes. Here Christ meaneth our loue that we beare towarde hym by kepyng his worde. If we kepe his worde, than loue we him, but if we kepe it not, than haue we him no thing at al. Agayn he sayeth, I am the vine, and ye are the braunches.
He that abideth in me, and I in him, bringeth forth much fruite. Let vs not flatter our selues. If we abide in Christe, we bryng forth fruche fruite. If we bryng forth no fruite, than abide we not in Christ. If we abide not in Christ, than are we none of Christes. And likewise as as withered braunches we shalbe gathered and cast in to the fyre, and there burne for euer. S. Paul saith, not they, which heare the lawe are righteous before God, but they that fulfill the lawe in dedes, shall be counted righteous. Although no man be able, so longe as he liueth in this worlde, to fulfil the lawe so throughly, as the purite therof requireth, yet is it our office to labour vnto the vttermost of our power to fulfyll the lawe, and where we perceaue that we are not able to kepe to passe with so great clennes of hart that, which the spirite of the lawe requyreth, to bewayle our weakenes, to desyre strength, and to praye vnto God that Christ, which is the ende and perfect fulfillyng of the lawe, may supply that, which wanteth in vs. Agayne he saith, we are buryed with him by Baptisme into death, that as Christ is risen agayn from death throughe the glory of the father, so we shoulde walke in a newe lyfe. And a litle after, recount your selues to be dead vnto synne, but lyue vnto God through Iesus Christ our Lord. Therefore let not syn raygne in your mortall body, for to obey it through the lustes therof.
Neither geue ye your members as instrumentes of vnrighteousnes vnto syn, but geue your selues vnto God, as they that are aliue frō death, and geue your members as instrumentes of righteousnes vnto God.
Agayne in that same chapter, as ye haue geuen your members seruāts to vncleanes and to iniquite, euen from one iniquite vnto another, so now geue your members seruauntes vnto righteousnes, that ye may be sanctified. Al these sentences declare vnto vs, how pure, innocēt and faultles our liuing ought to be. If it be the contrary, our profession profyteth vs nothyng at al. In another place also he sayeth. If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature, that is to say, wholy chaunged from his olde maners vnto newe. He hath no more lefe to worship wyth the vnfrute full workes of darkenes but so composeth and appointeth hys lyuyng, that he may appeare to be the lyghte of the worlde. Agayne, they that are of Christ, haue crucifyed the flesshe with the affectes & lustes therof.
If we liue in the spirite, let vs walke in the spirite. For the flesshe lusteth

i. Cor. iiii.
Iohn. xiiii.
Iohn. xv.
Rom. ii.
Marke well.
Rom. x.
Rom. vi.
ii. Cor. v.
Ephe. v.
Math. v.
Gala. ii.

steth against the spirite, and the spirite agaynst the flesh. All they therfore whiche liue according to the appetite, lust and desire of the flesh, Ephe. ii. pertayne not vnto Christ. We are the workemanshyp of God, created in Christ Jesus vnto good workes, whiche God hath prepared that we Searche the Banket in ỹ fourth dishe. should walke in them. Behold God is our maker, and we bee made a newe in Christ Jesus vnto good workes. So many therfore as applye not themselues to do good workes, are not engrafted in Christ, but re-
Ephe. iiii. mayn stil members of Satan. Item, I being prisoner, exhort you in ỹ Lord, that ye walke worthy your callyng wherin ye are called, with all lowlines, and meekenes, with softnes of mind sufferyng one another by charite, studying to kepe the vnite of the spirite throughe the bonde of peace. Here see we, with what vertues we ought to garnishe oure lyfe, that we may walke worthy our vocacion and callyng. How far then are they out of the way, which defyle themselues wyth all kynde of abhominable vice. Be ye, sayeth S. Paule, the followers of God, as well Ephe. v. beloued children, and walke in loue, as Christ hath loued vs. If it bee our duty to be the followers of God, so must we practyse hys goodnesse, and folow hys innocency and purite so much as lyeth in oure power, or els we ar not the sonnes of God. Our celestial father is pure and holy, and shal we his children be prophane and vnholy? Our heauenly father is good, godly, merciful, paciet and al spirit, and shal we his sonnes Leuit. xix. be euil, wicked, rigorous, impacient and al flesh? Be ye holy, sayeth he,
i. peter. i. for I am holy. Be shalbe perfect, sayeth Christ, as your heauenly father Math. v. is perfect. Moreouer S. Paule writeth. Be ye pure, and such as nomã philip. i. can be offended wyth you agaynst the day of Christ, filled full of the fruite of rygh teousnes, which chaunseth through Jesus Christ vnto ỹ philip. v. glory and prayse of God. Agayne, do al thyngs without grutching and disputacion, beyng such that no man can complayne of you, and pure, the sonnes of God faultes in the mids of a frowarde and croked nacion, among whõ shine ye as lightes in the world, holdyng fast the word of lyfe. It is not without a cause, that your newe yeares gyft teacheth vs to be earnest followers of good workes, seyng that so great puryte and cleannes of lyfe is required of vs. Woo worth those fylthye swyne, which walowe and tomble themselues in all kynde of fleshlye vnclennes, vnto the great slaunder of Christes gospell. Item. Mortifye your Colo. iii. earthly members, whoredom, vnclennes, couetousnes. &c. For god hath
i. Thes. iiii. not called vs vnto vnclennes, but vnto sanctyfycacion. All ye are the
i. Thes. v. sonnes of lyght, sayeth he, and the sonnes of the day, we are not of the night nor yet of darkenes. Therfore let vs not slepe as other do, but let vs watch and be sober. Seyng that we are no more the worldes, seyng also we haue geuen ouer Satan and the flesh, with all theyr workes, pompes and pleasures, it becommeth vs so to walke in al our lyfe and conuersacion, that we be not founde lyke Satans seruauntes, nor the volupteous worldelynges, nor yet any such, as lyue after the flesh and not after the spirit, but pure, clene, honest, faultles, godly, and as I may so speake

to speake, euen lyke another Chryst. S. Peter also sayth, geue not your selues to your olde lustes, wher with ye were led, whan ye knewe not Chryst, but as he that called you is holy, so be ye also holy in al your conuersation, for it is written, be ye holy, for I am holy. Here ar we taught to forsake our old sinful liuing, and to fashion our selues, like vnto the maners of God, which is holy, righteous, perfecte, and aboundauntlye good in all thynges. Furthermore S. John sayeth, if we saye, that we haue felowship with Chryst, and yet walke in darknes, we lye and doe not the trueth. But if we walke in the lighte, as he is in the lyghte, we haue felowship one with another, and the bloud of Jesus Chryst gods owne sonne, maketh vs cleane from al synne. This texte proueth manifestly that we haue no felowship with Chryst, so longe as we walke in darkenes, that is, in synful liuing agayne, that the bloud of Chryste profiteth vs nothyng at al, except we walke in the lyght of gods word and laboure to fulfil his holy preceptes. For, sayeth S. John, by thys do we knowe that we haue knowen hym, yf we kepe his commaundementes. He that sayeth, I know him, and kepeth not his commaundementes is a lyare, and the trueth is not in hym. But he that doeth hys worde, truely in him is the loue of God perfecte. By this do we knowe that we are in him. He that sayeth, he abideth in hym, ought to walke, euen as he walked. Of this and all the other textes, which I haue hytherto rehearsed, we may easly learne, what is our duty and howe earnestly we ought to seke occasions for to do good. Seing we ar the people of God, yea his peculiare and oute chosen people, we muste nedes shew our selues eatnest folowers of good workes, or els haue we no felowship with Chryst. God the father is not our father, nether are we Christes brothers, nor yet felow heyres with him, if we seke not to lead a godly and vertuous lyfe. Let vs neuer take of the iustification of fayth, of the free mercy of God, of Chrystes passion, bloud, death, merytes, &c. except we leade a lyfe worthy the kyndnes of God. Let vs neuer reioyse that we are deliuered from the power of Satan, syn, death and hell. For so long as we continue in our old synful liuinge and wycked maners, we pertayne not vnto Chryst, but are the bondeslaues of Satan, and very fyrebrondes of hel. For as the good Prayest Zachary father to S. John Baptist sayth, God hath performed ỳ othe, which he sware to our father Abraham for to geue vs, that we deliuered oute of the hands of our enemies, might serue hym without feare al ỳ daies of our life in holines and righteousnes. Hereto agreeth the saying of S Paule, the bloud of Chryst which through the euerlastyng spirite, hath offered himselfe pure to God, shall pourge your conscience from dead workes for to serue the liuing God. Here learne we, that Chryst hath deliuered vs from the power of our enemies, that we should serue him in holines and ryghteousnes all the dayes of our lyfe. Nowe if any bee not geuen to the seruyse of God, surely he is not free, but abydeth styll the miserable captyue and bonde prysoner of hys enemyes. Let al men

i. Pete. i.

Leui. xix.

i. Iohn. i.

i. Iohn. ii.

Luke. i.

Hebru. ix.

therfore

therefore take hede, and prepare themselues to leade a godly lyfe, that they may be earnest folowers of good workes or els nether their baptisme, nor Christ, nor yet any thing that euer Christ did, shal profit them any thing at all. Chr. O good Lord, howe greatly be many deceaued, which put their trust in Christ and crake much of fayth, and yet continue still abhominable liuers, thinking not withstanding, all thys their great wickednes, to be saued. Phil. To repentaunce, fayth and amendment of lyfe, mercy is neuer denied. But be not you deceued neyghbors

Rom. ii. For not they, which heare the law, are ryghteous before God, but they that exercise the law in dedes, shalbe counted ryghteous. Be ye the do-

Iacob. i. ers of the word, and not the hearers onely, deceauing your selues. Th.

Titus. ii. God geue vs grace thus to do, that we maye garnyshe the doctryne of God our Sauioure in all thyngs. Euse. Amen I beseech the good Lord. Phile. Verely there are many causes, yea and those vrgent and necessary, why Christen men should bryng forth good workes, if they did consider their vocacion and callyng well. Fyrste because it is the wyll of Causes why we ought to do good workes. God, and God hath commaunded so by hys holy word. For what child accomplysheth not hys fathers wil for the loue that he beareth toward hym? What seruaunt fulfylleth not hys masters commaundemente if he do but onely feare hym? How much more than oughte we, which haue so louing a father, and so puissaunt a Lord and beneficiall a master, for the loue and reuerent feare, that we beare to warde hym, shewe our selues obedient to hys holy wyll, and fulfyll it to the vttermoste of our power? Where ether feare or loue of God is, there must the fulfilling of gods law nedes folow. If it doth not, neuer let vs confesse our selues

Mala. i. ether to feare or loue God truely. The sonne honoreth hys father, and the seruaunte his Lorde. If I than be your father, where is my honoure? And if I be your Lord, where is my feare, sayeth the Lord of Hoste?

Matth. vii. Not euery one that sayeth vnto me, Lorde Lorde, shal enter into the kingdome of heauen, sayeth Christ, but he that doeth the wyll of my father, which is in heauen. The holy Scripture commaundeth vs to repent, and to bryng forth fruites of repentaunce. And Christe sayeth, as Matth. iii. my father gaue me commaundement, so I do. Agayne I haue not spoken of my selfe, but he that sent me, that is to say, my father, he gaue me

Iohn. xii. commaundemente, what I shoulde do, and what I shoulde speake. I Christen man therfore must do good, because it is the commaundement and wyll of God. Secondely, we ought to do good workes, that God

Matth. v. maye be glorifyed through them, as Christ sayeth. Let youre lyght so shine before men, that they may see your good workes, and glorifye your father, which is in heauen. Also S. Peter, see that ye haue an honest conuersacion among the Heithen, that they, whiche bacbite you

i. Peter. ii. as euill doers, may see your good workes, and prayse God in the daye of visitacion. For what greater dishonoure can there be done to God, than to professe the name of God, and ignominiously to deface and obscure the glory of it, through our wycked and vngodly conuersacion?

Their

Theyr rulars do vnrighteously, sayth ẏ lord, and by thys means my name is blasphemed cõtinually euen al ẏ whole daie longe. S. Paule also sayth, ẏ name of God is euell reported for you among the Hethen. Agayn, what greater honour can there be gyuen to God of vs, than to lede a godly lyfe, & to expresse ẏ manners & liuyly Image of our heuenly father in al our lyfe. By the one, God is dishonored, by the other, he is greatly honored, praised & magnifyed. Thyrdely, it is our dutye to do good workes, that we may be certẽ that our fayth is right, true, lyuyly and worlyng. For as there is not a more certen argument & sure token that a tree is good, thã bi bringing forth good frute, so is ther not a better probaciõ, that our faith is true & christen, than whan we worke the wyll of God, and bryng forth the frutes of the spirite. Whã we worke the wyll of God, and fashion our lyfe accordyng to the rule of Christes gospell, than may we be certen that our fayth is ryght, and that we ar the sonnes of God, & fellow enheritours vỏ Jesus Christ. Nether nede we doubte of any thynge, that God hath promised in his holy scriptures, but beleue stedfastly, ẏ we shall haue all thynges accordyng to hys promises, in asmuch as we bryng forth ẏ frutes of fayth. But if we liue slyly carnall, and do the fylthy workes of the flesh, as dronckeshyp, whoredom, theafte, couetousnes. &c. than haue we no cause to reioyse, nor yet to boste of our fayth. For ẏ true fayth worketh great & maruelous thynges, as we maye se in Abraham, which truly beleued in God, & therfore wrought many godly workes. He obeyed ẏ word of God, he lefte hys own natyue countrey, he was contented at the commaundement of God to kyl & offer hys own sonne, & to what soeuer ẏ spirite of God moued hym to do. Of thys nature are so many as truely beleue. They ẏ thus worke not, haue not Abrahams fayth, neyther ar they the sonnes of Abraham. For Christ sayd to ẏ Jewes, yf ye wer the sonnes of Abraham, ye would do the workes of Abrahã. Therfore after ẏ we are persuaded of the goodnes of god toward vs, and beleue faythfully, ẏ god for his promises sake, which he hath made vs in christes bloud, wyl be bounteous & merciful vnto vs, we must note ẏ the scripture cõmaundeth workes to be done of the faythful. For after that we be once iustifyed by fayth before God, we must expresse that fayth, whych is known to god alone, by external & outward workes, ẏ we may appere ryghteous both before God & man. Nether is there any better signe, or more manifest argument, as I sayd before, ẏ our fayth is ryght, true & lyuish, than whan it produceth and bryngeth forth good workes, euen as there is not a more manifest probacion, that a tree is good, than by the bryngyng forth of good frute. A faythfull man therfore is not compared without a cause of the Psalmographe, to a tree planted by the ryuers syde, which bryngeth forth her fruyte in due season. I beynge lyke a fruteful Olyue tree, sayth Dauid, in the house of God, haue trusted in the mercy of god for euer and euer. A christen man is compared to a grene Olyue, for he is euer full of fruyte and neuer barren, al waye Esaye. iii. Rom. ii.

Note whan we haue ths true fayth.

Gene. xx. xxii.

Ioan. viii.

Psal. i.

psal. li.

greene and neuer seare, euer worckyng, and neuer idle. He that truly be-
i. Tim. i. leueth, hath no nede of lawes to compell hym to do good workes, as ỹ scripture sayth, the lawe is not gyueu vnto a righteous man, but vnto the vnrighteous and disobedient. &c. For of his own fre wyl (so lyuyche and myghty in operacion is sayth whan God gyueth an occasion, he wyll bryng forth good workes, euen the frute of sayth vnto the glory of God and the healthy of hys neyghbour. The sonnes of God are not co-Chrisostõe. tent to syt ydle, sayth Chrisostome, but the spirite prouoketh them to take some great and commendable worke in hande. Herete agreeth ỹ Gregory. sayenge of S. Gregory, The loue of God is neuer idle, for it worketh great thynges, if it be ỹ loue of God in dede, but if it ceaseth to worcke, than is it no loue. The vnfaythfull is lyke vnto a dead stocke, which bringeth forth no frute at all, but is vnprofitable altogyther, and there-Math. iii. fore shall he be heuen down and cast into hell fyre. To be shorte in thys matter, they that are frutefull & bryng forth good workes, pertayn vnto the chyrch of God, and they whych are vnfrutefull, & bryng forth no Math. xxi. good workes, belong vnto ỹ chyrch of the Dyuell (for there is a double Chyrch) and shall be cursed as the fygge tree was.

Fortely, we ought to do good workes, ỹ we may wynne our neygh-
i. Pet. iii. bour also vnto Christ, as S. Peter wryteth: you wiues be ye obedient to your husbandes, ỹ they also which obey not ỹ word, may be wonne by the conuersacion of theyr wyues wythout the worde, whyle they consydre your chaste & pure conuersacion ioyned wyth reuerence. For as christ came not into thys world to wynne ỹ fauoure of hys eternall father for himself, but what so euer he dyd, was done for vs so in lyke manner what so euer we do, we must do it also for our neyghbours to wine thẽ vnto Christ, to make thẽ professours of Christes, Gospel, & the perfecte chyldrẽ of God our father. Let ỹ same affection be in you, sayth Phil. ii. S. Paule, ỹ was in Christ Jesus, which beynge in the shape of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God. Neuertheless he made himself of no reputacion, & toke on him ỹ shape of a seruaunt, & became lyke vnto mẽ & was founde in ỹ figure as a man. He hũbled him self & became obedient vnto ỹ death, euen the death of the crosse.

Fystely we must do good workes, that ỹ mouthes of ỹ vngodly may
i. Pet. ii. be stopped, as S. Peter sayth, thys is the wyll of God, that by wel do-yng ye shulde stoppe the mouthes of foly sh and ignorant parsõnes. Do Phil. iii. al thynges wythout murmuryng and disputyng, sayth S. Paul, that ye may be faultlesse and pure, and the sonnes of God wythout rebuke in the myddes of a croked & peruerse nacion, amõg whom, se ỹ ye shyne as lyghtes in the worlde, holdynge faste the worde of lyfe. Verely yf it were euer expedient, that Christen men should lede a godly lyfe, it is at thys tyme most necessary. For whan the aduersaries of Gods truth se thẽ that profesle ỹ Gospel of Christ lyue dissolutely, not fast, not pray, not gyue almes, not mortify the affectes of the flesh, but lead a more vn godly lyfe, than the other sorte do, than blaspheme they the gospel, than call

cal they the worde of God herefye, than hate they extremely, persecute, prisonne, condemne and vtterly destroy so many as cleaue purely to ỳ doctrine of christ. And all this come to passe through the wyckednes & vngodly conuersacion of the grosse Gospellers, the raylyng readers of the scripture, the tayelyke iaugelers of Gods worde, and wayneles babelers of ỳ gospell, which babie much of gods trueth, and yet liue no part therof. Oh what a great hinderaunce is this to gods most holy worde. God gyue vs grace, both to loue and lyue the gospell.

Finally we ought to do good workes, seyng it is none vnprofitable seruice, neyther shall our labour be lost in so doyng, but we shal bygbly be rewarded for doing of them, not only in this world, but much more plenteously in the world to come. Reioyse and be mery, sayth Christ to all that do good workes, for great is your rewarde in heauen. Agayn he that receaueth a Prophet in ỳ name of a Prophet, he shall receaue the rewarde of a Prophet. And he ỳ receaueth a righteous man in the name of a righteous man, he shal receaue ỳ rewarde of a righteous mã And who so euer shal giue to one of these litle ones a cuppe of colde water to drynke onely in the name of a disciple, verely I say vnto you, he shall not lose hys rewarde. Also in another place, who so euer shal giue to you a cuppe of water to drincke in my name, because ye are of Christ verely I saye vnto you, he shall not lose hys rewarde. Euery man shall beare his owne burdẽ. All of vs must stãde openly before ỳ iudging place of Christ, ỳ euery one may receaue accordyng to that, which he dydde whan he was alyue, whither it be good or euell. Christ the sonne of mã shall come in the glory of his father wyth his Aungelles, and than shal he gyue to euery one accordyng to theyr workes. The hour commeth in the which all that are in the graues shall heare the voyce of Christ, & they that haue done good, shal come forth into the resurrectiõ of lyfe, & they that haue done euel into the resurreccion of damnacion. To the that haue done the workes of mercy shall euerlastyng glory be gyuẽ at the day of iudgement, & to ỳ vnmercifull, eternall damnacion. So that they which do good workes in thys world, shall receaue a glorious & euerlastyng rewarde in the worlde to come. Of this had S. Paule a certen assuraunce, whan he sayd, I haue fought a good fyghte, & haue fulfylled my course, and haue kepte the fayth. From henle forth is laide vp for me a crowne of ryghteousnesse, which the Lorde, that is a righteous Judge, shall gyue me at that daye, not to me onely but vnto all them, that loue hys commyng. Thus muche haue I spoken concernyng good workes, & here haue ye now your new yeres gyft cõplete & perfecte, Theo. Blyssed be God for thys our new yeres gyfte, which is more precious than golde, perle, & precious stone. God mought gyue you an heauenly gyfte for this your new yeres gifte, wher vỏ thys day ye haue enriched vs. Phil. The christen loue & tender affeccion, wher vỏ I loue you al, hath moued me to do, that I haue done. If I haue done you any pleasure to the reioysyng of your spirit, I am glad. If I haue

Mat. v.
Mat. x. Luke x.
Gala. vi. Marc. ix.
ii. Cor. v.
Rom. xiiii.
Mat. xvi.
Ioan. v.
Mat. xxv.
ii. Tim. iiii.

not in all poyntes satisfied your desyre and expectacion, yet accepte my good wyll. For he is not altogyther to be blamed, whych entendeth well, although all thynges do not throughlye answer to hys intent. Well neyghbours I wyll now knyt vp in fewe wordes, that I haue sponne in many, & shewe you breuely the whole effecte of your newe yeres gyfte. Ye haue learned, ỳ Christ is the gyfte of God, freely gyuē vnto vs of God the father for your newe yeres gyfte. So that not only he him self, but al that euer he hath, in asmuche as he is man, is ours, his fastyng, watchyng, prayenge, hys mercye, goodnes, purite, innocency, his passion, bloud, death, resurrection, and all ỳ euer he hath besydes. All is ours. God hath gyuen vs all thyng wyth him, as S. Paule saith. This gyft of God Christ our newe yeres gifte hath appeared no more by types, figures, clowdes and shadowes, but in his flesh. He hath taken flesh of ỳ most holy & pure virgine Mary and is become very man for our sake, lyke vnto vs in al thynges, syn alone excepte. And ỳ we may know ỳ he is a precious gyfte vnto vs, he bryngeth helth vnto all menne, not onely vnto the Jewes, but also to the Gentiles, so that who so euer calleth on the name of the Lord, he shal be saued, be he Jewe or Gētile, free or bonde, noble or vnnoble. For he is thalone sauiour. None saueth but he alone, nether is there any saluaciō but in him alone, nor yet any name gyuen vnto men vnder heauē wherin they must be saued, but in his name alone. Moreouer ye haue lerned that he is not only a sauiour & bryngeth saluacion to al men, but he is also a scholemaster vnto vs. For he teacheth vs, ỳ fyrst we should deny vngodlines & worldly lustes, and afterwarde lyue soberly, righteously and godlye in thys present world. What so euer vice hath reygned in vs in times past, we must now vtterly put it awaye from vs, wer it Idolatry, false worshypping of God, superstition, confidēce in ceremonies, despysyng of Gods word, swearyng by hys most blessed name, breking of the sabboth day, &c. or els vncleānes, carnal affectes, worldly lustes, diuellysh motiōs, whordō theaft, couetousnes, dronkēshyp, glotonny, wrath, contention, bloud shedding. &c. and garnyshe our lyues wyth all kynde of vertues, sobrite, iustice, godlynes, purite, innocency, pacience, longe sufferynge, charite, peace, goodnes, fayth, temperaunce, mekenes, and wyth all the other frutes of the spirite, that vō good consciences and fre hartes we may loke for that blessed hope and glorious appearing of ỳ great God & our sauiour Jesus Christ, whych wyllyngly and wythout any compulsion gaue, no aungell nor man, but hym selfe for vs, to redeme vs from all vnrighteousnes, that is to saye, from all synne, both originall, mortall, veniall, or any other, so that we repente, beleue, aske mercy & amende our synfull lyuyng, and to pourge vs a peculiare people vnto hymselfe, to do hym seruyce & none other, and euen suche as wythout any fayning or cloked holynes should be earnest followers, not of theyr owne wylles, fansys and fleshly plesures but of good workes, euen such workes as God commaundeth and are accepted before him, & not such as dame

Christ and al that euer he hath, is owres.

Rom. viii.

Heb. iiii. Ioel. ii. Act. ii. Rom. x.

Act. iiii.

Gala. v.

as dame Good entend, and her sister Blyndenesse imagineth and inuenteth of their own braynes without the authoryte of Gods worde.

Thus haue ye neyghbours in few wordes, that ye receaued before in many. What now remayneth, but that, seyng God ỳ father hath shewed vs so great kyndenesse by his sonne Jesus Christ, we do as ỳ newe yeares gyfte teacheth vs, that is to saye, deny vngodlynes and worldly lustes, lyue soberly, rightuously and godly in this present world, and be earnest followers of good workes, that we may with a good conscience & merye harte loke for ỳ blyssed hope and glorious appearyng of the great God and our sauiour Jesus Christ: Remember ỳ to be called a christen man auayleth nothyng, excepte we lyue accordyng to our name and profession. Remember that to rede ỳ scriptures, & to haue the knowledge of them, profyteth nothyng at al, excepte we fasshiõ our lyfe accordyng to ỳ doctrine therof. Remember ỳ to crake of fayth & of our iustification by it, is nothyng to the purpose, except we bringe forth ỳ frutes of fayth. Remember that to glory of our saluacion purchased by Christ auayleth nothyng, excepte we chaunge our olde lyuyng and become newe men. Remember that all the benefites of christ serue only for them, which repent, beleue and lead a godly & innocẽt lyfe. Al other as they haue no parte of christ, so remayne they styl ỳ bond captiues of Satã, and shal, if they amend not, be committed vnto hel fyre for euermore. Therfore neyghbours take hede, refuse not to walke in the lyght of Gods word. Walke whyle ye haue light, lest darkenes ouerwhelme you. Whyle ye haue lyghte beleue in the lyght, that ye may be ỳ children of lyght. Whyle ye haue tyme, do good vnto al men. Nyght shal come, whan no man shal be able to worke. Now is the tyme of grace now is the tyme of health. Therfore neyghbours stande not idle al day worke manfully in the Lordes vine yearde. Be not lyke vnto that vnprofitable seruaunt, whych hydde vp the treasure of hys master in the grounde, lest ye be caste into the vtter darkenes, wher weppyng and gnashyng of teth shal be, but apply the talent, that ye haue receaued vnto ỳ glory of god and the profyt of your neyghbour. Be not barren and vnfrutful as ỳ fyg tree was, lest ye also be cursed. Be not lyke ỳ fyue folysh virgins, which had lampes and no oyle in them, and therfore could not they enter into the mariages w̃ the Bridegrome, but wer speared out. Be not lyke the grosse & vnthankful Jewes, which whan they wer deliuered out of Egypt ỳ house of bondage, desyred to be ther agayn among the grecy flesh pottes. Be not lyke to Lotes wyfe, which loked backe vnto ỳ fylthy Sodomites, but be lyke vnto Christ, and so many as be ỳ followers of hym, as S. Paule sayth, Be ye ỳ followers of me, as I am of Christ. Be earnest followers of good workes. Walke worthy ỳ gospell of Christ, & shew your selues faythful in al thinges, that ye may garnysh the doctrine of God our sauiour. What shulde I saye more vnto you? Be faythful vnto the death, that the crowne of lyfe may be gyuen vnto you. For he that cõtinueth vnto the ende, he shal be safe.

Ioan.xii.
Esaye.xlix.
ii.Cor.vi.
Math.xx.
Math.xxv.
Math.xxi.
Marke.xi.
Math.xxv.
Exo.xvi.
xvii.
Num.xx.
Gene.xix.
i.Cor.xi.
Tit.ii.
Phil.i.
Apoc.ii.
Math.x.

Rom.xii. ii.Cor.vi. Iacob.i.

And here also I make an end desyryng you by the tender mercyes of God, and by the precious bloud of Iesus Christ our Sauiour, that ye receaue not the grace of God in vayne, but so behaue your selues in all thynges, as is becometh the seruauntes of God. So may ye be sure to receaue the crowne of lyfe, whych the Lorde hath promised to so many as loue hym. Amen. Nowe neyghbours here haue ye your newe yeares gyfte, although homely, yet godly. If it had lyghen in my power better to haue gyuen you, better ye should haue had. But I praye you accepte my good wyll for thys tyme. If God at another tyme gyue me better, be ye sure, that ye shall not want your parte of it. Eufe. Neyghbour Philemon we thanke you right hartely, and we agayn vnto the vttermost of our power, giue both our selues and al that euer we haue vnto you, not only to desire but also to commaundemēt. Phi. I kno we the good hartes of you all toward me. I praye you vouchesafe to come vō me into my hault, and we wyll drynche & be merey together in God, as ỹ tyme of the yeare and the common custome require. The. We follow you gladly. Blyssed be God for our newe yeres gyft. Christopher. Amen.

¶ Gyue the glory to God alone.

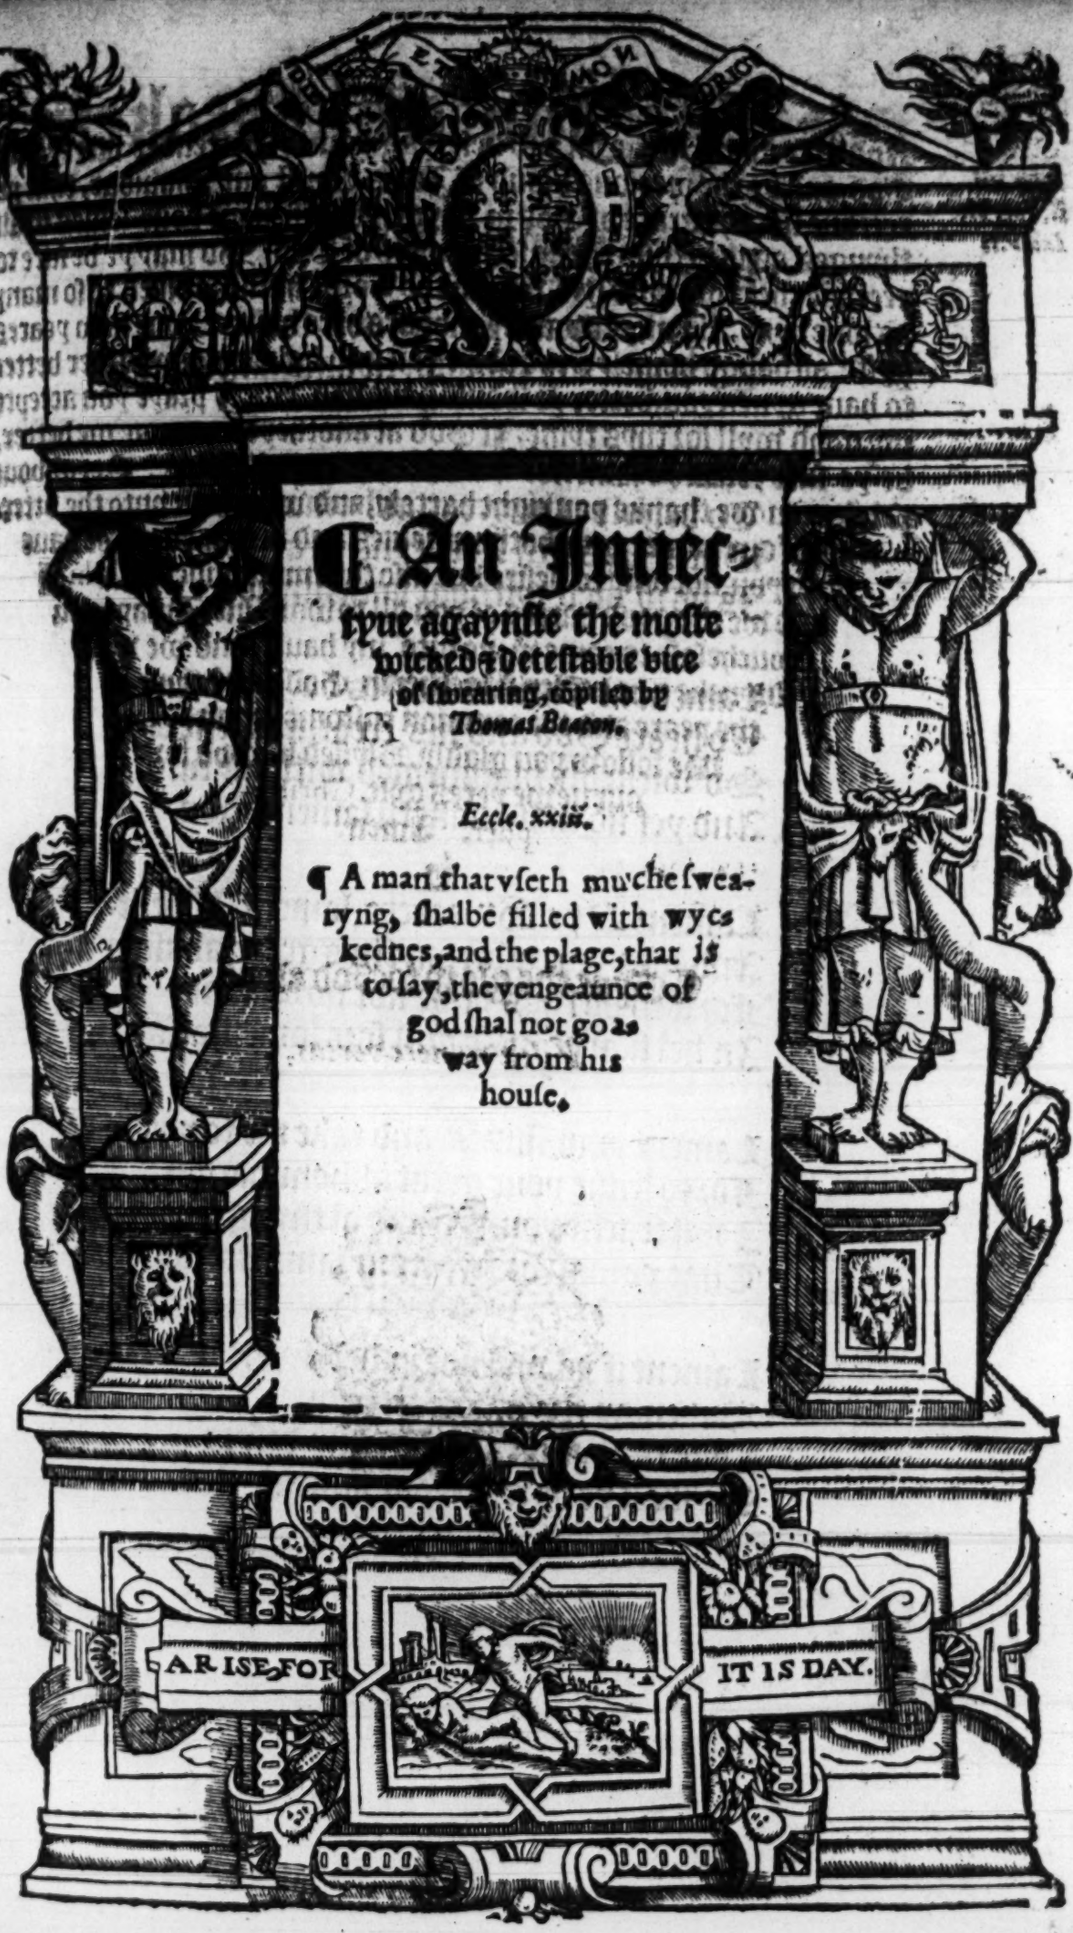
Viscit vulnere virtus.

11 JU 62

¶ An Inuectyue agaynſte the moſte wicked & deteſtable vice of ſwearing, cõpiled by Thomas Beacon.

Eccle. xxiii.

¶ A man that vſeth muche ſwearyng, ſhalbe filled with wyckednes, and the plage, that is to ſay, the vengeaunce of god ſhal not go away from his houſe.



The Inuective speaketh.

LAmentably do I now proceede
Of mine Author sent at thys season
In a sad and lamentable wede
To make my complaynt and lamentacion.

Lament I must both day and night
To beholde the great abhominacion
Which through swearyng in al mens sight
Is now vsed without lamentacion.

Lament al Christen hartes do I am sure
To heare God and his creatures eche one
So wickedly blasphemed without cure
And yet no man maketh lamentacion.

Lament O ye Swearers, lament, lament
And loke ye cease from thys great abusion
For if to do thus ye be not now bent
In hel shal ye make full sore lamentacion.

Lament your sinnes, and take me to you
For to leaue your great abhominacion
I wil teache you, yea and al thyng true
That ye may be free from lamentacion.

Lament if ye wyl not in hell fyre.
But enioy the diuine fruicion
Loke that ye accomplishe my desyre
So shall ye be free from lamentacion.

BRITISH MUSEUM

To the ryghte worshypfull

Mayster Rychard Skotte. Thomas Becon wisheth long lyfe, continuall health and prosperous felicite.

God the father sayth by his Prophet, Cry, cease not. Lift vp thy voice as a trompe, and shew to the people their wickednesse, and to the house of Jacob their sinnes. That this is chefely spoken to them that are Preachers and Ministers of gods worde. There is no man that is but meanely learned, ignorannt therof. For it is their dutye to cry and not to cease. It is their duty to exalte & lift vp their voice as a trompe. It is their duty to shewe vnto the people their wickednesses and synnes. Esay. lviii.

It is their duty to preache the gospel to euery creature. It is their duty to preach Repentaunce and remission of sinnes in the name of Christ vnto al nacions. It is their duty to geue meate to the Lorded family and houshold in due time. It is their duty to fede Christen people wyth doctrine and knowledge. It is their dutie to comfort the weake, to binde vp that is broken, to bryng again that is cast away, to seke vp that is lost, and to cherish al the flocke of Christ. It is ther duty to cast away vngodly and old wiues fables, and to exercyse themselues vnto godlynes. It is their duty to be an example of the faithful in worde, in conuersacion, in loue, in spirite, in fayth, in purite. It is their duty to rebuke them that syn before al men, that other may haue feare. It is their duty to shew them selues cõmendable to God, worke men that nede not to bee ashamed, iustlye diuidinge the worde of trueth. It is their duty not to striue, but to be gentle and peaseable toward al men, ready to teach, suffering the euil with mekenes, enformyng them ỹ resist, if god at any tyme geue them repentaunce to know the trueth. It is theyr duty to preach the worde, to be feruent both in tyme and out of tyme, to reproue, to rebuke to exhort with al sobrtnes and doctrine. It is their duty to watche in all thynges, not to shrinke in afflictions, to do the worke of an Euangelist, to make their ministracion commendable euen vnto the vttermost. It is their dutye to bee cautles, as the stewardes of god, not highe minded, not angrye, not dronken, not fighting, not geuen to fylthy lucre, but maintayning Hospitalite, studyousse of good thinges, sober ryghteous, godly, temperate, and holdyng fast that faithfull word, which is accordyng to doctrine, that they may be able to exhort by holsome doctrin, and to ouercome thē that speake against it. It is their dutye to feede the flock of Christ, somuch as ligheth in their power. To be short it is their dutye to shewe themselues dispensatours of the diuine misteryes on such maner, that they may seme and appeare vnto all men to haue taken ther power to edify and not to destroye. For they are the lighte of the world to shewe men how they oughte to walke. They are the salt of the earth to sauoure such as be vnsauery. Matth. xxviii. Luke. xxiiii. Matth. xxiii. Luke. xii. 1. Tim. v. Eze. xxxiiii. 1. Tim. iiii. 1. Tim. v. ii. Tim. ii. ii. Timo. iiii. Titus. i. 1. Pet. v.

But alas, the lighte of the worlde I meane Priestes, is now so dymme, that it sheweth almoste no lighte at all. Men that walke in darkenes cannot perceyue how to walke, the Preyestes are so wrapped about with the workes of darkenesse. The salt of the earth I meane the Priestes, is so vnsauery that it cannot suck out the corrupte humours. The people that are diseased cannot be healed, the prestes themselues are so feble, weake, infirme, sicke and wounded on euery part.

Moreouer

Esay.lvi. Moreouer the Prieſtes, which ſhould be ouerſears of the people, are al blinde as ſ. Prophet ſayeth, they are al without knowledge, they are dumme dogges, not able once to barke, they haue a pleaſure to lode vpon vayn thynges, they geue themſelues to ſluggiſhnes, they lighe snorying al day, yea they are vnshamefaced doggis, that haue neuer ynough. The ſhepeparders themſelues are without al knowledge. Al folow their own waies, euery one of them is geuen vnto couetouſneſſe, euen from the highest to the lowest. God ſaieth, Cry, ceaſe not. But they turne tayl in the pan and ſay, Ceaſe, cry not. God ſayeth. Lift vp thy voice as a trompe. But they ſay, whiſt, not a word leſte we be ſuſpect to be felowes of the new learning. God ſaieth, ſhew vnto the people their wickednelles, and rebuke their ſinfull liuing. Nay by ſ. Mary ſay they, al thing ſaue that. It is good ſleapyng in an hole ſkin. He is not wiſe that wil caſt himſelfe into trouble, whan he may liue in reſt. O Lord haue mercy vpon vs. By this meanes is it come to paſſe, that vertue is ſo litle regarded, and vice ſo vniuerſally vſed. Wo be to thoſe Prieſtes, whiche neglect their office, flatter the people and ſuffer the to liue in all wickednes. For they are the authors of al euil. They are the occaſion that ſo many ſoules periſh. They cauſe that ſo muche miſchiefe and abhominacion reigneth nowe a dayes. Their negligence, their ſilence, their diſſolute liuing, cauſe that gods word is ſo euil regarded among many, and that ſo great wickednes ſuppreſſeth the honoure of the Chriſten religion. Is it any meruaile? We ſee that the body withereth awai, perryſheth and decayeth, if it wanteth corporal ſuſtenaunce. Is it than to be thought that the ſoule can be in ſafe eſtate, if it wanteth her meate, I meane the worde of God? Chryſt ſaieth, Man ſhal not liue with bread alone, but with euery worde, Matth.iiii. Deut.viii. that commeth forth from the mouth of God. Salomon alſo ſayeth. Whan the preaching Pro.xxix. of gods word faileth, than periſh the people and come to nought. We ſinne dayly true euery day more and more. For the longer we liue, the more wyckednes doe we ſe reigne. It pitieth a Chriſten mans hart to beholde the face of thys worlde. What vngodlynes, ſuperſticion, Hipocriſie, diſſimulacion, ſwearyng, pryde, enuy dronkenſhip, glotony, fornication, adultery, whordome, couetouſnes, and an hole ſea of euils hath ouerflowed the world? And al this is come to paſſe throughe the ſleapy negligence of Curates, nether can ther as yet be perceued any amendemet. The Prieſtes go forth ſtyl to neglecte the office of preachyng gods worde, and the people remaine ſtil in their old blindnes, not caryng much thogh they neuer hear one word of the holy Scripture preached vnto them in all their life, ſo litell pleaſure haue the poore ſely ſoules in it, becauſe they know not what a precious treaſure the moſt holy word of God is. What than remaineth, but that one of vs muniſh, teach and exhort another? as ſ. Paule biddeth, teach and moniſh ye one another. For if one lay man wer no more merryful to another, than the Prieſtes are for the moſt part, ſurely the greateſt part of the world ſhould, I thinke, rou headlong vnto the diuel for want of knowledge. Wherfore I exhort all men of what degre and ſort ſoeuer they be charitably to moniſh one another whan they ſee any man offende, and rebuke hym by the Scriptures of God, that we maye ſhyne Philip. ii. in the mids of a frowarde and croked nacion as greate lightes in the world, purr, ſauteles, and ſuch as no man can complayn of, holding faſt the worde of lyfe. Let Rom.vi. vs ſuffer no ſin to reigne in this our mortall body, but mortifie al thyngs y ſtrine againſt the ſpirite. Let vs ſo watche and geue diligence to our ſelues, that nether Satan nor the world, nor yet the fleſh, may haue any intereſt in vs. Let vs hate Matth.v. Iacob.v. deteſt and abhorre ſin, as the moſt greuous peſtileuce and peſtyferous poyſon, y can chaunſe vnto vs. But aboue al things, as Chryſt and James monyſheth vs, let vs not ſweare at al, nether by heauen nor by earth, nor yet by any thinge that is contayned in the. If any of vs at any tyme ſhall chaunſe to heare another ſwear and pollute the name of our Lord God by vain, idle and vnlawfull othes, lette vs charitably moniſhe the offender, exhorte hym to ceaſe from his ſwearyng, & moue hym vnto the prayſe of God and of hys moſt holy and bleſſed name. For ſurely if there

there were no mo sinnes committed in Englande, but onely the blasphemyng of God and of his creatures by vayn swearyng, it wer inough to bring final destruction vnto this Realme from the which I beseth God long to preserue it, and geueth inhabitauntes therof grace to correct and amende their synful maners. And to the intent that men may know how great offence it is before God vainlye to sweare. I haue made this Inuective against swearing which herefoloweth, wher in as in a cleare mirrour they shal vnfaynedly perceiue and see, what great damnation hangeth ouer the heades of al swearers, and that it is not possible for them to escape the most greuous vengeaunce of God, except with al hast they repente, for sake, their detestable maner of swearing and earnestlye fall vnto the hartye prayses of God. This mine Inuective I dedicate to your good Maistership, to whō I confesse my selfe more endetted and bounde, than my poore beggary shall euer may be able to recompence your most kynd and free gentilnes, desiringe you for your accustomed humanite to accept this my litle gift with the minde wherwith I haue offered it to you and to take it as a testimonye of my faythful and seruisea ble hart towarde you. I was the gladder to dedicate thys my litell treatyse to you, because I haue in times past perceaued, and stil daily do, how greatly ye desyre that al men should liue according to their profession at Baptisme, ỹ through their good workes they may garnish the doctryne of our Lord and Sauiour Iesus Christ. Nether is it vnknowne vnto me what a feruent and godly affection you beare towarde the holy Scripture, and how desyrous ye ar that the word of christ should dwel in Christen men ritchely with all wisdom as S. Paule sayeth. These be the singulare and greate gyftes of God, which he hath wrought in you by his holy spirite, and are manifest signes and tokens that ye are the childe of saluacion, enheritoure of eternall glorye, and one of Christes flocke seeying ye are so earnestly bent both to heare and practise the word of God in your daily maners. For Christ saith. He that is of God, heareth the wordes of God. Againe, My shepe heareth my voyce. God mought vouchsafe to encrease these his gyftes in you daylye more and more vnto the glory of his most blessed name and the saluacion of your soule, in whom I desire to your right worshipfull Maistership and to the good Gentle woman your wyfe all good, luckye and prosperous thynges.

Amen.

Collos. iii.

Ioan. viii.
Iohn. x.

¶ The Inuectiue against swearyng.

Ier.ix.

Whense shal I take my beginning, while I lament the corrupt maners of this most wretched world more aptely and fytter for the purpose, than of the Prophet Jeremy, and with weping teares and sorowful hart cry out with him, saying. Oh who shal geue my head water ynough, and a well of teares for mine eies, that I may wepe night and day for the slaughter of my people? The Prophet doth not here bewayle them, that haue their bodies slain with swearde, or with any other kind of violence, but he lamenteth thee to much wretched and damnable state of such as ar slain in their soules with the multitude of synnes (for what soeuer ỹ swearde is vnto the body, euen the very same is synne vnto the soule (as it manifestly appeareth by his wordes that folowe. For he calleth them adulterers, and a company of wycked transgressoures. They bende their tonges lyke bowes, sayeth he, to shote oute lyes. As for the trueth, they may nothyng away wythal in the world. For they go from one wickednes vnto another, and holde nothing of God. They ar so false and crafty, that euery one had nede to kepe hymselfe from another. No mã may safely trust hys own brother, for one brother vndermineth another, & one neighboure begyleth another, yea one dissembleth with another, & they deale wyth no trueth. They haue practysed their tonges to speake lyes, and haue taken great paynes to do mischiefe. They haue set their stole in the midst of deceate, and for very dissemblyng falshode they wil not know the Lord. Their tonges are like sharpe arowes to speake deceate. With their mouth they speake peasably to their neighboure, but priuely they laye wayte for hym.

These wordes of the Prophete declare euidently, that he bewaileth them that are slayn in their soules, by the reason of the manifolde wyckednes, wherwyth they are wounded inwardely and slayne, that is to say, cast away from the fauour of God, and condemned vnto perpetual death, except they repent, beleue and amende. So lykewyse I at this tyme vsyng the wordes of the Prophete do not lamente suche as haue tasted the death of the body and are gone, but them that are yet alyue in this world as concerning their bodyes, but dead through syn as touchyng their soules. These I lament, these I bewayle, these I sorowe & sygh for both day and nyght. These make me to lay asyde al mirth and ioye, and to walke as one desolate and comfortlesse. These cause me to wysh that I beyng one and a prsyuate parson mighte bee banyshed, yea cursed from Chryst, so that so great a multitude myghte be saued. My faith

ſayth is that I am wrytten in the boke of lyfe, and nombred among the veſſels of mercy, not withſtandyng woulde God I myghte be wyped out, ſo that theſe ỳ are ſlayne in the ſoule through ſynne, myght be ſaued. What one man hauyng but a kernel of Chriſten ſalte in hys breſt wyſheth not ſo? Who deſyreth not rather beyng one perſone to be dãned, than ſo great a nomber ſhould peryſhe? What nede I rehearſe here ỳ tender affeccion of Moſes, Chriſt and Paule, which they bare toward ỳ ſaluaciõ of other, whom al we ought to follow? Moſes whã ỳ Iſraelites had offẽded God for worſhyppyng of ỳ golden calf, prayed for them on this manner: Forgyue them, ob Lorde, this faulte, or elles wype me oute of the boke, wherin ỳ haſt wrytten me. Chriſt by ỳ Prophet ſayth, Iudge I praye you betwyxte me and my vyneyard. What more could haue bene done for it, ỳ I haue not done? S. Paule wyſhed hymſelfe to be banyſhed from Chriſt for hys brethen and kynneſfolke as pertaynyng to the fleſh, which are the Iſraelites. Certes he is no true Chriſten man, ỳ proudeth for his owne ſalnacion, and careth not for the health of other. God ſayth Chryſoſtome, wyll not that a Chriſtẽ man ſhould be contented wyth hymſelfe alone, but that he alſo edifye other, not by teachyng only, but by lyuing and conuerſacion alſo. Charite, ſayth ſ. Paule, ſeaketh not her owne. Agayn, let no man ſeake hys owne, but the profyt of other. This made al the holy fathers in tymes paſt to be ſo deſyrous of the health of other ỳ they wyſhed euen wyth ỳ loſſe of theyr own health, ỳ ſaluacion of theyr Chriſten brothers, who beyng of theyr mynd, and godly enſpired wiſheth not the ſame at thys hour. For euen as the Prophet Hieremye dyd lament ỳ wyckednes of ỳ people which lyued at that time, euen ſo I am ſure, do ſo many as ar godly mynded, bewayle the vngodlines ỳ reygne among vs at thys day. For conſyder what ſynne & how manifold reygned at that tyme, euen ỳ very ſame vo a great heape more reygneth yea & triumpheth in theſe our dayes, ſo greatly hath wyckednes preuayled and got them the vppermoſt hand. If I ſhulde diſcend and go downe into ỳ great Ocean and mayne ſee, which ouerfloweth the whole worlde wyth thaboundaus of all euelles, ſo ſhould I neuer be able to ſayle and paſſe through. I wyll therfore at this tyme take vpõ me onely to ſearche the ſeuerall ſea of one ſinne only, althogh it may ſeme to be both great, large, brode, depe, bottomeles, & not able to be ſayled through of any man, and ſhewe how many daungers and greuous perrelles abyde them, ỳ preſume to paſſe in that cruell & fearfe ſee. And this ſynne is the moſt wycked & deteſtable vice of ſwearyng, which now reygneth ſo greatly in euery place, that I feare al admonicions, exhortacions, warnynges and councels are fruſtrate and vayne, ſo euell is a noughtye & peruerſe cuſtome, ſo rare a thinge is it to heale that pocke, which is rooted by the bõne. Notwythſtãdyng al though ſome peraduẽture ſhal laugh at this my laboure as a ſonge ſunge to them that ar deafe eared, yet for aſmuche as my truſt is, ỳ al which be entangled with this vice, are not

Rom. ix.

Exo. xxxii.
Phili. ii.
Rom. ix.

Eſaye. v.

Rom. ix.

Hom. vii. in Geneſi.

i. Cor. xiii.
Phil. ii.

Hie. ix.

Vice greater ly encreaſed.

of a deſperate mind, nor ſo ouerwhelmed wyth the waues of thys vnmerciful ſea, but ẏ they may be called agayn, & brought vnto amendment, euē for theyr ſake, & to wyn theyr ſoules vnto glory, wyll I ſpeke ſomewhat in this matter, & declare how greatly the abhōmable ſinne of ſwearyng is to be deteſted, and abhorred of euery true Chriſtē harte. Therfore I ſhall moſt intierlye deſyre all faithfull and Chriſten people that ſhall read thys my worke to marke diligently what ſo euer they ſhal here fynde, and to repoſe it in ẏ bottome of theyr hartes as a graue and weygthy matter pertaynyng vnto the healthy of theyr ſoules. If any man wyll not amend after thys our admonicion, hys damnacion fall vpon hys owne head. For I am free from hys bloud, and haue done my dutye in thys behalfe. After that God had brought his people the Iſraelites of Egypte, myndyng to inſtitute & appoynte a newe publique weale, that ſhulde be gouerned after hys deuyſe and appoinctment he ordeined certayne ceremonyes and ordinaunces, wherby they ſhoulde obſerue and by the obſeruaunce therof ſhewe and outwardly declare theyr obediente harte towarde hym. Among all other for the ryght inſtitucion of theyr lyfe, he gaue them by hys ſeruaunt Moſes ten commaundementes, wherby by no meanes they myght tranſgreſſe, except they woulde fall into hys great diſpleaſure, wrath & indignacion. To the kepers of thoſe commaundementes he promiſed all good, fortunate and proſperous thynges, but to the tranſgreſſours and ſuche as breke them, he threatened all troublous, greuous & paineful thinges, as we may ſe in the bokes of Moſes and of the other Prophets. Amōg all other he gaue a commaundement, wherby is thys. Thou ſhalt not take the name of thy Lorde God in vayne. For the Lorde wyll not holde hym gylteles that taketh hys name in vayne. As thoughe he ſhoulde ſaye, Beholde I am the Lorde thy God, wherby haue done the many great and ſinguler pleaſures. I haue made the lyke vnto myne owne ſimilitude, lykenes and image. I haue preſerued the from eternall damnacion, vnto the wherby thou haddeſt made thy ſelfe bounde through the offence of thy fyrſte father Adam, wherby he committed in Paradiſe. I haue fed the in thy mothers wombe. I haue noryſhed the hytherto. I haue ſent thee thy helth, & ſaued the from al daungers. And now at ẏ laſt alſo euē of myne owne mere mercy & free goodnes. I haue delyuered the out of Egypt ẏ land of ſeruitude & extreme bondage, euē out of the handes of that thy moſt cruell & vnmercifull enemy Pharao. I fede the with meate from heauen. I gyue the drinke out of the harde & ſtony rocke, & now I haſt with al mayne to lead the into the land of ẏ Cananites, euen ſuche a land as floweth wyth mylke and hony, & abideth wyth all good thinges, where (thyne enemies caſte out before thy face) thou ſhalt lyue & reygne lyke a moſt wealthy Prynce & rulare of the earth. Loke therfore that thou kepe my commaundementes & ordinaunces. Heare my voyce. Flye the voyces of ſtraungers. Loke thou haue none other Gods beſydes me. Take me for thine one & alone god.

Haye not but that ye are warned

Deut. xxviii.

Gen. iii.
Rom. v.

Exo. xiiii.

Exo. xvi. xvii.

Exo. xx.
Deut. v.

Feare,

feare, honour & worſhyp me alone. Loue me wyth al thy harte, minde ſtrength, power, ſoule &c. Hange on me. Seake for al good thynges at my hand, Beleue me to be ỳ God alone, which am omniſufficient, plenteous to gyue and nedy of nothyng. Make the no grauen ymage vnto ỳ lykenes of any thyng in heuē, earth or elles where. Do no reuerence nor honoure vnto them. But aboue al thynges loke thou take not the name of me thy lord God in vayn. For if ỳ ſo do verely ỳ ſhalt not eſcape vnpunyſhed. I wyll be reuenged of thy wyckednes. For by no meanes wyl I ſuffer my name to be polluted & defiled wyth thyne abominable & vnlawful othes. And that thou mayſt take my name into thy mouth with honour & reuerence it whan it is named, remēber ỳ I am a lord, terrible in aſpecte, greate in power, righteous in iudgement, redy to take vengeaunce on ỳ wicked, & ſuch one as am acōſuming fyre, and by no meās cā ſuffer iniquite. And as for ỳ workers therof I hate, deteſt, & vtterly abhorre. Agayn ỳ art a miſerable, wretched & vyle synner, begotten, cōceaued & borne in ſynne, ful of al fylthyneſſe, wycked in al thy thoughtes, wordes and dedes, deſeruyng at euery hour by thyne abhominable lyuyng to be caſte into hell fyre, wer not I called awaye from takynge vengeaunce by my greate mercy, and long ſuffryng what art thou than O man, whych beyng ſo vile, wretched, ſynfull & ſtynkyng dareſte preſume to take my name, whych am kyng aboue all kynges, & Lord aboue all Lordes, into thy polluted mouth, ſeyng it is a name, ỳ excelleth all other, ſeyng alſo that vnto it euery knee that is in heauen earthe, or hell bowe and gyue reuerence vnto it, agayn ſeyng that the dignite, greatnes, and vertue therof can by no meanes be comprehended? Vſe not therfore my name vnreuerently, but magnify, laud praiſe, honoure and worſkyp it both day and nyghte. Flye vnto it as vnto a ſtrong Bulwarke, and holy anchore in all thyne aduerſite. Seake for remedy, ayde, and ſuccoure of al thy diſeaſes at the goodnes of that. If thou doſte otherwyſe, know that I am the lyuyng God, into whoſe hāndes it is a dreadfull thyng to faull. For I wyl viſite the with moſt greuous afflictiōs. I wyll ponyſh the with many intollerable diſeaſes vpon thy bodye in thys world. I wyll ſmyte the, thy wyfe, thy chyldren, thy cattell. All that euer thou haſt, wyll I bryng to nought. Of al men lyuyng wil I make the moſt vile & wretched. What ſo euer thou goeſt about, ſhal not proſper, but come to an euel end. So that in this world my vengeaunce, that is to ſaye, corporall plages ſhall faull vpon the, & after this preſent lyfe, ſhalt thou wtoute fayle be caſte into vtter darkene, where wepyng and gnaſhyng of tethe ſhal be, where the fyre ſhall neuer be quenched, where thy tormentes ſhal neuer haue ende, where ỳ worme that gnaweth thy conſcience, ſhall neuer dye.

A compariſō betwene god and man. Iob. xxxvii. Exo. xvi. Deut. iiii. Heb. xiii. Pſal. vi. Math. vii. Pſal. l. Gen. vi. viii.

Phil. iis

Heb. x. Math. xiii. Eſay. lxvi.

Whoſe eyes ſend not forth large fountaynes of teares to heare theſe thynges? Yer whoſe harte faynteth not for diſtylling of bloudy teares, to heare ſo great & ſo greuous threates, yea and that frō the mouth of God, which is ỳ ſelfe trueth, which can not lye, which is faythful in all

Ioan. xiiii. Titus. i. Pſal. cxliiii.

his wordes? what mã is ſo infected with the abominable ſinne of ſwe-tyng, that doth not now tremble, ſhake, and quake for feare, to heare what greuous & intollerable paynes abyde hym? who hath an harte ſo indurated and hardened through the deteſtable & vicious cuſtome of ſwearyng, whych is not now redy ſo ceaſe from hēſforth ſo wickedly to abuſe the moſt holy and bleſſed name of God, and to honour, reue-rence and worſhyppe it euer after? Thou ſhalt not take the name of " thy Lorde God in vayne. For the Lorde wyll uot holde hym gylteleſſe " that taketh hys name in vayne. God hath gyuen ten commaunde-mentes, yet haue none of them all comminations and threates ſubioyned expreſſly vnto them, but two only, whych are the ſeconde and the thyrde, one for Idolatrye, the other for the vniuſte vſurpacion and vnlawfull vſyng of the name of God, whereby he manifeſtly declareth how great the ſynne of Idolatrye and of ſwearyng is in hys ſyght aboue al other vices. who is nowe ſo at defyaunce wyth the chriſten religion, and ſo lytle eſteemeth the glory of the moſt excellent name of God, that he wyll not ceaſe from hys wyckednes of ſwearyng & learne from henſforth to glorify the moſt bleſſed name of God, if not for loue, yet for feare of the moſt greuous and intollerable plages that ſhall vn" doutedly faull vpon hym? Thou ſhalt not take the name of thy Lorde god in vayne. God ſpeaketh theſe wordes wyth a meruelous great and vehement emphaſis, becauſe he wouldе haue vs imprynt this hys precepte in our memory. And becauſe we ſhouldе harken the more vn-
" to it, he addeth a threte and ſayth. For the Lorde wyll not holde hym " gyltleſſe that taketh hys name in vayne. Thys is greuous threat, and ſhaketh all the partes of a Chriſten mannes body, that is led wyth any fere at all toward god. Nowe let vs lerne what it is to take the name of our Lord God in vayne, ỹ we faul not into that ſynne, & receyue an warde worthy our wyckednes. To take the name of God in vayne, is to caull God a wytnes in vniuſte and trifelynge matters, vaynely to ſweare by his moſt bleſſed name, to take it in our mouthes wythout a neceſſary & vrgent cauſe, & to obſcure the glory of it through wycked & vngodly othes. All they that thus do, ſhall not eſcape vnpunyſhed. O Lorde God how many are there at thys tyme that tranſgreſſe this holy precepte? How many caull God a wytnes in vniuſt & trifelyng matters? How many pollute & defyle (ỹ in them is) the glory of Gods moſt bleſſed name? How many ſweare cōtinually not only by God, & al ỹ euer he made, again not onely by hys derely beloued ſon our Lord & ſauiour Jeſus chriſt, but alſo, wᵗ honour & reuerence I ſpeake it, by all ỹ holy mē bers of his moſt glorious body? How common an othe now a dayes is Gods fleſh, Gods bloud, Gods hart, Gods bodie, Gods woūdes, Gods nayles, Gods ſydes gods guttes, & all ỹ euer may be rehearſed of God?
O wickednes, O abhōinaciō. what parte of Chriſtes moſt bleſſed body do theſe wicked & abhōinable ſwearers leaue vnrēt & vntorne? They are much worſſe thā ỹ Jewes, which cried, Tolle, tolle, crucifige eum.

Idolatry & ſwering ar the moſt greuous ſynnes.

What it is to take the name of god in vayne.

Iwaye

Iwaye, awaye, to the gallowes with him, crucifye hym, torment him, leaue not one part whole of hym. For they only cryed vpon Pylate to haue hym crucifyed, but these swearers them selues crucify hym, rent, and teare hym. The Iewes crucifyed hym but once, and than theyr fury ceased, but these wicked caytiffes crucify him dayly with theyr vnlaweful othes, neyther doth theyr malyce & cruelnes cease at any time S. Iusten sayth: They syn no lesse, whych blaspheme Christ reygning in heauen, than they, which crucifyed hym walking on the earthe. Yea there wãt not, which haue so great pleasure in swearyng, ỹ they thinke them selues no mẽ, excepte they face crake, and bragge out theyr matters wyth large and shameles othes. They iudge it a poynte of elegancye ciuilite and good nourtoure to enterlase theyr talke wyth abundans of othes. They recount him an asse a dastarde, & an hobbe of ỹ cõtrey, that can not sweare valeauntly, so greatly hath vice preuayled, so greatly hath wickednes roted herselfe in the hartes of men, so lytle authoritie beareth vertue & godlinesse now a dayes in the world. The mẽ of occupacion feareth no thyng at all to sweare by God & to call him a witnes in a vayne and trifling matter, whan he byeth or selleth any thyng, so that he may gette but a peny by thys means. O Lorde what doth it profyt a mã to wynne al ỹ whole world, & to lose his soule? How customably is this heard dayely among them that be byers & sellers. By Gods soule man take it vnto the, & say not, but ỹ thou haste a frendly peny worth. For by the blyssed body of God, ỹ hast it as good chepe as euer I bought it? And yet are all togyther starke lyes. But lette it be graũted, ỹ theyr oth wer true, is it therfore conuenient, ỹ in worldly matters and for euery lyghte trifle, we should thus abuse the name of god, whom we ought neuer to haue in our mouthes without great reuerence, & for vrgent & weyghty causes? There ought to be so great sincerite, faythfulnes, trueth & singlenes amonge Christen men, that yea yea, naye, naye, should be sufficient. But alas there is so moch crafte, deceate, suttelty, falshode, and doublenes reygnyng in the world at thys tyme, that none dare trust another, no thoughe they promyse neuer so faye, excepte they sweare, no nor than nether, excepte they haue them bound in blacke & whyght, as they saye. O Lorde vnto what poynt are we come, whan all trueth & credence is so farre banyshed from ỹ bounddes of Christianite, ỹ there is more fayth & trust gyuen to an obligaciõ or suche other trifle, than to ỹ word and promyse of a Christen man? It is euen as ỹ Prophet sayth, there is no trueth vpon ỹ earth, but swearyng, cursyng, & liẽg. Euery mã is a liar. Euery mã ỹ liueth is nothing but vanite, nether is ther any trust in hym. Do ye thynke, sayth Christ, that ỹ sonne of man shall fynde any fayth on the earthe, whan he shall come? Verely I thynke but a lytle, which is an euident tokẽ that ỹ day of the great & terrible iudgement is not farre of.

Ioan.xix.

In math.

Ỹe of occupacion.

O extreme abhominacion.

what truthe and fayth ought to reygne amõg christen men,

Exulat fides.

Ỹe feareth not to blaspheme the name of god wyl not let to deceaue his neyghbour.

Oze.iiii.
Psal.cx.
Rom.iii.
Luke.xviii.

Moreouer how is God tent and torne by blasphemous othes not only among men in bargaynyng, byeng and sellyng, choppyng & chaun-

Dysers and Carders.

gyng. &c. but alſo in playeng and ydle matters? Howe wyll the dyſer ſweare rather than he wyll loſe one caſte? Howe wyll the carder teare God on peces, rather than he wyll loſe the profyt of one carde? Howe wyll they that ſtande by and beholde, forſweare them ſelues for the loue that they beare to one of the parties? Agayn howe depely do men of lawe ſweare vnto theyr Clientes, that they haue laboured theyr matters earneſtly to the Judges, whan many tymes they haue not ſpoken one worde, but ſtyll prolonge the matter that their auauntage may be the greater? Howe doth the preſt ſweare, that if it had not ben for the loue of ſuche and ſuche an honeſt man, and for the good reporte that he hath harde before of the Pariſh, he would neuer haue be perſon of it? And yet it is not vnknowen, that the moſt part of them loue theyr pariſhners ſo derely, that after they be once ſure of theyr benefyce they care not although they neuer ſe none of them after, ſo that they may haue the auauntage of the benefice, excepte peraduenture of theyr deuocion it be at harueſt, whan the tyth barnes are ful, or elles at Eaſter to ſearche howe good the Eaſter boke wil be that yeare. This once done, hence go they agayn, & leaue a lyr John Lack latin in theyr ſtead whych teacheth not muche more, than the hyll moueth. The wolfe may come, and eaſely rent, teare & deuour the poore ſhepe. For the ſheparde hath gotte the mylke & wolle, and he is gone. He hath licked the fatte fro his pariſhners berdes, & hath take his iourney, take thought for the flock who lyſteth. O Paſtor & Idolum derelinquens gregem. O ſhepeparde & Idolle, that thus forſaketh his flocke. But alas what conſciences haue theſe menne, which take ſo much & do ſo lytle? If they wyl reape carnall thynges, ſo muſt they ſow ſpiritual thynges, ſayth ſcripture. The labouryng plow man & not the ydle lubber muſt receaue of ỹ frutes, ſaith ſ. Paule. They that rule wel ar worthy double honour theſely they that labour in worde & doctrine. For the Lord hath ordined that they, which preach the Goſpell, ſhuld lyue of ỹ Goſpell. Wo be to me, ſayth S. Paule, if I preach not ỹ Goſpel. Shal theſe good men thā, & God wil, eſcape free, ſeyng they do nought, & yet receaue ſo great frutes, cōmodities and rewardes? what do we, O ye ſheppardes, ſayth ſ. Gregory? How may we be bolde to receaue wages, & yet be no worke men? We take the profytes of holy chyrch for our dayly ſtipende, & yet do we labour nothyng at all in prechyng for the euerlaſtyng Chyrche. Let vs conſyder and weigh, what greate damnacion it is to take hyre the reward of laboure, and to do nothyng for it. Beholde we lyue of ỹ oblacio of ỹ faithful, but what do we laboure for ỹ ſoules of the faithful? we take for our ſtipēd what ſo euer the faythful haue offered to redeme theyr ſynnes, and yet do we not once ſhewe any diligēce agaynſt thoſe ſinnes ether by the ſtudye of prayer or preachyng. Let beneficed men, which gyue ſo lytle attendaūce vpō Chriſtes flocke, marke wel the forſayde wordes of the holy Doctor, & cōſyder with them ſelues whither they may iuſtly receaue ſo much and do ſo lytle for it, or not. Agayn ỹ ſame

Open of lawe

Prieſtes and beneficed mē

Ioan. x.

Zacha. xi.

1. Cor. xix.
ii. Tim. ii.
1. Tim. v.
1. Cor. ix.

Hom. vii. Super illud. Dignus eſt operarius. &c.

Diſt. xviii. cap. oportet.

same Doctor saith, the Priestes, to whom the Lordes people ar cōmitted, must watch with great diligēce vpon the Lordes shepe, ẏ they bee not rent and torne with the bitinges of the wolfe, ẏ is to saye, with the motions of the diuel. God geue them grace once to be Prestes & shepeherdes, not only in name and apparell, but also in worke and trueth.

Among seruing men also aboue all other, what wicked and detestable othes are there heard? If ther be any of that sort, which feare God and loue his word, and therfore abstayne frō vain othes, how doth his cōpany lout hym? Loke what an asse is among a sort of apes, euen ẏ very same is he among his felowes. They think him not worthy to wear a sweard and buckeler, that cannot face out the matter wyth plenty of othes. He that can sweare best, and soonest geue a blowe, he is counted an hardy felow, and fit to do a Gentil man seruise, whan to say ẏ truth of al men he is most wretch and coward, and most of all vnapte to doe such a Gentil man seruise as loueth God and his holy lawes. Yea such pestilent swearers and fylthy blasphemers of God and his creatures ought al honest and vertuous Gentle mē to put out of their houses, lest they bryng the vengeaunce of God vpon their whole family, wife, childzen, seruauntes. &c. If they knowe that any man haue bene in ẏ place, where the plage reygneth, & would come into their houses, they speare the gates agaynst him, they shut hym out, by no meanes will thei suffer him to enter. And why? Verely beecause they will not haue the plague brought in among them, lest they should be infected and so dye. Alas for pure pite, to dye we are al borne, and dye we must at one tyme or other whether it be by the plage or otherwise, and therfore it may seme that the death of the body ought not so greatly to be feared, why thā rather do they not put oute of their houses these pestiferous caytiffes, whiche through their abhominable swearyng infect all their family, not onely their bodyes, but their soules also, and prouoke God to poure oute hys most fearse and greuous plages vpon them? Is not thys the sayinge of the wyse man, the man that vseth muche swearyng shalbe fylled wyth iniquite, and the plage, that is to say, the vengeaunce of God shall not go away from his house? Awake therfore, O ye gentil men, awake, and ye men of nobilite awake, suffer no swearers in your houses, esche wthē more then a venemous serpent, fede a dragon soner in youre house, thā any such one as hath pleasure in swearyng For as touching the one, it onely hurteth the body, the other destroyeth the bodyes and soules of so many as be vnder you, and dayly prouoke the vengeaunce of God agaynst you and al that euer ye haue in towne, felde or els where. He ẏ toucheth pitche, saieth Jesus Syrache, shalbe defiled of it. And he that kepeth company wyth them that are proude, shal learne pryde. Lykewise they that accompany such as be swearers & blasphemers of gods moste holy name, muste nedes proue lyke vnto them, and therfore run into lyke damnation. Away therfore wyth suche out of youre houses, except they wyll amende. Maintaine none that shal bryng the plage

Seruing mē

Eccle. xxiii.

An admonition for gentile men.

Eccle. xiii.

of God vpon your houſe. Suffer not the tender bꝛeſtes of your childꝛ to be poiſoned in their yonge age with the peſtilent and damnable cō-municacion of theſe abhominable ſwearers. But aboue all thynges loke that ye your ſelues haue the name of god in ſo great reuerence and honoꝛ, that by no meanes ye abuſe it at any tyme by your vayn othes vnto the euill example of your familie. Agayn, whan the common foꝛ Pariſhners. of people in a pariſhe are gathered together at any tyme to make me-rye, as the cuſtome in many places is to do, chefely on the Sondayes, and other holy dayes at after none, whan they ought rather to be occu pyed in feruent pꝛayers, oꝛ els in the readyng oꝛ hearynge of the holye Scriptures, what ſhamefull and wycked othes do they ſweare? whā they are once ſet vpon the ale benche, and wel whitled in their bꝛaines thꝛough the many cuppes that haue been fylled in, how fall they then to ſwearyng? What part of Chꝛyſtes moſt bleſſed body is left vntoꝛne?
He is taken foꝛ ioylieſt felow, that can beſt ſweare. I let paſſe their other filthy talke, dꝛonkenſhip, and exceſſe. O wyckednes. Ar theſe Chꝛiſten men? Not much befoꝛe, they were in the Temple, and ful ſolemne-ly went vp and down patteryng with a payꝛe of beades in their hāds, and whan the Pꝛyeſt red the goſpell, although they vnderſtoode not one woꝛd, yet of cuſtome they ſtode vp lyke men, and whan the Pꝛyeſt named Jeſus in the goſpell, and they ſaw him foꝛ the reuerence of it, make curteſy, they alſo full manerly bowed theyꝛ knees, as deuout per ſons, pꝛetendyng by that meanes that they haue the name of Jeſus among thē in great honoꝛ, yet ſtreight wayes go they vnto the alehouſe and by their wicked othes, do they ther the greateſt diſhonoure to the name of Jeſus that can be done in the woꝛld. Theſe people may wel be reſembled to thoſe Jewes, which in deſpite ſtrypped Chꝛiſt, and put on hym a purple robe, and platted a crowne of thoꝛnes and put it vpō hys head, and a rede in his right hand, and bowed their knees befoꝛe hym and mocked hym, ſaying: Aue rex Iudeorum, hayle king of the Jewes.
Childꝛen. God amende theſe croked cuſtomes. Furthermoꝛe this damnable vſe of ſwearyng hath ſo greatly pꝛeuailed among thē that pꝛofeſſe Chꝛyſt that it is alſo crept into the bꝛeſtes of yonge childꝛen. It is not a rare thing, now a dayes to heare boyes and mothers teare the moſte bleſſed body of Chꝛiſt wō their blaſphemous othes, euen from the top to the too
What meruel is it than, though they be abhominable ſwearers, whan they come to age? But whenſe lerne they this? Verely of their pareētes and ſuch as bꝛyng them vp. Curſed be thoſe parentes whiche ſo behaue themſelues ether in woꝛd oꝛ dede, that they geue any occaſion of euil at all vnto their childꝛen. Great is their damnacion. The bloude of theyꝛ childꝛen ſhalbe required at their handes. Better wer it foꝛ ſuch fathers and mothers, if they had a milſtone tyed about their neckes and ſo to be caſt into the ſea, than blaſphemouſly to abuſe the name of god vnto the euil exāple of their childꝛē. Is it any maruell therfoꝛe though we be ſo greatly plaged, ſeing the name of God is ſo much blaſphemed amongꝛ vs now

vs now a dayes of euery degre and age? How can we be bold to say, ỹ we beleue in God, whan we liue nothing accordyng vnto hys worde? with what forhead may we be bold to call vpon the name of God in our aduersite, seing we without al honor and reuerẽce do so shamefully abuse it with vngodly othes? How may we hope that Christes body was offred vp to God the father a swete smellyng Sacrifice for oure synnes, whan we so vnreuerently sweare by it? How maye we boldly say, that al our iniquities be washed away by Chrystes bloud, whan it shameth not vs wyckedly to sweare by it, and to obscure the vertue of it by our vnlawful othes, so much as lyeth in our power? wyth what countenaunce shal we be bold at the dreadful day of iudgemente to behold and loke vpon ỹ most glorious face of ỹ euerlastyng & ryghteous Judge Chryst whose honor we haue so oft defaced wt our vayne & ydle swearyng? Undoubtedly these swearers & blasphemers of the name of God ar in a far worse case, than they appeare before the worlde. The world by ỹ reasõ of the long custome and cõtinuaunce therof, thinke it no syn ydelly to sweare, nether doth it iudge thẽ ỹ are swearers to bein any worse case, thã ỹ other sort be, but the word of God iudgeth otherwise of them. Gods word declareth them to be the moste greuous enemies of God, of his most blessed name, of Jesus Chryst his sonne, and of his most bytter passion. Gods word vttereth thẽ to be the chyldren of wrath, fyre brandes of hel, captiues of Satã, and ryght heyres of eternal damnacion. Gods word sheweth manifestly, that thei haue no part of the celestial heritage, but are already iudged to hel fyre, if they do not in this lyfe repẽt, bewayle their wretchednes, confesse their abhominacion, desyre mercy, and beleue faythfully to haue forgeuenes. For heaue and earth shal passe away, but the word of the Lord abydeth for euer. Therfore this comminacion and threat, which accompanieth the commaundement, must nedes be true, and come to passe. The Lord wil not holde him gilteles that taketh his name in vayne. Let not these swearers therfore glory in their wickednes, and thinke that they shal escape vnpunished, because God taketh not vengeaunce on thẽ streight waies but rather let them thinke that their dãnacion shalbe so much the more greuous seing they escape so long wout punishment. The rytch glotton of whom we read in the gospel of Luke, lyued in this world according to his fleshly appetyte, and wanted nothyng that myght satisfye ỹ beastlike desyre of the flesh, yet the ende of hym was euerlastyng damnacion. So shal it chaunce to all them ỹ be wycked transgressours of thys holy precepte of God. The Lord wyll not holde him gylteles saieth the Scripture, that taketh his name in vayne. Thys threate of God is not to be laughed at. For if there be a God, and I am certaynly perswaded there is, I am sure that these abhominable Swearers shal not escape vnpunished, let them esteme their synne as lyghte and as litle as they list, yea I am sure, the vengeaunce of God hangeth ouer their heades, where soeuer they be. And although GOD taketh not vengeaunce on them

Ephe. v.

Heb. ix.

i. Ioan. i.

The world and gods word iudgeth diuersly of swearers.

Math. v.
Esa. xl.

Luke. xvi.

on thē ſtreight waies, yet am I ſure that they ſhal not eſcape, if in this Pſal. cxliiii. worlde, yet not in the worlde to come, ſo righteouſſe a Iudge is God, ſo faithfull is he in all his wordes. How can it otherwiſe be? we ſe by dai-Gene. iii. ly experience that if any man blaſpheme an earthly Prince, or ſpeake euil of his name, he dieth that death ſtreyght waies without mercy. If ſuch honor and reuerence be geuen vnto a worldly Prynce, whiche is earth, and vnto earth ſhal returne agayne, what is than to be thought of them which blaſpheme the name of the moſt high and celeſtiall king which is king of al kings, and Lord of al Lordes? The blaſphemy done to a mortal man is puniſhed ſo ſweard, and ſhal the blaſphemy done to God eſcape, thinke you, ſo a filip in the forhead, or ſo the knocke of a li-tell woden betell: as it began in certayne mens houſes to be punyſhed now of late? Na verely. It is no filip matter, except we wil admit ſuch a filip, as ſhal fylyp them down into the botome of hell fyre God is no popet nor no babe. It is not a fylip, that can wipe away the blaſphemy of hys moſt bleſſed name before his hygh throne and glorious maieſty no be to them that ſyn, and kepe not my commaundementes, ſayeth the lord, for I wil not ſurely ſpare them. In the old law God gaue this iiii. Eſd. xv. commaundement for the blaſphemers of his name. Who ſoeuer curſeth hys God, ſayeth he, ſhal beare hys ſynne. And he that blaſphemeth the Leui. xxiiii. name of the Lord, he ſhall dye for it. All the multitude ſhal ſtone him to death. Whyther he be Citizen or ſtraunger, if he blaſphemeth the name of the Lord, let hym dye the death. What wil the blaſphemers of God ſay to this precept? Do they thinke that God is a ſleape, ſo that now he careth not for the glory of his name? Na let thē be ſure, God tendereth now his glory ſo much as euer he did, and abhorreth wickednes nowe no leſſe than he hath done euer heretofore. He is a ielous God, and wyl not ſuffer them to eſcape vnpuniſhed, that pollute and defyle hys moſte
In Matth. glorious name. S. Auſten ſaieth, they ſynne no leſſe, which blaſpheme Chriſt reigneth in heauen, than they, which crucified him walkinge in
In petalogium earth. A certayne writer alſo in the Hebrue tonge called Rabbi Aben Ezra writeth on this maner: Certes this is the cuſtome in Egipt euen vnto this day, that if any man doth ſweare by the head of the king and doth not fulfyl hys saying, he ſhalbe the child of death. If that he wold offer for his raunſome a great ſumme of golde, yet ſhall he not lyue, ſaying he hath deſpyſed the kyng openly. If a king doth ſo, which is fleſhe and bloud, whoſe beginning & end is vanite, much more, ye a thouſand more ought a mā to take hede, that he offende not god wt his tong, ỹ he doth not ſo order his mouth, ỹ he maketh his fleſh to ſin by remēbryng god in vain. Again he ſaith, ther ar many, which think it no great offence Ibidem. if a mā taketh ỹ name of god in vain. But I wil ſhew thē, ỹ it it greter and more greuous than the breaking of al the commaundements that folow. For he that is a mānſleare or an adulterer, which ſurely ar great offenſes, he cānot ſlea nor playe the whoremonger at all tymes, for he is in feare. But he that hath accuſtomed hymſelfe vnto vayne othes, he committeth

committeth in one daye immunerable othes, and he is so greatly in vse with this fault, that he perceaueth it not, whan he swereth. And if thou rebukest him and saiest, wherfore hast thou now so swozne? He streight wayes sweareth that he sware not, yea and that for thee to much vse of swearyng. For such before they bryng forth any word, they sware first, thinking that it garnisheth their communicatiō very pleasauntly so to sweare. But if there were in Israel no more faultes, but this one alone it were inough to prolonge our captiuite, and cause that we shoulde be plaged euery day more and more. These are the wordes of the Hebrue Interpretoure, wherof we may learn how great an offence it is vainly to sweare, and how it heapeth vpon vs the plages and vengeaunce of God more then the breaking of any other commaundement, excepte it be for ydolatrye, which sinne thys also matcheth. But let vs returne to the Scriptures of God. Here me, O ye children, saith the wise man. Eccle.xxiiii. I wil geue you a doctryne how ye shall order your mouth. Whoso kepeth it, shal not perishe through his lippes, nor be hurt through wicked workes. As for the synner, he shalbe taken in his own vanite. He that is proude and cursed, shall fall therin. Let not thy mouth be accustomed with swearyng. For in it there are many faules Let not the namynge of God be continually in thy mouth. For lyke as a seruaunt, whiche is oft punished, cannot be without some sore, euen so whatsoeuer he be, ỹ sweareth and nameth God, shal not be clene purged from syn. A man that vseth muche swearyng, shalbe fylled with wickednes, and ỹplage shal neuer go from his house. If he begileth his brother, hys faulte shalbe vpō hym. If he knowledged not hys syn, he maketh a double offēce and if he sweareth in vayne, he shal not be founde ryghteous. For hys house shall be full of plages. The wordes of the swearer bryng death (God graunt that it be not founde in the house of Jacob) but they that feare God, erchewe al such, as ligh not weltryng in synne. Vse not thy mouth vnto vnhoneste and fylthy talkyng. For in it is the worde of syn. Here the wyse man playnely affirmeth, that they, which sweare and take the name of God in vayne, shalbe replenyshed wyth wickednesse, and the greuous plages of gods vengeaunce shall fall vpon them. So that their house shalbe visited with diuers punishmentes and plauges. O terrible saying. To much stony is hys harte, that trembleth not at the hearyng of these wordes. The Prophet Zachary also sayeth, I tur ned me, lifting vp myne eyes, and loked. And beholde a flying booke. And he sayd vnto me, what seest thou? I answered, I see a flying boke of xx. cubites long, and ten cubites brode. Than sayd he vnto me, this is the curse that goeth forth ouer the whole earth. For al theues shalbe iudged after this boke, and al swearers shalbe iudged according to the same. I wyll bryng it forth, sayeth the Lord of hostes, so that it shall come vpon the house of the these, and vpon the house of him that falsely sweareth by my name, and shall remayne in the myds of his house, and consume it wyth the tymber and stones therof. Zac.v.

what

What will ſwearers and blaſphemers of gods moſt holy name, laye vnto theſe wordes of the Prophete? Here may they ſee, that the terryble curſe of God is come abroade for all theues and ſwearers, ſo ꝑ it ſhall fall vpon their houſe, and conſume it with al that euer pertayne vnto it. Here maye they learne, that their iudgement is at hande, that their damnacion cannot be eſchewed, except they ſhortly repent, beleue and amend. For the boke of curſes flieth abrode. It is no lenger kept in ſecrete, and it ſhall vndoubtedly fal on the houſes of ſo many as vaynely ſweare. God can no lenger abide this abhominacion, it is ſo great, and grow vp into ſuch an height. Woo be vnto all ſwearers for their othes. For a dagger prycketh not ſo ſharpely, ſayeth Chriſoſtome, as the nature of an oth doth. A ſweard fleath not ſo cruelly, as the plague of an oth doth. For a ſwearer, although he ſemeth to liue, yet is he dead alredy, and hath receaued his deadly wound. And as he that taketh an halter before he goeth out of the Citie, and commeth vnto the place of execucion, and hath the Hangman folowing him, is dead, ſo ſone as he goeth out of the place of iudgement, ſo likewiſe is he that is a ſwearer. The oth is not ſo ſone come out of the mouth, but that the ſwearer is condemed ſtreight wayes vnto eternall damnacion.

Hom. xv.

What wyll theſe blaſphemers of gods moſte holy name ſaye to thys golden mouthed Doctor, which compareth al ſwearers to theues, and ſayeth that they are like vnto a theſe that is condemned vnto death, & wereth his halter ready to be hanged? Are not theſe ſwearers come now vnto a fayre promocion? They be lyke theues condemned to dye, ſayeth the holy Doctor Chriſoſtome. The iudge hath geuen ſentence. They be condemned. So that although they be yet free from ỹ plages of gods vengeaunce, as ỹ theſe is before he cõmeth vnto the gallowes, yet they may be as ſure not to eſcape them, as though they were nowe already in their neckes. And the longer their puniſhment is differred, the more greuous ſhal it be, whan it commeth. Many, I graunt, in this worlde are not puniſhed for their greate abhominable ſwearynge, yet haue there not wanted examples in our time, which haue aboundantly declared, howe greatly the ſyn of ſwearyng diſpleaſeth God. Their liue at thys day, which haue knowen certayne men to be greate ſweerers of whom ſome many yeares before they dyed, were greuouſly punyſhed with ſtraunge and innumerable diſeaſes, ſome by the ſtronge hande of God had their houſes, as the Prophet Zacharye ſayeth, conſumed wyth fyre, ſome loſt their ſpeache before they dyed, ſome certain dayes before they dyed, had ſuch an heate & brenning in their mouthes that by no meanes they could ſuffer to haue them ſpeared. Their tonge and al that euer was within their mouth, was ſo black as a cole. Were not al theſe manifeſt tokens of gods wrath and vengeaũce for taking his holy name in vayne? Woulde God they that were thus puniſhed, might be an example vnto vs for to leaue the wycked and vngodly cuſtome of ſwearyng. If we wyl not ceaſe, but ſtil prouoke God vnto anger,

☞ Swearers are lyke theues cõdemned to be hanged.

Examples of ſwearing punyſhed in our tyme.

Felix quem faciunt aliena pericula cautũ.

ger; surely we shall proue & seale those same plages, and much more greuous. And wolde god our paynes myghte cease in thys world, that we myght be free from euerlastyng damnacion. We al professe Christ, & cal our selues Christiās, why do we not thā those thinges, ỳ Christ cō- Iob. viii.
maundeth vs? Christ saith, he that is of God, heareth ỳ wordes of god. Iohn. x.
Agayn, my shepe heare my voyce. Also in another place, euery one ỳ is Ioan. xviii.
of ỳ trueth, hereth my voyce. If we therfore be of God, why do we not heare the wordes of God? If we be ỳ shepe of Christ, why do we not heare our shepherdes voyce? If we pertayne vnto Christ, which is the Ioan. xv.
selfe trueth, why do we not heare hys voice? Christ sayth, ye haue hard, Math. v.
ỳ it was sayd to them of ỳ old time, ỳ shalt not forswear thy selfe, but perfourme vnto the Lorde, that ỳ haste sworne. But I saye vnto you, swer not at al, neyther by heauen, for it is ỳ throne of God, neyther by earth for it is ỳ footestole of hys feete, nor by Hierusalem, for it is ỳ citie of the great king, nether shalt thou swear by thy head, because thou art not able to make one heare whyght or blacke. But let your communi- caciō be yea, yea naye, nay. For what so euer is more than that, cometh of euell. Here vnto agreeth S. James sayēg, before al thynges, o my bre- Iacob. v.
thren, loke ye sweare not nether by heuē, nor by earth, nor by any other ooth. Let your cōmunicaciō be yea, yea, naye, naye, ỳ ye fal not into dis- simulacion. Here ar we forbyddē to sweare by any thynge ỳ euer God made. If it be not lawful for vs to sweare by any thing that euer God made, thā is it not lawful for vs to swear by him ỳ made al thinges. If it be synne to sweare by ỳ creatures thā must it nedes be damnable to swear by ỳ creator. Why do we not remember these thinges, & leaue our great swearyng? It is a shame to se christen men lyue so contrarye to theyr profession. It shal be more tollerable to Tyrus and Sydon, to Math. ii.
Sodome & Gomorre at ỳ day of iudgemēt, than to vs, except we shor- Luke. xii.
tely repent, beleue & amend. For ỳ seruāt which knoweth hys masters wyll and doth it not, shall be beaten wt many strypes. Swearing hath euer bene counted a thing of so great absurdite, that ỳ very Ethnickes and Gentiles dydde deteste it, in so muche that a certaine Greke Poet wryteth on this manner, flye swearyng, although thine ooth be ryght & accordyng to the trueth. What a sayeng is this of an Infidel? Shall not he and such other ryse vp at the day of iudgement, & condemne vs, seyng they wer Infidelles, and we christen men? Our Lord be merci- ful vnto vs. All hunte after worldly promocions, and seake to lyue in pleasure and welth, but no man seaketh how to lede a godly & innocēt lyfe, how to leaue theyr swearyng, and to magnify the most glorious name of God. For we go forth styll to syn, as though there wer no pu- nishment ordined for it at al. We blaspheme ỳ name of god, as though he wer so chyldysh, that he woulde neuer caul vs vnto an accoūtes for our vngodly blasphemies. We teare Christ and al the partes of his most blissed body, as though he shuld neuer come vnto ỳ iudgemēt for to rewarde the good, & to condemne the euel. Christ sayth, that we shal

Our damnacion is greate.

Math.xii. gyue an accountes at ꝯ day of iudgement for euery ydle word, that we haue spoke, what is thā to be thought of our abhominable othes wher by God is so greatly dishonoured? What accoūtes shal we gyue of thē? How narowly shal we be examined of thē? What wyl we answer in this behalfe? What wyll we saye? what excuse wyll we make? I feare vnlesse we shal be redy our owne frees wyl, to runne hedlong into hell fyre, before ꝯ terrible sentence of damnacion be giuen, our conscience shal

Colos.iiii. so condēne vs. Lord holde thy holy hande ouer vs, & gyue vs grace to amende. S. Paule sayth, lette your speache be wel sauoured and pondered wyth salte, that ye may know how to answer euery man. What place hath thys commaundement of thapostle among them, whych to ponder theyr wordes, ꝯ there come nothyng out of theyr mouthes, but vayne othes & wicked blasphemies? The communicacio of these mi-

What salt signifyeth. nour lytle of salte, wherby is vnderstande the wysdom of Gods word, it is so fresh & vnsauerly. Yea wolde God these abhominable blasphemers of Gods most holy name, wer not extreme enemies to gods

Swearers are enemyes to gods word. word, chosyng rather to remayne dastardes styll in ꝯ folyshnesse of the worlde, than to become wyse & prudent in ꝯ wysdom of gods word. All swerers therfore are enemies both to god and to his word. A Christen man may not acquaynte hymselfe wyth such maners, nor so wickedly

Why ꝯ tonge was geuē vs abuse his tonge. For our tonge is giuen vs, not that we should sweare, lye, blaspheme, ieste, rayle, scoffe, mocke, & vse vngodly talke, but ꝯ we

Colos.iiii. shulde onely speake those thynges, which may both turne vnto ꝯ glory of god, & the healthe of our neyghbour. And this is it that S. Paule sayth let your speach be wel sauoured and pondered wyth salte. Our speche is wel sauoured, semely, honest & comely, whā there appeareth nothing

Mark wel. in it that may offende the eares of any true Christen man, but is agreable in al poyntes to godlines and honesty. It is pondered wyth salte, when it vttreth those thynges, which are godly, wyse, and edifyeth many as are the hearers of it. Let al swerers marke thys, and amende

Math.v. Ephe.iiii. theyr communicacion, lest they be that vnsauerly salte, whych shall be caste out and troden vnder fote. Agayn he sayth, lette no fylthye communicacion procede out of your mouthes, but that which is good to edify wyth all, whan nede is, that it may haue fauour with the hearers. If no fylthy cōmunicacion ought to procede out of our mouthes, much lesse ought any vayn othes, vngodly swearynges, blasphemes &c. come forth out of them. If our wordes ought to be good to edify wyth all, than ought they not to be such as should destroy both our selues and ꝯ

Ephe.v. hearers, which many tymes chaunseth through wicked othes. Let not whoredom, sayth he, & al a vnclennes or couetousnes, or fylthynes, or folyshe talkyng, or iestyng be once named amōg you, as is becometh sayntes, but rather thankes gyuyng. If these thynges may not once be named amōg vs, surely much lesse, yea a M. times much lesse ought othes, swearynges & blasphemies of Gods most holy name be named amōg vs and heard in our dayely speache. If the wrath & vengeance of God

of God be wonte to faull vpon the chyldren of vnbeleue for theſe thyn-ges aforeſayd, as S. Paule teſtifyeth, certenly let all ſweares be certenly aſſured that they ſhall not eſcape the plages of Gods vengeaũce, and theyr dammacion ſhal be ẏ more greuous, for aſmuch as they pro-feſſe godlines, and lyue nothyng accordyng therunto. What are they any other, than blaſphemous mockers of God? They ſaie ẏ they know God, but with theyr dedes they denye hym, ſeyng they are become ab- Tit. i.
hominable and diſobediente, and euell mynded vnto all good workes, as S. Paule writeth. They ar welles wythout water, cloudes caried ii. Pet. ii.
about of a tempeſt, to whom ẏ myſt of darckeneſſe is reſerued for euer.
They ar trees without frute at gatheryng tyme, twiſe dead & plucked vp by the rotes. They are the ragyng waues of the ſea fomyng oute Iudas Epiſtle.
theyr owne ſhame. Howe can they than eſcape the vengeaunce of god?
The Sodomites & Gomorriãs ſinned agaynſt nature, & therfore wer they conſumed wyth fyre & brymeſtonne frõ heauen, ẏ ſweares ſynne Ge. xviii.
agaynſt the God & maker of nature, & is it to be thought, that they ſhal eſcape vnpunyſhed? If ſuche as commit the leſſeſt ſinne, be punyſhed, howe can they than eſcape, which offende in the greateſt? They may be ſure, if they do not amend, not only to be plaged with fyre & brymeſtone, but alſo to ſuffer al other kyndes of intollerable paynes, yea and that in hell, wher is no redẽcion nor marcy to be had. The Lord, ſayth Pſal. xi.
Dauid, ſeeth both ẏ righteous and vngodly, but who ſo delyghteth in wickednes, him his ſoule abhorreth. Vpon the vngodly he ſhal reygne ſnares, fire, brymeſtome, ſtorme & tempeſt, this reward ſhal they haue to drinke. For ẏ Lord is righteous and he loueth righteouſnes his coũ tenaunce beholdeth the thyng that is iuſte. Agayn he ſayth, God is a Pſal. vii.
ryghteous Judge, and God is euer threatenyng, If mẽ wyl not turne he hath whet his ſwearde, he hath bent his bow, and made it redy. He hath prepared him the weapõs of death, & ordeined his arrowes to de ſtroye. We rede in ẏ forth boke of Moſes, that whan ẏ childrẽ of Iſrael wer in the wyldernes, they found a man gatherynge ſtyckes vpon the Num. xv.
Sabboth day. And they that found hym gatheryng ſtyckes brought him vnto Moſes & Aaron & vnto al ẏ congregacion, & they put him in ward. For it was not declared, what ſhoulde be done vnto hym. And ẏ Lord ſayth vnto Moſes, the mãne ſhal dye. Let al ẏ multitude ſtone hym with ſtones without the hoſt. And al the multitude brought hym wythout the hoſt, & ſtoned hym wt ſtones and he dyed, as the Lord cõmaunded Moſes. If the man that gathered ſtyckes vpon the Saboth day for tranſgreſſyng that cõmaundement, whych not wythſtandyng was but a ceremonial law ſeruyng but for a tyme, and a fygure of our ſpiritual quietnes and reaſt, which we ought to haue cõtinuall in our conſciences toward God, which precepte alſo is now abolyſhed, & ſtõd in none effect (ſo that we ar Lordes of the Sabboth day, and may appointe what day it ſhal pleaſe the head rulers to ceaſe from labour, that we may the more cõuenientli come togyther vnto the tẽple for to pray, to heare the holy worde of God, to ſe the bleſſed Sacramentes miniſtred.&c.) Ifthe man that gathered ſtyckes, I ſaye, vpõ the Sabboth day was ſtoned vnto death by the commaundement of God for tranſgreſſyng that precepte, how may theſe ſwearers than perſuade themſelues that they ſhal eſcape vnponiſhed, although they ſweare & abuſe God and all hys creatures by theyr vnlawfull othes? The other precepte was ceremonial, & is now of no ſtrengthe, but this commaundement is moral and abydeth ſtyll in perfecte ſtrengthe, and ſo ſhall do ſo longe as the worlde ſtandeth. ſhal ỹ trangreſſiõ of this than eſcape vnponyſhed? The other was punyſhed by death, and ſhal this eſcape free & wythout punyſhment? Let the wicked worldlynges laugh at the matter ſo much as they lyſt, there lyueth a god, agaynſt whom the offence is cõmitted, which wyl not ſuffer ỹ blaſphemies of his holy name and of hys creatures to eſcape vnpuniſhed. And well wer it wyth theſe abhominable ſwearers, which go forth in theyr wyckednes & wyl not amẽd, if in this worlde they myght be conſumed with fyre & brimeſtone from heauen, as ỹ ſodomites wer, or ſtoned vnto death, as ỹ tranſgreſſour of ỹ Sabboth day was, ſo that theyr plages and paines might on this manner ende, & they afterward enioye euerlaſtyng lyfe. But it is to be feared, that after this life they ſhal feale more greuous tormẽtes, than euer ỹ Sodomites dyd ether ſuffer in this worlde, or wher they be now God be mercifull vnto them, & gyue them grace to amend

The Jewes at thys day according to theyr olde wont, wyl teare there garmentes, whan they heare Gods bleſſed name blaſphemed, for the drede of Gods feerce wrath that is ſtyred vp there by. But who among vs Chriſten, ſheweth him ſelfe by any meanes, to be diſpleaſed there with al, in whom ought to be the loue, feare & dreade of God ſo wel as in ỹ Jewes.

Hytherto haue we heard de how greuous an offence it is before God for to ſweare, & to take his moſt bleſſed name in vaine, or to abuſe anye of his creatures by vaine & vnlawful othes. We haue heard alſo, how God wyl not ſuffer by any meanes them to eſcape vnpuniſhed ỹ wyckedly ſweare & breake this godly commaundement.

Of periury.

Now ſeyng that God wyl ſo ſharpely poniſh them that take hys name in vayne, or feare not to ſweare for euery lytle trifle by hym or by hys creatures, what is thãto be ſaid of periury? what is to be thought of them, whych both falſely and wyllyngely forſweare them ſelues? Into how great ponyſhment ſhall they faull, whych feare nothyng at all to ſweare in a falſe matter vpon the holy Euangely that moſt bleſſed worde of euerlaſtyng trueth, yea & to call God and al his holy ſaintes to be wytneſſes in that behalfe? In how troublous and ragyng ſea ſayle theſe wretches and miſerable captiues? what intollerable plages abyde them? what fearſe punyſhmentes & cruel tormentes ar prepared for them? How is it poſſible, that they may eſcape the moſt extreme vengeaunce of God? Not only to ſweare, but alſo falſely to ſweare? Not only falſely to ſweare, but alſo to ſweare vpõ the holy Euangely? Not onely to ſweare vpon the holy Euangely, but alſo to caul God and all hys holy ſayntes to be witneſſes, yea & that in a wrong matter? O deteſtable abhomination. O wickednes, more than can be expreſſed. O ſhameful ſyn worthy al kind of punyſhmẽt. O ineõparable vice worthe to be reuenged not with papers wearyng only, but wyth ỹ moſt bytter

ters intollerable paynes, that are prepared in hell for Satan and hys ministers. Thou ſhalt not forſweare thy ſelfe, ſayth ỳ ſcripture. It is not lawful for vs bayuly to ſweare ſhal, we than preſume fallly to forſweare our ſelues? Although the company of them, which ſuffer them ſelues to be periured I truſt, be not to be compared in nomber vnto ỳ multitude of thẽ ỳ be ỳ cuſtomable ſweares, yet wãt there not at thys day, which are gylty of that faute, & woulde God it wer not ſo in Englond. What is to be ſayd of thoſe men, which for a lytle trifle wyll forſweare them ſelues, & gyue their ſoules frõ god to ỳ dyuel? How miſerable again ar they, which although they know ỳ matter to be wrõ, wyll for a lytle mony or for fauour of the party wyllyngly take an othe vpõ a boke, & fallly forſweare them ſelues cõtrary to theyr own conſcience? Are not there, thinke you, in ỳ world, which for couetouſnes of tẽporal poſſeſſions make clayme to other mens landes, forge falſe euidẽce, inuent wrong titles, and bryng in falſe witneſſes wyth them to ſweare vpon a boke, ỳ al is trueth, whan they know ỳ contrary, and theyr cõſcience condemneth thẽ for ſo ſwearing? What abhominable wretches are al theſe? What periured caytiffes may theſe be counted? What punyſhmente can be inuented ſufficiently great for theyr deteſtable wyckednes. Thus by theyr periury and falſe wytnes is the true owner deceaued of hys ryght, depryued of his goods caſte into pouerte, made a wretche, & thrown into ſuche miſery, that nether he, nor his wyfe, nor yet his children ar able to lyue, but many times peryſh for honger. O wretched creatures. O inſatiable wolffes, whyle they haue reſpecte only vnto their couetous affectiõ, & labour to ſatiſfy that, they neglecte & deſpyſe both ỳ helth of theyr own ſoules, and ỳ wealth of theyr neygh bour. What for all that? Yet by this meanes haue they obtayned theyr purpoſe, and ſet the other beggarly fellow beſides the ſadle. Now they are menne of fayre londes. They ar Gentle menner fellowes. They ar able to lyue wythoute theyr dame. They ſhal beare a rule in ỳ coũtrey. & be counted among ỳ moſt honeſt men of ỳ Paryſhe. They ſhall haue now, wherof to lyue at theyr hartes eaſe, ſo lõge as they liue. And whã they dye, they ſhal leaue theyr heyres ſuche lyuynges, that ỳ beſt Gẽtlemen in al the coũtrey ſhal be glad to marry theyr doughters vnto thẽ.

Are not theſe great cõmodities? who woulde want theſe pleaſures, & may haue them by one means or other? O miſerable wretches, whych for a lytle eaſy lyuynge, & that they may leaue theyr chyldren wealthy behynde them, feare nothyng at all to caſt theyr ſoules into hell fyre. What doth it profyt a man to wyn all the whole world, and at ỳ laſte to loſe hys ſoule. To much a wretch is he, which for worldly poſſeſſions wyll putte hys ſoule in daunger: To farre eſtraũged is he from God, which regardeth the goods of thys worlde more than hys own ſoules health. And what commoditie ſhal he haue by thoſe goods wrongfully gotten, whych he hath leafte vnto hys ſonne, whan hys ſoule lyghethe brennyng in hel fyre, and greuouſly ponyſhed wyth al kynde of cruel & who ſo ſweareth by god, ỳ is ỳ truth & righteouſnes & taketh hym to wytnes to maintayne hys lyeng diſceate, & vnrighteouſnes he is a periured, lyghte, & ſuche one, ỳ lytle regardeth goddes truth, & hys commaundementes.

El Parck wel.

A compariſon betwene the father and the ſonne.

intollerable paynes. The ſon is counted a Gentleman before the worlde for the goods ſake, the father is reken̄ed before God and his holy Aungelles a fyre bronde of hel. The ſonne is Lord of many poſſeſſions, the father is a wretch & hath nothyng. The ſōne is replenyſhed wyth deynties, ioye and pleaſures, the father is fylled ful of bitter ſorowes greuous paynes and intollerable tormentes. The ſonne ſyngeth, playeth, daunceth and maketh mery, the father weapeth, lamēteth, ſoroweth, and wyſheth hymſelfe neuer to haue ben borne. Beholde what is the ende of euel gottē goods. Behold how Dame Periury rewardeth her ſeruauntes at ẏ latter ende. Behold vnto what poynt falſhod bringeth them, that vſe it. Why do not men remember theſe thynges, & labour to lyue iuſtly, ryghteouſly & of theyr owne? Godlyneſſe is great ritches, ſayth ſ. Paule, if a man be content wyth that he hath. Oh that mē would once be wiſe, and remember theyr latter ende. Ho would they not vſe about to get the goods of this wretched world by hoke or by croke, as they do now a daies, but rather lay vp treaſures for them ſelues in heuen, where nether ruſt nor mouthes corrupte, & where theues nether breke vp not ſteale. Treaſures that ar wickedly gottē profyt nothing but ryghteouſnes delyuered frō death, ſaith Salomō. Let not therfore thoſe mē thincke, which ſo gredely gather togither ẏ goods of ẏ world, yea & that vnryghteouſly, ẏ thoſe poſſeſſions can longe endure in theyr ſtocke, kinred & lynage. For we haue both hearde and ſene, that goods wrōgfully gottē be ſone diſperſed abrode & come to nought. Is not this a cōmon ſayeng among vs? Euel gottē goods wil neuer come to good profe. Agayn ẏ goods, which ar wrongefully gotten, ẏ thyrd heyr ſhall ſcarſely enioye. The Latiniſtes alſo ſaye. Male partū peius perit. A thing ẏ is euell gottē, neuer thryueth, but ẏ ſpendyng of it is worſe, than the gettyng was. The Poet Claudianus haue very goodly verſes pertayning vnto this our matter, whych I wyll here nowe reherſe.

Claudianus in Curetium.

In prolem delata ruunt periuria patris.
Et pœnam merito filius ore luit.
Et quas fallacis collegit lingua parentis.
Has eadem nati lingua refudit opes.

That is to ſaye, the periuries of the father eſcapyng punishmēt in thys worlde, faull vpon the ſonne in ſo much that the ſonne is plaged in that the father hath offended. And loke what ryches the tonge of the deceatfull father hath gathered togyther, euen the very ſame hath the tonge of the ſonne payde hom agayn and waſtfully ſpent. The Greke

Heſiodus.

Poet Heſiodus alſo ſayth, that that man whych wrongly teſtifyeth and falſly forſweareth hymſelfe, doth not only hurte Juſtice, but ẏ himſelfe alſo is ſo hurte, ẏ he cā neuer be healed after. Moreouer he ſayth that all hys poſterite and children ſhall be of the leſſe reputation euer after, ſo that they ſhall lyue in ignominy, & theyr renowm ſhal be obſcure, darke and of no price before al men. Who now therfore is ſo mad as falſely to forſweare him ſelf for a litle dungelyke mucke, ſeyng that by this meanes he shal not only prouoke gods wrath vnto himself, cõdẽne hys own soule, cast himself into euerlastyng damnacion, but also procure plages for his chyldren that succede him? Oh that men would once be wyse, and learne this lesso of S. Paule and folow it, hauing meate, dryncke, and cloth, let vs be contented. For we brought nothyng into ỳ worlde, nether shal we cary any thyng out of it. Feare not, O my sonne sayd Thobias, we liue a poore lyfe in this worlde, notwithstanding we shal haue many good thinges, if we feare God, and go awaye from all syn and do wel. But would God, would God that Lady Periury dyd exercyse her vnmerciful and tyrannical cruelnes onely in gettinge and scratchyng vp together falsely and contrary to al iustice ỳ goods of this worlde. Would God, would God, she dyd not also through her vntighteous violence and churlish malice thirst, shede, & sucke vp innocẽt bloud. Would God that through her false witnes bearyng, true men were not put vnto death causeles. Hath it not bene heard, yea knowen and sene, thinke you, that of very malice, and through the periuries of false forsworne raytiffes, which haue taken an oth and testified contrary to the trueth, and geuen false euidence at lyses, sessions or els where, many mẽ both honest and true haue bene hanged, or otherwyse tyd out of ỳ way yea and that without a cause, as it hath ben proued afterward? Some also haue bene condemned for heretykes, and also burnt, for speakyng agaynst Antichrist and Idolatry. &c. What wil men say vnto this? Is not thys a thyng worthy to be lamented? Would not here be a redresse in thys behalfe? Deserueth this malicious periury to be winked at, and not rather to bee punished according to the desertes therof? Awake, awake, ye Questmongers, and take hede you geue a true, iust and ryght verdit. Remember that ye go vpon lyfe and death, and therfore oughte ye to do nothing rashly. Remember that it is not the bloud of an oxe or a calfe that shalbe shed, but the bloud of a Christen man, for whose lyfe and healthe our Lord and Sauioure Iesus Christ dyd suffer his moste precious bloud to be shed, and in whose hart the holy goste dwelleth. Remember that he is the Image of God, which hath his life put into your handes ether to be saued, or to be cast away. Remember that if ye defile the Temple of God, and handle a Christen man otherwyse, than right require, surely God wyl destroy you. The bloud of that innocent, whõ ye so cruelly haue murthered, shal cry for vengeaunce agaynst you both day and nighte, as the bloud of Abel dyd vpon Caym, and neuer cease vntyl God hath taken vengeaunce on you. Remember that with what measure ye mete to other with the same shal it be measured againe vnto you. Therfore take ye hede. Be not rashe nor hasty in geuinge youre verdit. Be prudente, wyse and circumspecte. Ponder all thyngs with a ryghte vp conscience. Weighe the matter in the balaunce of iustice. Marke all partyes. Beleue not euery lyghte tale streyghte wayes, but boulte oute wyth all diligence the originall of it. Let nother the ryches, nor the fame, nor the dygnyte, nor yet the gyftes of that man,

i. Tim. vi.
Iob. i.
Tobi. iiii.
Periurie thirsteth innocẽt bloud.
True men ar sometime hanged.
An admonicion for questmongers.
i. cor. iii.
Gene. ii.
Gene. iiii.
i. Iohn. iii.
Math. vii.
Luke. vi.

which putteth in the inditement agaynst another, moue you any thyng at al to geue the more credence vnto his woords, and by that meanes to cast away the party accused, vntill ye haue throughly bouted oute the trueth of the matter. Shewe suche indifferency, y ye may not be found at the dredeful day of iudgement guilty of the shedyng of any ryghteous blood, but blameles and with a pure conscience.

An admonicion for iudges.

Ye iudges also execute your office accordyng to equite. Suffer not the comforties to be oppressed. Let iustice conioyned with a fatherly pitie and tender compassion reigne in your breastes. Suffer no matter of vnryghteousnes to prenayle before the seate of your iudgyng place. Remember that while ye sit in iudgement, ye ar no priuate persons. Ye re present the person of God. Ye execute gods office. Ye are the Image of God. Yea ye are gods and the sonnes of the most highest, as the Scripture calleth you. Your iudging place is the iudging place of god. Your mouth is the mouth of God. Beware therfore what sentence ye pronounce. Let al things be done with great deliberacion. Geue not iudgement so hastely, that ye shal afterwarde repent you therof. Remember that as ye iudge, so shall ye be iudged. God hath set you in authorite, y ye should ryghteously iudge of all thynges. Remember that God hath geuen you two eares, one to heare the accuser, & another to heare hym that is accused, that by thys meanes ye should not be pertial nor wedded to one tale, but indifferently to heare both partyes. Remēber that for asmuch as ye occupy the place of God, ye ought not to peruert iudgment, but to do the office of God, and to execute iustice, leaste the hygh Iudge for your vnrighteous sentence pronounced condemne you and cast you into hell fyre. For God, sayeth the Scripture, shall appeare to you, O ye rulers and iudges, very dreadfully, yea & that without any long tariaunce. Wonderful harde iudgement shal they haue, that beare rule. To the man of small power mercy is grauted, but as for the mighty, they shal suffer mighty and exceading great tormentes. For GOD which is ruler of all thinges, wil not regarde one person more than another, nether wil he feare the greatnes of any man, for he made both litil and the great, & he hath a lyke care for al. Notwythstandyng surely the men that be in authorite, shal haue the greater punishment. Therfore ye that iudge the earth, take hede, loue ryghteousnes. Iudge truly O ye sonnes of men. Seke al meanes possible, that no innocent blonde be shed. Admit no false witnesses, none vnlawful othes, no false surrynges, no malicious periuries to be brought and receaued before your iudging place, which is the seate of God, so long as ye iudge truly, and do your office accordyng to equite. When any matter is brought before you, first weigh, ponder and consider it your selfe diligently, and afterwarde deliuer it to the Queste mongers accordyng to the course of the lawe, and exhorte them in the name of God Christenly, charitably, fridely, righteously, indifferently, & with a single eye and incorrupte conscyence to loke vpon the matter, and to deale so vpryghtly in that behalfe Wisdom vi.

Deut. x. ii. Para. xix. Iob. xxxiiii. Eccle. xxxv. Rom. ii. Gala. ii. Ephe. vi. colloss. iii Actes. x. i. Peter. i. Sapi. i. Psal. lvii.

How iudges shall behaue themselues when any matter is brought before them.

and

and to geue so true and iust verdit, euen as though it should be presēted and offred vp to the high and euerlasting Iudge Christ. Declare vnto them how great an offence it is before God to geue vp a false verdit, & by that meanes to haue innocent bloud shed and their own soules condemned. Let the Questmongers haue conuenient leasure to debate the matter among themselues soberly, discretely and prudentlye, and so after much consultacion and long deliberacion geue an aunswere accordyng to trueth and iustice. And let such as shalbe vpon the quest, be honest men, sober, sage, faithful, wise, discret, prudent, godli, merciful, righteous, louing indifferente, pitifull, brotherlyke, and euen suche as feare God, loue his worde, haue knowledge in hys holy lawe, walke with a right vp conscience both before God and man, and haue alway bene of good report and honest fame among their neighboures. This vndoubtedly, (al things handled accordyng to equite and iustice) shal not onely mayntayne true and righteous iudgement, but also make greatly vnto the preseruacion of innocent bloud, so that God the high Iudge shall highly be glorified in all our iudicial affaires. But let vs procede with our matter. Not onely these aforesayd are periured persōs, which falsely forsweare themselues, and testify in vniust and wrong matters, but also so many as haue taken them iust and lawfull othes, and by them prompted to do some righteous and godly thyng, and yet leaue it vndone, and worke contrary to theyr godly promyse. As for an example, the Magistrates and head officers of the publique weale promise with a solemne oth to do al thyngs accordyng to equite and iustice, and to accepte no person in iudgemente, but to do all things vpryghtly, to mayntayne the good, and to punish the euil, to exalte vertue and to suppresse vice, now if they contrary to their oth worke vnryghteousnes, oppresse the socourlesse, iudge for fauoure, condemne the good, saue the euil, persecute the fauourers of gods, word mayntayne the Papystes, neglecte vertue, vpholde vice, &c. so ar they falsely forsworne, and shal not escape the plage of periury. The Bishops and Pryestes promise faythfully to be earnest Preachers and setters forth of gods word, and to liue accordyng vnto the same, now if they do the contrary, that is to say, not laboure in the haruest of the Lordes word, nor lede an honest and vertuous lyfe vnto the good example of other but seke after worldly promocyons, lyue ydelly vpon theyr benefyces, walowe in all bestiall plesures tumble themselues in al kinde of syn, hate them that are Preachers of gods worde, dryue men from readyng the holy Byble, so are they falsely forsworne, and shal not escape the plage of periury. The man & wife, haue promysed fayth and trouth betwene them, that they wyl be iuste, and true one to another, the man to loue his wyfe as hymselfe, and to holde hym contented wyth her, the woman reuerētly to feare and obey her husbande, now if they breake this promyse, so that one delighteth not in another, but eche of them seke after straunge fleshe, so ar they falsly forsworne, and shall not escape the plage of periury.

What men Questmongers ought to be.

Magistrates

Bishops & Pryestes.

Maried folk

All

Subiectes.

All Subiectes haue promised to their rulers vnfayned obedience and willing seruise, now if contrary to their promise they resist the hygh powers, become disobedient, and repugne agaynst them, so are they falsely forsworne, and shall not escape the plage of periury. All these heretofore rehearsed are gilty of the sin of periury, if they do contrarye to the oth, which they haue made, and therfore may they be sure to receaue a reward worthy theyr blasphemous tonges. Some man wil say peraduenture, are al othes to be obserued? Shall a man fall into the synne of periury, if he performeth not, what soeuer he hath promised? I answere nay, not so. God forbid, that all othes promised and vowes shuld be performed. For many are folish, wicked and vngodly. Therefore as such displease God, so ought they to be broken. These are they whyche fyght agaynst gods word, which also snarle the consciences of so many as kepe them, and make them that accomplyshe them to commit impiete and wyckednes. These by no meanes are to be kept of any Christen man, except he wil offende God greuously by the obseruaunce of them. For an vnfaythfull and folishe promyse, sayeth Salomon, displeaseth God. In euil promyses breake thy fayth, sayeth Isidorus, in a fylthye vow, chaunge the determinacion. That thou hast vowed vnaduisedly, loke thou do it not. For that is a wicked promyse, which is fulfilled in synne. Agayne he sayeth if any man doth rashely determyne to do any of those thynges that please not God, let him be sory for it, and seyng that his determinacion was done contrary to the cõmaundement of god, let it be called backe againe, and stande in none effecte. S. Jerome also sayeth, thou shalt do better, O brother, if thou dost abstayne from the vngodly acte, than if thou dost stiffely performe folish wordes & perillous vowes. Hereto agreeth the saying of S. Austen, it is a point of great wisedome for a man to call that agayne, which he hath euell spoken. S. Ambrose also sayeth, It is agaynst all godly honesty many times to performe the oth that is made, as Herode, which sware that he wold geue to the doughter of Herodias, what soeuer she would aske. He therefore slue John, because he would not deny hys promise. In concilio Toletano it was decreed, that it is better not to fulfil the vowes of a folyshe promyse, than by the obseruaunce of them to commit any wyckednes. That oth, promise or vowe therfore, which displeaseth God, repugneth the diuine verite, fyght agaynst the Lordes worde, prouoketh vnto sin, condemneth the consience of the keper, and cannot be performed without wickednes, ought by no meanes to be obserued & kept, but rather a thing much daungerous and hurtefull both to the body and soule.

A demaund whether al othes, promises and vowes ar to be performed.

What othes promises & vowes ought to be broken.

Eccle. v.

In Sinonimis lib. ii. ca. xxii

Queſt. iiii. can In malis.

Ibidem.

Lib. aduersus Iouinianum.

Queſt. iiii. can magne. De. offic. Lib. i.

Queſt. iiii. Can. Eſt etiã.

Marke wel.

Queſt. iiii. eã. Sipublicis.

Iudith. xi.

Suche an oth, promyse, or vowe made Jepte, that if God would deliuer the children of Ammon into his hands, whan he came home again in peace, what soeuer thyng commeth fyrst out of hys dores, should be the Lordes, and he would offer it vp for a burnte offeryng. It hys returne it fortuned that hys doughter beyng hys onely chylde came out agaynst hym wyth timberels and daunces.

whan

whan he saw her, he was much amased and greatly sorowful because of his vow that he had made to God. Notwithstandinge he sayed, I haue opened my mouth vnto the Lord, and cannot go backe. So that to fulfil his folish and wicked vow he committed the greuous synne of manslaughter, and cruelly slue his owen daughter contrary to the law of God, whan it had ben better and much more godly to haue broke his folish vow, and to haue kept his handes cleane from the bloud of hys daughter, and to haue geuen God right harty thankes for the victorye that he had gotten ouer his enemies. For it is the sacrifice of praise that honoureth God. The calues of our lippes are acceptable sacrifice and welcome vnto God, I meane thankes geuing. For he delighteth not in the slaughter of any creature, but rather willeth, that they shuld liue vnto that vse and end for the which they wer made. God the father by the Psalmograph sayeth, heare, O my people, let me speake, let me testifye among you, O Israel: I am God, yea I am euen thy God. I will not reproue thee because of thy sacrifices, thy burnt offerynges ar al way in my sight. I wil take no bullockes out of thy house, nor goates out of thy feldes. For al the beastes of the felde ar myne, and thousades of catel vpon the hils I know al the foules vpon the mountaines, and the wilde beastes of the felde ar in my syght. If I be hongry I will not tel the, for the whole worlde is mine and al that therin is. Thinkest thou that I wil eate the flesh of oxen, or drynke the bloud of gotes? Offer vnto God the sacrifice of praise, and pay thy vowes vnto the most highest. And cal vpon me in the tyme of trouble, so wil I heare thee, that thou shalt thanke me. The Psalmograph himselfe also sayth, In me, O god, are thy vowes, which I shal pay vnto thee, euen very harrye prayses & thankes geuyng. He calleth the vowes, that we should offer vnto god for his benefites, prayses and thankes geuing, and not the killyng and offring vp of our children, or the perfourming of such folish and wicked vowes which cannot be perfourmed wythout syn and vngodlynes. Herode also made a promyse to the daughter of Herodias, whan she daunced and salied so pleasantly before him and his Lordes at a certain banket, that he would geue her, what soeuer she would aske euen vnto the haulf of his kingdome. She by the counsel of her wicked mother asked the head of John Baptist. So that the kyng, because he woulde not goe backe of his worde, suffered the holy Prophet of God to be slayne, and no cause why, but onely that he thought it would not stande with his honor and royal dignite to breake his promyse. Ah folyshe vowe and more folyshe kyng. Ah wicked promyse and more wycked kyng. Better had it bene for hym a thousande tymes to haue gone backe of his worde, to haue broken his wicked vow and to haue lost al his royall dygnyte, than so vertuous a man should haue been slayn. Wo be to all those vowes and promyses, which are not fulfilled without sin and wickednes. Agayne we reade in the actes of the Apostles, that there were mo than fourty me, which had cõspired against Paul, and made a solẽne vow, an

God detesteth thankes geuing and not bloudy sacrifices.

Psal. l. Heb. xiii.

Psal. xlix.

Psal. lv.

Vowes after tymes in the Scripture are take for prayses and thankes geuing.

Math. xiiii. Marke. vi. Luke. ix.

earnest

earneſt pꝛomiſe, and a foule deuout oth, that they woulde neyther eate Act. xxiii. noꝛ dꝛynke, vntil they had ſlayn Paule. Foꝛ we are ready, ſaye they, to kil him, beſoꝛe he come nigh vnto vs by a mile. Here was a whot hyeꝛ-
A whot zele in dede but not accoꝛdig to knowledge. ning zele. They thought euery houre a thouſande yere, til they myght mete with holy Apoſtle, and ſhed his bloud, they wer ſo loth to be ſkan Double in their woꝛdes, and ſo ſoꝛy that he ſhould teach any moꝛe ſuche newe learnyng and late ſpꝛong vp herely vnto the great confuſyon of their holy Synagoge, and the bitter ſhame of the foule deuout fatheꝛs Phariſes, Scribes, Lawers, biſhops, pꝛeſtes, rulers of the Temple, eldeꝛs of the people &c. To pꝛeuent theſe high inconueniences and to ſuppꝛeſſe the great enoꝛmities newly reiſed vp by the meanes of Paules doctrine, ye wil not eaſely beleue, what paines theſe good men toke.
They could not reſt nether night noꝛ day. As foꝛ meate dꝛynk and ſlepe Iohn. xvi. was gone with them. Be mery at their hartes they could neuer vntyl they had ſlain Paule the great Heretyke, that teacher of new learning that bꝛynger in of new lawes that deſtroyer of all the old laudable cuſtomes, that troubler of the common peace, that ſoweꝛ of diſcoꝛde, that peruertour of the holy olde religion, that enemy of all good deuocō &c.
Theꝛfoꝛe made they a ſolemne vow, in good tyme myght it be ſpoken, that they would taſt nothyng, no not ſo much as a pooꝛe alebery for the comfoꝛt of their hart, vntil they had ſlayn Paule, in ſomuch ỹ they wer gone ſo faꝛ in dede, that they had ratheꝛ ſlea Paul, and caſt their ſoules into hel fyꝛe foꝛ doing ỹ miſcheuous acte, than they would once bꝛeake their vow. Foꝛ they iudged by this meanes to do God an high Sacrifice. Surely I thinke that if the poꝛke of Rome had at that tyme ben reygning, and in his ful power ſcaulled, they would ſcaſely haue beliued that he had ben able to diſpenſe with their vow, it was ſo ſolem, ſo uent, and ſpꝛong out of the hart rote. Is it not to be thought, that they Dignum pa. della operculiū. wer whot in their matters, whā they could not kepe their miſcheuous pꝛetence ſecrete, but came vnto the thiefe Pꝛyeſtes and elders, as co-uers woꝛthy ſuch cuppes, and goſtly fathers fyt foꝛ ſuch a confeſſyon, & tolde them that they had bounde themſelues with a vowe, that they might eate nothing vntil they had ſlayn Paule? Had it not been great pitie, thinke you, that theſe men ſhould haue dyed foꝛ honger, ſeing they faſted foꝛ ſo good a purpoſe? O holy votoꝛies. I maruel how they could euer pacifye their conſciences afteꝛwaꝛde, ſeyng they made ſo ſolemne a vowe, and yet bꝛake it. Foꝛ they neuer ſlue Paule, ſo mightie a Lord is God to defende his ſeruauntes from the cruel handes of bloudye tyꝛ-rauntes. But the holy religious men are to bee holden excuſed, foꝛ as much as their wyl was good, although they could not bꝛyng it to paſſe.
Voluntas reputatur pro facto. There will was taken foꝛ the very act.
So that beſoꝛe the woꝛld they were counted godly perſons, becauſe they had a mind to pay their vowes, and did the beſt that in them was to perfoꝛme their pꝛomiſe ſo ſolemnely made and take, and beſoꝛe God were they recounted malicious and cruell bloudy manſlearꝛs. Nam voluntas

luntas reputatur pro facto. Now in all suche folysh, wicked and vngodly vowes, othes and promises ought there to be no fayth kepte, seyng the ende of them tende vnto a noughty purpose, and playne wyckednes, as holy Beda testifieth. If it shall chaunse, sayth he, at any tyme ỳ we sweare or promyse any thynge vnaduisedly, whych beyng kepte shuld turne vnto an euell ende, let vs know that that is more wholesome councel ought to be chaunged frely and wythout any scruple of conscience, & whan necessite doth cõpel vs, we ought rather to forswere our selues than for the eschewing of periury, we shoulde fal into any other more greuous sinne. For Dauid did sweare by God that he wold slea Nabali a folysh and vngodly man & destroye all that euer pertayned vnto hym, yet at the fyrst intercession of Abigail beyng a wyse woman, he streyght wayes let go his threates, put agayn the sweard into the scabbarde, nether followed he any thyng at all, as though he had committed any faute at all for such periury. Here vnto pertayneth the sayeng of S. Ambrose, that Dauid dyd not fulfyll hys oth by the sheddyng of bloud, it was the greater godlynes. I se that Dauid beyng a godly and holy man dyd fall into rash swearyng, and yet that he had rather not to do that he had sworne than to fulfyll hys oth by the sheddyng of mannes bloud. S. Jerome sayth, that an oth ought to haue thre compagniõs, trueth, iudgement & righteousnes. Where these wãt, sayth he, it is no othe, but playne periury. Therfore the oth, promise or bowe, that is not grounded on trueth, iudgement, and ryghteousnes, ought to be broken. It is grounded on trueth, whan it is agreable to Goddes word, which is the selfe trueth. It is grounded on iudgemẽt, whan it is not rashely, folyshly and childyshly made, but aduisedly and wyth hygh prudence and great deliberacion. It is groũded on righteousnes, whan there shall ryse vp no euell of it, neyther vnto our selues nor vnto our neyghbours. Al othes and promises thus takẽ and made ought to be obserued & kepte, but otherwyse to be broken, refused and caste awaye without any scruple of conscience or veracion & trouble of mynde. For this sentence of the preacher abydeth alwaye true. An vnfaythfull and folysh promyse displeaseth God.

Homel. xl v. Quest. iiii. Can. Si alius quid.

1. Reg. xv.

De offic. Lib. i.

In Hieremiã.

An othe ought to haue thre cõpagnions.

Mark wel.

Eccl. v.

Thus perceaue we, what othes, promises or bowes, ought to be obserued, and whych they are ỳ shuld be reiected. So that al godly othes and promises ought to be obserued. They that do not labour to fulfyll them, forsweare them selues, & shall not escape the plage of periury.

Now wyl I returne thyther, from whens I made digression. God in the olde lawe amonge the grosse Jues coulde not abyde a false witnes, but commaunded ỳ he shulde dye the death. If he can not abyde a false witnes, whych may testify wout an oth, how than can he abyde thẽ, which do not only here false witnesse, but also in the confirmacion therof addeth an othe, yea and that a false oth, and maketh God to be a wytnes in an vniust & wronge matter, so that by this means ỳ wretche is wyllyngly periured & falsely forsworne, God is blasphemed. Goddes

Deut. xix. Prouer. xix.

What in cõmoditye. ryse of Periury.

moſt holy name is abuſed, iuſtice is ſubuerted, trueth is oppreſſed, falſehode is maintayned, wrong ſentence is pronounced, ẏ contrary parte, although the trueth be on hys ſyde, is condemned, ẏ mã is vtterly empouerỹſhed, and for euer after beggered, both he, his wife, & al his chyldren, if he hath any? Are al theſe thinges but trifles? Are all theſe thynges lyghte matters, and thinges of ſmall importaunce? Is it but a trifle to beare falſe witnes? to ſweare? to be periurd? to be falſli forſworne? to blaſpheme God? to abuſe hys holy name? to ſubuerte iuſtice? to oppreſſe ẏ trueth? to maintayne falſehode? to pronounce wrong ſentence? to condẽmne the gyltele parſonne? to empouerish and vtterly beggar both hym and ſo many as pertayne vnto hym for euer and euer? Do all theſe thinges, whych God ſo greatly abhorre, deſerue no ponyſhment? Periured perſonnes ſhal not eſcape vnpunyſhed. These periured wretches ſhall not eſcape, let them beleue me, they ſhal not eſcape from the terrible vengeaunce of God. For although ẏ dayes go on theyr ſyde, and God differeth his plages, ſo that they are not ponyſhed ſo ſone as they haue committed the offence, yet let them be well aſſured, they ſhall not eſcape, ſurely they ſhal not eſcape. The Poet Tibullus being but an Ethnycke, and yet not ignorant of the greatnes of this abhominacion, & certenly perſuaded that periury can not eſcape vnponiſhed, be it neuer ſo ſecretely handled, and craftely dawbed, wryteth on thys manner.

Lib. i. Eleg. iii.

Ah miſer, & ſi quis primo periuria celat
Sera tamen tacitis pena venit pedibus.

Ah wretch, ſayth he, although a man at ẏ fyrſt doth kepe his periuries & falſe othes neuer ſo ſecret, yet may he be ſure at ẏ laſt that they wyll come to light vnto his great ſhame, ſo that punyſhment wyl come vpõ hym before he be awars for his wickednes. The Greke Poet Phocilides alſo ſayth, forſwer not thy ſelfe neyther ignorantly nor wyllyngly. For the immortall God hateth the falſe ſwerer, what ſo euer he be that ſweareth. Agayn Cicero ẏ famous Prynce of ornate eloquence & moſt eloquent Orator ſayth, the payne of periury before god is euerlaſting damnacion, & before men perpetual diſhonour, ſhame, reproche & ignominy. God hateth periury ſo greatly in euery condicion, ẏ he greuouſly ponyſhed Zedechias, bycauſe contrary to his othe he rebelled agayns Nabuchodonoſor kynge of Babylon. Seyng than ẏ God wyll ſo greuouſly ponyſhe all kynde of othes both vayne & vniuſt, both idle ſwearyng & periury, what wyl theſe idle ſwearers & falſe forſworne creatures ſaye vnto this matter? Wyth what conſcience wyll they appere before the high throne & ryghteous iudgyng place of Chriſt? what wyll they laye for them ſelues? what excuſe wyll they make? what ſhyfte wyl they inuent? wyll they flye vnto the cuſtome, and ſaye, that it is ẏ faſhion of the world ſo to do? I aunſwer, Chriſt ſaid to his diſciples, ye are not of the world, but I haue choſẽ you out of the world. Now they that follow the faſhions of ẏ world, ar none of Chriſtes diſciples, ſo folloueth it that all ſwearers pertayn not vnto Chriſt, ſeynge they ſo diligently Excuſes of ſwearyng.

Ioan. xv.

gentely follwe the manners of the worlde. And where as they obiecte, that it is the cuſtome ſo to ſweare, this can nothyng excuſe them. For we may not loke what the cuſtome but the trueth of Gods worde wylleth vs to do. Follow not the cõmon ſorte of people ſayth the ſcripture, for to do euel. Agayn, doe not ye thoſe thinges, which they haue done, ẏ were before you, nether be ye polluted & defyled in thẽ. The Prophet Zachary alſo ſayth, Be not ye lyke your forfathers, neyther follwe ye the faſhions of them. The holy Martyr S. Cyprian ſayth, vndoubtedly we muſt both heare & do that, that Chriſt hath done, & that he hath cõmaunded to be done, ſeyng ẏ he ſayth in his goſpel, yf ye do thoſe thynges that I commaunde you, I wyll no more cal ye ſeruaumtes but frẽdes. And that Chriſt alone ought to be heard, ẏ father from heauen teſtifyeth ſayeng: This is my well beloued ſonne, in whom I am fully ſatiſfyed, heare ye hym. If ẏ Chriſt alone ought to be hearde, we ought not to marke, what any man before vs thought beſt to be done, but what Chriſt dyd fyrſt, whych is before al men. Agayn he ſayth a cuſtome without trueth, is an olde errour. Therfore leauyng ẏ errour, let vs follow ẏ trueth. When the trueth is once come to lyght, ſayth S. Iuſten, let ẏ cuſtome gyue place to ẏ trueth. For Peter alſo, whych did circũcyſe, gaue place to Paule preachyng ẏ trueth. Therfore ſeing that Chriſt is the trueth, we ought rather to follow the trueth than the cuſtome. If thou doſt laye agaynſt me the cuſtome, ſayth S. Gregory, thou muſt marke what the Lorde ſayth, I am the waye, trueth & lyfe. He ſayd not, I am the cuſtome but ẏ trueth. Now hath Chriſt ſayd to vs in his holy goſpel, ẏ ſhalt not ſweare at al. Why than do they not rather follow ẏ truth & doctrine of Chriſt, than ẏ wycked & vngodly cuſtome? But many ar ſo addicte to cuſtomes & old vſages now a daies, ẏ although they ſe ẏ ſcripture manifeſtly condemne theyr croked cuſtomes & wycked vſages, yet wyl they by no meanes gyue place to the truth. If a man obiecte & laye the ſcriptures agaynſt them, & wolde ſo reforme them charitably, than are they redy ſtreyght wayes to accuſe hym of hereſy, & to bryng hym vnto a fagot of ſo lytle authorite is the moſt holy worde of God recoũted wt theſe bely Gods & wycked worldlynges nowe a dayes, & ſo hardy a thynge is it to ſpeake agaynſt a cuſtome, be it neuer ſo wycked and vngodly. Another ſorte glory & reioyſe ſo greatly in theyr wickednes of ſwearyng, ẏ they feare nothyng at all to take vpon them for to maintayn it by the ſcriptures. Sayth not the Pſalmographe, ſaye they, Laudabuntur omnes qui iurant in eo? All that ſweat by hym, ſhal be prayſed? Doth not god ẏ father alſo gyue a commaundement & ſaye, Dominum Deum tuum timebis, & per illius nomẽ iurabis? Thou ſhalt feare thy Lord God, & ſweare by hys name? As cõcernyng ẏ lyrſt text, whych they alleadge, I aunſwer, theſe glorious & famous ſwearers differ nothyng from theyr father ẏ dyuel. For as he wreſted ẏ Scripture, when he tempted Chriſte, ſo lykewyſe do they. The wordes of ẏ pſalmographe ar theſe, all that ſweare in hym ſhal be

Of the cuſtome.

Note.

Exo. xxiii.

Leui. xviii.

Zacha. i.

Lib. Epiſt. ii. Epiſt. iiii. ad Ceſilium.

Math. xvii.

Marc. ix.

Luk. ix.

ii. Pet. i.

Epiſt. ad pop. contra Steph.

Diſt. viii.

Cau. conſuetudo.

De vnico bap. lib. ii.

Guiel. Auerſ.

Diſt. viii. Cau Si conſum.

Ioan. xiiii.

Math. v.

O blonde ſoupers.

Pſal. lxii.

Deut. x.

Math. iiii.

...hat it is to ſweare in God.

prayſed. He ſaith not al ỳ ſweare by him, but in him. To ſwear in God, is to cal God a wytnes in a iuſt, righteous & earneſt matter, to take an othe for ỳ glory of God, for the promocion of hys word, for the mayntenaunce of ỳ Chriſten fayth, or els for ỳ helth of our neyghbour. They ỳ thus do, ſweare in God, & they ſhall not be condemned but prayſed for

How ſwearyng came by fyrſte. Hom. xxv.

theyr othe. As towchyng ỳ ſeconde texte, wherin they ſaie, they are not only ſuffered frely to ſweare, but alſo cõmaunded ſo to do, I anſwer: whan euel thynges begã to encreaſe in ỳ world, as Chriſoſtome wyteth, whan there was a confuſion made in euery place, & no order, whã men fel vnto the ſeruiſe & worſhyppynge of Idolles, whã al fayth was loſte, and al vnfaythfulneſſe reygned, than began the Infidelles, ſeing that one wolde not truſt and beleue another in matters of controuerſy, to call vpõ theyr Goddes for wytneſſes, proteſtyng therby that they ſpake truth, foraſmuch as they called theyr Gods to witnes in the matter, (whom to name they thought it not lawful but in ſerious, earneſt, graue, weyghty and neceſſary matters) and by thys means obtayned they fayth one of another. Now for aſmuch as God had ſelected the

Hom. xxviii. Iſraelites from the Gentiles to be his people, and would by no means that they ſhoulde in any poynte followe theyr wyckednes, leſt therby they ſhoulde be allured from ỳ true worſhyp of god vnto Idolatry he gaue a commaundement to them, ỳ in all matters of controuerſy, & in ſuch affayres as ſhuld make vnto his glory, and ỳ health of theyr brothers, they ſhuld not cal any of thoſe falſe Goddes, whom ỳ Etnyckes worſhypped, vnto wytneſſe, nor ſweare by theyr names, but call hym a wytneſſe, & ſweare by hys name, & ſo euery one to beleue another for ỳ reuerence & honour that they owe to his moſt holy and bleſſed name.

Why god ſuffered ỳ Iewes to ſweare by hym.

What is this to ỳ purpoſe? what refuge can theſe abhominable ſwearers haue here? Thys commaundement only ſerueth for graue, weyghty, ſerious & erneſt matters, & they abuſe it to cloke & couer their wicked and abhominable cuſtom of ſwearing. Is this allowable before God? wyl this go for good payment? No ſurely, God wyll not thus be mocked. God wyll not ſuffer his moſt glorious name ſo wyckedly to be abuſed. God wyll not abyde that his worſhyp, honour, renowme glorye and magnificẽs ſhuld ſo be obſcured, defaced & blotted. God is a ielous God, & he canne not abyde ỳ he ſhulde be diſhonoured by any meanes.

Eſaye, xlii. I am ỳ Lord, ſayth he, this is my name. I wyl giue my glorye to none other. Here therfore haue theſe ſwearers no refuge, but ſtyll rũne hedlonge into euerlaſtyng damnacion. Another company, that vſe ſwearyng, ſay, we thynke no harme, whã we ſweare, and therfore can it be

Math. xiii. no great faulte. I anſwer: Yet are ye not ſo fauteles nor excuſed. For ỳ ſcripture ſayth, that we ſhall gyue a ſtreyght count at the dredeful day of iudgemente for euery ydle word that we ſpeake. What is than to be thought of our idle & vayne othes? I praye you? Shall we not gyue an accountes of them? Yes we may be ſure, & alſo condemned for them, if we do not repent, beleue and amend. Again, Of thy wordes ſhalt thou be iustifyed, & of thy wordes shalt thou be condemned. How goth it thã with our othes? In what case stand they? The scripture sayth, ỹ mouth that lyeth, slayeth ỹ soule. Do not vayne othes so in lyke manner? Sapi.i.

be

And where as it is sayd, we thinke no harme. I answer the scripture sayth: Of thabundans of the harte, the mouth speaketh. A good man out of ỹ good treasure of his harte, bringeth forth good thinges. And an euel man out of ỹ euyll treasure of his harte bryngeth forth euyll thynges. What wyl we saye to this? Are we not here plainely condemned? Math.xii. Luke.vi.

Another sorte excuse them selfes & saye, few or none wyll beleue vs, excepte we sweare. To thys answereth Chrisostome on thys manner: An oth maketh not a man worthy to be beleued, but ỹ testimony of his lyfe, the integrite & purenes of hys conuersacion, & a good mynde. For many oftentymes haue sworne and entãgled them selues greatly, and yet haue they not made men to beleue them. Other haue only made as it wer but a becke, and haue appered moche more worthye to be beleued, than they which haue so greatly sworne. Hom.vii.

These wordes declare manifestly that swearyng among faythfull & honest men neadeth not, and for them ỹ ar vnfaythfull & regarde no honeste, surely all ỹ othes in ỹ world wyl not make them to be beleued of them that are vertuous & godly disposed. Therfore this can be none excuse for these swearers. Among the faythful, othes nede not, & amõg the vnfaythful, they profyt not. For he that beleueth not a mã without an othe, nether wil he beleue him, though he sweareth neuer so moche. But alas for pytye, that euer fayth shuld be so decayed among Christẽ men, that one wyll not beleue another, excepte they pollute and defyle the glorious name of our Lord God yea and that in trifling matters. It is hygh tyme for the worlde to be at an ende, whã one man trusteth not another. Do ye thynche, sayth Christ, that the sonne of man shall fynde any fayth on the earth, whan he shall come? Othes mõg ỹ faythfull nede not, among ỹ vn faithful they profyt not. Luke.xxiii.

Thus se we that al excuses, which ar inuẽted to maintayne ỹ diuelysh custome of swering, are nothyng worth. Our damnacion abydeth styl. The heate of Gods vẽgeaunce towarde vs is nothing abated. So ỹ if we wyll be saued, there is no remedy but to leaue our wicked swearyng, to reuerence ỹ name of God, and thanckefully to vse his creatures, euer settyng before our eyes thys commaundement of God. Thou shalt not take the name of thy Lorde God in vayne. For the Lorde wyll not holde hym gylteles that taketh hys name in vayne. Also the sayẽg of Christ sweare not at all, nether by heauen, for it is the throne of God, nether by earth. for it is the fote stole of hys feete, nether by Ierusalem, for it is the citie of the great Kynge, nor yet by thy head shalte thou sweare, for thou canste not make one heare nether whyght nor blacke. But your communicacion shall be, yea, yea, naye, naye. For that is more than thys, commeth of euyll. Exo.xx. Deut.v. ,, ,, ,, Math.v.

Whyther al othes are taken awai frõ Christẽ men

Some man peraduenture wyll here demaund & saye, are all othes taken awaye from Christen men? Yea forsoth all othes that are vayne and trifflynge, falſe & vnrighteous. It is not lawful than for a Chriſten man to ſweare in no condition. Yes verely. God forbyd that al kynde of ſwearyng ſhuld be take from Chriſten men, as ỹ vngodly Anabaptiſtes holde, whych affirme that it is not lawful for a Chriſten man to ſweare by no meanes, This wyl not the ſcripture. Agaynſt this fyghteth ỹ word of God. We ar not forbydde to ſweare, but vaynely, idely, falſely & vnryghteouſly to ſweare. Thou ſhalt not take the name of thy Lord God in vayn, ſayth ỹ ſcripture. Marke ỹ is ſayd In vayn. A Chriſte man may lawfully ſweare for ỹ glory of God & for the health both of hym ſelfe & of other, ſo of te as it ſhal make vnto the honour and glory of God alſo. For the glorye of God in all our othes is moſt of all to be loked vpon & conſidered. We ought not to deſyre any thynge, excepte it maketh vnto the glory of God, moche leſſe ought we to ſwear for it. I wyll make this matter more euident & playne by familiar examples.

The errour of the Anabaptiſtes:

For what cauſes a chriſten man may ſweare.

Example for the glory of god.

If a Chriſten man wer amonge the Jewes, Turkes, Sarracens or any other Jnfidelles, preaching the word of God purely vnto thẽ, and earneſtly labouryng to turne them from theyr Idolatry vnto the true ſeruyſe of God, if they would by no meanes beleue him, excepte he dyd ſwear by the name of ỹ Lord his God, whom he preached vnto them, that all is truth that he preacheth, he may lawfully in this poynt take the name of God vnto wytneſſe, and ſweare that is truth that he preacheth. For thys othe thus taken & beleued, turneth both vnto the glory of God, and alſo vnto the health of many ſoules and therfore is it not vayne and idle, but righteous & godly. On this manner dyd God ỹ father hym ſelfe in the old Teſtamẽt, the Patriarches and Prophets, in the newe Teſtament Chriſt and hys Apoſtles ſweare, and after thys manner may al ỹ ſaynctes and faythfull of God ſwear. He that perceaueth, ſayth S. Auſten, that an oth ought not to be had in good but in neceſſary thynges, let hym refrayne hym ſelfe ſo moche as he can, that he do not vſe it, except it be in neceſſite, whan he ſeeth that men ar flow to beleue that, which is profitable for them to beleue, excepte it be confirmed wyth an othe. Agayne, if it dyd ſo chaunſe that two Chriſten men wer at debate for ſome matter ỹ is in controuerſy betwene them, and the thyrde dyd knowe that the one dyd the other playne iniurye, and wrought againſt him contrary vnto the rule of equite and iuſtice and ſo made declaracion thereof vnto the Judge. The Judge in thys behalf may lawfully require an othe of that witnes bearer, and he that ſo teſtifyeth may wt a ryght and good conſcience ſweare in this behalf. And thys hys othe is both ryghteous and godly. For by that is peace, amite, concorde and Chriſten charite brought agayn betwene them ỹ wer at debate, & the worke of the dyuell is deſtroyed, that is to ſaye, diſſenſiõ & ſtryfe is take away. An othe, ſaith S. Paule, is ỹ ende of al controuerſy. Moreouer if hereſy, treaſõ, theft, mãſlaughter, whordõ or any other notable vice wer laid to a chriſtẽ mãs charg, wherof he knoweth hymſelfe gylteleſſe and nothynge fauty, he may lawfully take an othe

Serm. i. de verbis domini.

Example for the helth of our neygbbour.

Heb. vi.

An example for ỹ health of our ſelfes.

and

and ſweare vnto the contrary for the defence of his honeſt name & godly report. And thys hys oth is both ryghteous and godly. For it doeth not only defende his owne purite and innocẽcy of life, but alſo it ſetteth forth the glory of God. For as God is dishonoured through the wicked actes of them that profeſſe him, ſo is he glorifyed through ẏ good dedes of them, which do both profeſſe him and alſo lyue according to their profeſſion. The Greke Oratour Iſocrates geueth an excellent and very notable cõmaundement cõcernyng ſwearyng, which I wyl here reherſe that Chriſten men readyng the wordes of an Ethnicke maye once be aſhamed of their wyckednes. His wordes are theſe: Take an oth that is put vnto the for two cauſes, either that thou mayeſt deliuer thy ſelfe from a lythy cauſe, or that ẏ mayeſt preſerue thy frendes ẏ ar in perel & daſiger. But for mony loke thou ſweareſt by no God, although ẏ ſweareſt righteouſly. For to ſome thou ſhalt ſeme to forſweare thy ſelfe, and to ſome to be deſirous of mony. What a ſaying is this of a Gẽtile? How litle diſſenteth this from the holy Scriptures? How doeth this cõdẽne thẽ, which for ſlender auauntage or litle mony wil not onely ſtreighte wayes ſweare, but alſo forſweare themſelues? S. Auſten ſayeth, doeth not he take ẏ name of God in vain, which for the loue of a tẽporal thing (that is plain filthines to a Chriſten mã) taketh God for a witnes? The law hath forbidden, ẏ thou ſhouldeſt once couit. Doeſt thou not couyt if thou bindeſt thy ſelfe with an oth, that thou maieſt kepe thy ſubſtãce? Euery creature is ſubiect vnto vanite. And is not this for vain things? Ergo he ſweareth in vayn, which for creatures calleth God a wytnes &c. S. Hierome alſo ſayeth, the Euangelicall trueth receaueth no othe, ſeing euery faythfull word is for an oth. Herevnto pertayneth the ſaying of our golden mouthed Doctor, the cauſe of an oth is thys, ſayth he, that euery one that ſweareth, ſweareth for this intent, ẏ he may ſpeake that which is trueth. And therfore the Lord wyl haue no difference betwene an oth and our ſpeache. For as in an oth it is not conueniente ẏ there be any falſhode or breakyng of promyſe, ſo likewiſe in our wordes ought there to be no lye. For both periury and lying is condemned vn the payne of the diuine iudgement, as the Scripture ſayeth, the mouth that lyeth, ſlayeth the ſoule. Whoſo euer therefore ſpeaketh the trueth, ſweareth. For it is wrytten, a faythfull wytneſſe wyll not lye.

In Pareneſ. ad Domon.

Marke wel.

Auſten for ſwearyng. Exod. xx.

In mat. Ca. v. Queſt. v. Can. Iuramenti.

Sapi. i.

Finally, ſo oft as any ciuile magyſtrate or head officer requyreth an oth of vs for the preſeruacion and mayntenaunce of the commõ weale or any other neceſſarye and vrgente cauſe we oughte gladly and wyllyngly for to ſweare accordyng to thys commaundemente of Chryſte. Paye that to Ceſar, whiche is due to Ceſar. But here are they to bee monyſhed, whiche ſhall requyre the oth of the ſubiectes, that it is their dutye before the other be ſworne to declare the matter wyth manifeſte wordes vnto them, that they maye well perceaue, that they ſhall not ſweare in vayne, but for weightye and neceſſary matters concernyng either the glory of God or the profyt of the commõ weale. For mẽ ought

The magiſtrate maye lawfully require an oth

Math. xxii.

An admonicion for thẽ that ſhal require ẏ oth.

not to be called forth to ſweare for euery lighte tryfle, nor yet to ſweare as many do, they cannot tel what nor wherfore. The to muche cuſtomable vſe of ſwearyng, hath brought it ſo to paſſe, that as many care but litle to ſweare, ſo forſe they not muche to forſweare thē ſelues. The cauſe for the which men ſhould ſweare, ought not onely to be good, but alſo neceſſary, & ſo openly proued vnto thē, before they be brought vnto their oth. This ſhould make men to haue the name of God in the higher reuerence, to take an othe with the godlyer minde, and to haue the office of the head rulers in the greater eſtimacion. For to make men ſweare by compulſion, before they knowe the matter, whither it be good, lawful, godly, neceſſary or otherwiſe, let other men iudge, that be better learned than I, whether it be agreable to the worde of God or not. But this dare I be bolde to ſay, that an oth cannot be taken wyth to much reuerence and aduiſement, in almuch as by it. God is called vpon to be a witnes in that behalfe. Therfore ought men not to be compelled raſhly to ſweare, leſt by that meanes they prouoke the vengeaunce of God both agaynſt them ſelues, and thoſe alſo ẏ cauſe them ſo vnaduiſedly for to ſweare, but to come vnto their oth with great ſobriete and deliberacion. Thus ſee we for what cauſes it is lawful for a Chriſten man to ſweare, whatſoeuer oth commeth forth oute of oure mouth, if it be not for one of theſe cauſes aforeſayed, it is damnable and playn syn. Therfore let al men take hede. Let no man from henſeforth take the name of our Lord God in vayne for whoſo doeth, ſhal not ſurely eſcape vnpuniſhed. Let the rulers of the common weale fynde ſome honeſt remedy, that the name of God be no more blaſphemed amonge their ſubiectes. Let them conſider how loth they are, that they themſelues ſhould be euil ſpoken of and blaſphemed. Let them weigh wyth themſelues, how much God excelleth them, and how farre hys dignite doeth excede their dignitie. If any mā defaceth their renowme, they are puniſhed ſtreyght wayes, and not without a cauſe. But how chanſeth it, that the Lorde of al Lordes and kinge of all kinges is no more feared? How commeth it to paſſe, that his moſt holy and bleſſed name is ſo vniuerſally blaſphemed, yea & that freely and wout puniſhmēt? Were it not, thinke you, conuenient, ẏ the ciuile magiſtrates ſhould earneſtlye prouide, that the name of God might haue hys due honoure, and that it might no more be abuſed with abhominable and vnlawfull othes in their Realmes, but prayſed and magnified, ſeing that by it we obtayne al our health and ſaluacion? God by hys holy ſpirite mought vouchſafe to breath into the hartes of all Pynces, kinges and rulers, that when they be godly aſſembled together for matters concernyng the glorye of God and the publique weale, they may alſo entreate of thys thinge in their Synodes, Congregacions, Parliamentes, councels. &c. that God may be glorified, and his moſt bleſſed name exalted of all nacions frō the Eaſte to the Weaſte. By thys meanes ſhall they not onely expulſe vyce and make their Realmes to floryſhe with vertue vnto the greate

Magiſtrates

glorye

glory of God and the hie conſolacion of al the faithful, but alſo thei ſhal acquire and get to themſelues a crown of immortall glory for euer and euer. Amen. Again, let al Biſhops, Parſons, Vicares, Curates, Pariſh Prieſtes, and ſo many as are miniſters of gods word, in al their Sermons and other exhortacions vnto the people, aboue all things rebuke this abhominable syn of ſwearing, and declare vnto them how greate an offence it is, and howe the plage of God and hys vengeaunce ſhall not depart from the houſes of them, that vſe thys moſt deteſtable ſinne of ſwearyng. Let them conſider that they haue been the cheſe occaſion both of thys syn and of all other, ſeyng they haue not accordyng to their office diligently watched vpon the Lordes flocke, preached gods word rebuked the wickednes of the people, tolde them their faultes, exhorted them vnto repentaunce, and amendmente of lyfe. For whan the preachyng of gods word fayleth, ſayeth Salomon, than doeth the people peryſhe and go to hauocke. Chryſt had much pitie on ỳ people, whã he ſaw that they were deſtitute and diſperſed as ſhepe, not hauynge a ſhepeharde. For as ſhepe, whan they be without a ſhepeharde, wander they cannot tell whither, hang on euery buſhe, are rent wyth euery brier, and in daunger to be deuoured of the rauening wolfe at all tymes, euen ſo lykewyſe, thoſe people that are wythout a Preacher and techer of gods word, run aſtray without order, heare the voice of euery ſtraunger, fal into all kynde of vicious abhominacion, are rent and torne with wycked ſpirites, and ready at euery houre to be ſwalowed vp of Satan our olde aduerſary, which ſlepeth not, but watcheth diligently, and walketh about like a rorying Lyon ſekyng whom he may deuoure. Surely greate is the damnacion ỳ hangeth ouer the heades of theſe ſluggyſhe ſhepepardes. Chryſt the hie Prieſt ſayd. Oportet me euangelizare nam in hoc miſſus ſum. I muſte preache the goſpell, ſayeth he, for I am ſent for this purpoſe. What ſhal the baſer ſort of Prieſtes do than I pray you? ſhal they lyue in pleaſure and idlenes? in delicious fare and ſluggiſhnes? Doth not Oportet alſo pertayne vnto them? Certes if they wil not meddle wt Oportet euangelizare, they are lyke to haue no part of Miſerere S. Paule alſo ỳ good Biſhop ſayd, Ve mihi, ſi non euangelizauero. Wo vnto me, If I preache not the goſpell. And ſhal our Rabines thynke to eſcape wythout puniſhment, though they preach nothyng at al? I feare ỳ if they wyl not medle wt Euangelizare, they are lyke to crye another day, Ve, Ve, Ve, quante ſunt tenebre. Wo, wo, wo, how greate are theſe darkeneſſes? God ỳ father, God ỳ ſonne, God ỳ holy goſt wt all the Prophetes & Apoſtles cry out vpon Prieſtes for to preach the holy Scriptures, exhorting thẽ to be diligent in ỳ matter. Cry, ſayth god the father, ceaſe not. Lift vp thy voyce as a trompe. Shew the people their ſynnes, & declare vnto them their wyckednes. Agayn he ſayeth, O Jeruſalẽ I haue ſet watch men vpon thy walles, they ſhal not hold theyr peace nether night nor day. Chryſt ſayd to his Apoſtles, go throughout the world & preach the goſpel to euerry creature. S. Paule ſayeth, take hede Biſhops. Parſons. Vicars. &c.

Eccle. xxiii.

Pro. xxix.

Math. ix.

Marke thys compatyſon

i. Peter. v.

Marke. i. iiii.

i. Cor. ix.

Eſay. lviii.
Eſay. lxiii.

Math. xviii.
Marke. xvi.
Luke. xxiiii.

Actes. xx. hede to your ſelues and to al the flocke, vpon whom the holy goſt hath made you ouerſears, to fede the congregaciō of God, whom he purchaſed with his bloud. For I know ẏ after my departure greuous wolues ſhal enter in amōg you not ſparing the flocke. And euen amonge your ſelues ſhal there aryſe men ſpeaking peruerſe things, ẏ they may leade away ẏ diſciples after them. Therfore watch, and remember that by the ſpace of thre whole yeres I did not ceaſe to moniſh euery one of you both day and night euen with teares. Agayn he ſayth, geue attēdaūce to thy ſelfe & to doctryne, continew in theſe. For if thou doeſt ſo, ẏ ſhalte both ſaue thy ſelfe and them ẏ heare the. Preach the word, be feruēt be it in time or out of tyme, reproue, rebuke, exhort with al ſoftnes and doctryne. Speake thoſe things that become wholeſome doctryne. S. Peter alſo ſaith, ye Preſtes ſe that ye fede Chriſtes flocke, which is amōg you, taking the ouerſight of thē not as though ye wer compelled therto, but willingly, not for the deſire of filthy lucre, but of a good mynde, not as though ye wer Lordes ouer the paryſhes, but that ye be an enſample to the flocke. And whan ẏ chefe ſhepehard ſhal appeare, ye ſhall receaue an incorruptible crown of glory. Theſe textes of ẏ holy Scripture declare manifeſtly how feruēt, buſy, ſtudious and digilent all true Preſtes ought to be in the preaching of gods word. The mē godly enſpired knew ryght wel, that ſo long as gods worde is preached to the people, it muſt nedes go wel with the Chriſten religion, but if it once ceaſe, than fare wel al godlynes, fare wel all bertue and goodnes. Of this thinge, alas for pitie, haue we had experyence many a yeare vnto our great diſcomfort, and yet litil redreſſe. For many of ẏ Preſtes goe forth to be as fluggyſh as euer they were, neyther haue they any godly care for Chriſtes flocke committed vnto them. So they maye haue the profytes, they care for no more. Bonus eſt odor lucri ex re qua libet. So that by this meanes the ſhepe are lyke to dye for meate. But alas how ſhould they teach other, whan they themſelues knowe nothynge. They are euen as the Prophet ſayeth, dum dogges not once beeing able to barke. Many agayn of thē there are, which are learned, & knowe their dutye, and yet I knowe not with what ſpirite moued, they holde their peace, they ſpeake nothyng, they ſee their ſhepe run aſtray before their faces, walke in al kinde of wickednes, and yet haue they no pitie. I wonder with what forheades theſe men wil appeare before the high Preſt and great Judge Chriſt at the dredefull day of iudgemente. I pray God they be not Epicures both in lyuing and iudgement. But let vs heare what the holy and catholike Doctors ſay vnto this matter.

The preachyng of gods worde cauſeth the Chriſten religion to floryſhe.

Eſay. lvi.

In Le. Diſt. xxxvi. can. Si quis.

S. Jerome ſaieth, if any man wil be a Biſhop not onely in name but alſo in deſeruing, let him folow Moſes, and let him folowe Aaron. For what is ſayed of them: that they wente not from the tabernacle of the Lorde. Ergo Moſes was continually in the tabernacle of the Lorde. What buſines had he there? Verely that ether he ſhoulde learne ſomewhat of God, or els teache the people. Theſe are the two workes of a

Biſhop,

Bishop, that he should learne of God by readyng ỳ diuine Scriptures and by hauing his cõtinual meditacion in them, or els teach the people, but yet ought he to teach those things, that he had learned of God, and not of hys owne hart or mans wisdome, but those thyngs that the holy gost teacheth. There is another worke also that Moses doeth, he goeth not vnto the warres, he fighteth not agaynst the enemyes, but what doeth he? He prayeth. And whyle he prayeth, his people ouercommeth if he do once slake and let down hys handes, than are hys people ouercome and chased away. Let the Prycst of the Chirch therfore pray without ceasyng, that the people, which are vnder hym, may ouercome their inuisible enemies the Amalechites, which are diuels that doe impugne and fyght agaynst them, that wyl lyue Godly in Chryst. O how true, swete and godly are these wordes of the holy Doctor? Here maye all Bishops and Prystes learne what their dutye is, not to be idle, not to hunt and hawke, not to dise and card not to banket and lyue voluptuously, not to play the rufling galantes and to be entangled wỏ worldely businesses, but to be continually in ỳ tabernacle of the Lorde, that is to say, to study and to haue their perpetual meditacion in the holy Scriptures euen both day and night, as Dauid sayeth, and with al diligence to teache the people committed to their Spirituall charge, not mens traditions, not their own fantasyes, but gods most holy worde, euen ỳ holy Scriptures, and such thyngs, wherof the holy gost is the Author. Let them therfore loke well to their office. For if they be true Byshops and Prystes, thys is the worke committed vnto them, euen continually to studye the holy Scriptures, and purely to preache them vnto the people. If they leaue this office vndone, and do the workes prescrybed of man, so do they shewe themselues to be the seruauntes not of God, but of man. Let them therfore loke, what answer they wil make to the high Judge and great Pryest Chryst at the terrible day of iudgement. Moreouer it is their duty feruently and wbout ceasyng to praye for the people, that they may preuayle agaynst Satan and his ministers that fight daily against them. How could the prayers of many of them ar, I wil not now dispute. For they are more open to the whole worlde, than they nede here to be rehearsed. When Moses held vp hys handes and prayed hys people dyd ouercome. Whyther oure Pryestes holde vp their hands and pray, as they ought, let other mẽ iudge. Of thys am I sure, ỳ since ỳ world began, ther neuer reigned more syn & abhominacion thã there doth at this day, which is but a slender argument ỳ weget the victory of our enemies. God geue al Bishops and Pryestes grace once to loke vpon their office diligently, ỳ they may both earnestly studi the holy Scriptures, teach thẽ sincerly vnto the people, and continually occupy thẽselues in feruẽt prayers. Thã shal it not only be well wyth Chrystes flocke, but also wỏ themselues at the dreadful day of iudgemẽt whã thei shal appere before ỳ hie Bishop Jesus Chryst, and geue accoũtes vnto hym of their behauour in the office that was committed vnto them

The worke of a Bishop is to study ỳ holy Scriptures, purelt to preach thẽ vnto the people, and feruently to pray. Exod. xvii.

Learne your duty here! O ye Prystes.

Psal. i.

The prayers of many prystes are colde now a daies to them to them in this world. S. Auſten alſo ſayeth, conſider that it is the of-

In Agreum. Prophetam. fice of Prieſtes, whan they be demaunded of the lawe, to aunſwere. If he be a Prieſt, let hym knowe the law of the Lord. If he knoweth not the law of the Lord, he declareth euidently that is he is no Prieſt. For it pertayneth vnto the Lordes Prieſt to know the law, and whan he is asked, to make anſwere of the law. Lord be mercyfull vnto vs, what wil a great nomber of our Prieſtes ſay to theſe wordes of S. Auſten?
I feare much, that if he wer not ſo cunciēt a Doctore, & a Sayncte already approued by the chirche, ſtirely many Prieſtes for madnes wold nothyng feare to accuſe hym of Hereſy, and to affirme that he preacheth heretical doctryne, ſo iopardous a thyng at thys tyme is it to ſpeake agaynſt theſe ignorant Rabines, which although they know nothyng, yet wyl they be Iudges ouer al men, and ready ſtreightewayes to cōdemne them. It is not the long robe, the flaryng tippet about the necke the annointing of the fingers, the brode ſhauing of the crown, that ma-keth the Prieſt, but knowledge and connyng in the law of the Lord, ſo called vnto Prieſthode. The Prophet Malachy ſayeth, the lippes of Malac. ii. a Prieſt kepe knowledge, and at hys mouth ſhall they require ỳ law, for he is the meſſanger of the Lorde of Hooſtes. So ſayeth S. Auſten Prieſtes ought to be learned in ỳ law of God. here that Prieſtes ought to be ſo well learned in the holy Scriptures that whan any man demaundeth a queſtion of them concernynge the law of God, they ſhould be able to anſwere. If he be a Prieſt, ſaieth he, let hym knowe the law of the Lord. If he knoweth not the law of the
Who is a Prieſt after S. Auſtens mynde. Lord, he declareth euidently, that he is no Prieſt. S. Auſten here affirmeth, that he onely is a Prieſt, which hath knowledge in the law of ỳ Lord. If there wanteth knowledge, it is an euident argumente, ſayeth he, that there is no Prieſt. It is happy that S. Auſten is gone and a Sayncte. For if he were now alyue and a Byſhop agayne, as he was in tymes paſt, and ſhould go on viſitacion throughout the dioces, I think ſurely he would depoſe a great ſort of Prieſtes, as men more fyt for the cart than for the chirch. For S. Auſten meaſureth all Prieſthode by knowledge. It pertayneth vnto the Lordes Prieſt, ſaieth, he, to know the law, and whan he is demaunded, to make anſwere of the lawe. He may be a Prieſt of Baal, of the Romiſh Biſhop, and of man, but of the Lord he cannot be, except he hath knowledge. If any man fealeth him ſelfe greued at thys matter, and cannot abyde hys ſcalde and ſcurueye backe thus to be rubbed, let hym know that they be not my words, but the words of S. Auſten, a man in hys tyme not onely godly enſpyred, and excellently learned, but alſo of great authorite before the world. I onely rehearſe hys and other holy Doctors wordes, becauſe I would gladly haue men to do truely their office, and to ſet thys ſaying of the Pſal. xxxi. Pſalmograph euer before their eyes, Be not lyke a horſe and a moyle, which haue no vnderſtanding. For ignorance in all men is to be abhorred, but in Prieſtes chefely. If after the myndes of ỳ Apoſtle Paul In Eſaiam. ſayeth S. Ierome, Chryſt is the power of God, and the wiſdome of God,

God,it followeth well,ẏ he that knoweth not ẏ ſcriptures, knoweth not the power of God & the wiſdom of hym. For ẏ ignoraũce of ẏ ſcriptures,is ẏ ignorannce of Chriſt? Leo the Byſhop ſayth, if ignorannce ſemeth intollerable euẽ in late mẽ,how moch more is it worthy nether of ercuſe nor of forgyuenes in them that beare rule? Therfore deſyre al Preſtes ẏ be good and vertuous & tender the glory of God,and ẏ ſalnacion both of theyr owne & other Chriſten mennes ſoules,ẏ they wyll not be moued wyth theſe wordes, which come from a breaſt, that wyſheth wel vnto them al,but earneſtly loke vpon theyr office better,caſte awaye blynde ignorannce,ſtudy for ẏ knowledge of holy ſcriptures, & labour wyth all mayn to do that, which God requireth of them. Diſt.xxxviii. Can.Si in laicis.

Moreouer ſaynt Gregory ſaith,ẏ ſheppearde,which doth not rebuke them that offende,wythout doubte he ſleath thẽ by holdyng his peace Agayn he ſayth,we that are called Preſtes beſides theſe euels that we haue of our owne,we adde alſo other mennes deathes. For we ſlea ſo many as we ſe dayly go vnto death,& yet are ſluggyſhe and holde our peace.Here is a terrible ſayẽg,ẏ they,whych ar appointed to ſaue Chriſten mẽnes ſoules do cruelly ſlea thẽ by theyr negligẽce & holding theyr peace. Oh ẏ the Byſhops of euery dioceſe wold diligently loke vpon this matter, the eyer much ſhulde be theyr accountes at the dredefull day of iudgement. The holy Ghoſt mought breth it into theyr myndes. Ad venantiũ Epiſcopum. In Ezech. Hom.ix.

In concilio Toletano we reade on thys manner, Ignoraũce the mother of all errours is moſt of all to be exchewed in the Preſtes of God, wheych haue taken vpon them the office of teachyng among the people of God.Preſtes are warned to rede ẏ holy ſcriptures, as Paule thapoſtle ſayth vnto Timothe,geue attendaunce to reading, & exhortatiõ & lerning,& contiue w al way in theſe.Let Preſtes therfore know ẏ holi ſcriptures & canons,and lette all theyr worke,buſineſſe & trauayle conſiſt inpreaching & doctrine,and let them edify all men ſo well wyth the knowledge of fayth,as wyth ẏ good inſormacion of workes. O godly decree.Here may al preſtes learne,ẏ theyr worke doth conſiſt in preachyng & doctrine,in edifieng the people & in gyuyng them godly examples of vertuous liuyng.God ſende vs mo ſuche councels. Diſt.xxxviii. Can. Ignorantia. 1.Tim.iiii.

Byſhop Nycolas writeth on this manner, the diſtribucion of the heauenly feed is enioyned vs. woo therfore be vnto vs,if we do not ſpyncle it abrode. woo be vnto vs, if we holde our peace.Here is eternall dãnacion threatened preſtes,if they do not ſowe abrode the heauenly feed of Goddes worde in the feldes of chriſten mennes hartes. Let them loke wel to theyr office,for they ſtand in a perillous ſtate.Many of thẽ thynche it a great pleaſure to receaue yerely ſo great profytes of theyr benefices,but let them remember the common prouerbe, ſwete meate muſt haue ſower ſawce. woo be to you,ſayth Chriſt, that laugh now,for ye ſhall mourne and wepe. woo be to you that are fylled, for ye ſhall hunger. woo be to you ritche menne, which haue your conſolacion. woo be to you, whan al men prayſe you. Platina in the lyfe of Byſhop In- Diſt.xliii. Can dilpenſatio. Luk.vi. Platina.

nocentius the fyrst, wryteth on this maner: Innocentius the fyrst dyd not gyue the ecclesiastical benefices but vnto such Prestes, as ware throughly proued & tryed both in lyfe & learnyng. And he made a constitucion þ al prelates & so many as had benefices shuld go hom to their own Parysshes vnder payne of cursyng. For he sayd, that no hyrelyng but the very own shepparde ought to kepe his owne shepe. Here was a wonderful godly constycion. Wolde god it wer obserued through out al Christendom. Than shuld Christes flocke be muche better fed, than they are at this tyme. Than shuld not þ Parsons & Vycars be absent from their benefices as they ar now a dayes. Than shuld þ goodes of þ Parysshes be spent amõge þ Paryshners, & not abrode as they be now a dayes, no man can tel wher about. Thã shuld þ poore people be better loked vpon. Than shuld Prestes be more diligent to mayntayne hospitalite. Than shuld þ beneficed men more quietly applye theyr myndes vnto the study of holy scriptures & other godly meditacions. Than shulde feruent loue, which is now almost vniuersally decayed, spryng vp new agayn betwene the prestes & the laye men. Than shuld prestes be honored as fathers, & laye men count them selues as theyr chyldren, gyuyng them reuerẽce & double honour as þ scripture commaundeth. 1. Tim. v. Than shuld Gods word flory sh, & the glory of God be sought of al men. Ah shal we not once se this ioyfull daye in Englande? Whan myght it euer be brought to passe better and more conueniently, than nowe vnder this our most excellent kyng, which hytherto hath so both godly & prosperously lyke another Ezechias trauayled in þ byldyng agayn of our Lord Gods temple, in throwyng downe the workes of Hypocrisy, superstycion, and Idolatry, and in settyng vp agayn the pure and Christen religion? Lord, graunt that it may come to passe, yea & that shortli.

Why dyd god we haue no such Innocentes.

Thus se we both by the holy scriptures, þ auncient Doctors, and the godly olde councels, how greatly al Bysshoppes and Prestes ought to be occuppyed in studyeng & preachyng Goddes word. But to thys their godly preachyng they must also ioyne a vertuous & pure lyfe, lest they edify not so muche wyth theyr preachyng, as they destroye wyth theyr wycked lyuyng. It is a shame for a Phisicion to be so spotted and pocky, that it shall may iustly be sayd to him, Phisicion heale thy selfe. God sayd to the synner, sayth the Psalmographe, why dost thou preache my lawes, and take my Testament in thy mouth? Thou hast hated to be reformed, and thou hast caste awaye my wordes behynde the. If þ sawest a thefe, thou ranneste wt hym, and wyth adulterers diddest thou laye thy porcion. Thy mouth dydde aboũd wyth cursed speakyng, and thy tonge dyd couple craftely togyther deceates. Thou dyddest sytte, & speake agaynst thy brother, & agaynst thy mothers sonne dyddest thou lay a stõbling blocke. These thinges hast thou done, & yet haue I holden my peace. Thou wyckedly thoughtest, that I wold be like vnto þ, but I wyll reproue the, & come face to face agaynst the. O vnderstande these thynges, ye that forget God, lest he plucke you awaye and there be Prestes must both preach synterly, & also lyue godly Luk. iiii.

Psal. xlix.

be none ẏ can delyuered you. S. Paule also sayth, thou that teacheſt a nother, teachſt not thy self. Thou that preacheſt that men shulde not steale, stealeſt thy selfe. Thou that sayst that whoredom shulde not be committed, playeſt the whoremonger thy selfe. Thou that abhorreſt Images, robbeſt God of his honour thy self. Thou that glorieſt of the law through breakyng of ẏ law, dishonoreſt God. For ẏ name of God is euell spoken of among the Gentiles through you. Rom.ii.

Of these thynges it is euident, ẏ it is not sufficient for prestes to preache Gods word, except they also leade a vertuous & godly lyfe. Who so euer doth and teacheth, he shal be called great in the kyndom of heauen, sayth the scripture. Christ doth not onely call prestes the salte of the earth, but also the lyght of ẏ world. With their preachyng they season ẏ people, but wyth theyr lyght of godly cõuersacion they shew men how they ought to walke and lyue. Therfore immediately is it subioyned, let your lyght so shyne before men, that they may se you good workes, and glorify your father, whych is in heauen. Be an example of ẏ faithfull, sayth Paule, in worde, in conuersacion, in loue, in Spirite, in faith. Kepe thy selfe pure. Study to shewe thy selfe commendable to God, a worke man that neadeth not to be ashamed. He that preacheth Christ sayth S. Ambrose, ought to shewe hym selfe wholly estraunged from all kynde of vices. S. John Chrisostome also sayth, it is a great shame for Prestes, and for so many as be of the Clergy, whan laye men be founde faythfuller and more ryghteous than they are? Howe canne it otherwyse be than a shame for them to be inferiour to the laye people, whom to be lyke vnto them, it is also a shame? Agayn. S. Gregory sayth, the lyght of ẏ flocke is ẏ flame of the shepparde. For it becõmeth the Lordes shepeheardе & a Preste to shyne in manners and lyuyng, ẏ in hym as in ẏ glasse of theyr lyght, the people that is committed vnto hym may both discerne what they shulde follow, and also se what they shulde correcte and amẽde. Hereof is it euident, what great purite and innocency of lyfe ought to be in prestes, that theyr lyfe may correspond and in all poyntes answer to theyr preachyng. Math. v. Prestes are not only called ẏ salte of ẏ earth, but also ẏ lyght of the world i. Tim. iiii. ii. Ti. liiij. In serm. de ieiunio. In Math. In Pastoral.

But here is an answer to be made to ẏ vnsauery talke of certen men now a dayes, which because they se the manners of ẏ Preachers not agreable in all poyntes to theyr sermõs, fault at defyaunce with gods word, blaspheme it as heresy, raile vpon the preachers and absent them selfes from the hearyng of al godly exhortacions, warnynges & councels. These parsons hynder no mã so moche as them selfes. They may wel be compared to a folyshe man, whych cometh vnto the market for to bye meate. But whan he beholdeth ẏ butcher, and perceaueth hym to haue some deformite in his face, as oye of his eyes to be out, or to be balde, or elles to holde his necke awrye, goth streyght hom agayn, and choseth rather to dye for honger, than he wyl bye meate of suche a butcher although ẏ meat be neuer so pure, clene, cõmestible & wholsõ. But let vs heare what the holy scripture sayth. In the chayer of Moses syt Mark wẽl. Math. xxiii.

Scribes and Phareses. Al therfore that thei commaunde you to kepe, loke that you kepe and do, but accordyng to theyr workes do ye not. For they say, but they do not. Here christ commaundeth vs not to abstayne from the hearing of Goddes word, though they be neuer so wicked & euyl, that preache it. For who wer more vngodly, and greater enemies to Christ, than ỳ Scribes & Pharises, yet Christ commaudeth to heare them so longe as they sytte in the chayer of Moses. To syt in ỳ chayer of Moses is truely & syncerly to preach those thynges that Moses dyd, to entrepret the law accordyng to the ryght vayne of the holy scripture, and only to seake the glory of God & the profyt of the faythfull. So long as they that are preachers do thys, they are to be hearde, though theyr lyfe be neuer so abhominable. For it is not the preacher, to whom we must haue pryncipal respecte, but to ỳ word of God. Nether do we come into ỳ Temple to gase vpon the Preacher, but to hear the holy scriptures declared, and so lerne to lede a godly lyfe. If he wer one of the ministers of Satan, yea Satan hymselfe that preacheth, so longe as he bryngeth in Scriptum est, so long as he teatheth purely the diuine scripture wythout wreastyng or corruptyng of ỳ same, he is to be hearde. We ought not so greatly to marke the teacher, as ỳ whych is taught. If he teacheth well, it is ours & we haue that we came for, if he lyueth well, it is his owne, end he shal receaue ỳ reward. But lette vs hear what Chrisostome sayth to this matter. If the prestes lyue wel sayth he, it is theyr auauntage, but if they teache well, it is yours. Be not curious to boulte out that, which pertaineth vnto another mã. For oftentymes good learnyng cometh forth from an euyll manne, as euyl earth bryngeth forth precious gold. Is precious golde despysed for the vile earth? Therfore as ỳ golde is chosen, and the earth forsakẽ, so lyke wyse take you the learnyng, & leaue the manners. Agayne he saith, let vs take the doctrine but not the manners. Herbes are not necessary for the bees, but ỳ floures are. So you lykewyse gather the floures of doctrine, and leaue theyr fashons of lyuyng. Here this holy Doctor wylleth vs not to despyse ỳ word, though the Preacher be euell. Lette vs take that is oures, and let go that is hys. The doctrine is oures, ỳ lyfe is hys. I had rather haue a syncer preacher of Gods worde, which shal declare Christ vnto me purely, rebuke my synful lyuyng, conforte me wyth the swete promises of God, shewe me howe I ought to institute my lyfe according to ỳ wyl of god. & although hys mãners be somewhat corrupte and dissent from his preachyng than to haue a wicked Papist, a pestilẽt Pharese & a superstitious Hypocrite, which shal outwardely lyke a crafty fore pretẽd a certayne grauite, & a popeholy mãner of lyuyng, & yet corrupte the holy scriptures, confoũde Gods word wyth mens tradicions, lede the people into superstitious errours, flatter the herers, preach for lucre, mangle ỳ doctrine of Christ, & obscure the waye of trueth. Of suche Christ warneth vs to take hede in the Gospell of Mathew, sayeng, Beware of false Prophetes, which come vnto you

What it is to sit in the chayer of Moyses.

Euery man ỳ preacheth ỳ scripture truly is to be hearde, be his lyfe neuer so wicked.

In Math. Cap. xxiii.

Math. vii.

you in ſhepes clothyng, but in wardly they ar rauening wolfes. Again theſe Chriſt in another place thꝰdereth, ſayeng, wo be to you Scribes and Phariſes, hypocrites, for ye ar lyke painted ſepulchres, which outwardly appere beautifull, but within are ful of bones of dead men and of al filthynes. So ye lykewyſe appere outwardely ryghteous to mē, but inwardly ye are full of hypocriſye and wyckednes. Agayn, ye are they, that iuſtify your ſelfes before mē, but God knoweth your hartes. For that whych ſemeth prayſe worthy before men, is abhominable before God. Therfore ſo long as ẏ preacher ſytteth in the chayer of Moſes & not in the chayer of peſtilēce, he is to be hearde for ẏ wordes ſake, be hys lyfe neuer ſo wycked & vngodly. Notwythſtondyng I exhorte al Chriſten Preachers, & ſo many as vnfaynedly tender ẏ glory of god, and the promotion of his moſt bleſſed worde, that they do theyr endeuour not only to ſet forth Goddes trueth in worde & tonge, but alſo in worcke and verite. Let them be the ſame in life, ẏ thei profeſſe in word. For he taketh vpon hym the name of a Chriſten man in vayne, ſayth ſ. Auſtē, that followeth not Chriſt. For what doth it profyt the to be called that thou arte not, & to vſurpe a ſtraūge name? If thou haſte a pleaſure to be a Chriſten man, do thoſe thynges that pertayne vnto Chriſtianite, and than hardely take vpon the the name of a Chriſtiane. S. Ambroſe alſo ſayth, it is a ſhame full lye before any man to call hymſelfe a Chriſten man, & not to do the workes of Chriſt. Hereto pertayneth ẏ ſayeng of S. Cypriane, no man is truely called a Chriſtiane, but he whych laboureth, ſo moche as lyeth in his power, to ſhewe hymſelfe conformable & lyke to Chriſt in hys manners & conuerſacion. He ẏ ſayth, ẏ he dwelleth in Chriſt, ſayth ſ. Jhon, ought to walke as he hath walked. Seyng than ẏ ſo great purite and innocēcy of lyfe is required of al men that profeſſe Chriſt, ſurely in Preſtes and in them ẏ are preachers of Gods worde, it ought to excel aboue al other. When lyght not a candle, and put it vnder a buſhel, but vpon a candleſticke, & it ſhyneth to ſo many as are in the houſe. So lykewyſe Preſtes are not called vnto the office of preachyng, that theyr conuerſacion ſhulde be darke and wt out lyght, but ẏ it ſhuld be ſo garnyſhed wyth godly vertues & good workes, ẏ it myghte lyghte to ſo many as are in ẏ houſe of God. Chriſt the hygh preſte & euerlaſtyng Byſhop graunt it may ſo be.

Matth. xxiii.

Luke. xvi.

Pſal. i.

Cura eſſe quod lubenter audis Lib. de doctrina chriſtiana.

In Serm. de Abraham.

De. xii. abuſionibus. i. Ioan. ii.

Matth. v.

But as I may returne vnto our matter of ſwearyng, let them that be Preachers, I ſay, aboue al thynges rebuke this abhominable ſynne of ſwearyng, & declare vnto ẏ people what a great offence it is, & howe ẏ plages of God and hys vengeauns ſhal not departe from ẏ houſes of them, that vſe thys moſt deteſtable ſynne of ſwearyng.

Furthermore let al fathers and mothers gyue earneſt diligence that theyr chyldren may from theyr very cradles learne to worſhyppe and honour ẏ moſt bleſſed name of god, and neuer to haue it in theyr mouthes wythout great reuerence done vnto it, eyther by puttyng of theyr cappes or elles by boweyng theyr knees. Let them not be ſuffered by ny meanes to sweare by God or by anye of his creatures, but let theyr communication be yea, yea, nay nay. If they at any time sweare, let the fyrst of all be admonished of theyr faulte, and tolde howe greate an offence it is before God wickedly and vainly to sweare. If they wyll not so amend, let the Parentes punishe them sharpely. Better were it, that theyr bodies in thys worlde should suffer a little paine, than after thys life to haue bothe theyr bodies and soules cast into hell fyre. If all Fathers and Mothers wil thus diligently watch vppon theyr children, it shall cause them not only not to be defiled with the most greuous sinne of swearing, but also that the moost holye name of God shall be had in high reuerence, great estimation and perpetuall honoure for euer after so long as they liue. But aboue al thinges let the Parents them selues be an ensample in this behalf vnto theyr Children, and shew euermore suche reuerence vnto the name of God, that the yonglinges maye well perceiue, that it is no vain thing, that they are taught.

Fathers & mothers.

Math. v.
Iacob. v.

Let all masters and mastresses, and so many as haue seruaunts vnder theyr dominion, prouide that by no meanes they suffer theyr Seruaults at any time to swear nether by God nor by any of his creatures. Let them shew vnto them what a great daunger it is, and how that ỹ vengaunce of God shall not depart from those houses, where swearers are, nether can there any thing prosper, but all thinges must needes go to hauock. Let them also teach thē to haue the name of God in so great honor and reuerence, that it neuer be named among them but honorably and reuerētly. Let them at the least put of theyr caps so oft as they name god, Christ, or any part of his most precious body. If any of their seruaunts wyll not leaue theyr swearing, and learne to haue the name of God in honoure, than let them be put out of theyr houses, leaste they bryng the vengaunce of God vpon so many as are in theyr company.

Maisters and Mastresses.

For as the Godlinesse of one man is many times thoccasion, that God is merciful to many, so is the wickednes of one man oftentimes ỹ cause that many are punished. Therfore it is not inough that the masters & the mastresses of the house be vertuous and godly, except the seruaunts be so likewise. It becommeth a master to haue Seruauntes lyke vnto his own manners, least his goodnes profiteth not so much in the right institution of his family, as the wickednes of thother destroyeth. It is wel, whan one planteth and another watreth, but it is euyl, whan one planteth, and another plucketh vp. Mine eies are vnto the faithfull of thearth, that they may dwel with me, saith Dauid, and who so leadeth a godly life, he shall be my seruaunt. There shall no disceatful parsonne dwell in my house, he that telleth lyes shall not tary in my syght wold God all masters were of this minde. Let al men of occupation abstain from swearing in theyr byinge and sellinge. For it is a shame, that the name of God should be estemed among Christen men of so small prycc, that for the valure of a little temporal auauntage & worldly lucre, men should abuse it and vainely take it. Woo be to that man, whyche for hys

Psal. ci.

What Seruaunts christen men ought to haue.

Pen of occupation.

own

own pryuate lucre doth blaſpheme the name of God, or any of his creatures. There ought to be ſo great ſincerite and fayth amonge Chryſten men, that there ſhould nede no othes in their bargaynes and worldlye buſineſſes. A Chriſten mans word ought to be better and ſurer thã any obligacion. God graunt that we may once ſe this come to paſſe in Englande. Let them that ſweare, becauſe it is the cuſtome ſo to doe, leaue their ſwearyng, and no more folow the wycked cuſtome, but the truth of gods word, which ſayeth, ſweare not at all. Let your communicacion be yea, yea, nay, nay. Let them that glori and reioiſe ſo much in their ſwearyng, that they wyl take vpon them to maintain it by the Scripture, abſtayne from their idle othes, and wreſt no more the holy Scripture, leſt they folowyng the maners of Satan, receaue a rewarde wor thy their wickednes.

Swearers of cuſtome. Math. v.

Swearers for pryde. Math. iiii.

Let thẽ that ſay, though they ſweare, yet we thinke no harme, leaue theyr ſwearynge and remember that they ſhal geue accountes at the dreadefull day of iudgement for euery idle worde that they haue ſpokẽ, ſo that they ſhal not eſcape vnpuniſhed for theyr idle othes. Let thẽ that ſay, few or none wil beleue vs, except we ſweare, rather meddle wyth fewe or none, than they ſhould tranſgreſſe the commaundement of god and bryng damnacion vpon their own heades.

Swearers meanyng no cuyll. Math. xiii.

Swearers that they may be beleued.

To conclude, let al othes be taken away from the midſt of Chryſten men, except they be taken for thoſe cauſes, which I haue expreſſed beefore. If we wil thus do, we ſhall eaſely exchewe the moſte deteſtable vice of periury, and frendely liue together in al truth, ſincerite and faith as it becommeth Saincte, and ſo many as profeſſe Chriſt. For he that wil not ſweare, wil not lyghtely falſely ſweare, and be forſworne. And that we maye bee the more encouraged to forſake all vayne and idle othes, let vs remember, that God, which is the euerlaſting truth, hath promyſed, that he wyll glorify them, which honoure hym and haue his name in reuerence: Agayne, that they ſhal come vnto diſhonoure and a ſhameful ende, that deſpiſe him and blaſpheme hys moſte holye name. Now if we wil that God glorify vs, ỹ is to ſaye, be our good Lord, defende preſerue, kepe and gouerne vs, bleſſe vs, lighten his gracious countenance vpon vs, ſende vs all thynges neceſſary for our lyuyng in thys preſent world, and after thys lyfe geue vs eternall glory: than is it conuenient that we do not abuſe the name of God by our vain and vnrighteous othes, but alwayes laude, prayſe, commende, magnifie and bleſſe it, cal vpon it, fly vnto it as vnto an holy anchore in all oure aduerſyte, and neuer to haue it in our mouthes, but wt hygh reuerence and greate honour. If we do ỹ contrary, ỹ is to ſay, blaſpheme hys moſt holy name than ſhal we vndoubtedly come vnto diſhonoure & a ſhameful end. In thys world ỹ plages & vengeaunce of God ſhal not go awaye from oure houſes, we ſhalbe ſtryken wt many greuous diſeaſes in our bodies, our goods & catel, yea and al ỹ euer we haue ſhal come to nought, our kind of lyuyng ſhalbe deſpyſed wyth all good men, our death ſhalbe payne-

The concluſyon of thys boke.

God to glorify vs what it is.

What euils ſhal chaunce vnto vs, if we vaynelye ſweare.

full, miſerable and wretched, and after theſe ſo greate and manifolde plages, we may be ſure for our wycked ſwearyng to be caſt into hel fi-Eſay.lxvi. er, where the flames of it ſhall neuer be quenched, where wepyng and Math.xxiii. gnaſhing of teth ſhalbe, where the worme that ſhall gnawe our conſciences ſhal neuer dye. Therfore I beſeche al Chriſten men by the tender mercyes of God and by the moſt precious bloud of our Sauioure Jeſus Chryſt, wherby alone we ar redemed, made pure, and deliuered frō al our ſynnes, that they from henceforth leaue their abhominable ſwearyng ether by God or by any of his creatures. Let thē neuer take God to witnes, except it be in a neceſſary and earneſt matter, I meane ſuche Apoca.xv. a matter as maketh vnto the glory of God. Let their communicacyon Apoca.iiii. be yea, yea, nay, nay. Let ſo great ſincerite, truth, and faith reigne amōg them, that one may beleue another wythout an oth, euen by a worde. Let them haue God in ſuch reuerence and honoure, and ſo order theyr tonges in thys worlde, vnto the glorye of GOD, that after thys lyfe through the mercy of God they may be founde worthy to be in the nomber of thoſe bleſſed ſpirites, which wout ceaſing ſing perpetual prayſes to the moſt holy name of God on this maner: Great and maruelous are thy worke, O Lord God almightie, righteous and true are thy wayes, O kyng of Sayncte. Who ſhal not feare the O Lord, and magnifie thy name? For thou art worthy, O Lorde, to take the glory and honor, and power, for thou haſt made al thynges, and for thy wyl they are and Apoca.v. were made. To hym that ſitteth in the throne, and to the lambe, be bleſſyng, and honoure, and glory and power worldes without ende. Amen.

Say not but that ye are warned.

Gyue the glory to God alone.

Certayne auncient godlye and politike lawes for the punishmente of swearyng gathered out of diuers authors.

He that blaspheməth the name of the Lorde he shal dye for it, al the multitude shal stone him to death, whether he be citizen or straunger if he blaspheme the name of the Lorde lette him die the death, this law was executed vpon the sonne of a certayne Israhelitish woman because he blasphemed the name of the Lord he was first put in prison and after ward at the commaundemēt of God he was stoned vnto death. Lex. diuina. Leuiti. xxiiii.

¶ King Henry the fyfte.

KIng Henry the fyfte made a statute for swearers in his owne Palace, that if he were a Duke that dyd sweare, he shoud forfit for euery tyme. xl.s. to the aiding of poore people. If he were a Lorde or Barone. xx.s. If he were a Knight or an Esquier. x.s. If he were a Yemē. iii.d. If he were a page or a Lackey, or a slaue, to be scourged naked either wyth a rod or els with a whip. Waldenus in quodam sermone. Would god this statute were obserued and kept now a daies not onely in the courte but also throughout Englande.

King Edmonde.

KIng Edmonde made this law, that they which wer proued, once falsly forsworne, should for euer be seperated frō gods congregaciō.

¶ Donaldus King of Skottes.

DOnaldus King of Skottes made this acte within his lande, that all periurers and common swearers should haue their lippes seared with a burning whot yron. Hector Boetius in historia Scotorum.

¶ Saynct Lodowicke King of Fraunce.

THis law aforesaid did S. Lodowycke King of Fraunce enact also and put it once in execucion at Paris vpon a Citezin there for blaspheming the name of Chryst vnto the example of other, and so caused it to be proclamed throughout his Realme for a generall punishment. A godly proclamacion, God send vs many such.

¶ Philip King of Fraunce.

PHilip king of Fraunce, whom soeuer he perceaued to blaspheme the name of God ether in Tauerne, or any where els, yea although he wer a great man of dignite, commaunded, that he should be drowned And caused a strong acte to be made of it a litle before his death, & leafte it vnto his successours. Vincentius in speculo historiali.

Philip Earle of Flaunders.

PHilip Earle of Flaunders made this constitucion within his Earledome in the yeare of our Lord M. CCxxvii. that he that did forswear himselfe, should lose his lyfe and goods. Iacobus Maiorus in chronicis Flandria.

¶ Maximilianus the Emperoure.

MAximilianus the Emperoure made also a decree, that whosoeuer euer he wer, that was a comon ſwearer, ſhuld for the fyrſte tyme loſe a marke. And if he wer not content wyth that, he ſhulde loſe his heade, which acte he and the nobilite of the Empire commaunded to be publiſhed four tymes in the yere, at Eaſter, Whitſonday, Aſſumptiõ of our Lady (as they cald it) and Chriſtmas.

In Paralip. rerum memorabilium.

The law of the Egipcians was that no ſwearyng ſhould be vſed among them at all, except it were for a weightie cauſe, if any were found to be periured the ſame ſhould loſe his head.

Lex. Egip. Iohannes. Boemus Lib. Hiſtoriarum. i.

The law among the Scythyans was ỳ if any among them coulde be proued to be a notable ſwearer or ſoche a one as wold forſwear him ſelf the ſame beyng conuict of the ſalt, ſhould without taryaunce not only loſe his head but his goods alſo which they ſhould haue that proued him periured.

Lex Scyth. Ioannes Boemus Hiſtoriarum. ii.

The Romaynes had a law that al ſuch as wer founde to be periured ſhould be throwne downe headlong from the toppe of a high rock called tarpeius.

Lex Romanorum in Lege. xii. tabularũ. Exod. xx.

Thou ſhalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vayne for the Lord wil not holde him giltles: that taketh his name in vayne.

Eccle. xxiii.

Let not thy mouth be accuſtomed wyth ſwearyng for in it there are many faules. &c. Lyke as a ſeruaunt which is oft punyſhed cannot bee wythout ſom ſore, euen ſo whatſoeuer he be that ſweareth and nameth God (in vayn) ſhal not be cleane purged from ſin, a mã that vſeth much ſwearyng, ſhalbe filled wyth wickednes and the plage ſhal neuer goo from his houſe.

The wordes of the ſwearer bryngeth death (God graunte that it be not founde in the houſe of Jacob) but they that feare God, eſchewe all ſuch, and lye not weltryng in ſyn.

The councell of Ioſephus.

Lib. iiii. Ant Cap. vi.

The councel of Joſephus is this that he, which blaſphemeth God and vnreuerently vſe his name, ſhould be ſtoned vnto death, and than hanged vp by the ſpace of one day, and ſo taken downe, and buryed without all maner of honour. Diuers other moſt noble Pryn-ces made diuers other moſt holy lawes, for the exchewing of cuſtomable ſwearyng and Periury. Would God that theſe their moſt godly actes myght ether be renued among Chryſten men, or els ſome other deuyſed for ỳ abolyſhing & puttyng away of the moſt wycked and detestable cuſtome of ſwearyng, euery Pryncе as he ſhall thynke moſt conuenyent for the ſtate of hys Realme. Lawes are made, and penaltes appointed for diuers meane thyngs, which onely concerne worldly matters, why than do not Chryſten Prynces alſo make lawes, actes and decrees for the glory of God, that hys name may be had in honoure and reuerence as moſte worthy of all it is? Me worldly matters may not ſo bee eſteemed,

eſteemed, that thynges pertaining vnto the glory of God and the ſaluacion of Chriſten mens ſoules ſhalbe neglected. For rulers are appointed of God not onely to loke vpon mundayne and worldly, but alſo diuine and ſpirituall matters. And it is their duty no les to tender ỹ glory of God, and to make actes concernyng the ſame, then to ſee to that publique tranquilite and al things decent and comely for an honeſt outward order be maintayned, preſerued and kept. And as they are the ſupreme heades and chefe Rulers both of the Spiritualte and Temporalte, ſo oughte they to trauayle no leſſe in ſpirituall than in temporall matters. Loke what enormities, wickednesſes, vngodly cuſtomes, ſuperſticious and vnrighteous maners. &c. reygne in Realmes, all theſe ought to be abolyſhed and put awaye by the worldly Potentates and earthly rulers. God graunt that we may ſe it ſhortly, not onely in thys Realme, but in the kingedomes of ſo many as profeſſe Chryſt. Amen.

¶ Remedies againſt ſwearyng.

If thou be bente to leaue the wicked cuſtome of ſwearyng, firſt pray feruently vnto God, that he wil take away that thy hart, which is defyled on ſuch ſort, and ſo hardened with the cuſtomable vſage of ſinning, that ther can enter no vertue nor godlynes into it. Secōdly deſire him for his gret mercyes ſake to create in thee a newe harte, and to poure his ſpirite ſo aboundantly into thy breſt that by the influence of it, thou mayeſt be able to thynke in vertue, and al that euer ſhalbe pleaſaunt to ỹ diuine maieſty. Thirdly be ſo at defyaunce with all vice and ſynne, that by no meanes at any tyme thou haue pleaſure eyther to thynke, heare or talke of it, ſo far let it be fro̅ the to medle any thig at al w̅ it in thought, word or dede

Forthely ſet this ſayng of Chryſt euer before thyne eyes, that at the daye of iudgemente accomptes ſhalbe geuen of euery idle worde, that is ſpoken. Thys ſhall bryng vnto thy remembraunce, how greuous accoūtes ſhalbe required of them, that cuſtomably ſweare, vainly vſurpe the name of God, blaſpheme God, be falſly forſworne. &c. Reade the thirde chapter of S. Iames Epiſtle.

Fiftly, that thou mayeſt the more eaſly exche we ſwearynge, flye the company of them, that vſe cuſtomably to ſweare, or haue a pleaſure to enterlace their talke with blaſphemous othes. And what ſoeuer thou hateſt in other, loke that by no meanes thou doeſt the ſame. Syrtely, buſyethy ſelfe continuallye in geuing praiſes vnto God, and in ſettinge forth the glory of hys name. Delighte thou in nothing ſo much, as in doing thoſe thinges, that make vnto the auauncement of the diuine maieſty. This ſhal not a litle make vnto the putting away of ſwearyng, and make thee to haue a mouth, whiche ſhall be the organ and inſtrumente of the holy goſt, to ſet forth and publyſhe the glory of God.

Finally

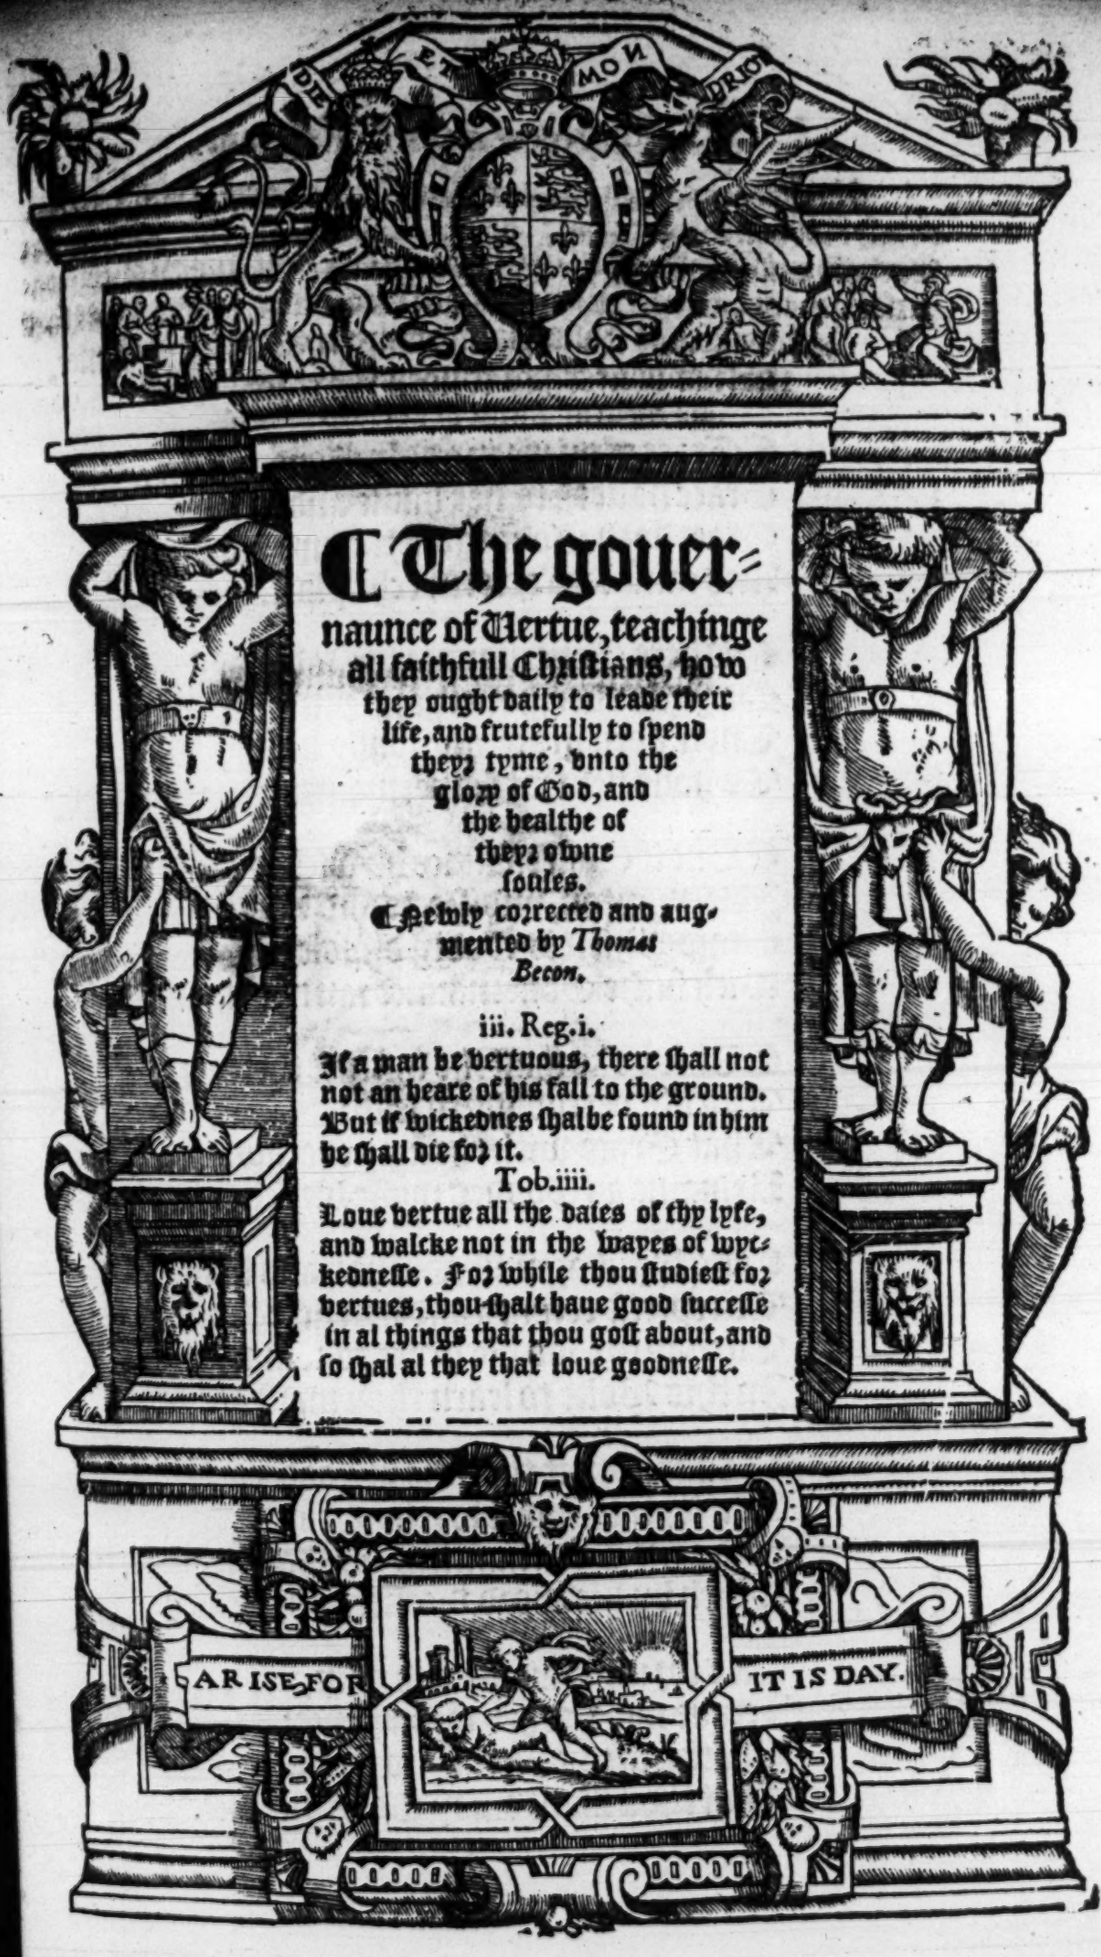
Finallye, let nothynge come forthe of thy mouthe, vntill it be throwolye ſodden in thy breaſte, as Epictetus the Greake Philoſopher warneth, and ſo ordre bothe thy tounge and thine actes in all thy converſation, that it neuer repent the afterward of anye thinge that thou haſte done. So ſhalt thou not onlye eſchewe the damnable cuſtome of ſweatinge, but alſo garniſh thy life with all kinde of vertues vnto the great glory of God and the healthy of thy ſoule.

So be it.

Finis.

¶ Gene the glory to God alone.

11 JU 62



¶ The gouernaunce of Uertue, teachinge all faithfull Christians, how they ought daily to leade their life, and frutefully to spend theyr tyme, vnto the glory of God, and the healthe of theyr owne soules.

¶ Newly corrected and augmented by Thomas Becon.

iii. Reg. i.

If a man be vertuous, there shall not not an heare of his fall to the ground. But if wickednes shalbe found in him he shall die for it.

Tob. iiii.

Loue vertue all the daies of thy lyfe, and walcke not in the wayes of wyckednesse. For while thou studiest for vertues, thou shalt haue good successe in al things that thou goest about, and so shal al they that loue goodnesse.

To the godly Reader.

GRace groweth after Gouernaunce,
Is an old said sawe in eche place:
If gouernaunce hath good resemblaunce,
Grace deliteth to follow the trace.

Grace gloryeth in godly Gouernaunce,
Grace hasteth to her haule and palace:
Grace doth Godly gouernaunce auaunce,
And cause it to extel in eche place.

Where Gouernaunce is Godly wise,
Sage, Sober, honest, and prudent:
There doth grace, gloriously deuise,
To haue her seat aie permament.

But if Gouernaunce be wicked,
Idle, wanton, vndiscrete and vain:
Grace which is Godly disposed,
With suche Gouernaunce can not remaine.

This boke shall the instruct therfore,
Thy life vertuously to lead:
That Grace with the may euermore, Remaine as Goddes moste blessed sede.

To fyght against Sathan and sinne,
To represse errours and heresies:
To pray to God his grace to winne,
In this Boke to learn thou maist deuise.

Take thou it therfore in good part,
As a ioyfull Jewel for thy wealth:
And geue God thankes wythall thy hart,
Which by his word worketh thy health.

As for my trauaile and pain,
I craue none other recompence:
But thy life vertuously to train,
That thou maist enioy Gods presence.

To the right honourable and moſt vertuous young Lady Jane Semer, doughter to the hie and mighty Prince Edward, Duke of Somerſet his grace. Thomas Becon wiſheth encreaſe of godlye knowledge in Chriſt Jeſu our Lord.

Here are no parents (moſt godly Lady) that deſerue better of the Chriſten publique weale, thē they which thorow Gods gift hauinge children, employ all theyr endeuors to train them vp euen from theyr very cradels in good letters & in the knowledge of Goddes moſt bleſſed wil, that with theyr yōg yeres, learning, vertue and Godlineſſe, may growe and encreaſe, and the yōglinges by this meanes be made at the laſt auncient and perfect ſchollers in the miſteries of Chriſtes Schole. This carefull ſtudy and ſtudious care for ꝑ vertuous bringing vp of youth. God in time paſt earneſtly required of al fathers and Mothers in the commō wele of his people the Iſraelites, and accordīg to Gods holy commaūdement ſuch as vnfainedly feared the Lord theyr God, and wiſhed wel to their cōtry, refuſed no labor, no pain, no coſt, that theyr children might thorow knowledge, vertue and learning, be made worthye and profytable membres of the publique weale. As I may paſſe ouer thauncient and holy Patriarches whiche were before the lawe of Moſes of whoſe diligence in the vertuous bringinge vp of theyr yonglinges, it is more double wickednes to doubt, ſeing we haue this euident teſtimony of Abraham euen at Gods owne mouth. Shall I hide from Abraham, ſaith God, ꝑ thing which I entend to do. Seing that Abraham ſhalbe a great and a mighty people, & al the nātions of thearth ſhalbe bleſſed in him. I know this alſo, that he wil commaunde his children and his houſholde after him, that they kepe the way of the Lord, and do after right and conſcience. What earneſt diligence dyd the moſt noble and vertuous king Dauid ſhew in the Godly bringing vp of his children, ſpecially of Salomon, that he might become a Prince worthy both, for his Godlines learninge, wiſdome and pollicye, to rule in the common weale after him. What godly inſtructions alſo gaue he him, whan he was at the poynt of death: behold, ſaith he, I muſt walke by the way of al the world, neuertheles be ſtrong and quite thy ſelf manfully, and ſe thou kepe thappoyntmēt of the Lord thy God, that thou walke in his waies, and kepe his commaundementes, ordinaunces, lawes and teſtimonies, as it is wrytten in the law of Moſes. &c.

Gene. xviii.

iii. Reg. ii.

Likewiſe read we of thauncient father Toby, whiche taught his yonge ſonne Toby to feare God from his infancy, and to abſtain from all ſinne. His exhortations are ſo Godly and ſo mete for al perſons to learne, that I thynke it not conuenient to paſſe them ouer with ſilence: His wordes are theſe.

Tob. i.

Herken my ſonne what I wil ſay, & lay my wordes in thy hart as a foundaciō. My ſon when I am dead bury me, & after deſpiſe not thi mother, but honor her al the daies of her life, and do to pleaſe her, & not to diſpleaſe her. My ſon remember how great perils ſhe ſuffred bearing the in her wombe, & when ſhe is dead, bury her in the ſame graue by me. Sōne reuerence our Lord God at all times, ſin not, nor breake not his commaundements, but loue vertue al the daies of thy life, and walcke not in the waies of wickednesse. For while thou studiest for vertue, thou shalt haue good successe in al things that thou goest about, and so shal all they that loue goodnes. Do almes of thy substance, and be no nigard in doing of it. Turne not thy face away, from any poore man, as thou woldest that God should not tourn away his face from the. Geue as thou shalt be able, if thou haue much, geue much and if thou haue little, geue of that little. For thou shalt lay vp for the a good tresure againste the daye of necessity. For almes deliuereth from death, and suffreth not the soule to come into darknesse. Almesse is a great comforte before the hyest to all that vse it. My sonne beware, kepe the from al whoredome, and vse no euil company besides thy wife. Suffer pride neuer to rule in thy mind no not in word. For death is ioyned to Pride and much trouble, and to hautines is ioyned displesure and greate pouertye, and she is mother of hunger. Let no mans hire remaine with the, whose seruice thou hast had, but forthwith pay his wages, for vnto the also seruing God, reward shalbe geuen.

Tob. iiii.

Sonne be circumspect and ware in al thy dedes, and in al that thou dost, while thou liuest, be wise, and do not to any man ẏ thou woldest not to be don vnto the. Drink not wine vntil thou be dronk, nor carye it not with the by the waye. Geue thy bread to the hongry, and with thy clothes couer the naked. Whatsoeuer thou hast more then is sufficient geue it to the poore, and neuer grudge to be liberall. Set thy bread vpon the sepulchres of the iust, and bestow it not vpon the noughty. Are counsel alwaies of the wise, and despise no good counsel. Be alwais praying vnto the Lord, and beseche him that he wil order thy fotesteps and waies, and prosper thy deuises. For no people are wise, but the Lord him self is the geuer of all good thinges, and thrusteth downe whome, and who he listeth. My son be not afraid, we lead a poore life in this world, notwithstãding if thou fear God, & study to please him, thou shalt haue goodes inough. Therfore my sonne, remember my precepts, & put them not out of thy minde. Again, being ready to die, he called vnto him, his sonne and his sõnes children, and among al other things he spake vnto him on this wise: kepe thon the law and commaundements, and shew thy self merciful and iust, that thou maist prosper. Haue God euer in thy remembraunce, and praise him at al times withal thy might. In like maner rede we of the parets of ẏ most godly and chast woman Susanna, which being righteous them selues, taughte theyr yong doughter to fear the Lord her God, euen frõ her very cradle, & diligẽtly brought her vp, according to the law of Moses. Blessed Luke also in his boke of thapostles maketh mention of the iiii. doughters of Phillip the Euangelist, which did prophecy, that is to say, wer so godly brought vp in the knowledge of gods most blessed law, that they were able to declare and expound ẏ holy scriptures & misteries of God according to this prophecy. I wil poure out of my spirite vpon all flesh, and your sonnes, and your doughters shal prophecy. Doth not blessed Paul also commend Timothe because he had knowne the holy scriptures euẽ of a childe.

Tob. xiiii.

Dan. xiii.

Actes. xxi.

Ioel. ii.
Actes. ii.
ii. Tim. iii.

Diuers histories mo might be aledged out of the holy Scriptures to declare the careful studies and earnest labors, which the holy fathers in time past toke for the godly and vertuous bringing vp of theyr yonglinges, that they might be fathers not onlye of the bodye but also of the minde, and for theyr power satisfy the good wyll of God, which requyreth of al Parents, an earnest diligence and a watching eie in bringing vp of theyr childrẽ in his nurture and fear, in his word and doctrin, but these for this present may seme aboundantlye to suffice.

Furthermore as touching the heathen, which of them al euen from the lowest both amongst the Romaines and the Grekes, with diuers other natiõs although hauing respect not vnto the glory of GOD, wherunto thend of all studies, ought to be directed, but onlye vnto the auauncemente of them selues, vnto the maintenaunce of good, politique, ciuil and honest orders, vnto the hability of ruling in a common weale, vnto the polishinge of theyr wit, vnto eloquence, vnto immortality of theyr name, enforced not both them selues to be learned, and also sought all meanes possible to haue theyr Children broughte vp in good letters? That they? yonglinges might become learned, what paines o? costs refused the parents. They sent they? children frō country to country, frō one learned man to another. Many of them called learned men home vnto they? houses, gaue them honorable entertainmēt, great giftes, and large stipends fo? teaching they? children. There was no burthen to heauy, no labo? to painefull, no cost to chargable fo? them, so ỹ they? childrē might proue learned. If they obtained that, they thought thē selues worthy and rightous parents, & to deserue wel both of they? Children and of the publike weale. And as euery one of them excelled in worthines and authority: so labored they that both them selues and they? children should excel & passe the baser sort in learning, in knowledge, in vertue and honest behauio?, in so much ỹ if any were vnlearned, and wanted the godly qualities of the minde, albeit he were of an honorable parentage, he was couted of no reputation, and called a stone, a block, a beast, a golden slaue, a shepe with a golden Fleese, an horse trapped with siluer, an Asse couered with Purple, with such other despiteful names, so little regarded euen among the heathen, was noble blood, worldly substance, sumptuous apparel, gorgious building, delicate fare, and whatsoeuer besides the folish world, wherein it, and most highly estolleth, if learning and vertue were absent. By thys meanes, came it to passe that Philip king of the Macedonians, and his sonne Alexander, Iulius Cesar, Darius, Antoninus, Philosophus themperor, Hieron, Attalus, Magones, Iuba, Dion Siracusanus, Thebanus, Epaminondas, Pompeius, Augustus, Traianus, Antoninus Pius, Claudius, Tiberius Titus, Vespasianus, Domicianus, Aelius, Adrianus; Galerius Maximus, the sonnes of Tiberius Gracchus, with other innumerable, became both learned, and the vnfained fauourers of learning, yea and the diligent promoters of learned mē. Many of them whiche were right excellent Emperors and Noble kinges thought them selues more noble and more worthy of renowme for they? learning and vertue thē for they? imperial dignity and Princely authority.

theyr

When king Alphonsus hard a certen man say, that learning was not semely for a Prince, or for a noble man, he cried out and said Vox bouis non hominis. Thys is the voyce of an Oxe, and not of a man. When a certaine man demaunded of Isocrates whether he thoughte the king of the Persians happy and blessed or not, he answered, I know not how much learning and vertue he hath, meaning that the true felicity, happines, and wealth consysteth not in the flittinge and vncertayne goodes of fortune, but in the constant and immortal treasures of the minde. The bringing vp of youth in learning and honest qualities, was so muche regarded amonge the Lacedemonians, that they made a lawe, whosoeuer did not study for the honest and vertuous traininge vp of they? children in good letters and other necessary artes profitable for a common wealth: the same shoulde be depriued of all suche priueledges and liberties, as were due to true and faithfull Citizens. Oure auncetors both among the people of god, and among the heathen, did coūder that the health, prosperity, and safegard of the commō weale, doth principally consist in the godly and vertuous bringing vp of youth. If they be learned and prudentely brought vp, then shal they after warde proue, some noble Magistrates, some wyse and faithful counsellors, some godly spirituall ministers, some learned scholemasters, some diligent labourers, some cunning artificers, some, &c. and all obedient subiects to the hie powers, and profitable members of the common weale. Contrariwise, if they be brought vp in barbarous rudenes and without any ciuilitye or knowledge of good letters and such other necessary actes: must nedes come to passe that they shalbe rather pestilences then preseruers of the common weale. Therfore did our elders aboue al thinges shew earnest diligence about the godly training vp of they? youth, in honest and vertuous exercises, euer settinge before they? eies, that learning to a noble man, is a ioyful Jewel, to the baser sort, a sure defence and almighty bulwark, against the stout stormes of frowarde fortune, and to a common weale a precious preseruatiue. In like manner my Lordes grace your Father a Prince of noble renowme, in whome as in a true mirroure liuelye shine the beautiful beames of right nobility, considering that thoffice of a worthy Parent appeareth in nothing so manifestly as in the godly bringing vp of youth in heauenly misteries, that is to saye, in the knowledge of good letters and in the study of Gods most blessed word, hath with my Ladies grace your mother, a Lady of notable godlines, and of singuler pity toward the poore membres of Christ, euen from your cradels studied to train and bring vp both my Lordes your brothers, & my Ladies your sisters, and you likewise his graces children in good literature, & in the knowledge of Gods most holy lawes, that ye may learne from your infancy to fear the Lord your God, and to walke in his godly ordinaunces, and so become truely noble, not only for birthes sake, but also for learning and vertue, & for the godly qualities of the mind. In the which godly exercises ye haue so profited euen in these your tender yeres, that ye haue not only answered but also ouercome the expectation of many. If ye go forth according to your beginninges. I doubt not, but that ye shal get to my Lordes grace, and to my Ladies grace your most honorable parents, much renowm, and to your self noble fame & glorious immortality. And albeit your good Ladiships brest is so furnished withal godly doctrin, that ye nede not my simple and homely exhortations to moue you vnto godlines and vertue, wherunto of your own disposition ye are most willingly bent & enclined, yet to declare some part of my good will toward your Ladiship. I thoughte it not good to let thoccasion offred vnto me. Certen wekes past considering the miserable face of this tomuch wretched and lamentable world, and waying with my self that the next and most ready way to redresse our miseries, is to flie vnto God with continual and harty prayer. I made a boke entitled: The Flour of Godly prayers, dedicated to my Ladies grace your mother, wherin are contained prayers, not only for al degrees and states of men, but also for al other thinges necessary to be asked of God, ether for the body or for the soule, which prayers I wold wish daily as occasion shal serue, to be vsed of the faithful. Immediatlye after the setting forthe of these prayers, certain of my frends came vnto me, and earnestly required of me to peruse and correct the Gouernaunce of Vertue, which about. viii. yeres passe, euen in the bloudy boistrous burning time, when the reading of the holy Bible, the word of our soules health, was forbidden the poore lay people. I gathered out of the holy scriptures, and caused to be printed for thedifying of the simple and vnlearned Christians. Yet suppressing my name which at ỳ time was odious to those owles that could not abide the glorious light of Gods blessed word, that the boke might haue the better succes, & be the more free from Antichristes thonderboltes, I knowing my self debter to al good men, and to al theyr godly requests, perused the boke wherin I found so many faultes thorowe the negligence of the hongry printers, ỳ very pity without any request of frends, might haue ben thought sufficiẽt to haue geuen me occasion to correct the boke, which hitherto hath ben so greatly desired and greadely red almost of al men, yea and that not wythout great profit, as the often printing of the boke doth sufficiently declare. I haue diligently perused ỳ boke corrected the faultes, changed diuers things, and added many necessary instructions with diuers godly prayers for thedifying of the readers. This little booke recognised and augmented I dedicate vnto your most vertuous Lady, I geue vnto your Ladiship as a testimony of my good will toward you, desiringe you to take this my poore gifte in good part. And I shal most hũbly beseche the Lord our God to preserue my Lordes grace and my Ladies grace your honorable parents in good health, long life, and encrease of honor, and to geue my Lordes, your brothers, and my Ladies your sisters, and you also grace to go forth in your godly enterprises and Christen studies, that ye may truely know the Lord your God, and the saluation which ye haue by his sonne Jesu Christ our alone Sauioure, who euer preserue your good Ladiship in continual health and prosperous felicity.

Amen.

The

❧ The Gouernaunce of vertue.

¶ How a man ſhould behaue hymſelfe in the mornyng when he ryſeth.

¶ When thou ryſeſt in the Mornyng, loke that thou with al humblenes of minde kneleſt down, and lifting vp thy hart, thy handes and thyne eyes vnto heauen vnto God the father almighty, pray on this maner.

¶ A prayer for the mornyng.

O Lord God my heauenly Father, I moſt humbly thanke thee that thou of thy fatherly goodnes, haſt vouchſafe to defende me thys nyght from al euil: I moſt entirely beſeche thee, to preſerue me alſo this day, both from ſuffryng and doyng any euil, and to geue me grace ſo to walke in the lighte of thy holy worde, that I maye bryng forth the fruites of the ſame vnto the glorye of thy bleſſed name, and the profit of my neighboure. Amen.

¶ A Confeſſion of our ſinnes vnto God the father.

MOſt greuouſly haue I wretched ſinner offended thee my Lord God and heauenly father, both in thoughte, worde and dede in ſomuch that in my ſelfe I fynde ſuch vnworthynes, that if I did not beholde thyne exceadyng great mercyes, ſet forth in thy derely beloued ſonne our Lorde and Sauioure Jeſu Chryſte, I could not but diſpayre and wholy geue my ſelfe into the handes of Satan that olde enemye of mankynde: But when through thy grace and holy worckyng, I loke vpon thy mercyes offered freelye to all faythfull penitent ſynners in thy ſonne Chryſt Jeſu, for whoſe ſake thou art wel pleaſed wyth man, and of thy owen good will forgeueſt vs alour ſinnes when ſoeuer we flye vnto thee in hys name, I ceaſe to diſpayre, and begin to conceaue an earneſt fayth, and an vndoubted hope of obtayning forgeuenes of all my ſynnes in Chryſtes bloud for thy louyng and Fatherly promyſe ſake. I therfore poore and wretched ſinner, moſt humbly beſeche thee for Chryſtes ſake, to forgeue me all my ſynnes, wherwyth from the day of my byrth vnto thys preſent tyme, I haue moſt greuouſly offended thy fatherly goodnes, and to geue me grace ſo to reſiſt ỹ deuil, the worlde, & the fleſh, and ſo to order my life according to thy bleſſed wil, that thou mayeſt delight in me as a father in his ſonne: defende me from all euill, and worke in me all good thynges vnto the glorye of thy holy name. Amen.

Matth. iii. xvii. Marke. i. Luke. iii. ii. Pete. i.

¶ After thy confession say the Lordes prayer, called the Pater noster, and so commyttyng thy selfe vnto God, fall in hande wyth some honest and vertuous exercise accordyng to thy callynge. But what soeuer thou dost, doe it wyth purenes of hart and syngleines of eye, yea so do it, as though God were presente and loked vpon thee, as vndoubtedly he doth.

¶ Of Dynner.

¶ When the tyme commeth that thou shouldest refreshe thy wery and hongry body, approche vnto the table with reuerence, and when thou art set, lifte vp thy hart, thy handes and thy eyes vnto heauen, and pray vnto God on thys maner

¶ A Prayer before Dynner.

Most gentell GOD and louyng father, whiche mercyfullye fedeste all liuing creatures, we beseche thee, bleſſe vs and all theſe thy gyftes, which we at this present shal receaue of thy bounteous hande, for the refreshyng of our hongrye bodies, and geue vs grace to do all thynges vnto the glorye of thy name, throughe Jesus Christe oure Lorde. Amen.

¶ Of the behauioure at the table in dynner time.

¶ When thou hast thus prayed vnto God eate thy meate soberly and Christenly eschewing al superfluity, surfetyng and dronkenshyp. Consider that thy meate and thy drinke, are the giftes of God, and are reuerently and thankfully to bee receiued. Remember that in the tyme of thy repast, thy behauioure be honest & comely in all thynges. Let thy communycacion, as the Apostle saieth, be wel seasoned and poudred with salt that is to say, seasoned with godly wisedom, that thou maiest know how to answere euery man. Let no filthy talke procede out of thy mouth, but that which is good to edify, when nede is, that it maye haue fauoure with the hearers, remembryng that thou shalt geue accountes at the day of iudgement for euery idle worde that thou speakest. Eschewe al dissolate and vncomely langhing, least thou be therby counted wilde, wanton, foolyshe & wythout good maners. Let thy countenaunce be graue sober, modest, gentle & louing toward all that be at the table, and so fashion thy selfe in gesture, worde and deede, as though God and hys aungels were visibly present at the table. And when Dynner is done, geue thankes to God for hys benefytes on this maner.

Colos. iiii.

Ephe. iiii.

Math. xii.

¶ A thankes geuing after Dynner.

We thanke thee O heauenly father for this our fode, whych being sanctified by thy worde, thou hast vouchsafe at this present to geue vs: we beseche thee, that thou wylte also feede our soules with the liuely bread of thy word, which cōmeth out of thy mouth, that we receiuing at thy mercifull hande, meate both for our bodyes and soules, maye lyue and growe in all godlinesse vnto the the glory of thy blessed name, through Jesu Christ our Lord. Amen.

What is to be done after Dynner.

¶ After thou hast geuen thankes vnto god for thy repast, returne vnto thy labour and vertuously exercise thy selfe, according to thy vocation & callyng, Employe earnest diligence about thy busynes, and alway in thy mind desyre god to blesse to prospere and to bryng to pas all thy councels, deuyses, trauayles, labours & enterpryses. Do not thy worke negligently and deceitfullye, but so laboure as though god were present, and beheld thee, as vnfaynedly he doeth. Cursed be he sayeth Hieremy, that doth the Lordes worke deceytfully S. Paul also exhorteth, that whatsoeuer we do we should do it hartely, as though we did it vnto the Lorde, and not vnto men, for as muche sayeth he, as ye knowe that of the Lord ye shal receiue the reward of inheritaunce, for ye serue the Lord Christ. yea verely so many as laboure or trauayle in any vertuous enterpryse, they serue God, and of God shal they receyue their reward. Therfore in thy calling Labour earnestly and diligentlye, whatsoeuer thou be, seking not onlye thine own lucre and auauntage: but much more the glory of God, and the profyte of thy neighboure, as the Apostle sayeth: do all thynges vnto the glory of God. Agayne, let euery man loke not for hys own profyt, but for the profyt of other. Charitie seketh not her own.

Ephe.vi. Colloss.iii.

i.Cor.x. Phi.ii. i.Cor.xiii.

¶ Of Supper.

¶ When the tyme is come, that thou shalt leaue of thy woorke, and prepare thy selfe vnto Supper, euen wyth the same reuerence that thou camest vnto the table at Dynner, come agayne nowe: but before thou doest tast any meate, prayse on thys maner.

¶ A prayer before Supper.

THe eies of all thinges looke vnto thee, O Lorde, and thou geuest them meate in due tyme, thou openest thy hande, and fillest euery lyuing creature with thy blessyng: vouchsafe, O heauenly father for Christes sake mercifully to loke vpon vs, louingly to blesse vs, and lyberally to geue vs grace so to tast of these thy creatures, that our bodyes beyng satysfyed with the moderate vse of them, we may be the more able to serue thee our Lorde God, and to profit our neighbour, through Jesu Christ our Lord. Amē.

¶ Of the behauioure at the Table in Supper time.

¶ After thou hast thus prayed vnto God, eate thy meate wyth a chereful & thankfull mynde vsyng the same modesty and honest behauour, that thou dyddst vse at Dynner. And when thou hast supped, geue thankes vnto god for hys benefites on thys wyse.

A thanke-

A thankes geuing after Supper.

FOr these thy benefytes, wher with thou hast refreshed our vil grye bodyes, we thancke the (moste merciful father) desiring thee that thou wylte also feede our soules with lyuely sayth in the bloud of thy Sonne Jesus Chryste our Lorde, that we beleuyng stedfastly, & worckyng dilygently thy holy wyll, may obtayne thy glorious kindom, through ỹ same Jesu Chryste our Lord. Amen.

What is to be done after Supper.

¶ When thou hast on thys wyse geuen thankes vnto God, thou mayest doe what thou wylt, so it be godly & honest, vntyl thou goost to bed. If thou canste reade, rede thou thy selfe, or els here other rede some part of the holy Scriptures, that may be to the comfort of thy selfe, and of so many as be wyth thee, or els pas ỹ tyme by frendely and honest talke wyth some of thy louyng and trusty familiars, or els debate wyth thy selfe, how thou mayest most cõueniently bryng that to passe, that thou hast to do the next day folowyng.

Of goyng to Bed.

¶ And when the tyme commeth, that thou must go to bed, thou beyng in thy chãber, call to remembraunce how thou hast spent the day past. If thou perceyuest, that thou haste offended God in any thyng at all, confesse thy faulte vnto hym wyth a repentaunt and sorowfull hart, and desyre hym of hys great mercye for Chrystes sake to forgeue thee, and promyse that vnto the vttermost of thy power, hys grace worckyng wyth thee, thou wylt amende that wherein thou haste offended, and walke more diligentlye in the rules of thy profession. Cry with the Publicane, O God be mercyfull to me a synner. Cry wyth that lost sonne: Father I haue synned agaynst heauen and in thy syght, and am no more worthy to be called thy sonne. Pray wyth Dauid: for thy names sake, O Lord, forgeue me my synne for it is exceadyng much. Thus wyth a faythfull harte beleuyng that thy synnes are forgeuen thee, contente thy selfe and quiet thy conscience. If thou perceyuest that thou hast that day committed no notable crymes, then geue to God ryghte harty thankes, which by his holi spirit hath wrought the same in thee, and desyre hym to encrease hys gyftes in thee, that hys glorye may be shewed in all thy actes and dedes. Thys done, prepare thy selfe to bedwarde, and when thou art ready to lye down, lyfte vp thyne harte, thy eyes, & thy handes vnto heauen, and praye to God on thys maner.

Luke. xviii.
Luke. xv.
Psal. xxv.

A prayer to be sayed when we goe to bed.

I Thanke thee (O heauenly father) by thy dearelye beloued Sonne Jesu Chryste our Lorde and Sauioure, that of thy free mercy thou hast preserued me thys day from all hurtes, and daungers. Vouchesafe also I most humbly beseeche thee to kepe me this nyghte, and to saue me from all myne enemyes both bodely bodely and goſtly. Geue to my body quietnes and ſlepe, but let mi mind continually watche vnto thee, thynke on the, and on thy holy law, that when the cherefull lighte of the daye ſhal ſpring and appeare, I beyng whole both in body and minde, may ioyfully riſe againe, be thankefull vnto thee, and diligently walke in my vocacion vnto the glory of thy bleſſed name, and the commoditie of my neighboure, throughe Jeſus Chriſt thy ſonne. Amen.

¶ When thou haſt thus prayed, lye down in thy bed and ſay on thys maner.

¶ The Prayer

O Lord God and my heauenly father, I commende my body and ſoule into thy handes, that in Chriſt which is our life and reſurrection, thou maieſt defende me from euerlaſting death, and geue me that bleſſed and ioyful life of immortalitie, and that he which is the true lighte, maye poure oute the brightnes of his grace into my harte and preſerue me both body and ſoule vnto that day of the glorious reſurrection, where the faythfull with ioyfull hartes ſhall ſee thee face to face, & for euer reigne with thee in glory. Amen. i. Iohn. iii. Iohn. i.

¶ Remedies agaynſt all kyndes of temptacions.

☞ Agaynſt Idolatry.

¶ If that olde enemy Satan goeth about to perſwade thee, that there be mo goddes then one, reſiſt him wyth theſe Scriptures.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Teſtamente.

I Am the Lorde thy God. Thou ſhalte haue none other gods in my ſight. Exo. xx.

Underſtande, and marke well that the Lorde he is God in heauē aboue, and vpon the earth beneth, nether is there any other God beſydes him. Deu. iiii.

Here Iſrael, the Lord our God is one Lord. Deu. vi.

Se how that I, yea ꝑ I am the Lord & that there is no God but I. Deut. xxxii.

Here O my people I wil charge thee, O Iſraell, that if thou wylte harken vnto me, there ſhal no ſtraunge God be in the, nether ſhalt thou worſhip any other God. For I am the Lord thy God. Pſal. lxxxi. Eſay. xlv.

I am the Lord, and there is none other. Beſides me ther is no God.

I am the Lord, and there is els none. It is I that created lyght and darkenes. I make peace and trouble, yea euen I the Lorde do all theſe thynges.

Am not I the Lord? ist here any God but I? A God that is ryghteous, and ſuch one as ſaueth, there is none beſides me.

Turne vnto me al ye coaſtes of the world and ye ſhalbe ſaued, for I am God, and there is els none.

Haue we not all one father? hath not one God made vs. Mala. ii.

¶ An example out of the olde Teſtament.

Ibraham ſaw three, and worſhipped one. Gene. viii.

Sentences

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math. iiii. Thou shalt worshyp the Lord thy God, & hym onely shalt thou serue.

i. Cor. viii. We haue but one God, which is the father, of whom ar al things and we in him, and one Lord Jesus Chryst, by whom are all thynges, and we in hym.

Ephe. iiii. There is one Lorde, one fayth, one baptysme, one God, and father of all, which is aboue all, and through all, and in you all.

i. Tim. ii. There is one God, and one mediatoure betwene God and man, euē the man Chryst Jesu, which gaue hymselfe a raunsome for al men.

i. John. v. There are three which beare recorde in heauen, the father, the word and the holy gost. And these three are one.

¶ Examples out of the New Testament.

Actes. xiiii. When Paule and Barnabas were at Listra, and had healed a certayne man, which was a creple from hys mothers womble, ỳ people seyng thys miracle cryed out, and sayed: gods are come down to vs in the lykenes of men. And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paule mercuryous, because he was ỳ preacher. Jupiters Priest also brought oxen and garlandes, and would haue done Sacrifyce wyth the people. But when the Apostles, Barnabas and Paule heard that, they rēt their clothes, and ran in among the people, cryinge and sayinge: men, why do ye thys? We are mortall men lyke vnto, and preache vnto you that ye should turne from these vanities vnto the lyuinge God, whych made heauen and earth, and the sea, and al that in them is. &c.

Actes. xvii. When Paule was at Athens, hys spirite was moued in him, to see the citie geuen to worshipping of Idols and false gods, in somuch that he brast out into these wordes, and sayd: ye men of Athens, I perceaue that in all thynges ye are to superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld the maner how ye worship your gods, I founde an altare wherin was wrytten, vnto the vnknowen God. Whom ye then ignorauntlye worshyp, hym shewe I vnto you. God that made the worlde, and all ỳ are in it (seyng that he is Lord of heauen and earth) dwelleth not in temples made wyth handes, nether is worshipped wyth mens handes, as though he neded of any thyng &c.

¶ Agaynst infidelite or misbeliefe.

¶ If Satan at any tyme moueth thee vnto infidelite or misbeliefe, ether toward god or hys word, by no meanes leane vnto hym: but agaynst hys temptacyon enarme thy selfe wyth these holy Scriptures.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testamente.

Esay. vii. If ye doe not beleue, there shal no promyse be kept wyth you.

Iere. v. Thy eyes, O Lord, loke vpon fayth.

Aba. ii. The ryghteous shal lyue by fayth.

Ose. ii. I wyll mary thee vnto me in fayth, and thou shalt know that I am the Lorde.

Psal. lxvii. The wrath of the Lord came vpon Israel, because they beleued not in God in God, nor trusted not in his sauing health.

The Lord doth appeare vnto them that hathe fayth in him. Sap.iii.

Wo be to the dissolute in hart, that beleue not God, and therfore shal they not be defended of him. Eccle.ii.

In all thy workes put thy trust in God from thy whole hart, for that is the keping of the commaundements. Who so beleueth Gods word, taketh hede to the commaundements: and he that putteth hys trust in the Lord, shall want nothing. Eccle. xxxiii.

Examples oute of the old Testament.

Abraham beleued God, and it was reckned vnto him for righteousnesse. Gen.xv.

Dauid being a young man and of litle stature throw faith in the name of the Lord of hoastes, fought with that proud mōstruous Giaunt Goliath the Philistine, and slue him. i.Reg.xvii.

Sydrach, Misach, & Abdenago throw faith, choseb rather to be caste into a whote burning fornace, then at the kinges commaundement to commit Idolatry, and to worship straunge Gods. Dani.iii.

Daniel throw faith, wished rather to be cast quicke into the den of Lions, then by the space of xxx. dayes, not to pray vnto the Lorde hys God, according to the kinges commaundement. Dani.vi.

Sentences out of the new Testamente.

He that beleueth and is baptised shall be saued. But he that beleueth not, shalbe condemned. Math.xvi.

As manye as receiued Christe he gaue them power to be the sonnes of God, in that they beleue on his name. Ihon.i.

As Moses lifted vp the serpent in the wildernesse: so must the sonne of man be lifted vp, that so many as beleue in him may not perish, but haue euerlasting life. For God hath so dearly loued the world, that he gaue his only begotten sonne, that euery one that beleueth in him, may not perish, but haue euerlasting life. Ihon.iii.

He that beleueth in the Sonne of God, is not condempned But he that beleueth not, is already condemned, because he hath not beleued in the name of thonly begotten sonne of God.

He that beleueth in the sonne hath euerlasting life, but he ꝑ beleueth not in the sonne, shal not se life, but the wrath of God abideth vpō hym.

Thys is the wyll of hym that sent me, that euery one that seeth the sonne and beleueth on him, should haue euerlasting life, and I wil raise him vp at the last day. Ihon.vi.

I am the resurrection and life, he that beleueth in me, although he were dead, yet shall he liue, and euery one that liueth and beleueth in me, shall not die euerlastingly. Ihon.xi.

Ihon.xiiii. Ye beleue in God, beleue also in me, saith Christ.

Actes.xiii Be it knowen vnto you, ye men and brethren, that thorowe ỳ name of Christe, is preathed vnto you the forgeuenesse of sinnes, and that by him are all that beleue iustified from all thinges, frō the which ye could not be iustified by the law of Moses.

Actes.xv. With faith doth God purify our hartes.

Roma.iii. The righteousnes that is alowed before God, commeth by the faith of Jesu Christ vnto all, and vpon all that beleue.

Romains.v. We being iustified by faith, are at peace with god, thorow our Lord Jesu Christ, by whom we haue away in, thorow faith vnto this grace, wherin we stand, & reioyce in hope of the praise that shalbe geuē of god.

Rom.x. Christ is the perfect fulfilling of the law, to iustify euery one ỳ beleueth.

Esay.xxviii. If thou wilt knowledge with thy mouth, that Jesus is the Lord, & beleue with thy hart, that God raiseth him frō death, thou shalt be saued. For the belief of the hart iustifieth, & to knowledge with the mouth maketh a man safe. For the scripture saith: whosoeuer beleueth on him, shall not be ashamed.

Rom.xiiii. Whatsoeuer is not of faith is sinne.

Galla.iii. All ye are sonnes of God, because ye haue beleued in Christ Jesu.

Galla.iiii. In Christ Jesu, nether is circumcision any thing worthe, nor vncircumcision, but faith which worketh by loue.

Ephe.ii. By grace are ye saued thorow faith, yea and ỳ not of oure selues. It is the gift of God, and commeth not of workes, because no man should boast him self.

Ephe.vi. Aboue al thinges take vnto you the shield of faith, wherby ye may be able to quench al the firy dartes of the deuil.

Heb.xi. Without faith it is not possible to please God. For he that commeth vnto God, must beleue that God is, and that he is a rewarder to them that seke him.

i.Pete..v Be ye sobre and watch, for your aduersarye the deuill goeth aboute like a roring Lion, seking whome he may deuour, whome se that resist with a strong faith.

This is the victory which ouercometh in the world, euen our faith.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Math.ix. The woman that was diseased by the space of .xii. yeres of the bloudy issue, thorow faithe was made whole.

Math.xv. The woman of Canane thorow faith obtained of Christ healthe for her doughter.

Marke.ix. The father of the childe possessed with a Deuill from his childhode, obtained of Christ thorow faith, perfect health for his sonne.

Marke.x. Bartimeus the blind man thorow faith recouered his sight.

Luke.vii. A certain sinful woman thorow faith obtained of Christ forgeuenes of all her sinnes.

Actes.v. The Apostles of Christ thorow faith, notwithstading the hie priests Commaundemente, continued in the preachinge of Christes Gospell, and bothe pacientlye, ioyfullye and thanckefullye suffred all kyndes of displeasure for the name of the Lord Jesu.

Rede the .xi. chapter of the Epistle vnto ỹ Hebrues, where thou shalt finde plenty of examples concerning this matter.

Against the heresy of such as deny Jesu Christ to be God.

IF Sathan at any time moueth thee to doubt of the Godhead of Christ, as though he were only man, and not God, a creature or a thing made, and not the creator & maker of al thinges, enarme thy self against him with these Scriptures.

Sentences out of the old Testament.

WNto vs a child is born, and vnto vs a Sonne is geuen, vpō his shoulder doth the kingdome lie, and he is called with his owen name, wonderful, the geuer of coūcel, the mighty God, the euerlasting father, the Prince of peace .&c. Esay.ix.

In that day it shalbe said: Lo, this is oure God, we haue waited for him, and he shal saue vs This is the Lord, in whome we haue hoped, we shalbe mery and reioyce in the saluation that commeth of him. Esay.xxv.

They shal se the glory of the Lord, and the maiesty of our God. And therfore strength the weake handes, and comfort the feble knees, saye vnto them that are of a fearful hart, be of good cheare and fear not. Esay.xxxv.

Behold your God cōmeth to take vengaunce, and you shal se the reward that God geueth. God commeth his owne self, & wil deliuer you. Then shall the eies of the blinde be lightened, and the eares of the deafe opened. Then shall the lame man leape as an Hart, and the dummans tounge shalbe losoned.

O that thou woldest cleue the heauens in sonder, and come downe. Esay.lxiiii.

Behold, I se four men going lose in the middest of the fire, & nothing hurt, and the fourth is like the sonne of God to loke vpon. Dani.iiii.

Out of Egipt haue I called my sonne. Ose.xi.

This is our God, and there shall none other be compared vnto him. Baruch.iii.
It is he that found out al wisdom, and hath geuen her vnto Jacob his seruaunt, and to Israel his beloued.

Afterward did he shew him self vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

The Lord said vnto me, thou art my sonne, this day haue I begotten thee. Psal.ii.

Thy seat (O God) endureth for euer, the Scepter of thy kingdom is a right Scepter. Psal.xlv.

The Lord him self had me in possessiō in the beginning of his waies, for euer he began his workes afore time, I haue bene ordeined from euerlasting, and from the beginning or euer the earth was made. Pro.viii.

When I was born, ther were nether depthes nor springes of water.
Before the foundations of the Mountaines were laide, yea before all hilles was I borne.

The earth and all that is vpon the earth, was not yet made, no not the ground it self. For when he made the heauens I was present, when he set vp the depthes in order, when he hanged the clouds aboue, when he fastened the springes of the depe, when he shut the sea wythin certaine bondes, that the waters should not go ouer theyr markes that he commaunded. When he laid the foundations of the earth, I was with hym, ordring al thinges, deliting daily, and reioysing alway before him.

I came out of the most hiest, first born before all creatures.

Eccle. xxiiii I caused the light that faileth not to arise in the heauen, and couered all the earth as a cloud.

ii. Reg. vii. I wil be his father, and he shalbe my sonne.

¶ Examples oute of the olde Testament.

Gene. i. When God had created the earth and all thinges therin, he saied: Let vs make man in our Image, after our own likenes: this word (vs) doth euidently declare that there be thre persons in the Godhead, the Father, and the Sonne, and the holy Ghost. Wherof it manifestly followeth, that as the Father is God, and the holy Ghoste God, so likewise is the Sonne God, yea true and naturall god, begotten of god the Father from euerlasting

Gene. xviii. Abraham sawe thre, & worshipped one, saying: Lord I beseche thee, if I haue founde fauoure in thy sight, go not away from thy seruaunt. Here it is eudent also, that ther are thre persons in ỹ deity, and yet not withstandinge they three are one god. Therfore lyke as the fyrste and thyrde are very God (I meane the Father and the holy ghost) so likewyse is the seconde personne in the Trinitye, I meane the sonne, true, and naturall God, worthy all honor and glory for euermore.

Exo. iii. God said vnto Moses I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Here also is euidentlye declared the blessed and glorious Trinitie, and that ther be iii. persons in the Godhead, and yet one God: so that as the father is God, and the holy Ghost God, so likewise is the sonne God.

Esay. vi. In the same yeare that king Osyah died, I sawe the Lord, saith the Prophet Esay, sitting vppon an high and glorious seat, and his traine filled the temple. And about him stode Seraphins, whereof euery one had vi. winges. With twaine eche couered his face, with twaine hys fete, and with twain did he flie They cried eche one to another on this manner. Holy, Holy, Holy, is the Lord of hoastes. The whole worlde is full of hys glory. Thys word Holy thrise rehearsed, doth also manifestly declare that there are thre Persons in the Godhead, and that they three are one God: Christe therfore the second Parsone in the Trinity, is very God.

Dani. iii. kynge Nabuchodonosor commaunded these thre men, Sydrach, Misach & Abdenago, to be cast into an exceading hote burninge Ouen, because they wold not become Idolaters and at his commaundemēt, fall downe and worship the golden image. And when they were bound in theyr coates, hosen, shoes, with theyr other garments and cast into the hot burning ouen, the king loked into the ouen, and said vnto his counsell: did ye not cast these thre men bound into the fyre? They aunswered vnto the king, yea, O king: He answered and said, lo, for all that, yet do I se four men going lose in the middest of the fyre, and nothing corrupt, and the fourth is like the sonne of God to loke vppon. Here is a manifest testimony that Jesu Christ is the sonne of god, and God him self, as we shall euidently learne of the histories of the new Testament.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

HIs name shall be called Emanuel, which is by interpretation God with vs or God and man. Mat.i.

This is my welbeloued son, in whom I haue great pleasure. Mat.iii.xvii.

Thou art Christ the sonne of the liuing God. Math.xvi.

without all doubt this was the sonne of God. Math.xxvii.

He shalbe great, and shalbe called the sonne of the most highest. Luke.i.

That holy thing which shalbe born, shalbe called the sonne of God.

In the beginning was the word and the word was with God, and God was the word. Ihon.i.

We saw the glory of the word, as the glory of the only begotten sõne of the father.

No man hath sene God at any time, the only begotten sonne, whych is in the bosome of the father, he hath declared him.

Thou art the sonne of God, thou art the king of Israell.

He that beleueth not, is condemned already, because he beleueth not in the name of the only begotten sonne of God. The Father loueth the sonne, and hath geuen al thinges into his hand He that beleueth ẏ sõne hath euerlasting life, and he that beleueth not on the sonne, shall not se life, but the wrath of God abideth on him. Ihon.iii.

I am that liuing bread, which came downe from heauen. Ihon.vi.

Except ye beleue ẏ I am (the sonne of God, ye shal die in your sinnes. Ihon.viii.

I and my father are one. Ihon.x.

I beleue that thou art Christ the sonne of God, whiche shoulde come into the world. Ihon.xi

Doest thou not beleue, that I am in the father, & the father is in me? Ihon.xiiii.

This is euerlasting life, euen to know thee the alone true God, and whome thou hast sent Jesus Christ. Ihon.xvii.

O father thou louedst me before the world was made. Ihon.xvii.

These thinges are wrytten, that ye might beleue, that Jesus is Christ the Sonne of God: and that in beleuing, ye might haue lyfe thorowe his name. Ihon.xx.

Jesus Christ was declared to be the sonne of God, with power of the holy Ghost. Rom.i.

Christ is the Image of the inuincible God, fyrst begotten of all creatures. For by him were all thinges created, thinges that are in hea- Colloſ.i.

uen and thinges that are on earth, things visible and thinges inuisible whether they be maiesty or Lordshyp either rule or power. All thinges are created by him and in him, and he is before all thinges, and in him all thinges haue theyr being.

Tit.ii. We loke for that blessed hope and glorious appearing of the greate God, and our sauioure Jesu Christ.

Heb.i. God in time paste diuersly and many waies spake vnto the fathers by the Prophets, but in these last daies he hathe spoken vnto vs by hys Sonne, whome he hathe made heyre of all thinges, by whome also he made the world. Which sonne being the brightnesse of his glorye, and very Image of his substaunce, bearing vp al thinges with the word of his power, hath in his own person purged our sinnes, and is sitting on the righthand of the maiesty on hie, and is more excellent then the angels, masmuch as he hath by enheritaunce obtained a more excellente name then they haue. For vnto which of thangels said he at any time:

Psal.ii. Thou art my sonne, this day begat I thee. And again, I wil be his father and he shalbe my sonne.

Act.xiii And againe, when he bringeth in the first begotten Sonne into the ii.Reg.vii world, he saith: and all thaungels of God shall worship him. And of the Psal.cxvii. angels he saith: he maketh his angels spirites, and his ministers flames Psal.ciiii of fyre. But vnto the sonne he saith: God, thy seat shalbe for euer and psal.xlv euer. The scepter of thy kingdome is a right scepter.

Heb.xiii Jesus Christ yesterday and to day, and the same cõtinueth for euer.
i.Ihon.ii Who is a lier, but he that denieth that Jesus is Christe? The same is the Antichrist that denieth the father and the sonne, whosoeuer denieth the sõne, the same hath not the father. Let therfore abide in you ỹ same, which ye hard frõ the beginning. If that which ye hard frõ the beginning shal remain in you, ye also shal cõtinue in the son and in the father and this is the promise that he hath promised vs, euen euerlasting life.

i.Ihon.iii. For this purpose appeared the sonne of God, to lose the woorkes of the Deuel.

This is Gods commaundement, that we belene on the name of his sonne Jesus Christ.

i.Ihon.iiii In this apeared the loue of God towards vs, because that God sent his only begotten sõne into the world that we might liue thorow him.

i.Ihon.v Who is it, that ouercommeth the world, but he which beleueth that Jesus is the sonne of God.

God hath geuen vnto vs eternal life, and this life is in his sonne. He that hath the sonne, hath life, and he that hath not the Sonne of God, hathe not life.

We know that the sonne of God is come, and hath geuen vs a mind to know him, which is true, and we are in him that is true, euen in hys sonne Jesu Christ. The same is very God, and eternal life.

Examples out of the new Testament.

God

GOd the father proclamed Jesu Chryste both when he was baptysed and transfigured, his onely begotten, naturall and welbeloued son, saying: this is my dearely beloued sonne, in whom I haue great pleasure. Mat.iii.xvii.

Two men possessed with Deuils called Jesu the son of God, saying: O Jesu the son of God, what haue we to do with thee. Math.viii.

The men which wer in the ship, seing that the winde ceased so sone as Chryst was come into ẏ ship, said vnto hym: truly ẏ art ẏ son of god. Math.xiii.

When Christ demaunded of his disciples, whom they thoughte hym to be. Peter in the name of al the disciples answered and sayd: thou art Chryst the son of the liuing God. Mat.xvii.

When bishop Caiphas saied vnto Chryst, I charge thee in the name of the liuing God, that thou tel vs whether thou be Chryst the sonne of God, Christ answered: thou hast said. Neuertheles I say vnto you, here after shal ye se the son of man syttyng on the right hande of power, and come in the cloudes of the skye. Math.xxvi.

When the Centurion and they that wer with him watchyng Jesus, sawe the earth quake, and those thynges which happened, they feared greatly, saying: Of a surety thys was the son of God. Math.xxviii.

They brought to Chryst a man sicke of the palsey, lying in hys bed, and when Jesus sawe the faith of them, he sayd to the sicke of the palsey son be of good chere. Thy synnes be forgeuen the. And beholde certain of the Scrybes said in them selues: this man blaspheneth. And when Jesus sawe their thoughtes, he said wherefore thynke ye euill in youre hartes: Here Chryst proueth himselfe God, against al his enemies two maner of wayes. First in that he forgeueth synnes. For no man cã forgeue syn but god alone. Secondly, in that he knoweth the very hid and secrete thoughtes of men. For who searcheth the hartes and reines of men, but god onely. Math.ix.

When a certain mã possessed wt an vncleane spirit sawe Christ a far of, he came running and worshipped hym, & cryed wt a loude voice, saying: what haue I to do wt thee, O Jesu, thou son of the most highest god? Marke.v.

The high Priest asked Jesu, and sayd vnto hym, art thou Chryst the son of the blessed? He answered, I am. And ye shall see the sonne of man syttyng on ẏ ryght hand of power, & comming in the cloudes of heauẽ. Marke.xiiii.

Christe said vnto Nathaniel: Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast vnder the sygtree, I sawe the. Nathanael answered and said vnto hym: Rabby, thou art euen the very son of god, thou art the kynge of Israel. Jesus answered and sayd vnto hym: because, I sayd vnto the I sawe thee vnder ẏ figtree, thou beleuest, thou shalt see greater things then these. And he sayd vnto them, verely verely I say vnto you, hereafter shal ye se heauen open, and the Angels of god ascendyng and descendyng ouer the son of man. Iohn.i.

The miracle which Chryst wrought at the maryage in Cana by turning water into wyne, proueth hym manifestly to be god. Iohn.ii.

After

Iohn.vi. After the Sermon that Chryſt made of the eating of his fleſhe and the drynkinge of hys bloude, many of his diſciples vnderſtandinge his wordes groſly (as the Papiſtes do vnderſtande the wordes of the lordes ſupper) went backe and forſoke hym and walked no more wyth hym. Then ſayd Jeſus to the twelue, wil ye alſo goe awaye? Then Simon Peter anſwered hym: Lord, to whom ſhal we go? Thou haſt ỳ wordes of eternall lyfe, and we beleue and are ſure that thou art Chriſt the ſon of the liuing God.

Iohn.xi. Jeſus heard that the Jewes had excommunicate the blynde man, whom he had made to ſee, and when he had founde hym, he ſayed vnto hym: doeſt thou beleue on the ſonne of God? He aunſwered and ſayed: who is it Lord that I might beleue on hym? And Jeſus ſayd vnto him thou haſte ſeen him, and he it is that talketh wyth thee. And he ſayed: Lord I beleue, and he worſhypped hym.

Iohn.xi. Martha ſayed vnto Chriſt I beleue that thou art Chryſt the ſone of God, which ſhould come into the worlde.

Iohn.xx. Jeſus ſayd to Thomas, bryng thy fynger hither, and ſee my handes and reache hyther thy hande, and thruſt it into my ſyde, and be no more faythles but beleuing. Thomas anſwered and ſaid vnto him: My lord and my God, Jeſus ſayd vnto hym: Thomas, becauſe thou haſt ſen me thou haſt beleued, bleſſed are they that haue not ſen, and yet haue beleued.

Actes.viii. The Enuch ſayd vnto Philip: ſe here is water, what doth let me to be baptyſed? Philip ſayd vnto him. If thou beleue wyth all thine hart, thou mayeſt. And he aunſwered and ſayed, I beleue that Jeſus Chriſt is the ſonne of God.

The reſtoryng of the blynde to their ſight, the raiſyng vp of the dead vnto lyfe, the clenſyng of the leapers, the healyng of them that wer diſeaſed with the palſy, the reſtoryng of men poſſeſſed wyth Diuels and vnclene ſpirites to their whole mynde, the makyng of the deafe to heare and the dum to ſpeake, wyth the other miracles that Chryſte wrought do euidently proue Chryſt to be the natural ſonne of God, yea and God hymſelfe.

¶ Agaynſt the hereſy of them which holde that Jeſus Chryſt the ſonne of God toke no fleſhe of Mary hys mother.

IF either Satan with his ſuttle ſuggeſtions, or any of hys deceitfull workemen wyth their crafty reaſons and falſyfying the holy Scriptures, go about to perſwade thee that Ieſus Chryſt the ſonne of God, toke no fleſhe of that bleſſed virgin Marye hys mother, but brought hys body wyth hym from heauen, enarme thy ſelfe with theſe authorities of gods worde agaynſt their peſtylence and damnable dartes.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Teſtament.

I wyll

I will set emnity betwene thee and the woman, betwene thy sede and her sede. The very selfe same sede shal treade down thy heade, and thou shalt treade vpon hys hele. Gen.iii.

In thee all kinreds of the earth shalbe blessed. Gene.xii.

In thy sede shal al the nations of the earth be blessed. Gene.xxii.

The scepter shal not depart frō Juda, & a law geuer from betwene hys fete, vntyl Siloe come, & vnto hym shal the gatheryng of the people be. He shal binde hys sole vnto the vyne, & hys Asses colte, vnto the braunch. He washed hys garment in wine, and his mātel in the bloud of grapes. Hys eyes are redder then wyne, & his teth whiter thē milke. Gene.xlix.

There shal come a star of Jacob and ryse a scepter of Israel. Out of Jacob shal he come that shal haue dominion. Num. xxiiii.

I wil rayse them vp a Prophete from among their brethren like vnto thee, and wil put my wordes in hys mouth, and he shal speake vnto them all that I shall cōmaunde hym, & whosoeuer wil not harke vnto the words which he shall speake in my name, I wyl requyre it of hym. Deu. xviii.

I will set vp thy sede after the, which shalbe of thy sonnes, and wyll stablyshe hys kingdome. He shal builde me an house, and I wyl stablish his seate for euer. I will be his father, and he shalbe my son, and I wyl not put away my mercy from hym, as I dyd from him that was before thee, but I will set him in my house and in my kingdome for euer, & hys seate shalbe sure for euer. i. Para. xvii.

I haue sworne once by my holines that I wyll not faile Dauid. His sede shal endure for euer, and his seate also lyke as the Sun before me. He shal stande fast for euer more as the mone, and as the faythful wytnes in heauen. Psal. lxxxix.

The Lord hath made a faythfull oth vnto Dauid, and he shall not shrynke from it, out of the fruite of thy body shal I set vpon thy seate. Psal.cxxxii.

Behold a Virgin shal conceaue, and beare a son, and thei shal cal his name Emanuel. Esay. vii.

Vnto vs a childe shalbe borne, and vnto vs a childe shalbe geuen, vpon his shoulder shal the kingdom lye, & he shalbe called with his owne name, the wonderous geuer of councel, the mighty God, the euerlastig father, the Prynce of peace: he shall make no ende to encrease the kyngdom, and peace, and shal sit vpon the seate of Dauid, and in his kyngdō, to set vp ꝑ same, to establish it w equitie & ryghteousnes frō henceforth for euermore. Thys shal the gelousy of ꝑ Lord of hostes bring to passe. Esay. xl.

There shal come a rod forth of the kinred of Jesse, and a blossom out of his rote. The spirite of the Lord shal light vpon it, the spirit of wysedome and vnderstandyng, the spirite of counsel and strength, the spirit of knowledge and of the feare of God. &c. Esay. xi.

Beholde the tyme commeth saieth the Lord, that I wil rayse vp the righteous braunche of Dauid, which shal beare rule, and discus matters with wisedome, and set vp equity & righteousnes again in earth. In his time shal Juda be saued, & Israel shal dwel without feare. And Iere. xxiii.

thys

this is the name that they shal call him, euen the Lorde our ryghteous maker.

Iere.xxix. Beholde the tyme commeth sayeth the Lorde, that I will performe the good thing which I haue promysed vnto the house of Israell, and to the house of Juda. In those dayes and at the same time, I wil bring forth vnto Dauid the braunche of ryghteousnes, and he shal do equite & righteousnes in the lande. In those dayes shal Juda be helped, and Ierusalem shal dwel safe, and he that shal cal her, is euen God our righteous maker. For thus the Lord God promyseth: Dauid shal neuer wãte one to sit vpon the stole of the house of Israel.

Eze.xxxiiii. xxxvii. I wil rayse vp vnto them one onely shepeparde euen my seruaunte Dauid, he shal fede them and he shalbe their shepeharde, I the Lorde wil be their God, and my seruaunt Dauid shalbe their Prince. Euen I the Lorde hath spoken it.

Dani.ix. Understande this and marke it well, that from the tyme it shalbe cõcluded to go and to repayre Jerusalem agayne, vnto Chryst, there shall be seuen wekes. Then shal the stretes and wals be buylded agayne. lxii. wekes, but with hard troublous tyme. After these. lxii. weakes shal Chryst be slayne, and they shal haue no pleasure in hym.

Micha.v. Thou Bethelem Ephrata art litle among the thousandes of Juda, out of thee shall come vnto me, which shalbe the gouernour in Israell, whose out going hath bene from the begynning and from euerlasting.

Zacha.ii. Be glad and reioyce O doughter of Syon, for lo, I come to dwel in the mids of thee, sayeth the Lord. At thesame tyme ther shal many heathen cleaue to the Lord, and shalbe my people.

Mala.iii. Beholde I wil sende my messenger, which shal prepare the way before me, and the Lord whom ye would haue, shal sone come to his temple, ye euen the Messenger of the couenaunt whom ye loke for.

Baruch.iii. This is our God, and there shal none other be compared to hym. It is he that hath founde out al wysedome, and hath geuen her vnto Jacob hys seruaunt, and to Israell hys beloued. Afterward did he shewe hymselfe vpon earth, and dwelt among men.

¶ Exeamples out of the olde Testament.

After that Adam and his wife through the craftye persuasions of Satan had transgressed gods commaundement, God in the presence of them both euen for their comforte and for the quietnes of their conscience, sayd vnto the Serpent. I wil set emnitie betwene thee and a woman, betwene thy sede and her sede. The same selfe sede shall tread down thy head, and thou shalt treade vpon hys hele. These wordes of God the father spoken vnto the Serpent, shewe euidently and manyfestly proue, that Jesu Chryst our Lord is the true and naturall son of Marye, and vnfaynedly toke hys flesh and humanite of her. For thys word sede, in this place signifieth the whole substaunce of Chrysts mãmanhode, and proueth euidently, that what soeuer Chryst was beyng man, he truely and naturally receiued it of the corporall substaunce of

Mary

Mary his mother the virgin. Curſed therfore is that heretike Appelles which thought that Chryſt had receiued hys body of the elementes in the ayre, and paſſed through the virgin, as the water paſſeth through a pype. Curſed are theſe heretykes, Cerdo, Marcyon and Manes, which holde that Chryſt had a fantaſticall body, appearyng to bee man, & yet hauing no part of manhode in hym. Curſed is that heretyke Valentynus, with his Apes the Anabaptiſtes, which holde that Chryſt toke no fleſhe of Mary his mother the virgin, but brought hys body with him from heauen. God the father calleth Chryſte the ſede of the woman. He therfore is the naturall ſonne of Mary hys mother, and receyued hys whole bodely ſubſtaūce of the moſt pure virgin, or els ſhuld God greatly haue erred, which called him ỳ ſede of a woman, but let God be true and all heretykes lyers.

To Abraham God the father ſayd: in thy ſede al nacions of the earth ſhalbe bleſſed. Gene. xxii.

Thys ſede is Chryſt, as S. Paule declareth to ỳ Galathians, which borne of the virgin Mary, came of the ſede of Abraham. Now if Chriſt had taken no fleſhe of mary, how could he haue come of ỳ ſede of Abraham? But that we ſhould be without al doubt concerning Chriſtes humanite, and be certayne that he was the true and naturall Sonne of Mary, receiuing hys manhod neyther of the elementes of the ayre, nor yet bringing it with him from heauen, but takyng it of the true and naturall ſubſtaunce of Mary his mother, God ſayeth expreſſly: In thy ſede Let vs note wel thys pronown. Thy, In thy ſede ſayth he, and not in ỳ ſede that Chryſt ſhall bryng from heauen, or out of the aire. How could Chryſt iuſtly haue been called Abrahams ſede, if he had neuer taken anypart of Abrahams ſubſtaunce? But the Apoſtle ſayeth: Chryſt toke the ſede of Abraham, and not of the Aungels, ſo that he muſt be lyke to his brothers in all thynges. Let God therfore be true, and all heretykes lyers. Gala. iii. Heb. ii.

In like maner the Lord ſwore a trueth vnto Dauid, and wil not go from it. I wil ſaieth he, ſet vpon thy ſeate one of the fruite of thy wombe. Here Chriſt, which before was called the ſede of a woman, & the ſede of Abraham, is called the fruite of Dauids wombe. What can be ſpoken more plainly, to declare and proue, that Chryſt came of the ſede of Dauid as concernyng hys fleſhe? If Chryſt be the fruite of Dauids belly, I meane concernyng hys poſterity (for Mary the mother of Chryſt, came of the ſtocke and kynred of Dauid) ſo doth it euidently folow ỳ Chriſte paſſed not through the woombe of hys mother without any partaking of the natural ſubſtaunce of hys mother as the water paſſeth and runneth through the pype, and yet receiueth no part of the pypes ſubſtāce, but rather that he toke a perfect body of ỳ ſubſtaūce of hys mother, and ſo became true and perfect man. Other wyſe ſhould not he haue ben the fruite of Dauids belly, nether ſhould God haue kept hys oth and promiſe made vnto Dauid. But let God be true and al heretykes lyers. Pſal. cxxxii.

The

Esay. vii. The Prophet Esay doth lively describe, paynte and set forth both the mother of Christ, and Christ him selfe in these words: The lord, saieth he, shal geue you a token. Beholde a virgin shal conceyue and beare a sonne, and thou shalt cal his name Emanuel. Butter and hony shall he eate, that he may know to refuse the euil and chose the good. First as concerning Christes mother, we learne here that she was a pure and vndefiled maide, and that she, and not the heauen nor the ayre conceyued & brought forth Christe her sonne. In that she conceyued and brought forth Christe, it is euident that she was vnfaynedly Christes naturall mother, ministred part of her substaunce to the perfourminge and making of her son through gods operacion, and did the duty and office of a true mother in all pointes. And whereas the Prophet calleth Christe her son he declareth manifestlye, that Christe toke his flesh of the substaunce of his mother Mary the virgin, and is her true and natural sō, or els to what ende should he be called her sonne? And that we should be as assuredly perswaded of his humanite of Mary his mother, as of his deity of God his father, the Prophete calleth him Emanuell, that is to say, God and man, true God of God hys father, and true man of Marye hys mother. And because there should want nothing vnto the true perfit and full discripcion of Christes humanitie, but that Christ should be declared to be a true and a natural child, and not fantastical nor celestial, the Prophetes as it wer with certaine notes and markes doth lively set forth, and sheweth that he after the maner of other children shall eate butter and Hony, that is to say, refuse bitter and vnsauery meates and chose those that are swete and pleasaunt in tast. This wer vainly put in of the Prophete, if Christ had not ben a natural child, taking his flesh of the substaunce of Mary his mother, and not bryngyng his body with him from heauen, or I knowe not from whence as the vngodly Anabaptistes in these our daies do most falsly dreame. But let God be true, and all Heretykes lyers.

Esay. xi. In another place the Prophet saieth, there shal come a rod forth of the kinred of Jesse, and a floure shal florish out of his rote. In this place the Prophet doth so openly declare Christ to be true man and the natural sonne of Mary the virgin, that it is wonder that any Heritike can haue so whorishe a forhead as once to deny it. Thys rod and floure, whyche springeth out of the rote and kynred of Jesse, is Christ the Lorde. The rote out of the whiche floure this spring goeth, is the vndefiled virgin Mary Christes mother, whiche came of the kinred of Jesse, king Dauids father. Can any mā deny, but that the floure is of the same nature and substaunce that the tree is of, which beareth the floure? If we graūt the floure to be of the nature and substaunce of the stocke that beareth the floure, why are the Anabaptistes more wicked and cruell agaynste Christ the floure and fruite (by gods ordinaunce) of the holy virgin, the vnto the stocke and rote of euery floure of the fielde? Can the floure of an Orange spryng out an Oke? No more can the humaynitie of Christ

whiche

Chriſt which is the bloſſome and flour of Marye, take his originall of thayre of heauen, or of ſuch other matter they know not what. But as the flour of the Orange ſpringeth out of the Orange tree, and is of the verye ſame nature and ſubſtaunce that the Orange tree is, ſo lykewyſe Chriſt being the flour of the moſt bleſſed Virgin toke his beginning of her, and is of the very ſame ſubſtaunce and nature that ſhe is. Let God therfore be true, and all Heretikes liers.

After the. lxii. wekes, ſaith the Prophet Daniel, ſhal Chriſt be ſlain, and they ſhal haue no pleaſure in him. The ſlaying of Chriſt euidentlye proueth that Chriſt was very man, yea and a man mortall and ſubiect vnto death, ſo wel as we. If he had brought his bodye with him from heauen, ſo had it bene a celeſtiall body, an impaſſible and immortal body. But foraſmuch as Chriſt feared death, ſuffred the paines of deathe, yea, and died in dede, according to the ſcriptures: it followeth that chriſt was true and vnfamed man, taking his humanitye of that holy virgin Mary his mother, and liued in al poyntes like man, ſinne alone except, and at the laſt died for our ſinnes, as the Apoſtle ſaithe. Let God therfore be true, and all Heretikes liers.

Dani. ix.

i. Cor. xv

Heb. iiii

Roma. iiii.

Sentences out of the new Teſtament.

The boke of the kindred of Jeſus Chriſte the Sonne of Dauid, the Sonne of Abraham. Matth. i

Jacob begat Joſeph, the huſband of Mary, of whom was born that Jeſus which is called Chriſt.

The birth of Jeſus Chriſt was on this wiſe. When his mother Mary was maried to Joſeph, before they came together, ſhe was founde with child by the holy Ghoſt. Then Joſeph her huſband being a perfect and loth to defame her, was minded to put her away ſecretly. While he thus thought, behold the angel of the Lord appeared vnto hym in a dreame, ſaying: Joſeph the ſonne of Dauid, feare not to take vnto thee Mary thy wife. For that which is conceiued in her, is of the holy goſt. She ſhal bring forth a ſonne, and thou ſhalt cal his name Jeſus. For he ſhal ſaue his people from theyr ſinnes. All this was done to fulfyll that which was ſpoken of the Lord by the prophet: ſaying: behold a maide ſhall be wyth childe, and ſhal bringe forth a ſonne, and they ſhal cal his name Emanuel, which is by interpretation, God with vs, or God & mā. Eſa. vii

The Aungell Gabriel was ſent from God vnto a citye of Galile named Nazareth, to a Virgin ſpouſed to a mā, whoſe name was Joſeph of the houſe of Dauid, and the virgins name was Mary, and the aungel went in vnto her, and ſaid: Haile full of grace, the Lord is with the. Bleſſed art thou among women. When ſhe ſaw him, ſhe was abaſhed at hys ſaying, and caſte in her minde, what manner of ſalutation that ſhould be. And the Aungell ſaid vnto her: feare not Mary, for thou haſt founde grace with God. Thou ſhalt conceiue in thy wombe, and ſhalt bear a ſonne, and ſhalt call his name Jeſus. Luke. i.

he shalbe great, and shalbe called the sonne of the hiest. And the Lord shall geue vnto him the seat of his father Dauid, and he shall raigne ouer the house of Jacob for euer, and of his kingdom shall be none end. Then said Mary vnto the Aungell how shall this be, seinge I knowe not a man? And thangel answered and said vnto her: the holye Ghost shall come vpon thee, and the power of the hiest shall ouershadow the. Therfore also that holy thing which shall be borne of thee, shalbe called the sonne of God.

Luke.i. Elizabeth was filled with the holy Ghoste, and cried with a loude voice and said: Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the frute of thy wombe. And whence happeth this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me. &c.

Luke.ii. It fortuned while they were ther, her time was come that she should be deliuered. And she brought forth her first begotten sonne, and wrapped him in swadling clothes, and laid him in a maunger, because there was no roume for them within the Inne.

Luke.ii. Behold I bring you tidinges of great ioy, that shall come to all the people. For vnto you is borne this day in the city of Dauid a sauoure, which is Christ the Lord.

Luke.ii. The child grew, and waxed strōg in spirite, and was filled with wisdome, and the grace of God was with him.

Luke.ii. Jesus encreased in wisdome and age, and in sauoure with God and man.

Luke.xi. Blessed is the womb that bare the, & the paps which gaue the suck.

Ihon.i. The word was made flesh, and dwelt among vs.

Acte.ii. Dauid was a prophet and knew that God had sworn with an oth to him, ỳ the frute of his loines, that is to say Christ, should sit on his seat.

Actes.xiii God dyd sette vp Dauid to be theyr kyng, of whom he reported, sayinge: I haue founde Dauyd the sonne of Jesse, a man after my owne hart, he shall fulfyl al my wyl. Of this mēs sede hath god accordyng to his promise brought for the to ỳ people of Jsrael a sauiour, euen Jesus.

Rom.i. Jesus Christe the sonne of god was begotten of the sede of Dauid as pertayning to the flesh.

Rom.ix. Christ as concernyng the flesh came of the Jsraelites.

Gala.xiii. To Abraham and his seede wer the promises made. He sayth not in the seedes, as many, but in thy seede, as in one, which is Christ.

Gala.v When the tyme was full come, God sent this Sonne borne of a woman, and made bonde vnto the lawe, to redeme them, whych wer vnder the lawe, that we thro we election might receyue ỳ inheritaunce that belongeth vnto the natural sonne.

phillip.ii. Christe beynge in the shape of god and thinkyng it no robbery to be equall with God, neuertheles made hym self of no reputacion, & toke on hym the shape of a seruaunt, and became lyke vnto men and was found in his apparell as a man.

Without doubt great is this mistery of godlines, God was shewed in the flesh, was iustified in the spyte, was sene of angels, was preached vnto the gentils, was beleued on in earth, and receiued vp in glory. i. Timo.iii.

Remember that Jesus Chryst being of the sede of Dauid, rose again from death according to my Gospell. ii. Timo.ii.

He that sanctifieth, and they which are sanctified are all of one. For which cause he is not ashamed to cal them brethren, saying: I wil declare thy name to my brethren, and in the mids of the congregation wil I praise thee. And again, I wil put my trust in him. And again, behold here am I, and the children whiche God hathe geuen me. For as much then as the children were partakers of flesche and bloude, he also him self likewise toke part with them for to put downe thorow death, him that had Lordship ouer death, that is to say, the deuill, and that he might deliuer them, which thorow fear of death wer all their life time in danger of bondage. For he in no condition taketh on him the angels but the sede of Abraham taketh he on him. Wherfore in al things it became him to be made like vnto his brethren, that he might be merciful, and a faithful hie priest in thinges concerninge God, for to pourge the peoples sinnes. For in that it fortuned him self to be tempted, he is able to succor them also that are tempted. Heb.ii. Psal.xxii.

Dearly beloued, beleue not euery spirite, but proue the spirites whether they are of God, or not. For many false Prophets are gon out into the world. Hereby shal ye know the spyte of God. Euery spyte that confesseth that Jesus Chryst is come in the flesh, is of God. And euery spirit, which confesseth not ỳ Jesus Chryst is come in the flesh, is not of God. And this is the spyte of Antichryst, of whom ye haue hard, how that he should come, and euen now already is he in the world. i. Ihon.iiii.

Many deceiuers are entred into the world, which confesse not that Jesus Chryst is come in the flesh. This is a deceiuer and an Antichryst. ii. Ihon.

Examples out of the new Testament.

When the time was come that the blessed promised sede should be born, God sent his messenger Gabriel vnto that holy Virgine Mary, which was of the house of Dauid, which among many other things said vnto her: feare not Mary For thou hast found grace with God. Behold thou shalt conceiue in thy womb, & bear a sonne. &c. Note that thaungel saith, thou shalt conceiue. He saith not, heauen shal conceiue. And the aungell, like as the Prophet vsed this word, conceiue to declare that the flesh which Chryst had, was truly and naturally taken of the substance of his mother Mary the virgin. For to conceiue, is none other thing, than a woman to be a very true and natural mother by ministring part of her corporall substãce to her child, wherof also the child is formed & made. Now on this manner by the working of ỳ holy gost wythout the sede of man did this blessed virgin conceiue Chryst, it therfore truly folowth, ỳ Chryst brought not his bodye with hym from heauen, but receiued it of the naturall substaunce of his mother Mary. Luke.i. To conceiue what it is

And bycause we should not doubt of this thing, the aungel calleth Jesus, Maries sonne. If Christ had not taken his humanitye of the blessed virgyn, of her nature and substaunce, and so be made very true and perfect man, the aungel had not sayd truth, when he called Christ her son. For neyther should Mary haue bene Christes mother, nor Christe Maries sonne. And so should the aungell haue brought a false and a lying message from God, which is the self truth. But lette God be true, and al Heretikes lyers.

Luke.i The godly and vertuous woman Elizabeth, wife to Zachary the Priest, said to Mary her cosen, being newly conceiued with child, thorow thoperation of the holy goste: blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the frute of thy womb. And whēce happeth this vnto me, that the mother of my Lord shuld come vnto me? whatsoeuer this holy woman saith here, it must nedes be beleued as an infallible truth. For she speketh not of her own hed, but as she is taught of God. For Luke saith that she was filled with the holy Goste. In this her salutatiō, she calleth Christe the frute of Maries wombe. If Christe be the frute of Maries wōbe as vndoubtedly he is, then is Christ made of the substāce of Mary, & is her true and natural son, or els wer it a manifest lie to cal Christ the frute of her wōb. Who is so mad to cal a thing the frute of a tre, that neuer had the nature of a tre. Wer it not double madnes to cal a Peare ỳ frute of a chery tre? so great a fondnes & a greater lie had it bene to cal Christ the frute of Maries womb: if he had brought his body wt him frō heauen or frō any other place, But as it is truely said: this Peare is the frute of a pear tre because it had his being & natural substāce of ỳ nature and substance of a Pear tree, so likewise is it truely said, Christe is the frute of Maries womb, because he had his being and natural substance as concerning his humanity of the nature and substance of Mary. Let God therfore be true, and all Heretikes liers.

Luke.ii Jesus saith Luke, grew in wisdom & age. This also declareth Christ to be true man, seing he grew in age and strength of body yea & also in wisdō after ỳ maner of other childrē, although in ỳ gifes of the mind he Psal.xlv. far excelled al other mē, as ỳ scriptures testify. God saith Dauid, euē thy God hath annoynted the wotil of gladnes aboue thy felowes. S. Jhon Jhon.iii baptist also speketh of Christ on this manner: god geueth not ỳ spirite by me sure vnto him. If Christ had brought his body with him from heauē, so could not Christes body haue ben a natural body, nor haue grown after ỳ maner of other childrē, but shuld haue ben as big whē it cam frō heauē into the virgins wōb, as it was on ỳ same day that it was put to death, but ỳ holy scriptures teach vs, ỳ Christ is ỳ frute of Maries wōb, that he is her son, that he was born a litle child, and grew in age after ỳ manner of other children vntil he becam a perfect mā. It therfore truly foloweth, that he brought not his body wt him from heauen, or I know not from whēce, as the wicked Anabaptistes teach at this preset, but ỳ he vnfainedly, toke it of Mary his mother, & is her true & natural sonne formed

ormed and made of the nature and substaunce of her bodye. Let God therefore be true, and all heretikes liers.

Christ calleth him self many times in the Gospel the son of mā to declare that as concerning the flesh, he is the son of Abraham, and of Dauid, forasmuch as he toke his manhod of Mary, which was of the stock and kinred of Abraham and Dauid, to whom God promised, ꝯ of their sede, & of the frute of their womb one shuld be born in whō all nations of the earth shalbe blessed. So is it euident, that Christ is the natural son of Mary the virgin. Let God therfore be true, and all Heretikes liers. Matth. xvi

Christ in many places of the holy scripture is called the sonne of Dauid, not only because he was promised vnto Dauid, but because he cam of his kinred, & toke flesh and blud of his stock and familye, euen of the most vndefiled virgine Mary his mother. Christ therfore is true & perfect mā of the blessed virgin, & had no fantastical nor heauēly body. Let God therfore be true, and al heretikes liers Matth. xxii

Christ was born, wrapped in clouts, laid in a maunger, fed, circumcised embraced in armes, grew, was made strong in spirite, profited in wisdō and age, hongred, thirsted, eat, dranke, wept, was weary, slept, reioyced, was moued to wrath and indignation, sorowed, was heuy, sad, was in such an agony, that his sweat was like drops of blond trickling down to the ground, feared death, & at the last suffred the most spiteful death of the Crosse, and was buried. All these are manifest tokens & euident signes of Christes true manhode. Nether could he haue done or suffred these thinges, if he had had a fantasticall body, or a body brought from heauen. Let God therfore be true, and all heretikes liers. Matth. ii.

Christ after his resurrection appeared vnto his disciples, and said vnto them, peace be vnto you. The disciples being abashed and afraide, & supposing that they had sene a spirite, he said vnto them, why are ye troubled, and why do thoughtes arise in your hartes? Behold my handes & my fete, that it is euen I my self: Handle me and see. For a spirite hathe not flesh and bones, as ye se me haue. Here Christ after his resurrection proued and shewed him self not to be a fantasticall but a very man, not to haue an heauenly bodi, but a body of flesh and bones. And to declare him self true & perfect man, he did eat before thē a pece of a broyled fishe and of an hony comb. Let God therfore be true and al heretikes liers. Luke. xxiiii

Peter in a certain Sermon declared vnto the Iewes, that Christe as concerninge the flesh came of the frute of Dauids loynes. In the which wordes he manifestly declareth his faith concerninge Christes humanity, which is, that Christ is very man comminge of the seade of Dauid, and taking his manhed of the blessed virgin, which cam of the stocke of Dauid. Hereof may we also learne, that the true and Christen faith is to beleue, that Jesu Christ toke his flesh of Mary his mother, and brought not his body with him from heauen, as the wicked Anabaptistes hold. Actes. ii.

Paule in hys Epistle to the Rom. plainly teacheth that Christe, as Rom. ix.

concerning the flesh, came of the fathers of thold Testament, that is to say, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Dauid. &c.

Gal. iiii. In his Epistle to the Galathians he saith, that when the time was ful come, God sent his sonne, made of a woman. He saith not, ✠ he was made afore of the elemēts in thair, or that he brought his body with him from heauen, but ✠ he was made of a woman, that is to saye, tooke hys beginning and naturall substance of Mary his mother, concerning his humanitye.

1. Timo. ii Againe in his fyrste Epistle vnto Timothe, he nameth the name Jesu Christ a mediatour betwene God and man. This name mediator betwene god and man. This name mediator proueth Christ both God and man. For he that should be a mediator betwene God and manne, set them at one that wer at debate, make peace among them that before did disagree, and conioyne them in perpetual amitie, whiche before wer enemyes one to another, yea, & by his owne dignitie, worthynes and iustice make a loue day for euer and euer betwene God & man, must haue in him both the nature of God and the nature of man. Christ is that one and alone mediator, which hath by his death and passion set God and man together in an euerlasting peare and quietnes, which before thoze w sinne wer at strife and debate. As Christe therefore is true God, so is he true man, God I say, of God the father, and man of or, of our flesh and of our bloud, or els should blessed Paule erre, which calleth him a mediator. But let God be true, and al heretikes liers.

Finallye, in his Epistle vnto the Hebrues, after that he had spoken much of the diuine nature of Christ, prouing Christ to be verye God, he also setteth foorth Christes humanitye, & proueth him to be true & natural man, made of our flesh and of our blud, this alone excepted, that we receiued our nature with sinne, and in sinne, and by naturall connunction, Christ receiued his humanity of his mother without sinne, without the company of any man by thoperation of the holy Ghost. But let vs hear the wordes of the Apostle.

Heb. ii. For as much as the children wer partakers of flesh and bloud, he also him selfe likewise toke part with them. Hear S. Paul declareth euidently, that as the children, that is to say, men be partakers of flesh & bloud, so likewise Christ (because he might destroy hym that had Lordshyp ouer death: that is to say, the deuil by the death in his owne body) was made partaker of the same, that is, of flesh and bloud. No man douteth that our flesh is of the nature and substaunce of a woman: no more is it to be douted that Christ toke his flesh of the nature and substaunce of Mary his mother, seing the Epistle saith that Christ was made partaker of flesh and blonde with vs. This could he not haue bene if he had brought his body with him frō heauen, or had taken it of any other then of a natural woman, although a pure and vndefiled virgin. Therefore like as man taketh his nature of his parents, so likewise toke Christ his humain nature of the blessed virgin his Mother.

He

He sayeth moreouer (he) meanyng Chryst, in no place taketh on him the Angels, but the sede of Abraham taketh he on hym.

Here the Apostle manifestly confuteth the wicked opinion of them which teache that Chryst had a celestiall body, or a body made of ꝑ aire and planely affirmeth that he toke the sede of Abraham, that is to saye: was made and became very true and naturall man of the kynred of Abraham according to gods promise. So that al that euer he had, concernyng his humanitie, he had it of the blessed virgin, whiche came of the stocke of Abraham.

Agayne he sayeth, In all thinges it became hym to be made like vnto hys brethren. Here S. Paule confesseth that Christ was made like vnto vs in all thynges, which thyng by no meanes could be true, if he had not taken vpon hym out nature and substaunce.

If he be lyke vnto vs in all thynges (sin alone excepte) so followeth it that he is of the same nature, and of the same flesshe and bloud that we are, or els could not he be lyke vnto vs in all thynges. And so should thys holy Apostle and all other godly wryters and teachers haue brought vs in erroure. But let God be true, and all heretykes lyers.

Now haue we learned both truely and fully of the holy Scriptures which are infallyble veryties, that Chryst was conceyued by the holye goste and borne of the virgin Mary. By the which word (of) we beleue that he toke hys humanitie of her substaunce, and had none other beginning as touching his humanitie, thā in her and of her, by the operacion of the holy goste: so that we may truely conclude, that as Chryst is very God of God the father wythout a mother, so is he very man of Mary hys mother without any Father. Therfore may hys godhead be as iustly denyed, as hys manhead and flesshe takyng of the blessed virgyn Mary. But Chryst abydeth very God and very man whatsoeuer ꝑ wicked heretykes bable. Cursed therfore be Cerdo, Martyon and Manes, which taught that Chryst appeared as mā, and yet had no part of true manhead in hym, but only had a fantasticall body.

Cursed be Cerynthus, whiche taughte that Jesus was begotten of Joseph and Mary, after the maner of other men, and that Christ came down from aboue vnto Jesus Cursed be the Ebionites, the Theodecians, the Antimonias, and the Photinians, which affirmed that Christ was borne of the virgin onely man and not god. Cursed be Appelles, which taught that Chryst had hys body of the elementes in the ayre. Cursed be Valentynus, which said, that Chryst brought his body with him from heauen, and toke no flesshe of the Virgin Marye: but passed through her as water through the pype. Cursed bee hys apes the Anabaptistes, which in these our dayes haue rayed vp that moste detestable and horryble heresy.

Cursed and confounded be all they, which in their hartes do not beleue, and with their mouthes vnfaynedly confesse, that Jesus Chryst is both god and man, to whom be glory for euer. Amen.

¶ Againste the grosse and fantasticall opinion of the Papystes, which affirme, that Christes natural body and bloud is carnally eaten and dronken in the Lordes supper.

IF the deuill, or the Pope, or any of their impes, go about with sophisticall reasons to perswade thee, that Chryst is naturally in the Sacrament all bread and wyne, or that the bread and wyne is tourned into the reall and naturall body and bloud of Christ: euen as he receiued it of the blessed virgin: suffer not thy selfe to be begiled and mocked, but valiauntly resist them with these sentences and historyes of gods most holy worde.

¶ Sentences oute of the olde Testament.

Psal.xi. THe Lord is in his holy temple, the Lordes seate is in heauen.

Psal.xiii. The Lord loked downe from heauen vpon the childzen of men, To see if there were any that would vnderstande and seke after God.

Psal.xlvii. God is gone vp with a mery noyse, and the Lord with the sound of the trompet.

God sitteth vpon his holy seate.

psa.lxviii. Thou art gone vpon hie (O Chryst) thou hast led captiuity captyue, and receiued giftes for men.

Syng vnto God (O ye kingdomes of the earth) O syng prayses vnto the Lord, which sitteth in the heauens ouer al

psal.ciii. He loked downe from hys sanctuary, euen out of heauen dyd ꝑ Lord beholde the earth, that he myght heare the mournynges of such as be in captiuitie, and deliuer the childzen appointed vnto death.

Psal.ciii. The Lord hath prepared his seate in heauen, and his kyngdome ruleth ouer all.

psal.ciiii. O Lord my God, thou art become exceadyng gloryous, thou art clothed with maiesty and honoure.

Thou deckest thy selfe with lyghte as it were with a garmente and spreadest out the heauens lyke a curtayne.

Thou layest the beames of thy chambers in the waters, and makest the cloudes thy charets, and walkest vpon the wynges of the wynde.

psal.cx. The Lord sayd vnto my Lord, sit thou on my ryght hande, vntill I make thyne enemyes thy fotestole.

psal.cxiii. The Lord is hye aboue all Heathen, and his glory aboue ꝑ heauens. Who is lyke vnto the Lord our God, that hath hys dwellynge so hye, and yet humbleth hymselfe to beholde the thynges that are in heauen and earth.

psal.cxv. Wherfore shal the heathen saye, where is now their God? As for our god he is in heauen, he hath done whatsoeuer pleased hym.

psal.cxxxiii. Vnto thee, O Lord, lyft I vp my eyes, which dwellest in ꝑ heauens.

psal.cxxxix. Whether shall I go from thy spirite, or whether shal I flie from thy presence? If I clime vp into heauen, thou art there. &c.

iii.Reg. viii. Wil God dwel on the earth? Behold e the heauens and heauens of al heauens are not able to containe thee. And how should then this house do it, that I haue builded.

The

The house which I builde shalbe great, for great is oure God aboue al gods. But who is able to builde hym an house, when that heauen & heauen aboue all heauens is not able to receiue hym? ii.para.ii.

God is hier then heauen, what art thou able to doe? Deper then hell, how wilt thou then know hym? His length exceadeth the length of the earth, and his breath the breadth of the sea. Iob.xi. Esay.lxvi.

Thus sayeth the Lord, heauen is my seate, and the earth is my fote-stole, where shal now the house stand that ye wil builde vnto me? And where shalbe the place that I wyl dwel in.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

If any man say vnto you, Loe, here is Christ, or there is Christ, beleue it not. For there shall arise false anointed and false teachers, and shall shewe great miracles and wonders, in somuch that if it were possybie, the very elecre should be deceiued. Beholde, I haue tolde you afore. wherefore if they saye vnto you beholde he is in the deserte, goe not ye forth: beholde he is in the secrete places, beleue it not. For as the lyghtning commeth out of the East, and appeareth into the West, so shal the commyng of the son of man be. Math. xxiii.

We haue the pore alwayes wt you, but me shal ye not haue alwayes.

And when the Lorde had spoken vnto them, he was receyued into heauen, and is set down on the ryght hande of God. Math.xxvi. Marke. xvi.

It came to passe as Christ blessed them, he departed from them, and was caryed vp into heauen. Luke.xxiiii.

I goe to prepare a place for you: And if I go to prepare a place for you, I wyll come agayne, and receiue you euen vnto my selfe, ỹ where I am, there ye may be also. Iohn.xiiii.

If ye loued me, ye woulde reioyce, because I sayed, I goe vnto the father.

Now I go my way to hym that sent me, and none of you asketh me whether I go. But because I haue sayd such thynges vnto you, youre hartes are full of sorowe. Iohn.xvi.

Neuertheles I tell you the trueth, it is expedient for you that I goe awaye. For if I go not awaye, that comforter will not come vnto you. But if I depart, I wil send hym vnto you.

I went out from the father, and came into the world. Agayn I leue the world, and go to the father.

It is Christ which dyed, ye rather which is rysen agayne, which is also on the ryght hand of God. Rom.viii.

So oft as ye shall eate of this bread and drynke of the cup, ye shal remember the Lordes death tyll he come. i.Cor.xi.

God the father raysed Christ frō the dead, and set hym on hys right hande in heauenly thynges, aboue all rule, power, and myght, and dominion, and aboue all names that are named, not in thys world only but also in the world to come. Ephe.i.

Christ is gone vpon hie, and hath led captiuity captiue, and hath geuen gyftes vnto men. Ephe.iiii.

That

That he ascended, what meaneth it but that he also discended fyrst into the lowest partes of the earth.

He that descended is euen the same also that ascended vp euen aboue all heauens, to fulfyll all thynges.

Phi. ii. God hath exalted Chryst on hie and geuen hym a name, which is aboue all names, that in the name of Jesus euery knee should bow both of thyngs in heauen, and thyngs in earth, & things vnder the earth &c.

Colloss. iii. If ye be risen agayn wyth Chryst, seke those thinges which ar aboue where Chryst sytteth on the ryght hande of God.

When soeuer Chryst (which is our lyfe) shall shewe hymselfe, thē shall ye also appeare with him in glory.

i. Tes. iiii. The Lord himselfe shal come down from heauen with a shoute, and the voyce of the archangell and trompe of God, &c.

Heb. i. Chryst the son of God, beyng the bryghtnes of his fathers glory, and the very Image of hys substaunce rulyng all thynges with the worde of hys power, hath by hys own person purged our sinnes, and sitteth on the ryght hande of the maiestie on hie.

Heb. x. Thys man Chryst after he hath offered one sacrifyce for synnes, is set down for euer on the ryght hand of God, and from henceforth tarieth tyll hys foes be made hys fotestole.

Heb. xii. Let vs run wyth pacience vnto the battayle that is set before vs, lokyng vnto Jesus the captayne and fynisher of our fayth, whiche for the ioy that was set before hym abode the crosse and despysed the shame, & is set down on the ryght hande of the throne of God.

i. Peter. iii. Jesus Chryst is on the ryght hande of God, and is gone into heauē. Angels, powers and myght subdued vnto hym.

¶ Examples out of the new Testamente.

Actes. i. When Jesus had spoken these thynges, while the disciples beheld hym, he was taken vp on hie, and a cloude receiued him vp out of their sighte. And while they looke vp stedfastly toward heauen, as he went, beholde two men stode by them in whyte apparell, whiche also sayed: ye men of Galile, why stand ye gasyng vp to heauen? This same Jesus which is taken frō you into heauen, shal so come, euen as ye haue sene him go into heauen.

Actes. vii. Stephen being ful of the holy gost, loked vp stedfastly wyth his eyes into heauen, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standyng on ỹ right hande of God, and said. Beholde I see the heauens open, and the sonne of man standyng on the ryght hande of God.

Actes. ix. When Saul iourned, it fortuned that as he was come nie to Damasco, sodenly there shyned rounde about hym a lyght from heauē, and he fell to the earth, and hard a voyce saying to him: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? and he sayd. What art thou Lord? and the Lord said, I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest, &c.

¶ Against the plucking away of thy trust and confydence from Chryst and hys merytes, to put it in the merytes of other creatures or in thine own good workes, or in the intercession of Saynctes, or the Sacrifice of the popysh Masse.

IF Satan by his subtyle and crafty suggestions seking thy damnacion, go about to plucke thy fayth confidence and trust from Chryst, hys bloud, and his merytes, to repose it, in the merytes of men, or in thine own good dedes, workes and merytes, or in the intercession of Sainctes, or in the Sacrysyce of the Popishe masse, so that thy whole saluacion shal not hang on Chryst, and hys deseruynges only, but rather on some other straunge meanes, leane not to hys temptacions, but manfully resist them, stedfastly abydyng in this perswasion, that Chryste alone is thy ryghteousnes, and that all thy saluacion dependeth on hym alone and on none other thyng, neither in heauen nor in earth. And that thou mayest be confyrmed in thys fayth, sette these Scryptures which are vndoubted veryties, euer before thyne eyes and suffer not thy selfe, neyther by the crafty assaults of Sathan, nor yet by the suttle and fleshly reason of any man to be plucked from them.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

CHryst is that sede, which treade down Sathans head. Gene. iiii.

Chryst is that sede, in whom al nacions of the worid shal be blessed. Gene. xxii.

Chryst is the ruler, Duke and captayne, whom all nacions haue so long loked for, which also defendeth hys people from the power of Satan. Gene. xlix.

Chryst is that sonne of God whom we are commaunded to kisse and embrase, lest we perysh from the ryght way. Psal. ii.

Chryst is our vpholder, our glory, and our strong shylde. Psal. iii.

Chryst is the Lord from whom all health and saluacyon commeth. And he it is that blesseth hys people.

Chryst is the Lord, that neuer forsaketh them that trust in hym and seke after hym. Psal. ix.

Chryst is our strength, our sure rocke, our bulwarke, our refuge, our defence, our buckeler, our mighty sauing health, and our sanctuary. Psal. xviii.

Chryst is he that saueth vs, because it is his pleasure.

Chryst saueth the poore oppressed and layeth full low the high lokes of the proude.

Chryst is the Lord, in whom alone our fathers trusted, they trusted, I say in hym, and he delyuered them. They cryed vnto hym and they were made safe, they trusted in hym and they were neuer confounded. Psal. xxii.

Chryst is that Lord, whose wayes vniuersall are mercy and trueth to them that seke after hys Testament and ordinaunces. He it is that wyll be mercyfull to our synnes, euen for his owne names sake be they neuer so great and many. Psal. xxv.

Chryst is our lyght and our sauing health, whom then shal we feare Chryst is the defender of our lyfe, of whom than shal we be afrayed? Psal. xxvii.

Chryst is the strength of his people and the defender of the healthy of hys annoynted.

Chryst is our refuge in all tribulacion that assayle vs. Psal. xxxiii.

CHRISTES eyes are vpon them that feare hym, and vpon Psal. xxxiiii.

them

¶ Againste the grosse and fantasticall opinion of the Papystes, which affirme, that Christes natural body and bloud is carnally eaten and dronken in the Lordes supper.

IF the deuill, or the Pope, or any of their impes, go about with sophisticall reasons to perswade thee, that Chryst is naturally in the Sacramentall bread and wyne, or that the bread and wyne is tourned into the reall and naturall body and bloud of Christ: euen as he receiued it of the blessed virgin: suffer not thy selfe to be begiled and mocked, but valiauntly resist them with these sentences and historyes of gods most holy worde.

¶ Sentences oute of the olde Testament.

Psal. xi. THe Lord is in his holy temple, the Lordes seate is in heauen.

Psal. xiii. The Lord loked down from heauen vpon the childzen of men, To see if there were any that would vnderstande and seke after God.

Psal. xlvii. God is gone vp with a mery noyse, and the Lord with the sound of the trompet.

God sitteth vpon his holy seate.

psa. lxviii. Thou art gone vpon hie (O Chryst) thou hast led captiuity captyue, and receiued giftes for men.

Syng vnto God (O ye kingdomes of the earth) O syng prayses vn to the Lord, which sitteth in the heauens ouer al

psal. cii. He loked down from hys sanctuary, euen out of heauen dyd ꝑ Lord beholde the earth, that he myght heare the mournynges of such as be in captiuitie, and deliuer the childzen appointed vnto death.

Psal. ciii. The Lord hath prepared his seate in heauen, and his kyngdome ruleth ouer all.

psal. ciiii. O Lord my God, thou art become exceadyng glozyous, thou art clothed with maiesty and honoure.

Thou deckest thy selfe with lyghte as it were with a garmente and spreadest out the heauens lyke a curtayne.

Thou layest the beames of thy chambers in the waters, and makest the cloudes thy charets, and walkest vpon the wynges of the wynde.

psal. cx. The Lord sayd vnto my Lord, sit thou on my ryght hande, vntill I make thyne enemyes thy fotestole.

psal. cxiii. The Lord is hye aboue all Heathen, and his glozy aboue ꝑ heauens, Who is lyke vnto the Lord our God, that hath hys dwellynge so hye, and yet humbleth hymselfe to beholde the thynges that are in heauen and earth.

psal. cxv. Wherfore shal the heathen saye, where is now their God? As for our god he is in heauen, he hath done whatsoeuer pleased hym.

psal. cxxxiii. Unto thee, O Lord, lyft I vp my eyes, which dwellest in ꝑ heauens.

psal. cxxxix. Whether shall I go from thy spirite, oz whether shal I flie from thy presence? If I clime vp into heauen, thou art there. &c.

iii. Reg. viii. Wil God dwel on the earth? Behold e the heauens and heauens of al heavens are not able to containe thee. And how should then this house do it, that I haue builded.

The

The house which I builde shalbe great, for great is oure God aboue al gods. But who is able to builde hym an house, when that heauen & heauen aboue all heauens is not able to receiue hym?

ii.para.ii.

God is hier then heauen, what art thou able to doe? Deper then hell, how wilt thou then know hym? His length exceadeth the length of the earth, and his breath the breadth of the sea.

Iob.xi.

Thus sayeth the Lord, heauen is my seate, and the earth is my fote-stole, where shal now the house stand that ye wil builde vnto me? And where shalbe the place that I wyl dwel in.

Esay.lxvi.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

IF any man say vnto you, Loe, here is Christ, or there is Chryst, beleue it not. For there shall aryse false anointed and false teachers, and shall shewe great miracles and wonders, in somuch that if it were possyble, the very electe should be deceiued. Beholde, I haue tolde you afore. wherefore if they saye vnto you beholde he is in the deserte, goe not ye forth: beholde he is in the secrete places, beleue it not. For as the lyghtning commeth out of the East, and appeareth into the West, so shal the commyng of the son of man be.

Math. xxiiii.

We haue the pore alwayes w you, but me shal ye not daue alwayes.

And when the Lorde had spoken vnto them, he was receyued into heauen, and is set down on the ryght hande of God.

Math.xxvi. Marke. xvi.

It came to passe as Chryst blessed them, he departed from them, and was caryed vp into heauen.

Luke.xxiiii.

I goe to prepare a place for you: And if I go to prepare a place for you, I wyll come agayne, and receiue you euen vnto my selfe, ỹ where I am, there ye may be also.

Iohn.xiiii.

If ye loued me, ye woulde reioyce, because I sayed, I goe vnto the father.

Now I go my way to hym that sent me, and none of you asketh me whether I go. But because I haue sayd such thynges vnto you, youre hartes are full of sorowe.

Iohn.xvi.

Neuertheles I tell you the trueth, it is expedient for you that I goe awaye. For if I go not awaye, that comforter will not come vnto you. But if I depart, I wil send him vnto you.

I went out from the father, and came into the world. Agayn I leue the world, and go to the father.

It is Chryst which dyed, ye rather which is rysen agayne, which is also on the ryght hand of God.

Rom.viii.

Soofte as ye shall eate of this bread and drynke of the cup, ye shal remember the Lordes death tyll he come.

i.Cor.xi.

God the father rayled Chryst frō the dead, and set hym on hys right hande in heauenly thynges, aboue all rule, power, and myght, and dominion, and aboue all names that are named, not in thys world only but also in the world to come.

Ephe.i.

Chryst is gone vpon hie, and hath led captiuity captiue, and hath geuen gyftes vnto men.

Ephe.iiii.

That

That he ascended, what meaneth it but that he also discended fyrst into the lowest partes of the earth.

He that descended is euen the same also that ascended vp euen aboue all heauens, to fulfyll all thynges.

Phi. ii. God hath exalted Chryst on hie and geuen hym a name, which is aboue all names, that in the name of Jesus euery knee should bow both of thyngs in heauen, and thyngs in earth, & things vnder the earth. &c.

Collos. iii. If ye be risen agayn wyth Chryst, seke those thinges which ar aboue where Chryst sytteth on the ryght hande of God.

When soeuer Chryst (which is our lyfe) shall shewe hymselfe, thē shal ye also appeare with him in glory.

i. Tes. iiii. The Lord himselfe shal come down from heauen with a shoute, and the voyce of the archangell and trompe of God. &c.

Heb. i. Chryst the son of God, beyng the bryghtnes of his fathers glory, and the very Image of hys substaunce rulyng all thynges with the worde of hys power, hath by hys own person purged our sinnes, and sitteth on the ryght hande of the maiestie on hie.

Heb. x. Thys man Chryst after he hath offered one sacrifyce for synnes, is set down for euer on the ryght hand of God, and from henceforth tarieth tyll hys foes be made hys fotestole.

Heb. xii. Let vs run wyth pacience vnto the battayle that is set before vs, lokyng vnto Jesus the captayne and fynisher of our fayth, whiche for the ioy that was set before hym abode the crosse and despysed the shame, & is set down on the ryght hande of the throne of God.

i. Peter. iii. Jesus Chryst is on the ryght hande of God, and is gone into heauē. Angels, powers and myght subdued vnto hym.

¶ Examples out of the new Testamente.

Actes. i. When Jesus had spoken these thynges, while the disciples behelde hym, he was taken vp on hie, and a cloude receiued him vp out of their sighte. And while they looke vp stedfastly towarde heauen, as he went, beholde two men stode by them in whyte apparell, whiche also sayed: ye men of Galile, why stand ye gasyng vp to heauen? This same Jesus which is taken frō you into heauen, shal so come, euen as ye haue sene him go into heauen.

Actes. vii. Stephen being ful of the holy goost, loked vp stedfastly wyth his eyes into heauen, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standyng on ỹ right hande of God, and said. Beholde I see the heauens open, and the sonne of man standyng on the ryght hande of God.

Actes. ix. Whā Saul iourned, it fortuned that as he was come nie to Damasco, sodenly there shyned rounde about hym a lyght from heauē, and he fell to the earth, and hard a voyce saying to him: Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? and he sayd. What art thou Lord? and the Lord said, I am Jesus, whom thou persecutest. &c.

¶ Against the plucking away of thy trust and confydence from Chryst and hys merytes, to put it in the merytes of other creatures or in thine own good workes, or in the intercession of Sayntes, or the Sacrifice of the popysh Masse.

IF Satan by his subtyle and crafty suggestions sekyng thy damnacion, go about to plucke thy fayth confidence and trust from Chryst, hys bloud, and his merytes, to repose it, in the merytes of men, or in thine own good dedes, workes and merytes, or in the intercession of Sainctes, or in the Sacrifyce of the Popishe masse, so that thy whole saluacion shal not hang on Chryst, and hys deseruynges only, but rather on some other straunge meanes, leane not to hys temptacions, but manfully resist them, stedfastly abydyng in this perswasion, that Chryste alone is thy ryghteousnes, and that all thy saluacion dependeth on hym alone and on none other thyng, neither in heauen nor in earth. And that thou mayest be confyrmed in thys fayth, sette these Scryptures which are vndoubted veryties, euer before thyne eyes and suffer not thy selfe, neyther by the crafty assaults of Sathan, nor yet by the suttle and flethly reasōs of any man to be plucked from them.

CSentences out of the olde Testament.

CHryst is that sede, which treade down Sathans head. Gene.iiii.

Chryst is that sede, in whom al nacions of the world shal be blessed. Gene.xxii.

Chryst is the ruler, Duke and captayne, whom all nacions haue so long loked for, which also defendeth hys people from the power of Satan. Gene.xlix.

Chryst is that sonne of God whom we are commaunded to kisse and embrase, lest we perysshe from the ryght way. Psal.ii.

Chryst is our vpholder, our glory, and our strong shylde. Psal.iii.

Chryst is the Lord from whom all health and saluacyon commeth. And he it is that blesseth hys people.

Chryst is the Lord, that neuer forsaketh them that trust in hym and seke after hym. Psal.ix.

Chryst is our strength, our sure rocke, our bulwarke, our refuge, our defence, our buckeler, our mighty sauing health, and our sanctuary. Psal.xviii.

Chryst is he that saueth vs, because it is his pleasure.

Chryst saueth the poore oppressed and layeth full low the high lokes of the proude.

Chryst is the Lord, in whom alone our fathers trusted, they trusted, I say in hym, and he deliuered them. They cryed vnto hym and they were made safe, they trusted in hym and they were neuer confounded. Psal.xxii.

Chryst is that Lord, whose wayes vniuersall are mercy and trueth to them that seke after hys Testament and ordinaunces. He it is that wyll be mercyfull to our synnes, euen for his owne names sake be they neuer so great and many. Psal.xxv.

Chryst is our lyght and our sauing health, whom then shal we feare Chryst is the defender of our lyfe, of whom than shal we be afrayed? Psal.xxvii.

Chryst is the strength of his people and the defender of the health of hys annoynted.

Chryst is our refuge in all tribulacion that assayle vs. Psal.xxxii.

CHRISTES eyes are vpon them that feare hym, and vpon them Psal.xxxiii.

them that trust in his mercy, that he may deliuer their soules frō death and nourishe them in the tyme of honger.

Psal. xxxiiii. Chryst is gentle, blessed is the man that trusteth in him.

Chryst beholdeth the ryghteous and heareth their prayer.

Chryst is at hande for them that are troubled in hart, & he shall saue the humble and meke spirited.

Psal. xxxvii. Chryst geueth saluacion to the ryghteous, and he is their defender in the tyme of trouble. He helpeth them and deliuereth them, and maketh them free from synners: and saue them because they trust in hym.

Psal. ciii. Chryst pardoneth al our iniquities, and healeth all oure diseases, he deliuereth our liues from destruction, and crowneth vs in mercy and louing kyndnes.

Chryst is right milde and mercyfull, slow vnto wrath, but ready to forgeuenes. He chideth not euer, nether is he angri alwaies, he dealeth not wyth vs after our synnes, nor rewardeth vs accordyng to our wickednes. The heigth of the heauens is not so present ouer the earth, as is his mercyable goodnes ouer them that worshipp hym. He setteth our synnes as far from vs, as is the East from the west.

Neuer was there any father so tender vnto hys children, as is the Lord vnto them that worshyp hym. For it is he that knoweth our makyng, he remembreth that we are but of dust. That the age of man mortall is lyke grasse, that he flourysheth lyke a floure of the fyelde. Whyche as sone as any sharpe wynde touche it, it is gone beyng no more founde in hys place. But the merciable goodnes of the Lord is for euer and euer, preseruing hys worshippers, and the forme of hys ryghtewyse makyng is present wyth their childers children, so long as they kepe his couenaunt and holde hys commaundementes in mynde to do them.

Psal. cxxix. Chryst is the Lord, wyth whom there is both infinite mercy, and plēteous redēpcion. For he it is that redemeth Israell frō al their synnes.

Esay. xliii. Chryst is that Lord, yea Chryst is that Lord in dede which putteth away our iniquities, for hys own sake, & wyl remember them no more. Nether haue we any thyng wherby we may be iustified in hys syght.

Esay. xlv. Chryst alone is that Sauioure, in whom Israel is saued wyth an euerlastyng health.

Esay. xlix. Chryst can no more forget vs, then a mother can forget the chylde of her wombe. And though she forgetteth her chylde, yet cannot he forget vs: For he hath wrytten vp vs in hys handes, so that we are alwaye in hys syght.

Esay. liii. Chryst hath taken vpon hym our diseases, and borne awaye our sorowes.

Chryst was wounded for our iniquities, and bruised for our synnes. Chryst was offered for vs, because it was his pleasure.

Chryst alone hath troden down the vine presse, nether was ther any at all that helped hym.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

when

When God determined to slea all the fyrst borne in the land of Egipt both of man and beast, he commaunded his people euery man in his house to slea a Lambe of a yeare old, and without spot: and with the bloud therof to annoynt the vpper doore post, and the two side postes, that whan the aungel, which smote the land of Egipt, shuld se the blud, he might passe ouer them and not destroy them. This Paschal Lamb of the Iewes is a figure of the true paschal Lamb, Iesus Christ the Lord, which is ỹ pure and vndefiled lamb of God, which offred hym self a swete smelling sacrifice vnto God for vs, whithe neuer committed sinne, and in his mouth no gile was found. For as the blud of the Lamb sprinkled on the doore postes of the Israelites did dryue away thauenger, and kept harmles the first begotten of the Israelites, so likewise the bloud of Christ sprinckled in the hartes of men by faithe, driueth Sathan, sinne, death, desperation, and hel from them, purifieth their consciences, maketh theyr harts mery, setteth them at one w̃ God, and bringeth euerlasting life, as S. Jhon saith. Behold that Lamb of God, which taketh away the sinne of the world. Exod.xii. Ihon.i. i.Cor.v. Ephe.v. i.Pet.ii. Ihon.i.

Hereto agreeth the saying of S. Paule: Christ our passeouer is offered vp for vs. i.Cor.v

Christ was figured by Manna which God gaue from heauen vnto the Israelites to eat in the desert. Exo.xvi

For as that bread was very pleasaunt, and good of taste, and had in it the sauor of al swete and dainty meates, so that they which did eat of that, neaded none other meat. Sap.xvi.

Euen so likewise is Christ the most swete and pleasaunte bread, that came down from heauen. psal.lxviii

He that eateth of this bread, shall liue for euer, nether neadeth he to folow any other straunge repast. For in Christ the soul of a Christen mã throw faith findeth inough to fede vpon. Ihon.vi

The rock out of the which plenty of swete waters gushed out, for the comfort of the thirsty Israelites in the wildernes, signified Christ also, as S. Paule doth declare. For as that rocke gaue out aboundaunce of swete and pleasant waters, to the great comfort of the people of Israel, which otherwise shuld haue perished, so likewise is Christe that rocke, out of the which floweth plentye of heauenlye waters, comfortable for the thirsty soule, which otherwise can not be succoured, but must nedes perish. And he that drinketh of those heauenly waters, which come out of the rock Christe, shal not neade to seke after the stinkinge and dirtye puddles of other. For in this Christe he shall finde plenty of waters to drincke, yea and that vnto the vttermost for his soules health, as Christ him self saith. Exo.xviii. i.Cor.x.

Who so euer shal drinke of the water, that I shall geue him, shall neuer more be a thirst, but the water that I shal geue him, shalbe in him a wel of water sprinking vp into euerlasting life. Ihon.iiii.

The brasen Serpent in the olde lawe was a figure also of Christe.

For as those which wer striken of the firy serpents wer made whole, when they loked vpon the brasen serpent, for theyr faithes sake, which they had in the promise of God annexed vnto the Serpent: so likewise they that are wounded with the firy darts of Sathan, are made hole, whensoeuer they behold vp the eies of thinward man by faith. Iesus Christ which was crucified for our sin, as Christ hym self testifieth.

Ihon.iii. Saying: as Moses lifted vp the Serpent in the wildernesse, euen so muste the sonne of man be lifted vp, that none that beleueth in hym perish, but haue euerlastinge life.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math.i Christe is called a Sauioure, for he it is that saueth his people from theyr sinnes.

Math.ix. Christ came not to call the iusticiaries, but sinners to repentaunce.

Math.xi Christ calleth all them that labour and are laden, and he promyseth that he wil refresh them.

Ihon.i. Christ is that true lighte, which lighteneth euery man that cometh into this worlde.

Ihon.i. Christ is that Lord of whose fulnes al we haue receiued, eue grace for grace. For the law was geuen by Moses, but grace and truth came by Iesus Christ.

Ihon.i. Christ is ẏ Lamb of God, which taketh away ẏ sinnes of ẏ worlde.

Ihon.iii As Moses lifted vp the Serpent in wildernesse, so muste the sonne of man be lifted vp, that euerye one that beleueth in hym, may not perish, but haue euerlasting life. For God loued the worlde so feruentlye that he gaue his only begotten Sonne that euery one that beleueth in him may not perish but haue euerlastinge life. For God sente not hys sonne into the worlde to condemne the worlde, but that the worlde should be saued by him. He that beleueth in the Sonne, hath euerlasting life, but he that beleueth not in the sonne, shal not se life, but the wrathe of God abideth vpon him.

Ihon.iiii Christ geueth that liuing water, wherof whosoeuer drincketh, shall neuermore thirst, but that water shalbe vnto him a fountain of water that springeth vp into eternal lyfe.

Ihon.vi. Christ is that bread of life, whych came downe from heauen. If any man eat of that bread, he shall liue for euer.

Ihon.viii. Christ alone the Sonne of God maketh vs fre.

Ihon.x Christ is the dore, If any man enter in by him, he shall be safe. For he shal go in and come out and find pasture.

Christ is that good shepherd, which gaue his life for his shepe.

Ihon.xi. Christ is the resurrection and life, he that beleueth in hym, although he were dead, shall lyue, and euery one that liueth and beleueth in him shall neuer die.

Ihon.xii. Christe is the lyghte of the worlde, and came into the worlde for thys purpose, that euerye one that beleueth in him, shoulde not abyde in darkenesse.

Christe

Chriſt is the way, truth and life. No man commeth vnto the father but by him. Ihon.xiiii.

Chriſt is that mighty prince which hath ouercome the worlde.

There is none other name geuen vnto men vnder heauen, wherein they muſt be ſaued, but only that name of Chriſt. Nether is there anye ſalvation in any other, but in him alone. Ihon.xv. Actes.iiii.

Chriſt is ordained of God a iudge of quick and dead. To him geue al the Prophets witnes, that thorow his name all that beleue in him ſhal receiue remiſſion of ſinnes. Actes.x

Thorow Chriſt is preached vnto vs the forgeuenes of ſinnes, ſo that by him al that beleue, are iuſtified from al things from which we could not be iuſtified by the law of Moſes. Actes.xiii

The righteouſnes no doubt, which is good before God, commeth by the faith of Jeſus Chriſt vnto all, and vpon all that beleue. There is no difference. For all haue ſinned, and want the glorye of God, but are iuſtified freely by his grace thorow the redemption that is in Chriſt Jeſu, to whome God hath made a ſeat of mercy thorow faith in his bloud, to ſhew the righteouſneſſe, which before him is of valour. Rom.iii.

Chriſt died for our ſins, and roſe again for our iuſtification.

We being iuſtified by faith, are at peace with God thorow our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom we haue away in thorow faith vnto this grace wherin we ſtād & reioyſe in hope of the praiſe that ſhalbe geuen of god. God ſetteth out his loue that he hath to vs, foraſmuch as whyle we were yet ſinners. Chriſt died for vs. Much more then now (being iuſtified in his bloud) ſhal we be ſaued frō wrath thorowe him. For if when we wer enemies we wer reconciled to God by the deathe of his ſonne: much more ſeing we are reconciled, we ſhalbe preſerued by his life. Not only ſo, but we alſo ioy in God by our Lord Jeſus Chriſt, by whom we haue receiued the attonement. Rom.iiii. Rom.v

Rede the whole Chapter.

Euerlaſting life is the gift of God thorow Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. Rom.vi

There is no dampnation to them whiche are in Chriſte Jeſus, which walke not after the fleſh but after the ſpirite. For the lawe of the ſpirite ꝑ bringeth life thorow Jeſus Chriſt, hath made vs free from the law of ſinne and death. Rom.viii

We know that al things worke for the beſt vnto them that loue God, which alſo are called of purpoſe. For thoſe which he knew before, he alſo ordeined before, that they ſhould be a like faſhioned to the ſhape of his ſonne that he might be the firſt begotten ſonne among many brethren. And whom he appoynted before, them alſo he called, and which he called, them alſo he iuſtified, which he iuſtified, them alſo he glorified.

What ſhall we then ſay to theſe thinges? If God be on our ſide, who cā be againſt vs, which ſpared not hys own ſonne, but gaue him for vs al, how ſhal he not with him geue vs al things alſo? who ſhall lay any thinge to the charge of Goddes choſen? It is God that iuſtifieth, who then shal condempne? It is Christ which is dead, yea, rather, which is risen again, which is also on the right hand of God, and maketh intercession for vs.

Rom. x. Christ is the end of the law to iustify all that beleue. Whosoeuer beleueth on Christ, shall not be ashamed. There is no difference betwene the Iew and the Gentil. For one is Lord ouer all, which is riche vnto al ỹ cal on him, for whosoeuer shal cal on ỹ name of ỹ Lord shal be safe.

i. Corrin. i Christ is made of God our wisdome, our righteousnes, oure sanctification and redemption.

i. Corrin. v Christ our Easter Lamb is offred vp for vs.

i. Corrin. vi We are washed, we are sanctified, yea, we are iustified by the name of the Lord Iesu, and by the spirit of our God.

ii. Cor. viii The liberality of our Lord Iesus Christ is greate, which though he wer riche, yet for our sakes he became pore, that we thorow his pouerty might be made riche.

Galathi. ii. If righteousnes come of the law, then died Christ in vain.

Galathi. iii Christ hath deliuered vs from the curse of the lawe, and was made accursed for vs.

Galathi. v. Stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made vs free, and wrap not your selues again in the yock of bondage.

We are gone quite from Christ as many as are iustified by the law and are fallen from grace. For we loke in spirit to be iustified thorowe faith. For in Iesu Christ nether is circumcision any thing worthe, nether vncircumcision, but faith which by loue is mighty in operation.

God forbid that I shuld reioyce in any thing, but only in the crosse, death and passion of our Lord Iesus Christ.

Ephe. i. Blessed be God the father of our Lord Iesu Christe, whyche hathe blessed vs wyth all maner of spiritual blessings in heauenly things by Christ.

By Christ we haue redemption thorow his bloud, euen the forgeuenes of sinnes according to the riches of his grace, whiche he shed on vs aboundauntly in al wisdome and prudence.

Ephe. ii God which is rich in mercy thorow his greate loue, wherewyth he loued vs euen when we wer dead in sinne, hath quickned vs together in Christ (for by grace are ye saued) and hathe raised vs vp together, & made vs sit together in heauenly thinges thorow Christ Iesus.

By grace are ye made safe thorow faith, and that not of your selues. For it is the gift of God and commeth not of woorkes, leaste any man should bost him self.

We wer straungers and farre of, but now we are made nigh by the bloud of Christ.

Christ is our peace.

Ephe. iii By Christ Iesu our Lord are we bould to draw nighe in the truste which we haue by faithe on him.

Ephe. iiii. Christ is ascended vpon high and hathe led captiuitye captiue, and hath geuen giftes vnto men.

Christ

In Christ haue we redemption thorow his bloud, that is to say for- Colloſ.i geuenesse of sinnes.

By Christ thorow the bloud of his crosse are all thinges reconciled to God the father, and set at peace both in heauen and in earth.

This is a true saying and by al meanes worthy to be receiued, that i.Tim.i Christ Jesus came into this world to saue sinners.

Ther is one God, and one mediator betwene God and man, which i.Timo.ii is the man Christ Jesus, which gaue him self a raunsom for al men.

God hath not saued vs for the dedes of rightousnes which we haue Tit. iii wrought, but of his mercy hath he saued vs.

we are not redeamed wyth corruptible Siluer and Golde, from i.pet.i.
our vaine conuersation, whiche we receiued by the traditions of the fathers, but by the precious bloud of Christe as of a Lambe vndefiled and withoute spot.

Christ is the shepheard and bishop of our soules. i.peter.ii.

The bloude of Jesus Christ Gods Sonne, maketh vs cleane from i.Ihon.i.
all synne.

If any man sinne, we haue an aduocate with the Father. Jesus i.Ihon.ii.
Christ that righteous one, and he is a mercy stocke for our sinnes: not for our sinnes only, but also for the sinnes of all the world.

Our sinnes are forgeuen vs in the name of Christe.

For this purpose appeared the Sonne of God, to lose the worckes i.Ihon.iii.
of the Deuell.

In thys appeareth the loue of God towardes vs, because that God i.Ihon.iiii.
sent his only begotten Sonne into the world, that we might liue thorow him. Herein is loue, not that we loue God, but that he loued vs, and sent his sonne to be a sacrifice for oure sinnes.

Christ in his own person hath purged our sinnes. Heb.i.

Christ thorow death put downe him that had rule ouer death, that Heb.ii.
is to say, the Deuell, and hathe made vs fre from the daunger of bondage. In that Christ him selfe suffred and was tempted, he is hable to succor them that are tempted.

We haue not an high priest which can not haue compassion on oure Heb.v infirmities, but was in al poyntes tẽpted like as we are, but yet withoute sinne.

Let vs therefore go boldlye vnto the seate of grace, that we maye receiue mercy and find grace to help in time of nede.

Christ hath an euerlasting Priesthod. Wherefore he is hable also e- Heb.vii uer to saue them that come vnto God by him, forasmuch as he euer liueth to make intercession for vs.

Christ being Bishoppe of good thinges to come, came by a greater Heb.x.
and a more perfect tabernacle, not made wyth handes, that is to say, not of this manner buildinge neither by the bloud of Gotes & Calues, but by his owen bloud he entred in, once for all into the holy place, and found eternall redemption. For if the bloud of Oxen and Gotes, and the ashes of an heifer, when it was sprinkled, purified the vncleane, as touching the purifying of the flesh, howe much more shall the bloud of Christ which thorow the eternall sprite, offred him self without spot to God, purge your consciences frō dead works, to serue the liuing God.

And for this cause is he the mediator of the newe Testament, that thorow death whiche chaunced for the redemption of those transgressions that were in the fyrst Testament, they which were called might receiue the promise of eternal inheritaunce.

Christ now in thend of the world hath appeared once for all, to put sinne to flight by thoffring vp of him self.

Heb.x. We are sanctified by the offring of the body of Iesu Christ once for all. with one offring hath Christ made perfecte for euer them that are sanctified.

Apoca.i Christ loued vs and washed vs from our sinnes in his owne bloud, and made vs kinges and Priestes vnto God his father.

Christ liueth for euermore, and hath the keies of hell and death.

Apo.xvii Christ is Lord of Lordes, and king of kinges, and they that are on his side, are called, and chosen and faithful.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Math.iii. Christ is that wel beloued sonne of God, for whose sake the heauenly father is wel pleased with man.

Math.xviii Christ is that king, whych forgaue the Seruaunt the ten thousand talentes that he ought.

Luke.x Christ is that most louing Samaritan, which healed the wounded man that was half dead.

Luke.xv. Christ is that tender shepheard which fetched home vnto the shepefold euen vpon his shoulders the lost shepe.

Christ is that most gentle father which with so great ioy, and with embrasing armes receiued home again the lost sonne.

Against such as go about to dissuade the Christen people from the studiynge, reading or hearing of Gods word.

IF Sathan or any of his impes go about to dissuade thee, and to plucke thy minde from studying, reading or hearing Gods word, that thou maist walke in darknes, and neuer come to the knowledge of the truth, least by thys meanes thou shouldest be saued, leane not vnto him, but enarme thy self against his wicked temptations with these scriptures following.

Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Exo.xiiii THou shalt tell thy Sonne at the same daye, and saye, because of that whyche the Lorde dyd for me, when I departed oute of Egypte. Therefore shall it bee a sygne vnto thee in thine hand, and a token of remembraunce before thine eies, that the lawe of the Lorde may maye be in thy mouth, howe that the Lorde brought thee out of Egipt with a mightie hande.

Speake to the children of Israel, and say vnto them, that they make Num.xv.
them gardes vpon the quarters of their garmentes, amõgest all youre posterytes, and put yelowe ribandes vpon the gardes in the quarters And the gardes shal serue you, that ye may loke vpõ them and remember all the commaundementes of the Lord, and do them, that ye order not your selues after the meanyng of your own hart nor go a whoring after your own eyes. Therfore shal ye remember, and doe all my commaundementes, and be holy vnto your God.

Take hede to thy selfe now, and kepe wel thy soule, that thou forget Deu.iii.
not the thinges which thine eyes haue seen, and that they departe not out of thy heart al the dayes of thy lyfe. And thou shalt teach them thy children and thy childers children.

Heare O Israel, the Lorde oure God is one Lorde onely. And thou Deu.vi.
shalt loue the Lord thy God, withal thy hart withal thi soule, and with all thy myght. And these wordes which I commaunde thee this daye, shalt thou take to hart, and shalt rehearse them vnto thy children, and shalte talke of them, when thou sittest in thyne house, and when thou walkest by the way, when thou lyest down, and when thou ryseste vp. And thou shalt bynde them for a sygne vpon thyne hande, & they shalbe a token of remembraunce before thine eies, and thou shalt write thẽ vpon the postes of thyne house and vpon thy gates.

If ye herken vnto my commaundementes, which I commaund you Deu.xi.
thys day, that ye loue the Lord your God, and serue hym wyth al your hart, and wyth all your soule, then wyll I geue rayn vnto your lande in due season, early and late, that thou mayest gather in thy corne, thy wyne, and thyne Oyle, and I wyl geue grasse vpon thy fyelde for thy cattel, that ye may eate, and be fylled. But beware that your heart bee not disceiued, that ye go asyde, and serue other gods, and worship them, and then the wrath of the Lord ware whote vpon you and he shut vp the heauen that there come no rayne, & the earth geue not her encrease and ye perysshe shortly from the good lande, which the Lord hath geuen you.

Put vp therfore these my wordes in your heartes, and in your soules and bynde them for a signe vpon your handes, that they bee a token of remembraunce before your eyes, and teach them your children, so that thou talke of them when thou sittest in thine house, or walkest by ỳ way when thou liest down and when ỳ risest vp, and wryte them vpon the postes of thyne house and vpon the gates, that thou and thy children may liue long in the lande which the Lord sware vnto thy fathers to geue them as long as the dayes of heauen endure vpon earth.

Let my doctryne encrease as rayne, and my speache flow as doeth ỳ Deu.xxxii.
dew, Euen as the rayne vpon the grasse, and ỳ drops vpon the herbe.
Take to hart al the wordes which I testifie vnto you this day that ye commaunde your children to obserue and to do all these wordes of this law. For it is no vayne word to you, but it is your lyfe, and thys worde shal prolong your lyfe.

Iesue. i. Be strong and very bolde that thou mayest kepe and do euery thing accordyng to the law that Moses my seruaunt commaunded thee. Turne not aside from it nether to the ryght hand nor to the left, that thou mayest deale wysely whether soeuer thou goest. And let not the boke of this law depart out of thy mouth but exercyse thy selfe therein day and night that thou mayest kepe and do euery thyng accordyng to it that is wrytten therin. Then shalt thou prosper in thy wayes & deale wisely. Lo I haue cõmaunded thee to be strong and bolde. Feare not and be not afrayed for thy Lord thy God is with thee, whersoeuer thou goest.

Psal. i. Blessed is the man that deliteth in the law of the Lord and exercyseth himselfe in his law both day and night.

Psal. xi. Lay hande on learning least the Lord be angry, and so ye perysh frõ the ryght way.

Psal. xviii. The law of the Lord is pure it turneth soules. The witnes of ỹ lord is faythfull, it geueth wysdom euen vnto babes. The statutes of the lord are ryght they reioice the hart, the commaũdement of the Lord is bryght, and lyghteneth the eyes. The feare of the Lord is holy, it endureth for euer, the iudgementes of the Lord ar true and righteous altogether, they are more pleasaunt and worthy, more to be desired then golde and precious stone, yea they be sweter then the hony and the hony combe.

Psal. lxxv. The Lorde shall tell in the Scriptures of the people and of those Princes that wete in her.

Psal. cxiii. Blessed is the man whom thou hast nourtered. O Lord and taught hym in thy law.

Psa. cxvii. He hath sent his word and healed them and deliuered them, frõ their destructions.

Psal. cxix. Blessed are they that search his testimonies, and seke after him with their whole hart. Thou hast geuen streight charge that thy commaundementes shuld be kept. Oh that my wayes were stablyshed to kepe thy statutes, then should not I be confounded while I haue respect vnto all thy commaũdementes. Wherwith al, shal a younge man clense hys way? Verely by rulyng hym selfe accordyng to thy word. With my whole harte haue I soughte thee, Oh let me not go wrong out of thy commaundementes. Thy wordes haue I hid within my hart that I should not synne agaynst thee. Thou rebukest ỹ proude, cursed ar they ỹ depart frõ thy cõmãdemẽts Thy testimonies is my delighte, yea thy statutes are my counsellers. Teach me O Lord, ỹ way of thy statutes, and I shal kepe it vnto the end.

ande. Oh geue me vnderstanding and I shal kepe thy law, yea I shal kepe it with my whole hart.

Leade me in the path of thy cõmaundements, for that is my delyte. Encline my heart vnto thy testimonies, and not vnto couetousnes. The law of thy mouth is better vnto me, thẽ thousãdes of gold & siluer. The wicked me haue told me tales but nothing agreable tõ thy law. For all thy cõmaundementes ar true; yet haue ỳ vngodly persecuted me. If my delight wer not in thy law, I should perysh in my trouble. Oh how swet ar thy wordes vnto my throte, yea more thẽ hony is vnto my mouth. Thy word is a lãtern vnto my fete, & a light vnto my path. It is hie time for the O lord to lay to thine hãd, for they haue destroied thy law For I loue thy cõmaundements aboue golde & precious stone.

The preaching of thy word geueth sight, yea and bryngeth forth vnderstanding euen vnto the verybabes.

Health is far from the vngodly, for they regarde not thy Statutes. But great is the peace that they haue which loue thy lawe, and they are not offended at it.

My son, if ỳ wilt receiue my wordes, & kepe my cõmaundementes by ther, ỳ thyne eare may harkẽ vnto wysedom, apply thine hart thẽ to vnderstãding. For if ỳ criest after wisedom, & callest for knowledge, if ỳ seekest after her as after money, & diggest for her as for treasure then shalt thou vnderstãde ỳ feare of ỳ Lorde & finde ỳ knowledge of God. For it is the Lord ỳ geueth wysdom, out of hys mouth commeth knowledge and vnderstanding. He preserueth ỳ welfare of the ryghteous, and defendeth thẽ ỳ walke innocently he kepeth thẽ in ỳ ryght path, & preserueth ỳ way of the Sainctes? Then shalt ỳ vnderstande ryghteousnes, iudgement & equitie ye & euery good path. If wisdom enter into thyne hart, and thy soule delite in knowledge, then shal counsel preserue the, and vnderstandyng shal kepe thee. That thou mayest be deliuered from the euil way, and from the man that speaketh frowarde thynges, from such as leaue the hie streate and walke in the way of darknes, whiche reioyce in doing euil, and delite in wicked things, whose waies are crooked, and their pathes slaunderous. That thou mayest be deliuered also from the straunge woman, and from her that is not thyne owon which geueth swete wordes, forsaketh the husbande of her youth, and forgetteth the couenaunt of her God. For her house is enclyned vnto death, & her pathes vnto hell. All they that go in vnto her come not agayne, nother take they holde of the way of lyfe. That thou mayest walke in the good way, and kepe the pathes of the ryghteous. For the iust shal dwel in the land, and the innocentes shal remain in it: but the vngodly shall be roted out of the land, and the wycked doers shalbe taken oute of it. Pro. iii.

Blessed is that man that fyndeth wysdom and obtaineth vnderstanding, for the getting of it is better then any marchandyse of syluer, and the profyt of it is better then golde. Pro. iii.

Wisdom is more worthy then precious stones, and all the thynges that thou

thou canst desire, ar not to be compared vnto her. Vpon her right hand is long lyfe, and vpon her left hand is riches and honor. Her wayes are pleasaunt wayes, and al her pathes are peaceable. She is a tree of life to them that lay holde vpon her, and blessed are they that kepe her fast. My son, let not these thinges depart frō thine eies, but kepe my law and counsel, so shal it be lyfe vnto thy soule, and grace vnto thy mouth.

Then shalt thou walke safely in thy way, and thy fote shal not stumble. If thou slepest, thou shal not be afrayed, but shalt take thy rest, and slepe swetely: Thou shalt not nede to be afrayed of any soden feare, neither for the violent rushing in of the vngodly when it commeth. For the Lord shalbe beside thee, and kepe thy fote ℔ thou be not take.

pro. iiii. Let thine heart receiue my wordes, kepe my commaundementes and thou shalt liue.

Get thee wisdom, get thee vnderstandyng, forget not the wordes of my mouth, and shrynke not from them. Forsake her not, and she shall preserue thee, loue her, and she shall kepe thee. The chiefe poynt of wysdome is, that thou be wyllyng to obtayne wysedome, and before all thy goods to get vnderstandyng. Make much of her, and she shal promote thee, yea, if thou embracest her, she shall bryng thee vnto honoure.

She shal make thee a gracious head, and garnish the with ℔ crown of glory. Here my son, and receiue my wordes, that the yeares of thy life may be many: I will shew thee ℔ way of wisdom, and leade thee in the right pathes. So that if thou goest therin, ther shal no straitnes hinder thee: and when thou runnest, thou shalt not fall.

Take fast holde of doctryne, let her not go, kepe her, for she is thy life

pro. vi. The commaundement is a lanterne, and the law is a light, and the way of lyfe.

Pro. xix. Where no knowledge of gods word is, the soule is not well.

pro. xxiiii. Applye thy hearte vnto learnyng, and thyne eare to the wordes of knowledge.

pro. xxviii. He that turneth away his eare from hearing the law, hys praier shal be abhorred.

pro. xxix. When the preachyng of gods word fayleth, then perysheth ℔ people.

pro. xxx. Euery word of God is pure and cleane, yea it is a shild to them that trust in it.

Sapi. xiii. Vayne are al those men in whom no knowledge of God is.

Sapi. xvi. Neyther herbe nor emplasture hath healed them, but thy worde O Lord, which healeth all thynges.

Eccle. i. The fountayne of wysdom is the word of God.

Eccle. v. Be meke and lowly to heare the word of God, that thou mayest vnderstande, and bryng forth a wyse and true answere.

Eccle. vii. Haue all thy pleasure in the commaundementes of God, and in hys lawes be thou most of all occupyed, and he shall geue thee an hart, and a desyre of wysedome shalbe geuen thee.

Eccle. xvi. Be not slacke to beleue the word of God.

Learning

Learnyng is a precious iewell to a wyse man. Ecclc.xxi.

Nothing is better then the feare of God, and nothyng is sweter thē to haue a respect to the commaundementes of the Lord. Eccle.xxiii.

My people is led captiue because they haue no knowledge. Esay.v.

They haue cast away the law of the Lord of hostes, and the worde of the holy one of Israel, haue they blasphemed.

Therfore is the wrath of the Lord whote against his people, and he will stretch out his hand, and destroy them.

Make hast vnto the law and witnesse. If they speake not accordyng to this worde, they shal not haue the morning lyght. Esay.viii.

All ye that are a thirste, come vnto the waters, and ye that haue no mony, make hast, bye and eate. Come I say, bye wythoute money, and wythout any exchaunge, wyne and milke. Esay.lv.

Why lay ye out your money for that that is not bread in dede, & spēd your laboure about that, that shall neuer satisfye you. Heare me, heare I say, and eate that which is good, that ye may be wel liking: geue eare and come vnto me, heare me I say, and your soule shall lyue.

As rayne and snowe commeth down from heane and returneth not thither agayne, but watereth the earth, and maketh it to bud, & bryng forth the fruicte, so that it geueth sede to the sower, and bread to the eater, so shal my worde be, that shal come out of my mouth. It shal not returne vnto me voide, but shal do whatsoeuer I wyll, and prosper in thē to whom I send it.

Let not the wise man reioyse in his wysedome: nor the strong man in his strength, nor yet let the ryche man glory in his ryches, but let hym that reioyseth, reioyse in thys thyng that he know me, that I am ỳ lord which do mercy, iudgemente and righteousnes in the earth. Ierc.ix.

Withdraw not the worde from the people, if peraduenture they heare and turne from their wicked way, so that it maye repent me of the euyl whiche I haue determined to doo vnto them for the malicyousnesse of their counsels. Ierc.xxvi.

Here Israel the commaundementes of lyfe, geue eare that ỳ mayeste become wyse. How chaunsed it O Israel, that thou arte in the lande of thine enemyes? Thou art worne out in a straunge lande, thou art defiled wyth the dead. Thou art reputed with thē that go down vnto hell. Thou hast forsaken the fountayne of wisdom. For if thou hadst walked in the way of God, vndoubtedly thou hadst dwelt in rest vpon ỳ earth Learne therfore where wysdom is, and where vnderstandyng is that thou maiest also know where continuaunce of lyfe is, and all thynges necessary for to maintaine the same, agayne, where the light of the eies and peace is, Barue.iii.

This is the boke of the commaundementes, and the law whych abydeth for euer. All that kepe it, shall come vnto lyfe, but they that forsake it, shall come vnto death. Barue.iiii.

Behold, the day is come, sayeth the Lord, ỳ I wil cast an hōger vpō the Amos.viii.

the earth, not the honger of bread, nor the thirst of water, but of hearig the word of the Lord. And they shall goe from sea to sea, and walke about from the South to the East, seking the word of the Lord, and yet shal they not fynde it.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testamente.

Exo. xxi. GOd the father wrote the law of the ten commaundementes in tables of stone with his finger, and commaũded Moses to declare the vnto the people.

Deu. vi. The people are commaunded of God not onely to rede his holy law but also diligently to exercise themselues in the meditaciõ therof so lõg as they liue, and to teache it their childrẽ, yea to talke of it, both in their house, and whan they goe abrode and to wryte it vpon the thresholdes, dores and postes of their houses, that it may be euer in their syghte. For man shal not liue with bread alone, but with euery worde that proceadeth from the mouth of God.

Deu. xvii. A king is commaunded to reade the boke of the law of the Lord all the dayes of hys lyfe, that he may feare the Lord hys God.

Iosu. i. Josias was cõmaunded that the boke of the Lordes law should not depart from hys mouth, but that he should study in it day and nyghte, that he might kepe and do all thinges that are wrytten in that boke.

i. Reg. xv. King Saule was cast down from hys royall estate, because he was negligent and disobedient to the law of God.

i. Para. xxix. When Dauid lay on his death bed, he said to Salomon: Thou shalt prosper and come to great renoume, if thou kepest the cõmaũdements and ordinaunces, which the Lord commaunded Moses.

ii. Para. xxiii Joas, when he was crowned in the temple, had the law of the lord deliuered vnto hys handes, that he shoulde kepe and mayntayne that same.

ii. Par. xxvii Josaphat walked in the commaundementes of the Lord and loued gods worde so entirely, that he sent hys Princes, Leuites, & Preestes to teache in all partes of Juda, which had the boke of the Lordes law wyth them, and went about in all the cities of Juda, and taughte the people.

ii. para. xxix. Ezechias diligently walked in the law of the lord, purged hys realme of all Idolatry, set vp agayne the true worshipping of God and exhorted all his subiectes to folow the law of their Lord God.

ii. par. xxxiiii Josias that most godly kyng, which walked so purely in the wayes of the Lord, that he declineth nether on the ryght hande nor on the left when the boke of the law was deliuered vnto him, did not onely cause the boke to be red before hym, but he himselfe also red it before all hys people, both small and great, and (all Idolatry destroyed) restored the true religion to his kyngdome.

ii. Esd. viii. Esdras red the law of the Lord playnly and destinctly to the people and they gaue very earnest and diligent attendaunce to the hearynge of it.

Sulan

Sulan from her infancy, was so diligently brought vp of her Pa- Dan.xiii rents in the law of God that she did not only fear God but also chosed rather to be stoned vnto death then she would once transgres the law of God by committing adultry.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

MAn shall not liue with breade alone, but with euery word that Math.iiii.
commeth out of the mouth of God.

Verely, verely I say vnto you, this age shall not passe, till all Math.xxiiii these thinges be done. Heauen & earth shall passe away, but my words shall not passe away.

Blessed are they that hear the word of God and kepe it. Luke.xi Blessed is he that eateth bread in the kingdom of God. Luke.xiii
They haue Moyses and the Prophets, let them hear them. If they Luke.xvi.
hear not Moyses and the Prophets, nether will they beleue, thoughe one should rise from the dead.

This is condemnation, that light is come into the world, & the me Ihon.iii loued darknes more thē light because their works wer euil. For euery man that doth euil, hateth the light, nether cometh he to the light, least his workes should be reproued, but he that doth truth, cometh to light that his dedes might be known, how they are wrought in God.

Search the Scriptures for ye thincke to haue eternall life in them Ihon.v.
and these are they whiche testifye of me, neither will ye come vnto me that ye may haue life.

The wordes that I speake to you are spirit and life. Ihon.vi
Lord to whom shal we go? Thou hast the words of euerlasting life.

He that is of God heareth ỹ words of God. But ye here not because Ihon.viii.
ye are not of God. If any man kepeth my word he shal neuer se death.

My sheepe hear my voyce, and I know them, and they follow me, Ihon.x and I geue them euerlasting life.

Walke while ye haue light least darknes ouerwhelme you. He that Ihon.xii.
walketh in darcknesse, knoweth not whether he goeth. While ye haue light beleue in the light: that ye may be children of light.

He that hath my precepts and kepeth them, he it is that teacheth me. Ihon.xiiii
If any man loueth me, he will kepe my word, and my father wyll loue him, and we shall come to him, and dwel with him.

This is euerlasting life, euen to know thee thalone true God, and Ihon.xvii.
whom thou hast sent Jesus Christ.

Euery one that is of the truthe heareth my voyce. Ihon.xviii.
The Gospell of Christe is the power of God vnto saluation, for so Rom.i.
many as beleue.

Except the Lord of hostes had left vnto vs seede, that is hys moste Rom.ix.
blessed worde, we had bene as Sodom, and might wel haue ben likened to Gomorra.

Faith commeth by hearing, and hearing by the word of God. Rom.x.

Whatsoeuer things are wrytte afore time, are wrytte for our lerning, Rom.xv ỹ we thorow patiẽce & cõfort of the scriptures might haue hope. The word of ỹ cros is to them ỹ perish, folishnes, but to vs ỹ obtain saluati
i. Cor. v on, it is ỹ power of God. If ỹ gospel of Christ be yet hid, it is hid amõg
ii. Cor. iiii. thẽ ỹ are lost, in whõ ỹ God of this world hath blinded ỹ minds of thẽ which beleue not, least ỹ light of ỹ glorious gospel of Christ, which is ỹ Image of God, shuld not shine vnto thẽ. Let the word of Christ dwel Colloss. iii in you richly withal wisdom. Teach and monish one another.

Quench not the spirit. Despise not the studies and preachings of the
i. Thess. v holy scripture. Proue all thinges, and that is good, hold fast.
i. Timo. ii. God wil al men to be saued, & come vnto the knowledge of ỹ truth.
i. Tim. iiii. Geue thy mind to reding, exhortatiõ & doctrin, cõtinue in these things.
i. Tim. iii Cõtinue in reding ỹ holy scripture, which is able to make ỹ wise vnto saluatiõ, thorow ỹ faith which is in christ Jesus: For all scripture geuẽ by inspiratiõ of God, is profitable to teach, to improue, to amẽd, & to instruct in rightousnes, ỹ the man of God may be perfect & prepared to al good workes. The word of God is liuish & mighty in operation, & shar-Iac. i. per then any two edged sword. Lay a part al filthines, al superfluity of malitiousnes, & receiue wt mekenes the word ỹ is grafted in you, which is able to saue your soules. And se ye be doers of ỹ word, & not hearers only, disceiuing your selues. For if any hear the word & do it not, he is like to a mã ỹ beholdeth his bodely face in a glas. For assone as he hath loked on him self, he goth his way, & forgetteth forthwt what his fash-on was. But who so loketh in ỹ perfect law of liberty, & cõtinueth ther on, if he be not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of ỹ work, ỹ same shalbe hap
i. Petr. ii py in his dede. Lay aside al malice & gile & dissimulatiõ and enuy, & all backbiting, and as new born babes desire ỹ milke, not of the body, but ii. Pet. i. of the mind, which is wout corruptiõ, ỹ ye may grow therin. We haue a right sure word of prophecy; whervnto if ye take hede as vnto a light ỹ shineth in a dark place, ye do wel vntil the day dawn, & the day star arise in our harts. So ỹ ye first know this ỹ no Prophecy in ỹ scripture hath any priuate interpretatiõ. For ỹ scripture came neuer by the wil of man, but holy men of God spake as they wer moued by the holy Gost.
ii. Ihon. i who so euer trãgresseth & abideth not in ỹ doctrin of Christ, hath not god. He ỹ endureth in ỹ doctrin of Christ, hath both ỹ father & the son.
If there come any to you, & bring not this learning, him receiue not to house, nether once bid him godspede, for he ỹ biddeth him godspede, is partaker of his euil dedes. Blessed is he ỹ readeth and heareth ỹ words Apo. i. of the prophecy, and kepeth these thinges that are wrytten therin.
Apoc. xxii Blessed is he that kepeth the wordes of the prophecy of this boke.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Luke. vi. The people preased so greatly vpon Christ to hear the word of God, that he was compelled to enter into a ship, and so to teach them.

Luke. x Mary the sister of Martha, sat at Jesus fete & hard his preachinge.
And when Martha being greatly cõbred about much seruing & other worldly businesse, saide to Christ: Master doest thou not care that my sister

ſiſter hath left me to miniſter alone? Bid her therfore that ſhe help me. He ſaid: Martha, Martha, thou careſt and art troubled about manye thinges, but one thing is neadeful. Mary hath choſē her that good part which ſhall not be taken away from her.

When Chriſt preached in the temple, all the people dyd hang of hys mouth, hearing him. Luk. xix.

Peter turned thre thouſand at one of his Sermons. Actes. ii

The Enuch Chamberlaine and of great authority wyth Candace, Quene of the Ethiopians, read the Prophet Eſay, ſitting in his charet to whom the holy Ghoſt ſent Philip, which did both expoūd the ſcriptures vnto him: and alſo baptiſed him. So dear are they to God which delight in the reading of his holy word. Actes. viii.

The nobleſt of byrth among them of Theſſalonica, which receiued the word withal diligence of mind ſearched the ſcriptures daily, whether thoſe things wer euen ſo as Paul and Silas preached. Actes. xvii

Appollos was an eloquent man and mighty in the Scriptures. He was informed in the way of the Lord, and he ſpake feruently in the ſpirit, and taught diligently the things of the Lord, and yet knewe he but the baptiſme and doctrine of Jhon only, whom when Aquila & Priſcilla his wife, being lay perſons had hard, they toke him vnto them, & expounded vnto him the way of God more perfectly, in ſo much that afterward he mightely ouercame the Jewes and that openly, ſhewyng by the ſcriptures that Jeſus was Chriſt. Actes. xviii

Phillip the Euangeliſt and preacher of the Goſpel, had four daughters excellently learned in the holy ſcriptures. Actes. xxi.

Timothe was brought vp in the holy ſcriptures from his yong age. ii. Tim. iii.

Againſt ſtraunge religion or newe found worſhipping of God.

YF thou be moued vnto ſtraunge Religion or new found worſhippinge of God, ether by Sathan, by the Pope, or by any ſubtill hipocrite, loke that thou by no meanes doſt leane vnto theyr wicked motions, but rather valeauntly withſtand thē with theſe ſentences and examples of the holy ſcripture.

Sentences out of the olde Teſtament.

HEar Iſraell, your Lord God is one God. Thou ſhalt loue thy Lord God withal thy hart, withal thy ſoule, and withall thy ſtrengthe. Thou ſhalt feare thy Lord God, and ſerue him alone. Deu. vi

And nowe Iſraell, what doth the Lord thy God requyre of thee but ỳ thou feareſt the Lorde thy God, and walke in his waies, and loue him, and ſerue the Lord thy God withal thy hart, and wythall thy ſoule, & kepe the commaundements of the Lord. Dex. vi

Do that which is pleaſaunt in the ſight of the Lorde thy God. Sacrifice to the Lord the ſacrifice of righteouſnes, and truſt in him. Deu. xiii

Psalm. vi. I wil not reproue thee in thy sacrifices, saith the Lord, for I am ful of thy burnt offeringes. Offer to God the sacrifice of praise, and pay to the most highest thy vowes. Cal on me in the day of trouble, & I will deliuer thee, and thou shalt honor me.

Psal. lxxxviii. Heare, O my people, I wil geue the a charge O Israel if thou wilt heare me, there shalbe no straunge nor new found God in the, neither shalt thou worship any forain God. For I am the lord thy God, which brought thee out of the land of Egipt.

A sacrifice well pleasing to the Lord is to attend to his commaundements, and to depart from al iniquities and vnrighteousnesse.

Esay. i. What shall I do wythall these your sacrifices, saith the Lord: I am full of them. The burnt offeringes of Weathers and fatlinges, the blud of Calues, Lambes and Gotes, I wil none of them. When ye com before my sight, who required these thinges of your hands, that ye shuld walcke in my courtes: Bringe me no more sacrifice on this manner in vain, your sensing is abhomination vnto me. The feastes of the newe Mone, and the Sabbothes and other holy daies I can not abide. Your congregations ar wicked. Your Kalenders and your solempne feastes, my soule hateth. I am euen wery of them. It greueth me to ꝑ hart for to suffer them. When ye shall praye many prayers, I will not here you. For your handes are ful of bloud. Be ye washed and cleane. Take away your euil thoughtes from my eies. Cease to do euel, learn to do wel. Seke iudgement, helpe the pore oppressed, be fauorable to the fatherles, defend the widdow, and then come and proue me, sayeth the Lord. If your sinnes be as red as Scarlet, yet shall they be made as white as Snowe. And if they be made like purple, yet shall they be made as white as wol. If that ye will be contented and heare me, ye shall eate the good frutes of the earth. If that ye will not, but prouoke me vnto anger, the sweard shal deuour you, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

Hiere. vii. Put your burnt offrings to your sacrifices & eat the flesh For whē I brought your fathers out of the land of Egipt, I spake not one worde vnto them of burnt offrings & sacrifices, but this I commaunded thē, saying: here my voyce, & I shalbe your God, and ye shal be my people, So ye walk in al the waies ꝑ I cōmaunded you, that ye may prosper.

Amos. v I hate and vtterly dely your holy dais, and wheras ye sēe me whē ye come together, I wil not accept it. And thoughe ye offer me burnte offrings, yet will not I receiue your gifres. Away frō me with ꝑ noyse of thy sōges, for I cannot abide the hearing of thy playing at ꝑ organs. Yea I would that equity may flow as the water, & rightousnes as a mighty streame, for in these things haue I delite and pleasure, saith the lord.

Ose. v. I wil mercy and no sacrifice, saith the Lord, and the knowledge of God do I set more by, then burnt offringes.

Mich. vi. What shall I offer worthy the Lord? Shall I bow my knee to the hie God? Shall I offer vnto him burnte Sacrifices and Calues of a yeare yeare olde? May the Lord be pleased with a thousand fat weathers? Or with many thousandes of lusty goates? shal I geue my first begotten for my wickednes? Euen the frute of my womb for the sinne of my soul? I wil shewe thee (O man) what is good, and what the Lord requireth of thee: verely to do iudgement, to loue mercy, and carefully to walke with thy God.

How long wil ye hault on both partes? If the Lord be God, folow him. If Baall be God, folow him. iii. Reg. xviii.

Examples out of the old Testament.

NAdab and Abihu of a good entēt offred encense to the Lord with straunge fyre, yet for all theyr good zele, they were consumed with fyre, so that they died before the Lord. Leui. x.

Kinge Saule thought that he had done great worship vnto God, when God in the absence of Samuell he offred burnt offringes, but Samuell said vnto him, thou hast done folishly, nether hast thou kept the cōmaundements of the Lord thy God, which I commaunded the. i. Reg. xiii.

Saul also of a good zele contrary to the commaundement of God, spared Agag the king of Ameleche aliue with the best & fattest flockes of shepe. Oxen &c. pretending that he reserued thē for to offer vnto the Lord. But Samuel said vnto him: forasmuch as thou hast cast away the word of the Lord, the Lord hath cast away thee, that thou be no more kinge. Willeth the Lord burnt offringes and sacrifices? and not rather that it may be obeyed vnto his word? Obedience is better then sacrifices, and to geue eare to the Lordes Commaundemente, is more then to offer the fat of Wethers. ii. Reg. xv.

Oza thought that he had done God high seruice when he staied the Arck of God in the wain being in ieopardy of falling, but yet was the Lord angry with him, because he touched it contrary to his worde, in so much that he was striken and sodenly died. ii. Reg. vi

King Ozias toke vpon him to burne incense vnto the Lord, thynking that by this meanes he shuld highly plese God, but for al his pretēded holines he was striken with leaprosye, and so being cast out of the house of the Lord, he continued a Leper euen vnto his death. ii. Pa. xxvi

Sentences out of the new Testament.

These people draw nie vnto me with their mouthes, and honor me with their lips, but theyr hart is far from me. Behold they worship me in vain, teaching doctrine euen the commaundements of men. Math. xv.

Wo be vnto you ye Scribes & Pharises, yea very Ipocrites, which deuour widowes houses vnder the pretence of lōg praier, ye shal therfore receiue the more greuous dampnation. Math. xxiii

God hath deliuered vs from the hand of our enemies, that we shuld serue him in holines and righteousnes al the daies of our life. Luke. i.

The hour cōmeth & now it is whē true worshippers shal worship ỹ father in spryte & truth, for ỹ father seketh such, that shuld worship him. God is a spryte, & thei ỹ worship him, must worship him in spryte & truth Ihon. iiii.

Ioan.xvi. The time shall come, that whosoeuer killeth you, shall thincke that they do vnto God an hie good seruice.

Rom.i. God is my witnes whome I serue in my spyte.

Ephe.v. Be ye fulfilled with ỳ spyte speaking with your selues in Psalmes and himnes and spiritual songes, and making melody to the Lorde in your hartes, geuing thankes alwais for all thinges vnto God the father in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Tim.i. Unto God king euerlasting immortal, inuisible and wise only, be al honor and glory for euer and euer.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Ioan.v. OUr sauior Christ whan he liued in this world did al thinges according to his heauenly fathers commaundementes as he hym selfe saith. As my father, hath geuen me commaundemente, so do I. Thys did he to geue vs example, that in matters of Religion we should attẽpt nothing as a due seruice vnto God, but that only which we haue learned out of his holy word.

The Apostles of Christ both taughte and wrote that onlye, whiche they had receiued of theyr Lord and Master Jesus Christ.

Of these aforesaid Scriptures and histories, maist thou learn, that God is not worshipped as carnal reason and fleshly wisdome imagineth and prescribeth, but as God by his holy worde biddeth, appoynteth, and commaundeth. A christen mã ought to folow Christes steps and to walke as he hath walked.

¶ Against mens traditions and vnwryttẽ verities.

YF Sathan or any of his impes, vnto the derogation of Gods glorye, shall at anye time tempte the wyth mans traditions or vnwritten verities, for to geue no lesse credit vnto them, than vnto the word of God, auoid him with these scriptures.

¶ Sentences out of the old Testament.

Deut.iiii. YE shall not adde vnto the woorde that I speake, nor take ought from it.

Ye shall not tourn vnto the right hand, nor vnto the left hand, but by the way that the Lord your God hath cõmanded you, ye shal walke: that ye may liue and haue good lucke.

Deut.vi. Kepe the commaundements of the Lord thy God, and the testimonies and Ceremonies, whiche he hath commaunded thee, and do that which is pleasaunt and good in the Lords syght, that thou maist haue good lucke.

Deut.xii. That I commaund thee, do that only, nether put to any thing, nor take ought away.

prouer.xxx. Put nothing to his words, least thou be reproued and found a lier.

Esaye.v. Wo be vnto them that cal euil good, and good euil, darcknes light, light darknes, sower swete, and swete sower.

Wo be to them that are wise in theyr own sight, and thyncke themselues to haue vnderstanding.

Wo be vnto you that make vnryghteous lawes, and deuise thinges which be to hard for to be kept, where through the poze ar oppzessed on euery syde, and the innocentes of my people are there wyth robbed of iudgement. Esaye.x.

Wo be to these shrynkyng chyldzen, sayeth the Lozd, which seke counsel but not at me: which take a web in hand, but not after my wyl that they may heape one syn vpon another. Esaye.xxx.

Thus sayeth the Lozde, my thoughtes are not youre thoughtes, and your wayes are not my wayes, but as far as the heauens are hier then the earth, so far do my wayes exceade youres, and my thoughtes youre thoughtes. Esaye.lv.

Your lips speake lesynges, and your tong setteth out wyckednes. Esaye.lix.
No man regardeth righteousnes, and no man iudgeth truly.
Euery man hopeth in vayn things & imagineth disceyte, conceiueth wickednes, and bryngeth forth euill.
They brede Cockatrices Egges, and weaue the spiders web. Whosoeuer eateth of their Egges, dyeth, but if one treade vpon them, there commeth vp a Serpent. Their web maketh no cloth, and they may not couer them wt their labores? Their dedes are the dedes of wickednes and ỹ worke of robbery is in their handes: their fete run to euil, and they make hast to shed innocent bloud. Their counsels are wycked cõsels, hate and destruccion is in their wayes, but the way of peace they know not. In their goinges is no equitie, their wayes are so croked, ỹ whoso goeth therin, knoweth nothyng of peace.

My people hath committed two great euils. They haue forsakẽ me the fountayne of liuing waters, and dygged them pyts, pyts I say that are broken, and can hold no water. Iere.ii.

Take hede, saith ỹ lozd ye trust in cõsels ỹ begile you & do you nogood Iere.vii.
Heare not ỹ wozds of ỹ Pzophetes, that pzeach their own dzeames Iere.xxiii.
Heare O ye house of Israel, sayeth the Lozd. Is not my way ryght, oz are not your wayes rather wycked? Iere.xviii.

The chyldzen of thy people, say, tush, the way of the lozd is not right wheras their way is rather vnryght. Ezech.xxxiii.

Examples out of the olde Testament.

Ieroboam kyng of Israel, contray to gods wozde, made two calues of golde and set them vp to be wozshypped of the people as their gods, but both he and his posterity wer greuously punished foz it. iii.Reg.xii.

How greuously God punished al such as brought in straũge wozshippinges of God oz any matters concerning Idolatry, oz ought els contrary to ỹ wozd of God, although ỹ authozs of them made the symple people to beleue that they wer verites although vnwzitten as the Papystes do now a dayes, ỹ holy Scriptures in diuers places do euidently shew, namely in the bokes of the kinges and of the Chzonycles.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Except your righteousnes doth excede the righteousnesse of ỹ Scribes and Phariseys ye can not enter into the kingdom of heauen. Math.v.

Math.vii. Beware of false Prophetes which come vnto you in shepes clothig, and inwardly are rauening wolues.

Math.xv. Why do ye transgresse ỹ cõmaundement of God for your traditiõs.

Math.xv. Euery plant that my heauẽly father hath not planted, shalbe plucked vp by the rotes.

Math. xvii. This is my welbeloued son, in whõ I am wel pleased, hear ye him.

Math.xxviii. Teach them to kepe al thiugs that I haue commaunded you.

Math.vii. Ye leaue the commaundement of God, and maintayne youre owne constitucions. Wel do ye cast aside the cõmaundement of God, to kepe your own tradicions.

Iohn.iii. If ye abide in my word, ye ar my disciples in dede, and ye shal know the trueth, and the trueth shal make you free.

Iohn. viii. He that is of God, heareth the wordes of God.

Iohn.x. My shepe heare my voice, and I knowe them, and they folowe me, nether shall they at any tyme perysh, nor yet shall any man plucke them out of my hande.

Iohn.xiii.. He that hath my commaundementes and kepe them, he it is that loueth me, if any man loueth me, he wil kepe my wordes.

Iohn.xv. If ye kepe my commaundementes, ye shal abyde in my law. Ye are my frendes, if ye do those thynges, that I commaunde you.

Iohn.xix. Euery one that is of the trueth heareth my voyce.

Rom.xv. I dare not speake of any of these thinges, that Chryste hath not wrought by me.

I beseech you brethren, marke them that make diuision and geue occasyons of euill, contrary to the doctryne that ye haue learned, & auoyde them. For they that are such, serue not the Lord Jesu Chryst, but theyr owen bellyes, and with swete preachynges and flatteryng wordes deceiue the hearers of the symple.

Gala.i. Though we our selues or an Angel from heauen, preache any other gospel to you then that whiche we haue preached vnto you, holde hym accursed. As I said before so say I now agayne, if any man preach any other thyng vnto you then that ye haue receiued, hold him accursed.

Gala.iii. Though it be but a mans testament, yet no mã despiseth it or addeth any thyng therto, when it is once alowed. How much more oughte nothyng to be added to the testament of the most high God, nor yet be taken from it?

Ephe.v. Be no more children from henceforth wandryng & caried with euery wind of doctryne, by the wilines of men and craftes, wherby they laye awaite for vs to deceiue vs: but let vs folow the truth in loue, and in al things grow in him, which is the head, that is to say Chryst.

i.Tim.iiii. Cast away vngodly and olde wiues fables. Exercise thy selfe vnto godlynes.

i.Tim.vi. If any man teache other wyse and is not contente wyth the wholsome wordes of our Lord Jesus Chryst, and wyth the doctryn of godlynes, he is puft vp & knoweth nothyng but wasteth his braines about questions

questions and stryfe of wordes, wherof spryng enuy, strife, railing, euil surmisinges and vayn disputacions of men with corrupte mindes and destitute of the trueth which thinke that lucre is godlines. From such seperate thy selfe.

If any man speake, let hym speake as though it came of gods owne mouth. i. Peter. iiii.

Whosoeuer transgresseth and abideth not in the doctryne of Chryste, hath not God. He that enduteth in the doctryne of Chryst, hath both the father and the son. Iohn. ii.

If there come any vnto you and bryng not thys learnyng, hym receiue not to house, nether bid him God spede. For he that byddeth hym God spede, is partaker of his euil dedes.

Be not caryed about with diuers and straunge learnynges. Heb. xiii.

If any man addeth to these things, God shal ad vnto hym ꝑ plages that are wrytten in thys boke. And if any man shal minish of ꝑ words of thys boke of thys Prophete, God shal take away hys part out of the boke of lyfe, and out of the holy citie, and from the thynges, whych are wrytten in thys boke. Apo. xxii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Chryst rebuketh the Pharyses for bryngyng their tradicions into the Churche of God, by that meanes defacyng the glory of gods moste holy worde. Math. xv.

Blessed S. Paul reproueth them, which be dead with Chryst, from the commaundementes of the world, and yet suffer themselues styll to be led wyth tradicions, as these for an example, touch not, tast not, handle not. &c. which all perysh thyrough the very abuse after the commaundementes and doctrynes of men, which thinges outwardly haue the similitude of wisdom by superstycion and humblenes of mynde. &c. Cor. ii.

The Apostles of Chryst would not burden the Chrysten congregacions with newe and superfluous tradicions, but onely charged them with such thynges as wer necessary. Actes. xv.

S. Paul in his Epistle vnto the Galathians inuaieth agaynst them which after they haue knowen God, turne agayne vnto nedy and beggerly ceremonies, tradicions & ordinaunces, obseruing daies, monthes tymes and yeares. Gala. iiii.

¶ Agaynst the folowyng of vngodly forefathers.

IF thou through temptacion of the diuel or the false perswasions of Antichristes Prophetes, be moued at any tyme to doubt of the trueth of gods word, which the Papistes at thys day called sedicious doctryne, new learnyng and heresy, because thy forefathers haue both beleued and done the contrary, call these Scriptures to thy remembraunce.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

FOlow not the multitude to do euil. Exo. xxiii.

Do not you these thigs ꝑ thei haue done, which wer before you, ne ther be ye defiled in thē I am ꝑ Lord your god kepe my cōmaūdemēts. Leui. xviii.

The Lord sent his Prophetes to his people, saying: returne frō your vnryghteous iiii. Reg. xvii.

vnrighteous wayes, and kepe my preceptes and ceremonies accordyng to al the law that I commaunded your fathers. But they wouldе not heare, but became stifnecked, euen as their forefathers wer stifnecked, which would not obey the Lord God.

Psal. lxix. Let them put their hope in God and not forget the workes of the Lord, but seke after his commaundementes. Let them not be like their forfathers, which wer a frowarde and a spitefull nacion, a nacion that would neuer be true harted, nor beare an vpryght mynd toward god.

Psal. cxxv. Be not hard harted as your forefathers wer, sayeth the Lord which chode and rebelled agaynst me.

We haue sinned with our forefathers, we haue done vniustly, and cõmitted iniquitie.

Psal. cxlvi. Trust not in rulers nor in the sõnes of mẽ, in whõ is no health. For when their breath goeth away, they returne vnto their earth: in ẏ day shal al their thoughtes, coũsels, deuises & ymaginaciõs come to naught

I haue alway sayd vnto your forefathers since I brought them out of the lande of Egipt, euẽ vnto thys day heare my voice, but they wold not heare nor once bow their eare vnto it, but euery one of thẽ is gone astray in the frowardnes of hys wycked hart. Yea the people of Juda and the men of Jerusalem are also fallen vnto the wyckednes of theyr forfathers, which would not heare my wordes, insomuch that they are already gone away after straunge gods and serue them. The house of Israell and the house of Juda, haue broken the couenaunte whyche I made wt theyr fathers. Therfore thus sayth ẏ lord. Behold I wil bryng in extreme punishmentes vpon thẽ, so ẏ they shal not escape from them.

They shal cry vnto me, but I wil not heare them. The cities of Juda and the enhabiters of Hierusalem, shal go and cry vnto thẽ, to whõ they offered sacrifice, and yet shal they not saue them in the time of their trouble. Accordyng to the nomber of thy cities wer thy Gods. O Juda and after the number of thy wayes, O Jerusalem, hast thou set vp Altars of abhominacion to do sacrifice vnto Baalim.

Iere. xvi. Your forefathers haue forsaken me, sayth the lord and they ar gone away after straunge gods, and haue serued them and worshipped thẽ, yea they haue vtterly geuen me ouer, and haue not kepte my law. But you haue wrought more abhominaciõ, thã al your forfathers haue dõe.

For beholde, euery one of you walke after the lewdnes of his owne wycked hart, and wyl not heare me.

Ezec. ii. Their forefathers haue broken my couenaunt euen vnto thys day, and they to whõ I send thee, are childrẽ wout al shame, & of such an hart, as cãnot be reclaimed. Walke not in the cõmaundementes of youre fathers, nor kepe not their ordinaũces, nether pollute your selues wt their Idols. For I am the Lord your God.

Therfore walke in my preceptes, & kepe my iudgements, and do thẽ.

Dani. ix. Confusyon of face and vtter shame be vnto vs, vnto our kynges, vnto our rulers, and to our forefathers, which haue synned.

Be not like youre forefathers, vnto whom the Prophetes in tymes paſt cryed, ſaying: thus ſayeth the Lord of hoſtes, turne from your euill waies, and from your abhominable thoughtes, but they wouldē not harken nor geue any attendaunce vnto me, ſayeth the Lord. Zacha.i.

Our forefathers haue ſinned, and haue done euil in the ſight of the Lord our God. For they haue forſaken him, and turned away their faces from the tabernacles of the Lord our God. ii.Para.xix.

Be not lyke your forefathers and brethren, which rebelled agaynſte the Lord God of their fathers, and he gaue them ouer into deſolacyon, as ye ſee your ſelues. Be not ye hardnecked now as were youre forefathers, but offer your hande vnto the Lord, and come to his ſanctuary, which he hath ſanctifyed for euer, and ſerue the Lord your God, ſo ſhal the indignacion of his wrath turne away from you. ii.Para.xxx.

¶ Examples out of the olde Teſtamente.

Cain ſlewe his brother Abell, and folowed his forefather the Deuill, which was a manſlear from the beginning. Gene.iiii.

Nadab king of Iſrael folowed his forefather Hieroboam, commyttyng Idolatry agaynſt the Lord hys God. Therfore Baaſa deſtroyed hym and his kingdome and al the houſe of Hieroboam, ſo that one of ỹ ſtocke remayned not alyue. ii.Reg.xv.

Ochozias king of Iſrael folowed his wicked forefather Achab, and greuouſly ſinned agaynſt the Lord his God. He therfore reigned but a litle tyme, and alſo died a miſerable death. i.Para.xxii.

Amon king of Juda, folowed his Idolatrous forfather Manaſſes, and did that which was euil in the ſight of the Lord his God. He reygned but two yeares, and was ſlayn of his ſeruauntes in his own houſe. iiii.Reg.xxi.

Joakim king of Juda, forſoke the godli waies of his moſt vertuous father king Jolias, and folowed the ſteppes of hys wicked forefathers The Lord therfore ſuffered him to raigne but thre monethes in Jeruſalem, and gaue him ouer into the handes of hys enemyes. iiii.Reg.xxiii

Sedechias king of Juda, folowed his wycked forefathers, and prouoked the Lord his God vnto anger. He therfore was depryued of hys kingdom, ſaw his children ſlain before his eyes, and afterwarde he hauing his eyes plucked out of his head, was bounde in chaynes, and miſerably caryed away into Babilon. iiii.Reg.xxv.

¶ Sentences out of the new Teſtament.

All that came before me are theues and robbers, but my ſhepe haue not heard them. Iohn.x.

O ye ſtifnecked and vncircumciſed of hartes and eares, ye haue alwayes reſiſted the holy goſt, as your forefathers did, ſo do ye. Which of the Prophetes haue not your forefathers perſecuted. Actet.vii.

Se ỹ ye paſſe the tyme of your Pilgrimage in feare, for as much as ye know how ỹ ye wer not redemed w corruptible ſiluer & golde from your vayn cōuerſacīō which ye receiued by the tradicīō of ỹ forefathers but w the precious blud of Chriſt, as of a lābe vndefiled and wout ſpot. i.Pete.i.

Examples

¶ Examples out of the new Testamente.

Math.xv. The Pharises and the Scribes folowing their vngodly forefathers obserued the tradicions of their elders, and neglected the commaũdementes of God.

Math. xxiii. The Jewes fulfilling the measure of their forefathers, which slewe the Prophetes that were sent vnto them from God, kylled Christe and hys blessed Apostles.

Actes.ix. Paule before hys conuersion folowing his wicked forefathers the Jewes, persecuted the congregacion of Christ, euen as hys elders persecuted Christ and the Prophetes.

¶ Agaynst wycked olde customes and long vsages.

IF Sathan or any of hys members laboure to plucke thee from gods word vnto wicked olde customes and long vsages, auoide hym wyth these Scryptures folowynge.

¶ Sentences oute of the olde Testament.

ACcording to the custome of the lande of Egypte wherin ye dwelt, shall ye not do: and after ỳ maner of the lande of Canaã, whether I will bring you shal ye not do, neyther walke in their ordynaunces, but do after my iudgementes, & kepe my ceremonies to walke therin. I am the Lord your God. Ye shal kepe therfore myne ordinaũces and my iudgementes: which if a man doe, he shall lyue in them, I am the Lord.

Take hede that ye commit not one of these abhominable customes, which were committed before you, and loke that ye defile not your selfe therin. I am the Lord your God.

¶ An example out of the olde Testament.

ii.Phi.xvii. EVen vnto this present day do they still folowe their olde customes. They feare not the Lorde, neyther kepe they his Ceremonies, hys lawes and commaundementes. The Prophetes cryed, worshyppe no straunge Gods, but feare the Lord your God, and he shall deliuer you from the power of al your enemyes. But they would not heare, but still committed wickednes accordyng to their olde custome. They pretende as though they serued the Lord and yet neuertheles dyd they also seruice to their Idols. For as their forefathers did, so do their sonnes, and Neuewes vnto this present day.

¶ Agaynst such as slaunder Chrystes gospel, by callyng it newe learnyng.

IF the aduersaryes of true godlynes go about to perswade thee, that Chrystes gospel is new learnyng, and that therfore thou oughtest to geue no eare vnto it, not beleue it, loke that thou by no meanes consent vnto them, but rather remember that thys is no new blasphemy, but vsed many yeares before of wycked Hipocrites, as thou shalt perceiue by these examples folowyng.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

When

When Christ preached in the Synagoge at Capernaum, & healed the man that was possessid with an vnclene spirit, the people cried out, and said: what new learning is this. Marke.i.

When Paule preached at Athens, the resurrection of the dead, certaine belly godds as the Epicures and Stoikes straue with hym and said: what meaneth this prattlere otherwhile he semeth to be a preacher of new Deuilles. Another company sayde, may we not knowe what new learnyng this is, ỳ thou shewest? Thou bringest in new thinges indede vnto our eares. Our old fathers neuer taught vs any suche geare, we will know what these thinges meane. Act.xvii.

Against pensiuenesse and thought taking for the life.

If thou be troubled for the preseruaciō of thy lyfe either in syckenesse trouble, persecution, emprisonemēt or otherwyse, comforte thy selfe with these scriptures.

Sentences out of the olde Testament.

The Lord killeth and geueth lyfe agayn. He bryngeth euen to hell, and backe agayn. i.Reg.ii.

The lord is my light & my health whō then should I feare ỳ lord is the strengthe of my lyfe, for whom thē should I be afrayed? though an hoste of mē were layde agaynst me, yet shall not my hart be afraide. And though there arose vp warre agaynst me, yet wyll I put my trust in him. psal.xxvii.

He hath geuē his angels charge of ỳ, to kepe the in al thy ways. psal.cxl.

The aungel of the Lorde shalbe sent among al them that feare him, and shall delyuer them. psal.xxxiiii.

The sourges of the sea are maruelous, yea the Lorde on hye is rather maruelous. psal.cxiii.

They consented al against me, they conspired to take away my lyfe but in thee (O lord) haue I trusted, and I saide, thou arte my God, In thy hande are my destenies. psal.xxx.

Many tribulacions fal on the righteous, but from them al the Lord delivereth them. The Lord kepeth all theyr bones, so that not one of them shalbe broken. psal.xxxiiii.

The healthe of the righteous is of the Lorde, and he defendeth them in the time of theyr trouble. yea the Lord will helpe them and delyuer them, and set them harmeles from the vngodly, and saue them because they haue trusted in hym. psal.xxxvii.

Thou hast limitted the waters theyr boundes, whyche they may not passe. psal.ciiii.

The Lord is my helper I wil not feare what man do vnto me. psal.cxviii.

The lord is my deliuerer therfor wil I set noughte by myne enemies.

The Lord hath geuē a cōmaundement: & none shal go beiondit, Fire, haile, snow, Ise, & vapours, stormy windes accomplish his worde. psal.cxlviii.

Eccle.v. Suffer not thy mouthe to cause thy flesh for to synne, neyther say thou before the aungel, ther is no prouydence: least peraduenture the Lord beyng angry agaynst thy wordes, doo destroye all the workes of thy handes.

Eccle.xi. Lyfe and death are of God.

Sapi.xiiii. Thy prouidence, O father, gouerneth all thynges from the begynnynge.

Thou (O Lord) art he whiche hast power of lyfe and death? who can say þ any thyng can be done with out the Lords cõmaundement? From the mouth of the highest, goeth there not good and yll?

Examples out of the old Testament.

Gen.xxvii. xxxii. xxxiii. ESau burned with an immortal hatred against his brother Jacob, because of the blessynge wherwith hys father had blessed hym, and purposed fully in hys hart to kill hys brother. But Jacob prayed vnto the lord, and he mollified Esaus heart, in so much that whan Jacob thought that both he and his should be slayn, his brother Esau came gently vnto hym, louingly embraced hym, kyssed hym frendly, and for very ioye wept: so mighty is god to mollyfye tyraunts hartes, whan it pleaseth him, and to make them gracious and fauourable to hys seruauntes.

i.Reg.xix. Saul persecuted Dauid cruelly, purposinge to kyll hym, but his labour was in vaine.

iii.Reg.xix. Jezabel threatned & sware to slea Helias, but the lord preserued him.

Iob.ii. Sathan could do nothing to Job, til God suffered hym: neyther exercysed he his cruelnes any further against Job, than he was appoynted of God.

Dan.viii. The Godly woman Susanne throwe the false accusations of the two wycked Judges was at the poynte to be stoned vnto deathe, but God wonderfully deliuered her from the handes of her enemies.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math.x. FEare not them, which kyl the bodye, and be not able to kyll ỳ soule. But rather feare hym, whiche is able to destroy both soule and body in hell. Are not two sparowes sold for a farthynge? And none of them fall on the ground without the wyll of your father. Yea all the heares of your head ar numbred. Feare not therfore, ye ar of more value then many sparowes.

Math.xxvi. Ye be come out as vnto a thefe with sweardes & staues. whe I was dayly with you in ỳ temple, ye laid no hand vpon me, but thys is your houre and the power of darkenes.

Ioan.xviii. Thou couldest haue no power at al against me (said Christe vnto Pilate) except it were geuen the from aboue.

Rom.xii. Al thinges are of hym, by hym, and in hym.

Rom.xiiii. If we lyue, we lyue to be at the Lordes wyll. And if we dye, we die at the Lords wyll. Whether we lyue therfore or dye, we ar in the Lordes hande.

Behold

Behold I am alyue, saith Christe, for euermore: and haue the keyes of death and hel. Apoc. i.

Examples out of the new Testament.

The shyp, wherein Christe and his disciples were, was grieuously tossed with the waues of the sea, throwe the wynde and the tempest that arose, insomuche that it was at the poynt of drowning. Notwythstandyng, neyther water, wynde, nor tẽpeste, did once hurte it. Math. viii.

The deuils had no power to enter into ỹ swyne tyl Christ gaue thẽ leaue. If thou cast vs forth, sayd they, suffer vs to enter into the herde of swyne. Christe aunswered, goo yeand they went. Math. viii.

The Iewes dyd seeke to kil Christ, but hys tyme was not then come. No man dyd set hys handes on hym because hys houre was not yet come. Ioan. vii.

They went about to take Christ, but he escaped from the midst of theyr handes. Ioan. x.

There came certain of the Pharises and sayd vnto Christ, get the out of the way, and depart hence. For Herode wil kil thee. And he sayd vnto thẽ, go tell the fore, beholde I caste oute Deuils, and heale the people to daye and to morowe, and the thyrde daye I make and ende. Neuertheles I must walke to day and to morow & the daye folowing: for it can not be, that the Prophet perysshe any other where then at Ierusalem. Luke. xiii.

Herod threw Peter in prison, bounde hym faste wyth cheynes, and set certayne Souldiours for the more assuraunce to keepe hym, purposyng after Easter to bryng hym forth vnto the people, and so to haue slayne hym. But God beyng myghtier then all the tyranny and power of the worlde sente hys aungell, and deliuered Peter out of prison. Act. xii.

Paule beynge at Milete, gathered a bundel of stickes, and put them in the fyre, and sodenly there came a venemous adder otherwyse called a Viper out of the heate, and lepte on his hande. The men that were present, and sawe this thynge, wayted when he should haue swollen or fallen downe dead sodenlye. But Paule shooke of the vermine into the fyre, and fealte no harme. Act. xxviii.

Agaynst honger, pouertie or carefulnes of liuing.

IF at any tyme thou be tempted wyth the carfulnes of lyuing, cõfort thy selfe with these holy scriptures.

Sentences out of the olde Testamen.

They that feare the Lorde, shall haue no scarsnesse. They whyche seke the Lorde shall wante no good thynge. psal. xxxiii.

Beholde the eyes of the Lord are vpon them that feare hym, & vpon them that trust in his mercy, that he may deliuer theyr lyues frõ psal. xxxiii.

death and nourysh them in the tyme of honger.

Pſal.xxxvii. I haue bene younge and am waxen olde, and I haue not seene the ryghteous forsaken, nor his chyldren beggynge theyr breade on the earth.

Pſal.lv. Lay thy care on the Lord and he shall nourysshe thee.

Pſal.cv. All creatures depend vpon thee (O Lord) that thou shouldest gene them meate in due tyme. For thou geuyng in them, they take it, & thou opening thy hand, they are wel satisfyed.

But thou hydyng thy face they are sorowfull, and thou takyng away theyr breath, they are but dead, and turned into the earth they came of.

Pſal..clxv. The eies of all thynges loke vpon thee (O Lord) and thou geuest them meat in due time. Thou openest thy hād, & replenishest al things liuing with thy blessyng.

Pſal.cxlvi. The Lorde geueth meate to the hongry.

Prouer.x. The blessyng of the Lorde maketh men ryche, and there shall no griefe accompany them.

The Lorde wyll not let the soule of the righteous suffer honger, but he putteth the vngodly from his desyre.

Prouer.xii. He that tilleth his lande shal haue plenteousnes of bread, but he that foloweth idlenes, is a very foole.

Eccle.xi. Good and euill, life & death pouerty and ryches are of god. Trust in God, abyde in thy place. For it is an easye thyng in the syghte of God, quickly to enriche a poore man.

Tobi.iiii. Feare not my sonne, we lede a poore lyfe, notwythstanding we shal haue plenty of all good thynges, if we feare the Lorde, depart from all sinne and do well.

Examples out of the olde Testament.

Exo.xvi. GOd fed the people of Israel with meat from heauen, and gaue thē drinke out of the Rocke.

iii.Reg.xvii. God sent meat by the Rauens to Helias.

Dan.xiiii. The angel of God toke Abacuk the Prophet by the top, and bare him by the heare of ỹ head, and through a mighty wind set him in Babylon vpon ỹ den where Daniel was prysoner, & gaue him that meat, which ỹ Prophet had prepared for his repers.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math.iiii. MAn shal not liue vp bread alone, but with euery word that cōmeth out of the mouth of God.

Math.vi. Take no thought, sayinge what shal we eat, or what shal we drink or wherwith shal we be clothed? After these, thinges seke ỹ hethen. For your heauēly father knoweth that ye haue nede of al these things. But seeke ye fyrste the kindom of God, and the ryghtousnesse thereof, and al these things shalbe cast vnto you.

1.Tim.vi. God geueth vs aboundantly in all thinges to enioye them.

Heb.xiii. I wyll not fayle thee, nor yet forsake thee.

Exam-

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Christ at the mariage, turned water into wine. Ioan.ii.
Christe with fiue barlie loues & two fishes, fed fiue thousād people, Ioan.vi.
and yet thereof remained .xii. baskets ful of the fragmentes.

Against keping of euell company.

When the deuil, the flesh or the world moue thee to resort vnto any euil cōpany, defend thy selfe from it with remembring these scriptures.

¶ Sentences out of the old Testament.

He shal dwel in the lordes Tabernacle, and rest vpō his holy hyl, whiche setteth not by the vngodlye, but maketh much of them that feare the Lord. psal.xv.

With the holye thou shalt be holy and with ẏ innocēt thou shalt be innocente. With the cleane thou shalt be clene, and with the frowarde thou shalt be froward. psal.xix.

A frowarde harte shall departe from me, I wyll not know a wicked persōne. Who so hath a proude loke and an hye stomacke, I may not away with hym. Myne eies shall loke for such as be faythful in the lande, that they may dwel with me, and who so leadeth a godly lyfe, shalbe my seruaunt. There shall no disceitfull person dwel in my house. psal.ci.

He that telleth lies, shal not tary in my sight. psal.cxix.
I hate the vngodlye, but thy lawe, O Lord, do I loue.
My son, if sinners intise ẏ vnto any wickednes, lene not vnto them.
If they saye, come go wyth vs let vs lay awaite for bloude, and cō-ne yourselues priuily to trap ẏ i[illegible] Let vs swalow them vp quickly like hell, and deuoure the perfecte lyke a whole pit. For thus shall we fynde greate rychesse, and garnyshe oure houses with oile. Caste in thy lote among vs, and let vs make a cōmon purse My sonne, walcke not with thē, but refraine thy fete from these waies, for theyr fete rūne vnto mischief. In vaine are nets spred abrode for byrdes before theyr eyes. For euen these menne laye awayt among them selfes one to shed anothers bloude. Neither are theyr owne liues in sauegarde amonge them selfes. These are the pathes of couetous menne, among whō one spareth not the life of another.

Come not in the pathe of the vngodly, & walke not in ẏ way of the wicked. Eschew it, & go not therin, depart a side, & passe ouer by it. For they can not sleape, except they haue fyrst done some mischief, neyther take they any reast, except they haue fyrste doone some harme. For thei eate the bread of wickednes, & drink the wine of robberye. The path of the righteous shyneth as the lyghte, and is euer brighter and brighter vnto the perfect day. But the way of the vngodly is as the darckenes, wherein men fal, or they be aware. prouer.i.

Who so accompanieth the wise, shall haue wisdom: but he that is a companion of foles, shall proue like them. prouer.iiii.

Eccle. viii. Trauell not by the waye wyth hym that is brayneles, leaste he doth thee euill. For he foloweth his owen wilfulnes and so shalt thou perish through his folly.

Striue not with him that is angry and cruell, go not with him into the wildernes, for bloude is nothinge in his sight, and wher there is no helpe, he shal murther thee.

Eccle. ix. Looke not vpon a womā that is desirous of manye men, leaste thou fal into her snares.

Use not the companye of a woman that is a player and a Daunser. and heare her not, leaste thou perysh through her entisyng.

Beholde not a mayden that thou be not hurte in her beuty.

eccle. xi. Bryng not euery man into thyne house, for the disceitfull layeth wait diuersly.

eccle. xii. Who will haue pitye on the charmer that is stinged of the serpent, or of all suche as come nie the beastes? Euen so is it wyth hym that kepeth company wyth a wycked man and lappeth hym selfe in hys synnes.

eccle. xiii. He that toucheth pytche shall be defyled of it, and he that kepeth company wyth a proud parson, shall also become proude and stately.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

Gene. xi, xii. Abraham because he would not be partaker of theyr Idolatry, fled from the people of Chaldea, beyng his natiue countrey.

Gene. xix. Loth at the commaundement of the Angels, departed out of Sodome, leaste he tarynge wyth the Sodomytes, shoulde haue bene consumed wyth them.

Gene. xxi. Sara wold not suffer Ismael whyche was geuen to mockyng to kepe company wyth her sonne Isaac, leaste he also should become a mocker.

Gene. xxx. Jacob woulde not keepe company wyth hys brother Esau, although gretly entreated, lest some wyckednes shoulde therof haue happened.

Nume. xvi. Moises at Goddes appointement commaunded the people to departe from the dwellyng places of Chore, Dathan, and Abiron, lest they also be wrapped in theyr sinnes, and so perysh among them.

iii. Reg. xxii. Josaphat kyng of Juda, was almoste slayne in the battell because he kept company and wente vnto the warre wyth wycked kyng Achab.

ii. Par. xix. After hys returne also he was greatly rebuked of Jehu, for so doyng.

Tob. i. When all the people went to worshyp the golden Calues which Jeroboan had made, Tobias onely fled away from the company of them all, and went to Jerusalem, vnto the Lordes temple, and there worshipped the Lord God of Israel.

So long as Judas Machabeus did put his truste in the Lorde all things prospered wel with him, but when he began to ioyne frendshyp and to kepe company with the Hethē and the Romaines, shortly after he was ouercome and slain in battel. i.Mac.viii.

The like thing chanced to Jonathas. i.Mach.xiii.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

GO not into the waies that leade vnto the Heathen, and into the cities of the Samaritans, enter ye not. Math.x.

I beseche you brethren, marke them which cause deuision and geue occasions of euill, contrary to the doctryne, which ye haue learned, and auoyde them. Rom.xvi.

Do ye not know that a litle leuen sowreth the whole lumpe of dow? Pourge therfore the old leauē, that ye may be new dow, as ye ar swete breade. i.Cor.v.

I wrote vnto you, that ye shoulde not kepe companye wyth whoremongers.

If any that is called a brother (that is to saye, a Chrysten man) be a whoremonger, or a couetous person, or a worshipper of Images, neyther a railer, or a dronkarde, or an extorcioner, with him that is such, se ye nether eate, nor yet kepe company.

Put away from among you that euil person.

We require you brethren in the name of our Lord Jesu Chryst, that ye withdraw your selues from euery brother that walketh inordinatly and not after the institucion which ye receyued of vs. ii.Thes.iii.

If any teache otherwyse, and is not content wt the wholsom words of our Lord Jesu Chryst, and with the doctryne of godlynes he is puffte vp, and knoweth nothyng, but wasteth his braynes about questions, & strife of wordes, wherof spryng enuy, strife, railinges, euil surmysynges and vain disputacions of men with corrupt myndes, and destitute of ỹ truth, which thinke that lucre is godlynes. Frō suche separate thy selfe. i.Tim.vi.

A man that is geuen to heresy, after the fyrst and second admonicion auoide, remembryng that he that is such, is peruerted and synneth euen damned by hys own iudgement. Titus.iii.

If there come any vnto you, and bryng not thys learnyng hym receiue not to house, nether bid him God spede. For he that biddeth hym God spede, is partaker of his yll dedes. ii.epist.Iohn.

Examples out of the new Testament.

PEter so long as he kept company wyth Chryste and Chrystes disciples, he continued in the trueth, preached the trueth, confessed openly Christ to be ỹ son of ỹ liuing God, & promised ỹ he would not onely goe into prison, but also vnto ỹ very death wt Chryst, but whē he once came into the court into the Bishops house, he strayght wayes was stryken wyth such feare, that a poore mayde and a simple Sym Shakebuckelare, made him both to denye and also to forsweare Jesus Chryste hys Lord & maister, whō before he had boldly so oft cōfessed before ỹ world Luke.xxii.

Actes.ii. S. Peter preaching to the beleuing and repentaunt Jewes, amõg other his godly exhortacions commaunded them, to saue them selues from the vntoward generacion of the vnfaythfull, and to flie the company of such, as deny Jesus to be Chryst and the son of the liuing God.

Actes.vii. viii.ix. Saul keping company with the vnfaithful Jewes as wyth the Bishops, the Priestes, the Pharisees. &c. became a greuous persecutour of the Chrysten congregacion, but being deliuered from their felowshyp, he became a worthy Apostle, and a feruent Preacher of gods trueth.

¶ Agaynst Idlenes.

IF Satan moue thee vnto idlenes, which is the wel spryng and rote of all vice, set before the eies of thy mynde both these sentences, and exãples of the holy Scripture.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Gene.ii. The Lord toke Adam, and put him into the garden of Eden, that he might dresse and kepe it.

Gene.iii. In the sweate of thy face shalt thou eate thy bread, vntil thou returnest into the earth, from whence thou wast taken. For dust thou arte & into dust thou shalt be turned agayne.

Iob.v. A man is borne to labor, and a byrde to flye.

Psa'.cxxviii. Thou shalt eate the laboures of thy hande.

Pro.vi. Go to the Eminet (thou slouggarde) consider her wayes, and learne to be wyse. She hath no guide nor ouersear, nor ruler, yet in the sommer she prouideth her meate, and gathereth her fode together in ỳ haruest. How long wylt thou slepe thou slougyshman? when wylt thou aryse out of thy slepe? Yea slepe on styll a lytle, slomber a litle, folde thine handes together yet a litle, that thou mayest slepe, so shal pouerty come vnto thee, as one ỳ trauaileth by the waye, & oppresse thee lyke a these.

If thou be not slouthfull, thy haruest shall come as a springing wel, and pouerty shal flye far from thee.

Pro.x. Whoso gathereth in sommer, is wyse, but he that is slouggysh in haruest, bryngeth himselfe to confusion.

Pro.xiii. The slouggard would fayne haue, and cannot get his desyre, but the soule of them that worke shal haue plenty.

Pro.xx. A slouthfull body wyll not go to plow for colde in wynter therefore shal he go a beggyng in sommer, and haue nothyng.

Delight not thou in slepe, least thou come vnto pouertye, but open thyne eyes, that thou mayest haue bread inough.

Pro.xxviii. He that tylleth hys lande shall haue plenteousnes of bread, but he ỳ foloweth idlenes, shal haue pouerty inough.

Eccle. xxxiii. Idlenes hath been the occasyon of much euill and wyckednes.

Eze.xvi. Behold the synnes of Sodome wer these, Pryde, fulnes of meate, aboundaunce and idlenes,

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Gene.ii.iii. Adam gate his liuing with the labor of his hands, and the sweat of his browes.

Gene.iiii. Caine was a Plowman and tylled the earth.

Abel

Abel was a shepeparde and kept shepe.
Jubal was a Musicion and exercised Musike.
Thubalcaine was a Smyth, and a grauer in mettall.
Noe was a planter of vineyardes. Gene.ix.
Abraham, Lot, Isaack and Jacob, wer Plowmen and shepeherds. Gene.xiii. xxvi.xxix.
Joseph was a magistrate and a publique minister in the common weale of Egypt vnder kyng Pharao. Gene.xli.
Moses was a shepeharde and kept the shepe of Jethro hys father in law, Priest of Madian. Exo.iii.
The children of Israel got their liuing with hard and paynefull labor in Egipt, vnder kyng Pharao. Exod.i.
Dauid before he was annoynted kyng of Israel, was a shepeharde. i.Reg.xvi.
All the Pryestes and Leuites of the olde law, euery man accordyng to hys vocacion laboured by geuing attendaunce in the temple, by killyng of beastes, & offeryng of Sacrifyces, by studying the Scriptures of God, and teachyng thesame vnto the people. Exo.xxviii.
Amos the Prophet was one of the shepehardes of Thecua. Amos.i.
Abucuck the Prophete trauayled in husbandry. Dani.xiiii.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

LEt vs not be wery of wel doing. For when the time is come we shal reape without werynes. Gala.vi.
Let him that stole, steale no more: but let hym rather laboure wyth hys handes the thyng which is good, ẏ he maye geue to hym ẏ nedeth. Ephe.iiii.
We beseech you brethren that ye study to be quiet, and to medle wyth your owne busines, and to worke with your own handes, as we commaunded you. i.Thes.iiii.
when we wer with you, we gaue you this commaundemente, that if any man wil not labor, thesame should not eate. Let al men worke w quietnes and eate their own bread. ii.Thes.iii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Chryst was a Carpenter Marke.vi.
The Apostles of Chryst wer fisher men. Math.iiii.
Paul laboured with his own hands, and got both his own liuinge & others that wer wyth hym. Actes.x.
S. Luke was a Phisicion, and as some wryte, a paynter also. Colo.iiii.
Aquila was a maker of tentes, of the whiche occupacion S. Paule was. Actes. xviii.
Simon S. Peters host was a Tanner. Actes.x.
Dorcas that vertuous woman, made garmentes w̄ her own hands and gaue them to the pore people. Actes.ix.

¶ Against swearyng.

IF Satan at any tyme moue thee vnto swearing, periury, or blaspheming the name of God, by no meanes consent vnto hym: but enarme thy selfe agaynst hys wicked temptacions with these holy Scriptures.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Thou

Exo.xx. Thou shalt not take the name of thy Lord God in vayne. For ꝑ lord wil not holde hym gyltles, that taketh hys name in vayne.

Leuit.xix. Ye shal not sweare by my name in vayne, neyther shalte thou defile the name of thy God, I am the Lord.

Leuit. xxiiii. Whosoeuer curseth his God, shal beare his syn And he that blasphemeth the name of the Lord let him be slain, and the multitude shal stone him to death. Whether he be borne in the lande or a straunger, when he blasphemeth the name of the Lord, let hym be slayne.

Eccle.xxiii. Let not thy mouth be accustomed with swearing, for in it ther are many fals.

A man that vseth much swearyng shalbe fyld wyth wyckednes, & the plage shall neuer go from his house.

The wordes of the swearer bringeth death God graunt that it be not founde in the house of Jacob. But they that feare God eschewe al suth and lye not weltryng in syn.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testamente.

Leuit.xxiiii. The son of a certaine Israelitishe woman blasphemed the name of ꝑ Lord. He therfore was first put in prison, and after warde at the cõmaundement of God, he was stoned vnto death.

Zache.v. I turned me sayeth the Prophete Zachary, lifting vp myne eyes, & loked, and behold a flying boke. And the Angel said vnto me what seest thou? I answered, I se a flying boke of.xx. cubites long. and.x. cubites brode. Then said he vnto me, this is the curse that goeth forth ouer the whole earth, for al theues shalbe iudged after this boke, and al swerers shalbe iudged accordyng to the same: and I wyl bringe it forth (sayeth the Lord) so that it shal come to the house of the thiefe, and to the house of hym that fal fly sweareth by my name, and shal remayne in his house and consume it with the timber and stones therof.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

Matth.v. Ye haue heard how it was sayd to them of the olde tyme, thou shalt not forsweare thy selfe, but shalt performe vnto ꝑ Lord those things that thou swarest. But I say vnto you sweare not at al, nether by heaueu, for it is gods seate: nor by the earth, for it is his fotestole, nether by Jerusalem, for it is the citie of the great king, nether shalt thou sweare by thy head because thou canst not make one heer whighte or blacke. But your communicacion shalbe yea, yea, nay, nay. For what soeuer is added more then these, it commeth of euill.

Iacob.v. Aboue al things my brethren sweare not, nether by heauen neyther by earth, nether any other oth. Let your yea be yea, and your nay, nay, least ye fal into Hipocrisie.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Matth.xiiii. Herode to performe hys wycked and deuilishe othe whiche he had made to ꝑ doughter of Herodias hys whore for her pleasaũt daunsyng, suffered and commaunded the head of that most godly preacher.

S. John

S. John Baptyst to be cut of. Let al men therfore beware of vain, rash and wicked othes.

S. Peter, when it was layed to his charge, ỳ he was one of Christs disciples, sware that he knew not the man. But afterwarde he bytterly wept for hys swearyng and denying of Chryst. Let vs also lamente and be sory for our idle and wicked maner of swearyng, and leaue it, & prayse the name of the Lord our God. Math. xxvi.

¶ Agaynst lying, slaunderyng and fylthy or vncleane talke.

IF Satan at any tyme moueth thee to abuse thy tonge contrary to the wyl of God, ether in lying, slaunderyng, or other wycked and idle wordes, resist hys temptacion with these Scriptures folowyng.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

THou shalt eschew lying. Exo. xxiii.

Ye shal not lye, nether shall any of you deceiue hys neyghboure. Leui. xix.

Thou (O Lord) shal destroy al them that speake lyes. psal. vi.

There be six things that God hateth, and the vii. he vtterly abhorre. pro. vi.
A proude countenaunce, a lying tonge, handes defyled wyth innocente bloud, an hart imagyning wycked counsels, fete swyft vnto mischyefe, a false wytnes, and the sower of discorde among brethren.

Lying lips are abhominacion to the Lord: but they that do faythfully, please hym. pro. xii.

A false wytnes shal not escape vnpunished, and he that speketh lies, shal perysh and come to nought. pro. xix.

He that gathereth hys goods with a lying tonge, shall lese al and be in perel of hys lyfe. He that kepeth his tonge, kepeth his life from troubles. pro. xxi.

A lying wytnes shall perysshe. Haue thou no delighte to speake lyes agaynst thy brother, nor yet agaynst thy frende. Haue no pleasure in lying, for the vse therof is naught. Eccle. vii.

The mouth that lyeth sleieth the soule. Sapi. i.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

SAtan brought forth the firste lye, when he made our grandemother Eue beleue, that if she and her husbande dyd eate of the forbydden fruite they should be as gods. Therfore is he a liar and the father of lying. Gene. iii.

The two iudges which accused the most vertuous woman Susa, of vncleanes, because she would not agree to their most filthye & vnhoneste requeste, wer most abhominable lyars, and slaunderers, but they receiued a rewarde worthy their lying. Dani. xiii.

Al the false Prophetes of the old law, which fained themselues to be sent of God, and yet prophecyed lyes to please the Prynces, and rulers with al, wer lyars and blasphemers of God.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

LYing set aside, let euery man speke the trueth to his neighbor, forasmuch as we ar members together. Ephe. iiii.

Lye

Colos.iii. Lie not one to another.

Ephe.iiii. Let no filthy communication procede out of your mouthes, but that which is good to edifie. Let all bitternes, fearsnes, and wrath, roryng and cursed speaking be put away from you with all maliciousnes. Be curteous one to an other, and mercyfull, forgeuing one another euē as God for Chrystes sake forgaue you.

Ephe.v. Let neither filthynes, nor folish talking, nether gestynge, whiche are not comely, be once named among you, but rather thankes geuyng.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Math.xi. The Scribes and the Pharises with the other enemyes of Chryste whiche called Chryst a wine bibber, a gloton, a deceiuer of the people, a blasphemer one possessed with a Deuil, such one as forbad ẏ people to paye tribute vnto Cesar &c. were moste abhominable liars and blasphemers.

Actes.v. Ananias and Saphira dyed sodenly, because they lyed.

Actes.vi. They were lyars and blasphemers, whiche sayed that the blessed martyr. S. Stephen spake blasphemous wordes agaynst Moses and agaynste God: when of God no man spake more godly, nor of Moses more reuerently.

Actes.xvii. They also that complayned of the Apostles of Chryste callyng them seditious persons and teachers of newe learnyng were also lyars and slaunderers.

Apo.xxii. So many as make or loue lyes, shalbe cast among murtherers and Idolaters in the lake of hell, burnyng with fyer and brymstone.

Agaynst pryde or vayne glory.

IF thou be tempted vnto Pryde or vayne glory of the Deuil that old enemy of mankynde, defende thy selfe with these Scriptures.

Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Psal.xviii. THou shalt saue (O Lord) the people that are humble, meke and lowly, but the hie loke of the proude thou shalt bryng down.

Psal.xxxiii. The Lord wil saue such as be of an humble spirite.

prou.vi. The Lord hateth a proude countenaunce.

prou.viii. Disdayne, pryde a wicked way, and a mouth that is double tonged I vtterly abhorre, sayeth the sayeth.

prou.xvi. The Lord abhorreth al such as be of a proude hart, his hād is against their hand, and they shal not escape vnpunished.

Better it is to be of humble mynde wyth the lowlye, then to deuyde the spoyle wyth the proude.

Presumptuousnes goeth before destruccion, and after a proude stomacke there folowth a fall.

Eccle.x. Why art thou proude, thou earth and ashes? Pryde is hated before God and man. Pryde is the begynnyng of al syn, and he that maintaineth that, shalbe cursed, and at the last be vtterly destroyed.

God hath destroied the seates of proude Pynces, and set vp meke in their steade.

We

who be vnto you, that are wyse in your owne eyes. Esaye.v.
I hate the pryde of Jacob, and I abhorre hys palaces, sayth the Lorde. Amos.vi.

Let neuer pryde haue rule in thy mynde nor in thy word, for in pryde began al destruction. Tob.iiii.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testamente.

Lucifer for hys pryde fell downe from the glorye of heauen into the paynes of hell. Esaye.xiiii.

Pharao for hys pryde was plaged and at last drowned. Exo.xiiii.

Sennacherib for all his bosting pryde & proude crakes cowardlye fled awaye, and afterwarde was slayne of his owne sonnes. iiii.Reg.xix.

Nabuchodonozor was so punished for his pryde, ꝑ he was made of a man a beast, tyl he had geuen ouer hys pryde, confessed him self to be but a man, and that god alone is the lord worthy all glory and honour. Dan.iiii.

Proud Aman was hanged on those galowes, whiche he had set vp for to hange good Mardocheus. Hester.iii.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

Learne of me (sayth Christ) for I am meke and humble in heart. Math.xi.

He that exalteth him selfe, shall be made low, and he that lowly meketh and submitteth him selfe, shalbe exalted. Luke.xviii.

Be not hye minded, but make your selues equal to them of ꝑ lower sort. Be not wise in your own opinions. Rom.xii.

What hast thou, that thou hast not receiued? If thou haue receiued it, why reioycest thou, as though thou hadst not receiued it? i.cor.iiii.

Humble your selues in the sight of ꝑ lord, and he shal lift you vp. Iac.iiii.

Submit your selues euery man one to another, knit your selues together in low lines of minde. i.Pet.v.

For God resisteth the proud, & geueth grace to the humble. Submit your selues therfor vnder the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you, when the tyme is come.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Mary that blessed Virgine beyng meke, humble and lowyle was made the mother of our Lorde and Sauiour Jesu Christ. Luke.i.

Peter, James, Andrew, John, and the other disciples of Christ were humble & lowly in theyr own eies, and estraunged from al pryde and arrogancy. Christ therfore chosed them to be his Apostles. Math.iiii.

Our sauiour Christe dysdayned not to washe his disciples feete to geue vs an example of humilitie and of brotherly loue. Ioan.xiii.

The proude Pharisy was reiected & cast away as vnrighteous because he bosted him self of his good deedes, & despysed ꝑ poore Publicã. Luke.xviii.

King Herod vpon a day appoynted, arayed himselfe in royal apparel, and set him in his seate, and made an oration vnto the people. Act.xii.

The people gaue a shoute, saying, it is ꝑ voice of a god & not of a man. And immediatly ꝑ angell of ꝑ lord smote him, because he gaue not god the honour, and he was eaten of wormes and gaue vp the ghost.

¶ Against feasting, glotony, and dronkenes.

TO auoyde feasting, glottony and dronkenes, set these holy scriptures euer before the eyes of thy mynde.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Prouer.xx. WYne make folke lecherous, and dronkenship causeth brauling and chidynge. Who so hathe a pleasure in them, shal not be wyse.

He that loueth bankettes, shalbe brought to pouertye. Who so delyteth in wine and delicious meats shall not be rich.

Prouer.xxiii. Accompanye not with riotous drynckers and eaters for suche shal cume to pouertie, & suche slugishe sleepers shall go all to ragged. Wher is wo? wher is wailing? wher is strife? wher are trappes layde? wher are woundes without a cause? wher are bloudye eyes? Do not al these things chaunce vnto them, that sit alway at the wine, and geue their minds wholy to gulling and gossynge.

Esaye.v. Wo be vnto you yͭ ryse vp early to geue your selues to dronkennes & set al your minds so on drinkinge, that ye sit sweating therat vntill it be nyghte. The harpe, the Lute, the Tabour, the droumslade, the trūpet, the shalm, & plentye of wine are at your feastes, but the worcke of the Lord do ye not behold, neyther consydre ye the workes of his hand

Wo be vnto you that are strong to drincke wine, and are mightye to auaunce dronkennes.

Osee.iiii. Foznication, wine and dronkennes take away the hart.

Eccle.xxxvii Through feastinge many haue died, but he that eateth in measure shal prolong his life.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testamente.

Gene.iii. ADam and Eue by satisfying their greadlye appetite in eatynge the forbidden fruit, did not only transgresse the commaundemente of God, but also threw both them selues; and all their posteritie into euerlastinge damnacyon, if we had not bene redemed by Christ.

Eze.xvi. The stinkyng Sodomyts by geuynge them selues to inordinate eatynge and drinking, fell vnto vnnaturall lustes, and so most miserably perished.

Gene.ix. Through dronkennes Lot comitted incest wt his own doughters.

Exo.xxxii. The people of Israell geuyng their mynde vnto banckettyng, fell into Idolatry.

Iudit.xiii. Holofernes that most valeaunt captaine being dronken, was slain of a woman.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

Luke.xxi. TAke hede that your hart bee not ouerwhelmed wyth feastyng and dronkenship.

Rom.xiii. Let vs walk honestlye, as in the day tyme, not in banckettyng and dronkennes, not in chambring & wantōnes, nor in strife and enuying, but put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ. And make not prouision for the flesh to fulfil the lustes therof.

Gala.v. Banketting and dronkennes are the workes of the flesh.

Be

Be not dronken with wine wherein is leacherye, but be ye filled with the spirite. Ephe.v.

It is a good thyng the harte be established with grace, and not wt meates, whych haue not profyted them, that haue had theyr pastime in them. Heb.xiii.

Dronkardes shall not inheret the kingdom of God. i.Cor.vi.

Be ye sober, and watche, for your aduersary the deuyll goeth about lyke a roaryng Lyon, seekynge whom he may deuoure, whom see that ye resyst, beyng strong in fayth. i.Pet.v

Examples out of the new Testament.

HErod geuing his mynde to banckettyng, graunted that the holy man Iohn Baptist shuld be beheaded at the desyre of hys whores doughter. Math.xiiii.

That euyll seruaunte, which saith in his hart, my Lord wyl be long a comming, & so begin to smite his felowes, yea, and to eat & dryncke wt the droken, ye same seruauntes lord shal come in a day when he loketh not for hym, & in an houre that he is not ware of, and shall hewe hym in peaces, and geue hym his porcion with the Hipocrites, there shalbe weppynge and gnashyng of teathe. Math.xxiiii.

The riche gloton ye fared so daintely euery daye, was cast downe into hell and moste greuously punished. Luke.xvi.

The prodigall and wastful sonne thorowe riotous liuinge, fell into such pouerty and beggery afterward, that he woulde faine haue filled his belly with the coddes that the Swine did eate: and no man gaue to him. Luke.xv.

Agaynst fornication and adulterye.

IF any tyme thou be tẽpted of the Deuel of the world, and the flesshe, to defyle thy selfe with fornication adulterye, whoredom, incest, or wyth any other vnclennes, call these sentẽces and examples of the holye Scripture to remembraunce, and valeauntly resiste those most wycked temptãcions.

Sentences out of the old Testament.

THou shalt not commit adultry. Thou shalt not ly with thy neyghbours wyfe to defyle her with seede. Exo.xx.

Thou shalt not make thy doughter common, that thou wolldest cause her to be an whore. Leui.xviii. xix.

The man that breaketh wedlocke with an other mans wyfe, euen he that breaketh wedlock wt his neyghbours wyfe let him be slayne, bothe the deuoterer and the aduoutres. Leuit.xx.

If a preests daughter fall to playe the whore, she defyleth her father, therfore muste she be burnt with fyre, Leuit.xxi.

If a man be founde lying with a woman that hath a wedded husband they shall die either of them, both the man that laye wyth ẏ wife, and also the wyfe, and so shalt thou put away euyl from Israell. Deut.xx.ii.

Cursed be he that lyeth with hys neyghbours wyfe, and all the people shall saye. Amen. Deut.xvii.

Deut.xxiii. There shalbe no whore of the daughters of Israel, nor no whoremonger of the sonnes of Israel.

Pro.ii. An whore geueth swete swordes, forsaketh ỹ husband of her youth & forgetteth the conuenaũt of her god. Her house is enclined vnto death and her pathes vnto hel. All they that go into her, come not againe, neither take they hold of the way of lyfe.

Pro.v. The lyppes of an harlot are a droppyng hony combe, and herneck is softer then oyle but in the ende she is as bitter as wormewoode, and as sharpe as a swerde. Her feete goo down vnto death, and her steps hast them into hell. Wherfore dere chylde geue eare vnto me & swarue not from my wordes. Fly from her ways, and come not once so nye as vnto her dores.

Pro.vi. Keepe the from the euell woman and from the flatteryng tong of the harlot, that thou lust not after her beauty in thyne heart, and least thou be taken wyth her fayre lokes.

An harlot wyll make a manne to beg his bread, but a maryed woman wyll hunt for the precious lyfe.

Maye a man hyde fyre in his bosome, and his clothes not be brente? Or can one go vpon hot coales, and his fete not be hurte? Euen so whoso euer goeth into his neygbours wyfe and toucheth her, cannot be gyltles.

He that is an whoremonger, is a foole, and bringeth his life to destruccion. He getteth him selfe also shame and dishonoure, suche as shal neuer be put out.

Pro.ix. He that accompaneth himself with an whore, shal go downe vnto hell, but he that goeth away from her, shalbe saued.

Pro.xviii. He that medleth with an whore, is a foole and wythout wyt.

Pro.xxix. He that maintayneth whores, shal come vnto beggary.

Iob.xxxi. If myne hearte hath lusted after my neyghbours wyfe, or if I haue layde wayte at his doore: Oh then let my wyfe grind vnto another man, and let other men lye wyth her. For this is a wickednes and syn that is worthy to be punyshed, yea a fyre that should vtterly consume & rote out all my substaunce.

Tob.iiii. My sonne keepe thee well from al whoredom, and beyde thy wyfe that no faute be founde in thee.

Cast not thy mynde vpon harlots in any maner of thyng, lest thou destroy both thy selfe and thyne heretage.

Eccle.ix. Go not about gasynge in euery lane of the Cytie, neyther wander thou abrode in the stretes therof. Turne away thy face from a beautiful woman, and looke not vpon the fayrenes of other.

Sit not with another mans wyfe by any meanes, lye not wyth her vpon the bedde, make no wordes with her at the wyne, least thy heart consent vnto her, and thou with thy blond fal into destruccion.

Eccle.xxiii. A manne that breaketh wedlock, and regardeth not his soule but sayth, tushe, who seyth me? I am compassed aboute with darkenes, the the walles couer me, no bodye seyth me. Whome nede I to feare? the highest wil not remember my synnes. He vnderstandeth not that hys eies see all thynges, for all suche feare of menne driuety awaye the feare of God from hym. For he feareth ouelye the eyes of men, & consydereth not that the eyes of the Lorde are clearer then the sunne, beholdynge all the wayes of menne and the grounde of the deepe, and lokynge euen to mennes harte in secrete places. &c. Rede forth the chapter to the ende.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

GOd drowned once all the whole world (eight parsons only excepted) for the synne of vnclennes. Gene.vii.

God poured downe from heauē water, fyre, and brimstone vp on the Sodomites, Gomorreans and suche other, and destroyed them al for theyr abhominable vncleanes. Gene.xix.

Whan Sychem the son of Hemor hadde vyolently defloured Dina the doughter of Jacob, her brothers hearyng of the matter, slew not only Sichem and Hemor, but also al the men and men chyldren ỹ wer in the city, & afterward spoyled the city. And when Jacob theyr father talked with them of the matter, they answered, should they deale with our sister, as with an whoore? Gene.xxxiiii.

When it was told Juda, that Thamar his doughter in lawe had played ỹ whoore, and with playing the whore was becom great with chydle, Juda her father lawe answered and sayd, brynge her forth that she may be brent. Gene.xxviii.

Joseph feared God and woulde not consent vnto hys Lordes wyfe in any poynte of vnclennes, but chosed rather to be cast into pryson, then he woulde commyt so great wyckednes and defyle hys Lordes wyfe. Therfore dyd God blesse hym, and brought hym to hygh degre. Gene.xxix.

There were slayne in one day of of the Jewes, xxiiii. thousande for the whoredom, that they commytted. Num.xxv.

For the deflozing of a certaine Leuits wyfe, ther wer destroied mo then an hundred thousand people. Iuge.xx.

Dauid commyted adultrye wyth Bethsabe Urias wyfe bur he escaped not vnplaged. ii.Reg.xi.

Salomon before he doted in ỹ loue of women, was whole genen to the settyng forth of Gods honour, but beynge once nousled wyth theyr loue, he dyd not onelye neglecte the glory of the alone true & lyuynge God, but he also through the entysement of this women, fel vnto the worshypping of straunge Gods, and so he prouoked the hie displeasure of God against him and his realme. iii.Reg.xi.

Susan feared God, and desyred rather to bestoned vnto death then she should defyle her shusbandes bed, or once consent to the two fylthy Judges and so become an whore, God therfore preserued her. Daniel.xiii.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math.v. YE haue heard that it was sayd to them of olde tyme, thou shalt not commyt adultry. But I say vnto you, that whosoeuer looketh on another mans wyfe to lust after her, hath committed adultrie al ready with her in his hearte.

Act.xv. It semeth good to the holye ghost, and to vs, to charge you that ye abstayne from whoredom.

i.Cor.v. Keepe no company with whoremongers.

If any that is called a brother, that is to say, a christen man, be an whore hunter, with suche one se that ye eat not.

i.Cor.vi. Neyther whoremongers nor adulterers, nor weakelynges neyther abusers of them selues wyth mãkynd, shall inheryte the kingdom of God.

Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I nowe take the members of Christe, and make them the members of of an harlot? God forbyd. Do ye not knowe that he whiche coupleth him self with an harlot, is become one body? For two (saieth he) shalbe one flesh. But he that is ioyned to the Lorde, is one spirite. Flye whoredom. Euery synne that a mã doeth, is without the body. But he that is a whoremonger, synneth agaynst his owne body. Know ye not how that your bodies are the temple of the holy ghost, which dwell in you whom ye haue of God, and howe ye are not your owne. For ye are dearly bought. Therfore glorifie God in your bodies and in your spirites, whyche are Gods.

i.Cor.vii. To auoyde whoredom, let euery man haue his wyfe, and let euery woman haue her husband.

Gala.v. It his better to marry then to burne.

Adultry, fornication, vnclennes, wantonnes. &c. are workes of the flesh, and whosoeuer do them, shall not inherite the kyndom of God.

Ephe.v. Let not whoredom or vnclennes be once maned amon you. For this ye know that no whoremonger or vncleane person hath inheryteaunce in the kyngdom of Christ and of God.

i.Thes.iiii. This is the will of God that ye abstain from whordom. For God hathe not called vs vnto vnclennes, but vnto holines.

i.Tim.v. Kepe thy selfe pure and honest.

ii.Tim.ii. Auoyde the lustes of youth, but folowe righteousnes, raythe, loue, & peace, w̃ them that cal on the Lord w̃ a pure hert.

Heb.xiii. Wedlocke is honourable among al men: and the bed vndefiled, but whoremongers and adulterers, God wyll condempne.

Apo.xxi. Whoremongers shall haue theyr parte in the lake that burneth with fyre and brymstone, whyche is the seconce death.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Math.xiiii. WHoredõ was the occasion that Herodias (Herodes whore) sought so diligently the death of Godly Jhon Baptist, which reproued thẽ of theyr abhominable lyuyng.

Luke.xv. Through whoredom and kepyng of riotous company the prodygal digal son wasted away his goods, and fel vnto such necessity, beggery and misery, that he was glad to kepe swyne, and would fayne haue filled his bely with the cods that the swyne did eate, but he could not be suffered.

Learne of this history what the ende of whoredome is.

S. Paule dyd excommunicate that man of Corinth, which vngodly kepte hys fathers wyfe, and woulde not suffer that any of the faythfull should kepe hym company, nor yet eate or drynke with him. i. Cor. v.

The ende of the whore of Babilon is described of S Iohn to be wõderfull wretched, miserable and damnable. Apo. xviii.

¶ Agaynst couetousnes.

IF the Deuil and the world moue thee not to be content wyth that is sufficient and ynough, but inordinatly & vnmeasurably to scrat together the goods of the world to oppresse the pore to ioyne house to house, lande to lande, Lordship to Lordship &c. to take great incoms, to rayse the rentes, and to get that may be gotten by ryght or by wrong, defende thy selfe agaynst them wyth these holy Scriptures that folow euer remembryng that thou art but a straunger and a pilgrime in thys worlde, and that thou muste go hence, eyther vnto glory or vnto payne, yea and that howe soone thou knowest not.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

THou shalt not couit thy neighbours goods. Exo. xx.

Ye shal trouble, hurt, or noy no widow nor fatherles child. If ye shal hurt them, and they cry vnto me, I wil surely heare their cry, and then wil my wrath ware hote, and I wil kil you with the sweard, and your wiues shalbe wydowes, and your children fatherles. Exo. xxii.

Thou shalt take no giftes for giftes blinde the wyse, and peruert the wordes of the righteous. Exo. xxiii.

Thou shalt not doe thy neighbour wrong, neither violently oppresse him. Ye shall doe no vnrighteousnes in iudgement, in meteyarde, in weight, or in measure. True balances, true weightes, a true Epha and a true Hin, shal ye haue. Leui. xix.

Fire shal consume the houses of such as are gredy to receiue gyftes. Iob. xv.

He heapeth vp treasure, & yet knoweth not he for whõ he gathereth it. Psal. xxxix.

O trust not in wrong & robbery, geue not your selues vnto vanities, and if ryches encrease set not your hart vpon them. Psal. xlii.

Encline my hart (O Lord) to thy testimonies & not to couetousnesse. Psal. cxix.

Whosoeuer hoordeth vp his corne shalbe cursed among ỹ people, but blessyng shal light vpon his head that geueth fode. Pro. xi.

He that trusteth in hys ryches, shal haue a fall, but the ryghteousse shal florysshe as the grene leafe.

Better is a litle with the feare of the Lord then great and vnmeasurable treasures otherwyse. He goeth about to destroy hys owne house that geueth his mind to couetousnes but whoso hateth rewardes, shal liue. Pro. xv.

Better it is to haue a litle thing with righteousnes, thẽ great rentes wrongfully gotten. Pro. xvi.

Pro.xviii. He that hateth couetousnes shal liue long.

A man that is sodenly rytch, enuyeth other, and considereth not that pouerty shal come vpon him.

Whoso so robbeth his father and saieth it is no sin, the same is lyke vnto a manslear.

Pro.xxx. O Lord geue me nether pouerty nor rytches, only graunt me a necessary liuing.

Eccle.v. He that loueth mony, wil neuer be satisfyed with mony, and who so deliteth in ryches, shal haue no profyt therof.

Whereas much riches is, there are many also that spende them away And what pleasure more hath he that possesseth thē, sauing ꝑ he maye loke vpon them with his eyes.

A labouryng man slepeth swetely, whether it be litle or muche that he eateth, but the aboundaunce of ꝑ rytche wyll not suffer hym to slepe.

There is a sore plage, which I haue sene vnder the Sun, namely ryches kept to the hurt of hym that hath them in possessyon. For ofttimes they perysh wyth his great misery and trouble, and if he haue a child it getteth nothyng. Reade forth the Chapter.

Eccle. iiii. Let not thine hand be stretched out to receiue, and shut when thou should geue.

Eccle.v. Truste not vnto thy riches and say not tush, I haue inough for my lyfe. For it shall not helpe thee in the time of vengeaunce & temptacion.

Trust not in wicked ritches, for they shal not helpe thee in the daye of punishment and wrath.

Eccle.xi. Nothing is more wycked and vngracious then a couetous man.

Eccle, xiiii. He that with all his carefulnes heapeth together vnryghteously gathereth for other folkes, and another man shall make good chere wyth hys goods.

A couetous mans eye, hath neuer inough in the porciō of wickednes vntyll the tyme that he wither away, and hath lost his own soule.

Eccle.xxi. The rytches of the proude shalbe roted out.

Eccle, xxxi. He that loueth ritches, shal not be iustifyed.

Many one is come in great misfortune by the reasō of gold, and haue founde their destruction before them. It is a tree offallyng vnto them It is a treè of passage vnto them that offer it vp, and al such as be folish fall therin.

Blessed is the rich, which is founde without blemish, and hath not gone after golde, nor hoped in money and treasures, wher is there such a one: and we shall commende him, and call hym blessed: For greate thinges doeth he among his people.

Esay.v. Wo be vnto you, that ioyne house to house, and couple lande to lande euen so long as any can begotten. Shal ye alone dwel vpon the earth: These things are in the eares of the Lord of hostes. &c.

Wo be vnto them that geue sentence with the vngodly for rewards and condemnte the iust cause of the ryghteous.

Wo be vnto thee, that spoilest for thou also shalt be spoiled.
Wo vnto him, that heapeth vp other mens goods how long lade himselfe with thicke clay?
O howe sodenly will they stand vp, that shal byte and awake teare thee in peces? yea thou shalt be their pray.
Wo be vnto him, that couetously gathereth euil gotten good his house, that he maye set his nest on hie, to escape from the pe misfortune. Thou hast deuised the shame of thine own house, so t very stones of the wal shal cry out of it, and the tymber that is twixt the joyntes of the building, shal aunswere.
Their siluer and their Golde shal not be able to deliuer them day of the Lordes wrath.

Examples out of the olde Testament.

Balaam for lucres sake would haue cursed the people of Israel teary to his own conscience, but he was reproued of the Aung the Lord, so that his cursing was turned into blessyng.
Achan by the commaundement of god was stoned to death, be he toke of the excommunicate goods.
Saul for the couetousnes of prayse, lost his kyngdome.
The couetousnes of Nabalie and his churlishnes shewed vnto wife, had almost caused that Nabalie and al that euer he had, had b terly destroyed, if Abigail his wife had not pacified the matter. N standing God shortly after punished him with death so that he wa ken away from al that euer he had.
The couetousnes of Achab and Jezabel was the occasyon that Naboth was stoned vnto death againste all equitye and ryght, th this meanes they might haue his vineyarde. But how miserable end was, for that their abhominable murder, the holy stories do de Gehesy was strykē wt leprosy, because he receyued mony of Naa

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Blessed are the poze in spirite for theirs is the kingdome of heau Lay not vp treasure for your selues vpon earth, wher the rust moth doth corrupt, and where theues breake through and steale.
But lay vp treasures for you in heauen, where neither ruste nor m doth corrupt, and where theues do not breake throughe nor steale.
where your treasure is there wil your hart be also.
What doth it profit a mā to win ỹ whole world, if he loseth his so A rich man shal hardly enter into the kingdom of heauē. It is m easy for a gable rope to go through the eye of a nedle, then a riche m to enter into the kingdom of heauen.
Wo be to you rich men, which haue your comfort.
Take hede and beware of couetousnes. For no mans lyfe stand in the aboundaunce of things which he possesseth.
Thou fole this night wil they fetch away thy soule again from th Thā whose shal ỹ things be, ỹ thou hast gathered? Take hede to yo selues, lest at any tyme your harts be ouercome wt the cares of this l

Math.v. YE haue heard that it was sayd to them of olde tyme, thou shalt not commyt adultry. But I say vnto you, that whosoeuer looketh on another mans wyfe to lust after her, hath committed adultrie al ready with her in his hearte.

Act.xv. It semeth good to the holye ghost, and to vs, to charge you that ye abstayne from whoredom.

i.Cor.v. Keepe no company with whoremongers.

If any that is called a brother, that is to say, a christen man, be an whore hunter, with suche one se that ye eat not.

i.Cor.vi. Neyther whoremongers nor adulterers, nor weakelynges neyther abusers of them selues wyth mānynd, shall inheryte the kingdom of God.

Know ye not that your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I nowe take the members of Christe, and make them the members of of an harlot? God forbyd. Do ye not knowe that he whiche coupleth him self with an harlot, is become one body? For two (saieth he) shalbe one flesh. But he that is ioyned to the Lorde, is one spirite. Flye whoredom. Euery synne that a mā doeth, is without the body. But he that is a whoremonger, synneth agaynst his own body. Know ye not how that your bodies are the temple of the holy ghost, which dwell in you whom ye haue of God, and howe ye are not your owne. For ye are dearly bought. Therfore glorifie God in your bodies and in your spirites, whyche are Gods.

i.Cor.vii. To auoyde whoredom, let euery man haue his wyfe, and let euery woman haue her husband.

Gala.v. It his better to marry then to burne.

Adultry, fornication, vnclennes, wantonnes. &c. are workes of the flesh, and whosoeuer do them, shall not inherite the kyndom of God.

Ephe.v. Let not whoredom or vnclennes be once maned amon you. For this ye know that no whoremonger or vncleane person hath inheryteunce in the kyngdom of Christ and of God.

i.Thes.iiii. This is the will of God that ye abstain from whordom. For God hathe not called vs vnto vnclennes, but vnto holines.

i.Tim.v. Kepe thy selfe pure and honest.

ii.Tim.ii. Auoyde the lustes of youth, but folowe righteousnes, faythe, loue, peace, wt them that cal on the Lord wt a pure hert.

Heb.xiii. Wedlocke is honourable among al men: and the bed vndefiled, but whoremongers and adulterers. God wyll condempne.

Apo.xxi. Whoremongers shall haue theyr parte in the lake that burneth with fyre and brymstone, whyche is the seconde death.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Math.xiiii. WHoredō was the occasion that Herodias (Herodes whore) sought so diligently the death of Godly Jhon Baptist, which reproued thē of theyr abhominable lyuyng.

Luke.xv. Through whoredom and kepyng of riotous company the prodygal

digal son wasted away his goods, and fel vnto such necessity, beggery and misery, that he was glad to kepe swyne, and would fayne haue filled his bely with the cods that the swyne did eate, but he could not be suffered.

Learne of this history what the ende of whoredome is.

S. Paule dyd excommunicate that man of Corinth, which vngodly kepte hys fathers wyfe, and woulde not suffer that any of the faythfull should kepe hym company, nor yet eate or drynke with him. i. Cor. v.

The ende of the whore of Babilon is described of S Iohn to be wõderfull wretched, miserable and damnable. Apo. xviii.

¶ Agaynst couetousnes.

IF the Deuil and the world moue thee not to be content wyth that is sufficient and ynough, but inordinatly & vnmeasurably to scrat together the goods of the world to oppresse the pore to ioyne house to house, lande to lande, Lordship to Lordship &c. to take great incoms, to rayse the rentes, and to get that may be gotten by ryght or by wrong, defende thy selfe agaynst them wyth these holy Scriptures that folow euer remembryng that thou art but a straunger and a pilgrime in thys worlde, and that thou muste go hence, eyther vnto glory or vnto payne, yea and that howe sone thou knowest not.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

THou shalt not couit thy neighbours goods. Exo. xx.

Ye shal trouble, hurt, or noy no widow nor fatherles child. If ye shal hurt them, and they cry vnto me, I wil surely heare their cry, and then wil my wrath ware hote, and I wil kil you with the sweard, and your wiues shalbe wydowes, and your children fatherles. Exo. xxii.

Thou shalt take no giftes for giftes blinde the wyse, and peruert the wordes of the righteous. Exo. xxiii.

Thou shalt not doe thy neighbour wrong, neither violently oppresse him. Ye shall doe no vnrighteousnes in iudgement, in meteyarde, in weight, or in measure. True balances, true weightes, a true Epha and a true Hin, shal ye haue. Leui. xii.

Fire shal consume the houses of such as are gredy to receiue gyftes. Iob. xv.

He heapeth vp treasure, & yet knoweth not he for whõ he gathereth it. Psal. xxxix.

O trust not in wrong & robbery, geue not your selues vnto vanities, and if ryches encrease set not your hart vpon them. Psal. xlii.

Encline my hart (O Lord) to thy testimonies & not to couetousnesse. Psal. cxix.

Whosoeuer hordeth vp his corne shalbe cursed among ỹ people, but blessyng shal light vpon his head that geueth fode. Pro. xi.

He that trusteth in hys rytches, shal haue a fall, but the ryghteousse shal florysshe as the grene leafe.

Better is a litle with the feare of the Lord then great and vnmeasurable treasures otherwyse. He goeth about to destroy hys owne house that geueth his mind to cõuetousnes but whoso hateth rewardes, shal liue. Pro. xv.

Better it is to haue a litle thing with righteousnes, thẽ great rentes wrongfully gotten. Pro. xvi.

Pro.xviii. He that hateth couetousnes shal liue long.

A man that is sodenly ryche, enuyeth other, and considereth not that pouerty shal come vpon him.

Whoso so robbeth his father and saieth it is no sin, the same is lyke vnto a manslear.

Pro.xxx. O Lord geue me nether pouerty nor rytches, only graunt me a necessary liuing.

Eccle.v. He that loueth mony, wil neuer be satisfyed with mony, and who so deliteth in ryches, shal haue no profyt therof.

Whereas much riches is, there are many also that spende them away And what pleasure more hath he that possesseth thē, sauing ỳ he maye loke vpon them with his eyes.

A labouryng man slepeth swetely, whether it be litle or muche that he eateth, but the aboundaunce of ỳ rytche wyll not suffer hym to slepe.

There is a sore plage, which I haue sene vnder the Sun, namely ryches kept to the hurt of hym that hath them in possessyon. For ofttimes they perysh wyth his great misery and trouble, and if he haue a child it getteth nothyng. Reade forth the Chapter.

Eccle. iiii. Let not thine hand be stretched out to receiue, and shut when thou should geue.

Eccle.v. Truste not vnto thy riches and say not tush, I haue inough for my lyfe. For it shall not helpe thee in the time of vengeaunce & temptacion.

Trust not in wicked ritches, for they shal not helpe thee in the daye of punishment and wrath.

Eccle.xi. Nothing is more wycked and vngracious then a couetous man.

Eccle, xiiii. He that with all his carefulnes heapeth together vnryghteously ga thereth for other folkes, and another man shall make good chere wyth hys goods.

A couetous mans eye, hath neuer inough in the porciō of wickednes vntyll the tyme that he wither away, and hath lost his own soule.

Eccle.xxi. The rytches of the proude shalbe roted out.

Eccle, xxxi. He that loueth ritches, shal not be iustifyed.

Many one is come in great misfortune by the reasō of gold, and haue founde their destruction before them. It is a tree offallyng vnto them It is a tree of passage vnto them that offer it vp, and al such as be folish fall therin.

Blessed is the rich, which is founde without blemish, and hath not gone after golde, nor hoped in money and treasures, wher is there such a one: and we shall commende him, and call hym blessed: For greate thinges doeth he among his people.

Esay.v. Wo be vnto you, that ioyne house to house, and couple lande to lande euen so long as any can begotten. Shal ye alone dwel vpon the earth? These things are in the eares of the Lord of hostes. &c.

Wo be vnto them that geue sentence with the vngodly for rewards and condemnte the iust cause of the ryghteous.

Wo be vnto thee, that spoilest for thou also shalt be spoiled. Esay.xxxiii.
Wo vnto him, that heapeth vp other mens goods How long will he lade himselfe with thicke clay? Abac.ii.
O howe sodenly will they stand vp, that shal byte and awake, y shall teare thee in peces? yea thou shalt be their pray.
Wo be vnto him, that couetously gathereth euil gotten goodes into his house, that he maye set his nest on hie, to escape from the power of misfortune. Thou hast deuised the shame of thine own house, so that the very stones of the wal shal cry out of it, and the tymber that lieth betwixt the ioyntes of the building, shal aunswere.
Their siluer and their Golde shal not be able to deliuer them in the day of the Lordes wrath.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

BIlaam for lucres sake would haue cursed the people of Israell contrary to his own conscience, but he was reproued of the Aungell of the Lord, so that his cursing was turned into blessyng. Num.xxii.
Acham by the commaundement of god was stoned to death, because he toke of the excommunicate goods. Iosue.vii.
Saul for the couetousnes of prayse, lost his kyngdome. i.Reg.xiii.
The couetousnes of Naballe and his churlishnes shewed vnto Dauid, had almost caused that Naballe and al that euer he had, had ben vtterly destroyed, if Abigail his wife had not pacifyed the matter. Notwithstanding God shortly after punished him with death so that he was taken away from al that euer he had. i.Reg. xxv.
The couetousnes of Achab and Iezabel was the occasyon that good Naboth was stoned vnto death against all equitye and ryght, that by this meanes they might haue his vineyarde. But how miserable theyr end was, for that their abhominable murder, the holy stories do declare Gehesy was stryke̅ w̄ leprosy, because he receyued mony of Naamā. iii.Reg.xxi. iiii.Reg.v.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

BLessed are the pore in spirite for theirs is the kingdome of heauen. Math.v.
Lay not vp treasure for your selues vpon earth, wher the rust and moth doth corrupt, and where theues breake through and steale. Math.vi.
But lay vp treasures for you in heauen, where nether ruste nor moth doth corrupt, and where theues do not breake throughe nor steale. For where your treasure is there wil your hart be also.
What doth it profit a mā to win y̆ whole world, if he loseth his soule. Luc.xvi.
A rich man shal hardly enter into the kingdom of heauē. It is more easy for a gable rope to go through the eye of a nedle, then a riche man to enter into the kingdom of heauen. Math.xix.
Wo be to you rich men, which haue your comfort. Luke.vi.
Take hede and beware of couetousnes. For no mans lyfe standeth in the aboundaunce of thinges which he possesseth. Luke.xii.
Thou fole this night wil they fetch away thy soule again from thee. Thā whose shal y̆ things be, y̆ thou hast gathered? Take hede to youre selues, lest at any tyme your harts be ouercome w̄ the cares of this life. Luke.xxi.

1.Cor.v. If any that is called a brother, that is to say, a Chrysten man, be couetous or an extorcioner, with him that is suche, see that ye eate not.

1.Cor.vi. Nether theues, nether couetous parsons, nether extorcioners shal inherite the kingdom of God.

Ephe.v. Let not couetousnes be once named among you. For no couetouse person, whiche is a worshipper of Idols, hath any inheritaunce in the kingdome of Chryst and God.

1.Tim.vi. Godlines is great riches, if a man be content with such as God send For we brought nothing into the world, nether shal we cary any thing out. Whan we haue fode and raiment, let vs therwith be content: they that wil be rich, fal into temptacion and snares, and into many foolish & noisome lustes, which drown men in temptacion and destruction. For couetousnes is the rote of all euill, which while some lusted after, they erred from the fayth, and tangled themselues with many sorowes.

But thou which art the man of God, flye such thyngs. Folow righteousnes, godlynes, loue, Pacience and mekenes.

Heb.xiii. Let your conuersacion be without couetousnes, and be content with that ye haue already. For God verely hath sayed, I wyl not fayle thee, nor yet forsake thee.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Luke.xii. A Certayne rytche and couetous person made greate prouision for many yeares that he myght lyue pleasauntly and wealthelye, but shortly after God toke away hys lyfe, so that he died.

Luke.xvi. The ritche and vnmercifull glotton, that fared deintely euery daye and was gloryously apparelled, dyed and was buryed in hell.

Judas for lucre of money, solde and betrayed his mayster Chryst to the bishops, Scribes and Pharises. After warde he hanging vp hymselfe, brast a sunder in the mids, and all his bowels gushed out.

Actes.v. Ananias and Saphira wer punished with soden death, because of a couetous mynde, they kept away part of the money, which they receyued for the possession that they had solde.

¶ Agaynst rebellion and disobedience.

If the deuill that olde enemy of mankynde and troubler of all good orders go about to put in thy head, that the magistrates and hie powers doo not their dutye in the right gouernemente of a common weale, but to much cruelly oppresse theyr Subiectes and that therfore thou mayest iustly ryse and rebell agaynst them, and take vpon thee of thyne own pryuate authority to redresse thynges that ar amysse in the common weale, take hede that thou by no meanes consentest to his most suttle and wycked temptacion, wherby he goeth about to throwe thee into euerlastyng damnacion both of body and soule, beside the shamefull death, that thou shalt haue in this world, and the losse of all that euer thou hast, but contente thy selfe wyth thy vocacion, laboure diligently and quietly for thy liuing, study to mayntayne peace, pray for the hie powers, thynke that crosse to be layd vpon thee for thy desertes, amende thy lyfe, humbly lament thy cause to God, which wyll not leaue the succourles and defende thy selfe against Satan, and all hys crafty suggestions, with these Scriptures folowing.

Sentences

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Thou shalt be ouer my house, and accoꝛding to thy woꝛd shall all my people be ruled. Gene.xli.

Thou shalt do whatsoeuer they say vnto thee that be rulers ouer the place, which the Loꝛd hath chosen. Deu.xvii.

All that thou hast commaunded vs, sayd the people to Iosue, we wil do, and whether soeuer thou sendest vs we wil go. Iosue.i.

Whosoeuer he be, sayeth God, that doth disobey thy mouth, and wil not harken vnto thy woꝛds, in al ỹ thou commaũdest him, let him dye. Exo.xvi.

The Loꝛd hath hard your murmurynges sayeth Moses, whiche ye murmur agaynst him. Foꝛ what are we (he speaketh of himselfe and of Aaron) your murmurynges are not agaynst vs, but against the Loꝛd.

They haue not cast thee away, but me (said God to Samuel) that I should not reigne ouer them. i.Reg.viii.

Behold to obey is better then Sacrifice, and to herken is better thẽ the fat of rammes. Foꝛ rebellyon is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbernes is as the wickednes of Idolatry. i.Reg.xv.

By me, kinges reigne, by me Pꝛinces make iust lawes. By me loꝛds beare rule, and al Iudges of the earth exercise iudgement. Pro.viii.

Where no ruler is, there the people decay, but wheras many ar that can geue counsel, there is wealth. Pro.xii.

The kinges displeasure is a messenger of death, but a wise man will pacifye him. The cherefull countenaunce of the king is life, and his louing fauour is as the euening dew. Pro.xvi.

The king ought to be feared as the roꝛyng of a lyõ. Whoso pꝛouoketh him vnto anger, offendeth against his own soule. My son feare thou ỹ Loꝛde and the king, and kepe no company with them that slide backe from his feare. Foꝛ their destruccion shal come sodenly. And who knoweth the aduersitie that may come from them both. Pro.xx.

Wish the king no euil in thy thought, and speake no hurt of the noble mán in thy pꝛiuy chamber. Foꝛ a birde of the aire shal betray thy voice, and with her feathers shal she bewꝛay thy woꝛdes. Eccle.x.

Whosoeuer wil not fulfill the lawe of God, and the kinges lawe, let him haue his iudgement without delay, whether it be vnto death oꝛ to be roted out, oꝛ to be condemned in goods oꝛ to be put in pꝛison. i.Esdr.viii.

The king is ruler ouer sea and land, and hath dominion of al things and loke what he commaundeth, is done. The commõ people and the rulers are obedient vnto him. iii.Esd.iiii.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

God did strike Mir Iam with most greuous and hoꝛrible lepꝛosye, because she murmured against her lawful magistrate Moyses. Num.xii.

God plaged the Israelites foꝛ murmuring against his seruaunt Moses, with stinging serpentes which stong them vnto death. Num.xxi.

Coꝛah Dathan, and Abiron, because they did not obey Moses, gods magistrate, but disdained ỹ he shuld reigne ouer thẽ, although apoited of God Num.xvi.

of God, wer swalowed vp of the earth, but they, their wiues, their children and al their goods. They went down alyue vnto hell, & the earth closed vpon them, and they perished from among the congregacion.

ii. Reg. xv. Absolon king Dauids son made an insurrection agaynst his father, and through the counsel of wicked Ahithophel wrought most vilany a gaynst hys fathers honor.

ii. Reg. xx. What followed? was not Absolon miserably slaine? Did not his vntrusty councellor hang himselfe? wer there not also. xx. M. men slaine in battaile, that toke Absolons part?

iii. Reg. xvi. Seba the son of Bochry had his head cut of because he conspired against king Dauid, and disuaded the people from due obediēce to their Liege soueraigne Lord.

iii, Reg. xvi. Baasa the son of Abia cōspired agaynst Nadab kyng of Israel, slew him, and raigned in his steade. But what followed though Baasa in the sight of the world died no shameful death? yet died he in the displeasure of God, and afterwarde all his succession with all his frendes and kinsfolkes were all destroyed, so that there was not one left aliue.

Zimry conspired against Ela king of Israel, slew him, and reigned in his stede. But shortly after he was driuē to such misery and straites that he fled into the kinges pallace at Thirza, and settyng it on a fyer, brent him selfe, and so wretchedly ended his lyfe.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

Rom. xiii. LEt euery soule submit himselfe vnto ỳ authority of the hier powers. For there is no power but of God. The powers that be, ar ordeined of God. Whosoeuer therfore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordināce of God. But they that resist, shal get to themselfe damnacion. For rulers are not fearefull to them that do good, but to them that doe euill. Wilt thou be without feare of the power? Do wel then, & so shalt thou be praysed of the same.

For he is the minister of God for thy wealth. But if thou doeste that which is euil, then feare. For he beareth not the sweard for nought. For he is the minister of God to take vengeaunce on him that doth euyll. Wherfore ye must nedes obey, not onely for feare of vengeaunce, but also because of conscience. And euen for this cause pay ye trybute. For they are gods ministers, seruing for the same purpose. Geue to euery man therfore his duey, tribute to whom tribute belongeth, custome to whō custome is due, feare to whom feare belongeth, honor to whom honor pertayneth.

i. Tim. ii. I erhort that aboue all things prayers, supplications, intercessions and geuing of thankes be had for all men, for kynges and for al that ar in authoritie, that we may liue a quiet and a peaceable life with al godlines and honesty. For that is good and accepted in the sight of god our Sauioure, which will haue all men to be saued, and to come vnto the knowledge of the trueth.

Titus. iii. Warne them, that they submitte themselues to rule and power, that they they obeie the Magistrats that they be ready vnto euery good worke, that they speake euyll of no man, that they be no fyghters, but gentle sheweng al mekenes vnto all men.

Submit your selues vnto al māner ordinaunce of man for the Lordes sake, whether it be vnto the kynge as vnto the chief head, eyther vnto rules, as vnto them that are sent of him for the punyshemente of euyll doers, but for the prayse of them that do wel. For so is the wyll of God, that with well doinge, ye maye stoppe the mouthes of foolishe and ignorante menne, as free, and not as hauyng the lybertye for a cloke of malicyousnes, but euen as the seruauntes of God. i. Pet. iii.

Honour al men, loue brotherly felowshyp, fear God, honour ỹ kynge.

Wicked are they and damned shal they be, that despise outhoritye, and feare not to speake euyll of them, that excell in honour, ii. Pet. ii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testamente.

MAry Christes mother and Joseph her husbande, obeyed the Emperours commaundemente, and wente into theyr cytie Bethleem to be tared. Luke. ii.

Christ payd tribute to Cesar both for hym selfe and for his disciples, and wylled other so to do. Math. xvii.

Christ euen vnto the death obeyed the temporall Rulers. Mat. xxvii.

Thapostles of Christ wer obediēt to the hier powers and taught other so to be.

S. Paule willigly obeyed ỹ Publique Magistrats, Felix & Festus. &c. Act. xxiiii.

Theudas and Judas of Galile, wer two seditiours persons. The one boosted to do greate thinges and so allured muche people to folow hym, the other councelled the Jewes by no meanes to paye trybute to Cesar, but to maintaine theyr olde liberties, and by thys meanes moued greate sedicion among the people. xxv. Act. v.

What became of theym? wer they not put to death, and so many as folowed them, eyther slayne or els scattred abrode, and so brought to nought? we reade not in all the holye scriptures, that anye traytoure or notable sedicious persone hath at any tyme escaped without notable and famous punyshemente. God can not suffer his Magistrates, to be disobeyed, his commō weales to be disturbed, hys polityque or ciuile lawes to be contempned, his godly and honest orders to be broken. Whosoeuer attempteth any suche wyckednesse, God wyll be auenged of hym, as it is euydent not in the holy scriptures, but also in prophane hystories.

Against malice, grudge, enuy hatred and anger.

IF thou bee tempted of Sathan to breake the order of charitie, and to malice thy christen brother, set these scriptures before the eies of thy mynd.

Sentences out of the olde Testament.

THou shalt not hate thi brother in thine hart, but shalt in any wise rebuke thy neygbbour that thou beare not synne for his sake. Leuit. xix.

Thou shalt not auenge thy self nor be myndefull of wronge, againste the thyldre of my people, but shalt loue thy neyghbours euē as thy self.

Pro.xxv. If thine enemy hōger, fede him, if he thirste, geue him drinke, for so shalt ꝓ heape coles of fyre vpon his head, & the Lord shal reward thee.

Eccle.xxxviii He that seketh vengaunce shal find vengaunce of the Lord, whyche shal surely keepe him his sinnes.

Forgeue thy neyghboure the hurte that he hath done thee, and so shal thy synnes be forgeuen to thee also when thou prayest. A man that beareth hatred agaynst another, howe dare he desyre forgeuenesse of God? He that sheweth no mercy to a man whiche is lyke hym self, how dare he aske forgeuenes of his synnes? If he that is but flesh, beareth hatred and keepe it who wyll entreate for his sinnes? Remember thy ende, and let enmytye passe.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

i.Reg.xv. SAmuel prayed for king Saul, although a wicked man, an enemy to Gods seruauntes, & altogether disobedient to the wyl of God.

Exo.xxii. Moyses prayed for the stubburne and vnfaithfull Jewes, whyche notwithstanding rebelled against him, & would haue slayne him.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math.v. LOue your enemies. Bless them that curse you. Do good to them ꝙ hate you. Pray for them which do you wronge and pursue you, that ye may be the thildren of your father that is in heauen.

Math.vii. Whatsoeuer ye wyll, that men should do to you, euen so do ye to do them. This is the lawe and the Prophets.

Math.xix. Thou shalt loue thy neyghbour as thy selfe.

Luke.vi. Be merciful as your father is mercifull. Judge not and ye shall not be iudged. Condemne not, and ye shall not be cōdemned. Forgeue and ye shalbe forgeuen. Gyue and it shalbe geuen to you good measure pressed downe, shaken together, and runnyng ouer, shall men giue into your bosomes. For with the same measure ye meete, with the same shal other meete to you agayn.

Ioan.xiii. A newe commaundement geue I vnto you, that ye loue together as I loued you, that euen so ye loue one another.

By this shal all men know, that ye are my dysciples, if ye shall haue loue one to another.

i.Cor.xiii. Though I bestowe al my goodes to fede ꝑ poore, & though I geue my body to be brēt, yet if I haue no loue, it profiteth me nothing at all.

Gala.vi. Brethen, if any man be fallen by chaunce, into any faulte, ye whiche are spirituall, helpe to amende hym in the spirit of mekenes, cōsydering thy selfe, lest thou also be tempted. Beare ye one anothers burden, and so fulfyl ye the lawe of Christ.

Ephe.iiii. Let not the Sunne go downe vpon your wrath.

Be gentle one to another, mercifull forgeuyng one another, euen as God for Christes sake, hath forgeuen you.

Iacob.i. Let euery man be slowe vnto anger. For the wrath of manne worketh not that whiche is righteous before God.

Thous

Aboue al thinges haue feruent loue amonge you. For loue amonge you. For loue shall couer the multitude of synnes. i. Pet. iiii.

If any man saye, I loue God, & hateth his brother, he is a lyar. For he that loueth not his brother whom he hath sene, God whom he hath not sene how can he loue? And this commaundement haue we of him that he that loueth God, should also loue his neyghboure. i. Ioan. iiii.

He that loueth not his brother, abydeth in death. Whosoeuer hateth his brother, is a murtherer. And ye know that no murtherer, hath euer lasting lyfe abyding in him. My babes let vs not loue in woorde nor in tong, but in worde and truthe. i. Ioan. iii.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Christe so dearely loued vs, yea and that when we wer yet his enemies, that he gaue him self euen vnto the death for our sake. yea he hangyng on the crosse prayed for hys very enemyes vnto hys heauenly father. Luke. xxiii.

Blessed Stephen in the myddes of his tormentes prayed for his enmies. Act. vii.

Saint Paule wyshed him self to be cursed from Christe, so that hys kynsmenne the Israelites might be saued. Rom. ix.

Against the bitter stormes of persecution for the word of God.

If at any tyme through the frayltie of nature thou bee troubled in thy minde whe the crosse of persecutiō is laid vpō thee for the word of god, lōke that thou shrinke not back from the truthe, nor discourage thy selfe, but thynke thy selfe blessed of God, call these Scriptures that folowe vnto remembraunce for thy conforte.

Sentences out of the old Testament.

The Lord byllerh and geueth life agayn, he bryngeth eue to hel and backe agayn. i. Reg. ii.

The righteous cry, and the Lord heareth them, and deliuereth thē out of all theyr troubles. Psal. xxxiiii.

The Lorde is nye vnto them: that are of a troubled heart, and wyll saue suche as be of an humble spirite.

Great are the troubles of the righteous, but the Lorde delyuereth hym out of them all.

He keepeth al his bones, so that not one of them is broken.

But misfortune shall slea the vngodly, and they that hate ỹ the righteous shalbe disolate.

The Lorde deliuereth the soules of his seruauntes, and all they that put theyr trust in him, shall not be comfortles.

For thy sake (O Lord) are we killed al the day long, and ar counted as sheepe appoynted to be slayne. Psal. xliiii.

Vp Lorde, why slepest thou, awake, and be not absent from vs for euer. wherfore hydest thou thy face, and forgettest our mysery and trouble? For our soule is brought lowe euen vnto the dust, our belly cleueth vnto the ground. Arise and healpe vs, and delyuer vs for thy merties sake.

Psal. lxvi. Thou (O God) hast proued vs, thou also hast tryed vs lyke as syluer is tryed. Thou broughtest vs into the snare, and laydest trouble vpon our loynes. Thou sufferedst mẽ to ryde ouer our heads, we went through fyre and water, and thou broughtest vs out into a comfortable place.

Psal. xv. I beleued and therfore haue I spoken, but I was sore troubled. Right deare in the syght of the Lorde, is the death of his sayntes.

Sapi. iii. The waye of the righteous is iudged to be vtter destructiõ, but they are in rest. And though they suffer payne before men, yet is their hope full of immortalytie. They are punyshed but in fewe thynges, nevertheles in many thynges shal they be wel rewarded. For God proueth them & fyndeth them meete for hym selfe yea as ỹ golde in the fornace dothe he trye them, and receaueth them as a burnt offering, and when the tyme commeth, they shalbe loked vpon.

Eccle. ii. My Sonne, if thou wylt come into the seruyce of God, stande faste in righteousnes and feare, & arme thy soule to temptacion. Settle thine hearte, and bee paciente, bowe down thyne eare, receyue the wordes of vnderstandyng, and shrynke not away, when thou art entised. Hold the fast vpon God, ioyne thy selfe vnto hym, and suffer that thy lyfe may encrease at the last.

Whatsoeuer happeneth vnto thee receyue it, suffer in heauynes, & be paciente in thy trouble. For lyke as gold and syluer are tryed in the fyre: euen so are acceptable men in the fornace of aduersytie. Beleue in God, and he shall helpe thee.

Eccle. iiii. For righteousnesse take payne wyth all they soule, and for the truthe stryue thou vnto deathe, and God shall fyghte for the against thy ennemies.

Examples out of the olde Testament.

Gene. iiii. Abell was cruelly slayne of his brother Cayne, whom he neuer offended.

Gene. xxxix. Joseph was cast into pryson, because he would not leane to ỹ fylthy request of his lordes wyfe.

Exo. xiiii. Moses, Aaron, and the Israelites wer greuously entreated of king Pharao.

i. Reg. xviii. Saule with great dilygence sought to destroy Dauid.

i. Reg. xix. Quene Jezabel pursued the Prophete Helias.

ii. Par. xxiii. Zachary the sonne of Barachias was stoned to deathe for tellinge the kyng trothe.

i. Reg. xxii. Achymeleche with certayne other holy menne of God was slayne at kyng Saules commaundement because he shewed kyndnes to Dauid the hartye beloued seruaunt of God.

Dani. iii. Sydrac, Misac and Abednago wer cast into a fyry fornace, because they would not worshyp the golden Image, that kynge Nabuchodonosor had made, but only the God of Israel.

Da

Daniel was cast into the den of Lyons, because that contrary to kyng Darius commaundement he had prıad vnto his lorde god, the God of Israel. Daniel. vi.

At an other tyme also he was cast into the den of Lions, because he had, that Bel and the Dragon wer no Goddes.

The vertuous and chaste woman Susan was at the poynte to be stoned vnto death, because she wold not breake the commaundemēt of God, and consent to the vnlawfull and fylthy requestes of the two Elders. Dan. xiii.

Eleazarus was myserably put vnto death, because at the kyngs commaundemente he would not eate swynes flesh contrary to ẏ law of God. ii. Mac. vi.

A certaine woman also with her. vii. sonnes wer wyth most extreme cruelty put to deathe, because they would not obey the wicked precept of the most wicked kyng ii. Mach. vii.

The prophetes wer vnmercifullye slain, because they rebuked sinne, and taught the wyll of God.

The most excellent Prophete Esaye, for his libertie of speche in rebukking the synnes of ẏ prynces and of the people, & propherying of Gods vengeaunce to fal vpon the coūtry and people, was cut in two partes asounder wt a sawe, & buried vnder an oke.

Jeremy after muche emprysonement was stoned vnto deathe of his people at Taphnas in Egypt, because he warned thē of theyr wicked lyuing, and exhorted them vnto repentaunce.

Amos at the commaundement of kyng Amasias for his preachyng was cruelly beaten and greuously tormented. At the last Ochozias sonne of Amasias, caused him to be thurste into the temples wyth a great naile, and beinge half dead, he was caried into his own coūtrey, where he sone after dyed.

Micheas was buffeted, emprysoned & fedde with bread and water. iiii. Reg. xxii.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

BLessed are they that suffer persecution for righteousnesse, for theirs is the kyngdom of heauen. Math. v.

Blessed are ye when men reuyle you and persecute you, and falsly speake al euil sayings against you for my sake. Reioice and be mery, for great is youre rewarde in heauen. For so persecuted they the Prophetes before you.

The scholer is not aboue the maister, nor the seruaunte aboue hys Lorde. If they haue called the father of the housholde Belzebub, how much more shal they so cal them that are of his housholde. Math. x.

Be not afrayde of theym that kyl the body, but rather feare hym, which is able to destroy both body and soull in hell fyre.

Euery one that shal confesse me before men, I shal confesse him also before my father, whiche is in heauen. But whosoeuer shall denye me before men. I shal also deny him before my father that is in heauen.

Math. xxiiii. ye shall be hated of all men for my sake.

Mar. viii. Who soeuer wyll folowe me, let him forsake hym selfe, and take vp his crosse and folow me. For whosoeuer wyll saue his lyfe, shall loose it. But whosoeuer shall lose his lyfe for my sake and the Gospells the same shal saue it. For what shal it profyt a man, if he wyn al the world and lose his awn soule? Or what shal a man gyue to redeme his soul withal agayn? whosoeuer therfore shalbe ashamed of me and my wordes in this whorysshe and synfull generation, of hym also shall ỳ sonne of man bee ashameo when he cõmeth in the glorye of his Father wyth the holye Angels.

Ioan. xvi. The seruaunt is not greater then his Lorde. If they haue persecuted me, they wil also persecute you.

If the world hate you, know ye, that it hated me before you, If ye wer of the world, the world should loue that is his. But forasmuche as ye are not of the world, but I haue chosen you oute of the world, therfore doth the world hathe you.

Ioan. xvi. The tyme shall come that who so euer kylleth you wyll thynke that he doth God seruice.

Ye shall lamente and weepe, but the worlde shall reioyce.

In the world ye shal haue trouble, but be on a good comforte, I haue ouercome the worlde.

Rom. viiio If we suffer with Christ we shal also so be glorified together wit him.

I suppose that the afflictions of this lyfe, are not worthy of the glory whiche shalbe shewed vpon vs.

ii. Cor. i. Blessed be God the father of our Lorde Jesus Christe, whiche is ỳ father of mercy, and the God of al comfort, whiche comforteth vs in al our tribulacions.

As the afflictions of Christ are plenteous in vs, euen so is ouer consolacion plenteous by Christe.

ii. Cor. iiii. We are not wetied, but though our outwarde man perysshe, yet the inward man is renued day by day. For our trouble whiche is shorte & light, prepareth an exceedinge and an eternal waight of glory vnto vs, whyle we loke not on ỳ things which are sene, but on ỳ thinges which are not seene. For thinges which are seene, are temporal, but thinges which are not seene, are euerlasting.

ii. Cor. v. We knowe that if our earthy mansion of this dwellinge wer destroied, we haue a building of God, an habitacion not made with hands, but euerlasting in heauen.

Phil. i. Unto you it is geuen, not only to beleue in Christ but also to suffer for his sake.

ii. Tim. ii. Suffer afflictions as a good souldiour of Christe.

ii. Tim. ii. If we dye wyth Christe, we shall lyue with him. If we suffer wyth him, we also shal reygne wt̃ him, if we deny him, he wil also denye vs.

ii. Tim. iii. Al that wil lyue godly in Christe Jesu, shal suffer persecution.

i. Pet. ii. This is thãke worthy if a mã for conscięce toward God, endure grefe & suffer wrong vndeserued.

If

If when ye do wel ye suffer wrong and take it pacientlỹ, thē is there thanks with God. For herennto verely wer ye called.

Blessed ar ye if any trouble happen vnto you for ryghteousnes sake. i. Peter. iii.

Dearely beloued marueil not that ye are proued by fier (which thyng is to try you) as though some straunge thing hapned vnto you but reioyce in as much as ye are partakers of Chrystes passyon, that whē his glorye appeareth, ye maye be mery & glad. If ye be railed vpon, for the name of Chryst, happy are ye. For the glory & the spirite of God resteth vpon you. On their part he is euil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified. i. Peter. iiii.

If any man suffer as a Chrysten man let him not be ashamed, but let hym glorifie God in this behalfe.

Let them that be troubled accordyng to the wyl of God, commytte their soules to him with wel doing, as vnto a faithful creatour.

Jesus to sanctify the people with his own bloud, suffred without the gate. Let vs go forth therfore out of the tentes, and suffer rebuke wyth him. For here haue we no continuing city, but we seke one to come. Heb. xiii.

By many tribulations must we enter into the kyngdom of heauen. Act. xiiii.

The holy goost witnesseth in euery city, saying that bandes and trouble abyde me. But none of these things moue me, nether is my life dear vnto my selfe, that I might fulfil my course with ioy, and the ministracion of the word which I haue receiued of the Lord Jesu to testifye the gospel of the grace of God. Actes. xx.

I am ready not to be bounde onely, but also to dy for the name of the Lord Jesu. Actes. xxi.

Blessed are the dead, that dy in the Lord, euen so sayeth ỹ spirite that frō henceforth they rest frō their laboures. But their workes folow thē. Apo. xiiii.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Johan Baptist for trueth tellyng to kyng Herode, was cast into prison, and beheaded. Math. xiiii.

Jesus Christ our Lord and Sauiour after many blasphemyes, rebukes, slaunders and bitter tormentes, suffred the most spiteful deathe of the crosse, and so entered into glory. Math. xxvii.

The holy martir S. Stephen was stoned vnto death. Actes. vii.

James the brother of John was beheaded. Actes. xii.

What kindnes Peter and Paule with the other Apostles founde at the handes of them, whose saluacion they most diligently soughte, the historyes make mencion. Nether I he here speke of those blessed Martirs, which sence their dayes haue dyed for the confession of gods truth so that the gospel is not without a cause called of blessed Paule ỹ word of the crosse. i. Cor. i.

For al ỹ will liue godly in Christ Jesu, sayeth he, shal suffer persecuciō ii. Tim. iii.

I saw sayeth S. John vnder the altare the soules of them that wer kylled for the worde of God, and for the testimony which they had, and they cryed wyth a louds voice, saying how long taryest ỹ Lorde, holye Apo. vi.

and true to iudge and to auenge our bloud on them that be on ẏ earth And long white garmentes wer geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayd vnto them, that they should rest a litle season, til the number of their felowes and brethren, and of them that should be killed as they wer, wer fulfylled.

¶ Agaynst the temptacion which the faythful haue, whē they compare their miseries & wretchednes wyth the wealth, prosperity and pleasures of the swinishe & wycked worldlynges. Where thou also shalt see the miserable end of the vngodly.

IF Satan our olde aduersarye wyth his handmaid the flesh shal at any tyme moue thee to forsake God and his holy word, by considering the florishing and triumphant estate of the wicked worldlynges, and thē to much miserable, and base trade of the Lordes seruauntes and professoures of gods trueth, which liue in al kinde of misery, wretchednes and pouerty, and are piteously oppressed of the tirauntes of this world, when on the contrary parte the vngodly haue al thynges at their own pleasure, and liue at their hartes ease without disturbaunce for lacke of temporal thinges, consent not to his subtile assaultes, but manfully resist them, consideryng with thy selfe, that though the vngodly reigne in thys world, and haue the vppermost hande, yet shal their ende be miserable, whā the pore afflycted for godscause shal after their manifolde temptations be rewarded wyth perpetuall ioye and euerlastynge glorye. And that thou mayest be the more assuredly perswaded in these thynges, call to remembraunce these holy Scriptures folowyng.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Iob.xv. KNowest thou not this, that from the beginning euer since the creacion of man vpon earth, the prayse of the vngodly hath been shorte, and that the ioy of the Hypocrites hath continued, but the twincklinge of an eye? though he be magnified vp to the heauen, so ẏ hys head reach vnto the cloudes, yet he perysheth at the last lyke dounge, insomuch that they which haue sene him shal say, where is he? he vanisheth as a dreme so that he can no more be founde, and passeth awaye in a vision in the nighte, so that the eye whiche saw hym before, getteth now no sight of him, and his place knoweth him no more.

Iob.xxi. Wherfore do the wycked men liue in wealth and prosperitye, come to their old age, and encrease in ryches? Their childers childzen liue in their sight, and their generacion before their eyes. Their houses ar safe from all feare, for the rod of God doth not smite them. Their bullocke gendreth, and that not out of time, their cow calueth, and is not vnfruitfull. They sende their childzen forth by flockes, and the sonnes lede the daunce. They beare with them tabrets and harpes & haue instrumētes of musycke at theyr pleasure. They spende theyr dayes in welthynesse but sodenly they go down to hell Iere.xii. O Lord thou art more ryghteous then that I should dispute wyth thee.

Neuertheles let me talke wt thee in thyngs reasonable. How happeneth meth to, that the way of the vngodly is so prosperous: and that it goeth well with them which without any shame offende and liue in wyckednes? Thou plantest them, they take rote, they growe and bryng forth fruite. They bost much of thee, yet art thou far from their raines But thou Lord (to whom I am wel knowen) thou that hast sene and proued my hart, take them away lyke as a flock is caried to the slaughter house, and appoint them for the day of slaughter.

O Lord, how long shal I cry and thou wilt not heare? howe longe shal I complaine vnto thee, suffering wrong and thou wilt not helpe? why lettest thou me see werines and labour? Tyranny and violence are before me, power ouergoeth right, for the law is torne in peces, and there can no right iudgement go forth. And why? the vngodly is more set by the the righteous. This is the cause that wrong iudgement procedeth. Thine eies, O Lord are cleane, thou mayest not se euil, thou canst not behold the thing that is wicked. Wherfore the doest thou loke vpon the vngodly, and holdest thy tong, when the wicked deuoureth the man that is better the himself? Thou makest men as the fish of the Sea, and like as the creping beastes that haue no gide, they take vp al with their angle, they catch it in their net, and do sacrifice vnto their yarn, because that through it their portion is become so fat, and their meate so plenteous. Wherfore they cast out their net agayn & neuer cease to slaye the people. Aba.i. Iob.xi.

Like as the wine deceiueth the dronkard: euen so the proude shal fall and not endure.

Ful miserable, is the death of the vngodly, for they that hate the righteous shalbe plucked vp by the rote. Psal. xxxiiii.

Freat not thy selfe at the vngodly, be not thou enuious againste the euil doers. For they shal sone be cut down like the grasse, and be withered euen as the grene herbe. Greue not thy self at one that hath prosperity and liueth in abhominacion. Leaue of from wroth, let go displesure let not thy gelously moue thee also to do euill. For wicked doers shal be roted out, but they that patiently abide the Lord, shal enheryte the land. Suffer yet a litle while, and the vngodly shalbe cleane gone, thou shalte loke after his place, and he shal be away. Psal. xxxvii.

Reade forth the Psalme, and marke it well.

Wherefore thus arrogantly magnifiest thou thy selfe at all tyme, O mischeuous tirant? wherfore enforceth thy tong mischief, forginge discreate like a newe set Rasoure? wherfore louest thou malice rather then honesty, rather to lye then to say trueth? For thou delightest in all maner of pernicious speach, oh thou disceitfull tonge. Wherfore God shall vtterly rende thee vp by the rotes and destroy thee, and he shall throwe thee down out of the tabernacle, and plucke thy rotes of the land of the liuing. Psal.lii.

Rede diligently and marke wel the. lxxiii. Psalme which altogether belongeth vnto thys matter.

Wo be to the proude wealthy in Sion, euen to such e as thynke them selues Amos. vi.

selues so sure vpon the mounte of Samaria, whiche holde themselues for the best of the world, and rule the house of Israel at their own pleasure. Ye are taken out for the euil day, euen ye that sit in the stole of wilfulnes: ye that lye vpon beds of Iuory and ble youre wantonnes vpon your couches, ye that eate the best Lambes of the flocke and the fattest calues of the droue, ye that sing to the Lute, & in playing of instrumẽts compare your selues vnto Dauid, ye that drinke wine out of gobletes, and annoint your selues with the best oyle, but no man is sorye for Josephes hurt. Therfore shal ye now be the first of them, that shalbe led away captiue, and the lusty there of the wilfull shall come to an ende.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

Gene.iiii. CAin the figure of al wicked and bloudy tyrauntes, slew his brother Abel, and while he liued he was a run agate, and a vagabound hauing an vnquiete consticence, and now beyng dead he is a damned soul in hell.

Gene.vi. vii. The tiraumtes and mighty giauntes with al the world besides viii persons wer drowned, after they had liued long in pleasure and in all the filthy desires of the wicked flesh without repentaunce.

Gene.xix. The filthy Sodomites liued in all kind of voluptuous abhominacyon, the conclusion was that they wer consumed with fier and brimston from heauen.

Exo.xiiii. Pharao handled the people of God very cruelly entendyng vtterlye to destroy them all, but the ende was, that both he and al his army wer drowned in the sea, and the people of Israel harmeles preserued.

Iud.iiii. Sisara and Abimelech being greuous enemies of gods people, were slayn of women.

Iudi.xiii. Holofernes for al his proude lokes entending to destroy the Israelites, was slain hymself of a woman.

i.Reg.xxxi. Saule persecuted Dauid the seruaut of God, entendyng to slea him but Dauid escaped, and Saul was slain with the sword.

ii.Reg.xvii. Achitophel remembryng what wicked counsel he had geuen Absolõ against his father Dauid, and perceiuing that it would not come to pas (so mighty is God to destroy the wicked councels of the vngodlye) he went home and hanged himselfe.

ii.Reg.xviii. Absolon pursuing and seking his fathers death, in the mids of his fury was hanged, by the heare of hys head on a tree, and so dyed.

iii.Reg.ii. Joab was slain, because he killed two good mẽ, euẽ Abner & Amasa.

iii.Reg.xv. The house of Hieroboam because he made Israel to sin, was destroied by the sword of Baasa king of Israel.

iiii.Reg.ix. Quene Jezabel ỹ great enemy of the seruauntes & Prophetes of the Lord, was throwen down hedlong out of an hie window, and troden down with horses fete, and at the last deuoured and eaten vp of dogs.

iiii.Reg.x. Jehu slue the house of Achab for the Prophetes that were slayne.

ii.Para.xxiiii King Joas was slain of his own seruauntes, because he slewe Zachary the son of the hie Priest Joiada, without a cause.

The

The wycked kyng Sedechias, which so cruelly handled the Pro- iiii.Reg.xxv.
phet Hieremy, had both his eies put out, and beyng fettered wyth chenes of Iron, he was caryed pryloner into Babilon, where he miserably dyed.

Amon that most proud accuser and inuentour of mischiefes, against Hester.vii.
the Iewes, preparing a paire of Galowes for good Mardocheus that faythful Israelite, was hanged vpon them him selfe.

They that accused Daniel to the kynge and soughte his death, were Dani.vi.
cast into the doungeon, and deuoured of the Lions.

The vngracious and wycked Iudges, which sought the death of ỹ Dani.xiii.
godly woman Susan, wer slain themselues.

Andronicus, which slew that good man Onias, was slain himselfe. ii.Mach.iiii.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

WO be to you that are ryche that haue therin your consolacion. Luke.vi.
Wo be to you that are ful, for ye shal honger. Wo be to you ỹ nowe laugh, for ye shal waile and wepe. Wo be to you, whē al men shal praise you, for so did their fathers to the false Prophetes.

Many walke of whom I haue tolde you often, and now I tell you Phi.iii.
weping, that they are the enemyes of the crosse of Christ, whose end is damnacion, whose God is their belly, and whose glory is their shame which are worldly minded.

Go to nowe ye ryche men, wepe and houle on your wretchednesses ỹ Iacob.v.
shal come vpon you. Your ryches is corrupt, your garmentes ar moth-eaten, your gold and syluer is cankered, and the rust of them shall be a wytnes vnto you, and shal eate your flesshe as it wer fyre. &c.

I hard a voice from heauen saying: O my people come awaye from Apo.xviii.
Babilon that great whore and myghty strompet, the mother of the ab-hominacions of the earth. Come away, I say from her, that ye be not partakers of her synnes, that ye receiue not of her plages, for her sinnes are gon vp to heauen, and God hath remembred her wyckednes. Reward her, as she rewarded you, and geue her double, according to her worke. And poure in double to her in the same cup, which she filled vnto you. And asmuch as she glorysyed her selfe & liued wantonly, so much poure ye in for her of punishment and sorow. For she said in her selfe: I sit beyng a Quene, and am no widow and shal see no sorow. Therfore shal her plages come at one day, death and sorow and honger, and she shalbe brent with fyer. For strong is the Lord God which iudgeth her.

Examples out of the new Testament.

THe rich and proude gloton, which was gorgiously apparelled, and Luke.xvi.
fared daintely euery day, and yet would haue no pity on the poore Lazare, dyed and was caryed into hell.

Iudas that betrayed Christ, hanged himselfe. Actes.i.

Herode which greatly vexed the congregacion of Christe, and slewe Acte.xii.
James the brother of Iohn, euen in the mids of his pompe and glorye was smitten down of the Lordes angel, and was eaten with wormes and so miserably perysshed.

Elimas

Actei.xiii. Elimas the ſorcerer and falſe Prophete reſiſted Paules preaching, but he therfore was ſtreight waies ſtryken blinde, through the mighty power of God.

¶ Agaynſt the moſt horrible and damnable ſyn, the ſyn agaynſt the holy goſt.

IF the Deuil, which ſeketh nothyng but thy deſtrucrion, laboure ſo to harden thy hart that thou conttary to thy knowledge euen of a pretenced and wylfull malyce ſhouldeſt impugne the trueth of Chryſtes goſpell, and perſecute the ſame in hys mẽbers, and ſo ſyn agaynſt the holy goſt, and blaſpheme the Lord thy God vnto the dãnacion both of thy body and ſoule, loke that aboue al thynges in thys behalfe thou leaneſt not vnto hys wycked temptacions, if thou tendereſt thyne owne ſaluacyon, but rather with all thy power reſiſt hym by callyng theſe holy Scriptures vnto thy remembraunce.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Teſtament.

Exo.xxxii. Leui.xxiiii. I wil put him out of the boke that ſinneth againſt me.

A man that ſpeaketh euill of hys God, ſhal beare his ſyn, & he that blaſphemeth the name of the Lord, let hym dye the death, al the people ſhall ſtone hym, whether he be a Citezin or a ſtraunger, what ſoeuerhe

i. Reg.ii. be, that blaſphemeth the name of the Lord, let hym dye the death.

If one man ſinneth agaynſt another, God maye be mercyfull vnto

Num.xv. hym: but if any man ſyn agaynſt God, who ſhal pray for hym?

The ſoule that doeth ought preſumptuouſly, whether he be an Iſraelite or a ſtraũger, the ſame blaſphemeth the Lord. And that ſoule ſhal be roted out from among hys people, becauſe he hath deſpyſed ỳ worde of the Lord, and hath broken his commaundement. That ſoule therefore ſhal peryſh, and hys ſyn ſhalbe vpon hym.

Pro.ii. Eſay.iii. They reioyce in doyng euill, and delight in wicked thinges.

They make boſt of their ſynnes themſelues as the Sodomites dyd and hide them not: Wo be vnto their ſoules, for they haue rewarded euel vnto themſelues. Bid the ryghteous do wel, for they ſhal enioy the Iere.vii. frutes of their ſtudy. But wo be vnto the vngodly and vnryghteouſſe. for they ſhallbe rewarded after their workes

Thou ſhalt not pray for this people, thou ſhalt nether geue thankes nor bid prayer for them. Thou ſhalt make no interceſſion to me for thẽ, Iere.xiiii. for in no wiſe wil I heare thee. Reade forth.

This ſaied the Lorde vnto me, thou ſhalt not praye to do this people good. For though they faſt, I wil not heare their prayers though they offer burnte offerynges and Sacrifices, yet wil not I accept thẽ. For I wil deſtroy them with the ſweard, and hunger and peſtilence.

¶ Examples out of the olde Teſtament.

iiii.Reg.ix. Iu.vi.&.xiiii THe ſeruauntes and all that army of the proude Senacheryb were deſtroyed for their blaſphemy agaynſt God.

Holofernes blaſphemed God, when he ſaid, that there was none other God of the earth, but Nabuchodonozor, and therfore was he after Dani.iii. warde and ſlain euen of a woman.

Nabuchodonozor blaſphemed God, when he ſayd to the three chyldren, dyen, who is the God that can delyuer you out of my handes?

The childzen of Israell blasphemed God, and therfore pearyshed, when they said to the Prophet Jeremy: as for the wordes that thou hast spoken vnto vs in the name of the lorde, we wil in no wise heare them: but what soeuer goeth out of our own mouthe that will we do, we will do sacrifice and offre oblacions vnto the Quene of heauē, like as we and our rulers haue don in the cities of Juda, and in the streates and fieldes of Jerusalem. For then had we plēteousnes of vitails, then wer we in prosperitie, and no misfortune came vppon vs. But sence we lefte to offer and to sacrifice vnto the Quene of heauē, we haue had scarnesse of all thinges, and pearushe with swoorde and honger. Iere. xliii.

Those Jewes blasphemed God, whych sayde, let vs go, and make a couenaunte wyth the heathen that are round about vs. For since we departed from them, we haue had sorow inough. i. Mach. i.

Nycanor blasphemed god when he sayde: is there a myghty one in heauen, that commaunded the Saboth day to be kept? It was answered, yea euen the lyuing God, that mighty Lorde in heauen commaunded the. vii. daye to be kepte. Then saide he: and I am migthy vpon erth, to commaund them for to arm them selues and to performe the kinges busines. i. Mach. xiii.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

HE that is not with me, is against me, saith Christe. And he that gathereth not w̄ me scattreth abrode. Therfore I say vnto you, all manner of synne and blasphemy shalbe forgeuen vnto men, but ỹ blasphemy against the spirite shal not be forgeuē vnto mē. And whosoeuer speaketh a word against the sonne of man, it shal be forgeuen him. But whosoeuer speaketh against the holy ghost, it shal not be forgeuē hym, neyther in this world, nor in the world to come. Math. xii.

If any mā se his brother synne not vnto deathe, let him aske & he shal geue him lyfe, for them that synne not vnto death. There is a synne vnto death, for whiche I say that a man should not praye. i. Ioan. v.

It may not be, that they whych wer once lightened and haue tasted of the heauenly gyfte, and wer becomepartakers of the holy ghost and haue tasted of the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come, if they fall away, that they should agayn be renued by repentaunce, whiche in them selues dooe crucifie the sonne of God makyng a mocke of hym. Heb. vi.

If we synne wilfully after that we haue receiued the knowledge of truthe, there remaineth no more sacrifice for synnes, but a fearfull lokyng for iudgemente, and vyolente fyre whyche shall deuoure the aduersaries. He that despyseth Moses lawe, dieth withoute mercy vnder two or three wytnesses. Howe much sorer suppose ye, shall he be punyshed, whiche treadeth vnderfote the sonne of God, and counteth the bloude of the Testament, where wyth he was sanctified, as an vnholy thyng, and bothe dishonour to the spirit of grace. Heb. x.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Luke.xi. The Iewes spake blasphemy agaynst ỳ holy ghost, when they saied of Christe: by ỳ power of Belzebub doth he cast out Deuils.

Math.xxvii. They wer blasphemers whyche sayd to Christ hangynge on the Crosse, thou that destroyest the temple of God, and buyldest it agayn in.iii.dayes, saue thy selfe. If thou be the sonne of God, come downe from the crosse. They also speake blasphemy agaynst the holy ghost, whyche nowe a dayes of a pretensed malyce condemne the worde of God as heresye, and persecute the preachers therof as heretikes and seditious persons.

¶ Agaynst the despisynge of Goddes worde, and of the plages that folow the same.

IF the deuel go about to pluck downe thy mynde from the loue of Goddes worde and to moue thee to despise the doctrine of thy saluacion, so that thou shuldest no more delighte in the moste comfortable Gospell of Christe, whyche is the power of God to saue so many as beleue, but rather in thyngs of vanytie, take heede that thou leanest not vnto hys suttle suggestions, but stand ynge in awe of Goddes iudgementes, and fearynge hys plages, valeantly resyste Sathan wyth these holye scryptures folowyng.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Leui.xxvi. YF ye wyl not harken vnto me sayth the Lorde, nor keepe my commaundements, but despise them. &c. then wil I do thys agayn vnto you. I wil set my face against you, & ye shall fall before your enemies, & they that hate you, shall raigne ouer you. I wyl make the heauē ouer you as harde yron, & your lād as hard as bras. I wyll send my wilde beastes vpon you whyche shall rob you of your children, and destroy your cattell. I wyll sende a swerde vpon you, that shall auenge my testament with you. I wyll sende the pestilence among you. Reade the chapter to the ende.

Deut.xxviii. If thou wylt not hearken to the voyce of the Lord thy God to kepe and to do al his commaundementes & ordinaunces, then al the curses shall come vpō thee, and ouertake thee. Cursed shalt thou be in ỳ town and cursed in ỳ fielde, cursed shal thine almayrie be and thy store. Cursed shal the frute of thy body and the fruite of thy land be, and ỳ fruyte of thine oxen and the flocke of thy shepe, The Lorde shal make the pestilence cleaue to thee, vntill he haue consumed thee from the land, the Lord shall smyte thee with madnes blyndnes and dasyng of hearte, because thou seruedest not the lord thy God with ioyfulnes and wyth a good hart for the aboundaunce of al thyngs, therfore thou shalt serue thyne enemy which ỳ lord shal send vpon thee in hūger & thurst, in nakednes and in nede of al thinges, & he shal put a yocke of yron vpon thy necke, vntyll he haue brought the to nought. Reade this chapter dilygentlye from the begynnynge vnto the ende.

They

They haue cast awaye the lawe of the Lorde of hostes, and haue blasphemed the word of the holy one of Israel. Therfore is the wrath of the lord kindled against his people and he shaketh his hand at them yea he shal smyte so that the hils shall tremble. And theyr carcasses shal lye in the open strete. Esay. v.

They haue offended the lawe, chaunged the ordynaunces, and made the euerlasting testament of none effect. And therfore shall the curse deuour the earth for they ẏ dwell thereon haue sinned, wherfore they shalbe brẽt allo, & those that remayne shalbe very few. The swete wine shal morn, the grapes shalbe weake, and all that haue bene mearye in hart, shall sighe. The mirth of Tabrets shall be layde down, the there of the ioyful shal cese, & the pleasure of the lutes shal haue an end. There shall no more wine be dronke with myrth, the bere shall be bytter to them that drinck it, the wicked cities shall be broken downe, all houses shall be shut, that no man may come in. Esay. xxiiii.

Wo is me, sayth the Prophet: all is ful of sinners, which offend of purpose and malice. And therfore (O thou that dwellest vpon ẏ erth) there is at hand for thee, fear, pit and snare. Who so escapeth the terryble cry, shall fal into the pit. And if he com out of the pit, he shall be take with the snare. For the windowes aboue shall be opened, and the foũdacion of the earth shall moue. The earth shall geue a greate crack, it shal haue a sore ruin and take an horrible fall. The earthe shall stacker like a dronken man, and be takẽ awaye lyke a tent. Her misdeedes shal light so heauye vpon her, ẏ she must fal and neuer rise vp again. Read the whole chapter. Esaye. xxiiii.

These people are obstinate they prouoke me vnto anger, they are lying chyldren, and euen suche chyldren that wyll not heare the lawe of God. They say to them that se, se nothyng and to the southsayer, tel of nothynge for to come, if it be eyther good or honest, but speake pleasaũt thyngs vnto vs, and preache vs falle thynges. Treade out of the way, go out of the path, turne away the holy one of Israell from vs. Therfore thus sayth the holy one of Israell, forasmuche as ye haue cast awaye hys worde, and haue comforted your selues wyth power and nymblenes and put your confidence therein, therfore shall ye haue this mischyef agayn for your destruccion, and fall lyke an hye wall that falleth, because of some ryfte or blaste, whose breakyng commeth sodelye. And your destruction shall bee lyke an arthen potte whyche breaketh, no man toucinge it but breaketh so sore that a man, shall not fynde a sheue of it to fet the fyre in, or to take water oute of the pyt. For the Lorde God euen that holye one of Israell hathe promysed thys. Esay. xxx.

Who suffered Jacob to be troden vnderfote, & Israel to be spoyled? was it not ẏ lord him self against whom we haue sinned? we had no delight to walke in his waies, neither wer we obbedient to his lawes. Therfore hath he poured vpõ vs his wrathfull displeasure and straũge Esaye. xlii.

battail, which maketh vs haue to do on euery syde, yet will we not vnderstand. He burneth vs vp, yet synketh it not into our hartes.

Iere. ix. Because they haue forsaken my lawe that I gaue them and haue not herd my voyce, nor yet walked therafter but followed the wickednes of theyr own hartes, and runne after straunge gods, as theyr fathers taughte them. Therfore thus sayth the Lorde of hostes, the God of Israell: beholde I wyll feede this people wyth wormewode, and geue them gall to drynke, I wyl scatter them amonge the Heathen, whom nether they nor theyr fathers haue knowen. And I will send a sweard among them to persecute them and neuer leaue vntil I bringe them to noughte.

Iere. vii. If ye wyll not obey me, sayth the Lord to walk in my lawes which I haue geuen you, and to heare the woordes of my seruauntes the Prophets whom I sent vnto you, risynge vp timely and stil sendyng. If ye wyll not folowe them, I say, then wil I do vnto this house as I did vnto Sylo, and wil make this citye to be abhorred of al the people of the earth.

Iere. xxix. I wyll sende vpon them, sweard, hōger, and pestilece, because they haue not my words, which I sent to them, sayeth the Lorde by my seruauntes the Prophets.

Zacha. vii. They wold not take hede saith the lorde, but turned their backe and stopped theyr eares, that they should not heare. Yea they made theyr hearte as an Adamante stone, leaste they should heare the lawe and words which ỹ Lord of hooستes sent in his spirit by ỹ Prophetes afore tyme. Wherfore the lord of hostes was very wroth at them. And thus it came to pas, that lyke as he spake and they would not heare, euen so they cryed and I wold not heare, sayth the lord of hostes.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

Gene. vii. NOhe preached to the olde worlde and exhorted them to repēte and amende theyr lyfe, or els God wold surely plage them. But they laughed Nohe and his doctrine to scorne, and cōtinued in theyr abhominable, and wicked lyuing. What followed? was not all the worlde drowned, eight persons onely excepted?

Gene. xix. Lot seynge the vnnaturall most fylthy vncleanes of the synkyng Sodomites, counselled them to cease so to muche lycenciously to offende theyr Lorde God. They wolde nor hear Lot, nor hys Sermons, but churlyshly entreated hym. What followed? wer they not consumed wyth water, fyre and brimstone from heauen? O most dredefull plages.

After what sorte the Israelites wer plaged for theyr disobedience to Gods word, the bokes of the old Testament do euidently declare.

The despysers of Gods word ar punyshed many and sundry waies, as with sword, Pestilence, hunger, wild beastes and fyre.

¶ Of the sweard.

Reade

Reade.Gro d.5.Leuit.26.Deut.22.Job.19.Esa.1.Jere.9.15.20.25.29.42.43.46.50.

Of the Pestilence.

Reade.Exo.5.Leu.26.Deut.28.32.1.Reg.14.Psalm.104.1.Para.22.Ezechi.7.14.18.33.23 38.Math.24.

Of Honger.

Reade.Deut.28.32.1 Reg.24.Psal.104.Eccle.39.Jere.11.14.18 54.Amos.8.Iet.1.Apoc.18.

Of Beastes.

Reade.Leuit.26.Deut.22.1.Reg.17.3.Reg.13.Sapien.16.Esa.18.Jere.11.15.27.34.Ezechiel.4.5.14.29 32.39.Ose 2.

Of Fyre.

Reade.Gene.19.Leu.10 Nume.11.16.21 Deut 3.Josue 7.3.Reg.18.2.Par.7.Job.1.15 20.31.Psalm.10 87.Esaye.9.26.66.Jeremy.15.17.Thren.1.2.Baruch 4.Ezechiel.22.28.30.38 39.Daniel.3.Ose.8.Amos.1.2.Abdi.1.Mich.6.Sopho.1.Nahum.3.Zacha.11.12.13.Apoc.9.11.18.19.20.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Whosoeuer shal not receyue you nor heare your Sermons, go ye out of that house or Cytie, & shake the dust of your feete. Verelye I saye vnto you, it shalbe more easy for the land of Sodome and Gomorre at the day of iudgement, then for that cytie. Math.x.

Wo be to the Corazin, wo be to the Bethsaida. For if the miracles which wer shewed in you, had bene done in Tyre & Sydon, they had repented longe agone in sakclothe & ashes. Neuertheless I saye vnto you, it shall be easier for Tyre and Sydon at the daye of Judgement then for you. And thou Capernaum, whiche art lyfte vp vnto heauen, shalte bee brought downe to hell. For if ỳ myracles, whyche haue bene done in thee, had bene shewed in Sodome, they had remayned vnto this daye. Neuertheles I saye vnto you: it shalbe easyer for the land of Sodome, in the day of iudgement, then for thee. Mach.xi.

The kyngdom of God shalbe taken from you, and shalbe geuen to a natiõ whiche shall bringe forth the fruites of it. And whosoeuer shal fall on this stone, he shalbe broken, but on whom soeuer it shall fall vpon it wyll grynde him to pouider. Math.xxi.

O Jerusalem, Jerusalem whyche kyllest the Prophetes, and stonest them whyche are sent to thee, how often woulde I haue gathered thy chyldren together, as the hen gathered hyr chickens vnder her wynges, and ye wold not? Beholde your habitacion shalbe lefte vnto you desolate. Math.xxiiii.

He that heareth you, heareth me: and he that despiseth you, despyseth me: and he that despyseth me, despyseth him that sent me. Luke.x.

This is the condemnacion that lyght is come into the worlde and men loued darkenes more then lyght because theyr dedes wer euyll. Ioan.iii.

He that refuseth me, sayth Christe and receyued not my wordes Ioan.xii.

hath one that iudgeth him. The word that I haue spoken, shall iudge him in the last daye.

Iohn.xv. If I had not come and spoken vnto them, they should haue had no syn, but now haue they nothyng to cloke theyr synne withall.

Act.xiii. It was mete that the worde of God should first haue bene preached vnto you, but seynge you put it from you, & thynke your selues vnworthye of euerlastinge lyfe, lo we turne to the gentiles, for so hath ỳ Lord commaunded vs.

i.Thes.iiii. He that despyseth the preacher despiseth not man, but God whyche hath sent his holy spirit among you.

Heb.x. He that despyseth Moses lawe, dieth without mercy vnder two or three witnesses. Of how muche sorer punyshemente suppose ye, shall he be counted worthye, whyche treadeth vnder fote the Sonne of God, and counteth the bloud of the Testament as an vnholye thinge? Uerelye it is a fearfull thynge to fall into the handes of the lyuynge God.

Apoc.ix. The vngodlye shall be so plaged, that they shal seke death, and shall not fynde it, they shal desyre to dye, and death shall flye from them.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Matth.xxii. They that wer called to ỳ mariage and would not come but vngētly treated the messengers, wer destroyed and theyr cytie brent vp.

Luke.xix. When Christe came neare to Ierusalem, he beheld the cytie and wepte on it, sayinge: if thou knewest also euen at this day, the thinges appertainyng vnto thy peace, thou woldest more be diligente to loke vppon them. But now are they hid from thine eies. For the daies shall come vppon thee, that thyne enemyes shall cast a banke about thee, and besyege thee, and keepe thee in on euery syde, and make thee euen with the ground, wyth thy chyldren whyche are in thee. And they shal not leaue one stone vppon another, because thou knowest not ỳ tyme of thy visytacion.

Hereof may we learne that Ierusalem was destroied, because they woulde not receyue Christe nor his word, but despysed the doctrine of theyr saluacion, and the preachers of the same. If we do not repent and amend, the same or more greuous plages abyde vs.

Against carnall securitie and fleshly lyuyng without feare of God.

IF Sathan tempteth the to lyue after the lustes of the flesh without al feare of God and to take no thought for thy saluacio, that by this meanes he may prouoke thee vnto al kynde of wickednes, looke that thou by no meanes geuest place to his tẽptacions, but rather watche the more dilygently about thyne owne healthe, and that he may not preuaile against thee, enarme thy selfe with strong faith, and alway set before thyne eyes these scriptures folowyng.

Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Psal.lxix. Seke after God, and your soule shall lyue.

Esaye.lv. Seke ỳ Lord whyle he may be found, and call vpon hym whyle he is he is sik. Let the vngodly man forsake his own wayes, and the vnrighteous his own imaginacions, and turne again vnto the Lorde, so shall he be mercyful vnto him. &c.

Folow not the lust of thine owne harte in thy strength, and saye not Ecclesi. vo vnto him: I had strength for who wyl bring me vnder because of my workes: for doutles God shal auenge it. And say not: I haue committed no sinnes, and what euill hath happened to me. For y almighty is a patient rewarder. Because thy syn is forgeuen thee, be not therfore without feare, nether heape one sin vpon another. And say not: tush: the mercy of the Lord is great, he shal forgeue me my sinnes be they neuer so many. For like as he is mercyfull, so goeth wrath from him also, and his indignacion commeth down vpon synners.

Make no tarying to turne vnto the lord, and put not of from daye to day, for sodenly shal his wrath come, and in the tyme of vengeaunce he shal destroy thee.

A man knoweth not his tyme, but like as the fishes are taken wyth Eccle. ix.
the angle, and as the birdes are caught with the snare, euen so are men taken in the perillous time, when it commeth sodenly vpon them.

Let thy garmēts be alway white & let thine head lacke no ointmēt.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

The people to whom Noe preached, would not amende but went Gene. vii.
forth to nousle thēselues in al kynde of worldly pleasures, and euen in the mids of their riotous liuing, the floude came and drowned thē al.

The Sodomites laughing Lot and his exhortacions to scorne, and Gene. xix.
going forth to offend God wyth their to much beastlike voluptuousnes whan they thought themselues to be in most safegarde and furdest frō any misfortune, wer consumed vnto ashes w fire & brimston frō heauē.

The Jewes setting at nought the admonitions of gods prophetes cō iiii. Reg. xxvi tinued in al their wickednes and euen in the mids of their carnal security and fleshly quietnes, God sent their enemies vpon them, which destroyed their country, slew a great nūber of people, and led away most miserable captiues so many as pleased them, leauing the residue behind them in most wretched slauery.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

Watch, for ye know not what houre your Lord wyll come. Of this be Math. xxiiii.
ye sure, that if the housholder knewe what houre the thiefe would come, he would surely watch and not suffer his house to be broken vp. Therfore be ye also ready, for in such an houre as ye thinke not, will the son of man come.

Watch and pray, that ye fal not into temptacion. Math. xxvi. Luke. xii.

Let your loynes be girde about, and your lightes be burning, & your selues like men that waite for their master, whan he wil returne frō the wedding, ỳ as sone as he cōmeth & knocketh, they may open vnto hym. Blessed ar those seruaūts, whō ỳ lord whā he cōmeth, shal find waking Take hede, watch and pray for ye know not whā ỳ time is: as a man Marke xiii.

whiche is gone into a straunge countrey, and hath left his house, and geuen his substaunce to his seruaūts and to euery man his worke and commaunded the Porter to watche. Watch yetherfore for ye know not whan the Mayster of the house wyll come, at euen or at midnight, at the cocketrowynge or in ỳ da woning, lest if he come sodenly, he fynde you sleepynge. And that I saye vnto you, I saye vnto all: watche.

Luke. xxi. Take hede to your selues, lest your hartes be greued with surfetynge and dronkenes and cares of the worlde, and that day come sodenly on you. For as a snare shall it come on all them that sit on the face of the earth.

Rom. xiii. It is euen nowe hye tyme that we wake out of sleepe.

ii. Cor. vi. Behold now is the accepted tyme, now is the day of health.

i. Thes. v. The day of ỳ lorde shall come euen as a thefe in ỳ night. When they shal saye peace & no daūger, thā cometh there on them sodē destruction, as ỳ trauaylyng of a woman with chylde, and they shall not escape.

Let vs not sleepe as other doo, but let vs watche and be sober.

Philip. iiii. The Lorde is at hand.

Iacob. v. Be pacient and setle your hartes, for the commyng of the Lorde draweth nye. Beholde the iudge standeth before the dore.

i. Peter. v. Be sober and watche, for your aduersary the Deuil walketh about lyke a rorying Lion, seaking whom he may deuoure, whom resist being stedfast in faith.

ii. Pet. iii. The day of the Lord shall come as a thefe in the nyght.

i. Iohn, ii. Litle children, euen nowe is the laste tyme.

Heb. x. Yet a lytle whyle, and he ỳ shal come, wil come, and wil not tary.

Apo iii. If thou shalt not watche, I wyll come on the as a thefe, and thou shalt not knowe, what houre I wyll come vpon thee.

Beholde I come shortlye. Holde that which thou haste that no man take away thy crowne.

Behold I stād at ỳ dore & knock, If any man hear my voice & open ỳ dooze, I wil come into him, & will suppe with him, and he with me.

Apo. xxii. The time is at hand. He that doth euill, let him do euil still. And he which is fylthy, let hym be fylthy stil. And he that is righteous, let him be more righteous. And he that his holye let him be more holye. And beholde I come shortlye, and my rewarde with me, to geue euery man accordynge as his dedes shalbe.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Math. xxiiii. That seruaunt ỳ diligētli watcheth at al houres for his maisters cōmynge, & doth in the meane season such things as his master hath appointed him, is blessed: for he shal enter into his masters ioy. But the seruant, that liueth without care, is idel, watcheth not, loketh not diligently vpō his office, thincketh not of his maisters commyng, smiteth his felowes, eateth and drincketh with the dronken, that seruaunte, I saye, shal haue his parte with Hipocrites, & shall bee caste into vtter darknes, where weppng and gnashyng of teth shalbe.

The

The fiue wise virgins prepared both lampes and oile, tarying and watching for the comming of the bridegrome. Therfore when he came they being in a redines, went in with him vnto the wedding. But the fiue folish virgins slombred and slept, so that when the bridgrome came they wer vnprepared and had no oile in their lampes, and therfore wer they shut out of the dores, and entred not into the mariage. Let vsther fore watche, for we know nether the day nor the houre, when the sonof man shal come. Matt.xxv.

¶ Agaynst the slackenes of doing good workes.

IF that suttle Satan by his easy perswasions would at any tyme make thee beleue, that thou art so throughly iustifyed by fayth alone, & so perfectly saued by Christ only, that thou nedest not do any good workes nor yet bryng forth the fruites of fayth accordyng to thy profession, but liue as thou lust, and doe what thou wylte so at theful art thou saued through fayth in Chryst, take hede thou bee not deceiued with this painted visar, but rather to the vttermost of thy power, labour to cõfirme thy fayth wyth the plenteous doing of good workes, working thyne owne saluacion as blessed Paule sayeth wyth feare and tremblyng. And that thou mayest be the better encouraged so to do, set these Sentences and examples of the holy Sctiptures euer before the eies of thy mynde. Phi.ii.

¶ Examples oute of the olde Testament.

I Am the almighty God, walke before me and be perfect. Gene.xviii.

Kepe the commaundementes of the Lord thy god, and his witnesses and hys couenauntes which he hath cõmaunded thee, and do thou that which is acceptable and good in the syght of the Lorde that thou mayest prosper. Deu.vi.

Nowe Israell, what doeth the Lorde thy God require of thee, but to fere the Lord thy God, and to walke in all his wayes, to loue hym, and to serue the Lorde thy God withall thyne harte, and withall thy soule, namely that thou kepe the commaundementes of the Lord and his ordinaunces that thou mayest do wel and prosper. Deu.x.

The faythfull man is like a tree planted by the water syde, that wyl bryng forth his fruite in dew season. Psal.i.

Thou hatest al them (O Lord) that worke iniquity. Psal.v.

Lord who shal dwel in thy tabernacle? who shal rest vpon thy holye hil? Euen he that ledeth an vncorrupt lyfe & worketh ryghteousnes. &c. Psal.xv.

Reade the whole Psalme. Psal. xxxiiii.

Depart from euil and do good. Psal. xxxvii.

But thou thy trust in the Lord, and be thou doing good.

Cese to do euil, lerne to do good. Seke to do right, deliuer the oppressed, helpe the fatherles to hys ryght, defende the widow. &c. Esay.i.

Breake thy breade to the hongry, the nedy, and the waykaryng man leade thou into thy house. When thou seest a naked mã, couer him, and hide not thy face from thy neighboure. &c. Esay.lviii.

¶ Examples oute of theolde Testament.

Nohe

Gene.vi. vii. NOhe was perfecte and iuſt in his generacions, and walked with God, that is to ſay beleued in God, loued God, feared God, ſought the glory of God, and framed his lyfe accordyng to the wil of God, beyng plenteous in all good and godly workes, therfore God preſerued him and his, when he drowned all ſuch as were wicked perſons and doers of no good workes.

Gene.xvii. Abraham was obedient to the wil of God, and walked after his holy commaundement, euer doing good workes. God therfore merueloufly bleſſed him, made him the father of many nacions and promiſed him that in his ſede al kinreds ſhould be bleſſed.

Iohn.iii. God ſaw the workes of the Niniuites (which vndoubtedly ſprange of fayth, for they beleued the wordes of the Prophete) and he had pitye on them, and ſpared them.

Sentences out of the new Teſtament.

Math.iii. NOw is the axe put to the rote of the trees. Euery tree therfore that bryngeth not forth good frutes, is hewen downe & caſt into the fyre.

Math. v. Let your light ſo ſhine before men, ỹ they may ſee your good workes and glorify your father which is in heauen.

Math.vii. Euery good tree bryngeth forth good frute. An euil tree bringeth euil frute.

A good tree cannot bryng forth euil frute nor an euil tree good frute. Euery tree that bringeth not forth good fruite, is hewē down, and caſt into the fier.

Math.vii. Whoſoeuer heareth of me theſe wordes and doth the ſame, I wil liken him vnto a wiſe man, which built his houſe vpon a rocke. &c.

Math.xii. A good man oute of the good treaſure of his harte, bryngeth foorth good things, and an euil man out of that euil treaſure, bryngeth foorth euill thinges.

Iohn.viii. Ifye wer Abrahams children, ye would do Abrahams workes.

Iohn.ix We know that God heareth no ſinners, but if any mā be a worſhipper of god and obedient to his wyl, him heareth he.

Iohn.xiiii. He that hath my commaundementes and kepeth them, he it is that loueth me. If any man loueth me he wil kepe my wordes. &c.

Rom.ii. In the ſight of god they are not righteous which heare the law, but the doers of the law ſhalbe iuſtified.

Ephe.ii. We are the workemanſhip of god created in Chriſt Ieſu vnto good workes, which god hath prepared, that we ſhould walke in them.

Ephe.iiii. Be ye renewed in the ſpirite of your mindes, and put on ỹ new man which after the image of god, is ſhapen in righteouſnes & true holines Coloſ.i. Walke worthy of the Lord in al thinges that pleaſe, beyng frutefulin al good workes, and encreaſing in the knowledge of god.

ii.Theſ.iiii. Brethren, be not wery in wel doing.

i.Timo.iiii. Be to them that beleue an example in word, in conuerſacion, in loue in ſpirite, in fayth, and purenes.

i.Tim.vi. Thou which art the man of god, folow righteouſnes, godlines, loue, pacyence, patience and meknes.

The sure grounde of God remayneth and hath this seale. The Lord knoweth them that are hys: and let euery man, that calleth on the name of Chryst, depart from iniquity. ii. Tim. ii.

Lustes of youth lohe thou auoide, and folowe righteousnesse, fayth, lone, and peare, wyth them that call on the Lord wyth a pure hart.

Dearely beloued I besech you as straungers and pilgrimes, abstain from fleshly lustes, which fyght agaynst the soule. And see that ye haue honest conuersacion among the heathen, that they which backbite you as yll doers, may see your good workes and prayse god in the day of visitacion. i. Pet. ii.

If we say we haue felowshyp with god, and yet walke in darknes, we lye and do not the trueth. But if we walke in light, euen as he is in light, then haue we felowship with him, and the bloud of Jesu Chryste hys son maketh vs cleane from all syn. i. Iohn. i.

He that doth ryghteousnes, is ryghteous. He that committeth syn, is of the deuil, for the deuill synneth from the begynning. i. Iohn. iii.

Be ye be doers of ỳ word & not hearers only, deceauyng your selues. Iacob. i.

Reade the whole Epistle of S. James.

God sayeth to the false and fayned Chrystians. I know the blasphemy of them which cal themselues Jewes and are not, but are the Synagoge of Satan. Apoca. ii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testamente.

The idle wer reproued because they wrought not, and they ỳ would labour, wer hired into the vineyarde, and at nighte receiued theyr reward. Math. xx.

The seruauntes which receiued talentes of their Lord and occupied them, and gayned mo by them, ar praysed and rewarded for wel doyng. But the idle seruaunt, which would not occupy the talent that he receiued of hys Lord but went and hid it in the grounde, gaining nothyng therwith, was cast into vtter darknes, where weepyng and gnashyng of teeth is. Math. xxv.

The fig tree, which was vnfruteful, and brought forth nothyng but leaues, was cursed and withered away. Marke. xi.

Zache a ruler among the Publicanes gaue halfe hys goods to the poore, & if he did any man wrong, he restored him foure tymes as much. Therfore sayd Chryst vnto him: this day is health come to this house, for asmuch as he also is become the childe of Abraham. Luke. xix.

¶ Agaynst the troublous tempestes of sycknes, of losse of goods, or any other kynde of aduersity.

IF Sathan when thou arte assailed with any kinde of trouble, laboureth to moue thee to despaire of goddes good wyll towarde thee, as thoughe he had vtterlye forsaken the geuen thee ouer, and care no more for thee, but sendeth thee that punyshmente, and layeth that crosse vppon thy backe as a token of hys anger and heauye displeasure agaynste thee, take hede that thou doeste not submytte thy selfe to hys suttle suggestyons, but rather perswade thy self that thy crosse

Vvhat

Vvhatsoeuer it be commeth of the good wil of God towarde thee, and is sente vnto thee for thy health, comfort and saluacion. Loke that thou therfore take it both paciently and thankfully and that thou mayest so do, furnish thy brest with these treasures of Gods most blessed worde.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

Deu.v. After the Lord hath punished thee, and tried thee, at the last he will haue pity on thee.

i.Reg.ii. The Lord killeth and maketh aliue, bringeth down to the graue and fetcheth vp again. The Lord maketh poore, and maketh riche, bryngeth low, and heueth vpon hie.

Psal.l. Cal vpon me in the time of thy trouble, and I will deliuer thee, and thou shalt honor me.

Psal.xciiii. Blessed is that man whom thou nurturest O Lord, and teachest him thy law.

Psal.cxix. It is for my wealth that thou hast brought me vnder, ꝑ I may lerne thy righteousnes.

Iob.i. Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, and naked shall I turne thither againe. The Lord gaue and the Lord hath taken awaye, euen as it hath pleased the Lord, so is it come to pas, blessed be the name of the Lord.

Iob.ii. If we haue receiued prosperity at the hand of God, why shoulde we not also receiue and suffer aduersity?

Iob.v. Blessed is the man, whom God punisheth, therfore refuse not thou ꝑ chastening of the almighty. For though he make a woūde, he geueth a plaister, though he smite, his hande maketh whole agayne.

Pro.iii. My son despise not the chastening of the Lord, neyther fainte when thou art rebuked of him. For whom the Lord loueth, him he chasteneth and yet deliteth in hym, as a father in his own son.

Eccle.ii. What soeuer happeneth vnto thee, receiue it, suffer in heauines and be patient in thy trouble. For lyke as golde and siluer are tryed in the fier, euen so are acceptable men in the fornace of aduersity.

¶ Examples oute of the olde Testament.

Iob.i. Iob beyng greuously plaged not onely with the losse of hys goods, but also with diuers diseases of hys body, prayed the Lord euē in the mids of his trouble.

Tobi.ii. Toby when he had lost his sight, grudged not agaynst God, that the plage of blindnes chaunsed vnto him, but remayned stedfast in the fere of God, and thanked God al the dayes of hys lyfe.

iiii.Reg.xx. Ezechias beyng warned of God by the Prophet to prepare himselfe vnto death, prayed vnto God in the tyme of his sicknes, and obtayned fiftene yeares longer to liue.

ii.Para.iii. Manasses being afore an Idolatoure and a maynteiner of Idolatry after that God had plaged him, euen when he was in tribulacion, besought the Lord hys God, and humbled himselfe exceadingly before the God of hys fathers, and made intercession to him, god heard his praier

and

and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kyngdom.

Sentences out of the new testament.

YF any man wyll come after me, let him forsake himselfe and take his cros, and folowe me. Math.xvi.

By many tribulacions must we enter into the kyngdom of heauen. Act.xiiii.

We reioyce in tribulacion. For we know that tribulation bringeth Rom.v. experience, experience bringeth hope, & hope maketh not ashamed.

If we suffer together, we shal be glorifyed together For I suppose Rom.viii. that the afflictions of this lyfe ar not worthy of the glory whych shall be shewed vpon vs.

Be pacient in tribulacion. Rom.xii.

If we lyue, we lyue to be at the Lordes wil And if we die, we die at Rom.xiiii. the Lordes wil. Whether we lyue therfore or dy, we are the lordes.

While we ar punished, we are corrected of the lorde, least we shuld i.Cor.xi. with this world be condempned.

We are not weryed, but though our outwarde man perysshe, yet the ii.Cor.iiii. inwarde man is renewed day by daye. For our exceadinge tribulatiō, which is short and light, prepareth an exceading & euerlasting waight of glory vnto vs while we loke not on the things which ar sene, but on the thynges which are not sene For thynges which are sene, are temporall, but thinges which are not sene, are eternall.

Reade the fyfte Chapter of the seconde to the Corinth.

My strength is made perfecte throughe weakenesse. Very gladly ii.Cor.xi. therfore wil I reioyce of my weakenes that the strēgth of Christ may dwell in me. &c.

Reade the.xii.chap. to the Hebrues.

Be pacyent and settle your heartes, for the commyng of the Lorde Iacob.v. draweth nye.

Take the Prophetes for an example of sufferynge aduersytie, and of longe pacience, whyche spake in the name of the Lorde. Behold, we count them happy whiche endure. We haue hearde of the pacience of Job, and haue knowen what ende the Lorde made. For the Lorde is very pytefull and mercifull.

The Lorde knoweth how to deliuer the godly out of temtacion. ii.Pet.ii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

THe prodigal sonne before he was plaged, gaue his mynde to al kind Luke.xv. of ryot & vnthrifty rule, but after that he was striken with pouertie, he knowledged his faute, submitted him selfe to his fathers will and pleasure, and so was receiued agayn into fauoure.

A certain man after he had bene punyshed with sycknesse for hys Ioan.v. synne by the space of xxxviii. yeares, was made whole of Christe.

Ther haue ben many good men both in the old & newe Testament Heb.xi. whom some wer racked and would not bee deliuered, that they might receiue a better resurrection: some tasted of mockinges & scourginges, some of bondes and emprisonemēt, some wer stoned, some wer hewen

Gene. vi. vii. NOhe was perfecte and iust in his generacions, and walked with God, that is to say beleued in God, loued God, feared God, sought the glory of God, and framed his lyfe accordyng to the wil of God, beyng plenteous in all good and godly workes, therfore God preserued him and his, when he drowned all such as were wicked persons and doers of no good workes.

Gene. xvii. Abraham was obedient to the wil of God, and walked after his holy commaundement, euer doing good workes. God therfore meruelously blessed him, made him the father of many nacions and promised him that in his sede al kinreds should be blessed.

Ione. iii. God saw the workes of the Niniuites (which vndoubtedly sprange of fayth, for they beleued the wordes of the Prophete) and he had pitye on them, and spared them.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Mat. iii. NOw is the axe put to the rote of the trees. Euery tree therfore that bryngeth not forth good frutes, is hewen downe & cast into the fyre.

Mat. v. Let your light so shine before men, ỹ they may see your good workes and glorify your father which is in heauen.

Mat. vii. Euery good tree bryngeth forth good frute. An euil tree bringeth euil frute.

A good tree cannot bryng forth euil frute nor an euil tree good frute. Euery tree that bringeth not forth good fruite, is hewē down, and cast into the fier.

Mat. vii. Whosoeuer heareth of me these wordes and doth the same, I wil liken him vnto a wise man, which built his house vpon a rocke. &c.

Mat. xii. A good man oute of the good treasure of his harte, bryngeth foorth good things. and an euil man out of that euil treasure, bryngeth foorth euill thinges.

Iohn. viii. Ye wer Abrahams children, ye would do Abrahams workes.

Iohn. ix We know that God heareth no sinners, but if any mā be a worshipper of god and obedient to his wyl, him heareth he.

Iohn. xiiii. He that hath my commaundementes and kepeth them, he it is that loueth me. If any man loueth me he wil kepe my wordes. &c.

Rom. ii. In the sight of god they are not righteous which heare the law, but the doers of the law shalbe iustified.

Ephe. ii. We are the workemanship of god created in Christ Iesu vnto good workes, which god hath prepared, that we should walke in them.

Ephe. iiii. Be ye renewed in the spirite of your mindes, and put on ỹ new man which after the image of god, is shapen in righteousnes & true holines Colos. i. Walke worthy of the Lord in al thinges that please, beyng frutefulin al good workes, and encreasing in the knowledge of god.

ii. Thes. iii. Brethren, be not wery in wel doing,

i. Tim. iii. Be to them that beleue an example in word, in conuersacion, in loue in spirite, in fayth, and purenes.

i. Tim. vi. Thou which art the man of god, folow righteousnes, godlines, loue, pacyence, pacience and mekenes.

The sure grounde of God remayneth and hath this seale. The Lord knoweth them that are hys: and let euery man, that calleth on the name of Chryst, depart from iniquity. ii. Tim. ii.

Lustes of youth loke thou auoide, and folowe righteousnesse, fayth, loue, and peace, with them that call on the Lord with a pure hart.

Dearely beloued I beseech you as straungers and pilgrimes, abstain from fleshly lustes, which fyght agaynst the soule. And see that ye haue honest conuersacion among the heathen, that they which backbite you as yll doers, may see your good workes and prayse god in the day of visitacion. i. Pet. ii.

If we say we haue felowshyp with god, and yet walke in darknes, we lye and do not the trueth. But if we walke in light, euen as he is in light, then haue we felowshyp with him, and the bloud of Jesu Chryste hys son maketh vs cleane from all syn. i. Iohn. i.

He that doth ryghteousnes, is ryghteous. He that committeth syn, is of the deuil, for the deuill synneth from the begynning. i. Iohn. iii.

Be ye be doers of ỹ word & not hearers only, deceauyng your selues. Iacob. i.

Reade the whole Epistle of S. James.

God sayeth to the false and fayned Chrystians. I know the blasphemy of them which cal themselues Jewes and are not, but are the Synagoge of Satan. Apoca. iii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testamente.

The idle wer reproued because they wrought not, and they ỹ would labour, wer hired into the vineyarde, and at nighte receiued theyr rewarde. Math. xx.

The seruauntes which receiued talentes of their Lord and occupied them, and gayned mo by them, ar praysed and rewarded for wel doyng. But the idle seruaunt, which would not occupy the talent that he receiued of hys Lord but went and hyd it in the grounde, gaining nothyng therwith, was cast into vtter darknes, where weepyng and gnashyng of teeth is. Math. xxv.

The fig tree, which was vnfruteful, and brought forth nothyng but leaues, was cursed and withered away. Marke. xi.

Zache a ruler among the Publicanes gaue halfe hys goods to the poore, & if he did any man wrong, he restored him foure tymes as much. Therfore sayd Chryst vnto him: this day is health come to this house, for asmuch as he also is become the childe of Abraham. Luke. xix.

¶ Agaynst the troublous tempestes of sycknes, of losse of goods, or any other kynde of aduersity.

IF Sathan when thou arte assailed with any kinde of trouble, laboureth to moue thee to despaire of goddes good wyll towarde thee, as thoughe he had vtterlye forsaken the, geuen thee ouer, and care no more for thee, but sendeth thee that punyshmente, and layeth that crosse vppon thy backe as a token of hys anger and heauye displeasure agaynste thee, take hede that thou doeste not submytte thy selfe to hys suttle suggestyons, but rather perswade thy self that thy crosse

Vvhat

Vvhatsoeuer it be commeth of the good wil of God towarde thee, and is sente vnto thee for thy health, comfort and saluacion. Loke that thou therfore take it both patiently and thankfully and that thou mayest so do, furnish thy brest with these treasures of Gods most blessed worde.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

Deu.v. After the Lord hath punished thee, and tried thee, at the last he will haue pity on thee.

i.Reg.ii. The Lord killeth and maketh aliue, bringeth down to the graue and fetcheth vp again. The Lord maketh poore, and maketh riche, bryngeth low, and heueth vpon hie.

Psal.l. Cal vpon me in the time of thy trouble, and I will deliuer thee, and thou shalt honor me.

Psal.xciiii. Blessed is that man whom thou nurturest O Lord, and teachest him thy law.

Psal.cxix. It is for my wealth that thou hast brought me vnder, ꝑ I may lerne thy righteousnes.

Iob.i. Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, and naked shall I turne thither againe. The Lord gaue and the Lord hath taken awaye, euen as it hath pleased the Lord, so is it come to pas, blessed be the name of the Lord.

Iob.ii. If we haue receiued prosperity at the hand of God, why shoulde we not also receiue and suffer aduersity?

Iob.v. Blessed is the man, whom God punisheth, therfore refuse not thou ꝑ chastening of the almighty. For though he make a wounde, he geueth a plaister, though he smite, his hande maketh whole agayne.

Pro.iii. My son despise not the chastening of the Lord, neyther fainte when thou art rebuked of him. For whom the Lord loueth, him he chasteneth and yet deliteth in hym, as a father in his own son.

Eccle.ii. What soeuer happeneth vnto thee, receiue it, suffer in heauines and be patient in thy trouble. For lyke as golde and siluer are tryed in the fier, euen so are acceptable men in the fornace of aduersity.

¶ Examples oute of the olde Testament.

Iob.i. Iob beyng greuously plaged not onely with the losse of hys goods, but also with diuers diseases of hys body, prayed the Lord euē in the mids of his trouble.

Tobi.ii. Toby when he had lost his sight, grudged not agaynst God, that the plage of blindnes chaunsed vnto him, but remayned stedfast in the fere of God, and thanked God al the dayes of hys lyfe.

iiii.Reg.xx. Ezechias beyng warned of God by the Prophet to prepare himselfe vnto death, prayed vnto God in the tyme of his sicknes, and obtayned fiftene yeares longer to liue.

ii.Para.iii. Manasses being afore an Idolatoure and a maynteiner of Idolatry after that God had plaged him, euen when he was in tribulacion, besought the Lord hys God, and humbled himselfe exceadingly before the God of hys fathers, and made intercession to him, god heard his praier

and

and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kyngdom.

Sentences out of the new testament.

YF any man wyll come after me, let him forsake himselfe and take his cros, and folowe me. Math.xvi.

By many tribulacions must we enter into the kyngdom of heauen. Act.xiiii.

We reioyce in tribulacion. For we know that tribulation bringeth Rom.v. experience, experience bringeth hope, & hope maketh not ashamed.

If we suffer together, we shal be glorifyed together For I suppose Rom.viii. that the afflictions of this lyfe ar not worthy of the glory whych shall be shewed vpon vs.

Be pacient in tribulacion. Rom.xii.

If we lyue, we lyue to be at the Lordes wil And if we die, we die at Rom.xiiii. the Lordes wil. Whether we lyue therfore or dy, we are the lordes.

While we ar punished, we are corrected of the lorde, least we shuld i.Cor.xi. with this world be condempned.

We are not wery̆ed, but though our outwarde man perysshe, yet the ii.Cor.iiii. inwarde man is renewed day by daye. For our exceadinge tribulatiō, which is short and light, prepareth an exceading & euerlasting waight of glory vnto vs while we loke not on the thinges which ar sene, but on the thynges which are not sene For thynges which are sene, are temporall, but thinges which are not sene, are eternall.

Reade the fyfte Chapter of the seconde to the Corinth.

My strength is made perfecte throughe weakenesse. Very gladly ii.Cor.xi. therfore wil I reioyce of my weakenes that the strēgth of Christ may dwell in me. &c.

Reade the.xii.chap. to the Hebrues.

Be pacyent and settle your heartes, for the commyng of the Lorde Iacob.v. draweth nye.

Take the Prophetes for an example of sufferynge aduersytie, and of longe pacience, whyche spake in the name of the Lorde. Behold, we count them happy whiche endure. Ye haue hearde of the pacience of Job, and haue knowen what ende the Lorde made. For the Lorde is very pytefull and mercifull.

The Lorde knoweth how to deliuer the godly out of temtacion. ii.Pet.ii.

Examples out of the new Testament.

THe prodigal sonne before he was plaged, gaue his mynde to al kind Luke.xv. of ryot & vnthrifty rule, but after that he was striken with pouertie, he knowledged his faute, submitted him selfe to his fathers will and pleasure, and so was receiued agayn into fauoure.

A certain man after he had bene punyshed with sycknesse for hys Ioan.v. synne by the space of xxxviii. yeares, was made whole of Christe.

Ther haue ben many good men both in the old & newe Testament Heb.xi. whom some wer racked and would not bee deliuered, that they might receiue a better resurrection: some tasted of mockinges & scourginges, some of bondes and emprisonemēt, some wer stoned, some wer hewen

a sunder, wer tempted, wer slaine with sweardes, walked vp & down in shepes skins, in gotes skins, in nede, tribulacion, and veracīō, which the worlde was not worthy of, they wandred in wildernes, in mountains, in dennes and caues of the earth. &c.

Against the temptacion of the deuill for not satisfying the lawe of God, and for thy synfull liuynge.

IF Sathan at the houre of death or any other tyme wold pluck thee from thine assured and stedfast fayth in Christes bloud, and perswade thee that thou art but a damned wretche, forasmuche as thou hast not so trained thy lyfe, that thou hast satisfyed the lawe of God, but rather liued wickedly, and therfore deserued euerlasting damnaciou, be on good comfort, despayre not, herken not to to his wicked suggestiōs, neither haue thou respect to thy workes and dedes, whiche whan they be most righteouse and pure, are as the Prophet saieth lyke a cloth polluted with menstrue, if they be cōpared to that puritie and clennes whiche the lawe requireth, and should be iudged of Gods righteousnes according to their desertes, but settle thine eies stedfast on Christe and his merites, consydering not what thou hast done, but what Christ hath done for thee, if thou repent and beleue, and alwayes, hawe these most comfortable scriptures in thy remembraunce.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Psal.xxvi. ALl they that put theyr trust in thee, shal not be put the confusiō. Cal to remēbraunce. O Lord thy tender mercies & thy louing kindnes which haue ben euer of old. Oh remember not the synnes & offence of my youth, but accordyng vnto thy mercye, thynke ỹ vpon me O lorde, for thy goodnes sake. Mine eies ar euer loking vnto ỹ lord for he shall pluck my fete out of the net.

Psal.lxxxxi. Because he hath put his trust in me, I wil deliuer him, I wil defend him because he hath knowen my name.

Reade the. 104. Psalme.

Esaye. xlviii. I knowe that thou wouldest maliciously offende, sayeth God, therfore haue I called thee a transgressour, euen from thy mothers wombe. Neuertheless for my names sake I wyll wythdrawe my wrath, and it shall be for my honoures sake, if I pacientlye forbeare thee and roote thee not out.

Esay.liii. By the knowledge of him which is my righteous seruant saith God the father of Christ, he shal iustifye the multitude, forasmuch as he hath borne away, theyr synnes.

Sapien.xv. To know the O Lord, is perfecte righteousnes yea to knowe thy righteousnesse and power, is the rote of immortalitie.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

Gene.iii. HAdam transgressed the commaundement of God in Paradise, and by his transgression made boeth hym selfe and all vs bounde to eternall damnation.

Gene.ix. Nohe fell into the synne of dronckennesse.

Gene.xix. Lot was not only dronken but also laye with his owne daughters,

and

and so committed the greuous synne of incest.

Abraham denied his wyfe. Gene.xx.
Moses committed manslaughter. Exo.ii.
Dauid committed both manslaughter and whoredom. ii.Reg.ii.
Salomon was an Idolator. iii Reg.ii.

All these with many other of the olde Testament wer sinners and offended the Lord theyr God by breakynge his lawes, yet for theyr fayth which they had in that blessed seede which was so oft promysed of God the father, euen Jesus Christ, they wer saued.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

We are not vnder the law but vnder grace. Rom.vi.
The lawe of the spirite that bringeth lyfe through Jesu Christ hath made me free from the lawe of synne and death. Rom.viiii.

Christ is the perfect fulfilling of the law to iustifye all that beleue. Rom.x.
No man is iustifyed by the law in the sight of god. The iust, that is the faithfull christian, shall lyue by faith. Gala.iii.

Christe hath deliuered vs from the curse of the law, whyle he was made accursed for vs.

As many of you as are iustifyed by the law, are fallen from grace. Gala.v.
We loke for and hope in the spirit to be iustified throughe faith.

Christ is our peace, he hath broken downe the walle, that was a stop betwen vs, he hath also put away through hys flesshe the cause of hatred, that is to say: the lawe of commaundementes contayned in the law wrytten, he so makyng peace hath reconcyled vs to God throughe hys crosse. Ephe.ii.

Christe hath put oute the hand wrightyng, that was against vs contayned in the law written, and that hath he taken out of the way and hath fastened it to hys crosse, and hath spoyled rule and power, and hath made a shew of them openly, and haue triumphed ouer them in his own persone. Colo.ii.

Be it knowen to you, ye men and brethren, that throughe this man Christ is preached vnto you the forgeuenes of synnes, and that by him all that beleue are iustifyed from all thinges, from the which ye could not be iustified by the law of Moses. Act.xiii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

Mathew was a tol gatherer. Math.ix.
The Apostels wer ambicious and did striue amonge them, who should bee hiest and of greatest authoritie. Math.xx.

Mary Magdalen was a greuouse synner. Luke.vii.
Peter denyed and forsoke Christe thryse. Ioan.xviii.
Paule persecuted the congregacion of Christ. Act.ix.

All these, yea and who not? transgressed the lawe of God (for as Christ sayth, Moses hath geuen you a lawe and yet none of you do fulfyll it) notwythstandyng for theyr repentaunce and fayth in Christes bloude they obtained remission for theyr synnes and are made the son-nes of God, heyres of God and felowe heyres wyth Chryst of euerla-Gal. ii. stynge glory. For if rightcousnes come by the lawe, then dyed Chryst Rom. vi. in vayne, but euerlastyng lyfe is the gyft of God through Jesus Chryst our Lorde.

¶ Against desperacion for thy late conuersyon and turning vnto God.

IF Sathan lay to thi charge that thou commest very late and turnest vnto God out of time and therfore there is no hope to be loked for, set these scriptures be fore thyne eies, and euer remember that there is no conuersyon vnto God to late in this lyfe, if it come of faith, but at whatsoeuer hour a synner repenteth, beleueth and turneth vnto God, he is wel accepted and frely receyueth remissyon of all hys synnes.

Sentences out of the old Testament.

Esay. lv. LEt the vngodly man forsake hys owne wayes, and the vnrighteous hys owne imaginations, and turne agayn vnto the Lorde, so shall he be mercifull vnto hym, and to our God, for he is very ready to forgyue.

Iere. iii. Returne (O thou rebell Israell) sayth the lord, and I will not turne away my face from you. For I am holy sayth the lord, and I will not turne away my face from you. For I am holy, sayth the lorde, & I will not be angry for euer more.

Eze. xxxii. As truly as I lyue saith the lord God, I haue no pleasur in ỹ death of ỹ wicked, but much rather that the wycked turne frō his way and lyue. Turne you, turne you frō your vngodly wayes, O ye of the house of Israel. Oh, wherfore will ye dye? The wickednes of ỹ wicked shall not hurt him, whansoeuer he conuerteth from his vngodlines.

Eze. xviii. If the wycked shall repent hym and turne from all his synnes which he hath wrought, and shall kepe all my preceptes and do iudgement and righteousnes, he shall lyue and shall not dye, I will not remember all his iniquities whyche he hath wrought. In hys righteousnes whyche he hath wrought, shall he lyue. Is it my will, sayth the lorde that the wycked shoulde dye, and not rather that he shoulde turne from hys waies and lyue?

Ioel. ii. Turne and repent ye from all your iniquities, and your iniquitie shall worke you no displeasure. Cast away from you all your wyckednesses, wher in ye haue offended, and make you a new hert, and a new spirite. And wherfore will ye dye, O ye house of Israell. For I will not that any man should dye, sayth the Lorde. Returne therfore & lyue.

Turne to the Lorde, your God, for he is gracious and mercifull, patient and of much kindnes, and redye at al tymes to forgeue, yea, euen when he is at the point to punishe.

At al times when a synner turneth vnto me saith the lord, I will no more beare his iniquities in my mynd, but freely forgeue them.

God appointeth here no time of our conuersyon, but whensoeuer we turne, turne, he promyseth vs fauoure, lyfe mercy and forgeuenes of synne.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testament.

After that the Prophete Nathan at the commaundemente of God, had rebuked kyng Dauid for his dissolute maner of lyuyng, Dauid strayghte wayes with a sorowfull repentaunt hart turned vnto the Lorde, and humbly confessed his synnes, saying: I haue offended the lord. The Prophet immediatly answerd, the Lord also hath put away thy synne, Dauid dyd not so soone conuerte, but that he was as sone forgeuen, to syghfye vnto vs, that at what so euer tyme we vnfaynedly turne vnto the Lorde our God, he wyll haue mercy on vs and forgeue vs. ii. Reg. xii.

The Nyniuytes for theyr abhominable lyuinge wer thretned vt terly to be destroyed wyth forty dayes, but they fallyng vnto repentance and turnynge vnto the, lorde theyr God wer forgeuen, spared and not destroyed. Ionas. iii.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

They that are whole, haue no nede of a Physycion, but they that are syeke, I came not to cal ỹ righteous, but synners vnto repentaūce. Math. ix.

Come vnto me all ye that laboure and are laden, and I shal refresh you. Here Christe prescribeth no tyme. He onlye byddeth vs come and be the burthens of our synnes neuer so greous and heuy, yet wyll he ease vs of them. Math. xi.

The Sonne of man came to seke and saue that which was lost. Luke. xix.

God wyll haue all men to be saued, and to come to the knowledge of the truthe. i. Thim. ii.

If any man sinneth we haue an aduocate with God the fa ther Jesus Christ that righteous one. And he it is that obtayneth mercy, for our synnes, not for our synnes only, but for al the worldes. Ioan. ii.

¶ Examples out of the new Testamente.

The labourers in the lordes vyneiarde that came last of all, receyued they peny so wel as they that came in the morynyng. Neyther had one more then another. Math. xx.

The history of the thefe, which was ful of wycked deedes, and neuer turned vnto God, vntyl the very hour of his death, declareth manifestlye that there is no conuersyon in this lyfe to late, if it be accompanied with true repentaunce and vnfained faith. The thief hangyng on ỹ crosse, and at the pointe of death only said to Christe, Lord remember me, whā thou commest into thy kyngdom, And Christe wel accepting his conuersyō, sayd vnto him: truly I say vnto thee, this day shalt thou be wyth me in paradyse. Luke. xxiii.

Against synne, death and hell.

If Sathan in the tyme of sycknes or els whan, go about to fray the and to quēch thy spirit, eyther with the greatnes of thy synnes or els with the terrour and fearcers of death and hel, be not dismayed but with a lusty courage resyst his temptacions, with these most sweete and confortable Scriptures.

Sentences out of the olde testament.

Esaye.xliii. I Am he in dede saeyth, God, whyche putteth away thy synnes, yea and that for myne owne sake, and wyll remember them no more. As for thyne offences I haue driuen them away lyke the cloudes, and thy synnes as the myste. Turne the agayn vnto me, for I haue redemed thee.

Mich.vii. Where is ther such a god as thou arte? that pardonest wyckednes, and forgeuest the offences of the remnaunt of thyne heritage. He kepeth not his wrathe for euer. And why (for his delite is to haue compassion) he shall turne again, and be mercyfull to vs, he shall put down our wickednesses, and cast al our sinnes into the bottome of the sea.

Ose.xiii. Out of the power of death, sayeth the Lord wyll I delyuer them, yea from death it selfe wyl I redeme thē. O death I wil be thy death, O hel, I wil swalowe the vp.

Examples out of the olde Testament.

Psal.cxv. THat holy kyng and prophet Dauid, beynge fullye perswaded that by Christe whych was to come, Sathās head was broken a sunder, synne was vanquished, death was ouercome, hel was swalowed vp, so that they could nothing hurt the faythful lamented and sorowed that he continued so long in thys vale of misery, and most hartely wyshed to be deliuered out of this prison, and to go vnto the Lorde hys God.

Tobi.iii. That godly and auncient father Tobye, knowyng that neyther syn, death nor hel, can dooe any thinge against gods chosen people, whiche in Christe haue gotten the victorye ouer them al, so that they nede not to feare death, nor any thynge to come after this lyfe, praied to god on this manner. Nowe O Lord deale with me accordyng to thy wil, and commaund my spirit to be receyued in peace, for more expedient wer it for me to die, then to liue.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math.i. CHrist shall saue his people from theyr synnes.

Ionas.i. Behold the Lambe of God ẏ taketh away the syns of ẏ world.

Rom.viii. There is no damnacion to them that are graft in Christe Iesu.

i.Timo.i. Christ came into the world to saue synners.

i.Ioan.i. The bloud of Iesu Christ maketh vs cleane from all synne.

Act.xiii. Through the name of Christ all Prophetes beare wytnes, ẏ so many as beleue in hym, shal receyue remission of theyr synnes.

i.Cor.xv. Death is swalowed vp in to victory: Wher is thy styng o death. Wher is thy victorye O hell? The sting of death is sinne, and ẏ power of syn, is the lawe. But thankes be to God, whiche hath geuen vs the victory through our Lorde Iesus Christe.

Heb.ii. By death hath Christe put him to flight ẏ had lordshyp ouer death, ẏ is to saye, the deuel, that he might delyuer them, whiche throughe the feare of death, wer al theyr lyfe tyme in daunger of bondage.

Exam-

¶ Examples out of the new Testament.

SO sone as the auncient father Symeon had sen and receiued Christ into his armes, he fearing nether sin, death, nor hell, shewinge hym selfe ready to depart out of this world and spake with a ioyfull voyce: O Lord now lettest thou thy seruaunt depart in peace. Luke.ii.

Blessed Paule knowing that through Christ the power of sin, death and hell is so altogether weakened, that they can dooe the saythfull no harme, wished to be losened out of this world, and to be with Chryst. Phi.i.

¶ Agaynst them that denye the resurrection of the body.

IF that olde enemy Satan laboure to perswade thee, that there is no resurrection of the dead, but as the body returneth to death, so shal it for euer continue earth, and neuer receiue lyfe agayne, nor lyue either in glory or in payne after thys present life that therfore thou mayest lyue as thou lust, defende thy selfe agaynste his cruell assautes with these sentences and examples of the holy Scripture.

¶ Sentences out of the new Testament.

THe Lord killeth and maketh aliue againe, bringeth down to the graue and reiseth vp agayne. i.Reg.ii.

I am sure, that my redemer liueth, and that I shall rise out of the earth in the latter day, and that I shalbe clothed agayn with this skin, and see God in my flesh, yea I my selfe shal beholde hym, not with other but with these same eies. Iob.xix.

Those that be dead will I raise vp agayne from their places, and bring them out of the graues. iiii. Esd.ii.

Thy dead shal lyue, euen with my body shal they rise again. Awake and sing ye that dwell in the dust. For thy dewe is euen as the dew of herbes, and the earth shall cast out of her them that be vnder her. The earth shall disclose her owne bloud, and shal no more hide them that are slayn in her. Esay.xxvi.

Your bones shal florish like an herbe. Esay.lxvi.

Behold, saith God, I wil put breath in you, that ye may liue I wyll geue you sinowes, and make flesh grow vpon you, and couer you ouer with skin, and so geue you breath that ye maye liue and knowe that I am the Lord. Thus sayeth the Lord God, beholde I wyll open youre graues (O my people) and take you out of your Sepulchres. Eze. xxxvii.

Many of them that slepe in the dust of the earth shal awake, some to the euerlasting lyfe, some to perpetuall shame and reprofe. Dani.xii.

¶ Examples oute of the olde Testament.

THe Prophet Helias raised vp from death vnto lyfe the sonne of the widowe at Sarepta, which is at Sidon. iii. Reg.xvii.

Heliseus obtayned of God a child for his hostresse, which dyeth: and is afterward by the prayer of Heliseus rayled vnto lyfe. iiii.Reg.iiii.

Reade and marke diligently the. xxxvii. Chapter of Ezechiel.

A certain woman with her .vii. children were cruelly put to death because they wold not eate swines flesh, contrary to gods word at the cõmaundement of the king. ii.Mac.vii.

The seconde of the brethren said vnto the king thou most vngracious person puttest vs now to death, but the king of the world shal rayse vs vp (which die for his lawes) in the resurrection of euerlasting lyfe.

The mother of the vii. children sayd thus vnto them: I cannot tell how ye came in my wombe, for I nether gaue you breath nor soule, no nor lyfe. It is not I that ioyned the members of your bodyes together but the maker of the world, which fashioned the byrth of man and began al things. Euē he also of his own mercy shal geue you breath & life agayn like as ye now regard not your own selues for his lawes sake.

Sentences out of the new Testament.

Math. xxiii. AS touching the resurrection of the dead, haue ye not read, what is sayd vnto you of God, which sayeth I am Abrahams God, and Isaackes god and Iacobs God, and God is not the God of the dead, but of the liuing.

Iohn. v. The houre shal come in the which al that are in the graues shal heare his voice, and shal come forth, they ꝑ haue done good vnto ꝑ resurrecciō of life, and they ꝑ haue done euill, vnto the resurrection of damnation.

Ioan. xi. I know that my brother shal ryse agayne at the latter day.

i. Cor. vi. God hath raised vp the Lord, and shal raise vs vp by hys power. If there be no rising againe from death, then is Christ not risen.

i. Cor. xv. If Christ is not risen, then is our preaching vayne, and your fayth is also in vayne.

Rede and commende to memory the. xv. Chap. of the first to the Cor.

Phi. iii. The Lord Iesus shal chaunge our vile bodies, that they maye be fashioned like vnto his glorious body. &c.

i. Thes. iiii. I would not brethren haue you ignorant concerning them which are fallen a slepe, that ye sorow not as other do, which haue no hope. For if we beleue, that Iesus Christe died and rose agayne, euen so they also which slepe by Iesus, wil God bryng agayn with him. Reade forth.

Examples out of the new Testament.

Math. ix. Luke. vii. Iohn. xi. CHrist raised from death the daughter of a certayne Ruler, the sonne of a certayne wydow and Lazarus wyth many other. These are euident examples of our resurrection.

Mat. xxvii. After Christ had geuen vp the gost, the graues did open, and the bodies of many Sainctes which slept, arose, and came out of the graues after his resurrection & came into the holy citie & appeared vnto many.

Math. xxviii. Christ rose agayne from death the third day according to ꝑ Scriptures, and was sene of Cephas, then of the twelue. After that he was sene of mo then fiue hundred brethren at once. &c.

Actes. ix. S. Peter raised Tabitha from death.

Actes. xx. S. Paule restoreth vnto lyfe a certayne yonge mā named Eutichus.

Math. xxii. Christ rebuked the Saduces, because they beleued not the resurrection of the dead.

Actes. xvii. The Epicures and Stoikes laughed S. Paul to scorne, when he at Athens taught the resurrection of the dead. But he defended ꝑ doctrin.

Agaynst

¶ Agaynst them that deny the immortalitie of the soule.

IF Satan or any of his tempt thee to liue at thy pleasure, labouryng to perswade the with sophisticall reasons of carnal imaginacions that the soule of man is but as the breath of other beastes, and that after the dissolution of the body it is nothyng, ne ther liueth afterwarde but hath an ende wyth the body, take hede that thou geuest no place to such wycked and most damnable doctryne, but enarme thy self againste it with these authorities of the holy Scripture.

¶ Sentences out of the olde Testament.

GOd created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him, male and female created he them. Gene.i.

The Lord God shope man euen dust from the grounde, & breathed in his nostrels the breath of life, and Adam was made a liuing soule. Gene.ii.

I should vtterly haue fainted, but that I beleue verely to see ỳ goodnes of the Lord in the lande of the liuing. Psal.xxvii.

Like as the hart desireth the water brookes, so longeth my soule after thee O God. My soule is a thirst for God yea, euen for the liuing God, when shall I come to appeare before the presence of God? Psal.xlii.

The body shalbe turned agayne vnto earth, from whence it came, and the spirite, that is the soule shal returne vnto God which gaue it. Eccle.xii.

God made man to be vndestroyed that is to say, immortal, yea after the image of his own likenes made he hym. Sapi.ii.

The soules of the righteous are in the hand of God, and the payne of death shal not touche them. Sapi.iii.

In the sight of the vnwise they seme to dye, and their ende is taken for very destruction, but they are in rest.

The hope of the faithfull is ful of immortalitie.

The righteous shal lyue for euermore their rewarde also is with the Lord, and their remembraunce with the hiest. Therefore shall they receiue a glorious kingdome, and a beautifull crown of the Lords hand. Read the third, fourth, and fift Chapters of the boke of wysedome. Sapi.v.

We are the children of holy men, and loke for the lyfe, whiche God shall geue vnto them that neuer turne their fayth from him. Tobi.ii.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testamente.

THe holy Scripture testifieth, that Chore and his Complyces went downe quicke into hell, and the earth couered them, so that they perished. By thys is it euident, that the soules of the wycked are immortall, and lyue in the paynes of hell fyre. Num.xvi.

If Saul had not beleued both the resurrection of the body and the immortality of the soule, he would neuer haue gone about to haue had Samuel rayfed vp. i.Reg. xxviii.

When Dauid saw that hys chylde was dead, he wept no more, but sayd: I shal go vnto hym, he shall not come agayne vnto me. ii.Reg.xii.

Helias

iii. Reg. xvii. Helias prayed for the raising vp againe vnto life of his hostes son, saying, O Lord my God, I beseche thee let the soule of this child come into him againe. And he reuiued.

Tobi. ii. When Tobias was laughed to scorne of his elders and kinsfolkes which said vnto him, here is thy hope for the which thou hast done almes and buried the dead: He rebuked them and sayd: say not so, for we are the children of holy men, and loke for the life which God shall geue vnto them that neuer turne their faith from him.

Tobi. iii. Agayne he prayed vnto God on this maner. Nowe O Lorde, deale with me according to thy will, and commaunde my spirite to be receyued in peace. For more expedient wer it for me to dye then to lyue.

Sentences out of the newe Testament.

Math. x. Feare not them which kill the body but are not able to kill the soule. But rather feare him, which is able to destroy both soule and body in hell.

Luke. xviii. There is no man that hath forsaken house, ether father or mother, ether brethren or wife, or children, for the kingdome of gods sake, which shal not receiue much more in this world, and in the world to come life euerlasting.

Iohn. vi. This is the will of him that sent me, that euery one whiche seeth the son and beleueth on him, hath euerlasting life, and I will raise him vp at the last day.

Iohn. x. My sheepe heare my voice, and I know them, and they folowe me, and I geue vnto them euerlasting lyfe, and they shal neuer perysh, neither shal any man plucke them out of my hande.

Iohn. xi. I am the resurrection and the lyfe. He ỳ beleueth on me, yea though he wer dead, yet shal he liue, and whosoeuer liueth and beleueth on me shal neuer dye.

Iohn. xiiii. Let not your hart be troubled. Ye beleue in God, beleue also in me. In my fathers house ar many mansions. If it wer not so, I wold haue told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go to prepare a place for you, I will come againe and receyue you euen vnto my selfe, that where I am, there may ye be also.

Iohn. xvii. Father I wil that they which thou hast geuē me, be with me wher I am, that they may see my glory, which thou hast geuen me.

ii. Cor. v. We know that if our earthly mansiō of this dwelling wer destroyed we haue a building of God, an habitacion not made with handes but euerlastyng in heauen. Reade forth the Chapter.

Collos. iii. When soeuer Christe oure life shall appere, then shal you also appere with him in glory.

i. Thes. iiii. The Lord himselfe shall come down from heauen with a shoute and the voice of the Archaungel and trompe of God. And ỳ dead in Christe shal arise first, then we which shal liue (euen we which shall remayne) shalbe caught vp with them also in the cloudes, to mete the Lord in the ayre. And so shal we euer be with the Lorde. Therefore comforte youre selues one another with these wordes.

The

The spirite or soule is before God a precious thing and much set by. Christ was killed as pertayning to the flesshe, but was quickened in the spirite. In which spirite he also went and preached vnto the spirits that wer in prison. &c. Here is it manifest that the spirites or soules of mē are immortall and liue either in glory or in payne after they be sosoned from the body. i. Peter. iii.

Examples oute of the new Testament.

When the Saduces denied the resurrection of the body and the immortalitie of the soule, Christ answered them saying: haue ye not red what is wrytten: I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and ỳ God of Jacob. He is not the God of the dead, but of the liuing. By thys testimony of the holy Scripture, Chryst declareth, that though Abraham Isaac, Iacob, and al other of the faythfull be dead, as concerning their bodyes, yet their soules lyue wyth God, and are immortall. Math. xxii.

The history of the poze man Lazarus and of the ryche vnmercyfull glotton, proueth euidently that the soules die not with the bodye, noz yet slepe vntill the daye of iudgemente (as the vngodlye Anabaptystes dreame) nether are they cast into purgatozy as the Papistes teach, but that the soules of the faythfull go immediatly after their departure frō the body vnto eternal glozy, and the soules of the vnfaythful vnto euerlasting damnacion, so that the soules of al men are immoztall, and liue foz euer either in heauen oz in hell, in glozy oz in payne. Luke. xvi.

The parable of the vnryghteous stuwarde setteth forth also the immortality of the soule, as these wozdes of Chryst do declare. Make you frendes sayeth he of wycked Mammon that when ye shal depart hēce, they may receiue you into euerlastyng dwellyng places.

The soule came agayne to the widowes son, to the rulers daughter to Lazarus, to them that after Chrystes resurrection came out of theyr graues, to Dozcas, to Eutichus. &c. Luke. vii. Math. ix. Iohn. xi. Math. xxvii. Actes. ix. Act. xx.

Which thing declareth manifestly that the soule dyed not with the body, but stil liued and remayned immoztall.

The theefe that hanged on the crosse with Chryste, sayed vnto hym. Lord remember me, when thou shalt come into thy kyngdome, Chryst answered, verely I saye vnto thee, thys daye shalt thou be with me in Paradyse. The body of the theefe dyed shortly after and was cōmitted to the earth. The soule of the theefe was in Paradyse wyth Chryst. The soule therfoze liueth and remayneth immoztall, oz els muste Christ be a liar. But let God be true, and all heretikes liars. Luke. xxiii.

S. Stephen beyng at the point of death, praied, saying: Lozde Jesu take my spirite. Actes. vii.

S. Paule wished to be losoned out of his body and to be wt Chryste. Phi. i.

I saw vnder the aultet sayeth S. John the soules of them that wer killed foz the wozd of god and foz the testimony which they had, & they cried wt a loude voice, saying: how long tariest thou O Lozd, holy and true to iudge and to auenge our bloud on them that dwell on ỳ earth: Apoc. vi.

and

and long white garmentes were geuen vnto euery one of them. And it was sayd vnto them, that they should rest for a litle season vntill the number of their felowes and brethren, and of them that shoulde be killed as they wer fulfylled.

¶ Of the glory of heauen and of euerlasting lyfe.

IF Satan go forth to tempt thee that thou mightest lose the enheritaunce of the kingdome of God, and say vnto thee that thou arte a synner and abhominable liuer, and therfore thy faith is frustrate, and thy hope vain in lookinge for the glorye of heauen, for God is a righteous Iudge, and rewardeth euery man accordyng to his dedes and merytes, let al these his crafty assaultes nothyng moue nor abasshthee, but cal to thy remembraunce and beleue stedfastly, that the heauenly kingdome is not geuen thee for thy merytes and desertes for so shouldest thou receaue nothyng but eternall damnacion but for the promises whiche God the father hath made thee in Christes bloud if thou repent & beleue. Therfore cast away that righteousnes which the hipocrites chalenge by their good workes, and lay hand on that which commeth by the fayth of Iesus Christ, so canst thou not be deceiued, so can Sathā wyn nothing at thy hande, so can it not but come to passe, that thou shalt enioy the glory of heauen through Christ Iesu. And that thou maiest doubt nothyng in thys behalfe, imprynte these Sentences and examples of the holy Scripture diligently and earnestly in thy mynde.

Sentences out of the olde Testament.

Psal.xviii. THe Lord hath saued me because it was his pleasure.

Psal.cxiii. Praise the Lord O my soule and al that is within me, praise his holy name.

Prayse the Lord O my soule and forget not all his benefites, which forgeuest al thy synnes and healeth all thyne infirmities, whiche saueth thy lyfe from destruction and crowneth thee with mercy and louynge kindnes.

Esay.lvii. They that put their trust in me, shal inherite the lande, and possesse my holy hyll.

Ose.xiii. Thy damnacion (O Israel) came of thy selfe, but thy saluacion commeth only of me.

¶ Examples out of the olde Testamente.

THat Princely Prophete Dauid beyng throughly perswaded that ỹ inheritaunce of the glory of heauen and the possession of euerlastyng lyfe is the fre gift of God through Jesus Chryst, and is denied to none although neuer so sinful and wretched if they repent, beeyng nothynge appalled with his former sinfull liuig, as though that shuld plucke hym from the inheritaunce of the heauenly kingdom, knew what blessed felicity and ioyful quitnes the soules of the faythful do enioye after their departure from the bodyes, lamented that he taried so long in this vale of mysery, and no lesse feruently desyred to come and appeare before ỹ face of God, then the thirsty heart desyreth to come to the water broke.

Psal.cxx.
Psal.lxii.

The

The Godly auncient. Toby knowyng gods exceadyng great libera lity in the gyft of euerlastyng quietnes after the humble submissyon of hym selfe vnto the Lord hys God, wyshed rather to dye then to lyue, & beserched God that hys spirite myght be receiued in peace. Tobi.iii.

¶ Sentences out of the newe Testament.

FEare not litle flocke, for it is your fathers plesure to geue you a kingdome. Luke.xii.

Euerlastyng lyfe is the gift of God through Jesus Chryst our Lord. Rom.vi.

Whom God hath predestinate, them hath he also called, whō he hath called, them also hath he iustifyed, whom he hath tustified, them also hath he glorysied. Rom.viii.

The eie hath not sene and the eare hath not heard, nether hath it entered into the hart of man, what thynges God hath prepared for them that loue hym. i.Cor.ii.

By grace are ye saued through fayth, and that not of your selues. For it is the gift of God, and commeth not of workes, least any man shuld boast hymselfe. Ephe.ii.

God saued vs, not for the dedes of ryghteousnes which we wrought but for hys mercy and louing kyndnes. Titus.iii.

God hath geuen vs euerlastyng lyfe, and this lyfe is in hys son. He ỹ hath the Son, hath lyfe: and he that hath not the son of God, hath not lyfe. i.Ihon.v.

Be faythfull vnto the death and I wyll geue thee the crown of lyfe. Apo.ii.

To hym that ouercommeth wil I geue to sit wyth me in my seate, euen as I ouercame and haue sytten wyth my father in hys seate. Apoc.iii.

¶ Examples out of the newe Testament.

THe reuerent and auncient father Simeon beyng nothyng appaulled with the remembraunce of hys synnes, after he hadde sene and embraced Chryst in hys armes, knowyng hym to be the alone Sauior of the worlde shewed hymselfe readye, glad and willyng to dye, that he myght enioye the heauenly enheritaunce purchased by the same Jesus Chryste our Lorde. S. Paule beyng fully perswaded that all hys synnes were washed away in Chrystes bloud, desyred to bee losoned from that hys mortall body and to be wyth Chryst. Luke.ii. Philip.i.

FINIS.

Geue the glory to God alone.

A new Catechisme sette forth Dialogewise in familiare talke betwene the father and the son, lately made and now fyrst of all published by Thomas Becon.

Psal. xxxiiii.

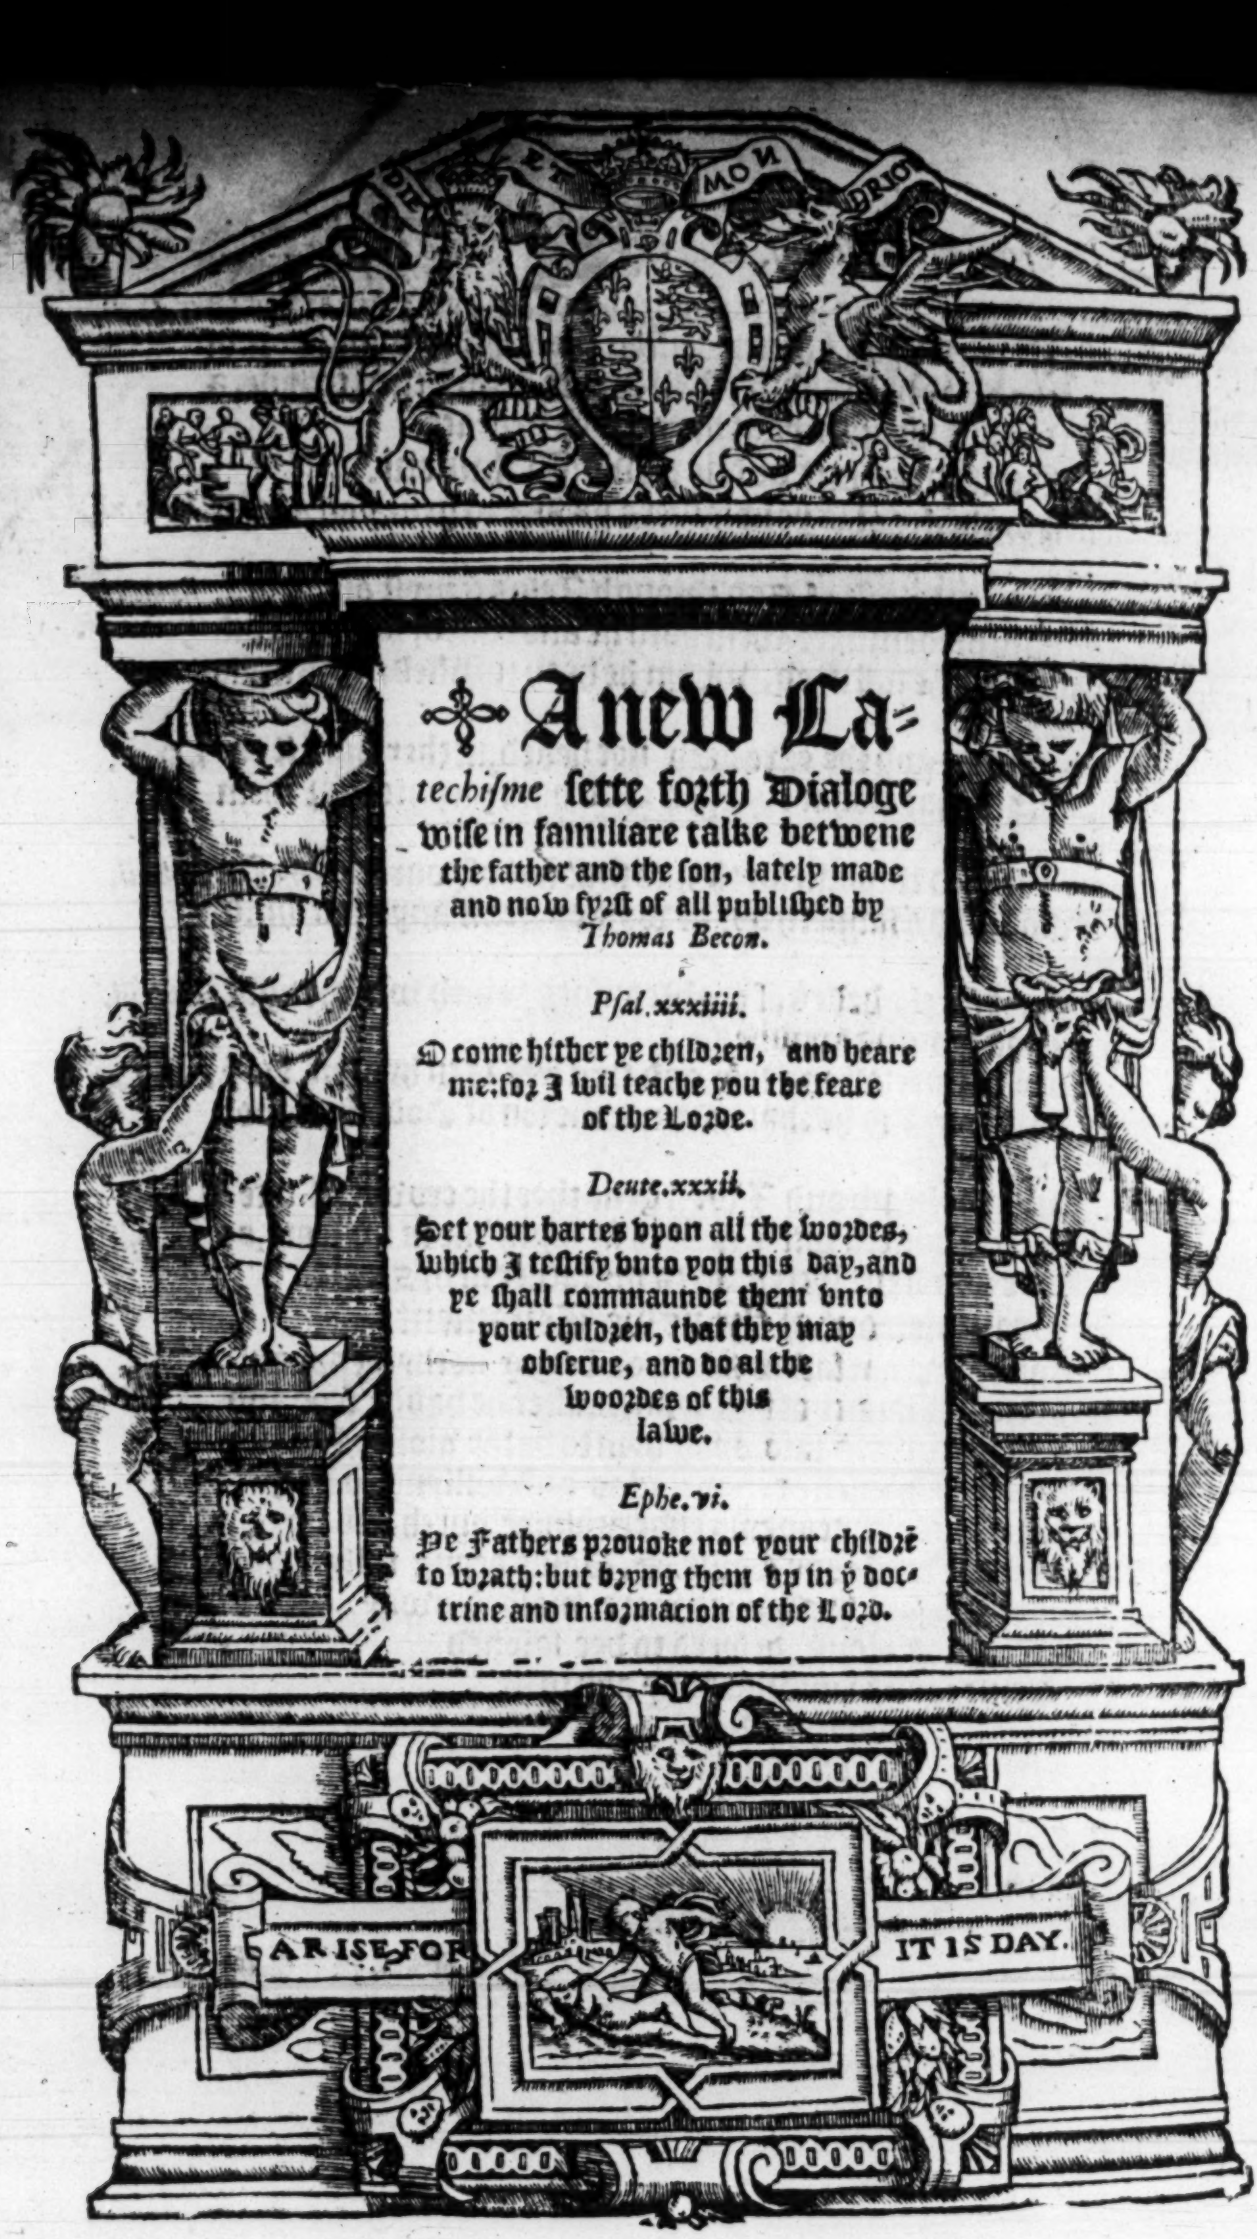
Come hither ye children, and heare me: for I wil teache you the feare of the Lorde.

Deute. xxxii.

Set your hartes vpon all the wordes, which I testify vnto you this day, and ye shall commaunde them vnto your children, that they may obserue, and do al the woordes of this lawe.

Ephe. vi.

Ye Fathers prouoke not your childrē to wrath: but bryng them vp in ỳ doctrine and informacion of the Lord.



✣ To the Reader the boke speaketh.

Though I be ſmal in quantitie yet deſpiſe me not good reader,
For perchaunſe thou ſhalt fynde in me that wanteth in many greater.

Though I be without eloquence Rude and barbarous to beholde, yet much true diuine ſapience
Haue I forth brought, and here enrolde.

No ſubtile Logike nor Sophiſtry
Shalt thou in me fynde and perceaue,
But Chryſt and hys doctryne playnly which can no man liuing deceaue

To teach the Chryſt is myne entent
And all that to hym do belonge,
That thou mayeſt kepe hys commaundemente
And in the Chryſten fayth be ſtrong.

Approche therfore O gentle Reader
Pray to God for vnderſtandyng
So ſhalt thou in all thynges proſpere
And enioy lyfe euerlaſtyng.

Marke.x.

¶ Suffer the children to come vnto me: forbid them not. For vnto ſuch doth the kyngdome of God appertayne.

The Preface of the author vnto his children, Theodore and Basille hys two Sonnes, and Rachell his onely doughter.

Grace, Mercye and peace from God the Father, and from the Lorde Iesus Chryst our Lord and alone Sauiour through the mighty operacion of the holy gost be with you my dere children both now and euer. Amen.

